SANTA FE — (AP) — Gov. Edwin L. Drake today announced the re-appointment of Dr. J. J. Clarke to the state board of dental examiners, Dist. 5. The term ends June 9, 1959. Dr. Clarke has held the position for more than 40 years.

He and his wife, the former Mrs. Grimmer, have three children, all practicing dentists in New Orleans. Dr. Clarke's wife died in 1923.

Dr. Clarke began his practice in New Orleans, La., but soon moved to New Mexico, practicing in Santa Fe and Artesia.

Bids on Six Miles Sought By Bureau

Paving of six miles of State Road 83 west from Mayhill will be put to contract in July, according to Paul Scott, manager of Artesia Chamber of Commerce. Scott said he conferred by telephone yesterday with W. J. Keller, Albuquerque, district engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

All of the six-mile stretch as well as the remaining nine miles unpaved road are in Lincoln National Forest.

Scott said Keller reported that the six-mile stretch will be built this fiscal year and the remaining nine the next, with the likelihood that the 15 miles will then be sealed in the third fiscal year.

This would complete the highway from Artesia to Alamogordo, the 15-mile stretch from Artesia to Hope only having recently been realigned and "death curves" removed.

A safe stolen Sunday night from Gambles Store was recovered Wednesday morning in the Pecos river. A swimmer, Jeff Colter of Artesia, scraped the safe as he swam in the river.

He dove again and discovered the safe.

All papers, including checks, were found buried along the banks by another party Wednesday morning.

Not recovered was an estimated $144 in cash and six rifles also stolen in the robbery.

Door of the safe had been ripped off.

Entry was gained into Gambles, 314 W. Main, by jimmying the rear door.

The safe was found in the river about a mile north of the Pecos river bridge east of Artesia.

Artesia Second In Longhorn Loop Attendance Rise

ROSWELL — Attendance figures in the Longhorn league have shown an increase of 16,619 over last year in games played through May 25.

President Harry James said that the upped attendance in the league so far was "most gratifying" and he believes the league would be the leader among Class C loops when final figures are compiled at the end of the playing season.

An oddity was noted by James in the fact that San Angelo, a contender all last season and in sixth place now, showed an increase of 30 per cent for the league top.

Artesia and Roswell followed.

Dust Storms Ride Cold Front After High Temperature

WESTERLY downflow wind from a Pacific cold front swept across New Mexico today, bringing local dust storms and sending temperatures downward five to 10 degrees.

The cool air moved into the state overnight in the northeast corner and by mid-morning was skidding down the East Side. It was expected to cover all but the extreme southwestern corner by nightfall.

Some wind and dust, mainly in the east, was accompanying the front which was bringing severe thunderstorms to portions of the Great Plains and tornadoes to Texas.

Winds yesterday averaged 20 to 30 miles per hour with occasionally gusts to 40.

D. D. Monroe Named Acting Bureau Chief

SANTA FE — Appointment of associate state tax commissioner D. D. Monroe of Clayton as acting chief tax commissioner was announced today by Gov. Edwin L. Mechem.

Mechem said Monroe would hold the job until another appointment is made or it is determined that Monroe can take the position permanently.

The chief commissioner's job was left vacant June 1 with the resignation of Fred W. Moxey, who has become executive secretary of the New Mexico Oil and Gas Assn.

Mechem's announcement said nothing about a successor for Monroe as associate commissioner.

Tornadoes Whip Western, North Texas Tuesday

By The Associated Press
A baby was killed, 14 persons hurt and crops were damaged by tornadoes which whirled across North Texas Tuesday.

Half the city hall roof was torn off at Paducah, where the one of 11 injuries occurred.

South Plains cotton, only recently revived by rains, was hurt by hail and high wind.

Hail covered the ground like snow at Paducah.

At least two homes were flattened near Iowa Park in North Texas, where three persons were injured. The storm did some damage to the ripening North Texas wheat.

At Paducah was Ida Placino, 3 months old. The child's mother and five brothers and sisters were injured.

Other tornadoes were reported in Bakersfield, 110 miles west of Paducah, and to the west of Paducah. A windmill near Bakersfield was twisted into pretzels.

Followed by biting, wind-blown sand, thick residents could hardly see across the street, the twister struck the west edge of Paducah took its greatest toll when it struck the Placino home 18 miles southeast.

The Placinos lived on the Jack Placino ranch. All were in their beds when it was crushed by the twister.

Wounded were the mother, Mrs. Ida Placino, and five children, Olivia, 9; Alejandro, 7; Ysabel, 6; Abraham, 4 and Adam, 3. Olivia, with chest and leg injuries, was most seriously hurt.

Truman Havins, 25, and Dorothy Havins, 23, brother and sister living in the Chalk community near Placino home, were hurt when the twister picked up the wind in which they were fleeing toward a storm cellar.

Havins was pinned under the roof more than an hour with a broken hip and leg. Dorothy Havins suffered a broken arm.

Mrs. Joe Richards, who lives five miles southeast of Paducah, was thrown against a barn fence as they ran for their lives.

NM Scientists Blast Handling Of Oppenheimer

LOS ALAMOS — A national scientists organization today blasted the nation's personnel security system and said the security panel's decision in the Oppenheimer case "transcends justice and common decency."

A statement by David L. Hill, retiring chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, criticized President Eisenhower and Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Hill's statement was issued in connection with the security board's 2-1 barring of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer from further access to the nation's atomic secrets.

Hill described his group as "a national organization of scientists concerned with the impact of a science on society and with the relation between science and government."

"Many of us who know Robert Oppenheimer can only respond to the security board's action by doubting the good judgment of the majority of the board," Hill said. "If their investigation has been fair..." (Continued on Page Two)

Southern Baptist Convention Opens In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — "Seething unrest among the masses" cannot be blamed on the communists, the Rev. Carl Bates of Amarillo, 53ys. He is a member of the executive committee of the Southern Baptist Convention. The Amarillo man told the Southern Baptist Pastors' Conference last night that the communists caught America and Europe sleeping and seized upon the unrest of the world's underprivileged for their own purposes.

The Southern Baptist Convention opened today and will continue through Saturday. About 25,000 Baptist visitors are expected in St. Louis for the meeting.

Advocate Signs Exclusive Longhorn Loop Wire Report

Contracts for the Associated Press' special Longhorn league baseball wire were signed Tuesday by Orville E. Priestley, publisher of the Artesia Advocate.

Wendell S. "Left" Erickson, New Mexico chief of bureau for AP, said the wire service will begin immediately to make arrangements for installation of a special wire to the Advocate for the service.

The Longhorn league wire, which will be exclusive with the Artesia Advocate in Artesia, will operate from 9 p. m. to midnight every night.

Sports editors of papers in Longhorn league cities where games are being played send full reports on the games over the special wire as soon as the game is completed.

Addition of the special wire, Priestley said, will enable the daily Artesia Advocate to offer the fullest Artesia NuMex coverage available in the city.

When NuMexers are on the road full reports on away games will be transmitted by the sports editor of the host city's Associated Press member newspaper.

When NuMexers are at home, complete reports will be filed on the wire by the Artesia Advocate staff as soon as the game is over and a story and statistics prepared.

Installation of the special wire will require a third teletype machine at the Advocate.

Republicans Get Top Listing on Election Ballots

SANTA FE — (AP) Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred M. Standley held today the Republicans get the first, left-hand column position on election ballots.

However, he told Secy. of State Beatrice Roach the law is not specific as to which party gets the upper row position on voting machines.

Until the voting machine law is amended, Standley said, county clerks have the power to decide which party shall have which position on the voting machine, so long as the positions are consecutive.

President Stoutly Defends Record In Fighting Reds

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower said today his administration has an impressive list of accomplishments in fighting communism and subversion.

The president made the statement at his news conference after virtually barring questions on the sharp controversy between members of his administration and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

One newsmen, nevertheless asked the president whether he felt that McCarthy is hurting the administration's legislative program.

A look of sharp annoyance came over the president's face and after a pause he turned away from the questioner and snapped out that he was ready for the next question.

In ruling out questions about the McCarthy administration controversy, the president said that from now on he has just one objective—to get his legislative program enacted.

And, in declaring that the administration—through the justice (Continued on Page Two)

Drought-Area Ranchers Told Beef Feed Break Not Harmful

It's often said that you have to keep beef calves growing continuously if you want them to gain well. Some textbooks say the same thing.

The matter's important to cattlemen because the growth of calves is slowed down when they have to be carried for several months on sparse winter forage or drought-stricken range. The majority of our beef animals probably are raised under such a system.

But ARS animal physiologists now say the idea that you have to "keep 'em growing" isn't necessarily true.

In experiments at the agricultural research center, Beltsville, Md., C. F. Winchester and associates interrupted the growth of beef calves for as long as 6 months with no apparent ill effects.

Though their rations had been short on energy-giving carbohydrates, the calves still made good feeders if they had received enough protein, carotene, and minerals to maintain health and vigor.

The physiologists recognized, of course, that poor nutrition due to adverse range conditions usually involves a reduction in the quality as well as the quantity of feed. These scientists believed that any loss of ability to use feed efficiently after growth has been retarded may largely develop from lack of nutrients other than carbohydrates in the range forage.

TO TEST this theory, the scientists used several sets of identical twin calves. Such twins, coming from the same egg and thus having common inherited characteristics, usually react in much the same way. This made it possible to draw conclusions in a relatively short period of intensive research covering the last 4 years.

One member of each set of twins was used as a control. This animal was fed a recognized liberal-allowance ration. The other twin of each pair became the experimental animal. Such twins were fed percentages of the full ration at varying ages and for varying periods.

The researchers discovered that the experimental calves — even those carried at a maintenance level — gained thrifflily when they were later put on full feed. It didn't appear that the restricted ration and retarded growth had caused any loss of efficiency in feed utilization.

Calves carried on a ration containing only 50 per cent of the liberal calorie allowance from the age of 6 months to 13 months neither gained nor lost weight appreciably during that period. When put on a liberal allowance, they gained just as well as the control animals — even better in some cases. The controls were slaughtered at slightly over 1,000 pounds at 16 to 22 1/2 months of age. The experimental animals were slaughtered at the same weight at 20 to 22 1/2 months.

Although the 50-per cent ration had an energy content of only about maintenance level, the protein, carotene, and mineral content was adequate for rapid gains. So the calves, when put back on a full ration, were healthy and capable of resuming normal growth. This indicated clearly that their slow-down in growth resulted primarily from the low energy value of the ration.

AT SLAUGHTERING time, the scientists found no appreciable difference in carcass grade or meat quality that could be charged to the interruption in growth. They found the cost of producing a pound of beef only slightly increased. They found, in fact, greater gains per unit of feed intake by the experimental animals during much of the period following limited feeding.

The scientists say that feeding for rapid, continuous gain in order to market beef at the earliest possible age is still the more profitable plan when feed prices are low enough.

But they believe their work has proved that when feed prices are temporarily high, cattlemen may well carry young animals as long as 6 months on a maintenance ration that meets all the nutritional needs other than energy requirements for growth. Such a ration must contain sufficient protein, carotene, and minerals.

Winchester and his associates are now preparing to investigate how much "sufficient" actually is. The protein level of the ration will be investigated first. At present, there's little information available on the protein requirements of calves that are being fed just enough energy to maintain their body weight.

Socorro was high overnight with a reading of 67 degrees, while Raton with its 39 degrees was coolest.

"The handling of this case raises grave doubts about the administration of the entire personnel security system. It is carried out by the appropriate federal agencies in conformance with due process of law. It is being done quietly and relentlessly and those who best know its effectiveness are the Communists themselves."

HOLLYWOOD— Jon Hall Is Money-Maker, Even Loafing

—By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How would you like to earn more money by loafing than working?
 That enviable position is enjoyed by Jon Hall, the star of the amazingly popular TV series "Ramar of the Jungle."
 "During the past five months, I haven't worked a bit," he tells us. "Yet I've made more money than I could have by working steadily for two years in the movies."
 This happy prosperity is afforded by the economics of syndicated TV films. A star can work like a demon for a period, then relax and allow the films to go out and bring in the loot.
 In the case of "Ramar" the system has been successful beyond the backers' fondest dreams. The jungle show is on 120 stations in the United States. In many places, it draws bigger audience ratings than the top network shows.
 Hall has earned his leisure. Since the handsome gent drew his first attention in "The Hurricane" in 1937, he has been working almost steadily in films, largely of the action-adventure type. But about two years ago, he struck a

Hagerman Truck Driver Is Fined After Accident

William J. King, 46, of Hagerman, was fined $100, $5 court costs, and his right to drive for one year revoked as the result of a car-truck accident near Lake Arthur at 9 p. m. Friday.
 King pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and driving without a license before Justice of Peace J. E. Lusk of Hagerman, according to State Patrolman D. A. Bonine.
 The accident, 2.8 miles north of Lake Arthur on U. S. 285, involved a truck driven by King and a 1952 Oldsmobile driven by Melvin Leroy Poundstone, 33, Kirtland Air Force base.
 A passenger in the Poundstone car, Dorothy Orlovich, 24, Albuquerque, suffered a bruised jaw and cut lip.
 Patrolman Bonine said both the truck and car were traveling south on U. S. 285.
 As Poundstone attempted to pass King, the patrolman said, King pulled his truck into the wrong lane, hitting the car.
 The car skidded 110 before the impact as Poundstone applied brakes, and traveled 33 feet after impact. The truck, a one-ton 1950 model owned by Keeth Gas Co., traveled 90 feet after the impact.
