City Officials Move Swiftly To Save Bulldogs From Jail

A good natured "hue and cry" over high school football players and spectators from heavy fines and jail terms has risen following the Artesia Advocate's page-in-check "expose" yesterday of a 1912 ordinance prohibiting the sport.

The ordinance, passed July 24, 1912, and never repealed, makes spectators and players at "any contest wherein the use of physical force upon the body of one or more of such contesting parties is the gist or substance of the contest" subject to $100 fines and 30 days in the city's common jail.

Easing their tongues well over their jawbones, this school and city officials had the ordinance was passed to effect only on opposing teams. I think that ordinance applies only to teams coming in Artesia to play our teams."

City Atty. Neil Watson, although I am an ardent football fan and I don't mind our boys going ahead and grinding their opponents into the ground, the other teams better be careful because, after all, we do have that ordinance on the books."

Easing their tongues well over their jawbones, this is the school and city officials had to do.

Mayor W. H. "Bill" Yeager—the ordinance was passed to have effect only on opposing teams. I think that ordinance applies only to teams coming in from other cities.

City Atty. Neil Watson—"I am an ardent football fan and I don't mind our boys going ahead and grinding their opponents into the ground, the other teams better be careful because, after all, we do have that ordinance on the books."

Coach Reese Smith—"What are we gonna have to do? Stop playing football? I guess that's all we can do." Smith said, however, his Bulldogs will continue to prepare for Friday night's game with Alamogordo here until firm action is taken to abolish football or law officers appear on the field to stop him.

Leland Price, Quarterback club president: "We ought to give opposing teams some chance so I'd suggest we let up on enforcement of the statute during the games—provided they're going our way."

While the ordinance remains on the city books, city officials indicate it will probably not be put into action unless such teams as Roswell, Carlsbad, and Hobbs pile up leads over the Bulldogs. If that happens, the visiting squads will be thrown in jail. Just in fun, of course.

Top Senator Is Signed in GOP State Campaign

SANTA FE — Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), one of the ablest in the Republicans' national lineup, today was added to the list of big name campaigners for the GOP cause in New Mexico.

Because only $234,000 is available to construct the addition, which builders estimate the lowest bidder said would cost $267,000, the board met to lop off part of the building addition's plans.

The board actually has or could get enough money for the construction, but $50,000 is pledged for construction of an elementary school at Hope under terms of a recent bond issue. Although Hope

Defense Claims Batchelor Was Confused By Red Brainwashing

SAN ANTONIO, (AP)—Defense attorneys claim Cpl. Claude Batchelor was brainwashed to the point he thought he was doing the patriotic thing—and that an expert from the Netherlands will back them up.

Atty. Joel Westbrook announced yesterday at the slim Texan's court-martial he will call as a witness Dr. Joost A. M. Meerlo of New York City, former chief of the psychological department of the Netherlands Army.

Batchelor is the 22-year-old Kermit, Texas, soldier charged with collaborating with the enemy and informing on fellow prisoners while in North Korean prison camps. He is being tried by a general court-martial in a corrugated iron shed at Fort Sam Houston here.

Westbrook declared Meerlo will testify "brain-washing puts the victim in a state of mind to think that the things he was doing were the most patriotic."

Westbrook and other attorneys had interpreted a ruling yesterday morning by Lt. Col. Donald L. Manes Jr. as barring any testimony about brain-washing. Yesterday afternoon, however, the law officer or judge said his ruling applied only to the testimony of Joel Adams, 24, a Portsmouth, Ohio, defense witness.

Col. Manes questioned Westbrook closely about what he intended to ask Meerlo and why. The defense attorney said he will ask Meerlo: "Do you consider as a result of Batchelor's prison experience including exposure to brainwashing that he believes his actions were prejudicial to the war aims of the United States?"

The defense attorney said he expects the psychology expert to answer in effect, that "brain-washing put the victim in a state of mind to think that the things he was doing were the most patriotic." Col. Manes asked: "Will the testimony be to the effect that Batchelor was under a mental condition which would excuse his acts under any law as we now know it or would it be something entirely new?"

Westbrook replied: "It would show that a psycho-neurotic condition had been created, a condition of a specialized sort that did not have the well-known symptoms of psycho-neurosis." He said he expected Meerlo to testify that "brain washing produced a 'state of mind' to where the subject will accept suggestions not realizing what lay behind them."

The district weather bureau in Albuquerque said the cool air front—bringing nothing with it but a slight drop in temperatures—should reach the central portion of the state sometime Friday.

Weather conditions today were the same as yesterday with moderate winds up to 25 miles an hour. The winds yesterday stayed under 25 miles an hour over most of the state. No rain was reported although Farmington had a dry thunderstorm and scattered clouds prevailed over the northwest section. Tucumcari was high point in the state last night with 63 degrees and Gallup recorded a 43 for low. Yesterday Columbus had a 95 for high and Zuni and Grants both had 83 for low.

No Injuries to Hamper Bulldogs in Game Friday

Artesia's Bulldogs are looking forward to Friday night's contest with Alamogordo with confidence, no injuries and high morale.
Coach Reese Smith says he and his staff were "well pleased" with the first showing of the Bulldogs in last Friday night's grid opener against Lovington.
"We sustained no injuries to speak of," Smith said, adding "They came through a lot better than we had hoped for."
Meanwhile, stress in practices this week goes on the Bulldogs' passing game, or lack thereof. Chief accept is on protection for passers and on finding receivers.
Smith describes Alamogordo as a fast hard-charging team which is expected to be more competition than the Lovington team turned out to be.
"We'll have our hands full when we take on Alamogordo in the second home contest," Smith said.

Richards Gets Three-Year Oriole Post

Chicago's Paul Richards quit yesterday and accepted terms to be combination general manager-field manager of the Orioles. He was succeeded immediately by Marty Marion, Sox coach and former St. Louis Cardinals and Browns manager.
Sox General Manager Frank Lane and Richards, since teaming up in 1951, have kept the Chicago American league club in almost constant pennant contention. And the Sox, seldom a financial bonanza in the past, have counted more than a million in attendance in each Lane-Richards year.
But the Orioles since their conversion from the St. Louis Browns last winter have appeared defeated, but he seemed uncertain about his field duties.
In Baltimore, Oriole Pres. Clarence W. Miles said Richards definitely will direct the Orioles in the field, replacing current Manager Jimmy Dykes.
Last winter the new Baltimore management reportedly offered Lane the equivalent of $10,000 for a five year contract to leave the Sox. The Comiskey family, which owns the Chicago team, was forced, reluctantly since he was under a contract which had two more years to run, to extend Lane's contract another five years and hike his salary to a reported $70,000.
