Professional Smile of Beauty

Professional Model Tommie Hender believes that a model's most important asset can be good teeth. "We're called upon so often to turn on a dazzling smile," she says, "that dent[al] care is always foremost in my mind." Tommie believes wise models should carry tooth brush and paste as part of their makeup kit. "Often," she explains, "we must go on assignments directly after lunch—and it's just as important to 'make up' our teeth before photographs are taken as it is to use facial cosmetics." Also, she points out, it is usually necessary for models to work close to photographers and others posing them, and it's important that their breath should not offend. As a tip to men, she cautions that some who would not think of dating without a clean shave, sometimes forget the condition of their teeth is even more noticeable. And the tip is applicable to some girls, too, she believes. Bristol-Myers Company produces an anti-cavity, anti-odor therapeutic tooth paste, Ipana A, which contains an ammoniated ingredient to reduce tooth decay and chlorophyll to sweeten the breath.

GI Bill's Benefits, Giving Three Provisions Readjustment, Proves Vets Good Loan Risks

GI Bill for World War veterans has just passed its birthday. One of its provisions is still in full force, another is approaching the end of its life, and a third has long since passed into history.

Under the nine years of the program, a total of 7 million servicemen and women—more than half of all who served in World War II—have taken some form of training under the GI Bill. All together, they spent a total of 140,000,000 months in the classroom, at the training bench and on the farm, or an average of about 18 months of training per veteran.

Types of training ranged from 339,000 veterans who were enabled to finish grade school and high school to 2 million who attended college; from 1 million who trained on-the-job to nearly 700,000 who trained on-the-farm; from 361,000 who went to business school to 2,250,000 who took up trades in vocational schools. And an additional 750,000 trained in correspondence schools.

Comfort Is Paramount In TV Room

Let your comfort be your guide! So advises Willie Mae Rogers, director of home economics of Admiral Corp., in answer to queries on where and how to place the new television set.

New Medium Has Wide, Varied Uses

If you think television is merely a device for bringing sports events, Arthur Godfrey or the latest news into your living room, you're making a big mistake.

Jiffy Meats for Quick Meals

Cold cuts are an answer to quick meals on summer days. From the large display in stores, you can put together a prize-winning feast in a jiffy.

Country Club Notes—Favorable Comment on First Tourney Boosts Success

With vacation and the First Annual Invitational Tournament over, maybe we had better get back on the beam and try to get out some club news.

The main thing to be noticed around the club house now is the satisfied look on the committee faces. We did have a fine tournament and though the entry list was shorter than we would have liked, comment on the event was very favorable and leads us to believe we shall have a better attendance next year.

The pros in particular were very complimentary on the course itself and the hospitality of the locals. A lot of credit is due Joe Estrada and Jim Miller as they worked hard to bring the fairways and greens up to top condition for play.

Bourland has a fine racket working now. He and three chumps took on nine holes last Saturday and when they came back to the club house the three chumps paid him three dollars. Bourland was playing their best ball but it was a hill for him.

Perry Offers Facts In Replying To Man With Pencil

Misinformation based on second or third-hand information concerning financial operations of the Artesia Drillers was scored again this week by Driller Gen. Mgr. Earl Perry only a week after a first attack was made on the club.

"I do not know if Jerry Brown of the Carlsbad Current-Argus has a personal axe to grind with me, or what," Perry said, "but his repeated jibes at Artesia, based on indirect information, are opening him up to embarrassment."

Perry referred to an article by Brown Wednesday in which Brown reviewed a meeting held Monday night in Hobbs when Artesia baseball officials met with enthusiasts from Hobbs concerning possibility of a Longhorn club in the oil city.

"Now that the door is open for baseball in Hobbs, you can bet your Aunt Minnie's sash-lined comforter that 'Silent' Earl Perry of Artesia has his foot, knee, and arm inside that door. The Artesia General Manager spoke to the Hobbs gathering Monday night, which decided to go ahead and promote baseball. Most of Perry's advice to the Hobbs' group was in dollar signs (as, indeed, it had to be at that stage of the game.) "But the size of those dollar signs was something to behold! On the basis of his advice, the Hobbs group tentatively set up a budget of $15,000 for purchase of players. This is very interesting to say the least and let us be the first to believe that Hobbs was seeking admission to either the Class A Western League or Class AA Texas League.

"You can build yourself a pretty good Class A club with a $15,000 player budget, and you can put together one cracker-jack Class C team with that amount—a team, in fact, much resembling the Artesia Drillers.

"Now that brings up another problem: Perry's comment last week-end on what he termed our 'nasty little article' about the financial difficulties of the Drillers. Perry denies most vociferously that the Drillers have a high-priced ball club. He also asserts that 'there has never been a question or argument over our payroll.'

"Perry doesn't stop there. He infers that the Carlsbad Potashers are really the williams in the plot, the high-priced club of the Longhorn league. He offers to compare salary limits between the two clubs. That's just fine. Except that the listed salaries of minor league clubs today seldom accurately show the true amount being paid to players.

"You might think this disagreement over facts has created personal animosity between Perry and this writer. Not so, not so. As a matter of fact, we're all even now. "He doesn't believe us, and we don't believe him."

"Again Mr. Brown has written not on facts but personal ideas. His article on the Hobbs meeting was, as usual, second-hand," Perry said.

"First of all, I didn't notice any representatives from Carlsbad giving their time and effort to help the baseball situation in Hobbs by being present at the meeting.

"I did notice in the Current-Argus the day before how they were doing (or going to do) big things for baseball in Hobbs. Talk is cheap—it takes action to organize ball clubs.

"As for the quotation attributed to me I did not and have not at any time mentioned a figure of $15,000 or any like sum. Again it was a shot in the dark by the little man from Carlsbad, who has the pencil in his hand and has evidently become quite a professional baseball authority in a brief six months.

"Brown should check the operation in Carlsbad, if he can spare the time between getting second-

Artesia Representatives to Again Meet With Hobbs Monday on Longhorn Organization

Another meeting to consider possibility of Longhorn league baseball in Hobbs will be held Monday evening in the Oil City.

First formal meeting of Hobbs baseball enthusiasts with Artesia representatives interested in assisting Hobbs was held Monday night.

Attending from Artesia were Leland Wittkopp, Charles K. Johnson, Earl Perry, S. A. Lanning, and Paul Haller.

An open discussion, according to Artesia representatives, was held on baseball.

Seemingly there was no question as to willingness or ability of Hobbs to support a Longhorn league baseball club, but rather only questions as to actual organization, finances, and selling points.

The Hobbs group was led by Leroy Wise.

Perry said it is possible Hal Sayles, president of the Longhorn league, will attend next Monday's meeting in Hobbs.

Last Monday's meeting saw complete discussions of park construction costs, club incorporation, and other problems in inaugurating baseball.

"It was a very promising meeting," according to Perry. "Hobbs has a lot of potential as far as baseball is concerned. There is not, in my mind, the slightest doubt that they could support a baseball club."

Fans in Roswell, Artesia, and Carlsbad have throughout the 1953 season joined in urging formation of a Longhorn league team in Hobbs.

Addition of a team at Hobbs would probably heighten competition in the already tight Eastern New Mexico segment of the Longhorn league, and would mean shorter travelling distances on road games, compared to selection of a community in Texas.

Hobbs a few years ago was ready for organized baseball but could not secure priorities for grandstand steel and therefore postponed organization attempts.

Annual City Golf Tournament Qualifying Begin Immediately; Medalist Qualifying Is August 1

Artesia Country club is to hold the Annual Artesia Golf Tournament with qualifying rounds beginning immediately. The medalist qualifying date will be Aug. 1.

Tournament committee has decided this year to open the tournament to all men desiring to enter who live in the Artesia area whether Country club members or not.

A special invitation is extended to those patronizing the 20-30 municipal course.

It was made clear that following registration by an entrant, he can play the course until tournament time or until he is eliminated in order to familiarize himself with the layout.

Entrance fee for the tourney is to be $5. There will be a Calcutta Pool, free beer, and free barbecue on Aug. 1 beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Entries will be divided into flights of 16. The championship flight will originally be composed of 16 players, but the first round losers will comprise the first flight leaving an 8-man championship and first flight. Ten per cent of the Calcutta Pool will be paid on the first flight winner.

First and second round matches are to be played sometime from Aug. 2 to Aug. 9. Third round matches are to be played during Aug. 10-15 and finals in all flights will be held Aug. 16.

Trophies will be awarded the medalist and winners, runners-up, and consolation winners in each flight.

Floyd Spriger, the very successful invitational director, is ramrodding this contest as well and many of the committees are holding over for the same duties.

Trophies are in charge of Bill

Bullock and Bob Bourland; rules are under Harrall, Lloyd and Estrada; and the Calcutta will be directed by Fred Cole, Neil Watson, and Sam Laughlin. Bill Keys will assist Spriger in directing the tournament.

Calcutta tickets are $1 each and may be obtained from members of that committee prior to or on the day of the barbecue and pool.

Favorites in the tournament are pretty well established. It appears that defending champion Bergman has changed his residence so probably will not participate.

The crack shots are Cliff Lloyd, Jim Miller, John Short, Bob Bourland, and Bill Bullock. Of course, no city tournament goes without upsets and some of the dark horses such as Richard Harrall may beat any of these on the right day.

hand information and writing stories on the Artesia baseball club.

"We fight and work to put over baseball—giving people more than just baseball—some day Brown may realize what it takes to put over baseball here since we don't have 1,500 to lay down 80 cents a night, but per capita are holding our own with Carlsbad or anyone else—and if he doesn't believe it, keep up closely with the standings.

"We're involved in a working operation in this end of the county—a distinct difference between operating a ball club and walking on the field to play every night.

Perry told the Artesia Advocate that in Hobbs Monday night, when he was asked how much a good club could be bought for, he said "around $6,500 or $7,500."

"How good a club would $15,000 buy," Perry said he was asked by a Hobbs enthusiast.

Perry replied it could buy a Class A team.

Muleahy Drive Rallies Drillers To 5-4 Win Over Midland

Les Muleahy's hard drive deep into rightfield drove in Artesia's two winning runs Wednesday night to bring the Artesia Drillers from behind and give a win over Midland, 5 to 4.

Wednesday's game was replete with a pair of lengthy rhabarbs, award of a television set, a model plane warming up somewhere near the park, and a triple play.

Midland was off to a good start in the first inning when Art Bowland singled, scored on Julio de la Torre's triple, and was followed by de la Torre on Glenn Selbo's single.

Artesia was able to counter when Vince DiGiantomasso singled, advanced on an error, and came home on a wild pitch by Freddie Rodriguez.

Drillers added another in the third with Joe Bauman's home run over left centerfield.

Midland countered with a single in the fourth and another in the sixth. In the fourth Scooter Hughes singled, advanced on an error, and came home on Roger Della Belta's single. In the sixth Hughes homered.

Artesia kept in the game with a single in the seventh. Jackie Wilcox was walked, advanced on Vince the Giant's single, and came home on Joe Bauman's single.

In the tense ninth Jackie Wilcox went to first on a balk. Vince the Giant sacrificed to advance him, and Bill Haley and Joe Bauman were walked, filling the bases.

Les Muleahy hit a foul ball over leftfield fence on the first pitch, then connected with the ball for the hit that allowed Wilcox and Haley to score.

The triple play came in the third inning when Art Bowland and de la Torre both had been walked. Glen Selbo popped a fly to right field, taken by Joe Fortin for the first out. Fortin then threw to second where Joe Calderon tagged Bowland out. Calderon threw back to Fortin, who by then was covering first for the third out.

In the lengthy rhabarb that followed this slow motion triple, the base umpire ruled Fortin had caught the ball. Midland runners disputed the decision—none of them had covered up when the fly was in the air.

Artesia Climbs Notch in Fielding, Leads in Batting

Artesia's Drillers moved up to second place from third this week in team fielding averages, according to statistical report issued by George Hine, Jr., league statistician.

Statistics are for all games through July 13 with the exception of Midland-Big Spring July 10, Carlsbad-Roswell July 11, Carlsbad-Roswell July 12, Carlsbad-Artesia July 13, and Odessa-Midland July 13.

In team batting the Drillers lead the league at .312, followed by Carlsbad's .310, Roswell .305, Odessa .291, San Angelo .283, and Big Spring .272.

Artesia leads the league in home runs with 92, compared to 67 for Odessa, next highest contender. Artesia is second in runs with 517, following Midland's 555, and second in hitting with 797, also following Midland, which was 824.

The Drillers are tops on total bases with 1,310, followed by Midland 1,223. Drillers led the league in two-base hits with 173, with Big Spring next closest with 158. Artesia players have been given the second highest number of walks—433, following Odessa's 520.

Artesia is second in RBI with 475, following Midland's 486. The Drillers are tops in strike-outs with 409, compared to Big Spring's 406.

Ricky Gonzales of Roswell leads the league in hitting with .395, followed by Elias Osorio of Carlsbad with .390. Tenth on the list is Artesia's first baseman, Joe Bauman, with .359.

Joe Fortin follows Bauman with a .356, Les Muleahy has .331, Bill Haley .323, Jackie Wilcox .289, Joe Calderon .261, and Vince DiGiantomasso .253.

Another rhabarb over placement of batters' boxes was settled when Driller Field Mgr. Joe Bauman got the frame, limed the box on the outside (rather than inside as field dimension rules specify), and then returned to his dug-out.

The television set was awarded to Mrs. Charles Needham.

Drillers Edged 7-6 Tuesday By Potashers

In a game tight all the way to the last out, Carlsbad's Potashers edged the Artesia Drillers 7-6 Tuesday night, resulting again in a tie between the two teams for Longhorn league second place.

Potashers made their seven runs in the first three innings, but it was enough, despite a bases-loaded opportunity for the Drillers in the ninth.

Artesia outhit Carlsbad, 11 to 7, but couldn't do it when it counted. Artesia came alive late in the game, but just too late.

Potashers started out with two in the first when Pedro Osorio walked and John Trecce homered across the leftfield fence to bring him in.

Three more Potasher runs came in the second. Pedro Osorio, with one already out, got to first on a fielder's choice and Trecce followed on an error, Osorio scored on the same play. Merv Connors singled and scored Trecce, and Ike Jackson tripled to score the Potasher's first baseman.

In the third Elias Osorio was safe on an error and Woodie Pennington singled. Osorio singled to score both, ending the Carlsbad hitting for the evening.

From there on in, Carlsbad either struck out (seven times) or flied out (10 times).

Aftesa scored one in the second when Joe Bauman was walked, advanced on singles by Joe Fortin and Armando Sanchez, and came in after Joe Calderon's fly ball. In the third Vince DiGiantomasso singled and Bauman doubled to plate him.

In the fifth Bill Haley was safe on an error and came in on Bauman's single. In the seventh Joe Bauman singled and Mulcahy homered to add two runs. And in the ninth, Haley singled, scoring on Fortin's hit and an error.

Carlsbad was charged with three errors, Artesia five.

Gene Wulf started on the mound for Carlsbad, yielding nine hits and five runs before Marshall Epperson relieved him in the ninth when Artesia had men on second and third.

Pat Monahan started for Artesia, was relieved by Len Ruyie in the second. Fidel Alvarez came in during the ninth to finish the game.

Paid attendance Tuesday night was 1,017.
Line score for Tuesday's game:
Potashers — 232 000 000—7 7 3
Artesia — 011 010 201—6 11 5

Drillers—

In the first Vince the Giant singled and homed on Bauman's double.

In the fourth Midland plated two when Lou Dawson and Mickey Diaz singled in succession and advanced on an error, a walk and a fly ball.

Artesia punched one over in the bottom of the fourth when Mulcahy singled, advanced on Fortin's single and homed on an error.

The winning run in the ninth saw Andy Alonzo single, advance on a sacrifice and home on a single and an error.

Andy Alonzo made his first appearance on the mound for Artesia, allowing four. Romeo Soto turned in a 10-hit performance for Midland.

Business Notes— Hale Assembles Expert TV, Radio Servicing Team

To service radio and television in Artesia, one of the most-highly-trained and experienced staffs in Southeastern New Mexico has been assembled at Hale's Radio and Television Sales and Service.

Staff personnel include Phil Hale, who has been in the television industry since 1937; Jim Simmons, technician, who has 25 years experience in radio and three years in television; Bill Alcorn, former electronics instructor at Oklahoma A&M, and Golden Lipscomb, who has 28 months experience with television.

Hale was service manager for Western Electric in Los Angeles when one of the nation's pioneer TV stations, owned by Don Lee, began operations in 1937.

During the war he taught radio and radar to servicemen in the Navy.

He is a graduate electrical engineer, having received his degree from Ohio State college. He came to Artesia three years ago.

Service Experience— Bill Alcorn, a native of Bentonville, Ark., was a radio repairman in the Signal Corps during World War II, and also had experience as an instructor in basic radio.

He graduated from Massachusetts State Teachers college as an electronics technician and worked two years for Waltham Clock Co. as a technician on watch timers.

In 1945 he moved to Oklahoma City to work for the Air Force as radar and radar weather station maintenance man. He later became foreman over a jet accessories electronic testing laboratory.

In 1952 Alcorn was appointed an instructor in radio and electronics for Oklahoma A&M college school of technical training, a post he held until coming to Artesia.

Trucking to Radio— Golden Lipscomb transferred to radio and television from a trucking business he owned from 1945 until 1950.

During the war he was a paratrooper and served with combat engineers in the D-Day invasion of Europe in 1944. He was twice wounded in World War II.

In September 1950 he entered Oklahoma A&M technical school and was graduated this May as a television technician, a field in which he has had 28 months experience.

Married, he has three children. Jim Simmons has 28 years experience in radio and three in television. He is married and has eight children, four of them now at home.

Hale's Radio and TV is licensed by the federal communications commission to service special radio installations, in addition to its repair of home radio and TV sets.

Hale's recently moved into a modern new store at 105 S. Fifth.

Impartial Study Would Clear Air

DESPITE OCCASIONAL blow-ups which would be decisive in many another system, many grave questions continue to be posed concerning the administration of Artesia Public Schools.

Over the past year and a half the school system has had four major storms which have caused major divisions in the community and public furors of major proportions as only school matters can bring on.

There are many in the community who criticize the schools for petty matters and criticize administrators for personal reasons—perhaps a failing mark in a subject, a refusal for a pupil absence parents have requested.

But there are more serious criticisms of the school's fundamental operation and philosophy. Were those criticisms not so continuous or so widespread, they might be dismissed as the occasional antagonisms and differences in purposes which arise whenever people live together.

They cannot, because of their persistence, be continually dismissed. We do not think the answer lies in explosive community blow-ups and consequent firings. We would find fault, after a while, with whoever came into the community to fill vacancies on the school staff, as past history in the local school system seems to prove. While we tend to personalize many conflicts, to indulge in bitter personal criticisms, this method does not resolve fundamental faults perhaps inherent in school-public relations.

Certainly the recent history of accusation and denial, charge and countercharge, cannot continue indefinitely without harm to the strength and effectiveness of our schools. An answer—perhaps only a partial answer but at least a constructive one—would seem to be a laymen's study of the schools, their problems, their weaknesses, their strengths. Perhaps an impassionate query into our schools would serve to remedy some of the weaknesses and fortify the strength.

Such a study should be free of the official school system that it might operate without the charge of whitewash and cover-up. It should be free of domination by any one element of the community, but nevertheless representative of those with a serious and fundamental interest in the schools. If a group of respected people could conduct such a study, they would come up with the best answers of all—the facts, the whys and wherefores.

This does not have the appeal of a public fight, of crying "off with their heads," or of sitting with a group of friends and digging at the schools with what the speaker implies is inside information, the real low-down. But it does have the merits of constructive approach, of criticism and praise based on reason rather than reaction.

We Are More Interested

THE ARTESIA ADVOCATE is the only newspaper in the world that gives a "whoop" about our city. It is also true that the Artesia Advocate gives more of its merchandise—white space—to boost the city than any business firm or concern here. We hope and expect to continue to do just that.

We differ with others regarding the city, certain programs, and certain projects. That is only as it should be. Others differ with us and that is their American right and privilege.

But what we endeavor to do, what we donate in the way of white space, gifts and effort—is easily established.

Those who have worked with us—and there are many of them here—will vouch for the fact we have sought to aid and help in every way possible. This not only goes for the school programs, the church programs, the civic programs, but for increasing and building business here.

We expect to continue to do exactly that. We make mistakes of judgment, we can be wrong, and we perhaps sooner or later learn this. On the other hand others make mistakes; they are wrong; and they assume some attitudes which are unjust and unreasonable.

We resided here for two years. We appreciate the friends we made during that period. We appreciate friends we have made since then.

When we turned the paper over to others we selected hometown folks insofar as possible and placed the management and the control of the paper in a hometown man—one who is interested, has his home here, pays taxes, participates in local programs and helps and assists in civic programs.

We have brought in others with special training to do special jobs and work always with one thought in mind—helping to build Artesia. There are and have been those, who did not always agree with us and who felt we should perhaps have done things differently. That is their right. We also have differed with them, but we do not become angry with them either because they do not agree with us or that we do not agree with them.

We have a definite job to do and we try to do that job. We have our ways to do things and we expect to do them that way. We have confidence in those in charge of the paper and its operation. If we didn't have we wouldn't want them to be in charge of the paper. They have the authority to make decisions, to run the paper, and to determine its policy.

We learned long ago that we could not live 200 miles away from a city and determine the policies for the paper in that city. We want some one close to these affairs and someone vitally interested in that city to make those decisions.

We appreciate our friends thinking of us at times but we want to assure them the boys on the job are in a position to make the decisions, to handle matters, and all affairs should be taken up and talked over with them. The help and cooperation wanted and needed can be secured then without any threats to call us or write us or come and see us. That is not necessary.

But don't expect the boys on the job to know what the situation is if you haven't discussed it with them or gone over it with them. Naturally we are going to be guided with their advice, their counsel and their viewpoints and opinions. That is the only way that they can operate the business—having the authority to do just that.

We believe they have proven their willingness to aid and help every thing that is good for Artesia and they will work toward that objective at all times.

Again Honored

SELECTION OF FRED COLE of Artesia as the only New Mexico church layman to be chosen for an Air Force overseas speaking mission under sponsorship of the Air Force chaplain's office is a significant commentary on the type of men Artesia attracts and adopts.

It is the second time within six months an Artesia layman has been chosen for a spiritual mission of unquestionable importance.

Cole, who has led an enthusiastic life of community service in church, school, and public affairs, will be paired with an ordained minister of another denomination for this overseas flight.

He will be flown to an American base overseas, as yet undesignated. It may be Greenland, Germany, France, a Pacific island, or Korea. Cole as the layman on the team will bring our men overseas news from home and assurance that we at home are deeply concerned for the welfare of those who have been asked to give up so much in the service of their country.

Choice of Fred Cole for this type of mission is ideal—he has been a public speaker on many occasions, is successful in civic, church, and personal life, and has know-how and experience developed over a life-time to understand the problems of others.

His selection and that of Milford Estill, young Artesia attorney now overseas on an European study mission, prove that Artesia is the home of people of public spirit, of service, especially to the church.

Perhaps it would not be amiss to make the personal observation that in an age when many men regard active work in the church—or even attendance—as something sissified and unworthy of time, these two men have a deep and convincing sense of Christianity's twentieth century missionary spirit.

NEW MEXICO RANCHERS are keeping a wary eye on the federal drought relief program, the Associated Press reports. According to Horace Hening, executive secretary of the New Mexico Cattle Growers association, ranchers are withholding judgment until they see how effective it is. Most of the ranchers feel the program could have been put into effect a month ago to have the desired effect, Hening said. RAIN IN MID-WEEK AT Carlsbad was welcome, but "we still need a lot more," County Agent Richard Marek said. One farmer said the 17 to 19 of an inch would help cotton for another week or so.

Drastic But Temporary Water Curbs in Duke City Points to Unceasing War Against Waste

SAVE WATER
Some rather drastic water curbs are in effect in the city temporarily.

The purpose of these curbs to conserve the supply of water so that there will be some for everybody and so that there will be enough pressure in all water lines for protection in case of fire.

Water rationing, like any other form of rationing, is made necessary primarily because some people will not conserve scarce resources voluntarily. Rationing of course, penalizes the man who does conserve voluntarily, but there seems to be no way to avoid thus penalizing him.

We think that the time has arrived for vigorous enforcement of the city's ordinance prohibiting waste of water. New pumping capacity will increase the amount of water available on top of the ground later in the summer. In the meantime, however, strict conservation will be necessary as long as the weather is warm and dry. That probably will mean most of the summer.

Albuquerque never will be able to afford any waste of its underground water supply, regardless of how much pumping and storage capacity may be provided. The man who will not cooperate voluntarily in water conservation should be forced to do so in the public interest.

Water that is withdrawn from our underground reservoir needlessly today will not be there at some future date when it is needed more urgently. —Albuquerque Tribune.

SOONER, BETTER
A new system for listing property for taxation soon will go into effect in this county and eventually in the entire state.

This system, known as the "unit assessment system," will set up a card index file of all pieces of property. The property will be listed continuously under its legal description. Changes of ownership will be listed on this permanent record. In the present system of assessment, each piece of property is listed under the name of the owner. When ownership changes, often there is confusion over the payment of taxes. There have been instances of a new owner paying taxes for several years only to find his property put up for delinquent tax sale for a year prior to his ownership.

As we understand the new system, it will make it impossible for this situation to occur. Taxes received will be applied to the earliest tax debt against the property.

Chief Tax Commissioner Fred Moxey believes that the new system will go a long way toward equalizing tax assessments in the state. Also it will eliminate "unknown owners" and double assessments on the same property, he says.

Almost certainly this system will enable tax assessors to get property on the roll that for one reason or another now escapes taxation.

The new system probably cannot be put into operation here for next year, but should be operating for the following year.

The sooner, the better, we say. —Albuquerque Tribune.

ANDERSON'S HEART GOOD
The July issue of The Reader's

Digest will make interesting reading in New Mexico political circles.

In it, Senator Clinton P. Anderson gives a strong hint that he will run for his U. S. Senate seat again in 1954.

Entitled "The Best Advice I Ever Had," the Digest piece tells how Anderson recovered, one time in his youth, from a severe attack of tuberculosis in an Albuquerque sanitarium, by refusing to let it worry him.

He goes on to relate how, three years ago, a heart specialist advised him to "resign from the Senate, pack up and go home. You've got a bad heart." Anderson rejected the advice, but took things easier, got plenty of sleep, refrained from speech making and refused to worry.

"The last time I had a check-up," the senator writes, "the doctor laid down his stethoscope and said, 'That heart's in pretty good shape.'"

Whether his heart can stand up under a strenuous primary and general election campaign in 1954 remains to be seen, but it appears that Anderson's remarks are about as strong a hint of his intentions as he will make until the day he files for the office. —Carlsbad Current-Argus.

MUST GET TOGETHER
Maybe the cattlemen of the Southwest ought to settle their differences, and get together on what they expect in the way of drought relief before they expect too much of government.

Obviously the small operators are unanimous in favor of price supports for the industry, while they charge that those who are opposing the program are "oil-rich millionaire ranchers who can afford to be rugged individualists." That is an angle that has not developed until within the past few days, and leads one to wonder how much truth there is to the charge.

The cattlemen seem to be almost unanimous that something more than loans and lower feed prices will have to be done for the industry if it is to maintain its beef production on the high national scale that has prevailed up to now.

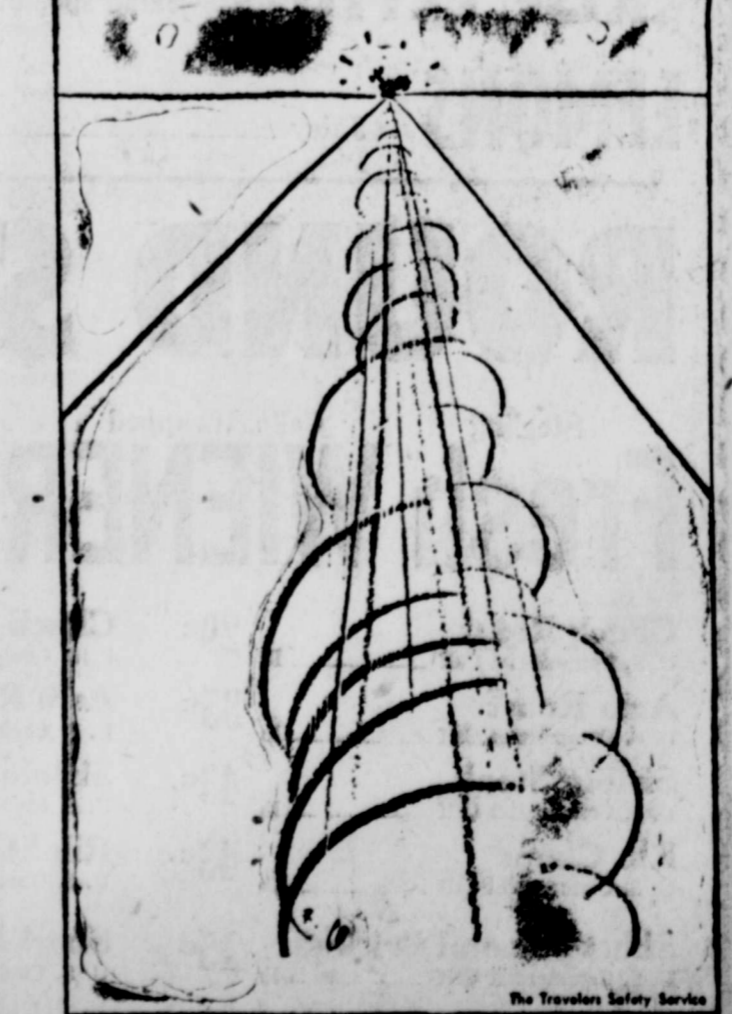

Whether the dissenters are those who are wealthy enough to weather out the present crisis is also problematical, but in any case it will have to be admitted that the smaller ranchers constitute the greater part of the industry and therefore theirs is the plight that needs some sort of relief.

Naturally larger operators are apt to be the most influential in this crisis, unless President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson are well enough acquainted with the industry to see beneath the surface of all the conditions that affect it.

We have the notion that the smaller operators will be able to make their point clear. Maybe they have already done it. At any rate theirs is the pressing problem for government to understand and undertake to solve. —Roswell Record.

FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

Only Excuse for Excess Profits Tax Is Need for Money, Dempsey Declares

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Congressman from New Mexico
WASHINGTON, July 16. — Congress, put to the first real test of the sincerity of its promises to reduce the nation's tax burden, has yielded principle to expediency and extended the excess profits tax to Jan. 1.

Of the 325 members of the House who voted for the extension not one defended the tax. All were forced to agree with administration officials and Congressional majority leaders that the tax is "unjust, unfair, iniquitous and injurious."

The only justification offered was that the government needs the money.

The 77 House members who voted against continuance of the tax, of whom I was one, took the position it was not necessary to vote for something that even its proponents admitted to be wrong in principle, when the need for the money could be overcome by eliminating waste and unessential spending.

We believe that balancing the budget is desirable but that it is also desirable and necessary to keep faith with the people whom we are elected to represent.

Partisanship was not involved in the action by the House. The vote did not follow party lines. Staunch Republicans like Chairman Reed of the Ways and Means committee, and Representatives Mason and Busbey of Illinois, refused to yield to the pressure applied by the majority leaders. In opposing the extension, Rep. Busbey said:

"A tax is either fair and equitable or unfair and inequitable, irrespective of who is President, whether he be a Democrat or a Republican. That has nothing to do with the problem confronting us. Nearly everyone, including the President and the Secretary of the Treasury admits that the excess profits tax is unfair, inequitable, vicious and unworkable. Therefore I will not vote against something I believe is wrong."

In my opinion the tax extension will not yield the estimated $800 million return. On the other hand it has been shown to deplete influence on government income. The excess profits tax encourages waste, and small businesses into debt, limits their growth.

It destroys incentive and up venture capital. It tends to create unemployment by reducing business expansion. All factors can contribute only to the reduction of national income and the volume of tax income for government.

I voted against the last tax increase bill in 1951 and shall continue to oppose all such measures until government spending is to a sensible and justified level. Then more taxes will not be needed. They can be cut as have promised.

Drought Relief Expedited—

Congress has completed quickly on legislation that will provide adequate relief to drought disaster areas, including nearly all of the counties in New Mexico. It is indicated now some of the remaining six counties may be included in the eligible for assistance.

Congress has granted the secretary of Agriculture authority to make necessary loans even in excess of $50,000 to ranch farmers and other business hard hit by the drought. Supplies held by the government already are being made available in the counties included in the program. Loans made will enable the stockmen, dairymen and farmers to purchase such supplies as are necessary for local business houses.

It appears now that the program should be in full effect before the end of July.

TEXANS PRAY FOR RAIN

AFTER OFFERING statewide prayers for rain to end the four-year record dry spell which has threatened crops and stocks with disaster, thousands of Texans look hopefully at the rainless sky. In Mexico ranchers and farmers saw their prayers answered when more than two inches of rain fell, the first this year. In the photo Phil W. Williams, youth leader of the Prairie Creek Baptist church near Dallas, reads from the Bible as his young class bows their head in prayer for moisture. (International Soundphoto)

Citizens Demands on Congressmen Lead To Growing Bureaucracy, Rotary Told

Ross Malone, well-known Roswell attorney and U. S. deputy attorney general in Washington, outlined his experiences during service with the government in 1952 in a talk before Artesia Rotarians Tuesday.

The department of justice is a much larger branch of the national government than is generally realized, Malone pointed out.

It includes the immigration bureau, administration of federal penal institutions, and the federal bureau of investigation.

During his tenure Malone had daily conferences with J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI. Malone described him as "very conscientious."

One thing learned in Washington, Malone said, was the practice of listening to several news commentators and analysts, rather than just one.

The people of the United States themselves cause the bigness of the federal bureaucracy, Malone declared.

Because of demands through senators and representatives, cer-employee." But, he added, the average government employe is just as serious in his job "as you and I are in our work."

Welcomed as a baby Rotarian Tuesday was C. G. Clark, welcomed into the organization by Bert Muncy.

Visitors Tuesday were Charlie Vandervart, Carrizozo Springs, Texas; and L. H. McGrane, Barstow, Calif. From Roswell were Phil Helmig, Joe Lackey, W. W. Wilson, Frank Bumpers, R. G. Bird and Malone.
