Grand Jury Goes Into Secret Sessions For Broad Probe

An Eddy county grand jury met to work Monday in secret sessions after Judge C. Roy Anderson read its members instructions giving them a broad field for investigation of illegal activities.

Five members of the 12-man panel are Artesia residents, including A. H. "Strug" Mel, Everett Crume, and C. Bowen, Artesia; Joe Torres, Dayton; and Joe McGonagill, Loco Hills.

Judge Anderson's instructions to the jury cited specific possible law violations but told jurors they were intended as a suggestion of what the jury's scope of activities might be.

The specific suggestions were: —Methods of imprisonment of persons arrested by police officers. —Juvenile buying of liquor in Eddy county.

—Possible gambling, including baseball and football lottery tickets.

District attorney and attorney general officers will advise the panel, Judge Anderson said.

He told jurors he had been contacted by many people with suggestion for areas into which the grand jury might investigate.

Other members of the panel are Victor Waltz, Carlsbad, foreman; H. F. Brockman, Elmer Hepler, Douglas J. Bourne, Pilar Navarette, Jr., and Ralph J. Sellmeyer, and P. J. Loup, all of Carlsbad.

Judge Anderson told the jury it must meet until its business is finished, but faces an Oct. 5 deadline.

Three possible jurors on a 16-man panel from which the 12-man jury was chosen asked exemption because of personal hardship. They were Andy Teel of Hope, Henry Juarez, Artesia; and Marshall Jones, Carlsbad.

Teel and Jones asked to be excused because of business reasons. Juarez asked to be excused because he is a contable in Artesia.

George A. Bell of Carlsbad was also excused because he served on the county's last grand jury four years ago.

Over $800 Gained By Bands In Cake Walk; Parham Ugliest

More than $800 to support Artesia schools' band activities was received as a result of the Cake Walk and an associated Ugliest Man contest held this week-end.

The $800-plus sum is the largest ever to be received from the event, Band-Aids have reported.

Winner of the Ugliest Man contest was the darkest of all dark horses, R. H. Parham.

Parham assistant Senior high school principal, was supported and solidly sponsored by Senior high school students, who elected their dark horse candidate in a last minute drive beginning after noon Friday.

Parham won "hands down," Band-Aids said. He was competing with Gail Ray and Lowe Wickersham of 20-30 club, Fred Cole and G. Taylor Cole of Lions club, Mill Losee and Rufus Stinnett of Kiwanis club, and the outdarkened dark horse, Travis Stovall, independent candidate.

Winning large cakes were Mrs. L. E. Vandiver of Loco Hills, and from Artesia, Bobbie Jo Hanson, Mrs. Glenn Howard, Patricia Jones, and Mrs. Beatrice Blocker.

Cakes were sponsored by Holsum Baking, Mon Repos Dairy, Meads and Goodner's Bakeries, and the Band-Aids.

More than 125 cakes were given to the event by supporters of band activities, and cake walking continued steadily throughout Saturday afternoon and evening.

Civic Leaders Agree City Planning Body Definite Artesia Need

New Parking Meter Fine Plan Makes Things Easier

A little relief for Artesia and North Eddy county residents with plenty of gripes over parking meters and resulting fines is offered with a new fine collection system.

Five of parking meter violators have been raised over past months with requirements that fines be paid only to the police judge or his secretary.

During Ellicott's convalescence following an automobile accident, court hours were irregular, and many a violator had to return time and again to pay charges.

Too often the five-day limit elapsed and the penalty was doubled to $1.

Now all that's changed with a new procedure designed by Ellicott.

It's simple enough—a slot has been sawed in the door to Ellicott's office in the police station, with a strong metal box on the other side.

Provided by the judge are small envelopes in a convenient holder near the door.

Now violators can pay their fines any time, day or night, by just picking up an envelope, putting in their ticket and fine money, and inserting it in the slot, Ellicott said.

Police officers are not allowed to receive fine money under a ruling by the city council.

Reflectors Are Required On Trailers

Cotton trailers which will soon go on North Eddy county highways must have reflectors at the rear, State Patrolman A. J. Smith has announced.

Smith said a ruling from a state office indicates cotton trailers are not required to have turn indicators, but must have lights for night driving. Reflectors fill the requirement, he added.

Cost Is Only Question Mark Over Go-Ahead

Artesia definitely needs a city planning commission and can have one — if financial problems are solved, a Chamber of Commerce committee including key civic figures agreed this week-end.

It was the consensus of all who attended that Artesia certainly needs such a commission," according to A. J. Losee, Artesia attorney and chairman of the C of C committee.

"Chief difficulty in the way of setting up such a commission at once," Losee declared, "is money to finance its operations."

Committee members, meeting Friday morning at the chamber office pointed to dead-end streets, lack of zoning, and irregular streets as key exhibits in favor of the proposed planning commission.

On the committee with Losee are Mayor J. L. Briscoe, city councilmen George Ferriman, H. A. Campbell, and Marshall Rowley, City Engineer W. D. Fowler, C. G. Clark, Harvey Jones, and J. H. "Bus" Brown, businessmen.

The chamber's committee on a planning commission voted to confer with Roselawn and Carlsbad commissions on finances, and to gather all data pertinent to organization of the commission.

Its findings will then be presented to the chamber's board for approval, and if granted, to the city council.

Outstanding grounds for enthusiasm toward a planning commission, Losee pointed out the group would set up a master plan for civic growth with jurisdiction over development of proposed city additions within a 3-mile area of city limits.

The chamber's committee can gather all material for making a master plan for the city's development, Losee said, but when the actual commission is formed, the assistance of a technically-trained advisor will probably be needed.

Cost Factor—This is where the cost comes in. Losee said the committee hopes to secure funds for operation of the commission in the city's next fiscal year, which goes into effect (Continued on Page 4)

Roselawn Vote Officials Ask Grand Jury Probe Charges

A petition by Democratic officials of an Artesia voting division asking that Eddy county's grand jury investigate charges made against it was delivered Monday morning to the jury, and the district judge.

The petition asks that the grand jury make an investigation into allegations by a Senate subcommittee investigating New Mexico's general election of last November in the Hurley-Chavez dispute.

The subcommittee said it had affidavits from 20 or 21 Artesia voters that their ballots had been tampered with, as well as an affidavit that there were no voting booths at Roselawn school.

The voting officials ask that since the announcement by the subcommittee casts serious aspersions on them, they desire a full grand jury investigation into the allegations.

Text of the petition is as follows: "At the general presidential election held in November 1952, the voting precinct in Artesia, Eddy county, N. M., commonly known as Roselawn school and otherwise known as precinct 6F of Eddy county, N. M., was manned by certain election officials, among whom the Democratic members were Joe Alvarado, Mrs. Ishmael Alvarado,

Mrs. Pete Dominguez, Mrs. Lois Gilmore, Mrs. Solon Thomas, F. F. Elvin, Glenn Danford, and that Mrs. R. A. Wilcox was the deputy county clerk of Eddy county, N. M., in charge of receiving such returns from said precinct.

Thereafter and here recently there was caused to be published newspaper reports quoting Mr. Ware, chief investigating council for the Senate of the United States (subcommittee investigating said election insofar as it related to Sen. Dennis Chavez and Gen. Patrick Hurley, seeking the seat of United States Senator for the United States to the general effect that Mr. Ware held some 20 affidavits to the effect that 20 people had sworn under oath that there votes in said election had been changed, altered, or tampered with, after said votes had been cast in said precinct, thereby casting serious aspersions on the integrity of each and all said officials of said precinct and of the offices of county clerk of Eddy county, N. M., which received said returns, and therefore the undersigned desire that the grand jury now convened in Eddy county, N. M., go to the bottom of this matter and investigate thoroughly said matter."

The petition was signed by all of the Democratic officials except Mrs. Gilmore, and by several other Artesia voters.

Local Doctor Studies Latest X-Ray Techniques

Dr. Kathryn Behnke, chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, has just returned from Ann Arbor, Mich., where she attended the Grostic Research Foundation.

Classes under the personal direction of Dr. John Grostic, learned the latest methods of taking and analyzing X-Ray films and delivering the most effective Chiropractic adjustments. Pre and post X-Rays of patients taken care of under this system have shown amazing improvements in patients and good results have been obtained in many cases considered hopeless.

The scientific manner in which X-Rays are analyzed is chiefly responsible for the results. However the new method of adjusting has contributed to the results obtained.

For further information about this new work, you are invited to consult Dr. Behnke.

New Traveler Top Rebounder, Shot

DWAYNE STEWART, another new player for the Central Valley Electric Travelers, stands 6 feet 4 inches, weighs 210 pounds, lettered for three years on the conference-winning West Texas State college squad. He is tops in foul line shooting and an able rebounder. (Photo by Frost)

Dwayne F. Stewart newly added to the line-up of the Central Valley Electric Travelers is another reason the Artesia entry in the National Industrial Basketball league will field one of its huskiest teams ever.

More Luck Than Barker's Needed To Get Permits

It took more luck than an ex-game warden's to get one of the antelope permits in the drawings held at Albuquerque high school recently.

Out of 2621 applications, only 806 received permits. Among the 1816 rejects was former State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker.

Stewart stands 6 feet 4 inches, weighs in at 210 pounds. During his junior year at West Texas State college Canyon, he led his team in scoring and was voted to the All-Border Conference second team.

Originally the number of permits had been set at 772, but a few land owners turned their permits back to the game department for the drawing.

Stewart also led his team in scoring from the foul line.

Ray Hogan, president of the GPA, conducted the drawings. Two boys actually pulled out the applications. They were Dave Laurent, 12, and Lee Welsh, 11, Albuquerque.

He entered West Texas State college in 1948 and graduated in 1952 with a bachelor of arts degree.

Another shoot is scheduled for 8 a. m. next Sunday at the club range, just east of the airport building, west of town.

On graduation he entered farming business with his parents.

A night shoot is scheduled Wednesday, Sept. 30. Non-members are invited to attend.

Last year he played with the Grahama Holme Ploymboys of Arguillo, who played in the National AAU meet in Denver.

Permits ordinarily attack only dead or dying wood.

In August 1953 he was employed by Central Valley Electric of Artesia.

On any winter day more than 20 million persons can be found suffering from colds.

Paul L. Frost, manager of the team, and "Red" Goodwin, coach, describe Stewart as "an outstanding rebounder, a top all-around performer on the basketball court."

Goodwin adds that Stewart "is a good defensive man and a hustler who is at his best when the chips are down. He is easy going off the court but easily gets into a spirited game, and expected to give the CVE Travelers added strength in the coming season."

"Sport Spot"

(By Armed Forces Press Service) Football, which Dizzy Dean termed "unnecessary roughness," is back on the scene. And it promises to be one of the dizziest seasons in a dozen years, even before it starts.

The Football Rules Committee has tossed away the two-platoon much to the delight of the fans who now hope to be untroubled by the mob scene of changing offensive and defensive teams but to the unhappiness of many machine-building coaches.

Coaches like Frank Leaby of Notre Dame are lucky, indeed, to have such a fellow as Johnny Lattner who can play both ways as well as Charlie Caldwell of Princeton with his Homer Smith. But on the other side is Biggie Munn at Michigan State who has carefully built over the years a two-component system of offensive horsemen and defensive blocks of granite.

The small colleges, unhappy in their competition with the giants, legislated out the free substitution rule, once devised to aid their inadequate manpower resources. The one platoon rule, another step in that direction, has been under attack by representatives of small schools as a phony cure to their ailments.

4-H Girl Takes Sober Look At Communism

(Editor's Note: With the following article Miss Jo Sandra Magerus of Clovis won the Curry county and New Mexico state 4-H speaking contest. It was delivered before a recent meeting of postal officials at Socorro, and Artesia Postmaster Jess Truett liked it well enough to share it with other Artesians.)

(Miss Magerus was valedictorian of the Texico high school graduating class. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Magerus.)

By JO SANDRA MAGERUS

This speech was written to give in the 4-H Club Speaking Contest. With it, I won the county and state contests. Bear in mind, while reading it, that it was written by a farm girl, to be delivered to rural people. If you are imaginative, pretend you are a farmer, wearing faded overalls and a straw hat, and imagine how a farmer would feel about such a talk.

"I am free! I think!" That's a statement that everyone should be able to make. But, there are many people in the world today who cannot. They have lost the power to think for themselves, for they live under a regimented type government which does their thinking for them. Call this type government what you will—socialism, communism, planned economy—they all fit. But, today, to avoid confusion, let's call it communism.

Communism begins its work in the mind. Minds which are idle and too lazy to think for themselves are the minds that communism is looking for.

You may say, "Oh, we've heard about communism until we're tired of it!" It's just a big word that never seems to be applied to a concrete example. But, what would communism do to you and me—how would it affect our lives?

We are rural people. We live on farms which are the most modern and well-equipped in the world. On these farms we have huge dairies, lots of livestock and chickens, and our machinery is designed to do the best job in the shortest possible time.

At harvest time, when we gather in our grain, it is our privilege either to store it, feed it to our stock, or sell it on the market where we'll get the best price.

Truly, we're lucky to be farmers in America! But, what if tomorrow our present system of government were replaced by communism? What would happen to these farms of ours?

They wouldn't be our farms anymore; for there is no private ownership. Huge government collective farms of thousands of acres would be set up. You and I, the workers, might be allowed to keep a cow, a few chickens, and a garden plot, but everything else would belong to the government. Each of us would have a set task such as working in the fields or caring for the stock.

Machinery would be owned by the state and kept in stations for our use. And when harvest time came, and the crops were divided, first share would go to the government; then the machinery station would take their share. The rest would be sold at low, fixed government prices, and part of these proceeds used to buy more livestock for the collective farms.

What's left would be divided among us, according to the kind and amount of work done. Would we trade our lives on our farms today for a collective farm under communism?

But, let's see what else it would deprive us of. Our children have the privilege of attending public school. Here, they should learn to think for themselves. They are encouraged to decide what they want to do when they leave school, and urged to obtain a higher education. How would our children fare under communism?

The state would take entire charge of their education, decide what profession they would follow, supervise their recreation, sports, and even their summer vacations. They would no longer be individuals, but small citizens of the state. Where our schools stress independence of thought, they would be taught that service to state is the highest ideal. Manual labor would be held in high regard, and the child would be trained by the government department which would later hire him.

Today, every mother in the United States dreams that someday her son will become president! Under communism, he cannot become president; he cannot even choose the profession he wishes to enter, but is forced into some line where there's a shortage—dealt with as we deal with surplus food or any other commodity today!

Besides our farms and school systems, something even more sacred would be gone—our family unit. We enjoy our family life, for we work and play together, read the newspapers and discuss them, laugh at the comics, and when we go to church, we worship together. Under communism, there would be no family life. Children would be taught that their first loyalty was to the state, not to their parents.

Little time would be spent in the home, for the whole family would depart for work early in the morning, leaving the baby at the collective nursery and all the children from 3 to 6 at kindergarten.

But, when the family was together, what fun could be derived from a comic strip that's no longer funny, but merely the government's tool for implanting propaganda in the people's minds?

As for the news, you read only what the state wishes you to read, and then you dare not discuss it—for you might be overheard by a party member.

Church—there probably would be none. Communism worships the state as God, and a man is of service only as long as he can serve the state. Christianity recognizes the rights of the individual above the state. This would not be tolerated, so all religion would be overthrown!

The final destruction of our family circle would come if the son, at the age of 14, were asked to join the Young Communist Party. After being watched and indoctrinated, he becomes an actual party member. Then, he becomes the enemy of his family and friends. They can no longer speak freely, even in their own home, because the son might overhear and turn them in.

He no longer belongs to the family; his time and energy are at the disposal of the party. He must think as the party thinks, change his mind as the party changes; all in keeping with the rule of never allowing an individual to think for himself at any time!

That way of life may sound exaggerated but it is happening in Russia today, and it can happen here!

We have to fight it by standing
