Police Judge Upholds Job Of Secretary

Police Judge John Ellicott said Saturday morning that he would employ a new private secretary to succeed a former part-time employee who resigned following an ultimatum to the judge from the police commission.

Judge Ellicott also indicated disappointment in attitudes taken by the city council, which approved the police commission's recommendation that he discharge the secretary or face an office move.

"It looks like they would have said something to me if there was anything wrong with the manner in which I am conducting the affairs of my office," he stated.

On Saturday morning, the police judge said he had not been officially notified of the recommendation, pointing out that all he knew of the action was "what I read in the papers."

Ellicott last Friday upheld his position in employing an office secretary, whom he pays out of his private funds.

"It seems that they (the commission and council are a little presumptuous in asking me to discharge a part-time secretary who was paid out of my private funds and who was doing an excellent job in her duties," he declared.

"I had no intentions whatever of discharging the secretary until the council or commission showed me why she should not have had the position or why she was causing, in any, friction or disharmony between the police and judicial office."

"I have no quarrel with anyone and I know of no bad relations between the police and my office, as indicated in the alleged recommendation by the police commission," he continued.

"I have been performing my duties to the best of my knowledge and have been conducting the affairs of the office as I saw fit."

The judge explained that the secretary, a former police secretary, had been employed by him for three hours daily and that he had paid her $75 a month from private income sources.

"Her duties were to assist me with reports which I could not do because of bad eyesight. She handled no money and therefore offered no grounds for the action taken by the commission," the judge added.

"For the same token, I shall have to employ a new secretary. My eyes are in no condition for me to complete those reports, a job that will have to be performed by someone."

Schools Get 147 New Students In Second Week

Artesia schools showed an additional increase of 147 students during the second week of school, Vernon Mills, assistant superintendent, has announced.

The increase, greatest in seventh grade, brought total enrollment in the system to 3,570 students, the largest number on record for that period.

An entire new classroom of seventh graders—32—had enrolled in junior high during last week, he said, bringing the total number of students there to 558. The enrollment includes one sixth grade, and seventh and eighth grades.

High school showed a large increase, he said, and now has an enrollment of 700 students in four grades. Increase over the previous week amounted to 21 new students. Showing a loss during the week was the tenth grade at high school, which was down five students over the previous week.

Increase by grades are as follows: Pre-first, 23; first, 13; second, 15; third, 4; fifth, 6; sixth, 6; seventh, 32; eighth, 10; ninth, 17; tenth, 5; eleventh, 7; and twelfth, 11.

City's Ugliest Man Sought In Band Parent's Contest

Here we go again, but you can't say it's the same old thing.

This time it's an "ugly man" contest, sponsored by the Band-Aids to help support travelling expenses of High school and junior high bands.

"Although we do expect to make a little money on the event, its real purpose is to publicize Saturday's cake-walk which will be held in downtown Artesia at 2 p. m.," said Justin Bradbury, high school band director.

Three Artesia service clubs readily boasted they had "ugly" members and promptly chose two candidates each. But Rotary refused to admit any of their members were

Drillers Slug 6-5 Win Over 'Ashers

Artesia blasted a trio of hurlers and capitalized on a brace of strategic Potasher errors last night while racking up a 10 inning 6-5 win and even out the Longhorn League semi-finals three-all.

The playoff finale will be unveiled at Montgomery Field in Carlsbad at 7:30 tonight when the Potashers will attempt to end a three-game win streak held by the Drillers.

Starting pitcher for tonight's outing will be the "entire staff," according to Field General Joe Bauman. He used four in last night's fray, beginning with Len Ruyle and going through Pat Monahan for seven and a third frames and Andy Alonso for two frames, who subsequently was credited with the win.

Carlsbad began scoring in the first with a pair of runs, which showered Ruyle for Monahan. Five hits and a Carlsbad error, however, shoved the Drillers ahead 5-2 in the bottom of the frame.

Single Potasher runs in the second, fifth, and eighth frames tied the county 5-5, and the game went into the extra inning after a scoreless ninth.

Shallow Site Planned for New Wildcat

Harry Leonard staked location for a new shallow wildcat to be dug about 20 miles east of Artesia last week to clad drilling activity in the county.

Meanwhile, Richardson and Bass sent their Federal-Harrison southeast of Carlsbad to 16,511 feet, to set a new depth record for New Mexico Wildcats. Their Cobb-Federal prospector, which later was plugged back to 7,000 feet, set an earlier depth figure of 16,459 feet.

The Leonard prospector, located 1,980 feet south and 660 feet west from the section line in 17-17S-29E, will be dug to 2,400 feet and will be his Leonard-Folk No. 1. The test has been contracted to Roach and Shepard.

Plugged and abandoned was V. S. Welch's No. 8 Three Sands-State in the Artesia pool.

The Lovington man said he picked the man up about 30 miles west of Artesia, and that the rider pulled a gun and said "let me drive." He told police that he went to sleep, and when he awoke about 30 miles east of Artesia, the rider was gone, as was his billfold and money.

Child Critically Injured When Struck By Car

Last rites for 6-year-old Jesus Hernandez, who was critically injured when struck by a car late Thursday afternoon, were held from Our Lady of Grace church Saturday morning, with Fr. Stephen Bono officiating.

The child, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Hernandez of the Atoka community, was dead on arrival at Artesia General hospital where he had been taken for treatment after being struck and run over by a car driven by 15-year-old Gary Fanning, also of Atoka.

According to Deputy Sheriff O. L. Lusk, the child darted in front of the Fanning vehicle on a farm-to-market road east of the Atoka community.

Young Fanning, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fanning, prominent Atoka farmer, told investigating officers the child darted into the street and stopped momentarily at the sound of the car's horn.

When the boy stopped, Fanning told investigating officers, he took his foot from the brake, but the boy then dashed ahead of the vehicle, and was struck by the right front fender. The boy's neck and both legs were reported broken.

Burial was in San Marcos cemetery under direction of Paulin Funeral Home.

School Men, Women Attain New Growth

The high level of professional leadership of Artesia faculty members was continued this week-end with the announcement that the school ranked at the top of larger schools in a recent campaign of the National Educator's Association.

Travis Stovall, president of the New Mexico Educator's Association and high school principal, revealed that more than a fifth of the teachers throughout the state, who have become life members of NEA, are from Artesia.

"This is one example of participation by Artesia faculty members further emphasizes their thinking toward professional development," he said. "They are to be commended for their professional growth, which we hope will continue."

Fifty per cent of the faculty members in the Artesia system recently pledged life membership in the NEA, as a part of the national organization's Centennial Action Program, Stovall said.

The 74 Artesia members were a part of the 347 life memberships secured during the past three months, exceeding a goal of 325. Stovall estimated that the total would reach 400 for the state before the end of October.

Purpose of the life membership campaign, Stovall explained, was to provide funds for construction of a $2 million education building in Washington, D. C. All life membership dues will be applied to that project, he said.

Originally a five-year project, Stovall said the executive committee of the New Mexico Educator's Association decided upon an intensive campaign to reach its quota within three months. The period ends Oct. 31.

"Undoubtedly, New Mexico is the first state in the nation to reach its goal," Stovall stated. "The assistance and cooperation given by Artesia faculty members certainly should place the Artesia high on the group throughout the country."

Particular thanks for the Artesia placing was issued to Mrs. Nell Hamann, president of the Artesia Educator's Association, who began the local campaign at the start of school.

Stovall also revealed that every member of the faculty of the Artesia school system are members of the city, state and national associations, a position they attained last year.

Bulldogs Take Easy Season Opener, 40-0

Add it up to anything you want, but the 40-0 drubbing handed New Mexico Military Institute by the Artesia Bulldogs Friday night could well point up to a season equal to last year or better.

Beginning with a touchdown drive in the first three minutes of play, the Bulldogs powerhoused down the field for four other TD's and a pair of field goals, something new for Artesia grid squads.

Ground gainers — mostly juniors — piled up an amassive 354 net yards gained on the ground while their supporting line held the Colts to their single yard net advance.

The Bulldogs' passing attack fell short of expectations, but Coach Reese Smith termed that factor one of the most rough spots to be smoothed out.

The team made only one completion, which was good for 25 yards and which set the stage for a Bulldog touchdown the third period.

Only in passing did the Colts surpass the Bulldogs, completing six of 15 attempts for 37 yards gain and a single first down. Most of the Colt passing was done in efforts to overcome losses thrown from the line.

The Bulldogs pushed up 11 first downs rushing, and a single in passing and penalties. WMMI took a pair rushing and also got a single in passing in penalties.

Johnnie Riddle, junior quarterback, connected with the first of two touchdowns nearly in the opening quarter when he plunged over from the 12 to climax a 60-yard drive.

He repeated in the fourth, breaking around right end for 57 yards to make the score 23-0. Larry Beadle made his third conversion. The TD ran followed a denied pen

CVE Travellers Add Former Oklahoma Aggie Defense and Ball Control Specialist to Lineup

A 23-year-old Oklahoma A. and M. college basketball letterman who twice helped his school to conference championships, has been added to the Central Valley Electric Travelers in Artesia. Coach G. C. Goodwin has announced.

A LOT OF DEFENSE—Keith Smith, former Oklahoma A. and M. College defense and ball control specialist, is expected to make a good showing this year with the CVE Travellers in the National Industrial Basketball League. Coach G. C. Goodwin has revealed. (Paul Frost Photo)

He is Keith Smith, one of the outstanding defensive players in the Missouri Valley conference.

Last year, the 5 foot ten inch ball control artist was a member of the Graham-Hoeme Plowboys of Amarillo while serving at Amarillo Air Force Base. The Plowboys were Panhandle representatives at the National AAU tournament in Denver.

A native of Oklahoma, Smith is married and the father of a year-old son. While in high school in Oklahoma City, he drew laurels as a cage and baseball standout, but, after graduation, Goodwin said.

Entering Oklahoma A. and M. in 1947, Smith was a member of the Aggie freshman team, receiving training from the Iron Duke of Basketball, Hank Iba. His team that year was undefeated.

In his sophomore year and first season on the varsity, the squad moved to the Missouri Valley Conference Championship, the All-College championship, and advanced to the finals of the NCAA tournament. He won conference, all-college and national honors in each event.

During his junior year, his team finished third in the conference championship race, and was runner-up in the all-college tournament.

As a senior, his team regained the conference championship again won the all-college tourney, then placed fourth in the NCAA meet, again receiving individual player honors.

Following graduation, he entered the Air Force at Amarillo, where he was chosen to play with the Air Force all-stars, and helped lead the Amarillo team to the finals of the All-Air Force cage tournament held in Omaha.

"Keith is known for his superior defensive play, is tops in ball control, and is a great play maker," Goodwin said. "He is not noted for his offensive ability, but comes through in the clutch when points are needed the most."

of the people who are there and other shots of Artesia included. Traveling with the group is Lee Bell and his television and radio orchestra, through the courtesy of Scotty's Club. They will give a program while pictures are being made.

Scott urged as many Artesians as possible to be present so the community would make a good showing on the program. Communities from Clovis to Carlsbad and from Hobbs to Ruidoso will be included on the program.

Business Firms Add Personnel; Finish Remodelling Programs

Artesia Pump Company on the S. Highway have a new sign. Painted blue, the sign is placed on the roof above the entrance. Each letter was hand carved by Robert Yeats an employee, and stands unadorned, all of which adds up to an unusual sign.

New employees at the Palace Drug Store are Mrs. Jack Young, Mrs. E. W. York and Miss Mary Jo Carter. They are all employed in the fountain department.

Ray Bell, of the Ray Bell Oil Co., Roswell, was here Friday conferring with Ray Brady on business concerning the Cosray Service Station on the South Highway.

Cole Motor Co. has added a new car salesman to their personnel. He is J. T. "Jake" Hamrick, who lives with his family at 1209 W. Merchant.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. "Skinny" Smith have moved to California. He has been associated with his brother, R. C. Smith for some time in the Artesia Mattress Factory on the Hope Highway. R. C. Smith

Women Drivers Safer?

ARE WOMEN DRIVERS SAFER than men?

You can't prove it by the National Safety Council. In the 1953 edition of "Accident Facts," its statistical yearbook, the council is forced to beg the issue because no one knows how many miles each sex drives.

The council does know that eight out of 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents in 1952 were women. Drivers of the fairer sex figured in 12 out of 100 motor vehicle accidents of all types.

But there are not as many women drivers as men, and they drive a lot less. Since no one knows how much less, the argument must go on.

Doesn't Insure

HEALTH AND ACCIDENT insurance, as written today in some policies, is a "black sheep," according to a popular magazine article.

"Exclusion" and "exception" clauses in policies, stating conditions under which the company will not pay, are often deceptive and misleading. Printed in small type and frequently ambiguous, these clauses are seldom understood by the average policy holder who believes himself fully protected, writes John Alan Appelman, past president of the Federation of Insurance Council and author of a standard 25-volume work on insurance law and practice.

After fumes from a defective gas heater had killed a Texas woman, her heirs could not collect her insurance. The company held that the fumes were poisonous, pointed to a clause in the policy which excluded poisons from conditions under which payment would be made and won its case in court.

Citing several instances in which similar technicalities have been invoked to absolve the insurance companies of liability, Appelman concludes that health and accident insurance "at its worst can amount to a legalized confidence game that involves browbeating the sick, the maimed, and the bereaved."

In an attempt at reform, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners is aiming at nationwide uniformity in policy provisions. Some state officials are refusing to approve new policies which contain ambiguous terms, major companies are abandoning deceptive clauses and other traps for the unwary.

Meanwhile, the article in the September Reader's Digest continues, every insurance buyer should read his policy thoroughly and insist on an explanation, in writing, of any obscure provisions.

He should select his insurance agent as carefully as he chooses his doctor or lawyer, and see that his insurance is placed with an established company.

Finally, he should seek no bargain, for health and accident insurance is never cheap.

EVERY DAY 1,100 American homes are struck by fire.
Every day 30 Americans die in fires.

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

Curious Tourists Disappointed Over Size of First Atomic Bomb Crater; 700 Attend Tour

LAST SUNDAY'S first "open house" at the original atomic bomb crater on the desert bordered by Alamogordo and White Sands Proving Grounds apparently was a posterity something or other.

Reporting on the event, the Alamogordo News said "Twisted bits of steel, remnants of the tower atop which the A-bomb was exploded was just as photogenic as any bathing beauty, judging from the quantity of film that was used."

"One lady, obviously because of historical significance attached, held up a piece of the steel tubing and the cameras ground away. The kids, not to be outdone, gathered up small bits of trinitite. Larger pieces, still considered to be radio active, had been scraped up and buried."

A harassed crowd—dust and heat wise—attended the first public showing of the crater in

This means there's one chance in a 100 you'll have a home fire this year—and one chance in 20 that you'll have a home fire during the next five years.

What's the nation's No. 1 Fire Hazard? Just open your purse or reach in your pocket and it'll probably be there—a pack of cigarettes. They look harmless. But the cigarettes—and the matches you use to light them—keep firemen busy. They cause one-third of all our fires.

Should you give up smoking? No, but you can follow a few principles. Keep ash trays handy in all parts of the house, and use them.

Never smoke in bed.

When emptying ashtrays, make sure every cigarette butt is out. Never toss a lighted match away. Hold it for a moment after you've used it then put it in an ash tray. Don't toss it into a wastebasket. Remember, apparently burned-out matches sometimes re-light.

Check your living room before retiring or going out at night. See that no cigarette butts are burning under sofa cushions or on tables.

Other general precautions, in addition to combatting cigarettes and matches, are:

1—Be prepared. Recognizing the possibility of fire in your home, decide now how you would be able to save your life if you awoke tonight and smelled smoke.

2—Figure out two possible routes to the ground from any upstairs bedroom. It is unlikely that both escape routes would be cut off by flames during the early part of the fire.

3—If a fire starts, arouse everyone in the house by making as much noise as possible. Make it your first duty to get everyone out of the house.

4—Call the fire department immediately.

True Objectivity

THE ALBUQUERQUE Journal has complained that its tax assessments are too low.

The Journal run a series of stories on low assessment valuations in Albuquerque, and pointed out an assessment of only $16,620 on a building that cost $180,000 exclusive of land, owned by the publishing company and occupied by radio station KOB.

When the owner complained of the low assessment, the assessor refused to increase it, saying it was in line with other Albuquerque assessments.

Objective looking at a few other things in New Mexico might help things too.

For instance, does a car weigh less as it gets older? One would be led to believe so by the way motor vehicle registrations are scaled, in New Mexico. The first year a car owner pays full price registration on a new car. The next year it's a little less, and after it's four years old, the registration fee is the same.

Theoretically motor vehicle licenses are based on weight, so much per 100 pounds. Weight, according to prevailing theories is what wears out highways. So the heavier cars weighing the most pay a higher tax than does the man in a Jeep.

A man with a 1949 car pays $10 a year to use the highways under the current system, a mighty low fee.

The state highway people continually point to lack of money in the coffers to keep pace with highway construction.

In our understanding, the motor vehicle registration fee is a usage fee—those who use the highways pay for them through the fee and state gasoline taxes. Does a car driven 20,000 miles in a year wear out the highways less four years later, even though it's driven 20,000 miles that year too?

If we need highway money in New Mexico, that sliding scale might bear looking into.

Oil Conservation

WE HEAR A LOT about conservation these days—water and soil and many another element.

We in the oil country ought to know that industry has been practicing conservation for a long time. Water flooding and repressuring enable oil men to extract the maximum amount from a given field.

Processing helps too—modern gasoline, for instance, has a revised molecular structure through which oil men have made two gallons of modern gasoline equal three of 1925 vintage.

A special tour by the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce.

Conversation within the group, the news reported, indicated the crater to be much smaller than most visitors anticipated, and aroused a good bit of disappointment.

Only small pieces of the steel tower on which the bomb was exploded, remained, except for the crater. However, the tower, which was embedded in concrete, still stands about 100 feet tall.

NEARLY EVERY DAY comes a report from some New Mexico city which is paying homage to returning prisoners of war, men who were subject to untold torture and maltreatment during the months of imprisonment.

The latest is Gallup, which opened its heart and purse to a shy Japanese-American soldier who won the Medal of Honor for a "suicidal" mission on which he

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—

Immediate War If Truce Broken Reasonable Demand of Recent American Legion Convention

MEMBERSHIP IN THE NATIONAL ORGANIZATION OF THE AMERICAN LEGION IS A CROSS SECTION OF THE INHABITANTS OF THE PEOPLE, AND THEREFORE DECISIONS THAT THEY REACH AFTER SOLEMN CONFERENCE AND DEBATE, ARE APPT TO BE A REFLECTION OF A BIG PERCENTAGE OF THE PEOPLE.

In St. Louis convention the Legion adopted a resolution that demanded an all-out war against Communism in Korea in case the truce is broken, with it being urged that atomic weapons be used and that the enemy forces be driven from the land.

Furthermore it backed up United States opposition to admission of Red China into the United Nations.

These two resolutions reflect the opinion of most people. Hardly a person one met with to discuss the Korean war who did not believe that the United Nations forces would be justified in using atomic weapons to defeat the Communists.

And it is likely that one would not find anywhere a person who would support the proposal to make Red China an ally by means of becoming a member of the United Nations.

The Korean war was badly handled, which is about what the American Legion implied in its resolution. It could have been ended in complete victory if the United States had used more military gumption and less compassion. It probably could have been ended differently if the United States had not been hind-

HEARTENING TO U. S.

From the American point of view, the landslide re-election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in West Germany is heartening. Here at long last, is a stable government with powerful support from the citizenry for Europe. In the long run, a strong Germany is a far better block to Kremlin imperialism than whole armies of American soldiers.

In spite of the expenditure of billions in France and Italy, those two nations have become neither stable politically nor strong economically. Both are plagued with powerful communist parties. They are doubtful risks if and when Moscow is tempted to risk a showdown in Europe.

It is ironic that the chief enemy of World War II—only two years ago—should have by now become Europe's main hope for a peaceful future.

The people of West Germany have completely rejected the blandishments of communism for the more enduring virtues of the west. They see communism in action every day. They know it for what it is, and have proved they want no part of it.

TOURIST GOUGE

While the tourist bureau is concentrating on the aim to keep the vacationer here for as long a time as possible other forces are at work to curtail his stay or else entirely forestall the stop. In this we are reminded that in many of the resort centers it's open season on the tourists when anything of a special nature is on tap. Up at Raton, where La Mesa Park has drawn thousands during the racing season—from July 4 to Labor Day—complaints have been heard that hotels and tourist courts have hiked rates to double or more that usually charged during other times of the year. Cafes and other eating houses, according to reports, have in many instances followed suit and boosted prices on the menu to unreasonable figures. That the practice of gouging the tourist is being followed is openly admitted by many motel and restaurant operators.

And like complaints come from Albuquerque where the nationally known state fair starts a week's run late this month. When the big show starts the lid is off the price list and the sky is the limit—automatically up goes the price of lodging. Not so many complaints have been heard about gouging by Duke City eateries, but hotels and tourist courts have come in for rather caustic comment. The motto seems to be "Get 'em while the gettin's good." Many have been the vows voiced by this writer to never attend the fair again so long as rate boosting is in vogue, but, the redeeming thing is that there's always a new crop of suckers.—Roy Record.

COFFEE TALK— Black Cats Not Real Reason for Potasher's Downfall Sunday Night

BLACK CATS rained in the visitors' dugout here Sunday night, but Driller fans say it wasn't the black felines which caused the Potashers' downfall.

A pair of rabid Driller fans—Cliff Plattner and James Anderson—allegedly spent the day Sunday scouring back alleys and streets for the superstitious-lending animals.

Three of the cats, claimed to be the most effective superstition in baseball, were dropped in the dugout before game time.

But Driller fans say the 'Pots downfall, however, came from the timely home runs of Joe Bauman and Les Mulcahy, which accounted for five of the eight Driller runs.

WHEREVER THE chance presents itself, Principal Travis Stovall and assistants hand high school students the opportunity to make known their opinions in elections on city, state and national fairs of my office," he stated.

Friday, the students gave their approval to all amendments to be considered in today's special election. The vote followed explanations of each amendment, and the pros and cons of each.

Students elections, school officials declare, are among the best means of teaching the responsibilities of citizenship to future voters and officer holders.

THEY'RE STILL talking about the Bulldogs' overwhelming defeat of NMI here Friday night. But the talk is not of jubilant optimism, particularly after results of other games began filtering into the city.

The high school griders Friday night made it known that they would be a team to consider when the "time comes for state honors.

More depth, more reserve speed, and an experienced line bolstered by able tutelage of a quartet of mentors, give the Bulldogs an optimistic season approach.

SOME FOLKS are still wondering why the city council did not designate some member to seat the police commission's controversial recommendation to Police Judge John Ellicott.

All that was done, officially, apparently, was to establish the recommendation on council minutes and let it go at that.

Women Drivers Safer?

ARE WOMEN DRIVERS SAFER than men?

You can't prove it by the National Safety Council. In the 1953 edition of "Accident Facts," its statistical yearbook, the council is forced to beg the issue because no one knows how many miles each sex drives.

The council does know that eight out of 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents in 1952 were women. Drivers of the fairer sex figured in 12 out of 100 motor vehicle accidents of all types.

But there are not as many women drivers as men, and they drive a lot less. Since no one knows how much less, the argument must go on.

Doesn't Insure

HEALTH AND ACCIDENT insurance, as written today in some policies, is a "black sheep," according to a popular magazine article.

"Exclusion" and "exception" clauses in policies, stating conditions under which the company will not pay, are often deceptive and misleading. Printed in small type and frequently ambiguous, these clauses are seldom understood by the average policy holder who believes himself fully protected, writes John Alan Appleman, past president of the Federation of Insurance Council and author of a standard 25-volume work on insurance law and practice.

After fumes from a defective gas heater had killed a Texas woman, her heirs could not collect her insurance. The company held that the fumes were poisonous, pointed to a clause in the policy which excluded poisons from conditions under which payment would be made and won its case in court.

Citing several instances in which similar technicalities have been invoked to absolve the insurance companies of liability, Appleman concludes that health and accident insurance "at its worst can amount to a legalized confidence game that involves browbeating the sick, the maimed, and the bereaved."

In an attempt at reform, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners is aiming at nationwide uniformity in policy provisions. Some state officials are refusing to approve new policies which contain ambiguous terms, major companies are abandoning deceptive clauses and other traps for the unwary.

Meanwhile, the article in the September Reader's Digest continues, every insurance buyer should read his policy thoroughly and insist on an explanation, in writing, of any obscure provisions.

He should select his insurance agent as carefully as he chooses his doctor or lawyer, and see that his insurance is placed with an established company.

Finally, he should seek no bargain, for health and accident insurance is never cheap.

Fires in Homes

EVERY DAY 1,100 American homes are struck by fire. Every day 30 Americans die in fires.

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

Curious Tourists Disappointed Over Size of First Atomic Bomb Crater; 700 Attend Tour

LAST SUNDAY'S first "open house" at the original atomic bomb crater on the desert bordered by Alamogordo and White Sands Proving Grounds apparently was a posterity something or other.

Reporting on the event, the Alamogordo News said "Twisted bits of steel, remnants of the tower atop which the A-bomb was exploded was just as photogenic as any bathing beauty, judging from the quantity of film that was used."

"One lady, obviously because of historical significance attached, held up a piece of the steel tubing and the cameras ground away. The kids, not to be outdone, gathered up small bits of trinitite. Larger pieces still considered to be radio active, had been scraped up and buried."

A harassed crowd—dust and heat wise—attended the first public showing of the crater in

This means there's one chance in a 100 you'll have a home fire this year—and one chance in 20 that you'll have a home fire during the next five years.

What's the nation's No. 1 Fire Hazard? Just open your purse or reach in your pocket and it'll probably be there—a pack of cigarettes. They look harmless. But the cigarettes—and the matches you use to light them—keep firemen busy. They cause one-third of all our fires.

Should you give up smoking? No, but you can follow a few principles. Keep ash trays handy in all parts of the house, and use them.

Never smoke in bed.

When emptying ashtrays, make sure every cigarette butt is out. Never toss a lighted match away. Hold it for a moment after you've used it then put it in an ash tray. Don't toss it into a wastebasket. Remember, apparently burned-out matches sometimes re-light.

Check your living room before retiring or going out at night. See that no cigarette butts are burning under sofa cushions or on tables.

Other general precautions, in addition to combating cigarettes and matches, are:

1—Be prepared. Recognizing the possibility of fire in your home, decide now how you would be able to save your life if you awoke tonight and smelled smoke.

2—Figure out two possible routes to the ground from any upstairs bedroom. It is unlikely that both escape routes would be cut off by flames during the early part of the fire.

3—If a fire starts, arouse everyone in the house by making as much noise as possible. Make it your first duty to get everyone out of the house.

4—Call the fire department immediately.

True Objectivity

THE ALBUQUERQUE Journal has complained that its tax assessments are too low.

The Journal run a series of stories on low assessment valuations in Albuquerque, and point out an assessment of only $16,620 on a building that cost $180,000 exclusive of land, owned by the publishing company and occupied by radio station KOB.

When the owner complained of the low assessment, the assessor refused to increase it, saying it was in line with other Albuquerque assessments.

Objective looking at a few other things in New Mexico might help things too.

For instance, does a car weigh less as it gets older? One would be led to believe so by the way motor vehicle registrations are scaled, in New Mexico. The first year a car owner pays full price registration on a new car. The next year it's a little less, and after it's four years old, the registration fee is the same.

Theoretically motor vehicle licenses are based on weight, so much per 100 pounds. Weight, according to prevailing theories is what wears out highways. So the heavier cars weighing the most pay a higher tax than does the man in a Jeep.

A man with a 1949 car pays $10 a year to use the highways under the current system, a mighty low fee.

The state highway people continually point to lack of money in the coffers to keep pace with highway construction.

In our understanding, the motor vehicle registration fee is a usage fee—those who use the highways pay for them through the fee and state gasoline taxes. Does a car driven 20,000 miles in a year wear out the highways less four years later, even though it's driven 20,000 miles that year too?

If we need highway money in New Mexico, that sliding scale might bear looking into.

Oil Conservation

WE HEAR A LOT about conservation these days—water and soil and many another element.

We in the oil country ought to know that industry has been practicing conservation for a long time. Water flooding and repressuring enable oil men to extract the maximum amount from a given field.

Processing helps too—modern gasoline, for instance, has a revised molecular structure through which oil men have made two gallons of modern gasoline equal three of 1925 vintage.

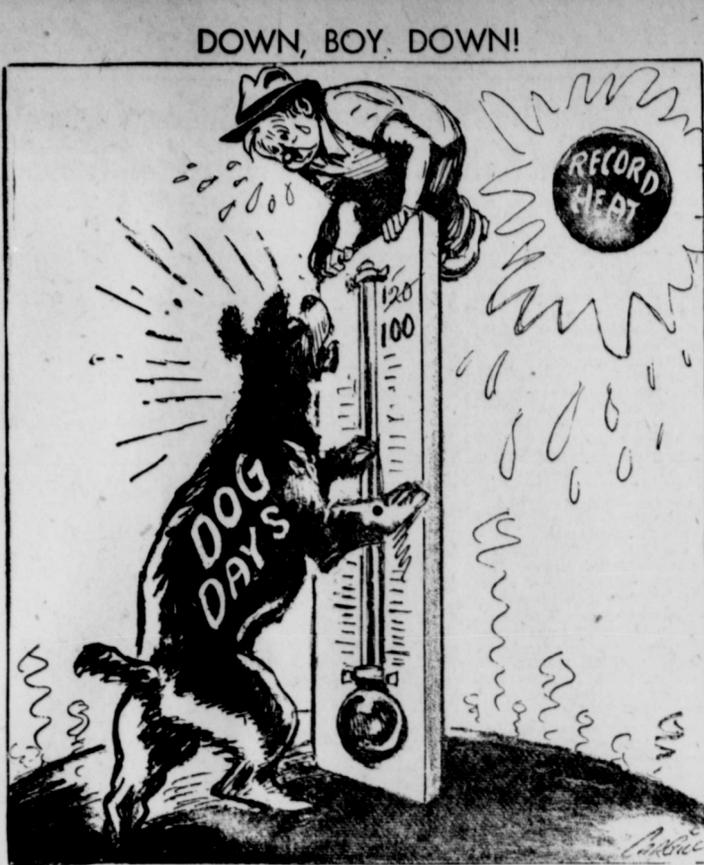

NEARLY EVERY DAY comes a report from some New Mexico city which is paying homage to returning prisoners of war, men who were subject to untold torture and maltreatment during the months of imprisonment.

The latest is Gallup, which opened its heart and purse to a shy Japanese-American soldier who won the Medal of Honor for a "suicidal" mission on which he was captured. Sgt. Hiroshi Miyamura stepped from a super railway liner to the rear of Sabrejets, the blaring of the high school band, and the screaming welcome of a crowd estimated to be more than 5,000. Miyamura walked from the train with his wife Terry, and received a $3,850 check raised among townspeople by the Gallup Independent.

Wednesday was proclaimed "Hiroshi Miyamura day" in honor of the former garage mechanic.

The celebration followed by a few days a similar event in Clovis where townspeople paid tribute to a returning sergeant shortly after a high-ranking officer was released.

Business people in the cattle capitol termed the reception given their Sgt. McKinney "better than that for Lt. Col. Harrison."

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—

REASONABLE DEMANDS

MEMBERSHIP in the National organization of the American Legion is a cross section of the inhabitants of the people, and therefore decisions that they reach after solemn conference and debate, are apt to be a reflection of a big percentage of the people.

In St. Louis convention the Legion adopted a resolution that demanded an all-out war against Communists in Korea in case the truce is broken, with it being urged that atomic weapons be used and that the enemy forces be driven from the land.

Furthermore it backed up United States opposition to admission of Red China into the United Nations.

These two resolutions reflect the opinion of most people. Hardly a person met with to discuss the Korean war who did not believe that the United Nations forces would be justified in using atomic weapons to defeat the Communists.

And it is likely that one would not find anywhere a person who would support the proposal to make Red China an ally by means of becoming a member of the United Nations.

The Korean war was badly handled, which is about what the American Legion implied in its resolution. It could have been ended in complete victory if the United States had used more military judgment and less compassion. It probably could have been ended differently if the United States had not been hindered by allies who placed greater value upon their commercial interests than upon the military and political issues involved.

HEARTENING TO U. S.

From the American point of view, the landslide re-election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in West Germany is heartening. Here at long last, is a stable government with powerful support from the citizenry for Europe. In the long run, a strong Germany is a far better block to Kremlin imperialist aims in Europe than whole armies of American soldiers.

In spite of the expenditure of billions in France and Italy, those two nations have become neither stable politically nor strong economically. Both are plagued with powerful communist parties. They are doubtful risks if and when Moscow is tempted to risk a show-down in Europe.

It is ironic that the chief enemy of World War II—only ten years ago—should have by now become Europe's main hope for a peaceful future.

The people of West Germany have completely rejected the blandishments of communism for the more enduring values of the west. They see communism in action every day. They know it for what it is, and have proved they want no part of it.

TOURIST GOUGE

While the tourist bureau is concentrating on the aim to keep the vacationer here for as long a time as possible other forces are at work to curtail his stay or else entirely forestall the stop. In this we are reminded that in many of the resort centers it's open season on the tourists when anything of a special nature is on tap. Up at Katon, where La Mesa Park has drawn thousands during the racing season—from July 4 to Labor Day—complaints have been heard that hotels and tourist courts have hiked rates to double or more that usually charged during other times of the year. Cafes and other eating houses, according to reports, have in many instances followed suit and boosted prices on the menu to unreasonable figures. That the practice of gouging the tourist is being followed is openly admitted by many motel and restaurant operators.

And like complaints come from Albuquerque where the national known state fair starts a week's run late this month. When the big show starts the lid is off the price list and the sky is the limit—automatically up goes the price of lodging. Not so many complaints have been heard about gouging by Duke City eateries, but hotels and tourist courts have come in for rather caustic comment. The motto seems to be "Get 'em while the gettin's good." Many have been the vows voiced by this writer to never attend the fair again so long as rate boosting is in vogue, but, the redeeming thing is that there's always a new crop of suckers.—Roy Record.

COFFEE TALK—Black Cats Not Real Reason for Potasher's Downfall Sunday Night

BLACK CATS rained in the visitors' dugout here Sunday night, but Driller fans say it wasn't the black felines which caused the Potashers' downfall.

A pair of rabid Driller fans—Cliff Flattor and James Anderson—allegedly spent the day Sunday scouring back alleys and streets for the superstitious-lending animals.

Three of the cats, claimed to be the most effective superstition in baseball, were dropped in the dugout before game time.

But Driller fans say the 'Pots downfall, however, came from the timely home runs of Joe Bauman and Les Mulcahy, which accounted for five of the eight Driller runs.

WHEREVER THE chance presents itself, Principal Travis Stovall and assistants hand high school students the opportunity to make known their opinions in elections on city, state and national levels. Friday, the students gave their approval to all amendments to be considered in today's special election. The vote followed explanations of each amendment, and the pros and cons of each.

Students elections, school officials declare, are among the best means of teaching the responsibilities of citizenship to future voters and officer holders.

THEY'RE STILL talking about the Bulldogs' overwhelming defeat of NMMI here Friday night. But the talk is not of jubilation, optimism, particularly after results of other games began filtering into the city.

The high school gridsters Friday night made it known that they would be a team to consider when the time comes for state honors.

More depth, more reserves, speed, and an experienced line, bolstered by able tutelage of a quartet of mentors, give the Bulldogs an optimistic season approach.

SOME FOLKS are still wondering why the city council did not designate some member to seat the police commission's controversial recommendation to Police Judge John Ellicott.

All that was done, officially, apparently, was to establish a recommendation on council minutes and let it go at that.

Man and Wife Team of Evangelists To Begin Services Here Thursday

Gilbert and Sylvia Anderson, Wichita, Kans., will conduct a revival meeting at the Church of the Nazarene here Sept. 17 through Sept. 27, the Rev. William McMahon, pastor, has announced.

Services will be held each evening at 7:30 p. m., he said. The church is located at the corner of Fifth and Quay streets in Artesia.

Alfredo Valenzuela Appears on TV Program Recently

ALFREDO VALENZUELA, Capt. Alfredo Valenzuela, son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Valenzuela, of Lake Arthur, recently appeared on a television show emanating from the Marine Corps base where he is stationed.

A graduate of Lake Arthur High school, Cpl. Valenzuela is assigned as pay clerk in the Marine Corps Helicopter school, Santa Ana, Cal. While stationed at the Helicopter base, Cpl. Valenzuela has done extensive additional duty as circulation manager of "The Blade," a base newspaper, and also is columnist from his unit for the publication.

Cpl. Valenzuela's brother, Raul, is a junior at New Mexico A. and M. College where he is majoring in chemical engineering. He also graduated from Lake Arthur High school two years ago.

Special features of each service will be colored illustrations or object lessons for children. The evangelists recently were special workers at the Boys' and Girls' camps in the Capitan mountains, where they presented similar programs.

During Mrs. Anderson's tour, she took many interesting color pictures, which have been made into slides and will be shown during two services of the meeting, Rev. McMahon said.

Drillers—

Monday Night
Pat Monahan was king of the night on Sunday when he put out a hitting fire began in the fourth by the Potashers and continued into the fifth.

The southpaw plowed through eight men with strikeouts and walked four while yielding only one hit the remaining five innings. Carlsbad started scoring the fourth when four hits, including a two-run homer by Goldy Gohlson, pushed across three tallies.

Artesia rebounded in their part of the inning with four, beginning with a double down first base by Jackie Wilcox. Paul Halter singled him home, then, with Joe Bauman who had walked, scored ahead of Les Mulcahy on a three-run four-master.

Carlsbad got to starter Fidel Alvarez for a walk and a homer to open the fifth with none out to go ahead 5-4. Bauman singled in Monahan to put out the fire.

Artesia came back in their part of the inning for four more, again featuring a home run. Wilcox once again started the fray, singling to left and stealing second, then scoring on Vince DeGiantomasso's single. Halter doubled in DeGiantomasso, then scored ahead of Joe Bauman on the latter's 53rd homer of the season. Saturday, 7-2

Saturday night, the Potashers got to Len Ruyke for seven runs off a dozen safeties, including two homers, for a 7-2 win and to go ahead 3-1 in the series.

Artesia scored first, plating two tallies in the second inning. With one out, Audie Malone hit Bauman with a pitched ball, then gave up successive singles to Mulcahy and Bill Haley to load the bases. Armando Sanchez forced Bauman at home with a fielder's choice, then Joe Calderon laced a single into center to score Mulcahy and Haley.

Carlsbad went ahead in the third with three runs off four safeties, and added a pair of go-ahead counters in the sixth and ninth.

Small Items Taken From Parked Cars Over Weekend

Two complaints of minor thefts from parked automobiles were reported to city police over the weekend.

Bill Hares, 303 E. Grand, reported theft of a camera and case and an electric razor and case from his car Saturday night while it was parked at a night club south of the city.

O. J. Cosper said about 15 gallons of gasoline were drained from his car Sunday night while it was parked in front of his home at 706 Runyan.

Garden Clubs Boost Fair With Displays

The work of the long summer months finds its green-thumbed fruit in the 1953 New Mexico State Fair opening in Albuquerque Sept. 27 and continuing through October 4.

The gardeners—men, women and children—get an opportunity to show what they've accomplished in flowers at the floriculture department of the exposition.

The flower show—always a highlight of the fair—is just one of many departments and exhibitions planned for the exposition which is expected to draw upwards of half a million people during its nine-day run.

The flower department in effect consists of four shows, each sponsored by an Albuquerque garden club. Club chairmen are Mrs. Norris C. Deskin, West Mesa; Mrs. Paul R. Zinn, Green Thumb; Mrs. Don Woodward, Hillcrest; Mrs. J. L. Westerman, Progressive Gardeners; Mrs. George I. Tiffin, Uptown-Theme; Mrs. L. R. Wenk, Council of Albuquerque Garden Clubs; and Mrs. L. M. Miles, Albuquerque Rose Society. Mrs. George D. Tessier is general chairman.

A fifth one-day show, sponsored by the Council of Albuquerque Garden Clubs, will be an invitational, non-competitive show featuring arrangements.

Specimen entries in the four competitive shows will be scored 80 per cent on cultural perfection and 20 per cent on condition.

Lake Arthur

By MRS. RAY PATE
Lake Arthur Extension club members who motored to Roswell and participated in the annual Chaves County Achievement Day activities at the Woman's club on Wednesday were: Mmes. W. G. Whales, Herbert M. Whatley, H. H. Mills, Carroll Jackson, Sr., May McDonald and Ray Pate.

First they put up their booth which won a red ribbon. Their booth contained such items as the club members had had demonstrated to them during the year.

They were also one of the two hostess clubs at the luncheon which was cleverly carried out in the Indian Pow-wow theme. The table decorations were miniature Indian figurines, drums, tomahawks, etc. Those ladies who were hostesses were dressed in squaw dresses, moccasins, and Indian jewelry galore, which added a gay note to the festivities.

Mrs. Janetta Nelson of Encinitas, Calif., arrived this week to help take care of her mother, Mrs. Mary Griffith, who recently returned home from the Artesia General Hospital. Mrs. Griffith has not regained use of her right side as yet as a result of a stroke suffered several months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Parker and children of Belen, N. M., spent the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Hill and houseguests enjoyed a supper Sunday evening at the home of another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shands, of Artesia.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Curry and daughter, Frances, of Hillsboro, Texas, spent the week-end visiting her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Ripley and another sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mayberry, of Artesia. Also visiting were a brother and book.

Miss Viola Lane left Monday to enter the Southwestern Business College in Roswell, where she is taking a secretarial course. Viola graduated in the spring from the Lake Arthur High School. She plans to reside at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ferron Cummins and daughter, Glenda, and attend school.

In the arrangement section judging will be based on point scoring following rules laid down by the National Council of State Garden Clubs. Rules are available from the state fair office—or—from any of the participating garden clubs.
