Robert O. Anderson, president of Malco Refineries announced today that the company will run a $1,750,000 pipeline to El Paso.

The line, which will carry about 7,000 barrels a day, will move products from the NuMex refinery here to the El Paso district. A new line which will join Standard Oil's common carrier line from El Paso to Albuquerque, will also give the refinery here access to Albuquerque, Southwestern New Mexico, and Arizona.

Outside of those additions, Anderson said, no big change will take place in the company's marketing area. The line from here to the Standard pipe would tie in near Newman, N. M., on the highway between El Paso and White Sands.

Though the additions to the plant's equipment are not definitely connected with any particular defense program, Anderson did state that the move has the government's approval. He added the lines will "undoubtedly" carry jet fuel.

Installation of the pipelines is part of a large project to hike the capacity of the entire plant here to 15,000 barrels a day. Anderson said improvements have been carried on for the last year and a half, and so far about 90 per cent of the new equipment has been installed.

He said it consists largely of another new tower and additional cooling surfaces. This expansion is taking place in the crude oil division of the plant. Anderson said everything else is adequate.

"The hardest part of the expansion is actually already over," Anderson declared. "The rest can be completed within the next six months."

Continental Refuses Air Service Due to Cost

Artesia once again has been refused airline service, this time by Continental airlines.

The Artesia Chamber of Commerce received a letter from Continental of Denver yesterday afternoon refusing the latest request of the city to bring air service here.

According to Chamber officials, new information taken to the Denver office didn't have enough new results to satisfy the air line's representatives.

The new estimate of revenues anticipated by a complete Continental survey of 10 cities under 20,000 population, sets the passenger revenues here at $12,552. Add to this air freight and air express figures and the air line said the total revenue would be $13,883, as compared to $12,808 derived from 1952 figures.

However, the Continental letter said the company's net operating cost is nearly $23,000, which would still show them a loss of about $9,000. This loss is $1,000 lower than the amount shown in the 1952 information originally sent to the air line office.

The letter also included a statement made by the CAA some time ago. "The evidence discloses that Artesia is only about 40 miles from other points such as Roswell, presently receiving air carrier service. And, hence such service is already reasonably available to that city."

Continental officials say the statement still holds and concludes with, "Because of the constant scrutiny by the board (CAA) of airline subsidies and its expectancy that the air lines will work constantly to reduce them, we do not feel that Continental could recommend air line service for your city at this time."

Georgia Lusk Favors State Education Reorganization

CARLSBAD — Mrs. Georgia Lusk, Democratic candidate for state school superintendent, said today "I personally favor" reorganization of the state's department of education "based upon the election of a state board of education which will appoint a superintendent."

Mrs. Lusk pointed out, at the same time, that such a plan was "rejected overwhelmingly" by the people of New Mexico in 1951 and "all avenues to achieve reorganization should be explored."

In her home town between campaign jumps, Mrs. Lusk issued a formal statement "to set the record straight" on her views on the department of education.

"I do not oppose any organized group of educators," Mrs. Lusk said, "acting within their proper sphere, are not only necessary but of great benefit."

"Since 1923 I have been a member of the New Mexico Education Assn. and have always supported its programs which foster a higher standard of education for our children and promote teachers' welfare. I do not now quarrel with

Pickup Truck Theft Tied With Escape of Two Prisoners

SANTA FE, (AP)—The theft of a pickup truck at the new state penitentiary site was tied in today with the search for two convict trustees who kidnaped a guard and escaped Tuesday.

The guard, 26-year-old Martin J. Gonzales, a Korean war veteran, was tied up and abandoned. He freed himself, called officials from Pena Blanca, and was returned here early yesterday.

The convicts, who took off from their trusty jobs at the highway department sign shop at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday with Gonzales in tow, were Robert E. White, 22, and James W. Perkins, 25. White was sent up from Hobbs and Perkins from Roosevelt county.

Erickson Says Action Needed For Basin Life

SANTA FE, (AP)—Faced with seriously falling water tables caused partly by illegal use in the Pecos Valley, the state is considering putting meters on the wells for the first time in New Mexico history.

But even as the plan was announced, it ran into stiff opposition from the North Eddy county Farm Bureau.

If the plan works, the same thing may be tried again some place else, the state said.

An estimated 1,800 water wells in the Pecos Valley artesian conservancy district will be involved. Some farmers may find themselves forced to change crops.

The action is "very much needed" in order to prolong the life of the basin, State Engineer John Erickson said today.

The conservancy district formally asked Erickson to place meters on the wells because there have been complaints that many farmers are using more water than they are entitled to under state regulations.

New York Takes Second in Series By 3-1 Today

New York took a 2-0 World Series lead today, squeezing Cleveland 3-1 in the second game at New York of the nation's sports classic.

Cleveland scored only in the first inning, when Al Smith lifted the first pitch to him by Johnny Antonelli out of the park.

New York waited until late to score, but in the fifth three singles and a walk plated two runs to give the Giants a 2-1 lead. Mays was walked by Early Wynn, and Thompson and Rhodes singled, Rhodes scoring Mays. Antonelli singled to plate Thompson.

In the seventh Dusty Rhodes made it 3-1 with his homer for New York.

Tomorrow the series switches to Cleveland.

The line score: Cleveland 100 000 000-1 New York 000 020 100-3 Antonelli and Westrum; Wynn and Hegon. Winner—Antonelli. Home runs—Al Smith (Cleveland), first inning, first pitch, none on; Dusty Rhodes (New York), seventh, none on.

Attorney Sees Court Fight If Order Issued

Answering questions from North Eddy county farmers, a Roswell attorney said here last night he has no doubt a suit would be immediately filed if the state engineer issues an order metering irrigation water wells.

John F. Russell, attorney for the Pecos Valley artesian conservancy district, said the statutes empower the state engineer to "declare and administer basins."

"I have no doubt, however," Russell said, "that as soon as such an order is issued, someone will attack the engineer's right to do so and file a suit which probably would go to the state supreme court."

Youth Is Severely Cut in Wednesday Truck Accident

Glen Alvy Smith, 18-year-old stepson of Lee N. Sealy, Hope, is in Artesia General hospital today as the result of a two-car accident at noon yesterday at Hope.

Dust dimmed the vision of both drivers. They crashed into each other and the road grader.

Smith received severe cuts on his face and head. The accident happened shortly after 12 Wednesday. Bill Crockett was driver of the pickup.

Farmers Pass Resolution Opposing Plan

North Eddy county farmers served notice last night they're not buying any plan to meter their water wells.

"There have been more people killed in New Mexico over water than women," says Howard Stroup, Atoka farmer. "We're treading on mighty dangerous ground when we go to tampering with a man's water."

But Willard Bradshaw, farmer east of Artesia and member of the Pecos Valley Artesian Conservancy District who formally proposed the metering, argued, "It's the quickest way — and we've got to do something, fast."

The argument was the program highlight as the North Eddy County Farm Bureau met last night at Atoka school. The organization ended the meeting by voting almost unanimously against any plan to put meters on water wells.

Cole Sees Water As Top Problem Facing Solons

Fred Cole, Artesia, unopposed Democratic candidate for state representative, appeared on a TV program last night under the sponsorship of the Chaves County Democratic organization.

When questioned about the most important matters to be considered by the state legislature, he said it is the matter of control of water in the state. Cole said he knows the source or supply of water can not be legislated but that the use of the existing water supply in New Mexico should have adequate control.

Cole pointed out many areas have very rigid restriction and other areas have none whatever. "Since all the water in the state comes from streams, drainage, shallow wells or artesian wells, control by some state authority would be very equitable," he declared.

Cole added he thought the Democratic ticket in Chaves county and the state will be elected because high caliber of the candidates merits the support of New Mexicans. He declared, "I believe that the basic aims and program of the Democratic party, as outlined by the candidates during the past few weeks, prove that the Democratic party is vitally interested in the welfare of the entire state of New Mexico."

Following the telecast, Cole and his wife were guests of honor at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Nelson.

Baby Boom Hits Home Sewing Market in U.S.

Associated Press Women's Editor The baby boom has hit the home sewing market.

Home seamstresses across the country are turning out their own maternity clothes, beating the high cost of ready-mades and using their own favorite colors and fashion preferences to brighten the waiting game.

For the newest, youngest and most flattering maternity blouse of the season, you can use permanently pleated batiste, now widely available in piece-goods departments in dainty white and pastel colors.

The pleated fabric comes with a paper backing, which is left on during sewing, to make the fabric easier to handle. The pattern is laid on the pleated fabric, with the pleats facing left to right. After the blouse is finished, pull off the paper backing and the garment will flare out in crisp graceful fullness. One inch of permanently pleated cotton will flare to approximately five inches.

Most of the pleated fabrics are sold with matching plain cotton, to be used in yoke and trim. Gar-

Local sewing center experts point out that patterns for maternity clothes are purchased exactly as you would buy any other pattern—according to chest or normal waist measurement. Room for expansion is included in the pattern, and a woman who wears size 14 normal clothes will take the same size in maternity clothes.

The permanently pleated cotton is sold by the inch instead of by the yard and is easy to sew, since the selvage forms the hem.

The pleated fabric also may be used to make a simple skirt, which will expand with the figure, if you allow for expansion in the waist band.

Many expectant mothers have found that this is a time when they can look pretty and feminine for the entire waiting period, by choosing flattering colors, concealing styles, and brightening the general effect with gay costume jewelry.

ROYAL EXILES TOGETHER AGAIN

EX-KING Umberto of Italy and his wife, ex-queen Marie Jose, are shown on arrival in Geneva, Switzerland, on his 50th birthday. It was the first time in six years he spent his birthday with his family. An estrangement between the royal exiles seems to have ended, since both were on the recent "royal cruise" arranged by the king and queen of Greece. Umberto and Marie Jose have three children. Claassen Picks Notre Dame Over Purdue, Iowa Over Montana, Michigan State Over Wisconsin

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK — The World Series game won't be the only athletic event Saturday afternoon. There will be a hundred or more college football games. But if you are determined to watch the series, here are the football winners in advance.

Last week's predictions had 39 winners and 11 losers. That brought the season's figures to 66 winners, 15 losers for an 836 average.

The forecasts:
Notre Dame over Purdue: The Irish enthusiasm of last week to carry over for this tussle with Purdue's rugged sophomores.

Iowa over Montana: The Hawkeyes get a rest after their victory over Michigan State.

UCLA over Maryland: Last year's No. 1 team travels to the coast Friday night to meet the team which could develop into 1954's strongest.

Michigan State over Wisconsin: Michigan State doesn't make a habit of losing two in a row, even if the opponent boasts an Alan Ameche.

Duke over Tennessee: When in doubt, always pick the home team. Mississippi over Villanova: A chain store production with Villanova winding up in the vegetable department.

Southern California over Northwestern: Jon Arrett too much for the Big Ten team.

Penn State over Syracuse: Penn State's line to keep Bill Wetzel in check.

Baylor over Miami: A Friday night encounter.

Texas over Washington State: The West Coast aggregation gets punished for what Notre Dame did to Texas last week-end.

California over Ohio State: Paul Larsen's pin-point passing to be decisive.

Illinois over Stanford: The TV viewers will find it difficult to keep J. C. Caroline in focus, so will the Stanford defenders.

The others, without comment:
FRIDAY NIGHT
Furman over Presbyterian, Wichita over Drake.

SATURDAY
EAST: Minnesota over Pittsburgh, Fordham over Rutgers, Boston College over Temple, Yale over Brown, Princeton over Columbia, Boston University over Connecticut, Navy over Dartmouth, Colgate over Holy Cross, Harvard over Massachusetts, Penn over William and Mary.

SOUTH: Alabama over Vanderbilt, Davidson over the Citadel, Clemson over Virginia Tech, Auburn over Florida, Georgia over Texas A&M, Kentucky over LSU, Mississippi State over Arkansas State, Richmond over Virginia Military, South Carolina over Tulane, Virginia over George Washington, North Carolina State over Wake Forest.

MIDWEST: Michigan over Army, Nebraska over Iowa State, Cincinnati over Tulsa, Indiana over College of Pacific, Colorado over Kansas, Kansas State over Missouri, Marquette over Miami of Ohio.

SOUTHWEST: Rice over Cornell, Georgia Tech over Southern Methodist, Texas Christian over Arkansas, Texas Tech over Oklahoma A&M.

FAR WEST: Arizona State over Texas Western, Colorado A&M over Brigham Young, Wyoming over Denver, Oregon over Utah, Washington over Oregon State, New Mexico over Utah State.

MEMO TO MARS MAN—World Series Is Children's Game, Nervous Breakdown

By ED CREAUGH
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Memo to a man from Mars:

Sorry we missed seeing you yesterday. Normally we'd have heard you tapping on the office door, even though your tentacles don't make as much noise as human knuckles. But the television set was going full blast, you see. None of us wanted to miss the World Series opener.

The World Series—maybe we'd better tell you about that, since you're down here studying human behavior. The World Series is—well, call it a sort of nervous breakdown that we have at this time of year.

IT'S A SERIOUS ILLNESS. It just about brings the United States to a standstill. People forget about politics, about world affairs. Nobody argues about Joe McCarthy. Joe McCarthy, we ought to explain, used to manage the New York Yankees. They took part in the World Series, too, in happier days.

Fortunately, perhaps, this temporary insanity of our doesn't last long. It usually runs its course in a week or less. Then everybody goes back to work, except sometimes the manager of the losing team.

The World Series is a contest, or series of contests, between two baseball teams. Baseball is a children's game played with a ball, a bat, and a set of bases. The rules say there must be four bases although some teams, such as Pittsburgh, seldom need more than one or two.

THIS YEAR THE CONTEST is between the New York Giants of the National league and the Cleveland Indians of the American league. The Giants are not especially big men and the Indians are not really Indians. For that matter the Polo Grounds, where the series opened, is not for Polo.

The Giants are managed by Leo Durocher, Laraine Day, Tallulah Bankhead, and a New York restaurateur named Toots Shor. The Indians are managed by Al Lopez and about half the population of Cuyahoga county, Ohio.

Now the basis of baseball—and remember, there are four bases—is a contest between the pitcher, who throws the ball, and the batter, who tries to hit it.

If the batter does hit the ball, he runs around the bases. Unless, that is, he is saving his strength for a television commercial after the game, in which case another player runs for him. The other player is known as a pinch-runner. We never have been able to figure out why.

IF THE BATTER DOES NOT hit the ball, he throws down his bat and glares at the umpire. Umpires are mostly old ballplayers with failing eyesight. Old umpires never die. They just lose their seeing eye dogs.

Ballplayers play ball because they love the sport, though sometimes for the sake of their families they accept token salaries. Some of these token salaries rank right along with the take-home pay of the president of the United States. This is only fair. We haven't had a president since Theodore Roosevelt who could hit a ball out of the infield.

Besides riches, ball players aspire to two things: getting elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame, and marrying Marilyn Monroe.

BASEBALL IS THE GREAT American game, but during the season millions of Americans can't take it or leave it alone. Come series time, though, everybody's a fan—and an expert. People who normally would as soon kiss their mother-in-law as shell out $2 forja ticket are packed right in there around the TV screen screaming.

Why? You tell us, man from Mars. We're a warm-hearted, clever, childlike people. But we never claimed that we made sense.

Andrews Is Upset Winner in Bout With Gil Turner

CHICAGO — Only minutes after young Al Andrews flattened Gil Turner, a 3-1 favorite, last night telephones jangled in the Chicago Stadium office of the International Boxing club.

Officials of the far-flung IBC were trying to get the money wrench out of their match-making machinery. They found themselves, so to speak, with Andrews on their hands instead of Turner.

Before the 23-year-old Superior, Wis., battler, dispatched Turner with a steaming right to the chin 12 seconds after the bell for the third round the IBC had Gil scheduled at Syracuse Oct. 15 to tangle with the No. 1 welterweight contender, Carmen Basilio.

The winner of that one was to get a title shot next spring, adding up to a possible rematch of Turner and champion Kid Gavilan.

It was Gavilan who stopped Turner in a scorching at Philadelphia two years ago with the 147-pound crown at stake. Turner was unbeaten in 31 fights until then.

Burglars Lose Seven Cents in Breakin Attempt

HELPER, Kan., (AP)—Hard-working burglars failed to break into the vault of the Helper State Bank—apparently losing seven cents in the effort.

Winner Nails Steer in 11.2 Seconds at Fair

ALBUQUERQUE — An estimated 8,000 rodeo fans last night watched Arnold Jones pull the best time of 11.2 seconds in steer wrestling at the fifth day of the State Fair Rodeo.

Jones, of Prescott, Ariz., also came in first in bull riding as he and two others qualified with an eight-second time.

Friends Aid Him

LT. COL. Harry Fleming, 40, is met by a friend on his return to his home in Racine, Wis. He was sentenced to be dismissed from the Army after a court-martial found him guilty of aiding Red propaganda efforts among U. S. propagandists of war in Korea. Fleming began a ten-day leave prior to taking up duties at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., while his sentence is reviewed by the 5th Army headquarters. A group of Racine residents have organized a "Harry Fleming Fund" to finance Fleming's fight to clear his name.

The thieves broke into the bank during the night, finally knocked the combination off the vault but didn't get in. Bank officials who had to call a safe expert to open the vault yesterday, said nothing was missing. Sheriff Ernie Stevens found seven pennies in front of the vault door and figured they out of the burglars' pockets.

TWC Quarterback Makes Switch to Post Successfully

PHOENIX, Ariz., (AP)—Jesse Whittenton, junior quarterback of the Texas Western Miners, has apparently made the switch from fullback to halfback to quarterback successfully.

And that spells trouble for the Arizona state college Sun Devils when they meet the Miners in Tempe this Saturday in the only Border conference football game of the week.

A fullback in his freshman year, Whittenton made the swap to halfback last year. But when Dick Shinaut and Billy Bob Plumley graduated last year, Coach Mike Brumbelow started looking around for a quarterback. He settled on Whittenton.

The first conference statistical report this season showed Whittenton atop the passing pile with 13 completions in 23 tries for 184 yards and three scoring passes. He was second only to Arizona's Art Lupino in total offense with 287 yards. Lupino has 345.

Sharing the spotlight with the conference activity will be Texas Tech's engagement with Oklahoma A&M at Lubbock, Tex. with Arizona idle, it is the only inter-sectional game of major stature on the schedule.

The game will probably find the Red Raiders favored on the strength of their 41-9 victory over Texas A&M, beaten 14-6 by the Oklahoma club last week.

New Mexico A&M shoots for its first victory—and its first points—in three games against Sul Ross at Alpine, Tex., Hardin-Simmons is host to Trinity at Abilene and West Texas entertains midwestern at Canyon in the other games.

Godiva Without Horse Doesn't Fool Deputy

CUSHING, Okla., (AP)—A Lady Godiva act sans horses, sans costume—is now sans show at a carnival here.

Deputy Lee Stiles happened into the show at a crucial point. He said the star stripper was "without a zipper," and her cast of lovelies had also peeled down to nothingness in depicting the ride of the legendary lady through Coventry. They too had forgotten their horses.

Despite pleas to use his imagination, the unbending deputy says the show must not go on, even if the lady gets a horse.

Gridiron Little League Meeting Slated Monday

By ED BOYKIN

ANOTHER MEETING is scheduled for Monday night, 7:30 at the high school for all potential football coaches and fans interested in helping start the little league gridiron sport here.

Boosters of the program include all the Artesia school system coaches and a myriad of football fans who are attempting to work out a feasible farm system for the present football teams here.

Depending upon the number of boys in the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades who want to play, the whole sum will be divided into from two to four teams. According to Junior high coach Bud Wilborn, the school could suit out approximately 50 boys who are too small, inexperienced, or both, to take part on the Hornet 11.

Biggest problem in the looming pigskin farm system is the procurement of coaches. If boosters of the project can find enough mentors to take care of the teams that are formed, other roadblocks can probably be overcome.

Preference in the coaching hold-up is going to men who have participated in the sport, preferably in recent years.

Parents of the potential Bulldogs are issued a special invitation to the meeting Monday night.

THE WORLD SERIES started off with a characteristic bang. It's almost a safe bet that none of the games end in the ninth inning or that not one ends without some dramatic touch. Just out of curiosity, we wonder how many pots were started in the various offices in Artesia. Another safe bet is that nearly every one of the many firms here had, an will have, a pot on each day's game—everything from total runs scored to how many home-runs.

JOHNNY USSERY, sportswriter for the Portales Daily News, was impressed, to say the least, with the team the Bulldogs fielded against the Rams.

Says Johnny, "Coaches Reese Smith and Jack Barron have done a great job of molding a team of championship caliber, mainly on the strength of a backfield possessed of lightning speed."

About that backfield, the Portales writer says, "Freddie Sanders and John Riddle can easily be classed as a pair of the finest high school backs in the state. They are both blessed with tremendous speed and a fine change of pace that enables them to break away for long gainers."

About coaches and team, we staunchly agree.

BARRON DECLARED at the Quarterback meeting Tuesday night that the Portales did turn up the fact that the Bulldogs play better defensive ball with 10 men than with 11.

Seems a mix-up of substitutes had only 10 men on the field in the last quarter and the 10 were holding Portales pretty good. When the missing man was discovered on the bench and sped out to the scrimmage line, Portales promptly scored.

COACH BUD WILBORN said he was particularly pleased to be with the team Friday night because it gave him a chance to be with the boys he coached three years ago.

Wilborn, who took Smith's place when the head coach was sidelined with some flu, said the boys comprised a pretty tough outfit three years ago too.

Texas Has Top Sick List in Southwest Loop

By JOE BENHAM
Associated Press Staff
University of Texas Coach Ed Price found himself with the Southwest conference's most impressive sick list Wednesday as he worked to get the Longhorns back on their feet after last week's loss to Notre Dame.

Quarterback Charley Brewer, fullback Bill Long and halfback Delano Womack—all starters—were missing from the Texas backfield during drills on pass defense and punt returns. Brewer's sore throat, Womack's leg injury, and Long's trip to the dentist left Billy Quinn the lone first-stringer in the backfield Wednesday.

All there are expected to be back in the lineup when the Longhorns meet Washington State Saturday at Austin. Second-string end Morton Moriarity is the team's only casualty not expected to play against the Cougars. He has a leg ailment.

Elsewhere in the conference, two sets of footballers started getting their eyes used to the dark in preparation for their first night games of the season this week-end.

Southern Methodist and Arkansas moved their workouts to high school fields and worked out under the lights for the first time this season. The Methodists meet Georgia Tech Saturday night at Dallas and Arkansas moves to Fort Worth to face Texas Christian in the conference opener for both teams.

TODAY'S GAME will be the 1948 Series game played in New York. Chicago has had 37, St. Louis Philadelphia and Boston 25, Detroit 22 and Brooklyn 21.

Appeasement Has Never Worked

AMERICANS HAVE learned through the years that appeasement plans do not work in bringing about settlements of international questions or issues.

Whether they have learned that appeasement doesn't work any better in their daily affairs and in their relationships with their fellow man we do not know.

We do know that it doesn't.

That individual, that group, club, or organization or that institution which adopts and seeks to follow an appeasement program is headed for trouble. Appeasement is just as dangerous as an indifferent attitude that refuses to consider a compromise.

Unfortunately, we have nations who believe that force and might should prevail and they usually do. It is also true that we have individuals perfectly willing to impose on others, take advantage of them, and refuse to extend any consideration regardless of the situation.

That individual, organization, or institution which continues to take such treatment at the hands of others eventually reaches the point where they have to take their stand for their own principles and ideals and for what is right or to lose all the respect which they have a right to expect from others.

There usually comes a time when an individual or an institution is forced to take a stand and to fight for that stand if they expect to win out. It is perfectly fine to go along for a while and best, we believe, to always seek out a peaceful settlement of our differences. However, when that method fails we believe there is just one thing to do—that is to do a little fighting for what we do believe.

We are usually imposed upon and taken advantage of as long as we will take it. We are ignored, forgotten and neglected just as long as we are willing to accept that kind of treatment.

However, when the day and time arrives that we have taken all we propose to take and when we are willing to stand up and fight for that which we believe is right—then we win back respect we have lost and usually acquire the respect of those who have tried to take advantage of us.

Fighting back may not always be the best way but it seems to be the surest way when we are dealing with certain nations and certain people. The world respects the nation and the individual who is willing to fight for what it or he believes is right.

Texas Senate's Amnesty for Ferguson Stopped Short

By JESS TRUETT

Some politicians are watching opportunities to put over their programs or pay political debts to their supporters.

In some instances a lieutenant governor can take advantage of the absence of his governor from the state, at which time he is privileged to occupy the chair of the governor, as do some ranking legislative members when the speaker is absent.

A story of one incident comes to our attention from Texas. During the 20 years of tenure as state senator, and during the ups and downs of Pa and Ma Ferguson, Senator Archie Parr, father of the present accused political boss of Duval county, George Parr, was a ranking political figure in the Texas state senate, and a staunch supporter of the Ferguson family.

The state senate voted to impeach Gov. Jim Ferguson in 1917. His wife, Miriam A. Ferguson, campaigned for the office of governor under the pledge of "amnesty" for Jim and was elected. It appears that a sufficient majority of senators could not be mustered to grant this amnesty to Jim and there was no alternative for Parr and his friends other than await some, like opportunity to try and gain this amnesty.

One day late in the session of the legislature, Sen. Archie Parr was called to preside over the senate while the lieutenant governor was attending business in the office of governor or elsewhere. Soon as Parr had taken the chair and the coast was clear, some senator submitted a short resolution which read: "Resolved, that the senate's 1917 vote of impeachment of James E. Ferguson be rescinded."

Soon as Senator Parr read the resolution, another senator shouted, "Move its adoption." At this point, Parr announced "the resolution adopted, the senate stands adjourned." By this time someone had ushered the lieutenant governor back to the chair double time.

Taking the gavel in hand the lieutenant governor announced the proceedings just taken are out of order, and that they will be expunged from the journal. He said, "The senate is now adjourned." You wonder what happened? So do I, but regarding what arguments succeeded the events, the proceedings stood expunged and Jim still stood impeached. So goes the life of a politician when the cards are stacked.

Have Iron Lung

Artesia firemen are the longest time owners of a portable iron lung, which they keep in excellent operating shape at the fire station. The machine is completely equipped and has a gasoline-powered generator. It can be loaded into an ambulance or taken wherever needed.

There was a move some years ago to have the machine stored at Artesia General Hospital. However, since it is seldom used, firemen were afraid it would be stored in an inaccessible corner somewhere and neglected, then not be workable when the need arose.

So firemen have their iron lung, just the thing to use when transferring a victim from Artesia for expert care in other hospitals, or in emergency cases until an American machine can be received from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

County Deaths?

There is a small dispute going the rounds over whether three Artesia men killed in a traffic accident last Saturday 15 miles north of Maljamar died in Eddy or Chaves counties.

The fatal accident occurred near the county line. If it is in Eddy county the year's toll rises to nine, compared to 18 for all of 1953. If it was in Chaves county its total becomes 12, compared to 13 for the same time last year.

Air Line—

Paul Scott, C of C manager, had the following comments on the service refusal: "The people at Continental didn't fully understand the importance of Artesia and do not realize that the majority of people traveling by air from the Pecos valley are primarily from the Artesia area."

Scott added, "We further feel that the figures showing only a $1,000 anticipated revenue increase since 1952 are way off base and we shall point this out to Continental in subsequent correspondence."

"We will continue our efforts by correspondence and might also contact some other airlines," Scott declared. "They're trying to compare Artesia with other cities under 20,000 and Artesia can't be compared with other cities under 20,000."

Exact operating cost of the air line for both years included in the survey taken, show a figure of $22,860. The operating loss in 1952 would have been $10,152 and this year if service were extended to Artesia the air line claims a $9,023 loss would be suffered.

Scott took the new figures to Denver recently and at that time was told the possibility of installing air service to Artesia was small.

and probably exceeding in a good many instances the three feet per acre allowed," Ericksen said.

He agreed to the proposal if the district would help in reading the meters and policing the situation when it goes into effect. Ericksen said that part would amount to "a terrific job."

But some Pecos Valley farmers, in a meeting in Artesia last night, unanimously rejected the metering idea when it was suggested by Willard Bradshaw, a member of the conservancy board. They branded the idea unworkable and unfeasible.

Bradshaw said the metering idea might be an answer to the decreasing water levels, which have dropped 86 feet in the Roswell Artesian basin since 1943.

As a counter proposal, the Farm Bureau proposed a stepped-up survey to eliminate acreage illegally under cultivation. The survey is being conducted by the state engineer's office at Roswell and the conservancy district.

INVOLVED WOULD BE roughly 900 Artesian wells and probably about an equal number of shallow wells, which have never been counted. The area takes in a large part of the Pecos river valley from north of Roswell to below Artesia.

Farmers holding water permits in the basin are entitled to use three feet of water per acre annually. Until now there have been no measurements of the amounts pumped from the wells. Many farmers have no idea how much water they are using.

Farmers Pass—

It also unanimously adopted a resolution pledging its aid to any program to speed up a current survey designed to take illegal acres out of cultivation.

FARM BUREAU members threw every argument they could at Bradshaw's idea and arguments, which went like this:

"Since 1943 water levels in the recorded well at Atoka have dropped 86 feet. In 50 years since pumping started in the basin its gone down 200 feet — from 100 feet above the ground to 100 feet under.

"It looks like the water will never quit going down. Each year we lose 8 to 10 feet. In 1946-47 we lost 15 feet, 1947-48 we lost 10, 48-49 gained 1.1 feet (through rainfall), 49-50 dropped 5 feet (irrigation controls that season), 50-51 lost 13 feet, 51-52 lost 20 feet, 52-53 lost 11, 53-54 lost 13 1/2."

"There's not a lot of difference in this water and water from an open stream in a project.

"Metering the wells is the quickest and fastest way to put everyone on an even basis."

BUT THOSE attending the meeting threw every kind of argument at Bradshaw, like this:

What about the cities — they have no water rights and use more water than we. (Not so, said Bradshaw; a city uses less per acre than a farm.)

The 3-acre-foot allotment is based on an old condition (in 1931) which no longer is valid for contemporary agriculture.

Shallow water could relieve dropping deep water levels (no one knows, said John Crawford, manager of the conservancy district).

There's no one honest enough to read the meters — everyone would be trying to bribe the meter reader to get more water.

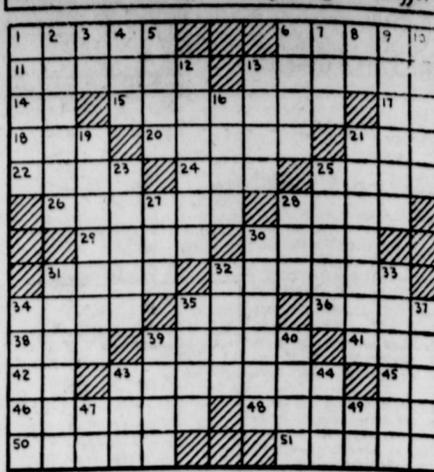

FARMERS WOULD use the meters for target practice.

Something has happened to the basin since 1947 which has robbed it of a lot of water.

The thing to do is find a way to put water back in the basin instead of trying to hold down the use.

will work better and faster. The plan to meter wells, long suggested but only recently formally proposed through Bradshaw, Artesia district member of the conservancy board, is an answer to excessive use of water.

Licenses to use water issued farmers with their water rights specify that no more than 3 feet of water an acre a year can be used by holders of the permit.

Bradshaw's plan calls for putting meters on the wells which could use his three feet per acre any time he sees fit during the year, so long as he did not use more than his total allotment.

Thus a farmer with 100 acres of water right land would be allowed to use 300 acre feet of water in a year.

THE PAVEMENT PLATO—

Bashful Ladies Are Buying Increasing Number of Pipes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — What happens to a girl who smokes a pipe in public?
"Plenty," said Marie Quackenbush, an inventive young fashion consultant who has freed lady pipesmokers of the problem of where to carry their tobacco pouches.

"SINCE LAST JULY, when pipes specifically styled for ladies were first put on the market, some 350,000 have been sold," said Bernard Gould, vice-president of the Kaywoodie Co., the nation's largest pipe manufacturer.

Ladies pipes are now for sale in most of the major department stores and tobacco shops. Plans are afoot to have them peddled even by cigarette girls in night clubs.

Why is it then you see so few women smoking them in public? Are they only a passing novelty fad, as most men believe?

"I think they are here to stay," said Miss Quackenbush, cheerfully blowing a burley cloud my way across a luncheon table.

"ONE REASON You have seen so few on the streets so far is women are bashful. They want to be sure they can handle the pipe properly in public. And then, of course, you know nobody wants to be the first couple on a dance floor.

"Another important reason is that manufacturers have been slow to develop the right clothing accessories for the pipe-smoking woman. But that is being corrected. They are bringing out a handbag with a compartment to carry a pipe. The belt industry is also working on some new belts with attachable tobacco pouches and pipe holsters."

Pipe holsters? Shades of Hopalong Cassidy!

"How about that . . . er . . . that combination garter and tobacco pouch?" I asked, purely in the interests of science. "Now . . . as . . . just how does that work?"

"UNFORTUNATELY, I didn't wear mine today," said Miss Quackenbush, ruining a fine luncheon. "But it is worn just above the knee. You can fill your pipe from it at a restaurant table." Editor's Note: Not if Boyle's there. He's always squirming under tables, looking for fallen napkins—he says.)

Telephone Rate Hearings Record

SANTA FE — (AP) — Ingram B. Pickett says the telephone hearings that ended last week here were the lengthiest in the history of the state corporation commission.

Pickett, SCC chairman, said the transcript of the testimony will probably run to more than 2,000 pages of oral testimony.

Cameras Rolling In Santa Fe on Man from Laramie

SANTA FE (AP)—Approximately five weeks of location shooting on the Columbia Pictures color Western, "The Man from Laramie," got under way today.

The star, James Stewart, and Wallace Ford, another member of the cast, went to work at a location north of here, in the Nambre vicinity. They are the only members of the cast to figure in the first several days of shooting.

The feminine lead, Cathy O'Donnell, is not due here for another week.

Young Bank Teller, $82,000 Are Sought By Policemen

NEW YORK, (AP)—A young bank teller has disappeared with his wife and three children and more than $82,000 from the bank where he had worked for more than two years.

The money was discovered missing yesterday after 23-year-old John Siemer failed to show up for work at the West Brighton branch of the Staten Island National Bank and Trust Co.

Sidney O. Simonson, Richmond County district attorney, said the teller's cage was checked after bank officials received a phone call that Siemer had overslept and would be late. The call came from a woman who identified herself as a member of the family.

The bank reported that all paper money had been taken from the cage. It figured the missing money amounted to a little more than $82,000—all in small bills.

Bank officials immediately notified the U. S. attorney's office in Brooklyn, which has jurisdiction over Staten Island, then hurried to Siemer's modest apartment.

They found the family gone. Neighbors told police they had last seen Siemer's wife, Henrietta, as she left the apartment yesterday morning carrying a suitcase and her 1-year-old baby, Claire.

They said she told a neighbor's child she was going to meet her husband, and the two other children, John 4, and Mark 2. The neighbors understood she was going to Greenwood Lake on the New York - New Jersey border about 50 miles away.
