Parents Picket Unsegregated Schools in West Virginia

By The Associated Press — Parents are picketing unsegregated schools in two West Virginia counties and there have been moves to set up "citizens' councils" to enforce segregation in Mississippi.

"The white people in certain counties are organizing to protect themselves," a Mississippi legislator said Thursday. "Practically every county in the state has organized or is organizing," he added.

Mississippians soon will be voting on a constitutional amendment which would lead to abolition of the public school system. One legislator said the "citizens' councils" might aid passage of the amendment.

A MEMBER OF ONE OF THE councils, refusing to be quoted by name, declared: "We want the people assured that there is responsible leadership which will and can handle local segregation problems. If that is recognized, there will be no cause for any hot-headed bunch to start a Ku Klux Klan. If we fail, though, the temper of the public may produce something like the Klan."

The Mississippi legislature vice-chairman, Truman Menefee; secretary-treasurer, George Dodson; council members, Don Troublson; council members, Don Troublefield, Cleo Brown, Johnny Tulk, Gerald Moyce, Calvin Graham, Verna Jean Greer, Frank Rhodes, Virginia Graham and Jimmie Powell.

A picket line was set up at the combined high and elementary school at Rupert in Greenbrier county, where 12 Negroes have been attending classes since the school opened Tuesday. And mothers of some white students in Marjory county turned out to protest the admission of 13 Negro students.

At the same time the Mississippi House passed on a second reading the constitutional amendment which would allow the legislature to abolish public schools. The amendment is virtually assured of passage. It must be passed on a third reading and, after almost certain Senate approval, would be submitted to the voters in a Dec. 21 referendum.

Atomic Energy Chairman Says U.S. Weapons Store Grows

WASHINGTON — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission says the United States has many more atomic weapons in its arsenal than it did a year ago.

Strauss was tightlipped yesterday when reporters sought to find out about U. S. and Russian progress in the atomic arms race.

The AEC chief told a news conference this country has "more weapons, by a wide margin, than we had a year ago," and he said the production rate is mounting rapidly.

BUT WHEN asked whether the United States has any new weapons, Strauss would only recall that he had said a spring series of weapons tests in the mid-Pacific "were very fruitful."

A newsman asked if there had been any new Soviet atomic blasts since the United States announced detection of a Russian test about a year ago. After some thought, Strauss replied: "That is a field where I ought not to answer."

He cautioned newsmen not to "draw any inferences" from his reply. The AEC chairman said that "in all likelihood there will be continuing tests of new weapons" at the Marshall Islands proving grounds. Other sources have reported a new test series in the works for next spring.

STRAUSS ALSO said he knows of no plan to move the testing area from where a mighty hydrogen bomb was detonated last March, setting loose a radioactive cloud which drifted beyond the warning area.

Some Japanese fishermen 80 miles from the blast were stricken by radiation sickness and some Marshall Islands natives also suffered, but less severely. This led to demands from some Japanese that the tests be halted or the test location moved.

Strauss' news conference ranged into the field of peaceful atomic energy uses and the AEC chairman said he expects conferences to open soon on creation of an international agency along lines suggested by President Eisenhower.

Strauss said, too, he hopes for an international conference of scientists on nonmilitary use of atomic energy "not long after the first of the year."

Supt. J. J. Straight of the Marjory county school said many of the parents kept their children away from school.

Segregation was ended in many West Virginia counties soon after the U. S. Supreme Court held that public school segregation is unconstitutional.

Waves No Longer Novelty, Leave Mark on Fashion

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — People could understand why women were in uniform during the war years. Now some are wondering why they don't get back into frilly dresses and take the other jobs, or get married.

The WAVES, who observed their 12th birthday on July 30, have ceased to be a novelty and have become an institution. They believe they have a job to do. Besides, they like their work. Capt. L. K. Wilde, Concord, N. H., assistant chief of Naval Personnel for women, explained it to me this way.

"It is our job to help the men of the Navy with the military tasks that must be done throughout the shore establishments to back up the forces afloat. To carry out this mission, we must maintain a trained, useful nucleus that could provide the necessary leadership and spearhead the mobilization of vast numbers of women in times of serious national emergency."

The WAVES, whose current strength is about 7,400 enlisted women and 1,000 officers, were made an integral part of the Navy June 1-2, 1948, assured of the same advancement, security, pay, allowances and benefits as men.

At first the Navy expected to enlist or appoint only 10,000 women in the Naval Reserve, but the WAVES were so successful that the organization reached a war-time strength of 85,000.

WAVES currently on duty outside the continental United States are in Alaska, Hawaii, Argentina, Japan, Sweden, England, France, Italy and Germany. WAVES have served in nearly every type of shore activity including air stations, naval hospitals, district headquarters, Navy yards and supply depots. Recently the Navy began assigning a few female hospital corpsmen to duty aboard dependent transports of the Military Sea Transport Service.

The name WAVES — now a misnomer, but a nickname that has stuck — originally stood for Women Appointed for Voluntary Emergency Service, a combination of words obviously chosen for its "salty" initial letters.

Bulldogs Keep Bag of Tricks Tight, Down Cats 31-18

In a game which saw the first scoring backfield used only slightly more than 1 1/2 periods, Artesia's football Bulldogs Friday night displayed a distinct class-AA threat with a 31-18 victory over the outclassed Lovington Wildcats.

The Bulldogs showed little in their season opener, nor did they need to. While Artesia was able to keep well-concealed most of the tricks in its bag, Lovington, with a promising passing attack, was slightly over its head, but still played an aggressive, spirited game which will send them far in a football circles.

Artesia gained nearly all its yardage on the ground, where 270 net yards were rolled up. 78 of them by quarterback Johnny Riddle and 70 by halfback Leo Barker. The Bulldogs' attempt at a passing offensive fell short of the mark, with one pass completed in 12 attempts, but that one good for 44 yards and a TD.

Artesia, chiefly among its receivers, showed rough spots which resulted in 55 yards of penalties.

Here's the game in detail:

How They Scored

Lovington rocked the Bulldogs with the game's first score a scant 1:14 minutes after the contest opened. Artesia had received the kickoff on its 27 and in two plays advanced to the 33. On the third play a Bulldog fumble was recovered by Wildcat Robert Alders on the Artesia 43. After two ill-fated punches by backs Allan Stoelp and Larry Shivers, Shivers took a pitch and swept around right end behind beautiful blocking to score. Artesia roared back 4 1/2 minutes later on a ground drive that began with the Bulldog 32. Leo Barker hustled away to the 39, Don Lewis to the 45.

After last ground on a pass attempt by Riddle, Barker shoved to the Lovington 49, then to the 44. Freddie Sanders churned to the 35. There Riddle on a quarterback sneak went through center for 35 yards to pay dirt, the game 6 1/2 minutes old. Ronald Nelson kicked the extra point, the only conversion of the game.

The Bulldogs punched over again just two minutes later. Lovington's kickoff-receiving fumble was recovered by Jay Mitchell on the Lovington 23. Barker rammed to the 11. Riddle kept to the 6, and Sanders went to the 2, where an offside penalty set the club back to the 7. From there Barker rammed to the 1, then over. Artesia ended the first quarter leading 13-6.

THE NEXT Bulldog TD came with 4 1/2 minutes gone in the second period, set up by Sanders' sensational return of a Lovington punt. Sanders picked it up on the Artesia 48 and raced it in skillful broken-field running to the 12. Riddle, intending to give scoring honors to the speedy halfback, twice handed off the Sanders, who went first to the five, then to the 2. There the Bulldogs were set back 15 for clipping.

But Riddle gained it back fast, running around left end to reach the 5. Sanders went to the 3, and Riddle punched through to score. Three minutes later Artesia scored again, this time set-up by Jay Mitchell's recovery of a Lovington fumble on the Lovington 33. Max Ratliff, relieving Riddle, handed off to Ron Price, who punched to the 15 for an 18-yard gain and a first down. Then in two plays Clyde Bratcher went over standing up. It was the last scoring of the first half and gave Artesia a 25-6 advantage.

ARTESIA'S LONE score in the last half came with 7 1/2 minutes gone in the third quarter, again set up by a Lovington fumble, recovered this time by Don Price on the Artesia 31.

Barker swept to the 40 and Riddle slammed to the 45. Sanders added five more in one punch, then went to the Lovington 46 on the next try. Lewis hulled to the 42 and another first down. There Riddle tried two passes, the second almost complete to Sanders on the 7. But the TD came on the next play when Riddle pitched over the line to Bratcher, who raced away to the end zone.

While Lovington failed to score in the second or third periods, it added two in the fourth, the only score in the final quarter. Both came on pass interceptions by Ken Badgett.

FOR THE FIRST Badgett intercepted Jimmy Belvin's pass attempt on the Lovington 37 and returned it to the 45. After a pass attempt by Shivers, Tommy Black connected with Jimmy Bevers on the Artesia 18. Black was smeared back to the Artesia 27 on the next play, but Lovington gained back to the 14 when Jerry Burks completed a toss to Don Fedric on the 14. Black shoved to the 11, and on the next play Black completed to Bevers, down on the 1. From there Black went over easily on the next play. Two minutes were gone in the quarter.

The last TD came following an exchange of fumbles. Badgett snared a pitch over the line on the Lovington 30 and ran it to the 35. Bevers passed for eight yards, and two plays later, Black slammed to the 50. Then slippery Allan Stolpe raced around left end to the Artesia 40, and Black passed to Bevers to the 34. Then Black completed another pass to Shivers, who easily stepped over into the end zone.

Defensive Game

ARTESIA SHOWED a stout sometimes brilliant defensive game against Lovington's ground attack, but proved vulnerable to aerial assault. On seven pass completions the Wildcats gained 100 yards. The Bulldogs passed down to the 1 yard line to set up one TD and scored the last of the game on two passes, one for 6, and the other for 34.

The Bulldogs in their ground defense were keyed by experienced stalwarts such as Ray Gressett and Jay Mitchell, plus a host of men with regular starting berths for the first time.

Gressett blocked the first Lovington extra point attempt. He also made the key block which allowed Artesia's first TD on Riddle's smash through center. Jay Mitchell recovered the fumble which set up the second Bulldog score. Johnny Riddle knocked down two near-pass completions. Wayne Westerman was quick in throwing Burks for a loss on a pass fade early in the second quarter. Mitchell stopped a tricky handoff on the next play. Gressett and Ron Nelson nailed the speedy Shivers after he raced from the 28 to the 39.

BRATCHER knocked down a pass attempt on the next play. Gressett recovered a fumble on the next play, setting up another Bulldog TD. Harry Price recovered Shivers' fumble through the line in the second quarter. Price and Bill Mayes were quick to nail Black on the 19 after he received a punt on the 15. Only Belvin stopped Stolpe from scoring in the second period, chasing him from the Lovington 14 to the 36. Ron Price knocked Shivers from the Lovington 35 back to the 27 as the second half opened. Don Price recovered a fumble on the Lovington 31 to set up Artesia's last TD.

Mitchell threw Burks from the 33 to the 25 to take the wind from the sails of a late third-quarter Lovington drive. George Price was quick to pick up a Lovington fourth quarter fumble midway through the period. Max Ratliff seconds later recovered a teammate's fumble and gained 8 on the play. George Price knocked down one pass attempt in the final Lovington TD drive, and Bratcher threw Shivers for a 7-yard loss.

Decision Wise to Delay Publicity Levy IT WAS A WISE decision by the Artesia city council Saturday to delay the half-mill or one-mill "publicity levy" recommended by the Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

While enabling legislation for the levy was passed by the last legislature, the proposal to have it adopted locally was not presented to the city council until Wednesday night.

Thus the council and the public which it represents were given little time to properly consider the levy, and that being the case the council "tabled" the proposal until next year.

The tax levy, with a one-mill maximum, would have raised $4,500 a year if a half-mill levy had been adopted, or $9,000 if the full mill had been passed.

There is no doubt the American public is very conscious of its tax bill, which says enough from the average family to pay the cost of a college education for a child every year.

Thus to put over another small tax, although it be a direct tax and therefore more "honest" than the tremendous volume of hidden taxes, requires special effort by its backers.

There is little doubt that the publicity levy if properly used for the purpose set out by the law—to advertise a city's "industrial resources"—would aid the city in the long run.

DO IT YOURSELF— Corner Blinds For Windows Easily Made

By SANDRA NEMER AP Newsfeatures Writer If the interior treatment of your corner windows has you cornered, here's how to use venetian blinds, curtains and drapes to best advantage.

To maintain the fine illusion of space, two corner windows should be treated as one large unit. Don't crowd curtains or draperies into the corner. Instead, decorate the extreme ends of the windows. Helpful here are window rods which curve gracefully around the corner.

Another way to treat the corner is to frame it with a scalloped plywood cornice, wallpapered to match another part of the room.

A simple and distinctive treatment is the use of an eight-inch ruffling used only across the top of the two windows. More expensive is draw drapery on a curved rod which can fall on the sides during the day and close up at night.

The venetian blinds covering the two windows should be fitted. The slats as they meet in the very apex of the corner should be cut on the slant so that each blind can be moved freely without interference from its neighbor.

When just one corner window is involved, venetian blinds and draw curtains or drapes are an interesting way to tackle the problem. Have the drapes start on the wall adjacent to the corner window around well over to the other side of the window.

Virginia Church Is Scheduled to Mark 150th Anniversary AP Newsfeatures STAUNTON, Va. — The first Presbyterian Church of Staunton, where Woodrow Wilson was baptized, will commemorate its 150 years of service with a month and a half of special events this fall.

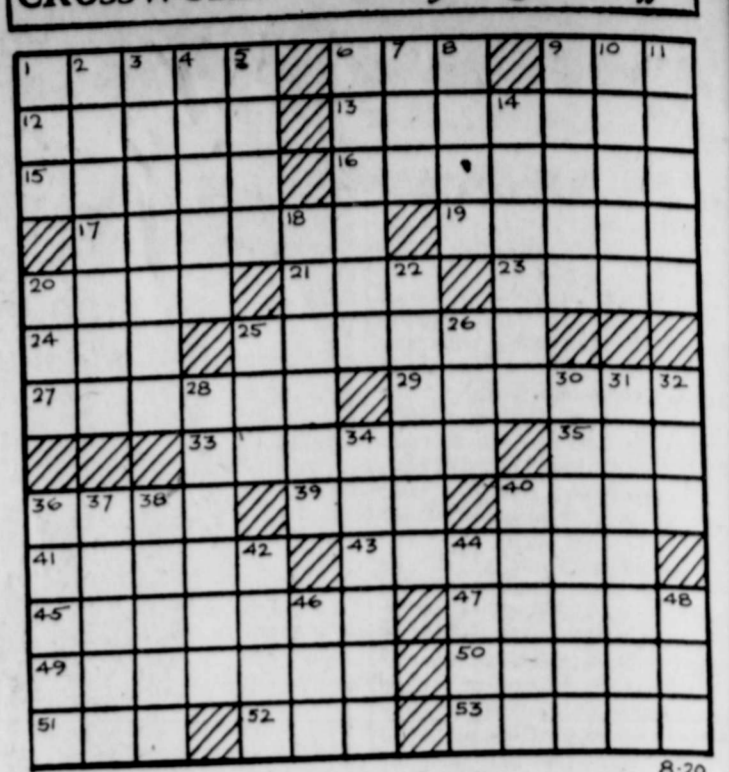

The original church, founded in 1804, still stands as the chapel of Mary Baldwin college, but the congregation has used a new building since 1872. Also standing is the Manse, occupied by the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Wilson when his son, a future president of the United States, was born Dec. 28, 1856. The Manse, built in 1845, is now the property of the Woodrow Wilson Birthplace Foundation.

The celebration begins Aug. 31 when the Virginia Synod and Synodical meet and continues through mid-October. On World Communion Day, Oct. 3, the pastor, Dr. Richard R. Potter, will be assisted by Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary and immediate, past moderator of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. (Northern). Woodrow Wilson was president of Princeton University before he was nominated for the presidency.
