City Fathers Postpone Cigarette Tax for Further Study Financing Through

Petitions Have 450 Signers, None Attend

Action on a proposed cigarette tax to finance a recreaon program was postponed by city councilmen Wednesday ight when the council agreed the program needed further tudy and presentation of a definite theory for the recreation rogram to the public.

Petitions bearing between 400 and 450 signatures were esented to the council in opposition to the tax. Only one oner, however, actually appeared before the city council he petitions were circulated by a cigarette distributor.

Behind the postponement was a friendly disagreement tween Councilmen George Ferriman, proponent of the tax head of the council's park and recreation committee, and

City Should Prepare to Up Budget, Mayor Says

Artesia might as well look for higher city budgets, Mayor J. L. Briscoe told city councilmen Wednesday

"We have bragged for the past four or five years that we haven't substantially raised our city budget. But we've got to face it that we're going to have to," the mayor said.

His statement came after City Clerk T. H. Ragsdale read a memo reporting $54.18 in the airport fund, $9,-469.76 in the street fund, and $1,666.20 in the park fund to carry the city until June 31.

Sales Training Course Slated By Chamber Board

Retail merchants committee of Artesia Chamber of Commerce has announced it is sponsoring the Elmer Wheeler community sales training program, according to Bert Jones, chairman.

"The Wheeler school is a part of the 1954 program of work of the retail committee," Jones said, "and is being sponsored by the chamber so that local business and professional people can continue to increase their sales. Price of the course is just $9 per person which is 3 cents a day for a year, and we feel that such an investment will repay the merchants many times that amount in increased sales," Jones added.

The training program will be conducted by Don Weidner, Colorado Springs, Colo., area manager for the Southwest and Pacific Coast states. He will be assisted by Robert Griffin of Artesia, local representative

CHEST LIEUTEN CHEVROLET CO. Artesia, New Mexico

Everything you buy drops in value as time passes. Your car, home appliances, furniture, etc., all are subject to the natural economic law of depreciation. Some things depreciate much faster than others, but the rate of depreciation of a piece of equipment isn't ordinarily of great significance to you until you have to replace it. How long has it been since you have had to make a major replacement in your plumbing system? Chances are that your plumbing has been operating ten, twenty, thirty years or more without more than a few minor repairs. The basic parts of the plumbing in your home probably will last the life of the building. Assuming that you pay $1,000 for a typical home plumbing system, the cost per day over a thirty year period is less than ten cents. Long after

many of your possessions which are new today have headed for the scrap heap, your plumbing will be giving satisfying and safe

To make certain that your plumbing will give the long, satisfactory service which should be expected of it, call a qualified plumbing contractor. His competency is verified by a plumbing license issued to him by your community or state. Your local plumbing code prescribes sound and safe installation methods. Your plumbing inspector is available to certify that the installation has been made correctly. Your qualified plumbing contractor sells, installs, services and guarantees. Take full advantage of all these services and your plumbing will give a lifetime of convenience at the lowest possible rate of depreciation.

Miss Wilna Griffin Becomes Bride of John Achen Pink-Blue Event In Formal Church Ceremony in Baptist Church

Miss Wilna Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Griffin, of Ar-tesia, became the bride of John R. Achen, son of the late Mr. and Mrs J. W. Achen, also of Artesia, at 3 Sunday afternoon, Feb. 7, at First Baptist church of Artesia.

Rev. S. M. Morgan officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with large pedestal baskets of white and pink

Mrs. Robert Griffin, who sang "Love's Offering" and the "Lord's Prayer," was accompanied by Miss Beverly Boteler, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in mar-The bride wore a white satin floor length gown with a cathedral train. The fitted bodice had tiny buttons down the front with a stand up collar. The long sleeves came to a point over the hands. Her fingertip length veil was an illusion of white nylon tulle sitted to a headdress of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and streamers of white satin.

For something "old" Miss Griffin had an old coin in her shoe; he "new" her wedding ensemble; the "borrowed," pear earrings be-longing to Miss Dorothy Whiteley, close friend of the bride; the blue," her garter.

Miss Betty Grifftn, sister of the ride, was maid of honor. Miss ouise Griffin, also a sister of the ride, and Miss Dorothy Whiteley erved as bridesmaids. Their idenical gowns were floor length of paper taffeta with velveteen bodces and boleros. Their small hats vere of matching velveteen. The naid of honor's dress was silver rey and her bouquet was of pink arnations with pink velvet The bridesmaid's dresses were rose color and their uquets were of white carnations with white satin streamers. Howard Achen, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Charlie Powell, Norman Prude. Cliff Plattor, and James Anderson

Everything you buy drops in value as time passes. Your car, home appliances, furniture, etc., all are subject to the natural economic law of depreciation. Some things depreciate much faster than others, but the rate of depreciation of a piece of equipment isn't ordinarily of great significance to you until you have to replace it. How long has it been since you have had to make a major replacement in your plumbing system? Chances are that your lumbing has been operating ten, twenty, thirty years or more without more than a few minor repairs. The basic parts of the plumbing in your home probably will last the life of the building. Assuming that you pay $1,000 for a typical home plumbing system, the cost per day over a thirty year period is less than ten cents. Long after

To make certain that your plumbing will give the long, satisfactory service which should be expected of it, call a qualified plumbing contractor. His competency is verified by a plumbing license issued to him by your community or state. Your local plumbing code prescribes sound and safe installation methods. Your plumbing inspector is available to certify that the installation has been made correctly. Your qualified plumbing contractor sells, installs, services and guarantees. Take full advantage of all these services and your plumbing will give a lifetime of convenience at the lowest possible rate of depreciation.

Adair Named as Driller Manager, Team Gets New

Dallas Eagles of the Texas league under which the Artesia Drillers will be managed by veteran Jim Local Legion Post Leads will be managed by veteran Jimmy Adair and get "almost a whole ball club," was announced today by S. A. Lanning, Artesia ballclub

Lanning also announced name of the Drillers will be changed from to "NuMex Refiners."

Adair will be general manager of the ballelub, Lanning said. Under the agreement, Artesia will be responsible for financial support of the ballclub as it has in the past, Lanning said.

He pointed out to fans that despite advertising contracts for $10,000 and the agreement with Dallas, there can be no let-down in ticket selling campaigns and sale of other advertising and box seats.

Lanning distinguished between a working agreement and a farm club in making his announcement

"A farm club means the parent team would pay all expenses of the ity," Lanning said. "We definitely do not have that type of arrange-

"We do have a working agreement under which we will be furnished ballplayers," Lanning added. The president said Adair is expected in Artesia today.

Adair was earlier this year and last fall reported to have been working with a Hobbs group proposing to organize a professional ballelub in Hobbs

Lanning said the Drillers' name will be change to "NuMex Refiners" under an advertising contract for $9,000 with NuMex refinery of Artesia.

The company has also agreed to buy $1,000 worth of box seats, the president said. Lanning strongly expressed the Lower Voting Age?

WITH PROPOSALS that the voting age across the nation be lowered from the present 21 down to 18, we are fortunate that an experiment along these lines already has been tried in one state of the union, Georgia.

The proposed change would be made through constitutional amendment. Henry Lesesne, a correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, recalls that the change in Georgia came during the administration of Gov. Ellis Arnall, in 1943, the youngest governor in the nation.

"After some years of observation, most Georgians seem to have only a good word for the voting of the youngsters," Lesene observes. "Georgia editorial opinion generally is to the effect that lowering the voting age has had a not unwholesome effect.'

Lesesne also notes that those who favor lowering the voting age have reservations about President Eisenhower's way of going about it. There is nothing in the Constitution which fixes the voting age. Therefore, it is thought the matter of lowering the voting age should be left up to the states.

Opposed to the proposal are those who argue military fitness does not necessarily imply mental maturity.

Proponents cite conditions which make today's 18-year-old better informed and better equipped to exercise the right of the ballot than his father or grandrather at the same age. Today 18-year-olds have completed formal school, are earning their own living, and are often even married.

Governor Arnall in proposing the Georgia change in 1943 said he did so because "I was impressed by the energy, the activity, the awareness, and the idealism of young people" during his campaign.

He observes that "America was at war. Georgia boys under 21 were taking their places in the Army, and the Navy and Air Force. There was a strong feeling . . . that the defense of a nation should be in the hands of full citizens."

writes, that the younger citizens would learn much from participation in government and would be better equipped to assume their places in civic affairs. He learned that "18 had been the usual age for the assumption of many obligations of citizenship. The toga viralis was assumed by Roman youths at that time, according them participation in public affairs. It was the age of attained majority for feudal du-

Younger voters, Governor Arnall says, have a tendency to vote on issues rather than to support partisan factions. They have strongly backed measures to improve educational facilities. And although younger voters emotionally tend toward a conservative position on most issues, they seem to have an unusual capacity for detecting demogogic appeals, false issues, and specious arguments.

Last year there were 860,000 Scouters. Almost 200,000 of those leaders took training courses in Scouting and leadership.

As Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief Scout executive declares, "Scouting is dependent upon men who care enough about boyhood and American institutions to volunteer their

Terrible Price

STEPHEN MITCHELL, chairman of the national Democratic party, recently told a New Mexico audience in Albuquerque the Republican administration has brought an end to Democratic prosperity in the nation.

Mitchell pointed to 1.2 million fewer jobs now than a year ago, plus a $31/2 billion drop in wage earners' income.

If the nation did enjoy Democartic prosperity, it did so at a terrible price. Not until World War II did the nation snap from its depression doldrums. Pent-up industrial and consumer demand sustained prosperity after the war until the Korean conflict came.

If the Democrats created that war-based prosperity, it was a terrible price to pay. It is a prosperity also which has cut the worth of savings, has slashed the value of pensions to the retired, has haived the worth of income from insurance policies to the widowed.

That kind of depression-promoting talk doesn't stack up with the well-based forecasts the nation in 1954 will employ its second highest year of prosperity.

When a party attempts to create a pyschological depression for political purposes, it is stooping to the worst sort of voter

Fear of hunger, fear of lost savings, fear losing jobs, fear for the future—what kind of an outlook is that for an America which enjoys the greatest national prosperity it or any other nation has ever known?

Huge Accident Bill

AMERICA PAID dearly for accidents in 1953—95,000 killed, 9.6 million injured, $9.1 billion lost.

In totting up the bill for accidents, the National Safety Council found the motor vehicle remains the No. 1 accidental killer, wiping out 38,000 of the 95,000 dead in 1953.

Home fatalities were down 1,000 under 1952 to 28,000. Industrial accidents remained steady at 15,000.

While 1953 saw an accident rate of 60 per 100,000 population, the lowest on record, that rate cannot detract from a terrible toll of lives for a country which boasts of its progress, of achievement such as man has never known before.

Falls killed 20,200 people, burns 6,400, firearms 2,450, drownings 6,800.

What a terrible price for human care-

Sheriff's Race

WITH SEVEN candidates formally in the sheriff's race, it's going to take more than back-slapping to raise one candidate

So far, few candidates have advanced any type of program, other than favoring cleaning up the road sides and getting New Year's drunks home.

Perhaps the candidates might speak out their views on county-ownership of cars. Would that save the county money?

How about the idea of uniforming the deputies, a program which has met with great success elsewhere. And marking of sheriff's department cars with readily-recognizable

Would training of deputies at a police academy, such as that set up at Hobbs, result in better county law enforcement?

Certainly voters are going to be a little more discriminating when there are sevenor more-candidates to choose among for sheriff. The candidates who comes forward with a more concrete program that "good law enforcement," "better juvenile work," and cleaner road sides is just apt to gain

Out of the prolonged debate there has been developed the fact that a majority of the members of the Senate are apparently in favor of some kind of an amendment. The differences, which still are not fully overcome, are as to the language of the amendment

President Eisenhower, who has opposed an amendment which he feels would tie his hands in carrying out his executive powers to make treaties and international agreements, has promised however to support "an appropriate amendment which would make clear for all time" that a treaty or other international agreement could not override the Constitu-

Most certainly the president should not have his hands tied in the proper conduct of international affairs. That is authority vested in him under the Constitution. But it is equally certain that action ies justified to clarify the intent of the Constitution to prevent rights of American citizens under our internal law from being abridged by treaties or or other international pacts. It would appear now that out of the prolonged Senate debate there may be an eventual agreement which will clarify the Constitution's provisions for a balance of power between the executive and legislative branches of the government, insofar as international agreements are con-

This new federal aid ard Hubler says of dogs in Corobill would make approximately

The interstate system comprises about 38,000 miles of highways throughout the nation, given that designation by the Congress in 1944. The defense department also has designated them as essential to the defense program. Surveys recently made show that they are from tion bottleneck and a hazard the people in event of an en gency. They are the worst po tial killers of any of our h

As the only member of thes committee from a Western put lands state I found that the jority membership of the mittee had proposed that fed funds for the interstate st be allocated to the states on basis of population only an on the regular formula that been in use for many yea the distribution of federal h way aid money. That action taken in a secret meeting proposed allocation would given New Mexico only the m mum of 3/4 of one per cent the interstate highway funds.

In protesting against this ma festly unfair distribution I po ed out to the committee that death toll on the highways, with the proposed improvement of interstate system is intended decrease, is not as heavy prop tionately in the congested, hear populated areas as it is in states like New Mexico, sparse population but with h stretches of highway where ing motorists have an urge high speed.

In New York state, for stance, there are 1034 miles interstate highways and than 15 million people. The fic death toll in that state in la according to the National Sa Council, was a little more 2,000. In New Mexico with I miles of interstate highways a population of 756,000, the de toll in 1953 was 415. In words New York's death toll 1953 would have to be about & to be on the same ratio 25 New Mexico 1953 fatanties on highways based on population

My protest won a partial a promise wherein New will receive much more each! in interstate highway aid l than the bill originally proposed intend to seek still further funds for our state, some of to be available in the 1955 I year starting July 1 The attempt to cut back Mexico's share is just and case of majority policy of the line the back and the back are the back and the back are the back and the back are the back ing the big cities at the exp of the rural areas. In my mept both are entitled to fair share, no more, no less.
