New Park Improvement Plan Prepared for Municipal Park

Outline of a program to further improve the city's parks was presented to city council Wednesday night by Councilman George Ferriman, chairman of the council's park committee. The program calls for lights, rest rooms, and permanent installed garbage cans at City park, just south of Driller Park. A 16 by 12 building housing rest rooms would cost an estimated $925. Ferriman said the building would be constructed with slab logging, concrete floor, and built-up roof. Plumbing would cost $520. City labor would construct a septic tank. Ferriman also recommended lighting of the park for night use.

Delegation Gives Recommendation For Three Members

Earl Cox and Artie McAnally were appointed to the Artesia board of education late Thursday to round out the five-man panel named by the state board of education to succeed an Artesia board the state asked to resign last month. Word of Cox' appointment, last of the five, was phoned to the Artesia Advocate at 9 last night. McAnally was named about 4 p.m. Thursday. All five members are to serve only until the next school board election. In announcing Cox' appointment, Raymond Huff, president of the state board, said "I sincerely hope we have arrived at an equitable solution for North Eddy county school representation, and that the people of North Eddy county may unite in building a strong school system."

City Employees' Insurance Plan Is Studied

A program to provide hospital, surgical and polio insurance for city employees was presented before city council Wednesday night by spokesmen for an insurance company. City employees are not now covered by any policy. Outlined by John Simons, Jr., Artesia representative for New York Life Insurance Co., and Ed McIntyre of New York Life's Denver office, the program provides for 20 per cent participation in premium payment by the city. Under proposals submitted by the company, surgical benefits of $300 for any one case, hospital benefits of $10 a day for room charges for a maximum of 31 days for any one case, $200 additional hospital expenses and 75 per cent of any charges over $200, and in-hospital medical expense of $3 a day, plus a $5,000 polio policy would be provided. The plan would go into effect only if 75 per cent of employees signed for the program, as well as 75 per cent of those with dependents signed for both themselves and their dependents. Cost would be $3.16 for employees only, with the city paying 63 cents and the employee $2.52 a month. For employee and family, the cost would be $11.29 a month, with the employee paying $10.66 and the city 63 cents. Cost to the city would be $347.76 a year.

Kiwanis Club Gives $1,000 To Fair Building Program

Gift of $1,000 from Kiwanis club to the Eddy County Fair Association, Inc., was announced Thursday by Vernon Bryan, president of the civic club. The $1,000 is to be used on construction of the fair's first permanent building, which may eventually become a civic building suitable for activities demanding big floor space. Kiwanis has originally raised the $1,000 as a start in a campaign to erect a civic building. Bryan said the civic building project will be included in the fair corporation's permanent buildings. Estimates Set—Estimates have been set at about $15,000 for construction of the fair's first permanent building. Proposed is an expandable building which can be added to as funds become available. The all-steel building will be expanded by adding sections to either end of the structure. Meanwhile, Paul L. Frost, recently-elected permanent chairman of the fair corporation, said a meeting is being planned for next week. In its plans for a building will be further considered. Members of the association have been seeking further bids on cost of steel buildings in preparation for the meeting. Seek Gifts—Additional gifts for the fair association's first permanent building are being sought, Frost said, and will be actively solicited when costs are definitely learned and plans available. The building must be ready by this fall, Frost said, since Artesia must host the annual 4-H and Future Farmers of America Livestock Show and Sale. The show last year became a two-day event because of its size. At present Artesia has no building large enough to house the show overnight.

The two men and six other persons were arrested in a raid Saturday night by State Patrolman Arnold J. Smith and Deputy O. E. Lusk. The six, charged with public intoxication, were later released.

'Doc' Loucks Dies Thursday, Rites Saturday

Funeral services for Don Anderson "Doc" Loucks, a resident of Artesia since 1908, will be held Saturday. He died early Thursday morning at his home at 411 S. Second following an extended illness. He was 78 Thursday. Known throughout Artesia as "Doc", he was widely known in the city. For years he ran an electrical shop, rewinding electric motors, on the site of the Central Valley Electric Co-op warehouse on Quay avenue. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Nazarene church. Rites will be conducted by Rev. R. C. Gunstream with Rev. William McMahan assisting. Pallbearers will be Warren Carter, Carl Shelton, James Merrifield, Clyde Hope, Dean Brown and H. C. Briscoe. Burial will be in Woodbine cemetery. Paulin Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements. He came to Artesia in 1908 from California. He was born July 23, 1875, in Ohio, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Loucks. June 25, 1935, he married Rebecca Lee in Artesia. She survives her husband. Other survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Effie Patton and Mrs. Lora Kennedy, Meadville, Pa.; two step daughters, Mrs. Thomas Harwell and Mrs. Edgar Wood, both of Artesia, and three grandchildren.

Debate Over Type of Pipe For Reservoir Continues

Debate over what kind of pipe the City of Artesia should install in a two-mile pipeline to connect a proposed reservoir with the existing city water system continued in council meeting Wednesday night. A. T. Mosley of Pipeline, Inc., of Odessa, presented a plan to seal steel pipe with an inside and outside plastic coating. Mosley said the plastic coating would eliminate all internal corrosion. His firm can spray plastic under pressure on the inside of pipe, paint the outside, and lay it. There have been no failures in the method so far, he told councilmen. The plastic coating prevents build-up of mineral deposits in the pipe. John H. Collins of Albuquerque, representing Thompson Pipe and Steel Co. of Denver, presented an argument for steel pipe, pointing out that interior enameling of the pipe prevented rust and corrosion. Asked by Mayor J. L. Briscoe as to whether the line could not be laid as pipelines are, with the line being welded, coated, and then laid, Collins said it was possible but recommended welding of pipe lengths into 120-foot sections, coupled with dresser couplings, to give the line flex. Meanwhile, councilmen are seeking further information on concrete pipe. The concrete pipe is built around a steel tube, also enamel-lined and is made with reinforced concrete. The debate centers around cost of materials. Estimates by engineers place cost of the two-mile line at $110,000 for pipe if cast iron is used, but only $52,250 if steel pipe is used. Both prices are for 16-inch line. Before making final decision councilmen agreed to further investigate steel pipe as well as concrete pipe.

Council Debates Competitive Bidding on Second-Hand Items

Can there be competitive bidding on second-hand items? The city council was faced with the problem Wednesday night, and decided there couldn't be. Debate came following a request by Dr. John J. Clarke, Jr., chairman of the council's street committee, for new equipment, including a four-speed three-quarter ton pick-up truck, a payload, and air compressor with jack hammer and accessories. Councilmen entered a debate as to whether the equipment, especially the truck and air compressor, could not be purchased at less cost second-hand. Mayor J. L. Briscoe firmly stated he did not believe there could be competitive bidding on second-hand equipment, since there is no standard of comparison among second-hand items. Because of cost of the equipment proposed, councilmen voted to instruct the city engineer to call for bids only on the air compressor and attachments. Council members agreed the compressor was one item of equipment most needed by the city. It was voted to receive bids only on new equipment.

Feed Shipment For Stockmen Is Expected Anytime

Shipment of cottonseed feed for North Eddy livestock growers is expected "anytime" according to Elmer Cheek of Carlsbad, administrative officer for the Eddy county production and marketing administration. (PMA). Feed was expected Monday in Artesia, but Cheek said no word has been received on shipment. Wilson and Bullock feed stores and the Artesia Alfalfa Growers association will distribute feed when it is received in Artesia. Cheek said growers who have signed for the feed must still pay for feed before pick up. Stockmen may pay either at the PMA office in Carlsbad, picking up a receipt so they can receive feed when it does arrive or when Cheek again comes to Artesia next Wednesday. Ten-day rations will be issued growers in the first shipment. As soon as other shipments arrive, larger rations will be issued. Original plans call for a 30-day ration to be issued growers.

Autoist Hitting Truck Charged With Intoxication

Hearing for an autoist who was driving a car Wednesday when it collided with a City of Artesia truck has been set for this morning, police officials said Thursday. James Dow Baker, 27, of Shawnee, Okla., driver of the car which struck the city truck, is in city jail, charged with driving while intoxicated and driving without a driver's license. Baker, and a companion, J. W. Green, 34, of Hobbs, were hospitalized for treatment of minor injuries following the accident. Green was not held by police. Driver of the city truck was Stephen Sanchez, 411 Kemp, who was not injured. Police reports said the Baker car was not drivable after the accident. The collision occurred at 3:40 p. m. Wednesday at the Main and Fifth street intersection.

Josey, Jr., engineer for Sam Sanders Paving company. Josey said county commissioners and Sanders are near agreement on a program to pave the rest of Hermosa. County equipment and men would do excavation work on the new road and put in base, with Sanders blacktopping the road. Curb and gutter will be put in on the north side of the road and as much as owners will sign for on the south side of the road. City Engineer W. D. Fowler said grades to be used in the project will prevent difficulties with water distribution.

Two of three recent bicycle thefts at Artesia public swimming pool have been returned by police. Stolen bicycles owned by the children were reported to police over the past few days by three mothers. Two of the bicycles were recovered. Thefts brought a caution from police that thefts may be deterred by padlocking bicycles while owners are in the swimming pool or attending movies.

Barren, Arid Monument Valley Is Subject of Profusely Illustrated University Book

University of New Mexico will release Wednesday a profusely illustrated book dealing with that vast barren and arid valley of the Utah-Arizona border, called Monument Valley.

Richard E. Klinck, the author, collaborated with George T. Henry, photographer, to produce "The Land of Room Enough and Time Enough."

It is the story of Monument Valley, a fabulous area about 30 miles wide and 40 miles long, an integral part of the Navajo Reservation.

Monument Valley has come into its own in recent years after Hollywood's movie-makers and uranium prospectors made the discovery that the region contained both scenery and material to make atom bombs.

"Stagecoach" was filmed there in 1939, the first of a series of flicker performances set against the backdrop of one of America's most ancient and interesting spots.

With its movie fame it was inevitable that tourists should also discover that here was a bit of noteworthy scenery off the beaten path.

Harry Goulding, whose name appears on state maps, led the influx of sight-seers into the region which could be successfully reached only by bouncing along in one of Goulding's rough-riding jeeps.

Goulding homesteaded a section of land along the nearest approaches of the region to the highway. There, amid sand, creosote brush and sage brush, he constructed a white man's oasis where a price travelers could get a meal and a night's lodging.

Included were inside plumbing and electric lights.

Of still more recent date the atomic energy commission and the Vanadium Corporation of America, together with innumerable private prospectors, have infiltrated the area which was once a quite undisturbed and silent valley.

This part of the infiltration is quite odious to Klinck. He terms the coming of the prospectors as "the rape of the valley."

"Cliff Dwellers' ruins, some of them dating from 1200 A. D. have been ruthlessly destroyed by prying prospectors with no interest in preserving the invaluable historical relics," Klinck wrote.

Klinck, a grade-school teacher near Denver, and Henry, an Iowa photographer—they are both from Cedar Rapids—invaded Monument Valley in 1950 with cameras and cameras.

Klinck and his wife, a nurse, were so fascinated with the Navajo territory that they applied for jobs with the Indian Agency as an elementary teacher and nurse. They thought themselves well qualified and, even though the Indian Service had advertised for just such a couple, nothing has ever come from their application.

As so many others authors, Klinck takes his digs at the treatment accorded the Navajos by the U. S. government: broken treaties, poor educational facilities, limitations on livestock herds, and other plights which he terms "pitiful."

The Monument Valley book has some 30 pages of pictures, many of them four-color jobs.

The attractive binding was lettered by Prof. Ralph Douglass, UNM art department, and author of an outstanding text on calligraphy which has had wide adoption. Douglass also did the map on inside front cover.

The book is due on the stands by July 15, E. B. Mann, UNM Press director, stated today.

Bobbie Jean Frost returned to her home at Orlando, Fla., after visiting her father, Paul Frost, for a month. She boarded a plane at Carlsbad and will spend one day with her uncle, O. M. Frost at Washington, D.C. and then fly on to Orlando.

Mr. and Mrs. Batie owned and operated the Dee's Laundry and Dee's Grocery and Service Station on the north highway for about eight years.

Colorful Base for Scale Model Drilling Rig Manufactured

A colorful base containing a dramatic cross-section of earth strata, oil traps and other underground formations is being produced by the American Petroleum Institute to supplement the scale-model drilling rig made available to the industry last year.

Combined as a unit, the rig and the base make an exceptionally attractive exhibit, according to H. B. Miller, executive director of the department of information.

He said it could be used to good advantage in schools, colleges, and training programs. He added that it also made an eye-catching display for windows and lobbies, exhibits, fairs, shows and other public events. He said it would be especially useful during the industry's observance of Oil Progress Week next fall.

Miller pointed out that the 30-inch drilling rig, which is an authentic scale-model, and the cut-away base provide viewers with a graphic picture of how oil men drill through the earth for the powerful liquid which now supplies 62 per cent of the nation's energy requirements.

Miniature flood lights and moving parts add to its attractiveness, he said. The base contains a continuation of the drill pipe, which actually turns in a simulated drilling operation. The probing bit gives the appearance of tapping a formation of both oil and gas.

Highlighting the various strata in the base are seven bright colors, all of which are brought out dramatically through the use of "black light" lighting.

Among other things, the new base illustrates a salt dome, an anti-cline, a stratigraphic trap, an earth fault and a shale formation. All of these are familiar to oil men and geologists, and to the majority of students in high schools and colleges.

The base, which is made of wood and finished in a lustrous black, weighs less than 10 pounds. It measures 31" x 14 1/2" x 17 1/2" in size. Miller described it as a perfect supplement to the model drilling rig which made a big hit with oil men last year.

Both the base section and the rig may be obtained through the Department of Information of the American Petroleum Institute at 50 West 50th Street, New York 20, N. Y.

The combined unit is priced at $295.00 plus shipping charges; the base alone is $135.00. Both units are hand-constructed. In addition a carrying case at $18 is available to move the rig from place to place.

Childbirth originally was ascribed to the influence upon mothers of the sun, rain, rivers or trees.

Irby Opens Expanded Drugstore This Week

INTERIOR PHOTO of greatly enlarged Irby Drug Store indicates openness which addition of 360 square feet of floor space have added. Irby is holding grand opening of remodelled, enlarged drug store today. Complete new fountain and lunch facilities have been added, and seating capacity doubled. Store is completely departmentalized for group arrangement of related products. (Photo by Gable)

Take the word of Bayless Irby for it—drug stores have changed tremendously during the 41-year experience of one man in the business. Irby, who this week-end formally opens his modern, expanded store in the Carper building, started in the business 41 years ago in Boswell, Okla. Changes from the limited stock in drug stores of those days to the huge inventories of today's stores

Where not too many years ago the average illness was 10 or 11 days, today it is down to three days.

Where typhoid fever, for instance, used to put a man out of commission for at least a month, today it takes only a few days. The saving in income is great compared to cost of the drugs which effectively battle illness.

Perhaps the greatest change in the drug store business has been introduction of the self-service principle of modern merchandising, Irby believes.

Forty years ago merchandise in drug stores, as in other stores, was kept under glass in a showcase, or on a shelf behind the counter.

Openly Displayed—Today, as in the new Irby store, 95 per cent of the merchandise is on easily-viewed, easily-reached display stands.

Irby came to Artesia in the fall of 1946, managing the McCall-Parsons drug store.

Nine months later, on July 4, 1947, Irby bought the store. It was then a store 20-feet wide.

Steady expansion of the business has resulted in the modern store of today, which features smart interior decorating, maximum display of merchandise, new fountain fixtures, and personal comfort in an air-conditioned, well-lighted space.

Floor Space Added—More than 360 square feet of floor space has been added to Irby's in its latest expansion. It was primarily included to provide more display of merchandise.

Irby has also expanded in other cities over the past two years. Two years ago he opened a drug store in Seminole, Texas, and, three months ago, a store in Hagerman.

In latest expansion of the store has been added completely new fountain and cooking facilities, as well as an increase in seating capacity from 42 to 79.

Added to merchandise lines in the store are costume jewelry, Artesia souvenir items, new toys, and a line of His men's cosmetics.

Most Complete—Irby believes the Artesia drug store now boasts the most complete cosmetics department in the state—that's what he's been told by major distributors in the line.

The store is completely departmentalized. It has a gift department with items from fine crystal to leather goods, electric appliance department, as well as grouped arrangements for toys, baby needs, patent medicine, men's needs, jewelry, dental, first aid, vitamins—and a host of others.

With a greatly expanded store, Irby strictly adheres to a policy he has followed ever since entering the business—satisfaction with purchases and service or your money back.

"Of course, that's abused by a few people," he believes, "but the great majority of people respect what we stand for in making that type of guarantee."

In Irby's are 17 full-time employees, a decided increase over the three employed by him after first buying his Artesia store.

Family Dominates—

The Irby family itself dominates the Artesia and Hagerman drug stores. Mr. and Mrs. Irby are in the store constantly, eating most of their meals there.

Dillard Irby is at Hagerman, operating the store there. Lowell is a student in pharmacy at Southwestern college, Weatherford, Okla., where he'll be a junior in the fall, and Eugene, who will be a freshman in high school, is cashier and man-of-all-jobs at the Artesia store.

The art of painting is said to have been introduced in Rome from Ethiopia by Quintus Fabius in 291 B. C.

Business News

Jack and Jill Shop owners added several lines of material wear. Among the garments dresses, slacks, underthings, swim suits.

At Goodner's Bakery, Mrs. Goodner is working again from 8 a. m. until 3 p. m.

Safeway manager, Orville and family have returned from visiting relatives in Portales, Clovis. He has been on vacation part of which has been spent in town.

Ray Bell of Roswell and Leonard Blackwell of Big Spring, Texas, were in town Thursday on business concerning Cosray Station here.

have been amazing. When Irby started in the business—he was 12 at the time—drug stores did nearly three-fourths of their business in patent medicines, the rest in prescriptions, candy, a few notions. And the drugs of those days were based on herbs and minerals. With the introduction of antibiotics, the drug line has changed. Medicines today are a great deal more expensive. More Effective—But, as Irby points out, today's drugs reduce length of illness.

Inner Workings of Calcutta Pool Indicate Chance to Make Fast Profit on Player—Maybe

By STANLEY SUTTON
The clubhouse is beginning to take on a new look as there has been quite a bit of progress in the construction of the new downstairs room.

This involves enclosing the porch in a very substantial manner and we can visualize what a comfortable addition this will make to the club facilities.

We tried out a club institution the other evening and it turned out to be pleasant but not profitable. Before one of the Midland ball games and after a hard day at the office, we indulged in a pair of refreshing brews and then started in at the head of the baseball buffet.

Seizing the large plate we made the first stop and took on a hot fresh cloverleaf roll and came to the entrees. Chef Joe was look-on and since we did not want him to feel slighted we took a slice of tender roast beef as well as a small portion of chicken a la king.

Then moving along without wasting time we loaded on some small boiled and buttered new potatoes, some fresh green beans and a pat of butter. Next we came to the snacks so picked up six olives, three black and three green, some crisp bread and butter pickles and went to the salad department.

Personally, we like a fish salad so had some tuna, but we passed up the fresh vegetables available and also the potato salad (too many calories).

We paused to see if we had missed anything and we had, but did not wish to appear piggyish. Besides, the plate was filled. We took this snack over by the west window and Clyde brought some coffee which we chose over the lead tea and after while all this food went away. By this time it was easy to see which was the best so we went back and took on a little more of the chicken and the salad and the potatoes and the olives. It was getting close to game time so rather than eat any great amount, we settled for some pie a la mode for dessert with another cup of coffee. The food was better than acceptable but the real cause for complaint was when we got the bill.

The board of directors is certainly going to hear about this. It is time such high-handed overcharging should stop. There were only two of us and the managers had to gall to charge a dollar apiece. You can sure we did not let the incident pass without comment.

The local tournament is going to have the interest of golfers for the next few weeks. In a discussion on the porch the other evening it developed that someone did not understand the workings and percentages of a Calcutta Pool. In fact, it seems several do not understand so maybe I can clarify or further confuse. A Calcutta Pool is so named for a very good reason which I do not know.

In its simplest form a Calcutta Pool is a pot of money made up from proceeds of sale of Calcutta Pool tickets and half the proceeds of an auction of all the players in the championship flight.

Paying out the money is in proportion to the matches won by the individual player and payment is to the person who purchased the player in the auction. Payment is made on the basis of 5 per cent for winning each of the first round matches, 5 per cent for each of the second round matches, 10 per cent for each of the semi-final matches and 20 per cent to the winner of the final match. The owner of the champion will receive 40 per cent of the entire pot.

It is a usual custom to take out 10 per cent of the gross pot to pay the owner of the consolation winner. This is done before the 5-5-10-20 pot is made up. The other half of the auction proceeds goes to the ticket holders fortunate enough to have drawn a player with their ticket in the lottery.

To illustrate, let's use this year's tournament as a hypothetical example. Fred Cole is in charge, so the first thing he'll do is to get his henchmen organized and started selling Calcutta Pool tickets at a dollar apiece. These tickets will sometimes be used as a pass to the barbecue line but they are really lottery tickets.

Assuming Fred is completely successful and he usually is, at the time of the start of the drawing, he will have $500 in the pool. Everyone who has bought a ticket or tickets will have his ticket with him and a matching stub is in the drawing box.

All the names of the contestants in the championship flight are placed in another drawing box and a draw is made simultaneously from each box. The first name out, say, is Richard Harrall. The ticket drawn from the Calcutta stub is No. 461 and belongs to Leslie Martin. This means that Martin has drawn Harrall and temporarily "owns" him.

Now the auction begins. Assuming that Fred is the auctioneer, he will point out that Richard qualified with a 75. He is a good golfer, constantly improving, and can beat most of these older men. This, of course, is Fred's story and he has a good one on every contestant.

Leslie will probably open the bidding with $50 since he owns the player and is going to receive half the sale price, anyway. Maybe he wants to buy Richard himself in which case it would only cost him half the sale price in cash.

Anyway, Harvey Yates likes Harrall's chances and when he bids $90, Fred says "Sold!" and Harvey now owns him. Harvey pays in the $90, Leslie gets $45, and $45 goes into the pool which after the sale of the first player now contains $545.

This procedure goes on until every one of the 16 players is drawn and sold. The favorites such as Bullock, Bourland, and Loyd all sell for greater amounts than the first sale but several players with very little chance to win even a first round match will sell for as low as $30. Let's say that Dave Saikin bought Bullock for $250, and Harry Gilmore bought Bourland for $200. When all the players are sold the average selling price was $100 so the ticket holders who drew players received $800, and the pot was increased by $800, and now contains $1,300—10 per cent or $130 is now taken from this figure for the consolation winner—leaving a pool of $1,170. By some figuring now we can determine that the winner of each first round match will return his own $58. The winner of each second round match will pay another $58.50. Winners of each semi-final match pay $117 and the winner of the championship finals pays an additional $234.

Let's say that Bullock won the tournament and beat Bourland in the finals. Saikin, owning Bullock, and with an investment of $250, won $58.50, when Bullock won his first round match, $58.50 when he won the second, $117 when he won the semi-final, and $234 when he won the final, or a total of $468. Gilmore received the same except for the final prize money and came out with $234. If you played

Losing Four Games Straight Drops Drillers Far From First

Losing four games in three days this week has pushed Artesia's Drillers farther and farther from second place, but not far enough to lose third place.

Artesia got off on the wrong foot by losing a double-header to Big Spring, 6-4 and 4-3 Monday night, then Tuesday was pounded 15-7 and Wednesday edged 2-1 by league-leading San Angelo.

Artesia went to a 3-1 lead in the sixth inning of the first game Monday night against Big Spring, but in the seventh the Brones put over four runs on hits off Herman Reyes.

In the second game Artesia bunched its three runs in the first inning, almost countered by two Bronc runs on a homer in the bottom of the same stanza.

Big Spring scored a pair in the third to put on the finishing touches. Both teams were scoreless for the rest of the game.

Despite a string of long balls Tuesday night, San Angelo's Colts routed Artesia 15-7, freely hitting Andy Alonzo and reliever Bob Pressley.

Alonzo gave up 13 hits, with the first six Colt batters in the first inning rapping base knocks.

In the fourth Colts hit Alonzo eight more times. Les Mulcahy, Joe Bauman and Joe Fortin all homered. Wednesday night the decision by San Angelo was fortifying closer, but still ed questions concerning er or not Driller batting is in a slump. The loss put Artesia five out of first place. Artesia's lone score came Joe Bauman's homer in the with none on.

Doctor Discusses

of Strains

You afflicted occasionally frequent pains in the neck or around the ear? Or pains in the neck, up the back of the scalp, the mastoid region, or frequent headaches? Let us find that pain is a sensation registered in the brain as a result of irritation to nerve fibers.

Can nerve fibers be irritated? When one is the victim of an ailment, such as a fall or collision, the jerking of the head or the pull of the vertebrae of the neck out of their normal position, the vertebrae then produce pressure on the nerves which is the cause of the irritation. Neck and nerve pressure can also build up over a period of years on postural or occupational Chiropractor is trained and equipped to locate the source of pressure caused by misalignments of the vertebrae, and is able to adjust the vertebrae back to their normal position, thereby removing irritation from the nerves.

It is not true to say "we are doing everything possible" unless chiropractic is included.

For further information regard Chiropractic you are invited to call Dr. Kathryn Behnke, Graduate Chiropractor, W. Richardson, phone 861.

They take reservations for parties and invite the public to come and visit them and try their fine Mexican foods, according to Bill Bloodworth.

Back Overseas

THERE HAVE BEEN far too many things that are hard to understand during the Korean war—things which have the people asking questions and seeking information. Whether those running our armed forces do not know what they are doing or whether letting the state department run our war activities is to blame, we would not know.

But we do know that too many things have happened and are happening that should be corrected and should be eliminated. We have commented before about those not properly trained, not qualified, and not ready, being sent to Korea. We have discussed the length of time they have remained in Korea. We have discussed the fact that those wounded twice in World War II have been returned to battle in Korea and have been wounded the third time.

Now there has been brought to our attention a Marine who served for some 14 months in Korea, has been home for some 12 months now and is being sent back overseas. We don't know why. Certainly he does not know why and he doesn't ask. He doesn't ask because he doesn't think he will be told. Recently the Marines have indicated they would lose 120,000 men between July 1 of 1953 and July 1 of 1954.

They hope to keep some 20,000 of the 120,000 they are going to lose and they are seeking to recruit others. They are going to lose the 120,000 because of the Marine Corps attitude and because of their own failure to grant the rights and privileges due the boys in service.

And just as long as they continue their present attitude, they are not only going to lose those whose service time expires, but they are going to lose others they might gain because these boys back in civilian clothes are going to do a little talking. It has all been a little difficult for us to understand just why the Marine Corps or any other branch of the service has been guilty of some practices. They don't deserve to be able to keep men in service as long as they continue their present attitude.

We don't know whether this is the fault of those heading the corps or the officers and commanders at the various bases all just sitting around waiting to be retired. Some of these officers have very fine war records and it is difficult to understand the indifference they are displaying today. But when men have done their tour of duty in Korea—we wonder why they have to be sent back overseas after a year at home. We wonder why those entitled to advancement, to promotions, and to recognition do not receive this. We wonder why those entitled to liberty or to furloughs have to fight to get it when they are located in this country and their tour of duty has been in the states.

We have said before and we repeat now that the outstanding job of endeavoring to put round pegs in square holes and square pegs in round holes is being carried out by the entire Armed Forces, Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps. They argue they need men to fire rifles—that is true. But they also need to take men out of certain jobs for which they are not trained and qualified, put them into jobs where they are qualified and to replace them with men able to do the work they have been attempting to do. We have the greatest Armed Forces of "misfits" probably of any nation on the face of the earth. And it is about time that Congress, some civilians and even some of the "high brass" get interested in the situation and work out the injustices, the unfair practices, the stupid blunders and the unreasonable actions, if we want to have an Armed Force able and capable of defending America.

Good for All of Us

WHETHER THE RECENT remarks of Lt. Gov. Tibo Chavez in which he accused the New Mexico press of failure to have a fair, honest, and accurate report of the doings of the Legislature applies to The Advocate or not, it is still good for us to be criticized.

Lieutenant Governor Chavez was making his reports at a meeting of the state press association and he directed these remarks for the most part at the wire services and the larger papers. News is supposed to be the unusual, something different or something out of the ordinary. Lieutenant Governor Chavez was reminding the press they have a responsibility to their readers as well as to the members of the legislature.

He was pointing out that it was the duty and the responsibility of the press to back and support worthwhile legislation, which concerned the entire state. Newspapers are inclined to take the sensational, the unusual, and the different and play it instead of giving much attention to the routine. And newspapers can be guilty of failure to perform their duties just as members of the legislature can be criticized and condemned for failing to do those things for the best interest of the state rather than doing those things to aid their own party or their own interest.

All of us need to be criticized now and then. It helps to improve our viewpoint, it reminds us we can and do all make mistakes, it also reminds us we don't always do the best job we know how to do and we should be doing. The Advocate has its short comings because it is operated by human beings. All human beings make mistakes, they fail to do all they could or should do, and we fail at times in presenting two sides of a question.

Our own interest usually influences us in making decisions or doing certain things. So maybe the press didn't agree or didn't like all of the things that Lieutenant Governor Chavez said at the press meeting but it will have a tendency to make them do the best job they know how to do and be a little more careful in their future reporting of actions of the state legislature.

That's Where Our Money Goes

THERE HAS BEEN one expenditure recently by our federal government which perhaps will be overlooked by the average taxpayer but Congressman J. J. Dempsey is pointing it out in his weekly letter. The American taxpayer is now going to buy shoes for the natives of Uganda and Tanganyika. The mutual security administration announces a gift of $625,000 to Great Britain so that the British can loan the money to small businesses, including cobblers, in those tropical Africa British dependencies.

The fact, Congressman Dempsey points out, that a very great percentage of the inhabitants of those countries never have worn shoes and probably never will doesn't appear to have been questioned in connection with this give-away. The only shoe wearers are those natives who have served in the British Army and appear to like them. None of these people, however, will ever know that we provided the money. Under our foreign aid policy Britain gets all the credit while we pay the bills.

Just another example of those "do-gooders" we have in our state department and our other bureaus spending and giving away the American taxpayers' money with no intent and purpose except to give.

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING— Foot, Mouth Disease More Serious Than Public Realizes, Can't Be Stamped Out With Vaccines

PROTECT OUR BORDER

The recent outbreak of Foot and Mouth Disease in Mexico is more serious than most people realize, and it is not likely to improve unless present government officials of the Republic of Mexico change their attitude. The new Secretary of Agriculture of Mexico is insisting that the disease can be eradicated by vaccination alone—without the slaughter of infected animals, and has taken the program out of the hands of the Joint Mexico-American Commission which did such an effective job of eradication before this recent outbreak.

All scientific information available strongly indicates that Foot and Mouth Disease cannot be eradicated by vaccine alone, and that slaughter and burial of all infected animals is the only effective means of complete eradication known at this time. During the five-year period in Mexico from 1946 to 1951, Foot and Mouth Disease did not spread into the northern arid plains of that country, and at no time did it come within more than 350 miles of the United States border. This 350 to 800 mile strip of land which served as a buffer area was, and still is, the most effective protection the United States has against the disease. All cattle that came into this country from Mexico during the period the border was open originated in this disease-free region. After the huge investment this country made in Mexico to eradicate Foot and Mouth Disease in recent years, it is improbable that our U. S. Department of Agriculture, the State Department, or Congress will now accept anything less than complete eradication of the disease by recognized methods—and if the lack of cooperation on part of Mexican officials continues, it will result in this nation keeping the border closed to the importation of any type of livestock for a longer protection period.

This recent outbreak in Mexico cannot be compared to the occurrence of the disease in Canada, where government officials there stamped it out in the fastest possible time by the slaughter and burial method, in full and complete cooperation with representatives of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry. —New Mexico Stockman.

TO JENCKS' DEFENSE

C. D. Smotherman of Carlsbad, member of the executive board of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter international president, are spearheading a campaign to raise money to defend Clinton Jencks, a Mine-Mill union leader who has been indicted on a charge of lying by swearing he was not a communist.

HUNTERS KILLED 250 RABBITS

in the first series of an eradication drive at East Grand Plains Sunday, with 150 hunters taking part. The hunters spread out over a two-mile area, 50 to 75 yards apart, to organize the kill, then started covering ground.

THE ROSWELL RECORD

looked back into history last week and found the most disastrous fire that ever hit the community occurred in the afternoon of July 2, 1903. The fire is said to have started with an explosion in the back of a barber shop. Flames spread rapidly, destroying five business buildings and warehouses on the east side of Main between First and Second streets.

affiliations with communist organizations. Specifically, Jencks is charged with making a false affidavit to the national labor relations board on April 28, 1950, that he was not a communist. A second count charges that Jencks made a false affidavit denying communist affiliation. Harvey Matusow, who said he worked as a spy for the FBI, testified before the McCarran Senate committee in Salt Lake City last October that he joined the communist party for a time in his FBI role and attended meetings at the San Cristobal valley ranch near Taos, at which Jencks was present. He testified that the ranch was "a guest ranch catering to communists," and that Jencks there discussed the possibility of a Mine-Mill strike in the copper industry to hinder America's efforts in the Korean war.

In appearing before the McCarran committee, Jencks refused to say whether he was or had been a communist on the ground that the "Constitution provides that a witness cannot be compelled to bear witness against himself." —Carlsbad Current-Argus.

OF JUDGMENT

Lt. Gov. Chavez of Belen dished it out with a heavy hand in his address to the state press convention at Las Vegas Saturday night. The lieutenant governor asserted that members of the last Legislature were dismayed at what they called the failure of the press to report the legislative session "fully, accurately and without bias." Mr. Chavez accuses editors and publishers of devoting more attention and headlines to the Redak liquor bill than to more important matters of legislation. In the first place, the reporting of the Legislative session was done by reporters, not by editors and publishers. Mr. Chavez is assailing a group of hard-working reporters who did a remarkable good job of separating a little wheat from a whole lot of chaff in the Legislature.

In the second place, what is important legislation and what is not important legislation is a matter of opinion. If Mr. Chavez did not consider the liquor bill important, a great many members of the Legislature did. And we doubt that Mr. Chavez speaks for a majority of the legislators. Quite possibly the reporters who covered the Legislature and the editors who handled the stories in the news rooms were at least as well qualified as Mr. Chavez to pass on the importance of this bill which was considered by a great many legislators to be very important.

And quite probably the vast majority of reporters and editors who had anything to do with covering the Legislature were more free from any political bias than was Mr. Chavez who has been running for office as a partisan politician for quite a spell now. —Albuquerque Tribune.

COFFEE TALK— Things in School Business Hang Fire Until New Board Appointed

WHILE ALL THE FUSSING is going on about the school board, things are hanging fire until one can be got together again and settle down to work. For instance, there are teachers— including two assistant coaches — to be hired, according to the grapevine, but the school administration can't release anything until the board meets and acts. When the board does get together, there'll be a monumental pile of work facing it.

BAYLESS IRBY, GENIAL

proprietor of Irby Drug Store, has the unusual distinction of having been an active Oklahoma state senator for two years after he moved to New Mexico. It happened this way: Irby was re-elected to a four-year term in the Oklahoma state senate. At the end of two years he resigned when moving to New Mexico. But his resignation was rejected. Thereafter, Irby communicated from Artesia to Oklahoma when the state senate was in session, and was called in Artesia for advice concerning appointments. Prior to his service in the state senate, he served two years in the Oklahoma legislature's lower house. He came to Artesia after being defeated in a race for the U. S. house of representatives. "That's the only time I was ever defeated," he says, "and it's the best thing that could have happened to me."

A U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

bulletin says the average tenure of local chamber managers is about 2½ years. HERE'S AN UNUSUAL wrinkle turned up in the city council meeting the other night: City vehicles are liable for damages in case of an accident, except where they are involved in the governmental activities of the city. According to interpretations, if a fire truck or a police car should plow into and injure or kill someone while making an emergency call, the city is not liable. But, as we understand it, if a water department truck plows into someone or something, the city is liable for damages. A CHECK OF ARTESIA ADVOCATE files the other day, during work on a history of the newspaper, revealed the first bill to form an Artesia county was introduced by Gayle Talbot, founder of the newspaper, in 1904. Introduction of the bill reads almost exactly like that introduced and defeated in 1951 and 1953. Before the legislature acted on it, Talbot wrote that if the bill should pass Artesia trusted Roswell and Carlsbad would find us better neighbors. If not, woe be unto them, he wrote. Carlsbad has been reaping that ever since. According to Talbot's account, a group of Carlsbad "leaders" defeated the bill then.

Inside WASHINGTON MARCH OF EVENTS

New Russian Ambassadors And New Foreign Policy?

Recall of Leading Envoys Has Washington Pondering Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—There are increasing signs Russia will replace her ambassadors to the United States and Great Britain, and the big question is: Is it a routine rotation or does it represent a shift in Soviet foreign policy? Several weeks ago the Kremlin summoned home its ambassadors from Washington, London and Paris. There was no explanation. But the coincidence of the withdrawal of the Red diplomats from the western big three aroused wide speculation of some obscure Russian maneuver. Now, Moscow has announced that its ambassador to France has been replaced by Sergei A. Vinogradov, the Soviet's World War II emissary to Turkey. Diplomatic circles have become convinced this foreshadows new ambassadors to Washington and London as well. But the significance of the shift still remains a mystery. Most educated guessing centers around the belief that the move has some connection with the spreading revolt against Communism in the European satellites.

Some sources go so far as to speculate a new Soviet envoys will bring to their posts a changed diplomatic "line" designed to ease East-West tensions, liberalize life in the iron curtain countries, and slow down mounting free world pressures against Communism—all moves to quell anti-Communist riots that have made headlines.

GIANT "WHIRLYBIRD"

—The civil aviation world is waiting expectantly for the flight of the first commercially feasible passenger helicopter, expected to hop into the air at the Piasecki factory in the fall. The giant 44-passenger "whirlybird" is being readied now for its first flight tests. Late this summer it will undergo static ground tests. Designed the XH-16 for the Air Force, for whom it will be produced, the rotary-winged craft is equal in size to a DC-4 and is expected to be used primarily as a troop carrier. However, civil aviation experts predict that when it comes up for civilian use it will find a great market in replacing regular airplanes on flights of less than 300 miles. Such a craft could cut actual flying times between comparatively close metropolitan areas by at least one-third.

FOOD WEAPON

—It may prove futile, but the administration intends to plump hard for President Eisenhower's request that he be given sweeping authority to send surplus food overseas when famine threatens. The humanitarian aspects of the request are obvious. The administration will stress the political factors involved. The idea is more cold war strategy than anything else. Mr. Eisenhower would like to have a free hand in rushing food wherever necessary, not only to feed hungry people but to keep them from turning Communist.

WHITE HOUSE TIMING

—Veteran politicians are puzzled at the timing of the recent White House demand for extension of the excess profits tax by a maneuver to by-pass the tax-writing House ways and means committee. The move, originating in a bill in the rules committee, later was withdrawn. But it left political scars on Capitol Hill which may prove malignant. The big puzzle is: Why didn't the administration Timing is wait until the deficit—far larger than expected—was revealed? Puzling
