Baptist Church Is Razed to Make Way for New Building

Demolition of Artesia's First Baptist church, Roselawn and Main, preparatory to building a new, two-story sanctuary to be completed within next two weeks, Rev. S. Morgan, pastor, said Thursday.

Plans for the new building call for open sanctuary two stories high.

In the rear of the new building, behind the pulpit, will be classrooms for four departments of the church's Sunday school program, as well as church offices and pastor's studies.

Temporary buildings to house about 200 Sunday school students who are displaced during razing and construction processes are being built on the church lot. The buildings are being constructed of timbers from the old church.

Razing the church is H. T. Haves.

Brick facing was removed from the 43-year-old building several weeks ago when church officials detected indications of dangerous crumbling.

Chairman of the First Baptist building committee is C. E. Mann, assisted by H. A. Campbell, Wood, J. T. Haile and T. E. Brown, Sr. Cooperating with the building committee proper are a host of other committees ranging from interior furnishings to publicity and including more than 35 members of the church.

Started in 1908, the First Baptist church was completed in 1919 at its present location.

Fluorides In City Water Reduce Dental Cavities

Artesia has nearly enough fluoride in its water to provide recommended protection against dental cavities, particularly in children, according to reports by the state department of public health.

Reports made by the department show Artesia has an average of 0.7 parts per million in its water supply.

Research studies indicate, the department says, that studies in various parts of the country indicate use of water containing from 1.0 to 1.5 parts per million (ppm) of fluorides "substantially reduces the incidence of dental caries (cavities)."

However, the department adds, "it is our recommendation that supplementation should not be adopted at the present time if the concentration of fluorides presently is 0.7 ppm or greater."

Artesia, in other words, doesn't have too much fluoride in the water, and is advised against increasing it in the hopes of further reducing dental cavities.

The state department said it had taken eight samples of Artesia water to achieve its average figure. Maximum presence of fluorides reached 1.1 ppm, while the minimum was 0.5 ppm.

The department notes that "some authorities, however, state that fluorides in excess of 1 ppm cause the structural defects dental fluorosis, commonly referred to as a mottled enamel." (Or "Texas brown teeth.")

The state's fluoride survey program was established in August 1951 and samples were collected and shipped by field sanitarians to the state public health laboratory through October 1952.

Organized Safety Most Effective, Council Declares

The most effective way to prevent accidents and resulting injuries, deaths, and upheaval of personal life is to get behind an organized safety program, George L. Kaiser, general chairman of the Artesia Safety Council, told Artesia residents this week.

In a membership campaign letter Kaiser said the Artesia program needs 200 individuals and firms who are seriously and actively interested in life saving.

"Accidents and the resulting deaths, injuries, and changed plans for life will continue with us," Kaiser said, "but, as members of society, it becomes our responsibility to put forth our best efforts to decrease these accidents."

"The most effective way to do this is to get behind an organized program," Kaiser continued.

"Such a program is outlined by the National Safety Council and consists of:

"1—Eliminating hazards which are obvious, but which may require action by the city council, the state highway department, or even by direct action of the governor. All of these avenues have been used in Artesia to achieve safety measures.

"2—By education through radio programs, newspaper articles, school programs, posters, contests, etc.

"3—By cooperation with national, state, and local programs which are aimed at stopping the slaughter and maiming by accidents.

Support Needed

"Are you willing to do your part," the safety council continues. "We know your answer is 'sure, but what or how shall I do it?' It's easy—support your local safety council."

Purpose of the safety council member drive is twofold, the campaign letter points out. Funds to be raised by the modest $3 annual dues will be used for films and special projects. Manpower is needed for ideas, observation, and physical assistance.

Active in the safety council in addition to Kaiser are Hugh Kiddy, traffic; H. C. Schimmel, industrial; F. L. Green, school safety; Mrs. Naomi Buckout, health, and Paul W. Scott, secretary.

Little League Turnout Call Issued By Foster

Call for Little League baseball players to report was issued Thursday afternoon by Carl Foster, president of Little League. The call is for 2 p. m., Saturday, on the baseball diamond at Morris Field.

Foster stressed that all boys reporting Saturday for Little League must have forms signed by their parents and a notary public either already turned in or else with them Saturday.

Little League is open to all boys, regardless of race, creed or color, from eight through 12 years. Boys who will be 13 before Aug. 1, 1953 cannot, however, take part.

Forms for boys to have their parents sign and then have notarized are available at Central Valley Electric, Russell Auto Supply, and the state employment office.

The form releases Little League from any responsibility in the event a boy is injured while engaged in Little League activity.

Foster also urged prospective managers to attend Saturday's Little League turn-out.

The president said a workout with the Artesia Drillers is planned for the near future. Members of the Driller squad will work out with boys in their respective positions, giving them pointers on playing and hitting form.

Little League will be in its second year in Artesia this season. Last year more than 200 boys turned out, when Foster issued the call. Due to a lack of managers and coaches, not all boys could be accommodated.

Purpose of the program is to provide summer recreation for boys falling in the Little League age bracket. A full season schedule is set up by local officers, with a game scheduled for every week day night. Both major and minor league teams are planned for this season. Major league teams are uniformed, minors are not.

Salvation Army Launches Artesia Campaign With $2,500 Total Set as Drive's Quota

Salvation Army officials this week launched a fund campaign seeking $2,500 in Artesia, according to E. B. Bullock, chairman of the program.

The local committee is being aided by Major Henry Watson of Phoenix, Ariz., director of rural and service extension for the Salvation Army border division.

Mr. Bullock and Major Watson have appeared before Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis clubs this week to outline the Salvation Army's program, using a film on the army's organization, history, and duties today.

With launching of the Artesia fund campaign for the Salvation Army, local officers for the organization released a unit report for Artesia activity of the army for 1952.

The local committee reported 120 persons were assisted by the Artesia unit in 1952.

Sixteen local families and single persons with a total of 56 people in the families were aided during the year, according to the report.

Nineteen transient families and single persons were assisted, with a total of 64 people in the transient families.

Total expenditures for 1952 amounted to $499.50, leaving a balance on hand of $432.51 for Jan. 1, 1953, according to L. B. Feather, local committee treasurer.

Army officials pointed out the Salvation Army's bywords are "Take religion to people, wherever they are."

Saturday Chosen As Poppy Day By Auxiliary

Saturday is Poppy Day in Artesia.

The sale of the poppies are the chief financial support for the Auxiliary's big rehabilitation and child welfare program.

The crepe paper poppies are worn in honor of America's war dead, according to Mrs. John Simmons, Jr., chairman of the Legion Auxiliary.

Headquarters for tomorrow's poppy sale will be at the office of Artesia Baseball club on Main street. Workers will be stationed at tables in the business district.

No set price for the poppies is asked by Auxiliary workers, who depend on purchasers to set their own price in the light of use of the money.

"Making the poppies gives disabled men in the veterans' hospitals an interesting occupation to help speed the long hours of hospital treatment or convalescence," Mrs. Simmons pointed out.

"The American Legion Auxiliary pays them for the work, giving them an opportunity to earn money. Each man is limited in the number (Continued on Page Eight)

New Mexico Farms to Host 10 Students From India

New Mexico farm families will be host to 10 rural youths from India this spring and summer under a special phase of the International Farm Youth Exchange program, according to L. S. Kurtz, state 4-H club leader at New Mexico A&M college.

Purpose of the program is to further world peace by promoting a better understanding at the grass roots level.

Five of the 10 Indian exchanges will live, work and share experiences with New Mexico farm families from May 11 to July 28, Kurtz said. The other five Indians will live with other farm families from Aug. 3 to Oct. 16.

Upon their return to their homeland the Indian exchanges will work with rural village projects. The Ford Foundation is cooperating with the program in India.

Representing New Mexico in the outgoing part of the exchange will be Robert Bagwell of Amistad, N. M., and Lawrence Sarracino, Laguna, N. M. They will sail for India on Aug. 21.

The International Farm Youth Exchange program began in 1948. Since that time, three rural youth from New Mexico have participated, while New Mexico farm families have been host to six exchanges from other lands.

Through this exchange at the grass roots level, many misconceptions have been cleared up and a better understanding of the problems and attitudes of rural people both at home and abroad has resulted.

The International Farm Youth Exchange is sponsored by the National 4-H club Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service. No government funds are used to finance the actual exchanges.

State contributions are raised by local 4-H clubs, extension young men and women's groups, farm organizations, and service clubs. The rest of the budget is contributed by individuals, foundations, and industries interested in rural youth and international understanding.

Meeting of Minds on Administration Economy Policies Still Is Lacking

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY

Congressman from New Mexico WASHINGTON, May 14.—The program of the new administration is now beginning to take more definite shape. It is apparent, however, that a meeting of the minds of the heads of some executive departments and of many members of the majority in the Congress has not yet been achieved.

What administration leaders sought to label as an "economy" move in announcing an $8.5 billion reduction in the original 1954 budget, for instance, has not been accepted as such by the appropriations committees of either the House or the Senate.

Both of those committees are keenly aware of the fact that, having already cut generous slices off the departmental ap-

Pep Club Is One of Important Pushers for Artesia High Bulldogs

By Sally Sears

One of the most important seasons of our school year is the fall, when football is in full swing, and right behind the football team, prodding us up from our summer lethargy, is the Pep club, one of the largest, most active, and undoubtedly the oldest club in AHS.

The history of the Pep club dates from about 1925, when it was first organized. Facts about the organization from the time of its first appearance until 1935 are rather doubtful, but it was in 1935 that the Pep club apparently made its first real noise in AHS, and it is from the organization of that club that the present-day club has descended. Only a few minor changes and amendments in the constitution show any difference at all.

form since 1935. These peppy representatives of AHS must present a good appearance for other schools, have pleasing personalities, and, of course, be able to lead yells with grace and enthusiasm, since all eyes in the stands are on them at one time in the course of a game.

In 1939, the only two cheerleaders were Margaret Company and Luana Frazier. Peggy Bunting, Peggy Hamill, and Shirley Bartlett were cheerleaders in 1940, and in 1941 Peggy Hamill continued with Bernie Marie Baldwin and Helen Watson.

After a lapse of two years in 1942 and 1943 when there were no cheerleaders, Juanita Russell, Helen Hebert, Hattie Ruth Cole and Betty Montgomery were chosen to represent AHS and the Pep club, and in the fall of 1945 Elmira Terry, Nig Ferguson, Rosemary Martin and Betty Montgomery were so honored.

Again in 1947, Elmira Terry, along with JoAnn Johnson, Adrienne Fletcher and Janie Dunham were cheerleaders, and it was in this year that the custom of electing two juniors each year to yell with the seniors of the year before was established, so in 1948 JoAnn Johnson and Adrienne Fletcher were again leading yells with Sue Suddarth and Fid Hamill. Fid and Sue carried on in 1949 with Linda Boyle and Jean Green, who, in turn were leading yells with Wanda Burch and Charlene Hale in 1950. Wanda and Charlene were joined by Georgia Crawford and Ginger Sanders in 1951, and who, along with Lou Smith and Marsha Rowley, you saw at the football games last season. Next year Marsha and Lou will be cheerleaders with two more junior girls who have not been chosen.

The functions of the Pep club are many and varied. In 1935 the only function was a barn dance, but the activities have increased many times since then.

1941 was the year in which the first Pep club banquet honoring the football team was held. It proved to be a tremendous success, and has been an annual function since.

Now the Pep club decorates the goal posts for the football games, manages the printing of the programs for the games, and maintains a bulletin board in the upper hall at high school, besides inducting new members, holding the football banquet and promoting and maintaining a school spirit during the football and basketball seasons.

All this has been in the lap of the Pep club president, Celeste Bradshaw, and the sponsor, Miss Alma Sue Felix. Though theirs is not necessarily the job of doing all this single handedly, theirs is the task of co-ordinating all the activities, plus lending a powerful hand to the actual work that is done on these projects. It is no job to be sneered at, and much credit should be given to these mainstays of the oldest club in AHS.

Medical Hero

port from Secretary of State Dulles—that $5.8 billion will be necessary for the foreign aid program has brought a "what do you mean, economy" reaction in the Congress. Even the leaders in the House and Senate have openly voiced disapproval of that request.

In view of the fact that there are $12 billion in authorized but unexpected funds now available for that program this request for $5.3 billion cannot be justified. The Congress has not been given any definite information about what portion of that huge sum is to be used in addition to the money now sought.

Why should this big surplus of authorizations be piled up? Why appropriate anything more this session of Congress or until present authorized funds have been used?

Many of us in the Congress want a common sense and forthright answer to those questions before we add more to the taxpayers' burden. It may be quite right for economy to begin at home, but it should not end there.

Drillers Down Indians 22-12 But Receive 8-3 Retaliation

Artesia Drillers slammed 23 hits for 22 runs to down Midland's Indians Tuesday night, 22-12, in a game which saw a total of 41 hits knocked out.

Four homers were hit by Artesians to boost the total—two of them by Joe Caleron and two by Joe Bauman.

Artesia waited until the second inning to start scoring, then settled down to steady slugging which reached a high point in the fourth with four runs crossing the plate.

Both teams scored two runs apiece in each of the second and third stanzas, tying the game going into the fourth, when the Drillers erupted on a slug spree.

Artesia never scored until the seventh inning Wednesday, when the Drillers managed a lone run.

Two more came in the eighth stanza. Midland opened in the second with four runs, followed by two in the third, and added single counters in the seventh and eighth. Fidel Alvarez and Fred Parker were on the mound for Artesia, with Alvarez taking the loss.

son at a rate of .55 fish per hour's effort. The fieldmen counted totals of 2,904 crappie (largest, 14 inches); 42 large mouth bass (largest, 3 1/2 pounds); 97 catfish; 120 walleyed pike (largest, 25-inch, five pounds); and 38 bluegills. Total fish taken came to 3,201.

The checkers said that the howling winds which has intermittently plagued fishing and fishermen for the last several weeks, sprang up again Saturday and ended fishing for the day. Sunday was said to be "not too bad" and a number of boats went out. Had weather conditions been better, a much larger crowd would have turned out for the annual run of crappie, now in full swing.

New Mexico Government, State Service To Cost Over $1 Million Every Week

New Mexico's government and state services will cost well over a million dollars a week during the next two fiscal years.

Legislative appropriations for that period amount to more than $13 million a year, a record total, according to figures released by the Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico.

In addition, other state expenditures authorized without being specifically appropriated will total some $6 million dollars a year.

This latter sum is to go largely for departments operating with ear-marked funds, highway costs and public welfare expenditures, said Albert K. Nohl, acting director of the taxpayers organization.

Of the annual $13 million in direct appropriations, around $5 million will be used by the state's seven institutions of higher learning, Nohl reported.

Operations of the insane asylum will run $1 million a year; state police, $850,000; penitentiary, $550,000; and state health services, $492,000. By coincidence, the state's department of education and the Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children will receive $345,000 each, annually.

Appropriations from New Mexico's general fund have increased four times over within the past 14 years—from only $3 million annually in 1939 to more than $13 million for 1953-54.

The general fund is the source from which the Legislature appropriates to finance the state government and numerous state services. However, this fund actually covers less than one-fifth (18.7 per cent.) of the total of such expenditures, on the basis of figures compiled by the Taxpayers Association of New Mexico.

An additional $56 million is collected and disbursed from state level each year without being specifically appropriated by the Legislature. Most of this larger sum is received through state excise taxes, and allocated for public welfare purposes, for highway use, and numerous other agencies. It does not include some $33 million a year of state aid to public schools.

The huge total over which the Legislature has little or no control is mounting each year, reports the Taxpayers association, emphasizing the growing need for safe-increasing total.

State Game Letter—

Chukar Partridges Planted In Wilderness, Conchas

Levon Lee, director of the state game department's upland game bird program, today revealed details of two recent plantings of chukar partridges in New Mexico.

Lee said that between 50 and 75 birds were to be released on the Heart Bar ranch property in the Gila Wilderness on Friday. This group will supplement an earlier release of 54 of the famed, near-Eastern birds in the area.

Earlier in the week, Lee said, about 75 chukars were planted along the Perro arm of the Canadian river above Conchas lake in Miguel county, bringing the number planted there to about 300.

Of this flock, Lee said he had not received very encouraging reports that the chukars were adapting themselves to their new home. Biologists and other fieldmen have frequently sighted the birds during the past year. The birds planted on the Heart Bar apparently migrated out of the immediate area and have not been sighted for some time.

Obtained in cooperation with the U. S. fish and wildlife service and the government of Turkey, the chukars just planted were flown in from the Near East this year. Earlier shipments of the birds have been held at the game department's bird farm in Colorado for breeding purposes.

A large number of their offspring have also been released in suitable territory around the state. The chukars are distributed throughout terrain which, as closely as possible, duplicates their native habitat. The success of these transplantings is shown by the fact that fieldmen have located wild broods of young birds raised in New Mexico, notable in the San Andres mountains and the Philmont Scout ranch. Preferably, Lee explained, the chukar leans toward steep, rocky, dry terrain.

Found throughout southern Europe and the Near East, from sea level in Spain to above 10,000 feet in Tibet, the chukar is described as an excellent upland game bird and, it is hoped, will someday be added to the legal hunting list in New Mexico.

Field personnel of the state game department made a spot survey of fishermen (and their fish) at Conchas Dam over the weekend; however, adverse weather conditions limited the usual crowd to only 600-odd anglers.

Final figures from the two checking stations maintained on the lake's access roads showed that the checkers counted a total of 262 automobiles during the two-day period. Of this total, 104 cars were out of state, mostly Texas.

The cars carried 654 anglers, or an average of 2.5 fishermen per car. They caught 4.9 fish per per-

Country Club Notes—

First Artesia Invitational Holds Center of Attention

By STANLEY SUTTON
This initial Artesia Invitational seems to hold the center of attention at the club these days. Chairman Floyd Springer is in the midst of all sorts of preparations. The final big committee meeting is to be Friday this week and out of this meeting will come the announcements of final plans. Committees will be formed and from then on the real work will start. There has been a considerable amount of discussion concerning the best method of entertaining our guests. One group seems to favor a continuous cocktail hour and while this would no doubt be effective from an entertainment standpoint, it might reflect in poorer scores in the tourney. Another group suggests that relaxation in the form of mild card games and dominoes would appeal to a greater cross section. Petty and Lanning advise that the Drillers will have two home series against Carlsbad and Roswell during this period and who could want any better entertainment than that. Incidentally, why wouldn't it be a good idea for each of us as a member to write a friend or more in another community to come visit us and participate in our tournament. Many of us have individuals of that sort in mind, say in La Mesa, Lubbock, or San Angelo. Let's not hide our new tournament. Here's an opportunity to help our club, town, and golf association by simply giving some time to a letter. No cash outlay is involved. Marshall Rowley has been designated as an impartial referee to solve disputes in the matter of golf etiquette. This has been a needed but unfulfilled office for some time. A number of problems are now pending. For example a statement has been made that golf is a gentleman's game. Is that literally true? When Bergman and Miller square off just what is legal? Should conversation stop at the middle or top of the opponent's backswing? What is the interpretation of the manipulation of shadows on the opponent's line of putt? Is it courtesy to go over to the rough to help the other fellow find his ball when he really wants a little privacy with a difficult lie? Haskell Harris says it certainly must be OK to stomp or kick out those tufts of grass behind a ball in the rough or why else did they put those nails on the bottom of golf shoes? Bullock has a system of whipping out a white handkerchief with a frantic gesture just as his competition is about to stroke the ball. When this is mentioned (in a friendly way of course) he replies that surely that is better than an unexpected "neezie" method. He says nothing is more effective and in addition the horrified expression of his opponent after a missed shot is worth the extra effort. Emery Carper, Doc Mahone, and Dave Schenberg each have their separate methods of inserting the needle. Mahone belongs to the "practice-swingers." He has developed his skill to an uncanny degree. He hasn't hit anyone yet. Mr. Carper is a member of the flattery school. When you knock one into the cottonpatch he is the one to say, "That was a well hit ball. Just a little off line." Dave Schenberg is one of these fellows that talks talks talks all the time. Needless to say, Rowley, you have your work cut out for you. Any of these fellows will commit a petty crime for a dime. With them it isn't the principle of the thing. It's the money. No doubt you will meet some new variations as you go along. We'll report them as they turn up. As new members seek admittance, it places the membership committee in an advantageous position. According to Eddie Ward, we are much more choosy now than in the past. As you know, according to the by-laws, an applicant must present his initiation fee and be approved by the membership committee. Until recently the desire for new members has on some occasions outweighed good judgment, but now Ward and his committee are very stringent in their requirements. They take the applicant's check and if the bank says it is not good, they won't accept the application until it is cashed. We believe that from a long-sighted standpoint Mrs. Crawford and Mr. Ward and their committee are following the right course. It should result in definite improvement over what we have.

Billy the Kid Book Top Among Best Westerns

A book from the University of New Mexico Press has been chosen one of the 10 best Western books of 1952 by Westerners Brand, the authoritative judges in the field of Western literature. E. B. Mann, director of the UNM Press, announced today. "Billy the Kid: Bibliography of a Legend," by J. C. Dykes, was chosen unanimously by judges of the association. It was originally published in paper-bound editions by the University's Publication Series in Language and Literature. When the paper-bound edition sold out, the UNM Press re-issued a cloth-bound edition, while the Language Series made a second paper edition, which is still selling well. The 437 items in the volume begin in time with an article in May, 1881. They include not only printed material on William Bonney, alias "The Kid" but also records, folk songs, radio scripts, motion pictures, and advertisements. The author, who is a specialist on the young outlaw's activities, now lives in College Park, Md. He is associated with the United States soil conservation service. Nine other books were selected by the association. They are "Mustangs," by J. Frank Dobie; "Hear Me My Chiefs," by Lucullus V. McWhorter; "The Comanches," by Ernest Wallace and E. A. Hoebel; "The Great Frontier," by Walter P. Webb; "The Course of Empire," by Bernard DeVoto; "Wagon Roads West," by W. T. Jackson; "The March of Empire," by Averam B. Bender; "Queen of Cowtowns: Dodge City," by Stanley Vestal; and "Colonel Jack Hays," by James Kimmins Greer.

Valley's Biggest Land Leveling Project Is Carried on Near Lake Arthur By Bill Langenegger With New Machines, Methods

By MRS. RAY PATE
Lake Arthur Correspondent

"That crawler tractor has not cooled off for 90 days" was the startling statement made to a couple of newspaper reporters by Bill Langenegger as he pointed to a tractor being driven toward us. We had gone to interview him about the largest single land leveling project ever attempted in the Pecos Valley.

He purchased this farm along with three brothers, as owners of a fourth interest. Ross, who operates a 320-acre farm southwest of Hagerman; Jim, who operates a 600-acre farm west of Hagerman; and Jack, who operates an 800-acre farm southeast of Hagerman.

Some observers view this gigantic enterprise as a sort of a white elephant, but not this scientifically informed man.

These conservation practices have been tried and proven in the successful operations of his other farms.

The farm, known as the M. W. Evans river farm, is one of the oldest farms in the Pecos Valley, having been farmed continually since 1906. An interesting note here is the fact that your correspondent's father-in-law, the late G. R. Pate, and the late J. B. Crook planted the first cotton crop in 1922 that was ever planted on this farm.

Covers Square Mile—

It is located south of the Lake Arthur school house and lies on the west banks of the Pecos river and covers one square mile, consisting of 600 acres in cultivation. "The project is being finished today and by tomorrow night every inch will be wet. It will all be done in about 90 days by working 24 hours a day. We have worked shifts day and night," Langenegger stated.

His incandescent enthusiasm is very contagious when he is explaining about the methods he employs, some he originated. "Conservation of water and soil cannot be stressed too much. We do not lose one drop of water now and we can irrigate in our Sunday clothes and not get muddy under this system," Langenegger says.

He has built a huge machine shop which covers 2,400 square feet of floor space and is equipped with modern devices. Factory-trained mechanics keep equipment tuned-up. He owns his own equipment, which consists of one huge LeTourneau Tournatractor and Carryall, several crawler-type tractor and allied equipment, and numerous conventional farm tractors and equipment.

Langenegger believes this LeTourneau tractor is a revolutionary innovation in farm equipment. It has a 260-horsepower GM diesel two cycle-engine, with a torque converter. He purchased it at a cost of $30,000 at the Longview, Texas, plant and is acquainted with the man who designed it and keeps posted on all the latest improvements.

Planning Required—

It took a lot of technical planning by professional engineers before tackling this tremendous land leveling project. There were over 3,000 survey stations on the farm. Each station was visited four times for shooting, marking, and to pull the stakes after completion.

The old irrigation system was completely eradicated. All old pumps, ditches and ditch structures were no longer applicable for the new system to be used and were done away with.

The entire acreage was leveled so as to slope 1/2-inch to each 100 feet of grade. The new irrigation ditches were large, but are only about three miles in length for the entire 600 acres. Each ditch intersection is equipped with concrete structures and screw-type head gates. No tarps are used to change the water from one block to another.

Fields were not terraced, but field leveled. This made it necessary to move some of the dirt a maximum distance of 2,300 feet. The deepest fills were about five feet, the deepest cuts were about four feet. Triple bend siphon tubes six by 120 inches are used to siphon water out of the ditches. Each tube runs from 400 to 500 gallons per minute. No openings are cut in any ditches on the farm. This eliminates most ditch maintenance troubles.

The farm has an elaborate drainage system to take care of any excess irrigation, rain, or floor water; these ditches drain directly into the river, conserving every drop of water possible. There is no water in roads, barrow pits, or waste land.

Uses New Method—

Langenegger never uses a mould board plow, nor does he turn the soil over; instead, he originated the stubble mulch method using a perpendicular chisel with a bect wing horizontal blade subsoiler. He contends that this principal of crop residue on the top six inches of soil and vegetation holds the moisture and at the same time makes the soil more permeable that the water can reach even to the leader roots.

"What about fertilizer?" he was asked. "We used $56,000 worth of manure hauled in from Clovis, Elida, and Sudan, but we expect to more than pay off this expense this year," he said.

River farms present different different problems than shallow-water farms, but on one block of Langenegger's cotton yield was four bales per acre last year.

He plans on planting the entire acreage in cotton this year, which is poor farming practice but he reasons that this way he will get rid of a lot of weeds this year and do what "blue topping," or finish work may be needed after the fields settle, so that he can put in a sizeable hay acreage the following year and continue to rotate thereafter.

Lard is Foreman—

A. L. "Pete" Lard, his wife and three children, Ronda, age 8, and in the third grade; Ronald, age 6, in the first grade at Lake Arthur school; and Alan, 3 1/2, live at the headquarters, formerly occupied by the Homer Bratner family. Lard is foreman here, coming here from Hagerman where he has been employed by Langenegger since he first started farming in 1938.

Langenegger started out in 1938 with a small farm and a hay bailer and did custom bailing for the public. He is proud of the fact that five of the six boys who started working with him then are still with him now. They are "Pete" Lard; his brother, Floyd Lard, Louis Gomez, Roy Hammons and Si Dennis.

Langenegger comments that "Last year when I was presented with the Bankers' Conservation Award, I felt that Floyd Lard, one of the best cat-skinners in the state of New Mexico, was really entitled to the award as he worked himself and supervised all the work."

Langenegger is president of the Farmers Co-Op association, Hagerman, consisting of five gins; president of the REA Central Valley Electric Co-Op, Artesia; president of and majority stockholder of Builders Block and Stone Co., Roswell; director of Pecos Valley Cotton Oil Company; and director of the First National Bank, Artesia.

Local Labor—

He employs local labor as much as possible; at present there are about 60 men working for him, including 13 Mexican Nationals.

He says his hobby is his family of four girls. They are his young wife, Helen, and daughters, Helen Jeanee, 8, who is in the second grade in Hagerman school; Lana Ruth, 4; and Alice Kathleen, 15 months.

He maintains his office in a new farm home west of Hagerman on the black-topped farm-to-market road.

Lake Arthur Correspondent

Paul M. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church in Lake Arthur, wishes to announce that on the evening of June 9 "The King's Men," a male quartet from Pasadena, Calif., will give a special musical program. The quartet will play the piano, violin, trombone and trumpet and promises to be a very enjoyable evening for music lovers. Another special treat will be the delivery of a message to the church by Dr. C. P. Haggard, president of the Bible college. His subject is to be announced later. On Friday and Monday after the Women's Missionary society of the Lake Arthur Baptist church met at the church and did some yard work and planted some flower seeds. They also held their study course. Present were Mmes. Willard Needham, Emma Lee Flowers, Mack Reynolds, Morgan Brewton, Tom Crook and Eva Crook.

Use of Skin Eruptions Discussed by Doctor

In order to understand how skin eruptions are effective in cases of skin eruptions, we must understand something of the fundamental principle of Chiropractic. The chiropractor scientifically maintains that every organ of the body is dependent for its function upon the proper supply of vitality through the nervous system. This is not only true of the kidneys, stomach, etc., but of the skin. The glands of the skin must receive their normal nerve energy to function properly.

If you suffer from skin eruptions of any sort, you owe it to yourself to visit your Chiropractor and let him explain in detail the cause for your condition and what Chiropractic can do. It is not true to say "everything has been done" unless Chiropractic is included. For further information regarding Chiropractic, consult Dr. Katharine, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, Artesia, N.M.

Valley's Biggest Land Leveling Project Is Carried on Near Lake Arthur By Bill Langenegger With New Machines, Methods

By MRS. RAY PATE
Lake Arthur Correspondent

"That crawler tractor has not cooled off for 90 days" was the startling statement made to a couple of newspaper reporters by Bill Langenegger as he pointed to a tractor being driven toward us. We had gone to interview him about the largest single land leveling project ever attempted in the Pecos Valley.

He purchased this farm along with three brothers, as owners of a fourth interest: Ross, who operates a 320-acre farm southwest of Hagerman; Jim, who operates a 600-acre farm west of Hagerman; and Jack, who operates an 800-acre farm southeast of Hagerman.

Some observers view this gigantic enterprise as a sort of a white elephant, but not this scientifically informed man.

These conservation practices have been tried and proven in the successful operations of his other farms.

The farm, known as the M. W. Evans river farm, is one of the oldest farms in the Pecos Valley, having been farmed continually since 1906. An interesting note here is the fact that your correspondent's father-in-law, the late G. R. Pate, and the late J. B. Crook planted the first cotton crop in 1922 that was ever planted on this farm.

Covers Square Mile—

It is located south of the Lake Arthur school house and lies on the west banks of the Pecos river and covers one square mile, consisting of 600 acres in cultivation.

"The project is being finished today and by tomorrow night every inch will be wet. It will all be done in about 90 days by working 24 hours a day. We have worked shifts day and night," Langenegger stated.

His incandescent enthusiasm is very contagious when he is explaining about the methods he employs, some he originated. "Conservation of water and soil cannot be stressed too much. We do not lose one drop of water now and we can irrigate in our Sunday clothes and not get muddy under this system," Langenegger says.

He has built a huge machine shop which covers 2,400 square feet of floor space and is equipped with modern devices. Factory-trained mechanics keep equipment tuned-up. He owns his own equipment, which consists of one huge LeTourneau Tournatractor and Carryall, several crawler-type tractor and allied equipment, and numerous conventional farm tractors and equipment.

Langenegger believes this LeTourneau is a revolutionary innovation in farm equipment. It has a 200-horsepower GM diesel two cycle-engine, with a torque converter. He purchased it at a cost of $30,000 at the Longview, Texas, plant and is acquainted with the man who designed it and keeps posted on all the latest improvements.

Planning Required—
It took a lot of technical planning by professional engineers before tackling this tremendous land leveling project. There were over 3,000 survey stations on the farm. Each station was visited four times for shooting, marking, and to pull the stakes after completion.

The old irrigation system was completely eradicated. All old pumps, ditches and ditch structures were no longer applicable for the new system to be used and were done away with.

The entire acreage was leveled so as to slope 1/2-inch to each 100 feet of grade. The new irrigation ditches were large, but are only about three miles in length for the entire 600 acres. Each ditch intersection is equipped with concrete structures and screw-type head gates. No tarps are used to change the water from one block to another.

Fields were not terraced, but field leveled. This made it necessary to move some of the dirt a maximum distance of 2,300 feet. The deepest fills were about five feet, the deepest cuts were about four feet. Triple bend siphon tubes six by 120 inches are used to siphon water out of the ditches. Each tube runs from 400 to 500 gallons per minute. No openings are cut in any ditches on the farm. This eliminates most ditch maintenance troubles.

The farm has an elaborate drainage system to take care of any excess irrigation, rain, or floor water; these ditches drain directly into the river, conserving every drop of water possible. There is no water in roads, barrow pits, or waste land.

Uses New Method—

Langenegger never uses a mould board plow, nor does he turn the soil over; instead, he originated the stubble mulch method using a perpendicular chisel with a beet wing horizontal blade subsoiler. He contends that this principal of crop residue on the top six inches of soil and vegetation holds the moisture and at the same time makes the soil more permeable that the water can reach even to the leader roots.

"What about fertilizer?" he was asked. "We used $56,000 worth of manure hauled in from Clovis, Elida, and Sudan, but we expect to more than pay off this expense this year," he said.

River farms present different problems than shallow-water farms, but on one block of Langenegger's cotton yield was four bales per acre last year.

He plans on planting the entire acreage in cotton this year, which is poor farming practice but he reasons that this way he will get rid of a lot of weeds this year and do what "blue topping" or finish work may be needed after the fields settle, so that he can put in a sizeable hay acreage the following year and continue to rotate thereafter.

Lard is Foreman—

A. L. "Pete" Lard, his wife and three children, Ronda, age 8, and in the third grade; Ronald, age 6, in the first grade at Lake Arthur school; and Alan, 3 1/2, live at the headquarters, formerly occupied by the Homer Bratner family. Lard is foreman here, coming here from Hagerman where he has been employed by Langenegger since he first started farming in 1938.

Langenegger started out in 1938 with a small farm and a hay bailer and did custom bailing for the public. He is proud of the fact that five of the six boys who started working with him then are still with him now. They are "Pete" Lard; his brother, Floyd Lard, Louis Gomez, Roy Hammons and Si Dennis.

Langenegger comments that "Last year when I was presented with the Bankers' Conservation Award, I felt that Floyd Lard, one of the best cat-skinners in the state of New Mexico, was really entitled to the award as he worked himself and supervised all the work."

Langenegger is president of the Farmers Co-Op association, Hagerman, consisting of five gins; president of the REA Central Valley Electric Co-Op, Artesia; president of and majority stockholder of Builders Block and Stone Co., Roswell; director of Pecos Valley Cotton Oil Company; and director of the First National Bank, Artesia.

Local Labor—
He employs local labor as much as possible; at present there are about 60 men working for him, including 13 Mexican Nationals.

He says his hobby is his family of four girls. They are his young wife, Helen, and daughters, Helen Jeanene, 8, who is in the second grade in Hagerman school; Lana Ruth, 4; and Alice Kathleen, 15 months.

He maintains his office in a new farm home west of Hagerman on the black-topped farm-to-market road.

Use of Skin Eruptions Discussed by Doctor

In order to understand how chiropractic is effective in cases of skin eruptions, we must understand something of the fundamental principle of chiropractic. The chiropractor has scientifically maintained that every organ of the body is dependent for its function on the proper supply of vitality through the nervous system. This is not only true of the kidneys, stomach, etc., but of the skin. The glands of the skin must receive their normal supply of nerve energy to function properly.

If you suffer from skin eruptions of any sort, you owe it to yourself to visit your chiropractor. Let him explain in detail the cause of your condition and what chiropractic can do. It is not true to say "everything has been done" unless further information regarding chiropractic, consult Dr. Katharine, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, Artesia, N.M.

Machine Strip Of Milk Cows Is Recommended

Labor saving and quality milk production can go hand in hand by following the recommended practice of machine-stripping cows in stead of hand stripping them, says county agent Richard Marek.

To machine strip, during the last minute the milking machine remains on the cow, pull down gently on the teat cup assembly, the county agent advises. This action prevents the teat cups from crawling upon the teats.

At the same time, gently massage each individual quarter. Don't prolong this dual job, Marek points out. Massaging the quarters helps to straighten out the intricate "high-way" system within the udder to allow for full drainage of the udder.

Machine stripping helps to produce high quality milk, since it reduces the hazard of foreign materials getting into the pail. Machine stripping also saves considerable effort and time.

On Right Track

SOME FOLKS STILL can't believe that a board of education members went before a general Artesia Public Schools faculty meeting Monday afternoon to outline steps toward policy formulation and ask faculty assistance.

The board particularly wants faculty help insofar as personnel matters are concerned.

Members of its policy committee—Mrs. C. P. Bunch and Mrs. E. E. Kinney—have stated that the board is drawing together for codification and publication all policies, rules, and procedures which affect schools in the city, including administration, personnel policies such as salary and advancement, and curriculum.

Monday's meeting was just the first gun in a board campaign to get its policies together. There are policies all over the place, evidently, in state law, verbal agreements, North Central association rules, etc. They've never been brought together. Consequently some are overlooked and not used as they should be.

The board of education is expected to turn to the general public as it already has to teachers when other phases of its policy-making functions come up, such as athletics and curriculum. While the board must assume legal responsibility and therefore the final decision on all matters, it is sincerely asking for advice and guidance.

This is a direct outgrowth of a recent community-wide dispute over the dismissal-resignation of a teacher. Those who at the time said such a dispute had no right to be aired in public may now see that controversy has served a useful purpose in this instance, just as it so often does.

By its questioning of policy organization the board of education is achieving a number of objectives.

For example, it is protecting school administrators, who shall be charged with executing board policy. When there is any question over policy, the administrators will not be the people to take to task, for they are following and executing board policy and practices. It will be the board which must answer questioning over policies. This removes the burden of responsibility from a single individual or several persons in the administration.

By its questioning, its seeking advice from the public and from its professional staff of teachers and administrators, the board is providing a concrete channel for citizen interest in the schools.

It is also removing from itself the familiar epithet "rubber stamp board." It is taking the initiative, it is fulfilling its job as representative of the people in operating the schools. By making itself directly responsive to the people, the board is closer to the intent of democracy.

No Good Waiting

WE DON'T KNOW whether any Chamber of Commerce survey has been made along these lines or not, but it would be interesting to explore more deeply one reason why Artesia business hesitates to expand, to unite and build the city as the Pecos Valley's shopping center.

Many businessmen are convinced that deep oil strikes near Artesia are just around the corner. When it does come, they think, the city will have an unprecedented business boom. Everybody will expand then, and business will be just dandy.

The city which waits for prosperity to be dumped in its lap is going to wait, and wait, and wait.

Wouldn't it be better to forget easy prosperity and instead get down to hard work in building the city with the wonderfully rich resources we now have? If such a deep oil boom as we all want does come, we'll be able to take it in our stride, rather than have to do a lot of catching up for many years of waiting.

City's Newest Store

ARTESIA IS ALWAYS happy to welcome a new business, but especially so when the business gives indications of being a progressive, up-to-date firm.

Such a business is Clark's Shoes, which this week-end opens its doors on Main street next to the W. W. Virtue store. Its owner, C. G. Clark, long-experienced in retailing, has installed a modern store front, smart interior decorating, and a different, good line of merchandise. He plans an aggressive advertising and promotional campaign.

Such a business enhances the value of the entire city as a shopping center. Competition in a particular line of business—in this case the shoe business—means a better deal for the customer, who has a wider range of selection and competitive marketing to his advantage.

Artesia wishes the best of luck to C. G. Clark, trusting his enthusiasm for his new business and his new hometown will continue.

Republican Meetings

EDDY COUNTY Republicans have a big challenge facing them, a challenge to their belief in effective political convictions and methods, in fact, in the American political system which governs this country.

The fact that this is a Republican challenge is not so important as the deeper import of what County Central Committee Chairman E. E. Kinney of Artesia is attempting to do.

Kinney believes the man on the street, the average man, has a stake in politics. When the man on the street lets go of his stake by refusing to actively participate in partisan politics, he is losing a great deal of his voice in how this country is run.

If a man going to the polls befeels because neither party—but especially his party—has put up a good candidate, he is not blameless if he took no part in selecting that candidate.

We're also betting the average man doesn't take more interest in politics because he doesn't know what it's all about—how it works, what its methods are. He has only the vague notion that candidates are chosen in smoke-filled rooms, a car parked in a dark alley, or in a midnight rendezvous on a fog-ridden waterfront.

The divisional meetings which Kinney has called throughout the county this week and next are the grassroots meetings of a political party. The registered party members choose their officers and delegates to the county convention and county central committee. If able officers and delegates are not chosen, the system of American partisan politics has suffered a basic and vital blow right there.

Such divisional meetings are the broad base of partisan politics. If the base is weak through lack of widespread party member participation, we can hardly expect the top of the party—in this case the national administration—to be strong, effective, and responsive to the people.

Switch Is Confusing

RESIDENTS OF HOPE—especially members of the Hope Water Users association—and their backers in Artesia are still mighty confused over the switch in testimony as to what money is necessary to clean out the association's dam 10 miles west of Hope on the Pecos.

State Engineer John Bliss testified, when a bill to give Hope $60,000 was in the legislature, that that would be enough money. Both houses therefore passed the bill. But when it came to Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, Bliss advised there was neither enough money in the fund from which the money would come, nor would $60,000 be enough. Acting on expert advice, the governor vetoed the bill.

Representatives of the state engineer last Friday said they had made a survey of the dam and figured $120,000 would be needed for the job.

We believe some explanation should be forthcoming for this switch in testimony, this doubling of estimates.

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

Lea County Farmers, Ranchers Said to Face Worst Financial Wallop Due to Drought, Wind

LEA COUNTY FARMERS and ranchers may be in for their worst financial wallop in years, reports the Lovington Press.

Wind and drought has cut Lea county dryland farm production and livestock in half, giving farms and ranches the dreary outlook of a dust bowl day, the Press reports.

Present indications point to a farm and ranch loss of net profits through increased costs in planting crops because of replanting required.

Adverse weather has seriously damaged nearly all late spring-planted alfalfa, the Press reports, and damage is expected for irrigated cotton areas.

PETITIONS HAVE BEEN EN-

ted at Alamogordo for a dry election. According to Mrs. M. M. Ward, chairman of the Otero County Civic Loyalty league which is ramrodding the drive, petitions have 1,296 signatures, or nearly 100 more than the required 1,200.

However, opponents to the dry election are challenging the signatures as those of non-registered voters. County officials are now checking the signatures.

If the required number of names is on the list, county commissioners are required to call an election within 60 days.

CARLSBAD'S N A R R O W streets are so clogging traffic that the city is going to have to spend money on a traffic light master control system.

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—
Baseball in Small Cities Is Cooperative, Fans Should Support Club If Good Team Is Fielded

DOUBLE OBLIGATION
Maybe you've been noticing some mention of the sports pages lately that everything is not hunky-dory in the Longhorn Baseball league. And maybe it's time to say something about the situation in this more solemn division of the newspaper.

Baseball in small cities is a cooperative venture. Baseball management has to present a creditable team to the fans, and in order to do that the fans have to give management the opportunity by their patronage.

Cold and miserable weather all over the circuit has kept gate receipts down in most Longhorn cities, and Roswell has been no exception to the rule. Except for opening night, there hasn't been a profitable crowd at any one game. Even opening night was comparatively low in attendance.

Naturally, unless attendance is good management cannot furnish a winning baseball team, or even one that gives a creditable performance, so considerable responsibility for the brand of baseball any city gets rests with the people, especially those who want baseball in the city.

Management of the Rockets will have to come up with a better brand of baseball, however, before the appeal to the people has much effect, for the fans aren't particularly conscious of any obligation.

We believe that Pat Stacey will not be content to go through the season with an indifferent team. He never has, and he isn't built that way in the first place. Of course we can't guarantee the fans that they'll have top baseball the remainder of the season, but we have enough confidence in Pat to believe that it can come close to the guarantee point. — Roswell Record.

NEW ASSISTANT DA
Congratulations are in order to John H. Lawless, Eddy county's new assistant district attorney, who replaces Col. E. K. Neumann in this important position.

Col. Neumann, a man with a vast background in the law, including two terms as New Mexico attorney general, gave up the job of assistant district attorney for a less exciting but more rewarding private law practice.

Lawless is a young man with a good legal education, a good store of energy and a zeal for public service. We think he will make a good assistant DA for Eddy county.

So, once again, Eddy county has been fortunate, as in the case of Neumann, to obtain the services of a well qualified man for an important public job that pays a wholly inadequate income. — Current-Argus.

REFRESHING ATTITUDE
Cancellation of $150 per acre Bernalillo county land sale by Land Commissioner E. S. Walker, who was not in office when the questionable sale took place, strikes a blow for the theory that state departments should be operated on a business-like basis with all due respect to the value of a dollar.

To the layman it would appear that Walker's decision, justified as it may be by logic, may not hold up in court, if challenged. Cancellation throws a cloud on every state land transaction past, present and future, because under the circumstances no purchaser could ever know for sure that the sale might not be reviewed and cancelled.

Nevertheless whether it stands up in court or not, Walker's action was certainly justified by the testimony presented. It was shown clearly that due to carelessness, incompetence, error or for some other reason, the State Land Office sold the land at a price far under its actual value, and permitted "improvements" to be valued so high that competitive bidding was out of the question.

Mr. Walker walked into a hot 'spot when he assumed the office of land commissioner. He has succeeded in cooling off that spot, and has given notice that he intends to look after the interests proper education and training for a vast reservoir of highly intelligent young people in retarding progress and weakening national security, the national manpower council informs President Eisenhower, according to Christian Science Monitor reports.

The council discloses that less than half of those capable of acquiring a college degree enter college and "two-fifths of those who start college—many with superior ability—do not graduate."

"For every high school graduate who eventually earns a doctoral degree, there are 25 others who have the intellectual ability to achieve that degree but do not," the council declares in its second major report since its formation two years ago.

The national problems arising out of this serious wastage constitute but one part of a 263-page council study published by the Columbia University Press to provide government, industry, and the public with a first overall examination of manpower resources and requirements in important scientific and professional areas.

The council's findings were prepared by its 17 members led by James D. Zellerbach, council chairman of San Francisco.

The National Manpower Council was established by the Ford Foundation at Columbia's Graduate School of Business in 1951, by General Eisenhower, to provide a continuing appraisal of the nation's manpower problems and policies in a period of enduring emergency.

NAVAJO HOMES
Contests of last November's election have developed challenges of the voting registration of many Navajo people. Their voting rights are questioned on the contention that they do not have the permanent residence qualifications required, but roam across county and state lines, wherever the feed is best for their livestock.

Many Navajos do move about the reservation following the grass, just as many other citizens roam all over the globe following business or the sun, but each has one place he calls home and there's where he votes.

For other citizens the court's have said that residence is a matter of intention, Navajo citizens it seems, should be subject to the same rule.—Gallup Independent.

THOUGHTS IN PRINT
National Security Is Weakened By Lack of Education for Skilled Youth

Ginsberg, director of research, and Dr. Henry David, executive secretary, developed, with the aid of governmental and non-governmental experts, significant facts and issues in the field of scientific and professional manpower, with special studies of these professions and of present and future shortages.

"Only a purposeful and sustained effort can insure that the United States will have adequate resources of scientific and professional manpower to meet its needs," the council concludes. "Neither reliance upon a single course of action nor the pursuit of separate and unrelated policies will enable the nation to attain this goal."

While the council makes it clear it has no "magic formula" for insuring the adequacy of manpower resources in the future, it did propose a 14-point program for action. The council emphasized the need particularly to develop a framework for the analysis of manpower shortages and to develop basic information about supply and demand as well as effective utilization of manpower—information, which it said, now is "grossly adequate."

Other high lights of the report include:

A finding that America's position of world leadership now demands long-range national action transcending the narrow interests of any special group, to insure an adequate supply of highly trained manpower.

A finding that "the country's economic and social well-being and its continued progress depend to a striking degree on a small group of men and women"—a specific reference to the 155,000 natural scientists who even today constitute only two-tenths of 1 per cent of the total working population. And only 15,000 of this group are devoting themselves to fundamental research essential to opening "new frontiers of human knowledge."

COFFEE TALK—

Single Issue of Paper Can Debunk Critics on College Preparation

HAVE YOU HEARD THE critics, talking about how poorly Artesia graduates do in college because they aren't prepared for it?

It's interesting to check that contention against the reports of what Artesia-trained college students are doing in college as reported in a single issue of the Advocate.

Last Tuesday, for instance, there were five short stories on the front page about college students from Artesia.

Doris Williams, who graduates from UNM this spring, received an award for having the highest mark of any student in commerce at the university.

Mariojo Storm was singled out for having better than a B average in achieving a 2.3 grade—2.0 is B.

Warren Neill will graduate from ENMU summa cum laude—with highest honors.

Norvil Howard was reported to be one of a few student conductors who led the ENMU band during a spring concert.

Nora Roberts has progressed through ENMU to achieve an associate of arts degree.

Inside the paper were some more stories.

Kay Booker was initiated as a charter member of a national foreign language society.

Robert H. Stewart at UNM was named in the 1952-53 Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Sara Curtis was chosen for Spurs, sophomore women's honorary.

Gary Blair and Patsy Cobble were reported to be among 13 at ENMU chosen to present selections in a spring musical recital.

It seems that wherever these college kids of ours go, they are active in both academic and extra-curricular work. They achieve in both phases of university or college work.

Next time you hear some disgruntled person talking about our schools, point out that in one issue of the hometown newspaper there were good reports on 10 Artesians now attending college who are doing pretty darn good.

members are dead serious about these new projects of theirs.

Two of them, as we reported Tuesday, addressed a general faculty meeting Monday afternoon to get teacher assistance on one phase of their big policy-making job. Teachers will counsel on such matters as salary scale, advancement during employment here, qualifications, etc.

That's just one broad action the board is also setting up a committee to study athletic policies. It will turn to the athletes in the community for assistance in that phase of their work.

There are other projects too. And to make sure the public knows what it's doing, instead being the last to know, the board is setting up public relations machinery.

This board is probably setting a high mark for enthusiasm in work. Already it has made good progress in enlisting community support for and pride in our schools—mostly by letting the community know what it is doing.

THESE INSPIRATION
men's breakfasts initiated by Methodist Men and picked up by Presbyterian and First Christian men's organizations turned out to be a handy idea. There was probably an average attendance of 33 at every one.

Still, in a town of 12,000, could be improved on. We think Artesia men who missed the breakfasts missed a gold chance. Every man who attended found himself digging into day's work with a little more vigor, faith, and perspective.

Collective Security Front Weakens With Squabble in Western Nations

BY JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Congressman from New Mexico
WASHINGTON, May 21—During the past week the American people have been rudely awakened to the stark, cold fact that the collective security front which this country has been spending billions of dollars to build as a world fortress against Communist aggression is in grave danger of falling apart.

Members of the Congress, who are having to make a calm, candid appraisal in order to decide what future international program they will support, have been forced to the conclusion that the world situation, as it directly affects this country, is the worst we have known since Pearl Harbor. At that time, however, we knew our allies were and exactly where they stood. We do not know today.

Two British leaders, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Clement Atlee, Labor Party head, have put the American people on notice that trade with the Communists is more important to Britain than is international cooperation for world peace. Thus one of our so-called allies—one whom we had deemed most important in the United Nations and peace movements—has been shown up in its true colors.

Now we know that Britain, while accepting from us billions of American dollars in aid, will continue to trade with the Communist nations, notably Red China. The fact that such trade is providing materials to help American boys in Korea—who make up 95 per cent of the foreign troops in that war—does not appear to matter.

To many Americans the attitude expressed by the British leaders indicates that they are headed toward another "Munich"—an offer of appeasement to stem the tide of aggression. It did not work before and it will not work now.

In contrast to recent forthright pronouncement by President Eisenhower, America's position in the effort for world peace, the British render to a selfish policy of fit for Britain, is the first evidence that the Communist plan to "divide and destroy" free nations is bearing fruit.

That opinion, held by many us in America, is causing us wonder if we have been out-gauged by the Kremlin. The Atlee and Churchill speeches were on the biggest play in Soviet newspapers of any statements foreign leaders in many years. The fact that Atlee had suggested that Red China eventually given a seat in the United Nations council, despite the Communists' declaration that Communist China is an aggressor nation, was heralded in the Soviet press as a definite victory over Russia which has made that remand many times in United Nations debates.

This breach in Anglo-American relations, coupled with attitude India's Prime Minister Nehru is taking regarding our re-patriation and the Kestruce talks, which are verging on complete breakdown, and complete cleavages among the western European themselves, factiousness of this nation's eight aid program.

There is a definite determination in the Congress to make careful reappraisal of the foreign aid and mutual security picture before acceding to administration's request for additional $5.8 billion for something that looks more and more like a futile plan.

Exchanges of hot words are not bringing a solution but there has come for a firm stand taken by a completely unnonpartisan American leadership.

Ten, Twenty Years Ago In Artesia

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(From The Advocate files for May 28, 1933)
Whether Artesia business houses will be able to observe the new eight hour law, is a moot question at the present time, or rather whether it will be practical for them to try to observe it, Fred Brainerd, Chamber of Commerce manager, said yesterday after making a partial survey of the business district.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brainerd were host and hostess to their mothers, Mrs. C. V. Brainerd and Mrs. J. H. Holloman at dinner on Sunday.

Miss Margaret Nellis and Lillian Bryan visited Miss Corinne McAdoon on Carlsbad over the week-end.

Mrs. E. N. Bigler was hostess to the Contract Study club at her home Monday.

In the blue and silver decorated gym at Lake Arthur school Saturday, May 16, the annual semi-formal junior-senior banquet was held.

The theme, "Colonial Days," was carried out in nut cups and menu. Roses, the class flower, decorated the tables. The class motto, "Tonight We Launch, Where Shall We Anchor," was prominently displayed.

In Spring, Girl Scout Fancies Turn to Cookout

It's spring! And in the spring a Girl Scout's fancy turns to hikes and cookouts.

Eleven Brownies of troop 22 cooked wienies on the banks of the Pecos river Saturday afternoon. Their food was provided by their sponsors, DAR, and they were accompanied by two DAR members, Mrs. John Cochran and Mrs. Cecil Waldrep, as well as their leaders, Mrs. J. T. Joplin and Mrs. Stanley Sutton.

Members of troop 17 cooked "tavern sandwiches," walking salad, and "some-mores" on their cookout Saturday at the river. Sixteen members and their leaders, Mrs. Charles Shaid and Mrs. A. D. Shaw, enjoyed the outing. Two carloads of Girl Scouts from troop 12 accompanied by their leader, Mrs. James Tyree, disturbed the serenity of Rocky Atroyo Saturday.

The girls explored the rocks and studied the variety of plants and flowers. The noon meal consisted of hamburgers, baked potatoes, and some-mores prepared over an open fire.

After lunch the girls sang songs and rehearsed their program to be given May 26 for their sponsors and parents. At 4 p. m. camp was cleaned up and the troop headed home. Transportation was furnished by Mrs. Pat Riley and Mrs. G. L. Dunken. The 10 Girl Scouts participating were Marie Hines, Marjorie Herbert, Linda Dunken, Linda Beene, Charlotte Champion, Gretchen Petty, Kaye Hubbard, Marian Riley, Lou Ann Sieghenthal.

er and Mary Margaret Whitson. Monday afternoon little Brownies of troop 6 will cookout at the baseball park under the supervision of their leaders, Mrs. Wayne Paulin and Mrs. Jacwk Knorr.

The word "orgies" comes from a Greek word meaning "secret rites."
