Bradbury Named Senior High School Band Director

Appointment of Justin D. Bradbury as Senior high school band director was announced this week by the Artesia public school board. Bradbury's appointment is effective Aug. 1, when he will return to the city to begin band organization for the next school year.

Bradbury entered the Artesia school system last fall, when he became director of Junior high school bands.

Prior to coming to Artesia, he was associate band director and brass instructor at Indiana State Teachers college, Terre Haute, Ind.

JUSTIN D. BRADBURY

He succeeds Ben H. Stevens as Senior High band director. Bradbury, school authorities said, will begin organizing Senior high school band soon after his return about Aug. 1.

Before joining the Indiana State Teacher's college staff, he was for three years bandmaster and band leader of the 632nd Army Air Force band during the war.

For two years prior to the war he was band director of Sunset high school in Dallas.

Band Recognized—

He has also had seven years in the Oakland (Ind.) public schools as director of band and orchestra. Under his direction the organizations received state-wide recognition.

Bradbury is a past president of the Indiana School Music association, Indiana's official contest group; a past executive board member of the Indiana Music Educators association; member of brass ensembles committee, National Association of College Band Directors; member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national honorary music fraternity for men; and member of the Music Educators National Conference and New Mexico Music Educators association.

He attended Oberlin college in Ohio and received his BA from Iowa Wesleyan college. His MA was earned at Indiana State Teachers college. He specialized in training on instruments at Vandercook School of Music, Chicago, and received advanced graduate study in music at the State University of Iowa.

Frequently Judges—

Bradbury has served extensively as adjudicator in band, solo, and ensemble contests in the Midwest, and served as festival clinician and critic judge at several Midwest festivals.

His wife, Virginia, a native of Iowa, is a graduate of Iowa Wesleyan college and has worked toward her MA at Indiana State Teachers college.

During the past year, Mrs. Bradbury taught home-bound children unable to attend public school classrooms.

They have a daughter, Karen, 10, who is a fifth grader at Central school.

Parking Fines Now Payable Only to Judge

Under a change by the city council, Artesia residents and visitors issued parking meter violation tickets can pay the tickets only to the city police judge or his secretary.

A ruling issued by the council police committee forbids city police officers to receive parking meter fine money as has been the custom in the past.

Under the new procedure, those with parking tickets must pay their tickets between 8 and 12 a. m. and 1 and 5 p. m., when the police judge and his secretary are on duty.

The council committee's action was taken to avoid confusion in handling of fine money.

Police Ordered to Start Continuous Holiday Patrol of State Highways, Drivers Cautioned

State police have been ordered to patrol New Mexico highways every possible moment of the July Fourth holiday week-end, Patrolman Arnold J. Smith said in Artesia Thursday.

Officers have been ordered to begin their patrol today and continue through late Sunday, Patrolman Smith added.

National Safety Council officials have issued a gloomy prediction that the nation's Fourth of July fatalities and injuries this year will be the heaviest for the holiday in history.

Patrolman Smith cautioned drivers especially to be careful when returning home from holiday trips.

Property Value Up $1,235,342 Over Last Year

Assessed valuation of property in Artesia is up $1 1-4 million over a year ago as the city starts a new fiscal year, according to budget records reviewed by state finance authorities here Tuesday.

Manuel Baca of Santa Fe, representing the state tax commission, Tuesday approved city budget of $459,471, up $2,957 over the budget for the fiscal year ended June 30.

The budget will be financed by the same tax rate as for 1952-53.

Assessed valuation of city property is up $1,235,342 this year over that for fiscal 1952, and up $1,797,582 over valuation for fiscal 1951.

Behind the increased valuation is heavy residential construction, a new school building, several new business houses, and additions to the city.

Total assessed valuation to property in Artesia is $8,762,684, compared to $7,527,243 for fiscal 1952.

Increases in the budget over a previously announced increase of $1,600 came from verbal approval given by Baca for a plan to extend either state or federal social security protection to city employees.

The decision must be made by the city council as to which type of social security to use.

Under the federal code, a 5 per cent levy on the total salary would be divided between the city as employer, and the employees, each paying 2 1/2 per cent.

Levy Is Lower—

Under the state code there is a 3 per cent levy, also divided between employer and the city.

Only $62,000 in bonded indebtedness showed on reports by the city to the tax commission. The $62,000 is the last of an issue raised for hospital additions.

The city has $464,000 outstanding in revenue bonds, which are not retired by taxation.

New Manager Is Named for Hotel, Lennon to Leave

Appointment of Kermit C. Duckworth as Artesia Hotel manager was announced this week as ownership of the property passed to J. N. Fisher, Dallas realtor, from Associated Hotels.

Ralph Lennon, manager of the hotel since 1948, will move the first of next week to Dallas. He will be manager of Associated Federal Hotels' new Miramar hotel-motel in Dallas.

Duckworth for 23 years served in the Hilton Hotel system, and comes to Artesia from his last assignment with the giant firm—management of Arrowhead Springs Hotel at San Bernardino, Calif.

He is a Lions club member, and has formerly lived in New Mexico, having been assigned to the Conchas Hotel at Tucumcari for 2 1/2 years beginning in 1948.

His wife, Berniece, will join him the first of the week.

Lennon on assuming management of the Miramar, located just at the edge of Dallas on the road to Fort Worth, will be assuming charge of a new, 95-unit combination motel-hotel.

It is located in the 1900 block on Fort Worth avenue on the outskirts of Dallas.

During his residence in Artesia he has been active in Lions club, Chamber of Commerce, Elks club, Country club, and other civic activities.

Fisher is owner of hotel properties and office buildings in Oklahoma and Texas.

Cotton Fields Turn Into Desert

Homer Staff, Lubbock, Tex., area conservationist, examines baked sand which accumulated on a cotton farm during severe dust storm.

As far as the eye can see, nothing but bare field with a few stunted plants. Staff is shown standing in the field, same cotton farm.

A FOUR-POINT emergency program has been announced by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson to aid drought-stricken areas of western Texas, declared a major disaster area by President Eisenhower. The program includes cash and credit, lowering of rail freight rates of expedite feed for cattle, stepping up of federal buying of meat and lower-grade livestock.

Tonight's North-South Game To Feature Player Contests

June Building Climbs Upward To $174,770

Building permits climbed in June to $174,770, the second highest monthly total of the year, to boost building in Artesia during the first half of the year to $663,085.66.

June's sharp upswing was in abrupt contrast to May, when permits had fallen to $24,550.

Biggest single item in June construction permits was authorization for the Presbyterian church to build a $98,500 building to house its sanctuary.

Other big items included a $12,000 addition to State Distributors building, and $8,000 remodeling and addition program by Dr. Robert Harper for his residence, $5,000 by Bethel Baptist church, $8,500 for a new bus station, and $5,500 to repair H&J No. 2 at Thirteenth and Main.

June with $174,770 was second only to March, when $210,720 worth of construction was authorized. The $663,085.66 total for the year is broken down as follows:

January $113,800, February $67,550, March $210,720, April $71,695.66, May $24,550, June $174,770.

Artesia Drillers and the Carlsbad Potashers return to Driller Park tonight in the second game of a two-game series. Tonight's contest will feature a field night contest.

Prior to tonight's North-South classic, the Field Night, slated for 7:30, will feature player contests, with prizes for winners. On the program are distance throwing and hitting, a 50-yard dash, barrel throwing, and toe and heel races.

Other refinements include an egg-tossing contest in which a fresh egg is thrown back and forth between two players as the players step away from each other, increasing the distance. The player in whose glove (or face or stomach) the egg breaks is judged the loser.

On the card for tomorrow night is a gala fireworks exhibit, with a 30-minute display scheduled to begin at 7:45.

Both ground and aerial exhibition are being set-up for the fireworks.

Sunday, when Artesia returns against Roswell, it will be Ladies Scatter Pin Night, with a free costume pin of a batter, pitcher, or catcher to be given the ladies. Gen. Mgr. Earl Perry describes the jeweled pins as a prize piece of costume jewelry for lady Driller fans.

Next Monday night, July 6, the Drillers will play the Jal Gassers in Artesia at Driller Park. Perry has publicly announced he will start on the mound for the Artesia Drillers and will pitch "as long as I can."

July 7 the Drillers will be idle. Scheduled for July 8 and 9 are contests at Roswell against the Rockets. The team returns to Artesia July 10 against Roswell, with the 10th designated as Rooster Mills Night.

Fair Association Is Approved By State Bureau

Approval for formation of the Eddy County Fair association to organize and conduct a non-profit fair in Eddy county was given this week by the state corporation commission.

Papers addressed to Paul L. Frost, chairman of the association, authorized the group to call themselves the Eddy County Fair association, Inc.

The association is authorized to raise funds, build grounds and buildings, and sponsor an annual fair and other events.

Turning Arms Required on Pickup Trucks

Directional turn signals are required on pick-up trucks as well as heavier motor vehicles, State Patrolman Arnold J. Smith reminded North Eddy county residents this week as a new state law requiring signals went into effect. On half and three-quarter ton trucks, semaphore arms may be used. On trucks one ton and over, directional lights must be used.

Drillers' Power Hides, Carlsbad Takes 6-2 Win

With the bases loaded in their favor and the score against them, Artesia's vaunted power row struck out in succession last night to give Carlsbad's Potashers a 6-2 win in Driller Park.

Last night's contest was the first in a two-game series, the second of which will be played at 8 p. m. tonight. Scheduled for 7:30, just before the game, is a player's Field Night.

While the hitting last night was close—8 for Carlsbad, 6 for Artesia, the Potashers concentrated theirs in the right spots.

Artesia pushed one over in the second when Les Mulcahy singled, advanced on an error, and came in on Joe Fortin's single.

But Carlsbad countered with three in the third, starting with Pedro Osorio's double, a walk by Gene Wulf, and a triple by Gene Grant, with walks loading the bases to force in Grant.

Carlsbad added another in the seventh when Wulf singled and came in on Merv Connors' single.

Artesia was good for another in the eighth when Joe Calderon singled, came in on singles by pinch hitter Bob Presley and Vince DiGiombasso.

Then with the bases loaded, Artesia wasn't equal to the challenge.

AAGA Extension Of Contracts Is Cancelled

Extension of bracero contracts scheduled for next Monday for contractors through the Artesia Alfalfa Growers association has been cancelled, according to Carl Foster, manager of the state employment security commission office here.

Foster said the contract extension forms were held up in the Mexican consulate office in El Paso. The extensions provide for subsistence of $1.20 a day when braceros are not working. The Mexican government holds it should be $1.50 a day.

Braceros will remain in the area under present contracts until the conflict between the U. S. and Mexican governments has been resolved, Foster said.

Firemen Asks Crack-Down on Fire Chasers, New Station

Artesia firemen advanced their idea for a new fire station to serve the south side of the city, plus new, stringent control over traffic interfering with firemen, during a meeting Monday night with city officials.

Fire Chief Albert Richards said a new fire station on city property in the south end of the city may be the answer to problems arising when fire equipment and volunteer firemen attempt to cross town.

City officials present said that while there is no provision for such a building in the new city budget which took effect July 1, the proposal merits attention.

Richards renewed a plea for cooperation from the press and from police in reducing interference with fire apparatus and firemen hurrying to a fire.

Too many city residents now chase fire equipment, the chief said. Since Artesia has a volunteer

Not Guilty Plea Entered By Two In Safe Case

Two men charged with breaking and entering into General Equipment Co. the night of June 12 entered pleas of not guilty Tuesday during their arraignment before Justice of Peace John Ellicott.

Ellicott set bond for both at $5,000 and ordered a preliminary hearing to be held next Tuesday, July 7.

The two men are charged with breaking and entering during the nighttime with intent to commit larceny. The offense is punishable by 1 to 3 years in the penitentiary.

The men are Edward Burke and Kenneth E. Powers, who have previous criminal records.

Meanwhile, police are pursuing an investigation for at least one other man believed connected with breaking and entering into General Equipment Co.

A warrant is out for a third suspect who to date has not been arrested.

June 12 General Equipment was broken into and an 800-pound safe stolen from the firm's office.

It was later found abandoned in a house near Lake Arthur. Burke, when arraigned, had a large wound in his forehead for which he asked treatment. He said the wound was caused when he was hit by police following his and Power's arrest in Missouri.

The two men were arrested while driving a car they had picked up in Oklahoma City after abandoning a car they had used to drive to Artesia.

Swimming Pool To Be Closed Saturday

Artesia's public swimming pool will not be open Saturday for the Fourth of July holiday, despite many requests, according to Mgr. John Daugherty.

The manager said sanitary requirements dictate weekly drainage, cleaning, and refill of the pool. It is customarily done on Saturday. If passed this week, Daugherty said, sanitary conditions in the pool could not be maintained.

The pool will be open Sunday, beginning at 2 p. m. Admission is 30 cents a person.

City Will Pay $6,495, Federal Bureau $8,505

Go-ahead for a $15,000 Artesia Municipal Airport improvement program was given Wednesday afternoon in a special meeting between city council members and a representative of the civil aeronautics administration.

Start of the work, which calls for a paved access road to the airport and a fence bordering the road, awaits only final plans.

The city's share in the project totals $6,495, the federal government's $8,505 on a 43 per cent-57 per cent sharing basis.

Paralels Taxiway— The access road will enter the airport on the east side, running parallel with the taxiway frequently used by autos to drive to airport administration buildings.

Signing the agreement for the federal government was Charles B. Worthley, district airport engineer for Arizona and New Mexico of the CAA.

Acting Mayor W. H. Yeager signed the agreement for the city.

Present at the meeting were Yeager and Councilmen E. E. Gillespie, Dr. J. J. Clarke, Jr., J. L. Walker, H. B. Gilmore, and H. A. Campbell.

Reports for radio station KSVP and the Artesia Advocate were called to the meeting to witness passage of a resolution, offered by Gilmore, giving final authorization for the joint airport improvement program.

Defers Big Program— The city has indefinitely deferred a program calling for approximately $30,000 of airport improvement until Artesia definitely receives airline service.

The present program was agreed on to take advantage of federal participation in the improvement program.

Filling Station, Feed Store Are Burglarized

Two Artesia retail firms were broken into and entered Wednesday night, both evidently by a bare-footed burglar who garnered a little over $50 in cash.

At 6:44 Thursday morning Cities Service station at 510 N. First reported to police their building had been broken into during the night.

Entrance was gained by breaking glass in a rear window, after which the burglar reached through, turned the latch, and walked in. A cash drawer was rifled, with $5 or $6 in $1 bills taken.

An inventory is being taken to see if anything else is missing.

At 6:46 Thursday morning a break-in at F. L. Wilson Feed Store, 111 S. Second, was reported.

Police said the burglar crawled under the rear door into a feed storage room, then broke a small pane of glass to enter the office.

Files were rifled and an attempt made to open the safe.

An estimated $47.80 in cash was taken from the business.

Police reported finding the impression of a large bare foot at the sight of both break-ins.

Loan Association To Give Credit To County Farmers

A need for credit among farmers and ranchers in the Southwest can be met through the National Farm Loan association of Eddy county, according to Judson Boyd, Sr., president.

J. C. Howard, secretary-treasurer of the local association, reports he has received a special request from W. E. Fisher, president of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita to make known to farmer that credit is available to them.

A farmer or rancher may borrow up to $100,000 through the association. Funds available are ample to meet all needs for farm mortgage credit.

Stiff New Law On Stiff Drivers Goes Into Effect

New state laws which hit hard at drivers operating motor vehicles while intoxicated went into effect throughout New Mexico July 1, Justice of Peace John Ellicott reminded North Eddy county residents this week.

Included in the new laws is a mandatory jail sentence for second convictions and following convictions.

Under state law, first conviction of driving while intoxicated is punishable by 30 days to one year in jail, or a fine of $100 to $1,000, or both, Judge Ellicott said.

Second and subsequent convictions for driving while intoxicated carry a mandatory prison sentence of 90 days to one year and suspension of the driver's license. At the discretion of the court, a fine of up to $1,000 may also be added.

Justices of the peace are empowered to accept a plea of guilty by first offenders and to collect a fine of $100. Second and subsequent offenders are bound over to district court for trial and sentencing.

If a drunk driver is tried under city ordinances, he may be fined up to $200 and given up to 90 days, Judge Ellicott said.

A driver arrested in the city may be tried under either city or state ordinances. A driver arrested outside the city limits will be tried under the new state law, Judge Ellicott said.

At present drunk drivers are being fined $100 if arrested in the city.

GPA Backs Ban To Save Forests

Because of drought emergency in New Mexico, a resolution backing prohibitions on smoking in the state's national forests was passed last night by the North Eddy County Game Protective Association.

The resolution came after Gov. Edwin L. Mechem and the regional forester Thursday announced bans on smoking in national forests in the state.

The GPA's resolution points out that "in addition to the economic and watershed values involved, this organization depends for its very existence upon conservation of the national forests and all other national resources."

The GPA resolved that its members and citizens of the Artesia area be called on to set an example during the drought season by working to prevent forest fires and educating others.

New License, Vehicle Laws To Be Explained

An explanation of new license and motor vehicle laws which went into effect July 1 will be given Artesia area new and used car dealers, finance companies, auto supply houses, salvage operators, and other interested businesses in a meeting Thursday.

It has been set for 7:30 Thursday evening in City Hall. It will be conducted by State Patrolman Arnold J. Smith and Donovan O. Jensen, license distributor for North Eddy county.

"SHOW BIZ"

By PFC. E. D. BYRNE (AFPS Staff Writer)

If the Ford Motor Company never produces another car, and we're sure it will, it will be long remembered for its 50th anniversary show presented over NBC and CBS TV. The two hour, duo-channeled epic was classic in entertainment. Such names as Mary Martin, Ethel Merman, Marian Anderson, Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Eddie Fisher, Howard Lindsay, Dorothy Stickney, Edward R. Murrow and Oscar Hammerstein II featured in the performing spots and coupled with directing and producing greats Leland Hayward, Clark Jones and Jerome Robbins added up to one of the greatest things we have ever seen in our short acquaintance with television. The show, entitled "The American Road," was a fast and fitting tribute to the Ford Family and their transportative devices.

The other afternoon we went up to the little projection room where in RKO holds its premieres. The picture getting the drum-beating short made the trip worthwhile. We had no advance warning on the cartoon, just that it was to be a Walt Disney production in 3-D Technicolor. If it were not so early in the year, and if there wasn't a firm around called UPA (Gerald McBoing Boing, etc.), we would not hesitate to nominate this cartoon for an Academy Award. It is refreshing to see a Disney join the progressives in the cartooning field and actually go them one better. The cartoon, billed as the first in a series called "Adventures in Music," contains some of the usual Disney characters—the professional owl and assorted birds. But the presentation is what makes it. There are many innovations of color, patterns, camera techniques and superimposure which we are not equipped to describe technically and which can be best expressed by the word "great." But don't take our word for it—see for yourself. It's worth the trouble of fooling with these polaroid glasses.

Driller Big Bats Momentarily Give Second Place

Artesia Drillers' big sticks blasted Carlsbad Potashers 8-7 in 10 innings Tuesday to take over second place.

Though the Potashers out-hit the Drillers 15-12, Artesia blasted started Gene Wulf off the mound in the fifth while Fidel Alvarez went the distance for the victory.

In the first, a walk, a single by Goldie Gohison, a double by Elias Osorio and a triple by Bob Hobbs put the Potashers ahead 3-0.

Artesia came back with two in the second when Joe Fortin homered with Les Mulcahy on.

John Treece's single drove in Gene Grant for Carlsbad in the bottom of the second.

In the fifth, Jackie Wilcox singled and Vince DiGiantomasso got on by error. Joe Bauman was passed intentionally by Les Mulcahy powdered one to clear the bases.

Carlsbad scored two in the bottom of the fifth and tied it up on Osorio's homer in the ninth.

In the tenth, Wilcox singled, advanced on a sacrifice and a passed ball. He came in on Joe Bauman's dribbler to win the game.

Local Doctor Cites Case of Polio

Today I would like to quote to you from a letter written by a mother after her little daughter had recovered from a case diagnosed as polio:

"My little girl got sick and was running a high fever. Then in two days she was limping and could not walk without falling down. We carried her to medical doctors who couldn't seem to find the trouble, so we brought her to a Chiropractor. After the Chiropractor examined my little girl, he said he thought she had polio and would like for a medical doctor to see her. So the Chiropractor and medical doctor came out to see her. The medical doctor said he believed she had polio. The Chiropractor began giving her adjustments and after six weeks she was walking again. Now she is completely well. We are so happy that little Martha can walk without a limp."

The above case history should offer encouragement in cases where polio strikes.

It is not true to say "we are doing everything possible" unless Chiropractic is included.

For further information about Chiropractic, consult Dr. Kathryn Behnke, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, phone 861.

WARMIN' THE BENCH

By HUGH BAIRD, JO2, USN (AFPS Staff Writer)

Wes Santee may be the country's new miracle man on the cinders if he continues the pace he set at the recent Compton, Calif., relays. The fast-stepping stringbean ran the mile in 4:02.4, the fastest time ever turned in by an American.

The 21-year-old University of Kansas student hopes someday to crack the four-minute mile. In winning the Compton mile in record time, he also outdid Gunder Haeg's U.S. mark of 4:05.3, set at Cambridge, Mass., in 1943.

Santee's feat can be attributed to the fact that he was racing against two of the world's fastest millers, Denis Johnansson of Finland and Gaston Reiff of Belgium. Both runners finished in record times of 4:04.0 and 4:05.7, pressing the flying Kansan all the way.

In breaking the tape at 4:02.4, Santee ran the fourth fastest mile ever recorded. Only Gunder Haeg's 4:01.4, Arne Anderson's 4:01.6 and John Landy's 4:02.2 lie between Santee and the unconquered four-minute mile.

One of the chief reasons for Milwaukee's success this season is their productive farm club system. Five of the Brave regulars (Bill Bruton, Eddie Mathews, Johnny Logan, Jack Dittmer and Del Crandall) were developed in the Milwaukee minor league chain. Starting pitchers Don Liddle, Bob Buhl and Johnny Antonelli and relievers

We Can Get That Help

IT IS ALWAYS a little amazing to us to find folks who need help and assistance and yet never bother to request this assistance.

But that happens. It not only happens but then we go along complaining because we have not received the help we feel we are entitled to have and we want.

Many times this newspaper has not given all the help it could give—not because it did not want to do just that, but because we did not know the aid was needed.

We miss stories we should print because we do not know about them. As we have pointed out many times in our newspaper career there is nothing magiv about a newspaper. It has no ways or means to know what is going on except that which it is told.

Honest and sincere efforts are made to collect and gather the news but sometimes these are not successful.

And so it is with some organization, some club or some movement—they may need help and publicity may be the very thing they need. We can and are willing to provide it, but we are not advised or informed of that need.

And when we do not know—there isn't much that can be done about it.

It is the wise individual who has learned the value of publicity and who consults the newspaper regarding their cooperation in a definite movement. Don't expect them to know your problems or your thinking or what you need—see that they know by advising with them and by informing them.

The Artesia Advocate wants to aid and to help worthy movements and causes. Many individuals know that, they appreciate that, and they also know to receive this help all they have to do is keep the paper informed.

And because they have done just this, they have had fine cooperation. If you have a problem and publicity will help solve that problem, then request the help you need, let us know and we will do all we can to assist.

We sure can't do it when we do not know anything about it.

Expensive Problems

ARTESIA AS A growing city is faced with problems which cannot be solved cheaply, such as demand for extended water and sewer lines, greater water supply, schools and roads.

But, Nation's Business warns, while local problems cannot be solved cheaply, the cost of ignoring needs can be even higher in the future.

Cities over the nation are faced not only with a backlog of public improvements, but also with two other pressures—inflated payrolls, doubling costs of improvements, and steady population growth, adds Nation's Business.

The magazine suggests the taxpayer become interested in pay-as-you-go improvements in his city, encourage private enterprise to cooperate with local government, and study possibility of the city manager form of government.

While problems are expensive, the magazine concludes, cities which deteriorate may find business suffering and population dwindling.

Who Will Dictate Policy?

A GOOD MANY Americans are voicing concern regarding the conference scheduled to be held in Bermuda in the near future when France, England, and the United States will sit down together.

Some concern has been voiced as to the amount of pressure which will be applied by France and England to get President Eisenhower and our state department to agree to admitting Red China to the United Nations.

Perhaps there is a reason for this concern, yet we believe that it is time that the United States adopt its own foreign policy and that it return to some of the principles and the ideals which have made America great.

Just why we should listen to France or England or any other country insofar as our foreign policy is concerned, we don't know. We are convinced that England has been leading us around by the nose in our diplomatic affairs for years.

England did not tell us what to do as a young nation after we had won our independence. As the years have gone by, it has been America which has done things for England and not England which has done things for us.

England for years controlled colonies and did those things which America opposed. Through the years she has declined until the British Empire today is nothing compared to what it was 50 years ago. Could it be her policy has been wrong? We think so.

We as a nation have done things which were wrong but in a good many instances the things we have done wrong were at the insistence of some other nation—probably England or France.

We have preached democracy and we have sought to practice it. Cuba is a free nation today because we willed it so. The Philippines have their independence because America kept faith.

Can you name any country that England made free and set up as a nation? We can't.

France and England have used us, our manpower, our money, and our help every time they have gotten into trouble. It was the appeasement program of these two nations which led to World War II.

And both nations have dropped from a top rate power because of their policies—their foreign policies.

America has gone all out to help them, to aid them, to furnish funds and food and everything else. Yet their interest is in their own country. They cry that we need to be allies and to be together—that is for their own protection and not for ours.

And every time they start advocating what we should do and how we should do it—you can bet they are arguing for themselves. We would probably do the same thing.

But there was a day and a time when the world respected America, feared America, and listened to us. But with a wishy-washy foreign policy—we have lost that respect. It is time for America to make her own foreign policy; to do those things she believes to be good for America and good for the world. It is time that we win back the respect we have lost because of a half-hearted, near-appeasement policy we have followed.

It is time to remember the ideals and the principles which made us great and to follow them.

We want to aid and to help to bring about world peace but besides the United Nations it is going to take the power and the defense plans. It is time for those we help to help themselves.

And the present Red China government is not the kind or the type we approve—it is not government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

It is time we get back to the things, which made America great if we want to continue to be the great nation we can be when we do our own thinking instead of letting those nations depending on us for their very existence to do our thinking for us.

Hobbs Believes It's Entitled to Be Jealous Of Roswell's Big New Petroleum Building

PETROLEUM

Hobbs can be justly jealous of Roswell's new $575,000 Petroleum Building, dedicated there Saturday, P. swell has no oilfields in its backyard, as Hobbs has, and yet it was able to pluck this plum from beneath Hobbs' nose.

Roswell has 19 major and 11 independent oil companies, besides the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association headquarters and the office of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Since Hobbs missed the boat, however, we know of no other city we'd rather see get the building than our neighbor Roswell.—Hobbs Sun-News.

COUNTY FARMER

One can't help but admire Quay county's rancher-farmer, Courageous, hard-working and optimistic, he is less alarmed with changes in economic conditions than then man on the street.

This attitude was reflected at Tuesday's meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce. The farmers and ranchers were asked to suggest the steps that should be taken by the federal government to counter the losses of the stockman as a result of falling beef prices and the losses of farmers because of the extended drought.

While the majority agreed that some form of financial assistance is necessary at this time, there was no evidence of panic. One-third of those present favored government loans to outright subsidies. Many of those present seemed inclined to the belief that "we've had it tough before and we'll have it tough again."

Quay county farmers are deeply rooted to their lands. Many are making a living from the same acreage homesteaded by their parents about the time this part of New Mexico was being colonized. They have seen hail and wind destroy crops. They have lived through recessions.—Tucumcari Daily News.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

One of the most difficult problems faced by newspaper writers and editors always has been whether or not the names of juvenile delinquents should be published in stories concerning law violations. Many states have laws prohibiting the publication of such names when the individuals are under 18 years.

In New Mexico there is no law preventing publication of the names until the case reaches the court, where the judge may make the decision. However, New Mexico newspapermen voluntarily have not identified these mavericks in news columns.

Associate Editor Ed Minter of the Albuquerque Journal recently wrote an excellent article reviewing the entire matter as a result of steadily increasing juvenile delinquency problems in the Duke City area. A number of juvenile judges feel that names of teenage lawbreakers should not be used but Mr. Minter points to a situation in Tulsa, Okla., where publication of the names by the local paper may have been responsible for sharply curtailed lawlessness by young people.

We are inclined to agree with Mr. Minter's position that names of first offenders and minor offenders should not be used. But when young people are involved in serious crimes—and we had just such cases in Taos during recent months perhaps the names of the juvenile delinquent and the responsible parent or guardian should go into print.

Some answer must be found to the mounting juvenile delinquency problems found in most communities these days. How do you feel about this matter?—El Crepulculo, Taos.

MALONE FOR GOVERNOR?

The Roswell Daily Record has loosed what may be a trial balloon in speaking up editorially in support of Ross Malone as Democratic candidate for governor.

Malone is the Roswell attorney who was named assistant U. S. attorney general in the fading months of the Truman administration, and did a commendable job on cleaning up the big mess.

If Malone could be persuaded to run for governor in 1954, says the Record, he would "furnish new blood, new life, and a new brand of leadership that would add up to an almost certain victory when the votes are counted."

Labeling Malone as the "strongest man the Democrats could pick," the Record adds that "there is some indication that the men high in party councils who have had a hand in defeating east side candidates up to now have begun to show signs of being converted to the true facts of political life in New Mexico." It is "morally certain" that the strongly Democratic east side is not going along with "old line domination any longer," the paper adds. The Roswell attorney could save the Democratic party "from another defeat" in next year's elections.

The push for Malone from Roswell may be somewhat premature. A lot of rotten tomatoes are thrown at a political candidate in the 18 months remaining before the next election.

Malone's home county of Chaves fell off the Democratic bandwagon with a loud crash last year, going Republican solidly. Nomination of a Democratic candidate for governor from Roswell might be one good way to get the Roswell voters back into the east side Democratic fold.—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

DEVIL DANCES HAUNT

the wooded slopes of the Great White Mountain when spirit-wind whips through gusty pine tops and hoot-owls mock the night.

Thus start the famed celebration of the Mescalero Apaches July 2, 3, and 4.

Differing from the daylight ceremonies of Pueblo Land, these Sons of Geronimo meet for powwow and dancing in the night-darkened forest.

By sunset a bewildering cluster of fire-lit teepees mass around a great arena formed by brush, and all movement is toward this magic circle.

COFFEE TALK—

Fuss Over Roads May Be Just Small Detour on Road to County Harmony

JIM BARBER, EDITOR OF the Carlsbad Current-Argus, has a piece in his paper the other night to the effect that the county's latest fuss—over a proposed cutoff road giving a shortcut to the Texas Panhandle, and rebuilding of the LaHuerta bridge—saw it as more fuel for New Mexico's most persistent intracounty feud.

It's Jim's thought that this latest fuss ends what might have been harmony in the county.

Actually, it may be the development which keeps us of Carlsbad and Artesia on the road. Too good a start has already been made in recent months to junk it, and there is too much at stake for the future.

Misunderstanding played a great part in this last fuss. The Artesia delegation to the meeting two weeks ago tonight understood there was complete agreement on the two projects. The Carlsbad panel and the only newsman to attend—Barber—says there never was any such agreement.

At any rate, Eddy county stands to gain a great deal if some residents can get this thing back on the road. The county has been short-changed on road improvements because it has been too much for state highway officials to stick their necks in the Eddy county feud.

But if the two communities together can ask for county road improvements, they may then get their fair share.

BY WAY OF ARGUMENT with the people who say there's only one tree between Roswell and Vaughn, the last count last week-end showed 17.

Let's there be a misunderstanding that the road between Roswell and Vaughn is a tree-shaded lane, however, it is also reported that there are six trees in one clump, seven in another, two clumps of two, and one lone tree. The greenery is well-spaced along the 90-odd miles.

APPOINTMENT OF

Bradbury better known as "Brad," as senior high school rector, should settle for one for all the argument as to whether or not both marching "concert" band are or are not feasible for Artesia.

Bradbury likes both types may in time be able to work out, but believes the marching band first. Thus it may take his riot of time, certainly a school build the organization that would like to see. Bradbury musician—he once did a one of those ship-board bands on several cruises, as taking the post of a band director at Indiana Teachers college.

He is also a showman, nessed last spring's Junior School Varieties, which packed houses two nights he may be the ideal man to both the music-lovers and marching band enthusiasts.

THE TALK IN LAS VEGAS at the newsmen's convention included a lot about a shape named Melville as "The Toast of the Town" an "exotic dancer" whose happens to be staid Clovis.

Newsmen were also staid Lincoln O'Brien's operator four daily newspapers from central Las Vegas office. He has his own private teletype set-up, in which a perforator runs a linotype machine, tem under which in the long he hopes to make savings in head.

THERE WAS A HOT RECEPTION this week, with the Advocate's appearance of Wednesday the newspaper had a back to weekly publication.

Actually, the newspaper lies the other way, and may to retrogress—go back to—were thought of.

The delay of Tuesday's was unplanned but means difficulties made it unworkable.

A&M College Sets Up Department of Ag Information

Agricultural information services at New Mexico A&M College will be coordinated effective July 1, with the formation of a department of information in the School of Agriculture and Home Economics, Dr. R. A. Nichols, dean and director, has announced.

The new department will handle publications, news, and visual aids for all agricultural branches of the college, including the Extension Service, the Experiment Station, and the regulatory services.

"Our department of information has been set up in line with a general plan for closer coordination of work in all departments of the School of Agriculture and Home Economics," Dr. Nichols said. Head of the department is John M. White, agriculturalist who has been extension editor A&M for the past seven years. Other members of the department will be Associate Agricultural Editors Duane I. Nelson and O. Herrell, formerly assistant extension editors.

Information material prepared or distributed by the School of Agriculture and Home Economics includes Extension Station bulletins, extension papers, newspaper and radio photographs, motion pictures, work and radio recordings of members of the new department.

Elliott S. Barker, Retiring State Game Warden

July 1 marked the end of an era in New Mexico. Elliott S. Barker, State Game Warden, retired from the post he has held for the past 22 years.

Under Barker's able hand, the department which he headed grew from a mere token organization to an efficient, multi-million dollar operation. For himself, Barker built up a national reputation as a staunch conservationist, a capable administrator and a bitter foe of selfish private interests.

Born at Moran, Texas, in 1886, he came to New Mexico in a covered wagon at the age of three and spent his early years on a ranch near Las Vegas. Beginning his career as a commercial photographer, he later switched to professional hunting, guiding, and trapping in 1908. He then spent 10 years with the U. S. Forest Service as ranger, land examiner, deputy supervisor, and supervisor. After a stint at farming and ranching, Barker worked for the famous Vermejo Park Club as predator control man and game and fish management agent. In 1931, he became New Mexico's State Game Warden, a career post which became avocation as well as his vocation. A nationally-known figure in conservation field, Barker served three terms as president of Western Association of State and Fish Commissioners and another term as president of International Association of Game Fish and Conservation Commissioners.

The author of many popular articles and stories on hunting and fishing, Barker also wrote a hunting saga entitled "Who Dogs Barked Treed." His love of the high country in the spruce-needle wilderness area produced the writing of his latest book, "Beatty's Cabin," a series of stories describing early days and his personal experiences in the upper Pecos.

The personnel of the State Department gathered in Albuquerque last Friday evening to tribute to their old friend and leader, District Warden Bill Barker of Las Cruces, who made the farewell speech, said: "We shall miss you—farewell and God speed."

"Divided" House Helps TV Viewing

Is yours a "House Divided?" Perhaps a "Room Divided" is the answer to your needs if your family's interests are varied and you find Daddy left with no place to relax while the children are watching television.

Here is a suggestion from Willie Mae Rogers, director of Home Economics of Admiral Corp. She comes up with an interesting use of couches as room dividers, adaptable to many living rooms. Two couches placed back-to-back will create a television and study area and set aside the rest of the room for other living-dining activities. The arrangement allows for double-duty seating—both for TV-viewing and for conversation. In this one-room apartment the couches were also used for sleeping. The TV area centers interest on a table model set which has been placed on a low table for good visibility. Additional chairs can be drawn up if the group is larger and "little viewers" might sit on pillows on the floor. For the smaller living room it makes possible the use of your space for maximum livability. Only about one American in every 200 attains the height of six feet.

Artesia Business News Hefley to Open City's First Drive-In Shoe Shop Soon

Artesia's first drive-in shoe store will open this week when C. L. Hefley completes moving his shop from 102 S. Roselawn to new location at 902 S. Second. Hefley has built a new building 18 by 26 feet. It is so arranged that all a customer has to do is drive up and without leaving his car, obtain shoe service.

Mr. and Mrs. Hefley are remodeling the house on the same lot and will soon move into it from their home on N. Eighth. He operated a shoe shop at the former Roselawn address for the last 15 years. He has a wide range of customers and friends whom he invites to visit him at his new shop. Hefley Drive-In Shoe Shop will carry the same kind of polishes that was carried in the old shop. Hefley has been in this type of business for 38 years, having started in Crosbyton, Texas, in 1915.

Walker Cash Grocery on the north highway has installed a new pop box. This is the latest design and keeps the pops ice cold.

Bristow and Daniel Pump Co. recently installed a Johnson turbine irrigation pump, 940 horsepower, on the Lawrence ranch, which is owned and operated by Hal Bogle. The pump is setting 80 feet in depth and has a capacity of 1300 gallons a minute. The ranch is about six miles northeast of Artesia.

Sanders' Office Supply has added about 1,000 square feet of floor space to the store and has installed many new fixtures.

These include new shelves, all new center aisles, and fluorescent lighting. In each corner of the main room at the back are new modern offices. These are paneled and glassed off part way up to the ceiling. The interior has been completely redecorated. It is a soft shade of green. Work of remodeling and redecorating is not completed.

Purpose of this was to give more space for the hobby department, such as model airplanes and paints. Marvin H. Sanders, owner, is adding a line of television and radio sets. Miss Clydene Grayham, of the Franklin Store has been employed as secretary.

Carlsbad bounced back with two runs in the ninth to sew up the game. Ike Jackson gained first through Artesia's lone error of the game, and Marshall Epperson, relief hurler, singled. A double by John Treece cleared the bases.

Len Ruyle started for Artesia, pitched through the eighth inning, allowing six hits, four runs. Fidel Alvarez relieved in the ninth yielding two hits, two runs.

Gene Wolf carried the Carlsbad offensive for 7 1/3 innings, allowing three hits, one run. Epperson gave up three hits, one run, all in the eighth.

Carlsbad was charged with two errors, Artesia one.

of additional television station licenses, a considerable number of the 90 million persons presently without TV will be "exposed" to the new medium.

Since a TV set is the most complex piece of equipment that goes into the American home, he believes that prospective TV viewers should be fully informed on the salient points to check when shopping around.

Marty said, "First, check the quality of the picture because that's the most important factor. Make certain the image is clear and steady, the blacks black and the whites white. Examine the picture closely to see that it is sharp all over, especially at the corners.

"Choose a set whose preference controls are readily accessible for adjusting focus, brightness, horizontal and vertical hold. Check also on whether the set can be easily adapted to receive UHF (ultra high frequency) telecasts by using UHF tuning strips."

Marty also recommended that prospective TV viewers choose a set with an AC power transformer and containing built-in provisions for eliminating picture flutter from planes and interference from trucks, buses, autos and electrical devices. Listen to the sound to check its freedom from noise and hum. Inspect the cabinet for good workmanship.

"Above all, don't buy a pig in a poke," the Admiral executive warned. "Stick to well-known brand names and do business with a reputable dealer in your community."

Edwards AFB Is Opener in AF Flight Secrets

sprawled across the flatlands of Southern California's vast Mojave Desert is the Air Force's most secret base and home of the world's longest runway—Edwards AFB. Here scientists and military men develop and test the weapons of tomorrow. It is the home of Air Force Flight Test Center, whose mission is to insure that America's planes and equipment not only equal but exceed the effectiveness of any enemy in this age of jets and atoms.

From the sunbaked city of Rogers Dry Lake has flown every model of Air Force plane now in production. The 13-mile long hard clay surface is smooth and capable of bearing aircraft of any weight—one of the prime reasons for the location of Edwards. Also because of good weather, 95 per cent of the days are flyable. In the last five years more than 360 emergency landings have been recorded, saving countless lives and aircraft.

Established in 1942, the base today has 5,000 workers, half of which are military personnel. It was here that such jets as the F-80, F-84, and F-86 received their initial flights. In 1947 Major Charles Yeager piloted a Bell X-1 above these flats to become the first human to fly above the speed of sound.

Other than testing planes, Edwards also maintains a 2,000-foot railway known as the deceleration track, which uses a rocket sled to simulate the force of a crash or a ditching to determine the effects on both pilot and crew.

Bombsights and ballistic characteristics of high speed bombs are tested on a special range. Other tests involve recovery systems for guided missiles, night photo illuminants, reconnaissance cameras, rocket radar and altitude starting systems.

Backbone of the base is its test pilots who are assigned to a plane through every stage of its development. They also attend a six-month course at the Air Force test pilot school here.

Already possessing the world's longest runway, recent construction will give Edwards a testing field 15,000 feet in length. (AFPS)

Veterans Administration survey disclosed today.

Korean veterans in college numbered more than 53,000 at the time of the survey, March 1. The total includes most of those who enrolled for spring terms, the VA said.

The VA study also showed more than 21,000 veterans in schools below the college level. The greatest proportion of these were in trade and vocational schools. Several thousand were using their K-Vet Bill training opportunity to finish grade school and high school.

On-the-job trainees under the K-Vet Bill numbered nearly 9,000 at the time of the survey, and those taking institutional on-farm training—a combination of classroom work and actual experience on the farm—totaled close to 500.

Veterans must meet three requirements to be eligible for training under the K-Vet Bill. They include (1) a discharge or separation under conditions other than dishonorable; (2) military service after June 27, 1950, and (3) at least 90 days' total service, unless discharged sooner because of an actual service-connected disability.

While in training, a veteran receives a monthly educational allowance check, the size of which depends on the type of training he's taking and the number of dependents he has. He is responsible for meeting all his own training expenses—tuition, fees, books, supplies and the like.

Although the law has generally become known as the K-Vet Bill, it is not limited to veterans who actually served in Korea. It covers all veterans who served after June 27, 1950, at home or abroad.

"tingle" with no serious effects. This has led many people to feel that the ordinary 110-volt circuits are not dangerous. They failed to realize how serious the same experience could have been if their body had been well grounded. One hundred ten volts can be as deadly as 40,000 volts. People and livestock have been electrocuted, accidentally, with as little current as used by a 7-watt bulb.

Few people realize, how small an electrical current is needed to cause death. After extensive tests authorities have concluded that a reasonably safe current for most normal adults is about 8 to 10 milliamperes (8 or 10,000ths of an ampere). With additional current, the victim, "freezes to the conductor" and is unable to release himself from the circuit.

Any time you accidentally touch a "live" contact with your body grounded, current flows through your body and a serious shock is produced. A flash from loose wires, or short circuits, can cause severe burns or start a fire. Even wires in overloaded circuits become hot enough to destroy insulation and ignite flammable materials. This has been the source of many costly fires.

HEAD OFF TROUBLE BEFORE IT STARTS

First of all, you must have a safe wiring system with adequate capacity for connected loads. Original wiring systems made by competent electricians, and properly inspected are usually safe. It is the amateur wiring and the makeshift additions to these jobs, with neglected repairs or careless use of appliances, that usually leads to trouble.

There are a number of simple, everyday precautions to remember when working around your electric system. Don't wait until your electrical equipment gets out of order, blows a fuse, or causes an accident. It always pays to check them over before these things happen and head off trouble before it starts. Electric cords, exposed to flexing, twisting, heat or mechanical injury, often need attention. It is usually false economy to attempt splicing or repairing badly damaged cords. They should be replaced with new ones.

In selecting new cords, keep in mind how they will be used. If the cord is subjected to hard usage or moisture, as in a basement, shop, barn, or milkhouse, it should be moisture-proof and have a heavy rubber insulation. For ordinary uses around the house, as on a radio or a portable lamp, a standard rubber insulated cord is suitable. Use heavy rubber insulated cords for motors or motor-driven appliances. Cords which are to be used on heating appliances should be of the asbestos insulated type.

and care must be taken to keep them dry. An unbreakable plug with an extended portion, which can be grasped when removing the plug from an outlet, is desirable.

When a fuse "blows" something is wrong. There is a short circuit somewhere, or the circuit has been overloaded by connecting too large or too many appliances. The trouble must be located and remedied before replacing a new fuse of correct size. Fuses serve as "safety" or "pop-off" valves in electrical circuits. They are purposely made the weakest link in a circuit, so as to protect permanent wiring and equipment, and prevent fires. A 15-ampere fuse is the largest size that should be used in an ordinary lighting circuit. Unless some qualified person advises that the circuit wires are larger than No. 14, never use a fuse of a higher rating and never use a penny or any other substitute. A 20-ampere fuse may be used where the circuit wires are No. 12 or larger.

Avoid overloading motors and keep them dry and clean. An overloaded motor can easily start a fire. All electrical appliances used in basements, milkhouses, and other damp locations, should be grounded. For a simple ground, clamp one end of a conductor to the frame of the appliance, and the other end to a water pipe or a similar ground connection. A more convenient ground can be provided with three-wire cord and a three-prong plug and outlet.

FARM SAFETY WEEK
JULY 19 THROUGH 25

The Safe Side of Electricity

By S. L. HAMILTON, Agricultural Engineer, National Safety Council

You can't afford to mar the enjoyment which electricity brings to farms by using it the wrong way. Electricity has its own safety rules, and if you don't know them and follow them, you're inviting serious trouble. The only way to reap the fullest benefit is to always stay on the "safe side." Usually electrical accidents occur without warning. There is a lot of power packed into electrical wires, it travels with the speed of lightning, and it is an invisible, silent worker. Lack of knowledge, indifference or carelessness leads to most of the tragedies. The most pitiful type of accident is where the victim is totally unaware that any danger was involved.

Before you undertake any electrical project, you should be familiar with the conditions that cause short circuits, overloads, overheating, shock burns and other misuses. You should also know how to avoid them. Get familiar with the way electricity flows through circuits, and the meaning of everyday electrical terms. The more you know about the principles of electricity, the easier it will be for you to detect and correct hazardous conditions. Never rely on guesswork. Any time you are in doubt, ask someone who knows before taking any chances.

Almost everyone has experienced a slight electrical shock, or
