

Fire Destroys $30,000 Ross Sears Farm Feed Mill

Welder's Sparks Are Believed to be Cause

Fire Thursday noon destroyed the Ross Sears feed mill six miles south of Artesia, doing damage estimated at more than $30,000.

The fire, believed to have been started by sparks dropped from a welder's torch, was a raging inferno when Artesia volunteer firemen arrived at 1 p. m.

The feed mill, processing alfalfa today, was consumed in the flames.

Firemen broke out small booster lines to first battle the blaze, then dropped big 2½ inch lines into a nearby water tank to combat the blaze.

Driven by wind, the flames whipped up through the mill, consuming the corrugated steel and timber building in about an hour.

As timber weakened, the structure began caving in.

The fire was reported to Artesia firemen at 12:50 p. m., but is believed to have been smoldering for more than an hour before it whipped into destructive fury.

T. E. Vandiver, Sears' son-in-law and manager of the farm and mill, said either sparks from a welder's torch or internal combustion ignited the fire.

Workmen on the Sears farm wet down buildings several hundred feet from the blaze to prevent their catching fire.

Clean-Up of City's North Side Urged

Suggestions for a clean-up of the North Side and installing street lights and stop signs in the area were advanced by Councilman Joe Alvarado at last night's city council meeting.

Alvarado said he had prepared a request, written in Spanish, that residents of the North Side clean up garbage cans and use sanitary measures in what open pit privies do exist.

Alvarado also recommended the city examine the North Side for installation of one or two stop signs and one or two street lights on exceptionally dark corners.

Water Chiselers Spur 'Get-Tough' Policy By City

A get-tough policy with chiselers who get city water for nothing was ordered last night by city council.

The order came after City Clerk T. H. Ragsdale said there have been many cases of residents having water turned off by the city, then privately turning the water back on.

After readers, he said, have been checking "off" meters monthly to see if any water has been used through an illegal turning on of the valve.

The result has been that water bills ranging up to $77 have been incurred by parties who then turned the water on.

The water department was ordered to inspect "off" meters monthly and to padlock meters serving residents who consistently turn on valves, but deny they did so.

Des Moines River Flood Is Believed to Be Controlled

DES MOINES — The raging Des Moines river roared through this city today at a historic crest of just over 30 feet—18 feet higher than its normal flow. But flood defense officials said "We think we've got it whipped."

A three-day battle, first to raise levees and then to hold them against the pounding waters, was its climatic hours. All major levees were holding. No lives had been lost.

The crest was 3½ feet higher than the official peak reached in the disastrous 1947 Des Moines flood when a major levee gave way and flooded a residential area.

Levee workers continued to be hampered by sight-seers almost as much as by the rushing waters. Last night National Guardsmen with bayonets shooshed back zealous sight-seers who swarmed into a critical levee area.

But guard officials stressed there is no clash with the sight-seers. Downstream from Des Moines, the city of Ottumwa prepared for crest of 16½ to 17 feet due there over the week-end. Ottumwa was (Continued on Page Six)

Clayton Menefee, who has been chapter chairman of the North Eddy County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has submitted his resignation to directors and supervisors of the chapter, it was announced here today.

Menefee has been chairman of the local organization since February 1952, when he was appointed to that office. He said his resignation came about due to business and personal reasons.

Menefee said Miss Ruth Mellor, area director of the Red Cross, would arrive in Artesia some time during the first part of July to help break in the new chairman to the duties of the office.

He said the new head would probably be appointed during the next few days, as it is the custom to elect officers about the first of July.

Menefee's resignation is effective June 30.

HOBBS — The vanguard of an expected 600 New Mexico Legionnaires began arriving today for the 35th annual convention of the New Mexico Department of the American Legion.

Mrs. Supina Gives Fellow Prisoner Milk—in Face

Mrs. Frances Supina, Eddy county's most famed woman prisoner, let a fellow inmate have it full in the face with a glass of milk yesterday in the county jail at Carlsbad.

Mrs. Supina, in jail for contempt of court, had a difference of opinion with Babe Phillips, serving a 30-day sentence for drunkenness.

Mrs. Supina said "Babe was going through a package" left in her care by a departing prisoner. Babe cussed when Mrs. Supina attempted to stop her—and so the milk.

But Babe said the package was left to her by the prisoner and Mrs. Supina tossed the milk at her without any provocation.

The two are still in the same cell.

Mechem Refuses Help by McCarthy

By JULIUS GOLDEN
ALBUQUERQUE — Gov. Edwin L. Mechem has turned firm thumbs down on any possible plan to bring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) to New Mexico to campaign for the state's GOP candidates.

Mechem, at first refusing to comment on questions concerning McCarthy, said:

"You know the answer as well as I do. If I have anything to do with it at all, he (McCarthy) will not be invited to New Mexico."

McCarthy appeared in New Mexico during the 1952 campaign in Santa Fe. Mechem did not appear with the controversial senator at that time.

Mechem made his statement at a GOP fund raising dinner after Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall told newsmen individual candidates will decide for themselves whether they want campaign help from McCarthy. He said McCarthy only "goes where he's invited."

Mechem matches his vote-getting ability against Sen. Anderson (O-NM) at the polls in November. Meanwhile, other state candidates and the Republican state (Continued on Page Six)

Cost to City Lot Owners To Be Cut

Possibilities the city of Artesia may go into the street paving business to provide more paving at lower cost is under study by city officials as a result of last night's city council meeting.

Mayor W. H. Yeager and city councilmen indicated favor of a plan which calls for the city to buy equipment to allow it to use surplus asphalt offered at substantially cut cost by local refineries.

Discussion of the possibility was brought up when a machinery salesman proposed the city should buy a street sweeper "which would pay for itself in a year."

Mayor Yeager pointed out to the council the city can buy either the street sweeper or a truck to distribute asphalt on city streets.

It cannot afford both, he said. Councilman H. B. Gilmore, who informed the council surplus oil has been offered the city four times over the past few months, expressed favor for the city going into the street paving business.

Cost of buying an asphalt distributor would be about $4000, Mayor Yeager said. The city would also be faced with buying a roller.

The sweeper offered to the city would cost $4000 after the city is allowed a $1500 discount on its present sweeper. The new sweeper, designated under the brand name Mobil Sweeper, is "the only sweeper designed to pick up street dirt and deliver it at the dump without having a crew pick up after it," a salesman told the council.

Mayor Yeager later said "I'm skeptical about these things that pay for themselves. The only way it would pay for itself would be for us to fire two or three men, and we aren't going to do that because we use our men for other (Continued on Page Six)

Big Tract Is Fourth Major City Addition

An addition to the city covering 57 acres and offering 215 building lots was tentatively approved by city council last night.

Presented by Boyd Barnett, Artesia businessman and farmer, the addition is bounded by Hermosa drive and Centre streets on the south and north, and Thirteenth and Twentieth streets on the east and west.

J. H. "Bus" Brown, who laid out the tract for Barnett and presented the plot to city council, said tentative plans call for a construction program in the addition by Barnett and local contractors.

Both FHA and VA financing are being sought, Brown indicated.

The addition extends along Hermosa for a half a mile west of Thirteenth street, and is a quarter mile deep along Twentieth street.

It has already been approved by the city planning commission, Brown said.

The Barnett addition is the third major addition to the city in 1954. Others include the Char-Ann addition, north of Vaswood addition, and Artesia Estates addition.

Approved in 1953 and expected to be developed this year was the big Campbell addition, brought in by contractor and city councilman Homer A. Campbell.

That addition provides for nearly 280 building lots.

As tentatively approved by the council, the Barnett addition would have only two through streets, Hermosa and Runyan. Others would be either curved or dead-ended as a device to slow traffic within the addition.

Barnett could not be reached on Thursday morning for comment.

Jencks Ponders Possible Appeal Of Court Rule

SILVER CITY — Clinton Jencks, under a State Supreme Court order that he and five other leaders must serve a 90-day contempt sentence, said today it was yet undecided if a rehearing will be asked.

"We're conferring with our attorneys and with officers of the international union," Jencks said.

Jencks and the five other leaders of Local 890 of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, yesterday were ordered to serve the 90-day sentence for contempt of a court order against blocking of a road during the bitter Empire Zinc strike here, which ended in January, 1952.

"I don't know much about it," Jencks said, "but as a private individual, it seems to me the conditions are being very vindictive in pressing this thing so long after the strike was settled."

Jencks and the other union officials have 20 days to ask a rehearing on yesterday's Supreme Court order. The mandate for their arrest won't be sent to the Grant County court until the 20 days have expired and won't be sent at all if a rehearing is granted.

Jencks also faces a prison sentence and fine on his conviction by a federal jury in El Paso of falsifying a check for $100,000 as a Communist when he signed an affidavit to that effect under the Taft-Hartley Law.

He said oral arguments on a motion for a new trial in the Texas case would be heard in El Paso Tuesday, June 29.

Senate Panel Vetoes Ike's Farm Program

WASHINGTON — The Senate agriculture committee today rejected the administration's flexible farm price support program by voting 8-7 to extend rigid supports for another year.

The action came after the group turned down 9-6 a proposed two-year extension of the mandatory supports on the basic crops: wheat, cotton, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) predicted after the closed door session that the Senate would reverse the narrow committee decision in favor of the administration's flexible price support plan.

Sen. Young (R-N.D.) offered the motion for a one-year extension of the high-level supports due to expire with this year's crops.

Three Republicans and five Democrats supported it. They were Sens. Young, Thyne (R-Minn.), Mundt (R-S.D.), Ellender (D-La.), Humphrey (D-Minn.), Johnston (R-S.S.), Eastland (D-Miss.) and Clements (D-Ky.).

Opposing the extension were Sens. Aiken, Hickenlooper (R-Ia.), Williams (R-Del.), Schoepel (R-Kan.), Welker (R-Idaho), Holland (D-Fla.), and Anderson (D-N.M.).

Schoepel said he first voted for the one-year extension with an understanding that other major provisions of a general farm bill, previously approved by the committee (Continued on Page Six)

Dick Powell Has Biggest Time Of Life Directing Movie Epic

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, May 31 — (AP) — "I'm having the most fun of my life."

horses, camels, and hordes of Mon and no wonder. He is maneuvering horses, camels, and hords of Mongols and Tartars in a $4 million production, one of the biggest movies in Hollywood history.

The boy from Mountain View, Ark., has come a long way. Progressively a movie house emcee, film crooner and private eye portrayer, he has now blossomed out as a producer-director of epics.

Powell has never produced a picture before. He has directed only one, a medium-budget thriller called "Split Second." Yet Howard Hughes is so sold on the fellow that he has given Powell the green light for what will probably be RKO's costliest movie.

Not only that, but the enigmatic Texan also wanted Powell to take over as production boss of the whole studio. The ex-crooner turned it down, contending that he wasn't ready for such a post.

When I saw Powell on the set of "The Conqueror," he was riding high. He was astride a camera boom many feet in the air, directing the entrance of horsemen into a palace courtyard.

His relationship with the cast and crew appeared to be one of mutual respect. Powell is aware that he is on a spot. He personally interviewed 2,000 actors for roles in the picture, asking questions from morning to night.

The casting office offered to relieve him of the load. "Look—I'm an actor myself," he replied. "I don't want any other actor to say that I didn't give him the courtesy of seeing him personally about a role."

When Powell came down from his perch, he commented about what a good time he was having. "We've got a good story on paper," he said, "now all I have to do is get it on film."

He said that he had trouble finding the right locations for the film.

He said that he had trouble finding the right locations for the film, which concerns the early years of Genghis Khan. There was a good place in the Gobi Desert," he explained, "but it isn't the bare desert that most people think it is. Parts of it are quite green and there is much cattle raising.

"We found a location in southern Utah, through the Air Force," Powell said.

Powell's company will spend several weeks there and a vast area of sage brush has been cleared, according to the studio. Some 5,000 natives will be recruited to portray the Chinese mobs. Yes, our boy has come a long way since "32nd Street" and "Flirtation Walk."

Tip for Working Girls: Ask Overfriendly Boss for Raise

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What can the poor working girl do to protect herself against "the very friendly boss?"

I thought this problem went out about the time "Bessie, the Sewing Machine Girl" was a big hit. But apparently it didn't, and now Congress may have to consider it in revising the Taft-Hartley Act.

An office worker, writing to Patricia Porter of the Boston Traveller, recently raised the question of "how to discourage the office boss from conveniently placing his hands on a girl's shoulders, arms or back while discussing business matters."

At a drugstore counter where a number of girls from several offices crunch down their malted milk lunches, I made an informal poll on what they thought about this problem of "the overfriendly boss."

"My boss does pinch me every once in a while," said a plump young file clerk, blushing. "But he doesn't mean anything by it. He's the fatherly type. He says he just wants to be sure that I'm not getting undernourished."

"When my boss puts his arm on my shoulder, it's anything but love," remarked a stenographer. "He only does it after one of those four-martini, three-hour business luncheons, and he just wants something to lean on until he can reach his swivel chair. What the guy really needs some days, though, is artificial respiration."

The girls went into a huddle when I asked them what was the best way to curb an employer who really did insist on getting overfriendly on company time.

"Every time he reached for you," suggested one, "just ask him for a raise. Boy, his arm will flop down as if you'd hit it with a crowbar."

AS GENERAL ELECTRIC SEES IT,

Few people realize how rapidly America's economy is growing

General Electric is backing its belief in a long-term period of industrial growth by the biggest building program in its history, spending more than a billion dollars since 1946

Anyone who spreads fears that we may be facing another major depression ignores completely how much America has changed since the 1930's.

Industrial research and development have broadened the base of our entire economy, and, even more important, have laid the groundwork for a steadily increasing expansion in the years to come.

Here are just two examples of what has happened.

The first electric refrigerator with a sealed-in mechanism was introduced by General Electric in 1926, and its production in that year required only a few hundred people. Today, refrigerators and freezers make up a billion-dollar business which employs more than 100,000 men and women in manufacturing, plus additional thousands in retailing and distribution. The freezer itself has made possible another whole new industry, frozen foods.

In 1939, most of us knew electronics only as tubes in our radio, and the entire industry sold 230 million dollars' worth of equipment. Electronics is now a 4 1/2-billion-dollar business, and some experts predict it will grow to 20 billions in the 1960's. General Electric, just one producer, now has electronic-equipment factories in 13 different parts of the country and has stepped up its payroll in this field to 27,000 in just 15 years.

This trend of expansion is not slowing down. It's rapidly accelerating.

Many exciting new industries are predictable as we learn how to make full use of atomic energy. Another important new field will be electronic machinery that will make work easier, production swifter. Our scientists are experimenting with metal crystals 50 times stronger than any metals we now know. New and better home appliances are on the way. More uses for the gas turbine are coming out of jet-engine experiments.

These are only a few of the things General Electric is interested in, and other companies, of course, are hard at work on equally promising projects.

Our belief in a long-term period of industrial growth is not wishful speculation. It's being backed by the greatest building program America has ever seen. Last year, the nation's industries spent 28 billion, 400 million dollars for new plant and equipment; this year, they will spend only slightly less. Our own investment since 1946 has already reached more than a billion dollars. In 1954, a record 175 million dollars will be invested in new plant facilities by G.E., 24% more than last year.

This is the kind of confidence we have in the country's future.

Progress is Our Most Important Product

McQuay West Point Appointment

THE APPOINTMENT of Bob McQuay, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McQuay of Artesia, to West Point military academy is another local success story which causes the city's community pride to reach the bursting point.

There is no doubt that Bob, as his records indicate, shall make a fine cadet at West Point. He has shown remarkable perseverance in picking an objective and sticking to it over the past five years—a trait that will come in mighty handy at the nation's officer-training academy.

Bob will go to West Point as an alternate stepping into the place of the first-named appointee, a Navy man who cannot accept the honor.

His appointment was secured through the efforts of Artesia friends and the office of U. S. Sen. Dennis Chavez in Washington.

Since Bob is the first Artesian who will actually go to the academy this city is fortunate that it's pioneer representative has been so ably chosen.

Artesia, County Show Growth

THE CONTINUED growth of Artesia and of all Eddy county is reflected in the latest figures on valuations estimated by R. H. "Dick" Westaway, deputy county assessor.

The city shows a valuation of $8,500,000 this year, compared to $8,253,000 for 1953—an increase of a quarter of a million dollars.

The county's valuation of $85 million is up more than $2 million over last year's. Carlsbad has shown an increase of a half million in reaching its estimated valuation of $15,215,000 for the current year.

The county's industries show continued growth as reflected in corporate increases of over a million dollars, reaching more than $34 million this year.

Such records in dollars and cents indicate that those who sing of growth and progress in Eddy county have the hard, cold cash figures to warrant their optimism.

Every indication points to similar increases through 1954 that will reflect in yet more increases in valuations for the county by the time 1955 figures are released.

The county looks forward to expansion of its oil and gas fields, its potash industry, tourist business, and the building uranium prospecting which promises to be one of the most interesting developments for the future.

Preserving Cotton Quality During Ginning Is Urged

Preserving cotton quality through the ginning process depends in a big way on the condition of seed cotton when it arrives at the gin, members of the New Mexico Cotton Ginners Assn. were told at their fifth annual convention in Ruidoso recently.

J. Ritchie Smith of the production and marketing division, National Cotton Council, told the ginners that extreme variations in the condition of seed cotton with respect to moisture and trash content, and improper operation of gin equipment, are probably major contributing factors to fiber damage during the ginning process.

The speaker divided the quality preservation problem into two parts—one relating to contamination and the other to actual fiber damage. All contaminants such as oil, grease, tar, stencil inks, sand, cement, grass, honeydew, and green leaf stain should be kept out of seed cotton, he pointed out.

"Many of these contaminants often force mills to 'pick' each bale by hand, and this is costly in terms of labor, as well as in increased waste. Often, tar and stencil inks are not found in the lint until it has gone through the entire mill process and caused goods to be graded as seconds."

Fiber damage, on the other hand, he continued, can be caused by overmachining, under or over-drying at the gin, weather damage, improper defoliation, insects, and diseases and other factors. He emphasized that underlying in many instances can be just as detrimental to the industry as over-drying.

Summing up, Smith pointed out that mechanical harvesting is making great strides but still is often responsible for excessive amounts of weeds and other trash in seed cotton. Farmers must do their part in producing high quality, he added, and ginners must make every effort to preserve that quality.

Dr. C. Pardue Bunch, 405 S. Second, Artesia, is a member of his Methodist conference delegation, which with other groups, will make up the more than 2000 persons expected to attend the National Conference of Methodist Men at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., July 9-11.

The meeting will be the first assembly of its kind to be sponsored by the general board of lay activities of the Methodist church, with headquarters in Chicago.

Theme of the conference will be "Methodist Men Work for Christ."

Among the principal speakers who will address the meeting are Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, Jr., Washington, D. C., a Methodist layman; Lem T. Jones, Kansas City, president of United Church Men of the National Council of Churches and Bishop Richard C. Raines of Indianapolis.

Science Uses Diseases in Insect Fight

Scientists are developing another weapon, in the form of insect disease, to aid in man's age-old fight against the predators which constantly threaten his sources of food, clothing, and shelter. R. C. Dobson, extension entomologist at New Mexico A&M college, predicts that insect diseases may shortly become a powerful supplement to other effective methods of insect control.

As perhaps the best-known among diseases so far used in this way, Dobson cites the milky spore disease of Japanese beetles developed by the U. S. department of agriculture. First used in 1939, the bacteria of this disease have been dusted over millions of acres in the Eastern United States to destroy the root-feeding grubs and halt emergence of adult beetles.

Alfalfa caterpillar disease developed by the University of California has also been used successfully by growers to control this alfalfa pest. A virus spray developed in Canada gave excellent results in controlling the European pine sawfly when it was applied experimentally in 1951 on New Jersey and Illinois pines.

In an insect-disease laboratory established less than two years ago at the U. S. department of agriculture's Beltsville, Md., research center, Dobson says that a number of other promising insect disease organisms have now been isolated and identified. These organisms, including protozoa, nematodes, rickettsia, and fungi, as well as bacteria and viruses, appear to offer possible methods of control which would get around some problems of harmful toxic residues. Growing insect resistance to insecticides now in use. Most insect diseases are harmless to man, animal and plants.

Three diseases now under study look especially promising; a virus disease of army worms, a fungus disease that kills several insects, and a bacterial disease of the pink bollworm.

Some problems remain to be solved, says Dobson, before disease can be more generally used for insect control. Effectiveness of living organisms may be limited by temperature, moisture and their own life spans. Tests are under way at Beltsville to explore and deal with some of these problems.

Death With Father

Sweet Sudangrass Makes Excellent Summer Grazing

Sweet sudan grass makes excellent summer grazing in all of southern New Mexico and the middle valleys.

According to Gordon Hoff, extension agronomist at New Mexico A&M college, it can be planted anytime after the weather is warm in late spring through July. When planted on a very fertile soil, well supplied with nutrients and water, its lush growth will have an extremely high carrying capacity. And it can be grazed until frost.

Sweet sudan makes rapid growth and is usually ready to graze 30 days after planting or when it reaches a height of 16 to 18 inches, the agronomist says. There is some danger of sorghum poisoning if it is grazed before it reaches this height.

The recommended seeding rate is 30 pounds per acre. Sudangrass is not particular in regard to soil. It probably produces higher yields on poor soil than any other grass-like pasture crop, Hoff says. But like other grasses it responds remarkably well to fertilizer.

Sweet sudangrass for pasture is a good crop to follow cereals that were used for pasture or grain production, Hoff says. It can be grazed off in the fall in time to seed alfalfa, permanent pasture, winter barley, or other crops.

The danger of prussic acid poisoning from sweet sudan has probably been over-emphasized, the agronomist points out. If livestock is excluded until the suda is 16-18 inches high when first planted or on regrowth, and when it is suffering for lack of moisture or frost damage, there is little possibility of poisoning. Frost or drought damaged suda is safe to feed if cut and cured or allowed to cure standing in the field, Hoff adds.

She's Got to Go

SIMONE SILVA (above), the English actress who stripped to the waist, to be photographed with actor Robert Mitchum at Cannes, France, has been given 60 days in which to leave the country. U. S. Santa Fe Liquor Store Attendant Killed in Theft

SANTA FE — An unidentified person, for $90 and a few cans of beer, shot and killed a 70-year-old liquor store clerk late last night.

The victim, Andy P. Adetsakis, was found lying in a pool of blood in the back room of the Cerrillos Liquor Store, in an outlying section of Santa Fe on Cerrillos Road. The discovery was reported by Timothy James Dodge, 15-year-old Fort Wingate boy who had stopped to make a purchase of cigarettes. Police had a cold trail to follow. Police Chief A. B. Martinez said the case was a tough one. He said robbery obviously was the motive and "We are without any clues whatsoever."

The chief said $90 was taken from the store's cash register.

Adetsakis was shot in the head. Investigation showed a brief gun fight may have taken place. A spent slug was found where it entered a can of beer in the front of the store. A second expended round was lying about a foot from the victim's body. A third round was removed from the victim's head, where it had lodged near the base of the brain.

Police learned of the shooting about 11 p. m. when they received a phone call from a person who told them he was a transient. The caller later was identified as young Dodge.

He and Bill Davidson, 17, of Independence, Kan., and Linda Gray 16, of Santa Fe, had stopped to buy cigarettes. Dodge told police he went inside the store, saw the man lying in the back room and ran back to the car. The three then re-entered the store, took one look, and phoned police that a man had been "beaten up."

Patrolman Robert Romero was sent to investigate. He found the man dead and said the condition of the body indicated the slaying had occurred only a short time earlier. Chief Martinez was notified. He and other officers rushed to the scene. State police and the district attorney's office were alerted. Road blocks were thrown up throughout the area.

U.S. Is Cold To Churchill Treaty Plan

WASHINGTON — The United States today cold shouldered the Churchill government's proposal, on the eve of Churchill-Eisenhower talks here, for a Locarno-type system of security guarantees for re-threatened Southeast Asia.

Under such a system the United States and Communist China presumably would be among the powers guaranteeing some kind of Southeast Asian settlement. War-torn Indochina, according to the view of officials here, probably would be "neutralized."

Cost to City—

(Continued from Page One) work as well as collecting dirt piles left by the sweeper. Yeager referred the problem to the council's streets committee, headed by Councilman Dr. John J. Clarke, Jr. He asked the committee to make its recommendation as to whether the city should buy a street sweeper or equipment for street paving.

Paving heretofore in the city has been done by private contractors. Cost of paving, paid by property owners, has been prohibitive in many instances.

Gilmore pointed out the city has not been able to use free asphalt offered it because "we have no equipment to spread it with." The city now borrows an asphalt distributor from the state highway department for patching and sealing work.

However, Gilmore said, "everytime we get ready to do a job, the state has a job too and comes and take their machine."

Mayor Yeager urged the street committee to "do what is the most beneficial for the greatest number of people."

He pointed out the city has "worlds of street sealing to do," including Texas and S. Thirteenth. Asked to express opinions on the matter before its referral to the streets committee, Councilman Clarke, George Ferriman, J. L. Walker and T. E. Johnson all expressed favor of the proposal the city do its own paving in preference to buying the new sweeper.

"When this was not agreed to I voted against the extension," he said.

Humphrey offered the proposed two-year extension but Young and Thye voted against that along with others who opposed the one-year motion later.

"I think a two-year extension would face a certain presidential veto," Young told reporters. He said he believes a one-year extension "has a 50-50 chance for Senate approval and about the same for escaping a veto."

Hall Tells NM Audience Demos Mean Socialism

ALBUQUERQUE — Election of a Democratic Congress in 1954 would mean going "back to a government more left than we've ever had," Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, said last night.

"You will be going back to a government where the Walter Reuther will have control," Hall told a $50-a-plate New Mexico GOP victory dinner audience. This would be the alternative, Hall said, if Republicans fail to elect controlling majorities in both the Senate and the House next fall to support President Eisenhower's program. Hall appealed for all-out New Mexico Republican effort to elect Gov. Edwin L. Mechem to the Senate over the Democratic incumbent, Clinton Anderson.

And he called for an organization drive to put Warren Cobean of Roswell and Tom Childers of Santa Fe into the House seats now held by John J. Dempsey and A. M. Fernandez, Democrats.

Losing control of Congress to the Democrats, Hall declared, would put the country back on the road to socialism, which he said Democratic administrations followed for 20 years.
