DO IT YOURSELF— Monograms Are Easy Way to Brighten Bath

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

One of the easiest ways to add a luxurious look for your bathroom is to brighten it up with some monograms on shower towels.

Time was when monograms were expensive, but now, with the automatic sewing machines and attachments, it's easy and thrifty to do yourself.

Local sewing center experts suggest applique monograms as effective and simple. They advise selecting a fresh new color scheme for the bathroom as a starting point, choosing towels and shower curtains in a coordinated theme.

One effective combination green and white. A plain white nylon shower curtain can have huge monogram in green, and green bath towels are handy when monogrammed in white. Applique monograms may be stitched on either with one of the new swing-needle machines or the zigzag attachment on a standard sewing machine.

To make the appliques, trace the monogram on the fabric and basic the whole square fabric to the shower curtain towel. Then, using either swing-needle machine or the zigzag attachment, stitch around outline of the monogram. Use small, sharp pair of scissors to away excess fabric.

You'll find this such an easy way of making monograms that may want to stitch up a bath handsome monogrammed towels for Christmas presents. They always welcome.

Others Can Do It Too

AS LONG AS THERE are those individuals who can adopt a budget know that they can afford to spend and keep their budget balanced, those who fail to do this have no excuse.

Although a good many employers today are convinced that the average employe has no idea what he can afford to spend there are still those living on their incomes keeping their obligations and their responsibilities, and even spending money.

The average businessman, if he expects to succeed, must know how much his income is going to be and not permit his outgo to exceed that income.

The same is true about the average individual. He also must learn just how much his income is and he must learn to see that his outgo does not exceed that income.

The average individual today doesn't do that. It seems to be a matter of buying just what we want whether we can afford it or not; purchasing as long as the cash we have lasts or as far as our credit will go and then waiting for the day to come when the demand is made for the bills we owe.

When that time comes instead of being ready and able to pay what we owe we go running to others, usually the employer, expecting him to loan or to advance us money we have no idea how we are going to pay back, to meet an obligation we should not have created in the first place.

We can always find an excuse for what we do. For instance one couple in financial difficulty said they bought a $60 portable television for their daughter's birthday. The fact they couldn't afford the television set at any price didn't matter. It was a bargain, so they told themselves, so they bought it.

That is true too many times today. We try to find a way to justify our failure to live on our income despite the fact that it often is two to three times what it was back prior to World War II even though the cost of living isn't two or three times as much as it was then.

But that individual who has not learned to take care of his own financial problems, learned to live on his income, and meet his responsibilities isn't ever going to be very successful in his life. And until he learns to budget his income so that the outgo does not exceed that income he is always going to have financial difficulties.

Six-Year Holiday Death Low

THE UNITED STATES hit a six-year low for Labor Day week-end traffic deaths in 1954, a remarkable accomplishment in the face of increased traffic.

New Mexico counted three traffic deaths over the week-end, a decrease from other years.

While any traffic deaths are tragic whenever they come, this year's Labor Day record indicates that a concerted drive on traffic accidents may reduce the death toll.

Sometimes we have felt a hopelessness that traffic deaths can in fact be reduced. Cars are more powerful, roads wearing out faster than they can be built, and drivers as yet without effective control by authorities.

Yet the personal plea of the nation's president, the campaigning of state agencies, newspapers, radio, and many other agencies had this effect.

We hope that in days to come we in the U. S. may take heart, for we have made a dent in a seemingly overwhelming problem. Traffic accidents can be reduced through the will of a great many people working together.

Fire Sweeps Row Of Buildings in Texas City Block

WICHITA FALLS — Fire raced through a row of buildings in the southern portion of the Wichita Falls business district early today, destroying automobiles, farm goods, auto parts and a neon sign company.

No injuries were reported. Destroyed were the one-story Traynham building which housed farm implements, auto parts and grain and seed products; a new car warehouse belonging to Mattingly & Grace Buick Co. and in which were nine new Buicks and a 1904 model Buick; the Mims Bearing Co.; and the Glo-Lite Neon and Manufacturing Co.

A complete estimate of the damage could not be obtained but it appeared several hundred thousand dollars would be correct.

Fire Capt. Joe Counts said the blaze apparently started somewhere in the Traynham Building. He said "some sort of explosion" had blown windows out of the building by the time firemen arrived.

His sentiments were repeated by Councilmen Walker and Alvarado. Yeager said "we will wait for a little public reaction on this proposal and see what the people think of it."

Thus, it would appear that growers could look forward to price supports for cotton at 90 per cent of parity if they hold annual production below the 13-million-bale mark.

Roselawn Student Council Elects First '54 Officers

First meeting of the month for the Roselawn school student council was held Tuesday with this month's officers presiding.

Officers holders are Armida Dominguez, president; Raymond Cortez, vice-president; and Frances DeAnda, secretary.

On the agenda at the body's first get-together was a discussion of ways the student council can help the school.

Only action taken at the session was a decision to hold council meetings every Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Council to Ask—

Attending the meeting were Lucas, Raymond L. Robinson of Denver, representing Garret Bromfield & Co. and Bosworth Sullivan & Co.; Elmer G. Longwell, Denver, Boettcher & Co. and Jack Gannaway, Albuquerque, Quinn & Co.

The bondsmen indicated several of them would probably join to present bids on the proposal.

Cost of $300,000 was estimated by H. F. "Jack" Kannady of Carlsbad, consulting civil engineer on the job.

Lucas said the streets to be paved had been studied by the bondsmen, and while some areas, referring to the North Side, would be "tough" to finance, he believed the project could successfully be sold.

He urged the city to work from the beginning with bond men and their lawyers to insure smooth operation of the program.

The bond program in preference to certificates, would result in lower interest and a known rate of discount, Lucas told the council.

If part of the gas tax were not pledged, he said, part of the paving project—80 to 100 blocks—would have to be "knocked out."

He said the council should expect about $12,500 for delinquencies over the 10 years.

Property owners would pay cost of paving annually or semi-annually over 10 years. The program would go in effect only after an engineering study, protest meeting, publication of property affected and other details.

One Albuquerque Child Vaccinated Against Polio Hit

SANTA FE — Only one Albuquerque school child vaccinated by the new polio vaccine has come down with the disease so far, and that case was a mild one.

The State Health department says 21 cases have been reported in Albuquerque so far this year.

Of the 4652 Albuquerque children attending the second grade, 2287 were given the first injection of vaccine, 3240 the second and 3042 the third. The child who got sick had received only the first two injections by that time and the department said "it is felt that there probably had not been sufficient time to develop a protective immunity."

State's Income Tax Receipts Are Up Over 1952

SANTA FE — New Mexico residents made $64 or five per cent more per person last year than during the previous year.

That compared with a national per-person income increase of six per cent, the Taxpayers Association of New Mexico said today.

Average personal income in 1953 was $1,347 per capita, about 21 per cent over the national average of $1,709.

Simms Says State Election Code Revision Needed

LOS ALAMOS — Democratic gubernatorial candidate John Simms, Jr., praised the state's election code as one of the finest of its kind in the country, then made suggestions to correct faults he termed products of "faulty administration."

He suggested five revisions: Periodic re-registration every six to eight years to keep rolls up to date; automatic purging of registration lists; clarification as to the voting status of Kirtland and Sandia bases in Albuquerque; an educational campaign for voters and election officials; a simpler ballot.

"You'd be surprised how if a voter marks his ballot with a check instead of a cross it's declared invalid," Simms said, suggesting wider use of voting machines.

The candidate also discussed the election of the state representative from Los Alamos, saying the representative is "probably the most important person you will vote for."

Fraternity Asks AEC Gag-Ruling Lift on Alamos

ALBUQUERQUE — The national free press committee of the Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity has been asked to help fight the "gag-ruling" of an AEC official who refused to release information as to how Los Alamos citizens felt about opening city gates.

Sigma Delta Chi's New Mexico chairman, Bill Richardson, wrote the national committee for the advancement of freedom of information for aid after Donald J. Leehey, Santa Fe operations office manager for the AEC, said a poll taken among Los Alamos residents was "personal between me and them."

The atomic city has been considering opening gates that shut the town off except to visitors with passes.

Leehey released information on the polls to Los Alamos news media but refused to make it generally available. He said there was no security restriction involved in his decision.

Richardson said that Leehey is "setting an important precedent which could lead to unnecessary difficulties in covering the really major news information handled by his office."

"We feel," the letter said, "the press should establish itself on a firm basis with Mr. Leehey so that the people need not be dependent on his caprice or the exercise of his assumed news judgment to find out, within the bounds of national interest, just what the heck is going on."

Cool, Dry Air Cut New Mexico Chances for Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cool, dry air is moving across the state today, cutting down chances for any but occasional slight showers in mountain areas.

Yesterday, an estimated one to two inches of rain fell at Edgewood, and the ground was white with hailstones following the brief downpour.

In Albuquerque, the weather bureau recorded .05 inch of rain at the airport. Perhaps .10 inch fell in the northeast heights during a ten-minute shower.

Socorro recorded a trace, Santa Fe received .02 inch.

Winds accompanying the flow of cooler air across the state were expected to diminish about noon today. Slightly cooler temperatures are forecast.

It was 47 at Grants this morning, coolest spot in the state. Roswell, Carlsbad and Columbus shaded high thermometer readings yesterday, with a 95. Grants was the coolest again during the day with an 81.

Ives to Accept New York GOP Governor's Nod

NEW YORK — Sen. Irving M. Ives said today he would accept the Republican nomination for governor if the state convention names him as its choice to succeed retiring Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Ives, whose Senate term has four years to run, has been endorsed by Dewey and the Republican executive committee. His nomination at the Syracuse convention starting Sept. 22 is regarded as virtually certain.

A number of important Democratic leaders have announced they will back Averell Harriman, former mutual aid chief and once ambassador to Soviet Russia, for the governorship.

Pencils Are Key Item for Parents To Give Children

AP Newsfeatures
Most mothers give little thought to the most basic item of school equipment for their offspring—the pencil.

They may spend hours selecting the right shirts, skirts, trousers, sweaters and socks for that important first day at school, but pencils are taken for granted.

It might surprise many parents to know that pencil manufacturing did not start in the United States until about 100 years ago. Before that school children had to use slates and chalk, or charcoal.

Since that time the pencil manufacturers have developed 18 degrees of hardness in lead used in the modern pencil, ranging from the flint-like leads used by stone cutters and engravers to the soft leads used by artists, copy-readers and school children.

It is pointed out that, although pencils may look alike, more than 350 kinds are now available, each with a special use. Small, thick pencils are made to fit the chubby hands of children just learning to write. Others are made to write on slippery surfaces such as glass, cellophane, plastics, metal and home freezer packages. Surgeons use a special pencil for outlining the operation area on human anatomy, and packing plants use another type to write identification on sides of beef.

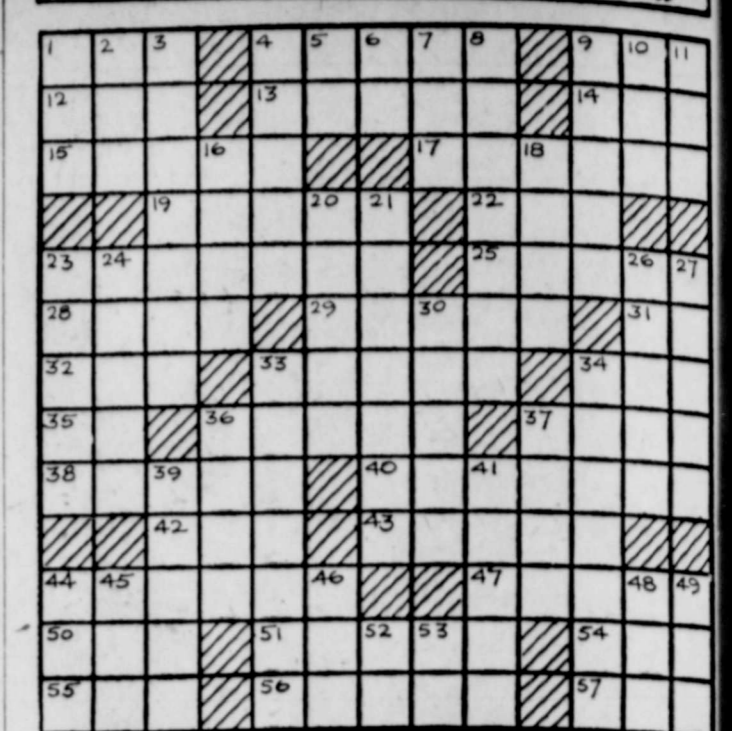

Children are having fun with colored painting pencils, made with soluble leads, which can be used to sketch in a picture, which then is turned into a painting by use of a brush dipped in plain water.

Americans used more than 300 million pencils last year. That means that Junior should have at least two to start the school term, just to be sure he's getting his share.

STATE TURKEYS DECREASE

LAS CRUCES — New Mexico turkey cuters may miss out on a generally lower turkey market this fall because state production is estimated to be 5 per cent lower than last year. The U. S. crop reporting board said that production is up 9 per cent nationwide, which means a consumer's market.

Baseball Wheel Of Fortune Hits Kennedy

AP Newsfeatures
COLONIAL HEIGHTS, Va.—The wheel of baseball fortune finally has swung full circle for Montia Kennedy, one-time southpaw whiz kid who always seemed one step away from major league stardom but never quite achieved it.

Eight years after he was sold to the New York Giants for a reported $25,000 by Eddie Mooers, veteran Piedmont league club owner, Kennedy is back in the Class B Piedmont, once more on the Mooers payroll.

Won First Outing
 In his first appearance, a six-inning relief chore for Mooers' Colonial Heights-Petersburg Colts July 20, Kennedy was credited with a 10-9 victory over the Hagerstown Packets though he gave nine hits and four runs and had to be lifted in the ninth.

The feeling of winning must have been welcome, for it has been a long time between victories for the lefty who as late as 1947 was tagged by the Giants as the only player "Not For Sale."

In many ways, Kennedy's professional baseball career has been one of tragic frustration. For years with the Giants, he had all the requirements for stardom except one necessity: control. He never acquired it.

Now he is plagued with a sore arm, Kennedy, at 32, thinks if he can work often enough for the Colts he may overcome this ailment—and maybe—get back into the big time. "But for the present, he holds up the arm and says: 'It's hanging there; that's all.'"

Mooers, captivated by the blazing fast ball Kennedy had shown at Amelia, Va., high, signed the erratic pitcher in 1942. He finished out that season with the Colts, then Richmond, winning one, losing two.

12-Game Winner in '49
 Kennedy's best year with the Giants was 1949 when he worked 223 innings and posted a 12-14 record. He was 5-4 in 1940, growing wilder all the time. The Giants just about gave up on him in 1951 and he worked only 68 innings, winning one, losing two. In 1952 he finished 3-4 and last year went without a decision while pitching just 18 innings.

The Giants sent Kennedy to Minneapolis last spring but he was optioned to Richmond's new International league team. The Virginians released him.

Kennedy tried healing his sore arm by playing semi-pro baseball for a few weeks. Then Mooers persuaded him to sign with CH-Petersburg.

Auto Time Club Seeks End Of 'Shot-Rods' on Highways

By JAN HARTNETT
AP Newsfeatures
CHICAGO—The Automobile Timing Assn. of America is organizing the nation's hot rods in a move to rid the highways of the menace of the "shot rods."

The ATAA is a non-profit organization which came into being in 1953 to operate a 1/2-mile "drag strip" speedway on an abandoned air strip at Half Day, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. The organization's expenses currently are underwritten by Arnold Maremont, a Chicago manufacturer of automotive products and a racing enthusiast.

Maremont says his company backs the ATAA program for its role in fostering highway safety and in developing future automotive engineers. This year's expanded racing program calls for supervised racing in 15 cities in eight states.

"The true hot rodder is proud of his title," Maremont says. "To him the public menace is the 'shot rodder,' who roars down public highways in a souped-up defective jalopy thinking only of speed and never safety."

Maremont says ATAA now represents some 5,000 hot-rodgers in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana. "We expect to go national soon," Maremont says. "Enthusiasm is so great that when ATAA invited 26 hot-rod leaders to a planning meeting in Chicago, 53 showed up."

ATAA officials have been receiving injuries about the "drag strip" program from several states.

"Unlike the reckless 'shot rodder,' Maremont continued, "the hot-rodder builds for a combination of high speed with maximum safety. We feel that a 'drag strip'—a safe, off-the-street area—will provide a controlled meeting place where the hot-rodder could educate the 'shot rodder' in building for safety first, speed second."

A "drag strip" is a straight half-mile course usually it is laid out on abandoned air strips or unused sections of four-lane highways. In a "drag race" two vehicles race down the course. Their speed is electrically timed for the first quarter mile; the second quarter is used for safe deceleration.

Stiff ATAA safety regulations guarantee that every car is in perfect operating condition before it is permitted on the strip. Safety belts

Father-Son Team Turns Out 20 Oldtime Cannon
AP Newsfeatures
SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. — Artillery turned out by Dr. Harold H. Herd, 39, and his son, Howard, 15, will win no wars, but it makes a fine do-it-yourself hobby. In five years, father and son have made 20 guns of 14 models based on cannon used from 1400 A. D. through the American Civil War...

Their guns are miniatures, mostly about one-sixth original size, and Herd says they have stirred up so much interest that... they may turn into a profitable enterprise.

One model of a gun from the early American battleship, Constitution, was turned out from a brass bar on a lathe in a week of spare time work. Other models represent a 16th Century Italian mortar and a gun made late in the 14th Century. One of the most eye catching is based on a fortress gun which Frederick the Great adapted to field service. Another represents a gun used at Valley Forge...

All the models actually shoot and Herd also makes the powder and miniature cannon balls that they use. One of the Herd's favorites is a model of a 12-pounder that pirates liked because it was small enough to handle easily.
