Summer Recreation Program Opens Monday, Teacher Added

Dee Nutt has been selected as instructor for Artesia's summer recreation program to assist Miss Lillian McCormick, senior high physical education teacher. Registration of the program will be held at the Senior Center from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. next Monday morning, June 1.

Instruction will begin at 8 a. m. Tuesday. Mrs. Nutt will assist Smith until Miss Lillian McCormick returns from a trip in about a month.

Parents unable to register their children June 1 may do so any day thereafter by contacting Smith between 8 a. m. and 12 noon or pool manager John Daugherty from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. at the pool.

At registration time parents will be asked to indicate the method they prefer for paying fees for the program.

Pay By Course— Smith has stated that payment by the course—$5 for the 10-week program—or two-week period—$1—is preferable. However, children may bring 10 cents a day to the pool with them.

Smith pointed out that in many cases youngsters lose change they carry to the pool, or else have change stolen from them after paying the admission price.

Courses in the program will include beginner, intermediate, swimmer, and Junior Lifesaving classes, Smith said. Smith, Mrs. Nutt, and Miss McCormick are Red Cross instructors.

City to Honor War Dead on Memorial Day

Artesia will honor its men who have died in the nation's wars with special Memorial Day services at 9 a. m. Saturday morning in Woodbine cemetery. Major John W. Edenbo of Walker Air Force base will be guest speaker for the occasion.

According to Kenneth R. Jones, chairman of a veterans' organizations committee planning the observation, participating units will assemble at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow morning at the cemetery's main gate. They will then march to the grave of Riley N. Brown, where services will be conducted.

Rev. Orvan Gilstrap, pastor of the First Christian church and American Legion chaplain, will give the invocation. A male quartet including V. F. Lowery, Albert Linell, Bob Barrett, and C. C. Nelson will present a selection.

Speaker Scheduled— Major Edenbo will then speak. The male quartet will present another selection, followed by the benediction.

After a firing squad salute, "raps" will be played. Mrs. John Simons, Sr., is in charge of grave decoration, when flags will be placed on the graves of all war dead in Woodbine cemetery.

Bill Dunnam will be master of ceremonies for the Memorial Day service. Firing squad will come from Artesia's National Guard unit, under direction of Lt. Clifton Perkins. Taps will be played by Sam Laughlin and Wayne Westerman. John Simons, Jr., will command the color guard.

Major Edenbo, speaker for the Memorial Day service, is attached to the 40th Bomb Squadron at Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, Enters Service—

The major entered the services of his country in May 1942, and was commissioned an Air Force pilot in the Army Air Force on Oct. 1, 1943.

After being commissioned a pilot he was sent directly to the European theater of operations where he flew 50 missions in B-24 aircraft over Europe before returning to the United States as an instructor at a USAF instrument pilot school.

Artesia Chosen To Host USPHS Demonstration

Artesia is one of seven cities in New Mexico invited to act as host for a United States public health service demonstration of a new sanitary land fill method.

The city council accepted the invitation Wednesday night after its presentation by North Eddy county Sanitarian Richard Swartz.

The demonstration, to which city officials from other Southeastern New Mexico have been invited, is tentatively scheduled for June 15.

Advocate Day Is Changed

Next issue of the Artesia Advocate will be distributed next Wednesday morning, rather than Tuesday, Vernon Bryan, general manager, announced Thursday.

The delayed publication date is caused by an unusually heavy volume of work falling on the newspaper's mechanical staff over a holiday week-end.

Early mailing of the newspaper Wednesday will place it in the hands of North Eddy county people well in advance of Dollar Day Thursday. The paper will feature advertisements by leading merchants with Dollar Day values.

Water Collapses H&J Roof Damage Is Set At $20,000

Thirty employees of H&J Food Basket No. 2, Thirteenth and Main, escaped injury during a store meeting last night when they were hurried out of the building by co-owner-manager J. T. Haile, after ominous cracking noises were heard overhead.

At 7:20 as employees watched the central portion of the building's flat roof collapse under weight of tons of accumulated water.

Bert Jones, co-owner-manager of H&J Food Baskets, said Friday morning stock damage is estimated at $20,000. Damage to the building itself is to be fully inspected this morning by insurance adjusters, but is believed to range between $15,000 and $20,000.

Employees toiled past 1 a. m. this morning, moving salvaged stock from the damaged building.

Carpenters worked into the night to shore up the roof, which at one time was resting only on a stack of tomato cans.

The building was less than two years old. It is owned by Dr. Harold W. Crouch, who said Thursday night the building is covered by insurance. However, whether insurance will cover the particular type of damage is not yet known, Dr. Crouch said.

Firemen were summoned to stand by in case of fire or explosion. There was no fire in the building, however. No one was injured.

The building's collapse attracted hundreds of spectators, especially when ball game and graduation crowds converged on the site at the same time.

Haile said water accumulated on the roof caused a section of it to sag at first, and as more water rushed into the depression, concentrating tons of weight on a few trusses, it gave way.

Wooden trusses were used in the cross spans.

Workmen hurriedly shored the west wall of the building, which cracked outward and for a time threatened to give way.

Neither Dr. Crouch nor Haile could give estimates of damage, but Haile said it would be "plenty." Most food stuffs in the store other than canned goods, meats, and frozen items, were water-damaged.

Haile said items in the store not damaged by water will be moved to H&J's No. 1 store at First and Centre streets until other arrangements can be made.

Tank Designed To Alleviate Peak Shortages

Purchase of a tract of land west of the city for construction of a proposed reservoir was revealed in Wednesday night's city council meeting by a council committee.

The tract is 200 feet by 200 feet and will be bought for $600 by the city.

Final details of the purchase have not yet been completed, according to city officials, pending description of the property, but is expected to be completed in the near future.

The site, about three miles west, is large enough for construction of either a 2 million or 3 million gallon reservoir which the city council is negotiating to build.

Engineers Recommend— The site was recommended by Herkenhoff & Turney, Santa Fe engineering firm under contract to the city.

Alternative plans for both size reservoirs will be submitted to the city council by the engineering firm, it has been stated in previous discussions.

The council will also include an easement for a pipeline connecting the reservoir to the city's existing water system.

When built, the reservoir is designed to ease the city's recurring problem of low water pressure during periods of peak usage.

City water system now in operation is a direct pressure system with no provisions for storage. The city's seven water wells pump directly into water mains.

Peak Demand Heavy— While wells can pump enough water over a 24-hour period to more than meet the city's need, they cannot keep up with peak demands from about 5 p. m. through 9 p. m., the period of heaviest usage.

During slack hours wells will pump water to the reservoir, which will release stored water during peak hours when pumps cannot keep pace with demand.

Construction of the reservoir earlier, some councilmen have pointed out, would have eased a water shortage threat for the coming summer months now hanging over the city.

Councilmen have been seeking to alleviate the threat by purchasing an additional well as an emergency, standby supply for the current year until the reservoir can be constructed.

City Authorizes Hiring Hospital Business Manager

Authorization for the board of Artesia General hospital to hire a business administrator at $400 a month was given Wednesday night by the city council.

The action came after revelation the hospital could not now keep up with financial book work. Recommended for the job was Frank Smith of Albuquerque.

Final decision will be up to the hospital board. Smith for eight years managed the tuberculosis hospital at Socorro, and has had insurance business experience. He is presently in real estate in Albuquerque.

Rain!

Artesia received its heaviest rainfall since July 1952 Wednesday night when a downpour dumped 1 inch of rainfall in a general rain across Southeastern New Mexico.

Driving rain which began about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday and continued for hours quickly filled city streets and drenched area farms.

Wednesday night's cloudburst brought rainfall in the Artesia area to a total of 1.75 inches thus far in 1953.

The area's ranchers and farmers generally regarded the rain as beneficial, especially in the western part of Eddy county.

Rain which threatened the city Tuesday night never materialized, but fell at Loco Hills in a localized shower.

Wednesday night's downpour was preceded by a dust storm which was swept across the city by high winds.

The rainfall made May the wettest month since July 1952, when 1.42 inches of rain fell. A 35-inch rain May 14 and Wednesday's rain brings total for May to 1.35 inches.

Funeral for Artesian Killed In Auto Wreck to Be Sunday

Funeral services for Leon S. Schnaubert, 38-year-old Artesian man killed early Wednesday morning in an auto accident, will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon in Carlsbad.

Services will be in the Carpenter Funeral Home, Carlsbad, with Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor of the First Baptist church, Artesia, officiating.

Active pallbearers will be Denzil Nelson, Louis C. Baker, Dave Burton, and Thad Cox, Artesia; Walter Richards, Roswell; and B. F. Gorey, Carlsbad.

Interment will be in a Carlsbad cemetery. Schnaubert was killed at 4 a. m. Wednesday when his car overturning 20 miles north of Carlsbad on U.S. 285. He was riding alone. State Patrolman Bob Journey of Carlsbad said Mr. Schnaubert evidently fell asleep. His car apparently went on the right shoulder of the highway, and when Mr. Schnaubert attempted to bring it back on the road, overturned.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Irene Dunham Schnaubert, and two children, Kay Marie and Karen; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Schnaubert of Carlsbad; and two brothers, Tootsie and Pete Schnaubert, Hobbs.

At the time of his death he was general sales manager for Cox Motor Co. of Artesia. He was born April 22, 1915, at Rankin, Texas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Schnaubert. He came to Eddy county in 1923 with his family.

He was graduated from Carlsbad high school in 1935 and after graduation was employed for a time as a guide at Carlsbad Caverns. He attended Oklahoma university at Norman in 1936 and 1937, majoring in geology. He worked at potting (Continued on Page Eight)

Grads Optimistic For Future

Graduating seniors Thursday night expressed a cautious optimism for their future depending on self-conduct toward spiritual, rather than material, achievement.

A noticeable shift in thinking expressed in speeches by representatives of the class indicated a grave but stubbornly confident attitude toward life beyond the protective walls of secondary education.

Theme for the commencement program was "Give the World Your Best and the Best Will Come Back to You."

Glenn Bratcher, first speaker, told more than 900 attending exercises that "we are not all dressed up with an education and no place to go."

"We have exuberance and enthusiasms of youth, and believe it or not, deep thinking," he said. "Our duty is preservation of our Christian democracy," he declared.

Philip Dillard declared that "everyone has talent," defining it as "doing easily what others find difficult."

Since talent is not achieved but rather endowed by God, it cannot properly be kept to oneself, Dillard said.

"By giving the very best of our individual talent to the world," he said, "the best in the world comes back to us."

Travis Zeleny declared that while nothing is so precious as time, the American people today seemingly have become enslaved to systems of keeping track of time.

"It might be better," Zeleny declared "if we should consider our place in eternity, rather than measuring time by minutes and hours."

"We should weigh our activities," he continued, "so that we may do a few things well, rather than spread time over a great many things."

and love are the greatest things in the world, and are the road to peace, security, and a better life.

Friendship, when practiced with more than a few individuals, is the foundation of trust and justice, Miss Johnson said. "The best way to get a friend is to be a friend," she added.

Jean Coll pointed out world events have caused America to rediscover those precious things which make this nation the hope of the world.

Taking a firm stand against giveaways of arms, foods, and dollars, she called for the new generation to instead give of its talents through skilled doctors, religious workers, engineers, and other specialists.

"I would like everyone here tonight to try dropping a little pebble of love into the sea of life," Miss Coll said, "so that its spreading ripples might bring peace to this earth."

Outstanding Values, Big Variety Await North Eddy Shoppers On Dollar Day

Outstanding values and a wide variety of merchandise await the shopping public in Artesia's retail trade area next Thursday, the city's first Dollar Day, according to a survey by the Artesia Advocate among participating merchants.

Advance copy for special advertising in the next issue of the Advocate, which will be distributed Wednesday, indicate Artesia merchants are fully cooperating in plans for the Dollar Day.

Most merchants are offering values for the shopping public well beyond the expectations of the Chamber of Commerce, which is coordinating the program.

Promotion of the Dollar Day has been coordinated to blanket North Eddy county. More than 2,000 extra copies of next Wednesday's Artesia Advocate with advertisements carrying the news of hundreds of shopping bargains will be distributed in rural and mountain areas of the region.

Leaflets have been prepared by the Chamber of Commerce for distribution throughout the region. Initial mailings of leaflets have already gone out, according to C. C. Mgr. Paul W. Scott.

Also tying in with the first Dollar Day is "Courtesy Week," which features a contest to choose the most courteous retail and service industry personnel.

Many salespeople in Artesia firms have had specialized technique training in saleswork, with the stress on courtesy and service to the customer, in a three-day sales course conducted by professionals coming to the city recently.

Scott said spot checks among participating merchants indicate full cooperation with the Dollar Days program. "We outlined a program by which Artesia business could build its volume through offering what the people want in their stores," Scott said. "The merchants have responded in a splendid way. Shoppers in the Artesia area will benefit through this far-sighted program."

Driveway Entrances Ruled Out

Artesia residents who have built driveways to their driveways by laying pipe in gutters, then pouring concrete over it, are going to have to tear them out.

Police Crackdown on Right-Turn Violators Ordered

Motorists failing to fully stop at red light right-of-way to pedestrians on right-hand turns in the city are the subject of a traffic violation ordered after a considerable number of complaints.

City officials said residents, especially pedestrians, are protesting motorists making right turns on red lights to yield the right-of-way.

Police also indicate motorists making a right-hand turn on a red light should be a signal for the driver to stop.

Attorney Neil Watson pointed out the city ordinance governing right-hand turns:

"The driver of a motor vehicle shall be a signal for the driver to stop at a red light, provided, however, that the driver is proceeding on a complete stop at a red light and the vehicle may turn to the right provided the way is clear of pedestrians and other vehicles."

City attorney pointed out that the ordinance specifies a complete stop rather than a "rolling stop," which is a violation of the ordinance. Failing to give pedestrians the right-of-way or failing to fully stop at a red light before making a right-hand turn is $1 to $25.

City attorney said Police Chief Powell has been notified of complaints and pledged cooperation in arresting violators.

Local Doctor Discusses Causes Of Headache

Probably more people complain of headaches than of any other ailment of the body—headaches, with all their unpleasant consequences, headaches that leave the body sometimes almost powerless. But whatever the type of headache and whether it be acute or chronic, it is important to remember that without a primary cause a headache could not exist.

What is this primary cause? In most cases it is subluxated (misaligned) vertebra which pinches nerve fibers and so cuts off their normal supply of vital life force. Thus, the organ so cut off from this supply cannot function properly and headaches result.

The Chiropractor locates this subluxated vertebra. Then he adjusts the subluxation. After the subluxation is removed thru the adjustment, all parts of the body again receive the vital life force they need, and the process of health restoration can begin.

If you have been suffering from headaches, no matter for how long, now is the time to see your Chiropractor.

It is not right to say "everything possible has been done" unless Chiropractic is included!

For further information about Chiropractic, you are invited to consult Dr. Kathryn Behnke, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, or phone 861.

Poppy Day Fund Falls Below Previous Years

Although not as much money was donated this year as last year on Poppy Day, Poppy Day contributions were still "good," according to Mrs. John Simons, Sr., poppy chairman of the Clarence Kepple unit 41, American Legion Auxiliary.

Artesia has a great number of calls for assistance each year from this poppy fund. During the past year 17 children were assisted with $711.53 in cash and value for clothing, food, medical aid, rent, and Christmas toys. Mrs. John Lively, child welfare chairman has been in charge of this program, which included helping each child attend church and Sunday school of his choice.

Mrs. J. L. Briscoe, chairman for rehabilitation, has helped with ward parties in the Veterans hospitals, made cash donations to the veterans gift shop and helped furnish a solarium at Fort Bayard hospital. This money is also derived from the poppy donations.

These funds may not be used for any purpose other than child welfare and rehabilitation. The Legion and auxiliary has one of the largest child welfare programs in the country.

Artesia Girl Scouts Warned Only Few Campings Remain at Camp Mary White

Artesia Girl Scouts who are preparing for the summer camp at Camp Mary White this year are urged to hurry with their registrations as two sessions are already full and the remaining spots are rapidly filling up.

Registrations for the summer camp are being handled by Miss Marjorie Neely, camp director, who will also be in charge of the sessions as follows: June 14 to 21, one week session; June 22 to 29, two week session; July 5 to 19, with seven sessions; and July 19 to 26, with four sessions.

Registrations have come in from all over New Mexico and Texas, and also from Kansas, Oklahoma and Arizona. Artesia girls' registrations have been lagging behind but are now catching up and therefore are expected to be completed in a few days.

The camp is progressing for a complete and interesting camping program. There will be craft work in addition to the usual camping activities, such as whitewater rafting, and camp crafts. The girls will make their own tents and use their own camp uniforms.

City to Probe Oil Discharge Into Sewers

City water system and plumbing inspectors have been ordered to investigate oil waste discharged into the city sewer system, which has damaged farm land and flowed to the Pecos river.

The action was taken after Councilman E. E. Gillespie reported Wednesday night that some service stations in the city are remaining operating improper traps on their sewer systems. Traps to catch the waste oil and grease are supposed to be periodically cleaned.

City officials said allowing wing oil and grease to run into the sewer system may incur damage suits against the city and cause damage to the city's new sewage disposal plant.

Altitude Varies Pressure Cooking Requirements

Do you know the proper pressure and cooking time for canning fruits, vegetables, and meats according to the altitude of your city or town? It's important to have this information says Miss Grace I. Neely, extension nutritionist at New Mexico A&M college.

"Proper pressure for any given altitude is absolutely necessary if you want a safe and tasty canned product," Miss Neely points out. "New Mexico cities and towns vary greatly in altitude, ranging from 3,100 feet above sea level at Carlsbad to 9,500 feet above sea level at Cloudercroft."

Localized Rain Tuesday Night Brings Out Loco Hills Frogs

Unbelievable chorus of croaking frogs greeted Loco Hills residents Tuesday evening. The frogs were everywhere, and their voices sounded almost musical for they hadn't been heard for months and months in this sun parched village which had known drought for so long.

Puddles and puddles of rain water stood in paths around houses and on the sides of the roads. The following morning some of the water was still seen, and this will give some idea of the amount of rain that fell for the land is mostly sand and the water usually drops right on down out of sight. There is no official record of the amount of rainfall kept in this spot.

For a refreshing change the air smelled sweet and clean after weeks of almost regular dust storms. However the houses showed evidence of a dust storm just before the rain.

The interesting thing about this is the question—where are the frogs when it does not rain? They are never seen. Do they bury up in the sand, maybe down deep enough to be in damp sand and how deep is that? What do they eat? It could stand some research.

George Ferriman To Complete Work In Trust Course

George H. Ferriman, assistant manager of the First National bank, will return during June to the graduate school of banking at Rutgers university for his third summer session.

With this session, which will be held on the university's campus in New Brunswick, N. J., June 8 through 20, he will complete his course at the school.

Ferriman is one of over 1,000 bank officers who will attend the two-week session of the school, sponsored by the American Bankers association. This student body from 44 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and El Salvador—represents a capacity enrollment.

The graduate school was founded in 1935 by the A.B.A. to provide an opportunity for advanced study for experienced bankers. The faculty for the 1953 session, numbering 67 regular members and 23 special lecturers, consists of outstanding bankers, lawyers, educators, bank supervisors, and government officials.

During the session, they will cover all phases of banking, economics, law, government, and related subjects. Four major subjects are offered by the school—commercial banking, trusts, investments, and savings management. Ferriman is majoring in trusts.

In addition to his three resident sessions at Rutgers to qualify for graduation, Ferriman must have completed two years of extension study at home and written a thesis based on original research in some phase of finance.

Mrs. Ferriman and their two sons, Bobbie and Michael, are also going with Ferriman and will visit during the summer with relatives in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. D. C. Blue plans to leave this morning for Globe, Ariz., to be with her father, W. H. Childress, who is ill.

Five Generations Reunited

Sunland Oil Seven-Well Lease Sold

Sunland Oil Company owners W. W. Byers and Mrs. G. P. Ruppert, sold a 120-acre lease with seven producing wells to C. E. Geiser and Son this week. The lease is located in the old oilfield about 12 miles east and 5 miles south of Artesia.

It has its own water well, which supplies enough water for a 65 barrel tank each day. A house is located on the lease. Son, Fred Geiser and his wife and infant son, Anthony David, plan to live on the lease. Fred will pump it. It will be operated as the Geiser Drilling Company lease.

The new owners plan some improvements at a later date, according to C. E. Geiser. He and his son own and operate rotary and cable tools in this area.

Byers has operated this lease for the Sunland Oil Co. since 1948. No price was given for the sale of the lease nor were any future plans of the Sunland Oil Co. announced.

Booker Oilfield Service Displays New Cruiser Unit

Glenn Booker Oilfield Servicing Co. purchased and displayed the first Cruiser Model Well Servicing Unit sold by the Franks Manufacturing Co. at the International Petroleum Exposition held recently in Tulsa, Okla.

Booker purchased the cruiser model for $35,320, mounted it on a new Mack truck and displayed it during the entire show.

This machine, the largest pulling unit of its kind in this area, can take care of any deep well here. It spools 15,000 feet of line, and is being brought down here from Tulsa now.

Booker flew up for the show and while there the Tulsa Daily World printed his picture and story in the Sunday, May 17, issue. Booker is shown standing by the new unit with the following officials of the Franks Manufacturing Co.

The 23rd National 4-H Club Camp will be held in Washington, D. C., June 17 to 24. The camp is held annually under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service of the Department and the Land-Grant colleges.

First Baptist Men Construct New Buildings

Since the First Baptist church building, constructed over 43 years ago, is being razed to make room for a new auditorium to be built in the near future, members of the church are meeting two nights each week to construct temporary buildings to house the various departments of the Sunday school until the new church building is built.

The construction is being supervised by Rev. S. M. Morgan and H.

San Angelo Colts Give 5-2 Licking to Artesia Drillers

San Angelo's Colt gave a 5-2 licking to the Artesia Driller in a game called after two out in the bottom of the ninth Wednesday night because of wind and rain.

Most Artesia fans made no complaint about the game being called. Two Artesia batters had struck out in the bottom half of the last frame, and the third batter had two strikes on him when the call was issued by officials.

San Angelo scored twice in the fifth on a single by John Jandron and a triple by John Tayoan. Artesia chalked up a single in the sixth when Vince DiGiantomasso came in on walks and a foul ball catch.

Both teams scored in the seventh, San Angelo with Tayoan's single, brought home by Rudy Briner's single, Artesia with a double by Herminio Reyes and single by Paul Halter.

The Colts scored once more in the ninth when Jandron singled, advanced on Tayoan's single and came home on an error.

Reyes went the route for Artesia, giving up 10 well-spaced hits to the Colts. Gil Guerra and Marion Saldang gave only four hits to the Drillers.

San Angelo was credited with two errors, Artesia one.

Line score:
San Angelo 000 020 101-5 10 3

Visitors included Jack Campbell, W. W. Wilson, Thornton H. Boswell, Jr., and Jess Milly, all of Roswell.

CHECK these advantages of SOIL-CEMENT for light-traffic streets

ECONOMY

Soil-cement pavement is low cost because: (1) about 85 per cent of the required material is usually local soil already on the street and (2) it is easy and fast to build. Economy is important to taxpayers.

ADAPTABILITY

Whether your local street is now dirt, gravel or stone, it can be transformed into strong, long-lasting pavement with soil-cement. Soil-cement streets can be built and used under a wide range of weather conditions.

DURABILITY

The durability of soil-cement for local streets has been proved by years of all-weather service at low-maintenance expense. Thousands of miles of dependable soil-cement pavement are now in use in the United States.

Good Cause to Back

ARTESIA'S COMMITTEE for the Salvation Army, headed by E. B. Bullock, a veteran of 33 year's work for the Army, is currently conducting its annual fund campaign, seeking $2,500.

Probably no organization in the community seeks less publicity as it goes about its good work.

The Salvation Army, chartered by the State of New York in 1893, is defined as an organization "designed to operate as a religious and charitable corporation in all the states and territories of the United States."

The charter provides that purpose of the Salvation Army is the spiritual, moral, and physical reformation of all who need it; the reclamation of the vicious, criminal, dissolute, and degraded; visitation among the poor and lowly and sick; and the preaching of the gospel and dissemination of Christian truth by means of open-air and indoor meetings.

The Salvation Army is also chartered to establish a wide variety of homes and institutions to carry out those purposes and to carry out business activities from which the profits and proceeds are devoted exclusively to religious and humanitarian pursuits.

In its fifty-fourth year the Salvation Army operates on a tremendous scope devoted to furthering that program of action. In Artesia its aids destitute families and individuals in the city who need emergency cash, and transients passing through the city who find themselves without funds—usually because of emergency expenses—to proceed on their way.

Artesia also contributes, when it gives to the Salvation Army, to support of a home for unwed mothers in El Paso, where understanding and untiring effort is directed toward helping each work out her own best plan.

Salvation Army social service—putting religion in practice—takes other channels, such as its family service to relieve acute material needs, prison work to promote character-building among inmates, and a tremendous burden of work in aiding the desperately needy in flood, victims of flood, fire, and other disasters.

No contribution is too small for the frugal Salvation Army in its ceaseless work. No fireball organization, which talks more than it acts, the Salvation Army is deserving and needing of support and community backing.

It Will Help

EDUCATORS HAVE once again sought the advice of laymen, this time in an all-day conference held in a Philadelphia suburb.

It was a conference, according to press reports, in which educators sought the advice of laymen from civic and other organizations on how to improve and strengthen the nation's school system as well as how to combat the wave of hysteria created by what has been described as "fear-creating groups."

It was proposed that the local community be brought in behind the schools by drawing it into closer contact with the schools and their problems.

Reports say it was apparent at this conference that educators have come out fighting. They evidently feel that the time has come to shift from a negative defense to a positive offense in behalf of the system which they represented.

More and more, professional educators are coming to feel that public interest in the schools—which more and more is awakening—can be turned into constructive channels. Educators are successfully downing the feeling in themselves that laymen are seeking to usurp their authority and responsibility. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Laymen today are showing stronger interest in every phase of American culture, from better music, more active religion, to sharing in the schools responsibility for the development of our young people.

The educators who realize this, as they already have in Artesia, are in step with one phase of a significant development in American affairs.

Doing It Right

ARTESIA MERCHANTS are doing themselves proud in preparation for the city's first Dollar Day, scheduled for next Thursday, June 4.

Shoppers in the Artesia trade area from Cloudercroft to Maljamar, from Seven Rivers to Dexter, will find opportunities for real values in Artesia next Thursday.

But what is even more, they'll find shelves in local stores stacked with good merchandise, reasonably priced, in ample variety.

Artesia is dedicated now to a program of boosting itself as a shopping center. Merchants know there's only one way to do that. It's through an organized program to promote courtesy toward the shopper, attractive shopping centers, ample merchandise stocks reasonably priced, and promotion.

Artesia's merchants know that to offer cheap merchandise at high prices is no way to build up trade and good will that will stay with the city on the long pull.

That's why shoppers will find genuine bargains, courteous salespeople, pleasant and comfortable surroundings, and good stocks of merchandise with reasonable price tags when they take advantage of Dollar Day next Thursday, June 4—opportunity day for Artesia area shoppers.

Two-Cent Tax Hike

THE WIRE SERVICES say Commissioner Ralph Jones, chairman of the state highway commission, is taking the lead in boosting the idea of hiking the state's gasoline tax another two cents.

According to one report, the matter came up when a Curry county delegation was present at a commission meeting. Jones is reported to have said, "If the people of New Mexico want increased road building, they will have to pay for it."

If they add two more cents per gallon on the price of gasoline, we're ready to go along with outfit which has been agitating to change the name from "gasoline" to "taxoline."

The Estill Fund

ARTESIA IS FORTUNATE to be able to take a direct part in one of Christendom's most significant conferences as world Christianity battles Communism, materialism, secularism, and other forces which have acted to throw a challenge at our basic beliefs.

Milford Estill of Artesia, an attorney who is active in his Christian beliefs, is one of seven laymen to be chosen in the United States as a member of the Butler university school of religion touring study of the church and special problems in Europe this summer.

Climax of the study group's tour will be attendance at the great men's meeting of the German Evangelical church this summer.

Taking part in this study group involves personal sacrifice for Estill. It means closing his office for two months, thereby losing his income for that period when expenses will be so high. Estill not only must provide for his family, but is faced with the $1,500 direct cost of the tour for transportation, lodging, and food. There are many other miscellaneous expenses encountered on such a tour beside the direct expenses for necessities.

It is with this in mind that Estill's friends, impressed with importance of his mission, have undertaken to underwrite cost of the tour itself.

The Artesia Advocate is glad to act as recipient for contributions to the Estill Fund. Rev. Orvan Gilstrap, pastor of the First Christian church, is receiving contributions. No gift is too small to give an Artesia resident a feeling of directly taking part in this mission of universal importance.

I LOVE MY WIFE, BUT OH, YOU KID!

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—

Outraged Drivers' Yells Indicate Radar Net Traps Violators Speeding on State's Roads

RADAR SYSTEM WORKS

The highest compliments that could be paid state police officers of McKinley county in their current drive against speeding are the yells of the drivers who get caught. The yells prove the radar system works.

There is considerable unhappiness on the part of the fast drivers when they find the hidden eyes of a radar measuring device have been upon them. They feel like they have been sneaked up on.

Officers have long sought a method to catch speeders that will stand up in court. On the old patrol method, it is often the policeman's word against the driver's. There are very few attempts to argue with the evidence from the radar device.

Most of the unhappiness about the radar "trap" in McKinley county is not for ourselves, but for the out-of-state visitors who pass through. The visitor gets mad and spreads unfavorable reports in his home locale about New Mexico and its highways, so the protesters reason.

Capt. Bob Scroggins and his officers have been more than fair to these visiting offenders. The state speed law by day is 60 miles per hour. When a driver is caught between 60 and 70 mph, he is warned, but not arrested. Only those at 70 and above are brought to court.

We applaud the work of the officers. Numerous studies have shown that speeding is the number one crime on the highways. And one of the finer points of the radar system is that it prevents speeding, that is, when the driver knows of the possibility of his being caught.

Would it not be good then, to warn all drivers they are in an area where they may be caught? A sign attached to the speed limit signs that said "Radar Patrolled" would do the job well. Then, all drivers would slow down—all except the most reckless. And they should be prosecuted.—Gallop Independent.

WE'LL BACK BRYAN

We don't know how Carlbad's Mayor Walker Bryan would do in that Clovis contest to pick the champion milker among the mayors of the east side. The contest is a stunt of the Clovis Pioneer Days.

We will say this, though, there isn't a more conscientious mayor in New Mexico than Walker Bryan in lending his name and office to civic events. We often wonder how many times Bryan has posed with a straw hat, a catcher's mask, in front of a poster, how many times he has gone to dinners and banquets and meetings when he'd much prefer to stay home—and always good humored about it. We've never heard him complain once.

I've no wonder the boys are not responding this year. Many of them can play more ball at home in the front room than they played last year, under supposedly leadership.

It seems to me that the game was made for the boy and not the boy for the game. Why limit the league to 10 teams? Why not supply as many teams as you have boys to play? Boys are not going

RETURN HOME AND INTEREST

Chambers of Commerce in pressing for an increase of two cents per gallon on gasoline sales.

Jones told the same thing to other delegations, making top news in state affairs for the day, inasmuch his suggestion is contrary to what the people want.

No Chamber of Commerce with any judgment at all is going to get behind Jones' suggestion, and if one should exercise such bad judgment no doubt its membership would rise up in indignation.

It is realized that New Mexico is a big state, and that it costs a lot of money to maintain its highway system, and that probably there isn't enough money available to build roads to please everyone, or even to satisfy the actual needs.

But, the people have not been convinced that it is necessary to raise the gasoline tax higher and higher in order to do it. The state now has one of the highest gas tax rates in the United States, and our tourist business, one of the big economic factors, complains about the high cost of gasoline, due to the present enormous tax.

Therefore, so far as the people are concerned, it isn't going to be a popular thing to press for another two cents tax, until it has been proved that better management won't provide enough road construction to keep them satisfied.—Roswell Record.

OUR READERS WRITE—

Father Believes Little League Should Strive to Let Boys Play

To the Editor, Artesia Advocate: It is no wonder to me that "Little League" is stymied, and here I believe the fault is being placed at the wrong door. It is not the fault of the boys that the league failed, but the sponsors, and management. Let's start from the beginning.

Last year over 200 boys reported the first, and many more the second day (mine was one of them) looking for a man to tell them what to do (give them a ball and they know what to do). A half-hearted attempt was made at organization, that in my opinion never did succeed for several reasons, for instance—

My boy was kicked from team to team, never knowing where he was, and many were the afternoons I've gone after him and he would come running to the car saying, "Oh, daddy, I'm going to get to play this next inning. Do you know that was the inning that never came because the ball game was over?"

I've no wonder the boys are not responding this year. Many of them can play more ball at home in the front room than they played last year, under supposedly leadership.

It seems to me that the game was made for the boy and not the boy for the game. Why limit the league to 10 teams? Why not supply as many teams as you have boys to play? Boys are not going to warm a bench day after day, after day, in the hopes of getting to play next inning.

If the league is limited to 10 teams then 10 times nine is all the players you are going to have. There should be enough teams so that every boy could play every day. The success is not on the number of boys reporting, but on the number of boys playing.

When that boy had his father or mother to get a piece of paper notarized he thought he was going to get to play ball, when in reality the paper assured the league that it was in no way responsible for the welfare of the boy, from the standpoint of physical safety, or recreational intent.

When the boy wants to play ball, he wants to play ball. The only way the league can regain the confidence of the boys is to prove to him that he is at the heart of the league, rather than the league itself.

Boys do not care whether they have an audience or not. He wants to release some of that energy stored up inside of that potential man—he can't do it sitting on a bench.

Let every boy play ball every day he reports and you will have more boys than you had last season. If you want 10 teams then go handpick 90 boys for stop blaming the others for not reporting.

Sincerely,
A BOY'S FATHER.

COFFEE TALK—

Downpour Wednesday Night Refills All Empty Recreation Lakes in City

PERHAPS THE OUTSTANDING benefit of Wednesday night's rain was refilling of all the empty lakes throughout the city, which have been dry since the last rain-storm.

The city's drainage system is designed so as to empty rain-storm water into selected spots, providing lakes for recreation purposes.

Two gentlemen in the hospital area, fortunate enough to have these lakes in front of their homes, were busy Thursday morning contacting state game department officials to have the lakes stocked with fingerling trout so as to take full advantage of them.

CITY COUNCILMEN ARE debating best ways to catch hot rodders who use the airport apron and runways to test out their souped-up jobs.

One youth rather proudly reported to a local garage man who happens to be on the council that his Oldsmobile, after an overhaul job, made 127 miles an hour on the airport runways.

The problem is this: A. H. "Shug" Hazel says he can't catch that kind of car with his fuiver. City officials don't think the city's stock police cars, which aren't souped-up, can catch them either.

There was brief consideration of having Hazel chase the culprits down with an airplane, but after some discussion, this was abandoned.

Now the city fathers think that if the State Police or deputy sheriffs can't go fast enough to catch the kids, the only thing to do is to post police cars at the two gates to keep the hot-rodders in the airport grounds until the kids run out of gas, then go arrest 'em.

NEW MEXICO MAGAZINE, cut off from money it was using for color spreads, is trying to make up for the lack by using better black and white layouts, as seen in its current June issue which arrived the other day.

The magazine seems rather plagued with troubles, on top of which is stiff competition from the livelier, color-illustrated Sun Trails, published privately by an Albuquerque firm. New Mexico magazine seems like something of a stepchild, an unworkable combination of highway and game department journals and a tourist magazine which doesn't know whether its being written for the benefit of home folks or for out-of-staters it is trying to attract to New Mexico.

YOU FOLKS WHO KNOW something of photography can appreciate the troubles. An Advocate staffer ran into the other night in trying to develop some film.

Chemicals work best at 60 degrees and in this hot weather have to be cooled down to that temperature by sitting in a sink filled with water and ice cubes. But problems of domesticity fouled up the work the other night, for just when several rolls were to be developed, it was discovered the distasteful side was defrosting the non-automatic refrigerator—no ice cubes, and so no developing.

But Leone Studio obliged as usual with rush service in developing the roll and getting prints out in time for today's paper.

SERVICE CLUBS ARE GOING to get a broad hint from the city council's park committee, headed by George Ferriman, that they adopt the parks as one of their projects.

Parks need playground equipment, trash receptacles (there's only one to see 10 or 12 papers in Municipal Park near the ball field), and other items, which while minor in cost, still are beyond the committee's limited budget.

Besides, the committee hopes to use its money for the 1953-54 fiscal year to pave the roads at Municipal Park, taking another step toward making it one of the nicest city parks in Southeastern New Mexico.

FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

Dempsey Believes Only Hope for Promised Tax Cut Now With Congress

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Congressman from New Mexico

WASHINGTON, May 28 — The only remaining hope for the American people have for fulfillment of campaign promises made to them last fall to eliminate waste, reckless and needless spending, balance the federal budget and reduce the ruinous tax burden, now rests with the individual members of the Congress, regardless of partisan affiliation.

The administration and the majority party leaders have apparently, as was charged by Chairman Daniel Reed (R-N.Y.) of the House ways and means committee, "sundered to the spenders." Those of us who have been supporting Chairman Reed's bill for reduction of the individual income tax effective July 1 of this year, are forced to share that view.

Announcement by the President of the administration's determination to seek extension of the excess profits tax from June 30 to December 31 of this year, extension of regular corporate income tax of 52 per cent beyond April 1, 1954, extension of existing excise taxes through 1954, and opposition to reduction of the individual income tax before Jan. 1, 1954, has brought the strongest protest from the public since the new administration took office. It is that protest, entirely nonpartisan in its source, that may eventually aid the economy bloc in the Congress to achieve its goal, at least in part.

The administration's spending program, as nearly as it can be analyzed at this time, contemplates a budget total of more than 74 billion in 1954 fiscal year. That is $4 billion more than Senator

Taft (R-Ohio) announced on Sept. 12, 1952, that he and General Eisenhower had agreed upon in their policy-determining breakfast conference. Senator Taft said further they had agreed upon a $60 billion total for fiscal year 1955.

Chairman John Taber (R-N.Y.) of the House appropriations committee, has announced on several occasions that he believed the budget could be cut as low as $66 billion for fiscal 1954. It has been my opinion, frequently stated, that the maximum budget requirement for that year could not reasonably exceed $68 billion. That is still my firm conviction.

The administration proposal contemplates a deficit—an unbalanced budget—based on estimated income from all forms of taxation amounting to $68.5 billion. For that reason it opposes the promised tax reduction. The President, in his radio address to the nation said "that, for the long term, present taxes are too high" and that they are "becoming a real threat to individual initiative."

What the administration tax advisors failed to tell the President is that the point of diminishing returns from the present scale of tax rates already has been reached and that revenues will continue to decline until tax reduction restores incentive to produce and earn.

They could have pointed out to the President something many of us in the Congress realize—that both Canada and Great Britain have reduced taxes because, like ours, their system of incentives had broken down and government income had dropped off.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

HEAD OF AN R.O.T.C. unit at an Eastern college is an old bomber squadron chief who never tires of pointing out the supremacy of the Air Corps. He buttonholed a senior just before graduation and gave his usual service sales talk. The senior, whose girl was waiting for him in the Quadrangle, listened with ill-concealed impatience. Finally the old fly-boy said, "Of course, the choice is yours. Have you decided yet what branch you'll enter?" The senior answered: "Yes, sir. I'm emphatically for anti-aircraft!"

A lady won a divorce on rather unusual, if adequate grounds. She testified that her husband "was always trying to tattoo me so he could open a fresh show."

Six Members of Girl Scout Troop 12 Receive First Class Pins in Ceremony

Girl Scout troop 12 awarded first class Scout pins to six of its members Tuesday evening at the Howard Whitson home. The ceremony began with the presentation of colors. Flag bearers were Marjorie Herbert and Charlotte Champion. Color guards were Marion Riley and Michelle Ruppert. The pledge of allegiance followed and Linda Beene gave a poem, "Our Flag."

Music for the program consisted of a clarinet solo by Charlotte Champion, a clarinet and piano duet by Marjorie Herbert and Mary Margaret Whitson. Piano solos by Marie Limes, Marion Riley and Linda Beene.

Lou Ann Siegenthaler and Linda Beene sang a duet, "Charley M. Boy." Mary Margaret Whitson gave a reading, "New York of the Clouds" and the group sang "Tell Me Why" and closed with "Peace."

The six girls receiving first class pins were Mary Margaret Whitson, Marion Riley, Marjorie Herbert, Michelle Ruppert, Charlotte Champion and Gretchen Petty, who was unable to attend. Mrs. Donald Knorr made the presentation.

Following the program, Mrs. C. R. Blocker, sponsor of the group, served punch, chicken salad sandwiches and toll house cookies to the troop and leader, Mrs. James Lyree and Mrs. C. P. Bunch, a guest.

Cross-trained in swimming instruction.

The program is designed for school-age youngsters.

While a child may start and finish at any time, Smith pointed out that most benefit from the program is achieved through daily participation on a regular basis. A youngster who regularly misses lessons will drop behind other pupils in his class.

Safety Value—

Smith declared the program is especially important from a safety standpoint. Many vacationers lose their lives because they either do not know how to swim or are not accompanied by friends trained in life-saving. Many servicemen lost their lives during World War II through not knowing how to swim, he added.

The summer recreation program is open to all children of school age.

In 1949, Major Edenbo was returned to Europe, this time to see duty with the gigantic task of the German airlift.

In January 1950 he was again sent overseas, this time to Guam in the Pacific to become a member of the 19th Bomb Group. The 19th Bomb Group was the first United States Air Force outfit to see action over Korea.

He flew 65 missions over Korea in B-29 aircraft.

Heavily Decorated—

The major's decorations include the Silver Star, DFC with cluster, Commendation Medal, Purple Heart, and the Air Medal with six oak leaf clusters.

He was assigned to Walker Air Force Base in May 1951 and assigned to the 40th Bomb Squadron of the 6th Bomb Wing.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Edenbo, South Connellyville, Pa., is married and has one child, Diane.

—Tentatively agreed to act as host June 15 to Southeastern New Mexico cities for demonstration of a new sanitary land fill machine by the United States public health service. Sanitarian Richard Swartz told the council Artesia is one of seven cities in the state selected for the demonstration.

—Gave Rev. Jimmy Horton assurance water would be supplied to a cemetery located just east of Woodbine cemetery and authorized use of the city's grader to prepare site for Bethel Baptist church building plans.

Street Problems—

—Heard George Keys outline a situation on Sears in the new residential housing development where earth has been removed from the street, creating a drainage problem. The city agreed to investigate the matter.

—Had a report from Mayor J. L. Briscoe that 95 blocks of paving have been completed in the city since the current council took office last May.

—Confirmed appointment of Louis Arnold as a city policeman.

—Agreed to authorize a salary of $300 a month to employ a water meter reader after water supervisor Red Vaughan explained present salaries could not retain a man on the job for any period of time.
