Lady Mules Win Tourney At Idalou

Last weekend, the Lady Mules stretched out their winning season to 11-2 and won the Idalou Tournament.

In their first game against Roosevelt, the Lady Mules were victorious, 70-40.

In the game, Wendy Green had 22 points; Amy Harrison had 13; Heather Hutton and Brenna Matthews, each 12; Monica Swint and Tory Matthews, each had four points; Heidi Bohler, two and Amber Green, one point.

In the game, Amy Harrison broke her foot, and will be out of action for four weeks.

However, the Lady Mules came back in the semi-finals on Friday and defeated Lorenzo, 52-43.

Wendy Green again had 22 points; Brenna Matthews and Heather Hutton, each eight; Monica Swint, six; and Amber Green and Heidi Bohler each had four points.

In Saturday night's action, the Lady Mules leaped by Idalou at the last minute, and took a 44-41 victory and first place in the tournament.

Trailing by eight points with 2:18 left in the game, Amber Green came through with five points to "Spark" the team, said Coach Davis. Then with :33 seconds left, Amber pulled the game out of the fire.

In the game, Wendy Green had 16 points; Heather Hutton, 10; Amber Green, seven; Lori Cuevas, four; Brenna Matthews, three and Monica Swint and Heidi Bohler each had two points.

Tuesday night, the Lady Mules were taking on the number one basketball team in the state, Canyon, in Watson Junior High gym in Muleshoe.

In the same tournament, the Mules lost to Roosevelt in the first game, then defeated Lorenzo to win a right to play for consolation.

The Mules lost the consolation game to Post.

Canyon's Lady Eagles downed the Lady Mules Tuesday night, 51-36; and the Mules fell to the Canyon Eagles, 67-37.

The Lady Mules are now 11-3 for the season.

On December 10, 1988, John and Vicki Enright left the Santa Monica, CA pier on a trip across America. This was not your usual trip, however, Vicki Enright drove a van while John rolled along in a wheelchair.

They wheeled into Muleshoe in January, 1989, and spent the night at the Heritage House Inn.

While they were in Muleshoe, The Journal visited the motel and visited with them and did a story on the reason for the wheelchair journey.

The Enrights told about The Will Power Foundation, and that Enright's trip was the maiden voyage on behalf of The Will Power Foundation, a non-profit organization founded by him.

It's purpose is to provide educational scholarships for the physically challenged. It is also dedicated to solving the problems associated with paralysis and spinal cord injuries.

Enright, who has been paralyzed and wheelchair bound since 1982, said he began the trip with less than $5,000, has managed to make his way all across America to Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Along the way, he has visited with patients, therapists, nurses,

High School Trio Win Recognition At Recent Camp

Two students from Muleshoe High School were recently honored with very special awards at a Life Management Skills Retreat at a camp near Floydada, sponsored by the Region XVII Education Service Center for students from area schools.

Antonio Villa, a Muleshoe High School freshman, received a plaque for the "Most Improved" boy at a camp held on December 8-10. The recipient of this award was chosen by all of the 24 student participants attending the camp.

Arturo Ruiz, a Muleshoe High School sophomore, received a plaque for being the most "Outstanding Boy" at the same camp and this selection by his student peers was based on his leadership qualities and enthusiastic participation in activities designed to help students relate better to themselves and others.

Jonathan Villa, a sophomore, also attended the camp and received a certificate.

The students were accompanied by Geneva Alvis, Watson Junior High School counselor.

doctors, and administrators in Rehab hospitals and V.A. centers along the way.

He also has visited with governmental officials to draw attention to the need for architectural accessibility in society for wheelchair bound people.

During his journey, he expected to be joined, briefly, by other wheelchair bound people, who would accompany him for parts of the trip.

Last Friday, the Enrights, accompanied by Ron Bielicki of Boston, Mass. rolled into Muleshoe on the return trip to Santa Monica.

Although weekend pheasant hunters had already claimed all the local and area motel and hotel rooms, the Enrights and Bielicki were not discouraged.

Enright said Bielicki joined them in Boston, and has rolled along with him for most of the

Rotary Hosts Artist At Tuesday Meeting

In introducing Tuesday's Rotary speaker, President Terry Hutto went back to his teenage days in relating life, growing up in Tulia, and spending time with the son of Kenneth Wyatt.

Of course, all the stories Hutto told were humorous, as he talked about the well-known artist, writer and illustrator.

And, living up to his advance billing by President Hutto, Wyatt proved to be one of the funniest speakers to ever appear before the Muleshoe Rotary Club and guests.

Most of the Muleshoe Rotary membership was present for the meeting, along with more than 20 guests.

In a fast-paced, humorous manner, Wyatt talked about life, and used much of his own life as examples.

He told of many jokes he had been told by women, and had a few remarks to make about women and jokes!

He talked about Tulia, his home; about Vigo Park, a small, nearby community, and about Wayside, which is a 'wide spot in the road.'

His talk never got to the completely serious stage, although he did deliver a 'serious' message in a light-mannered way.

He told of the difference between a $3 a day fellow; a $7.50

Major Storm Expected To Invade Here Friday

Area residents got a 'sneak preview' of winter during the first four days of the week, when an icy, arctic blast has continued to keep the entire area in its grip.

Balmy Saturday and early Sunday temperatures in the high 60's gave way to a cold front that moved in from the north Sunday afternoon, quickly dropping temperatures.

Most residents woke up Monday morning to dry, blowing snow that left little snow on level ground, but did leave drifts of up to nearly a foot in places.

By Tuesday morning, the temperature dipped to 01 above zero for the official temperature, before warming to around 40 degrees before the end of the day.

Again on Wednesday, very low temperatures were recorded, with Muleshoe's official temperature being 04 degrees.

Frozen water pipes and balky vehicles 'just naturally' came along with the icy cold temperature, and many residents faced vehicles that would not start both Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

By Wednesday morning, only traces of the snow was left, but again the early morning temperature was very low.

At presstime, National Weather Service was predicting another, and stronger, storm to move into the area by Thursday. Snow, and arctic temperatures are again expected to be in the forefront, and NWS says another icy blast is poised in the north, prepared to follow within a day or two, the second storm after it moves out of the area sometime this weekend.

Snow and low temperature will accompany the storm on Thursday, according to the NWS.

They said skies which will be sunny Wednesday and on Thursday morning, will yield to clouds, as the storm approaches the area.

City Recognizes Four Employees For "Longevity"

More than 30 city employees, the mayor and city council and their spouses, and guest, Cleta Williams, attended the annual City of Muleshoe Christmas dinner at the Bailey County Civic Center Monday at noon.

Muleshoe Mayor Darrell Turner gave the invocation, and said he was not going to make a long speech -- and he didn't.

He did welcome the city employees, city council and their wives to the dinner and said, "I want to thank you -- it's been a good year. And, it has been a good year because you worked. We are looking forward to next year and another good year."

City Manager Dave Marr introduced the Mayor and his

District Judge Announces Bid For Re-Election

Jack Young, judge for the 287th district, has authorized The Journal to announce his bid for re-election to his position.

Judge Young said: "I would like to take this means to announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of Judge, 287th District Court.

"It has been my distinct privilege to serve the citizens of Bailey and Farmer Counties in this position since May 1, 1981, and I fully trust that this experience qualifies me to again serve.

"I respectfully seek your support and ask for your favorable consideration in the upcoming Primary Election."

Students Show Up Well In TASP Tests Results

Nearly 74 percent of 1988-89 and later Texas high school graduates who took the Texas Academic Skills Program (TASP) Test in September passed all sections of the examination, according to results released today by the Texas Education Agency.

More than 79 percent of the college students seeking admission to teacher education programs who took the TASP Test also passed all three sections of the examination, results showed.

Of the 6,321 high school students who took the reading, writing, and mathematics portions of the examination, 73.9

percent passed all three sections, while 79.3 percent of the 2,841 students who took all three sections of the test to gain admission to teacher education programs at Texas colleges and universities also passed all three sections.

Commissioner of Education W. N. Kirby said he is pleased that the vast majority of students taking the TASP Test continue to pass the examination.

"I am pleased to see that nearly three-quarters of our high school students and nearly 80 percent of our teacher education candidates passed the TASP Test, especially in light of earlier predictions by some that the passing standard set of 70 percent set by the State Board of Education and the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board would lead to high failure rates," Kirby said. "It is gratifying to see that students taking the TASP Test continue to pass at rates well above those originally expected.

"At the same time, I will not be pleased until all of the students in our public schools come out of high school with a diploma and the skills necessary to perform advanced work at the college level," Kirby said. "We need to improve educational programs for all of our students. And when the Legislature begins addressing the school finance issue in the spring, they will have the opportunity to ensure that we have adequate funding for quality educational programs for all students.

"Property-poor school districts will need additional resources from the state to improve their instructional programs," Kirby added. "We must allocate more money to property-poor school districts for educational programs for our students today so that they will get the skills they need to be successful in the future."

State law requires freshmen students at Texas public colleges and universities to take the TASP Test in order to take upper-division courses beyond 60 semester hours or complete associate degree or certificate programs which include nine or more semester hours of general education coursework. A separate law also requires students seeking admission to an approved teacher education program to pass the TASP Test (or the Pre-Professional Skills Test, previously used for testing teacher candidates).

Of the 12,123 individuals statewide who took the examination, 92 percent passed the reading section, 82.6 percent passed the mathematics section and 81.2 percent passed the writing section.

Some of those taking the examination in September took only the sections of the TASP Test that they had failed on previous attempts.

Among blacks, 78.8 percent passed reading, 60.5 percent passed mathematics and 60.7 percent passed writing. Among Hispanics, 85.1 percent passed the reading part of the examination, 73.3 percent passed the mathematics section and 70.7 percent passed writing. Ninety-five percent of white students passed reading, 86.8 percent passed mathematics and 86 percent passed the writing section.

Data for high school students by subject area indicate that 78.5 percent of Blacks passed reading while 70 percent passed mathematics and 58.9 percent passed writing. Of the Hispanic high school students tested, 84.5 percent passed reading, 80.1 percent passed mathematics, and 70.9 percent passed writing. Data for white high school students show 94.2 percent passed reading, whereas 90.2 percent passed mathematics and 85.1 percent passed writing.

Of the 4,002 teacher education candidates who took the examination, 96.4 percent passed reading, 80.4 percent passed the mathematics part and 86.8 percent passed the writing section. Among Black teacher education candidates, 84.5 percent passed reading, 48.5 percent passed mathematics and 69.4 percent passed writing. About 89 percent of Hispanic teacher education candidates passed reading, 67.8 percent passed mathematics and 76.5 percent passed writing. Among white teacher candidates, 98.3 percent passed reading, 87.2 percent passed mathematics, and 92.2 percent passed writing.

Over 1200 CARS SHIPPED FROM HERE DURING PAST YEAR

As the present year draws to a close a partial report shows that conditions in this trade territory are above normal. This report gives over 1200 cars of farm products and livestock shipped from Muleshoe in 1929. More feed stuff is being kept at home, however, than ever before, and many cars of grain are to be consumed here for feeding of cattle, hogs and poultry.

New settlers are continuing to come in and the breaking of new land is still in progress.

MULESHOE STATE BANK HAS GOOD STATEMENT

While statistics are pouring into Washington showing a much better business period than last year, conditions in and around Muleshoe are also of the optimistic kind.

Post office and Bank statements are generally valid indices of local business conditions. Postmaster A.J. Gardner reports a steady increase in postal business, while cashier Jess Osborn, in the bank statement published in this newspaper shows deposits totaling $381,000.00. A year ago this time such deposits totaled $244,000.00.

Dear Santa
I have been an exceptionally good boy this year and especially there is one thing that I would especially like for Christmas. The greatest thing that you could possibly bring me for Christmas would be a bird dog that would point and retrieve.

Thanks Santa Clause

Viruses Elude High-Tech Cures

In these days of high-tech medicine, home remedies may remain the best way to treat viral colds and sore throat infections, says Texas Medical Association.

No medicines can kill the more than 200 cold-causing viruses, and people who plead with their doctors for antibiotics may be doing themselves more harm than good says Dr. Earl B. Matthew, director of medical services and education for the Central Texas Medical Foundation in Austin and Texas Medical Association member.

"The throat is an ecosystem--like a forest with plants, animals, insects, and other things," he said. "When you destroy one thing, you upset the balance."

Antibiotics can disrupt that balance. A typical sign of a body's imbalance is diarrhea. If taken too frequently, antibiotics can lead to resistant strains of bacteria, leaving the patient open to more infections and complications, including pneumonia.

To combat colds and sore throats, Dr. Matthew advises sufferers to use over-the-counter decongestants and cough remedies to gain relief from symptoms and to rely on home remedies, such as gargling with salt water and eating chicken soup.

If a cold or sore throat persists after five to seven days, the patient may have a secondary infection and needs medical attention, he said. Additional symptoms may include a greenish yellow or blood-streaked nasal discharge, ear pain, fever, or labored breathing.

Prevention, short of quarantine, is impossible because colds are spread through the air and contact with people. However, people who catch several colds during a season and parents with small children should take special precautions.

Frequent hand washing is important because recent research has shown that certain viruses can live up to three hours on the skin and on surfaces such as plastic and metal. Touching a contaminated surface and then rubbing one's eyes or nose can lead to an infection.

Staying away from smokers is another important, often overlooked, precaution. "Smoking paralyzes the natural cleansing mechanisms of the sinuses," Dr. Matthew said.

Studies have shown that children of smokers are more prone to develop colds, bronchitis and pneumonia (especially during the first two years of life), chronic coughs, ear infections, and reduced lung function, in addition to lung cancer.

Creative Living

by: Sheryl Borden

Information on the different features available in portable cordless appliances, a reduced calorie white cake recipe, and how convenient the microwave can be the featured topics on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, December 23 at 2 p.m. (All times are Mountain.)

Nancy Byal, with Better Homes and Gardens in Des Moines, Iowa, will show why the microwave oven is the perfect appliance for a wide range of snacks and appetizers. In fact, Nancy calls the microwave the "Perfect Entertainer".

Lynn Dix, representing Swans Down Cake Flour in New Orleans, LA, will prepare a reduced calorie white cake which is perfect for making all kinds of holiday cakes and cupcakes.

Vickie Watts, Marketing Home Economist with Southwestern Public Services Co. in Roswell, will show what is new on the market in terms of portable, cordless appliances. Vickie will discuss features, costs, and availability of some of the new portables on the market.

On Tuesday, December 19 at 9:30 p.m. and repeated on Thursday, December 21 at 12 noon, "Creative Living" will present information on different combinations of pasta and pistachios and low-cost pageant swimsuit fashion.

Karen Dahlinger, spokesperson for the California Pistachio Commission in Fresno, CA, will use several traditional recipes to demonstrate how well pistachios and pasta combine. Karen will talk about the color of pistachios, how they are grown, how many calories they have, how they are stored, and the nutritional value pistachios contain.

Gloria Bailey, owner of Gloria's Fashions in Baton Rouge, LA, will show some of the different styles of swimsuits that are allowed in various pageants. The most interesting concept is that none of Gloria's fashions-swimsuits, evening gowns, or even the children's pageant garments-are for sale. These fashions can only be rented!

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show is carried on more than 100 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of materials offered on the show by sending one 25 cent stamp for each handout requested. Send the stamps, along with your name, address and booklets requested to:

home chapel in Spokane. Funeral services will be Saturday morning in Evans Funeral Home Chapel in Las Vegas, NV.

Champlin died Monday evening in a hospital in Spokane following a lengthy illness.

A retired law enforcement officer, he operated a horse ranch near Spokane. He was married to the former Phyllis Creamer of Muleshoe.

His survivors include two daughters; three step-daughters; two step-sons; his father; one brother and several grandchildren.

Local survivors are Myrtle Creamer and Clea Williams.

Janie Mejia of the Community Action Program in Muleshoe has said that commodities will be distributed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Tradewinds Plaza.

Nancy Kidd, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture has announced, "decorate your home for the holidays and the CoFC will have qualified people there to judge your talent."

"If you want your property judged, call the Chamber office, 272-4248.

"Winners will be announced Friday, December 22."

A Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) dance will be held Saturday, December 16, 8 p.m.-1 a.m. at the Legion Hall in Muleshoe.

Music will be by Perry Jager. CYO says the admission will be $2 each, plus a can of food.

All local and area youth are encouraged to attend.

Adult English classes have begun at Lazbuddie ISD. Classes are meeting 7:00-10 p.m. on Thursdays in the cafeteria. Anyone interested in attending should enroll during class hours or contact Mrs. Martinez at 965-2153 or 965-2490.

The South Plains Regional Review Committee will meet at 9 a.m. on Friday, December 14, to review and score applications submitted to the Texas Department of Commerce Texas Community Development Program for 1989 Community Development funds.

Thirty applications, including one from Bailey County, totalling $5.8 million will be considered. Eligible applicants are non-entitlement cities and counties with a population of less than 50,000 located in the 15-county South Plains region. A regional allocation of $1.4 million is available.

beef in Mexico, Japan, Korea and both eastern and western Europe.

The total of $1,233,000 is the largest amount ever spent by one state's beef industry council to develop foreign markets.

The funds will be administered by the U. S. Meat Export Federation, a trade group that represents the U.S. meat industry in international market development. TBIC's contribution will be supplemented by $2,418,200 from additional industry funds, USDA's Targeted Export Assistance (TEA) program, and overseas third party contributions. The total budget will be $3,651,000.

Because of the additional funding, each dollar of the Texas beef industry's contribution will have the impact of three dollars.

"In Texas, beef is big business," Clark Willingham, TBIC president-elect, said in announcing the board's action at a press conference held last Thursday in Austin. "As the largest beef producing state in the nation, our industry realizes that the world has to be our market. The lessening of trade and political barriers opens the door for many new opportunities. At the same time, the rest of the world now can share in the great taste and nutrition of our premium product."

In approving the budget, the wife, Gayle; and City Council members and their wives, A. V. and Eddie Wood; Paul and Judy Wilbanks; James Roy and Theresa Jones; and Troy and Mary Stegemoller. He also introduced former City Council member, Tommy Gunstream, as well as Clea Williams, who were both guests.

Muleshoe City Police Chief Wayne Holmes introduced nine police department employees who attended; Anne Camp, librarian, introduced three library employees; Cleve Bland, director of Public Works introduced Marcos Lopez, street foreman and Sylvester Torres, water superintendent; and a number of street, water and sanitation employees.

City Manager Marr then introduced the city hall employees, including Lynda Huckaby, Mary Hicks and Lee Ann Gallman, and Muleshoe Fire Chief Jack Dunham.

Longevity certificates were presented Julian Dominguez and Felipe Rangel for 10 years; Wayne Holmes for 15 years and Anne Camp, 25 years.

He said, "we certainly appreciate their years of service. They have contributed much to the city organization."

"We have a good crew and a pretty stable crew. You don't look out in the room and see a lot of new faces."

TBIC board allocated lump sums for each country to fund a series of activities.

The largest fund allocation of $523,000 will help strengthen and develop markets in Mexico, a country that has ancient ties to the Texas beef industry. The money will help promote beef consumption in Mexico and encourage a stronger trade of live cattle between Mexican and Texan producers. The industry will also place a fulltime marketing director in Mexico to administer U. S. programs that will range from a market study to promotion of U.S. beef for Mexico's booming tourist trade.

and added, "we are not good $5 a day parents, we're not good $5 a day in our church, or in our community."

Talking about what it takes to make that kind of community, Wyatt continued, "We have a lot of people willing to give less than what they get."

He said, "Just once in my life I was a $5 man. I just did it once, but once in my life, I was the 'best' there could be."

He also asked, "What would it take to be a $5 a day Christian?" and answered his own question.

"I don't want to be a $5 a day Christian. I don't want a $75 a day doctor operating on me; I don't want a $75 a day lawyer handling my work."

Following his talk, he sold and autographed copies of his new book, "The Apostles." He wrote and illustrated the book on the life of the Apostles.

Prior to Wyatt's talk, President Hutto said the 90 percent membership fajita cookout would be at his home on January 11. Those who became eligible to attend were asked to bring their Rotary Anns.

He also reminded of the Christmas Caroling scheduled at

Pinto Bean Meet Slated For Tulia

The potentially profitable production of pinto beans, gaining increasing interest among area farmers, will be examined in Tulia Dec. 14 in a conference sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The conference will be from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Swisher Memorial Building, 127 SW St. It is a block west of the Swisher County Courthouse on State Hwy. 86. trip back west after leaving Boston.

Bielicki is public relations spokesman for The Will Power Foundation. He generally goes ahead to make arrangements for the Enright's arrival.

Vicki Enright said she was tired after a year of travel, but satisfied with the results of their journey.

By the time they get back to Santa Monica on January 7, 1990 they will have traveled some 10,000 miles.

Enright said he has used 18 pairs of wheelchair tires and 40 pair of gloves on his journey.

He said they have visited over 750 restaurants; over 200 hospitals and over 200 hotels on their journey.

On leaving Muleshoe Friday afternoon, they planned to travel to Albuquerque, N. M. and expected to arrive there on Tuesday, December 12. Their map would take them to Scottsdale, AZ by Dec. 18 and they planned to spend Christmas in Phoenix before arriving in Santa Monica on January 7.

On their stop in Muleshoe, Joe and Darla Rhodes of Joe's Boot Shop presented Enright with a pair of western boots, and Nancy Kidd, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, presented each with painted mule shoes to commemorate their return through Muleshoe.

A total of $340,000 will help fund six programs to educate the Japanese about U. S. beef. Willingham said this is an important expenditure because Japan is liberalizing its market. In addition, $50,000 will help conduct a market study in Korea, a new but growing customer for U. S. beef.

The board also approved $265,000 for Europe. Most of these dollars will go toward educating consumers within the European Economic Community about the wholesomeness and quality of American-produced beef. However, $40,000 will explore the potential of meat markets in the eastern bloc Communist countries. These had been considered closed to the U.S. beef trade until recently.

Finally, $55,000 has been budgeted to make preparations in this country for visits of foreign trade teams.

The approval of the budget was praised by Bruce Berven, MEF vice president of industry relations.

"This proposal will allow the U. S. beef industry, through MEF-conducted activities, to move forward and be positioned in a competitive stance," Berven said. "The Texas beef checkoff funding will allow MEF to escalate its promotional efforts abroad and continue this momentum in the critical years ahead."

The funds budgeted by the TBIC board includes no current checkoff dollars. They came from a special escrow account set aside for refunds prior to the checkoff referendum in May 1988. When beef producers voted to make the program permanent, fewer beef producers than projected requested refunds. As a result YBIC had $1 million in an interest-bearing account.

"We considered investing this money in several projects," Willingham said, "but all of them, foreign market development made the most sense. Establishing reliable foreign markets for our product will help our industry for years to come."

Willingham said beef exports contribute to a stronger domestic market for U. S. cattle producers. Exports in 1988 contributed $6.86 per hundredweight to the value of U. S. beef cattle, or about $75 per head. The gain to the entire industry was approximately $1.5 billion.

HIGHLIGHTS

In the past the national championship depended on the outcome of just one game. This year the numerous national championship possibilities make the results of many bowl games extremely important. Here are the candidates: Colorado, Miami, Notre Dame, Michigan, Alabama, and Nebraska. And, though no champion has ever had two losses, Florida State and Auburn are also in the picture.

If Colorado beats Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl, the Buffaloes will be #1. But we think the offense-minded Irish will burst the offense-minded Buffalo bubble. If that happens, Miami, with a victory over Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, would be our national champion. However, a victory for Alabama and a win for Michigan in the Rose Bowl could complicate the selection. And a Nebraska upset win over Florida State would put quite a mixture in the frying pan. Delightful to speculate. Our opinion: Miami will be #1.

Missing from our Top Twenty this year are two teams that year after year make their reservations for the top ten even before the season starts. Disappointments were Oklahoma, 7 and 4 this fall, and U.C.L.A. with a sad record of 3-7-1.

Our 1989 forecasting average held very close to our .755 of last season. We forecast the results of 2,235 games, 45 ending in ties. Of the remaining 2,190, there were 1,645 winners and 545 losers for a rather happy average of .751.

After a surprise jump to the top of the conference ratings in 1988, the Pac-10 dropped back to the runner-up spot behind the powerful Southeast Conference. And the "basketball conference" — the Atlantic Coast — barely held onto 3rd place for the second year in a row. Our ratings are based on each league's power quotient average. This includes the rating of each team from top to bottom in every conference. Of the 57 conferences, here are the 20 strongest in the nation:

1 - Southeast Conference.....	94.4	11 - Mid-America Conference.....	64.7
2 - Pacific Ten Conference.....	93.3	12 - Gateway Conference.....	64.3
3 - Atlantic Coast Conference.....	88.89	13 - Yankee Conference.....	64.2

Telemarketing Fraud

Everyday, thousands of Texas consumers receive telephone calls proclaiming a "free" prize. Usually, this is the bait to get you to stay on the telephone long enough for the caller to give you a sales pitch.

While many honest companies use telephone sales, you should carefully check out a company before you do business over the telephone. The Federal Trade Commission estimates that American consumers lose $1 billion each year from the deceptive peddling of goods and services over the telephone.

Telephone sales fraud takes many forms. Some businesses use high-pressure sales pitches, phony prize offers or cheap merchandise to cheat people over the telephone. Victims are often on fixed incomes, are elderly or live in rural areas.

PROTECT YOURSELF FROM FRAUD

You can protect yourself against unscrupulous telemarketers.

- First, find out who is calling. If you are not interested, ask the caller not to call back, and ask to be removed from their calling list.
- Ask for the name, address and phone number of the company.
- Be careful with an unfamiliar company. Be extra careful if their only address is a post office box.
- Check the telephone directory or call directory assistance to find out if the company is listed. Often, fly-by-night businesses won't bother to be listed.
- Be wary if the caller insists on an immediate purchase decision.
- Ask that the offer be sent to you in writing to see if there are any conditions or restrictions that you were not told about over the telephone.
- Ask if it is possible to obtain the names and phone numbers of satisfied customers in your community.
- Never give your credit card or social security number over the telephone as a verification of your identity unless you initiated the call

Ranchers Urged To Remove Ear Tags

Ranchers who used insecticide ear tags for horn fly and ear tick control this past spring and summer should remove the old tags this fall.

"Tags that have been used four to five months on an animal will not emit sufficient insecticide to adequately control fly populations," said Spenser Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

During the past three fly seasons, use of pyrethroid-impregnated ear tags has created a statewide problem with horn fly resistance to the insecticide.

As ranchers work with their cattle this fall, they should remove the old tags, said Tanksley.

The agent said the ear tag system for fly control experts a constant selection pressure on the pest population and results in killing the weakest and most susceptible pests. Other pests that have the genetic ability to survive a sub-lethal dose of insecticide become parents for the next pest generation. Within a two-year period, this selection process can develop a pest population highly resistant to all labeled chemicals of the Pyrethroid type.

Tanksley said producers may get a false impression that the old ear tags are still killing flies, since populations naturally decrease in the fall as flies enter overwintering quarters.

"The old tag is not helping with control but is silently adding to selection pressure, thus making the surviving population more resistant to the target insecticide," said Tanksley.

Fewer hours of daylight in the fall and cooler weather are environmental factors that induce pest diapause. Horn flies spend the winter months in the soil as a diapaused pupa.

"Fall fly tag removal is just a good management practice to reduce additional resistance to the list of insecticides," Tanksley said.

"When insect pests become resistant to an insecticide class, the economic incentive for future use of that compound is greatly reduced," said Tanksley.

MICROWAVE TIPS

An unusual vegetable dish during the holidays is honey sweet potatoes and peas. Use three cups of yams, two tablespoons of butter or oleo, one tablespoon of honey, half teaspoon of dry mustard, a pinch of salt and a cup of frozen peas.

Combine everything except the peas in a casserole. Cover and microwave on high for 8 or 9 minutes, until sweet potatoes are tender, stirring once.

Add the cup of peas and recover and microwave for four or five minutes more—until thoroughly hot, again stirring once. This will make six or more servings.

TDA To Hold Public Hearing December 20

Several substantial changes in the section of the Texas Agriculture Code which regulates use of pesticides have been proposed by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) and could become effective in January.

One of five public hearings on the proposed new and amended regulations will be held in Lubbock at 10 a.m. Dec. 20, it is reported by the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Institute (WTACI).

The Lubbock hearing will be conducted by TDA in the auditorium of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center on FM 1294, just east of I-27 at the Shallowater exit.

Other hearings will be held in Austin, Dec. 18; Dallas, Dec. 20; El Campo, Dec. 20; and San Juan, Dec. 20.

Under the TDA proposal, several additions and amendments will be made in Chapter 7 of the code, which regulates use of chemicals under authority of the Texas Pesticide Control Act.

Among the changes, WTACI reported, are:

- * Addition of five herbicides to the state-limited-use pesticide list. They are Hyvar, Karmex (diuron), Pramitol, Velpar and Krovar.

- * Increased liability for supervision of employees by licensed commercial applicators.

- * Refusal by TDA to accept any bond or liability insurance policy which specifically excludes any particular chemical from coverage.

- * New regulations for the licensing of pesticide dealers and the operation of their dealerships.

- * More record keeping by dealers and applicators.

Law requires such proposed changes must be published in the Texas Register at least 30 days before they are implemented by TDA. The proposals were published in the Register on Dec. 1, said Bobby Thurman, past president of WTACI.

"Producers, chemical applicators and dealers who will have to live under these regulations should attend the hearings in Lubbock or one of the other four locations, or provide written comment to TDA by December 30," Thurman said. "This will be their only chance to voice their views or provide information which could help TDA formulate equitable regulations," he said.

WTACI is an organization of representatives from agricultural agencies, chemical companies, universities and agribusiness which for 37 years has conducted educational programs promoting proper use of agricultural chemicals.

She took it all in stride, however, and set out to enjoy her 50th birthday. (Journal Photo)

Corn Research To Be Funded By TCGA

Research funded by the Texas Corn Growers Association shows that by banding young corn plants with the pesticide Comite, High Plains corn farmers can receive effective mite control at half the cost and not disturb important mite-hungry beneficial insects.

The research, funded by a portion of TCGA's grower check-off program, was conducted by Robert E. Glodt, Jr., a Plainview, Texas-based consulting entomologist and owner of Agri-Search. His three years of testing has produced solid data that banding the lower half of corn just above knee-high with Comite via a ground rig with high pressure nozzles will usually keep Banks grass mite populations at safe levels below the economic threshold.

And the banding method of mite control can be accomplished for about $6 per acre, compared to $12-$18 per acre required for aerial applications.

"Texas Corn Growers is certainly pleased with the result of Bob's research," says Carl King, TCGA president. "We have always worked with independent consultants and researchers in the Texas A&M University System to find the most cost-effective insect control measures available to farmers."

"Mites have always been the most difficult pest to control, especially in hot, dry years when populations can explode and reduce yields substantially. We have confidence that Bob's research may relieve many of our mite insect control problems."

Glodt began his research in 1987 after it was apparent that the Environmental Protection Agency would no longer grant a Sec. 18 temporary clearance for Azodrin. That miticide had provided effective mite control. However, the EPA alleged that the chemical was harmful to birds and banned Azodrin.

Life Gift Establishes Center In West Texas

LifeGift will formally announce establishment of the Organ Donation Center of West Texas today at a reception in Lubbock. The LifeGift Organ Donation Center of West Texas is based in Lubbock and will serve over 65 South Plains counties.

LifeGift assumed the organ procurement activities of the Center for Organ Retrieval and Transplantation (CORT) September 1, at the initiation of CORT. LifeGift of West Texas will be steered by a newly created advisory board based in Lubbock and chaired by David Seim, President of Lubbock National Bank.

"The top priority of LifeGift is increasing the number of organs available for transplant in West Texas," reports Rebecca Davis, executive director of the LifeGift Organ Donation Center. "When we are unable to locally place a donated organ with a suitable recipient, we utilize the United Network for Organ Sharing (UNOS) computer to match the organ with a recipient elsewhere in the region or in the country."

LifeGift was founded in October 1987 in the Texas Medical Center of Houston. The Houston-based center, working with 29 counties in Southeast Texas, has seen a 47.5 percent increase in the number of organ donors since the organization's inception. LifeGift will work to achieve similar results in West Texas.

"Organ donation is a joint effort between the health care community and the general public," explains Davis. "By providing health care professionals with educational opportunities on organ donation, and making information on the subject available to the public, we can increase awareness of the constant need for organ donors."

Over 17,000 people nationwide will wait for life-saving organ transplants this year. Nearly one third of these people will die while waiting. Among the 26 organs and tissues that can be donated are the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver, pancreas, corneas, bone and skin.

LifeGift believes that organ and tissue donation and transplantation extends and improves

In his research Glodt took into consideration that mites make one primary overwintering migration to corn. Usually from neighboring wheat fields. "This migration occurs prior to when corn is 18 to 20 inches tall," he says. "Banks grass mites only inhabit the bottom 50 percent of the leaves of the plant during this early colony establishment phase. By banding on Comite during this early stage, we obtained substantial mite control."

In the application process, Glodt uses an application rate of 1 pt. of Comite and 1 pt. of cottonseed oil per acre (the cottonseed oil mixture helps make sure the chemical sticks to the plant). "The mixture could become clattered if not mixed properly," he says. "Make sure you put Comite into the tank first, then add the cottonseed oil and agitate the mixture while adding water."

He uses a ground application rig equipped with hollow cone nozzles which dispense the mixture at 45 to 60 pounds per square inch (PSI). "The high pressure, hollow cone nozzles are vital," says Glodt. "Without them you likely won't obtain optimum coverage of the entire portion of the plant being sprayed. This is essential in the banding program."

He points out this form of banding is not simply having one nozzle over a row and spraying the whole plant. Nozzles are on an 18-inch drop tube between each row. Nozzles spray upward on each side of the plant making sure the bottom of the leaf is covered.

Beneficials Unharmed

Glodt found that not only did the banding keep mite populations down, the Comite application was harmless to beneficial insects which normally cycle just behind mites.

In natural conditions, mite populations are often at or beyond their peak damaging levels during the tasseling stage and before beneficials are able to provide any worthwhile control. When late miticides are applied, there is a strong chance beneficials will be killed along with the mites.

"But with banding, Comite and beneficials work hand-in-hand to control mites," says Glodt. "Mite populations are knocked down considerably at an early stage. The beneficials, again unharmed by the chemical, are able to help keep mite explosions from occurring before and during the tasseling stage."

1988 Test Data

Data from tests conducted by Glodt in 1988 are good examples of the effectiveness of Comite and beneficials working together. A corn field near Olton, Texas, was banded with Comite on June 10. Eighty percent of the lower half of the leaves had mite webbing prior to banding.

Eight days after the application, the mite population was at a rate of 45 every 40 leaves. Two weeks later, the rate was 16 per 40 leaves. About 25 days after treatment, it had risen to 146. That's when the beneficials took over.

"On July 16, 36 days after treatment, the population rate was back down to 17 mites per 40 leaves," says Glodt. "Growers who are experienced in dealing with mite populations know that such a decrease can't be attributed to residual miticide. The naturally occurring biological interaction between beneficials and mites, coupled with favorable weather, caused the reduction."

The portion of the field which was untreated had a population of 343 per 40 leaves at the 36-day period. Glodt says Capture, a miticide for which TCGA helped obtain a Sec. 18 in 1989, also provided satisfactory mite control. Previous tests have also indicated that an experimental biological ABGA-6162, also shows promise.

Glodt says it is important for growers to continue monitoring their fields after banding. And if a field is known for heavy mite infestations, additional aerial applications may be required. "Growers also need to check for hot spots where additional treatment may be needed," he says.

Growers should also avoid irrigating until five to seven days after the banding treatment, he says. He urges farmers to maintain weed-free field margins, which may cause outbreaks of two-spotted mites. Although Comite provides effective control of two-spotted mites, experience indicates that control may be slowed due to late mite migration after Comite has been applied.

Glodt realizes that in some years mite problems may be minimal even with no pesticide treatment. But he also realizes that if mite explosions do occur in July or August, farmers may not have time to obtain control due to EPA red tape. And late-season applications are also more expensive than early season banding.

"Mites have the ability to significantly reduce yields," he says. "You shouldn't just gamble that you won't have a problem. Like other pest control measures, there's no guarantee that ing on Comite will work time. But if you have reasonable chance to manage population before it gets hand, then you'll spend a lot more money than you will later
