Rancher Seeks Grand Jury in Grants County

SILVER CITY — A grand jury is to be called here by Dist. Judge W. Marshall either on his own motion or as a result of petitions submitted by local residents.

Rancher Alford Roos, who charges malfeasance in office, has filed one petition and two others are reported in Marshall's hands.

Marshall has said he is considering calling a jury on his own whether or not the petitions meet the requirements.

Roos, on whose land part of the controversial movie "Salt of the Earth" was filmed, said yesterday he is naming two officials he said were involved in "Star Chamber proceedings" and in appropriating his tape recordings.

Roos had earlier charged Joe Morales with making a threatening phone call in a Justice of the Peace court trial. Morales was acquitted, but Roos charges it was before "a hand-picked jury of my enemies."

He said officials refused to allow him to present as evidence a recording he said he made of the phone call. He said they also took the recordings and threatened him with an indictment for wire tapping.

The exact content of the other petitions was not immediately known. Roos said one concerned Grand County Assessor Julian McChary, who pleaded innocent last month to a charge of indecent exposure.

The petitions ask that a prosecutor be named to replace Dist. Atty. Thomas Foy in the grand jury. Such a request normally is interpreted to mean that some accusation is considered by petitioners against actions of the district attorney's office.

Judge Marshall said yesterday he will ask the attorney general to conduct the investigation if he decides to call one.

Foy said the petition is "with the approval of my office. We were going to call one anyway. We heard rumors a long time that the petitions were being circulated."

The petitions have been turned over to the county clerk. He is to make certain they include 75 names of taxpayers qualified for jury duty. If they do, the call of the jury is mandatory.

Coaches Reese Smith, Jack Barron, Verlon Davis, Walt Bynum, Bud Wilborn, and Francis Robinson, will review their past-week's games and also the coming tiffs.

Another feature of the program will be the showing of a film of the highlights of the Southwest Conference in 1949.

Drive for Hospital Resuscitator Is Highly Successful

Artesia Eastern Star reported today it has gone over the top in its campaign for funds for a resuscitator at Artesia General hospital.

Worthy Patron Leo Hicks said this morning enough money for the resuscitator "and possibly other equipment" had been secured in a whirlwind, three-day campaign by the Star.

Officers and a committee from the organization will meet with doctors Thursday afternoon to decide the type of resuscitator to be purchased. If funds remain following its purchase, other equipment useful in combating polio will be bought.

Final figures for the campaign have not yet been prepared.

Ticket Sale Hours Announced On Grid Contests

Due to the rush of school activities Bulldog reserved seat tickets will be sold only between 4 and 6 p. m., for the Clovis game this week. R. M. Parham, assistant principal, has announced.

There are still "a few reserved seats" available, Parham said. General admission tickets will not go on sale until 6 p. m. Friday at the Morris Field ticket windows. Parham said a sell-out crowd, possibly 5000, is expected.

Senior Senator Supports Entire Nominee Slate

Dennis Chavez, New Mexico's senior senator, says he will support—with every effort he can make—the entire Democratic ticket, including John Simms, nominee for governor.

In his first major campaign address, Chavez declared "labor will get a break from John Simms" and said "it doesn't stand to reason" that Simms opponent, Republican Alvin Stockton "could ever be sympathetic to labor."

The senior senator, often described as a dissident leader in Democratic party affairs, apparently laid to rest in strong terms reports he and his followers would be something less than active in supporting Simms and the rest of the ticket.

He spoke up as the first major affair in a continuous barrage of big-name speakers plugging for the Democrats. Others on the program include Sen. Albert Gore D-Tenn., who speaks in Albuquerque Wednesday night, and Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential banner carrier against Eisenhower, who is scheduled for Oct. 15.

Chavez' plug for Simms was several-barreled. He refuted contentions Chavez (Continued on Page Four)

Mayor Proclaims 'Beat Wildcats' Week in Artesia

Artesia's Mayor W. H. "Bill" Yeager has officially proclaimed this week, "Beat the Clovis Wildcats Week."

Assuming a Napoleon-like pose, Mayor Yeager declared: "Whereas, this week's game could be the deciding point in the championship hopes of the 1954 Bulldogs;

"Whereas, the Clovis Wildcats appear to be the biggest opponent in the 1954 race;

"Whereas, the Clovis team has knocked off Carlsbad, one of the original contenders to the crown;

"Whereas, the Bulldogs have gone into secret session to prepare for this game;

"Now, therefore, I, W. H. Yeager, Mayor of the City of Artesia, do hereby proclaim this week, Beat the Wildcats Week, and advise all loyal citizens of Artesia to govern themselves accordingly."

State Grasshopper Invasion Poises Little Threat

LAS CRUCES, (AP)—An expert on pests says almost a million acres of New Mexico crop and range-land are invested with grasshoppers.

But there aren't as many as there were last year. R. C. Dobson, extension entomologist at New Mexico A&M, reports the pests now infest 17 counties—but said they are the non-migratory or semi-migratory variety.

He said that means "we will not be faced with waves of hoppers moving across the country as they did in 1938."

Testimony Opens For Oilworker Charged in Rape

LAMESA, (AP)—Testimony was to begin today in the trial of William H. Hughes, charged with the rape July 14 of a 5½-month-old girl.

The jury was completed only after Dist. Judge Louis B. Reed held court open until late last night.

Hughes, indicted Aug. 27 in Gaines county, has pleaded innocent to the charges. The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis who live in Texas across the border from Hobbs, N. M.

Childers Charges Fernandez With Distorting Speech

Republicans quarreled with their opposition on two new fronts today, indicative of the down-to-the-wire aspects of the campaign with the election less than a month away.

A GOP candidate for Congress accused one of his opponents of "making a vicious attack on me through distortion" and the GOP candidate for governor said word is being passed by Democratic leaders they will scuttle a state agency.

And there was an assertion that Democrats have turned their eyes away from the threat of Communism in government.

Alvin Stockton of Raton, candidate for governor, said "statements have been made quietly to certain people that once the machine returns to power" the Democrats will abolish the public utility section of the comptroller's office.

A refutation from a spokesman for John Simms, Stockton's opponent, was prompt.

Groundwork Laid For City's Second Christmas Parade

Meeting yesterday at noon, representatives of Artesia churches and sponsoring C of C officials laid a groundwork for the annual Christmas Pageant Parade set for Dec. 23.

Though all churches weren't represented at the meeting, those not present have indicated their desire to take part in the parade, a special feature in the yule-tide festivities in this city.

Forms have been sent out to the churches so that they could indicate their favorite position in the parade. There will be 14 floats in the pageant. Two of them have already been spoken for by two city churches.

The floats to be presented are: a choir singing the well-known Christmas Carol; a father reading the story of Christmas from the Bible to his children; the announcement scene with Mary and the Angel Gabriel; the journey to Bethlehem.

The rejection at the inn; the sleeping shepherds with one keeping watch over the flocks; the Angelic choir; the awakened shepherds; the nativity scene; the journey of the three Kings; the presentation of gifts by the Wise Men; the flight to Egypt; all races portraying the scene of beating their swords into plowshares; and the family gathering at the altar.

The decision was reached after discussion by the 10 Artesians present made it clear that problems in the organization of the project would be innumerable.

The proposed plan would have depended to a great extent on the supervision of present coaches in the Artesia school system and it was pointed out such supervision would tend to interfere with the coaches' current activities.

As a result, the plan was postponed indefinitely. It will probably come up after the present football campaigns are safely tucked away and the coaches can have more time to work on basic organization of the project.

Plans for New First Christian Church Building Are Unveiled

Plans for a new First Christian church, now located at Sixth and Quay, were unveiled Sunday and have been given an approximate cost of $200,000.

Specifications call for a church of contemporary design which will seat 300 to 375 in the sanctuary and from 50 to 60 in the chapel. The building, which will also have a public prayer room, will have a social hall seating about 200 at tables.

The education building will accommodate approximately 300 students. It and the social hall are scheduled to be built first with the rest of the new structure following at a later date.

Start of construction does not have a set date yet and, according to spokesmen, the date will be announced some time in the future.

The new church will be built on the block between Tenth and Eleventh streets on the north side of Bullock just east of the new Junior high school. It will be built on a 2½ acre plot.

Architect for the new church is Kern Smith, Carlsbad.

Community Chest Also to Collect For Non-Members

When Artesians give to the 1954 Community Chest campaign, they may include non-participating agencies as well as member organizations, according to L. W. Brummett, finance chairman.

"Pledges for non-participating groups may also be made on the card," Brummett pointed out.

"If any business or individual wants to make his donations at one time, they may do so through the Community Chest and the monies collected will be turned over to the non-participating groups at the end of the campaign," Brummett said.

Brummett also pointed out that the pledge cards allow the givers to designate how much of their donation is to go to each of the participating organizations. A 20 per cent increase in the overall budget has been approved by the executive committee of the campaign because of the increased needs of the participating agencies.

The participating organizations and the amount to be raised for each include: Girl Scouts, $4,200; United Defense fund, $500; Artesia Local Welfare, $6,486 and the New Mexico Heart Association, $300.

Highway Accident Death Boosts 1954 Death Toll to 270

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A belated report of a highway death today raised the 1954 New Mexico road toll to 270 deaths.

This was a decrease of 34 or 11 per cent from the total at this time in 1953, the worst traffic year in history.

The previously unreported death was that of Billie Jean Matthews, 20, who died Aug. 30 of injuries received in an Aug. 25 accident in which three companions were killed outright.

The accident occurred 18 miles east of Lordsburg on U.S. 70-80. State police said it was investigated by the sheriff's office. The police had no report of the fourth death until the death certificate was received at the capitol.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Logan Dages, both 31, were arrested with Rixlinger as the trio prepared to take off in a private plane Dages bought after the bank robbery. They were preparing to leave Sky Harbor Airport when FBI agents took them in custody last night.

Bryce said the three were identified "through alert employees of the New Washington Park Dog Track in Phoenix." Bryce declined to say whether the bills stolen from the New Mexico bank had been circulated as to serial numbers.

MR. AND MRS. DAGES were charged with receiving, possessing and concealing money taken in (Continued on Page 4)

Continued Rains Bringing Hopes Of Drought-Bust

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Light rains and showers continue to fall over New Mexico in what the weather bureau, cattlemen, farmers and just about everyone else hopes will be a bust-up of the drought.

The rains continued to be scattered but the moisture, where it fell, was not at all unwelcome.

Columbus, in the southwestern corner of the state, received the most, measuring .74 inch overnight.

Other precipitation amounts overnight included .08 at the Albuquerque airport, .03 at Santa Fe, .02 at Glenwood.

The district weather bureau said the outlook is good for more of the same, especially this afternoon and evening and with more showers over the mountain areas where there are no official rain gauges.

Slightly lower temperatures are in the offing with lower temperatures moving into the state. The overnight low was 44 at Gallup while Tucumcari yesterday was high with 94 degrees.

ON THE HOUSE

All of this home-care-and-repair and do-it-yourself business we hear so much about nowadays has a lot of reason back of it. Briefly, we are obliged to take care of our homes because new homes cost so much.

Of course, it's getting to be almost old-fashioned to talk about the high costs of building. We've been talking about that ever since World War II and costs still show no signs of going down. So it's interesting to run across some reasons for this situation.

Taxes are a big item, says an expert, Myron L. Matthews of the Dow Service building reports of New York. He cites an average size house selling with its land for about $17,225 and finds that taxes account for $1,854 of that cost.

"In 1939-41," he says, "the sales price of that house included only about 2 per cent to cover the miscellaneous taxes then current. Today taxes add almost 13 per cent."

And he isn't talking about the taxes you pay after you buy the house. He means taxes on the builders' corporate profits and taxes on salaries and on labor in the production of the materials and the house.

Matthews incidentally divides the cost of that house as follows: 30 per cent for materials, equipment and appliances; 30 per cent for labor on the site, and 31 per cent for land and builder's overhead profit—of which he says the land probably amounts to $2,000.

He had figured other mark-ups since pre-war days, such as $972 on the same house for loss of productivity at mill, mine, quarry, forest and site; and $244 for added benefits to the building trades, but those bring up another story. Death and taxes are enough and we don't aim to be funereal, so we'll settle for the tax argument today.

THERE'S A NEW paint coming on the market this fall. You take the top off the can, tip it upside down and the paint doesn't run out. It's jellied. Still it is supposed to spread with a brush just the same as any liquid paint.

The big idea is that this form of paint will never have to be stirred no matter how long it stands on the shelf. The chemists who developed it say they tested a can that had stood for more than two years and there was no set-ling.

The secret lies in the vehicle of the paint, which in this case is a formula of tikotropic alkyds. The manufacturers of this ingredient don't intend to make paint, but rather to license the use of the vehicle to various paint makers similar to the way ethyl is licensed for gasoline.

In using this paint, you dip the brush in the jelly, bring out a blob of paint and spread it. There's no dripping on the floor nor own your arm when painting overhead.

AND HERE'S ONE for the birds: You can get aerosol "bombs" loaded with a special gelatin compound which is harmless to birds, but so disagreeable to them underfoot that they will not roost on your window sills, shutters, or roof eaves. It's hated by pigeons and starlings. Still it's odorless and harmless to humans. The makers claim it will cling to any metal, hard stone, wood, or other building material without staining. It's propelled out of its can by liquefied freon gas.

The manufacturers of new products mentioned in this column are: (TIKOTROPIC ALKYDS — "Burnok" by the T. F. Washburn Co., Chicago, Ill.) (BIRD REPELLENT — "Roost No-More" by the National Bird Control Laboratories, 5315 Touhy Ave., Skokie, Ill.)

Bulldogs Pile Up 1,548 Yards in Four Games Against 749 Yards for Combined Opponents

With four games under their belts, Artesia's Bulldogs have amassed a total of 1,548 yards on the offensive while holding opposing teams to 749 yards on offense.

This week, preparing to meet Clovis, their toughest opponent to date, the Bulldogs can count on 1,215 markers gained on the gridiron itself and 333 yards piled up via the air lanes. That passing total was all tallied on 14 completions, pointing a finger at the improving pass offense of the Artesians.

Opponents have a total to date of 475 yards gained on the ground and 274 yards chucked up in the air. The defense-minded Bulldogs have allowed only 17 passes to be completed against them in four games.

That total yardage mark for the locals hasn't gone for naught. The charges of Coaches Reese Smith and Jack Barron have totaled 111 points while putting the halter on opponents scoring with a maximum of 32 points.

First-down-wise, the 1954 Bulldogs have a count of 49 as compared to the 35 gained by grid opponents. The 49 is broken down into 10 passing, 37 on the ground, and two via penalties. Opponents have 10 through the air, 24 by rushing, and one due to penalties.

Rams Charged With Playing 'Dirty Ball'

SAN FRANCISCO — Tony Morabito, owner of the San Francisco 49ers, accuses Los Angeles professional Rams of "dirty football" and warns:

"If that's the kind of football they want, that's what they'll get." Morabito spoke out following Sunday's dramatic 24-24 tie between the two clubs in Los Angeles—and with three key 49ers injured, two so severely they may be out for the season.

Ram Coach Hampton Pool vigorously denied Morabito's charges.

Morabito's charge came only a week after Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, rapped the Rams for unsportsmanlike behavior for using an old-fashioned sleeper pass play to start their 48-0 rout of the Baltimore Colts in Baltimore Sept. 26.

Bell said any similar incident would bring an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty.

Pool denied sleeper Skeet Quinlan was illegally hidden out at Baltimore.

Of Morabito's charge, he told the Southern California Football Writers' Assn. yesterday:

"I didn't see anything bordering on dirty football. I think Morabito's statement was due to his strong disappointment over the tie. Otherwise he wouldn't have made it."

Pool said he talked to Coach Buck Shaw and his assistants after the game "and they made no mention that they thought the game was dirty."

Morabito and 49er Captain Bruno Banducci took a much different view, however.

"I never saw a dirtier bunch of guys in my life," said Banducci. "The next time we play them, we'll eat nails before the game, not to get rough, but to get dirtier."

The two teams meet in San Francisco Nov. 7.

Bulldogs Enter Closed Practice Sessions Monday

Artesia's Bulldogs, preparing for what could be the battle of the year in New Mexico, according to observers, went into closed practice sessions Monday for the first time this season, and will keep the curtains up all week.

The Artesians will play Clovis Friday night and Coach Reese Smith said last night that all practice sessions this week will be absolutely private sessions. "So," he warned, "don't be surprised if our manager walks up and taps your shoulder."

Antonelli Posts Lowest Major Earned Run Average

NEW YORK — Southpaw Johnny Antonelli posted the lowest earned run average among major league pitchers while producing 21 victories and six shutouts for the New York Giants during the regular 1954 season.

Antonelli, who had his talented left hand in two of the Giants' World Series triumphs over Cleveland, permitted 66 earned runs in 250 innings for a sparkling 2.29 earned run mark, statistics compiled by The Associated Press disclosed today.

Mike Garcia of the Indians, a 19-game winner, captured the American league title with a 2.64 average, barely edging Chicago's Sandy Consuegra, who finished with 2.67.

Garcia gave up 76 earned runs in 259 innings and Consuegra, with a 16-3 won-lost record, allowed 46 in 155.

A pitcher must work at least 154 innings to be considered for the crown.

Lew Burdette of Milwaukee wound up a poor second to Antonelli in the National league, giving up 74 earned runs in 237 frames for a 2.81 slate. Lew won 15 games and lost 14.

Ruben Gomez of the Giants, another World Series victor, finished third with 2.84 on 70 earned runs in 222 innings. He had a 17-9 won-lost record.

Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies was fourth with 2.92, followed by Robin Roberts, also of the Phillies with 2.96 and Gene Conley of Milwaukee with 2.97.

Early Wynn of Cleveland ended up in a third-place tie with teammate Bob Lemon in the American league. Each had an average of 2.72. Wynn permitted 82 earned runs in 271 innings and Lemon, 78 in 258.

Steve Gromek of Detroit was fifth with 2.77. Next came Virgil Trucks of Chicago, 2.78, and Whitney Ford of the New York Yankees, 2.82.

Rose Miller Is Favored in Women's Golf

Women entering the Women's city golf tourney qualified Sunday and started regular play Monday. Favorite and medalist is Rose Miller, who shot a 92.

However, observers predict she will be given much trouble by other members of the championship flite. She is paired against Nell Angley; Kay Raines meets Lilo Welch; Edith Harrall plays Claudine Jones; and Erma G. Williams meets Georgia Pate.

First flite pairings match Marian Kinney with Clemmy Marshall, and Lois Clayton, Francis Johnson, and Evelyn Williams all drew byes.

In the second flite, Nora B. Clayton is paired with Bernice Baldwin; and byes were drawn by Juanita Denton, June Birch, and Ann McKinney.

Perez Rises to Lightweights Following Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — From now on it's the lightweights for Lulu Perez, the little fancy Dan boxer from Brooklyn.

The 21-year-old speed demon east aside his No. 5 ranking among the featherweights after defeating Bobby Woods, the babyfaced lightweight from Spokane, at Eastern Parkway arena last night for his second straight victory in the heavier division.

Next on Lulu's agenda is a Nov. 26 meeting in Madison Square Garden with Frankie Ryff, unbeaten and ninth-ranking lightweight contender from Perez's own neighborhood.

Lulu weighed 132 when he outpointed Jerry Drouin in September and he sealed 133½ last night in speeding to his 10-round unanimous decision over the 132-pounder Woods, who was making his Eastern and television network debuts.

"I feel much better and stronger as a lightweight," said Perez after his fast-paced scrap with the frail-looking but aggressive Westerner.

TOY LIBRARY

OMAHA — Children's Memorial Hospital has a toy library for its young patients. When the collection of toys donated to the hospital outgrew the cupboards where it was kept, a specially equipped room was set aside. Volunteer women distribute them. Biggest rush at the toy library comes at 2 p. m., when visiting parents leave and the job of diverting mesick youngsters starts.

State Game Commission Sets Special Seasons on Deer

SANTA FE — The state game and fish commission has set some special deer seasons, a two-day pheasant season and the quail season.

Except for national parks and federal game preserves, statewide pheasant hunting will be permitted Nov. 27-28 between a half hour before sunrise and half an hour after sunset. The limit is two cocks a season.

The quail season runs from Nov. 27 to Dec. 12 during the same areas as the pheasant season. Exceptions are Lea, Chaves, Lincoln and Otero counties, where hours remain the same but dates are Nov. 27-Dec. 5. There is no season in Eddy county.

The bag limit in the big area is eight birds a day, 16 in possession; in Lea, Chaves, Lincoln and Otero the bag and possession limit is eight.

A regulation has been passed specifying the annual limits as one deer, regardless of special season or sex, one bear and one turkey.

The commission reported misunderstanding by some hunters who thought special season deer limits were in addition to the regular season. A special deer season has been approved for two Catron county areas, the Owen McCarty ranch area near Reserve and the Melvin Swapp ranch area near Luna.

Hunting is permitted Saturdays and Sundays only from Oct. 23 till Dec. 26; the deer of either sex, except during the regular season dates, Nov. 6-21, the limit is one antlered buck with at least one forked antler, and hunting shall be permitted daily.

The special dates are open to any licensed hunters. Prospects should check into Reserve for the McCarty area and into Luna for the Swapp area.

A special post-season was set up for the Heck, Chase and Sutcliff ranches in Colfax county near Cimarron, Dec. 4-7 inclusive, sunrise to sunset, one deer of either sex.

Two-hundred licenses will be validated for the Heck ranch and the other two will validate 30 each. Validation will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Any licensed hunter who has not already killed a deer this year may apply.

Oklahoma Climbs Back Into First Place in Grid Ballot

NEW YORK — Without so much as an offensive huddle last week-end, Oklahoma's Sooners climbed back into the No. 1 spot today in the Associated Press college football poll.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters, still trying to hit a winning combination in picking the nation's top 10 teams, brought the Sooners up front again from the runner-up spot after Oklahoma placed its 2-0 record out of reach with an open date Saturday.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's crew, ranked No. 1 in the opening poll, slipped to second last week after Notre Dame's impressive opening victory against Texas. But with Notre Dame knocked off by Purdue 27-14, the ballots again favored the Sooners, who collected 77 of the 153 first-place votes and total of 1,369 points—10 for first, 9 for second, etc.

The Irish were shuffled down to eighth while Purdue made its debut in the top 10 at No. 5.

Not so fortunate as Notre Dame following a losing week-end was Maryland, last year's national champ and sixth a week ago. The Terps, beaten by UCLA, fell out of the top 10 while the Uclans moved from fourth to second.

Also missing, despite a 13-0 victory over Syracuse, is Penn State. The Nittany Lions dropped to 12th from 10th.

The complete top 10 lineup behind Oklahoma: 2, UCLA; 3, Wisconsin; 4, Iowa; 5, Purdue; 6, Duke; 7, Mississippi; 8, Notre Dame; 9, Southern California; 10, Ohio State.

U.S. Davis Cup Club Eliminates Mexico—Barely

MEXICO CITY — The U. S. Davis Cup players can start planning for the long trip to Australia now that they have eliminated Mexico. But they'll need to produce a better brand of tennis to get past Sweden and into the challenge round against Australia.

The inter-zone finals will be played at Brisbane Dec. 17-19 with the winner challenging the Aussies for the coveted international trophy Dec. 29-31 at Sydney.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, U. S. singles champion, and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 1953 national titleholder, combined to defeat Mexico 4-1 in the North American Zone finals. But they had some bad moments before wrapping up the expected triumph.

Don't Pass That Bus

STATE LAW PROHIBITS passing a school bus while it is loading or unloading school children.

Many drivers in the state apparently don't know this or they don't care because there are many violations of the law. Bus drivers are supposed to put out their stop sign about 100 feet before they stop the bus. Cars behind the bus are supposed to slow down and come to a halt then when the bus stops to pick up or to let off students.

When we fail to observe this law and when we fail to stop we are not only violating the law and taking a chance of being arrested but we are also taking a chance of endangering the life of some school child.

We are interested in guarding and protecting our children because most of us are parents. But that individual who deliberately drives around or passes a school bus while it is stopped to take on or let off students definitely isn't showing much concern for the lives of these children.

It would be well for all of us to give this a little thought and to just realize the few minutes we may lose observing this stop is a good investment.

connection with the bank robbery.
Bryce said the race track employees "had previously been alerted to the description of the lone bank robber."

The description of the men who staged the Sept. 14 robbery was given by bank employees as 5 foot, eight inches, about 200 pounds, dressed in Army fatigues.

Dages told officers he had bought the plane, which the three were starting to board when arrested, on Sept. 21, just a week after the holdup.

The plane was a Stinson, capable of flying the three to the Mexican border only a few hundred miles south of here.

Bryce said he did not know how much of the loot was recovered, but said he understood some had and was in possession of Phoenix officers.

HE SAID HE wasn't too familiar with Rixinger's background, although he was supposed to have lived in Albuquerque for some time. Albuquerque city police said the man had no police record with them.

Rixinger told the FBI he had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Dages in Phoenix for the past 2½ weeks, or since about the middle of September.

U. S. Atty. Paul Larrazo in Albuquerque asked Phoenix federal authorities to hold Rixinger and the Dages' family in lieu of $125,000 bond.

Charges were filed against the three before U. C. Commissioner Owen Mowrey in Albuquerque.

Mrs. Rixinger, who remained in Albuquerque, was contacted by reporters today, but said she had been told by the FBI not to talk about the case.

THE BANDIT who held up the Five Points bank used a .45 caliber automatic to threaten bank employees.

He told them: "I'm sorry I have to do this. Something led me to it. Thank you for the money."

It took 15 minutes to rob the bank during one hot, September afternoon.

Employees were forced to lie down on the floor while the bandit cleaned out the cages.

The bandit forced the seven employees on duty in the vault with a warning not to emerge for half an hour. He first asked them, considerately, if the vault were vented so they could breathe, thus earning himself the title in the press of "the gentleman bandit."

He made good his escape with a bulky bag of bills ranging in denomination from one to one hundred dollars.

Roadblocks thrown around the area failed to nab him, and police tracked him frankly after the robbery and very little to go on.

Childers—

But he added: "There is no doubt, that if elected, he would consider it in the same light as any other department or division with the executive branch, namely, if it is doing the best possible job for the least possible money it will remain as presently constituted; if it is not you can be sure there will be some changes made."

Stockton said the scuttling was planned "probably to satisfy a few old friends" of what he termed "the old machine." The section involved in the controversy is a new state service, one which all state offices are audited through the comptroller's office rather than each state agency hiring its own auditor.

Stockton said that Simms, if he "honestly favors the old way" should say so publicly and defend it before the voting public.

The other quarrel involved Tom Childers of Santa Fe, candidate for Congress, and Democratic Rep. Antonio Fernandez, one of the two men the GOP hopes to unseat.

Childers accused Fernandez of resorting to the "ancient political tactic of quoting only a portion of a statement, thereby distorting the statement so that it can be made the subject of his attack."

What was involved was a statement by Childers before a recent Albuquerque meeting sponsored by the New Mexico Education Assn. Fernandez said Childers had said much unsaid and said Childers advocated federal aid only after maximum state effort.

"He called my statement cryptic," Childers said, "and implied that it was designed to conceal my opinions on the subject of federal aid to education. This implication is completely erroneous. One of my campaign pledges is that I will state my views on all pertinent issues as clearly and concisely as possible and I will not deviate from this pledge."

Childers said, "I am not lukewarm, I am not disinterested," said Chavez. "I intend to support him with every effort I can make."

He said he also wanted to get the record straight on his relationship with Anderson.

"There has not been," he said, "and there is not now any political differences between us. If there were, I would shove them aside and support Senator Anderson."

"New Mexico would suffer a tremendous loss if the experience, the influence and the seniority represented by Senator Anderson were to be lost to the state."

Football Game Is Postponed By Polio Fatalities

SILVER CITY — A Silver City and Deming high school officials have decided to postpone a game between football teams of those two schools set for Friday.

Coach O. W. McCrary of Western High school in Silver City said this morning that the decision was made due to the high rate of polio deaths in Grant county during the past month.

McCrary said that the game would be played on Tuesday, Oct. 26.

It isn't a question of money. The Yankees paid Joe more than $700,000. The fans now cheer for Dusty Rhodes. Marilyn earns $3,500 a week, and the fans can't see enough of her.

Senior Senator—

backers would not support the candidate for governor. It clearly called for "all my friends" to back Simms.

It also attempted to smooth over reports of dissatisfaction among labor circles with Simms and called for Chavez' labor union backers to actively back Simms.

Chavez also strongly endorsed Clinton P. Anderson, his Senate colleague, and Antonio Fernandez and John J. Dempsey, New Mexico's Democratic representatives in Congress.

The direct declaration for Simms however, carried more political significance than his plugging for the rest of the state ticket.

In the pre-primary convention Chavez solidly backed W. O. Culbertson for the nomination won by Simms. Simms won another apparent victory over Chavez' forces in securing the right to select the state Democratic chairman. There had been resultant talk Chavez was less than enthusiastic in supporting Simms.

"I am not lukewarm, I am not disinterested," said Chavez. "I intend to support him with every effort I can make."

He said he also wanted to get the record straight on his relationship with Anderson.

"There has not been," he said, "and there is not now any political differences between us. If there were, I would shove them aside and support Senator Anderson."

"New Mexico would suffer a tremendous loss if the experience, the influence and the seniority represented by Senator Anderson were to be lost to the state."

Brunette Operates Big New England Construction Firm

By DICK SINNOTT
AP Newsfeatures

BROOKLINE, Mass. — The sign on many building projects throughout Greater Boston reads "N. J. Adelman Construction Co."

Unusual? Not particularly, until you find out the N is for Natalie and the J stands for Joan and together they spell out a cute 24-year-old brunette who runs a construction company with contracts totaling hundreds of dollars.

Construction work may be unusual for a woman, but it isn't for an Adelman. Natalie is the fifth generation of her family in the building business.

Natalie's dad is chief engineer of a construction company; her grandfather is a retired contractor, an grandfather, and great great grandfathers were carpenters in Europe.

Natalie recalls no other ambition than the building business.

"Sure I played with dolls as a youngster — but that's because I was too young to read blueprints," she smiles. "But I always wanted to own a construction company, and now it's a happy fascinating reality."

She has definite ideas about women in business.

"Why should construction be exclusively a man's field? There are many fine women architects, designers and decorators, so why not women contractors? After all, the big money is at the top."

To prepare for her job, Natalie earned degree of bachelor of science in building engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and spent two years working as an expeditor for one of Boston's largest road and building contractors.

Then she studied two years at Harvard Law School, and finally in June 1953, at the advanced age of 23 she hung out her sign. Since then she's successfully finished a score of contracts employing hundreds of men.

Although classified as a small building contractor, Natalie's list of completed contracts runs from highways to commercial structures and as she gains experience she is bidder on larger work.

Her profits, she says, have been handsome. She owns a new car, sports a beautiful wardrobe and her bank balance is healthy.

"But it isn't all gravy," she quickly adds. "Some days I put in 18 hours and every ache and pain that goes into a job generates inside me."

"Yet the heartaches and headaches seem like ripples, little ripples, when the building is up, the contract is paid, and I start figuring on new work."

What of the future?
"This is my future," Natalie says. "I love my work and I always want to be a builder."

Marriage and children — later perhaps—but for the present N. J. refers being a home builder to a home maker.

Canada Launches New Interest in Tennis Program

AP Newsfeatures

TORONTO — Canada is definitely sorts conscious.

Its pro football leagues are in full swing with teams playing to packed stadia and being seen in the United States via TV. Big business moguls are trying to get Toronto or Montreal a spot in major league baseball.

Now this country north of the U. S. border is taking a serious interest in tennis. They are teaching young players the game with an eye to a future Davis Cup championship.

Derek Bouquet, once one of England's top professionals, is now coaching the sport here. He feels that the caliber of tennis and its popularity has been increasing steadily.

"I've been in Canada for only three years but each year the caliber of play among the junior players in the Toronto area appears to get better."

Bouquet claims that more and more competition is the recipe.

The fine play by a couple of Canadian Davis Cuppers in European tournaments this spring and summer has shown it can be done.

Lorne Main of Toronto and Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Quebec, turned in fine performances against many of the world's best net players.

Main, a 24-year-old, won the singles championship at Monte Carlo this summer and teamed with Bedard in doubles to reach the quarter-finals.

Bedard upset Sweden's Sven Davidson, U. S. indoor champion at the Italian championships. He was beaten, however, by Jaroslav Drobny who later won the Wimbledon singles title.

At Wimbledon, Main extended Australian star Mervyn Rose to five sets before losing. Bedard carried another Aussie top-matcher, Lewis Hoad, to four.

Bouquet has a number of younger players ready for big time competition.

Says Bouquet: "I'm going to enter as many of my junior players as possible in the Canadian championships each year. They'll probably be beaten in the first round. But the only way one can learn anything in playing is by playing—and also getting beaten."

"It might ruin their egos a bit but it will build their ability."

YOUR CHILD—Child Feeding At Night Is Poor Habit

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M. D. AP Newsfeature

Young babies eat at intervals the whole clock around. But pretty soon they want an unbroken night's sleep.

Usually by the time a baby is 6 months old he will be sleeping a good 12 hours at night.

Then a night comes when he wakes in the wee small hours. Mother thinks he is hungry, offers him a bottle, he grabs it eagerly and goes back to sleep. Next day he is not quite as hungry as usual and dawdles through his food.

Night time comes. He goes to sleep as usual, but before morning he awakens again and wants milk because he hasn't eaten enough during the day. It doesn't take many nights of this before a firm habit is established. The baby counts on that night bottle to get the amount of food he needs during the 24 hours.

If we are to break him of the habit we must see to it that he gets more food in the daytime so that he will not need the night bottle.

Many a baby who develops this habit is taking so much milk his little stomach is filled up with the fluid and he hasn't room for enough solid foods.

Three bottles of eight ounces each is enough milk for a year-old baby. If your baby takes more than this, try cutting it down and increasing his solids.

However, he may still wake in the night for the extra milk. If you don't give it to him he will probably scream. Screaming is never pleasant, but at 2 a. m. it's terrible. We had better find some way that will avoid a bad session that tires you out, wakes the whole family and much of the neighborhood.

Try gradually reducing the amount you give him in the night. If he is accustomed to an 8 ounce bottle, only put 7 1/2 ounces in for a time. Then in a few nights reduce it to 7 ounces. It will probably take a few weeks to reduce it all the way to nothing. It's easier on everyone, however, to do it the slow way.

Some youngsters object when the bottle is not full. If your baby feels cheated if he doesn't get his quota, fool him. Put 7 ounces of milk in the bottle and 1 ounce of water. He will probably not notice the difference in the taste. The cant. Said protest and proof of service must be filed with the State Engineer within ten (10) days after the date of the last publication of this notice. Unless protested, the application will be taken up for consideration by the State Engineer on that date, being on or about the 16th day of October, 1954.

Fair Winners Skip Blue, Red, Get Down to Long Green

ALBUQUERQUE, (AP) — New Mexico farm youngsters, having had a few days to toy with the red, white, and blue ribbons won on their stock, today get a little of the long green for their championship entries in the New Mexico State Fair.

Most of the money taken in at the junior livestock sale today is due to end up in the East Side, where the New Mexico winners have been predominating. East Side entries in the big Holstein show yesterday saved the day for the state as the remainder of the final day's livestock ribbons went to out of state animals.

Four Elida sisters—Bonnie Peterson, 13, Peggy, 16, Janet, 19, and Katie Ann, 11—swept the first four places in the junior dairy showmanship contests. The home of G. E. Peterson at Elida will have some ribbons to hang over the mantle since the girls won a blue ribbon each in the Jersey junior contest with their entry, Bonnie's Revere Lou Betty, named champion female.

Frances Barley of Hope showed his Perfection Lashbrook Gretches ship. Holstein grand champion bull was Rich-Herd Madcap Prince owned by the Lillywhite Ranch of Aztec.

Barley also showed the junior champion female, Bette Carnation Perfection. Junior bull honors in the Holstein class went to the Valley Gold dairies of Albuquerque.

Attendance declined a mite as the fair went into its final round with approximately 30,000 passing through the turnstiles. Parimutuel windows did a big business, however, hauling $234,203.

Only a few horse judging events remained today to wind up livestock judging.

Showdown, a three-year-old chestnut sorrel stallion bred on the King Ranch and owned by O. G. Hill, Hereford, Tex., was named grand champion quarterhorse stallion. Spanish Nick, palomino winner owned by Hank Weiscaamp, Alamosa, Colo., was reserve champion. A Colorado bull, Shadow Isle Prince 31st owned by Haystack Angus Ranch of Longmont, was named grand champion Angus bull. Janette Model 52, Antelope Springs Ranch, Nunn, Colo., was the grand champion Angus female.

NEWS for FARMERS for RANCHERS

Cotton Diseases, Alfalfa Pest Findings Farm Day Highlights

Plans are complete for annual Farm Day at New Mexico A&M college, Oct. 12, Albert S. Curry, associate director of A&M's experiment station, announced today.

The Farm Day program will spotlight research on soils and crops, and new farming methods being carried on by A&M's agricultural experiment station and the agricultural research service.

The noonday program will feature two guest speakers. George Hall, district manager of the Western Cotton Oil Co., El Paso, will talk on the subject "Is Cotton Still King?" Hall has been with Western Cotton Oil Co. for about 30 years, and has charge of all Western Cotton Oil gins, oil mills, and the crop and finance department for the area from Pecos, Texas, to Wilcox, Ariz.

Dr. John R. Eyer, entomologist with A&M's experiment station, will tell Farm Day visitors what is known about yellow clover aphid. This is the aphid which caused millions of dollars worth of damage to the alfalfa crops in New Mexico, Arizona, California, Colorado, and Nevada this year.

The new alfalfa pest appeared in damaging numbers in New Mexico in the spring and summer of 1954. The aphid invaded both alfalfa grown for hay and for seed, reducing both yield and quality. Control with insecticides was not entirely satisfactory because of difficulty in penetrating heavy stands with spray or dust.

Dr. R. A. Nichols, dean of the school of agriculture and home economics, and director of the experiment station, will deliver the welcome address following the noonday barbecue.

During the morning tour of experimental plots at the college's agronomy farm, visitors will see and hear about research on Pima S1, varieties of upland cotton, control of verticillium wilt, chemical control of annual grasses, new alfalfa varieties, new plants that may have possibilities as cultivated crops, breeding upland cotton for New Mexico, soil and plant fertilizers, improved varieties of chili and tomatoes, and control of curly top or tomatoes.

Researchers will be on hand at each of the plots to explain the experimental work.

The afternoon program will feature a demonstration on seedbed preparation, and an exhibit of related equipment by local implement dealers.

The Farm Day program will be held at the college's agronomy farm, 1 1/4 miles west of Mesilla Park, beginning at 8 a. m.

New Sub-Office Cotton Classing Stations Opened

Establishment of three new sub-offices to provide free cotton classing and market news services for producers under the Smith-Doxey Act was announced today by the U. S. department of agriculture.

They are located in Hattiesburg and Prentiss, Miss., under the existing cotton classing office at Jackson, Miss., and at Pecos, Tex., under the existing classing office at Carlsbad.

The conference report recommended that the department establish sub-offices on a seasonal basis in the Cotton Belt, where, in the opinion of the secretary of agriculture, cotton marketed or handled justifies such sub-offices and local people are willing to provide the costs of necessary office space and physical equipment.

Conservation Actual Costs Cut By Law

County Extension Agent Richard Marek calls attention to a new provision of law which will have the effect of reducing actual costs to farmers of measures taken to solve soil and water conservation problems.

Under a provision in the internal revenue code of 1954, farmers making out income tax returns this year may treat as current expenses, costs they incur for carrying out certain soil and water conservation measures, points out the county agent.

The costs must be incurred in connection with land actually used in farming.

They are described in the law as "expenditures paid or incurred for the treatment or moving of earth, including (but not limited to) leveling, grading and terracing, contour furrowing, the construction, control and protection of diversion channels, drainage ditches, earthen dams, water courses, outlets, and ponds, the eradication of brush, and the planting of wind-breaks.

Not included as deductible expenditures are "the purchase, construction, installation, or improvement of structures, appliances, or facilities which are . . . subject to the allowance for depreciation."

On the other hand, explains the county agent, assessments by a soil or water conservation or drainage district to accomplish measures which would be treated as current expenses if performed by the taxpayer himself may be listed as a current expense.

If on one year can more than 25 per cent of gross income from farming be listed as current expense for conservation costs, if actual expenditures exceed this limit in any one year, the excess may be listed in succeeding years in order of time.

Farmers who are uncertain about which expenditures for conservation can be treated as current expenses can obtain additional information from the Internal Revenue Service or the local county extension office.

Vaporizers Used In Insect Control Not Effective

Insecticide vaporizers may be come health hazards, especially when used in closed rooms, warns County Extension Agent Richard Marek.

Several different types of insecticide vaporizers are on the market. One device is simply a lamp shade impregnated with lindane. When the shade is placed over a light bulb, the heat vaporized the lindane into the air.

Another type of vaporizer utilizes small tablets of lindane, according to the county agent. These are placed on small tablets of lindane, according to the county agent. These are placed on a small electric coil which heats the tablet, vaporizing the lindane.

This type of vaporizer has been sold over the state for use in eating places, food stores, and similar places. They can be effective only in rooms which are kept closed for are not recommended for use in public eating places or other places considerable periods of time. They where fruit and vegetables are sold, the county agent points out.

These vaporizers are not generally effective in homes, as air currents carry most of the vapor out of the building, Marek says.

Calves' Sucking Can Be Stopped

Some calves get the bad habit of sucking the udders of other calves right after milk feeding time, says county agricultural agent Richard Marek.

Such practice can cause serious losses by causing badly formed

Slain Baby Sitter

POLICE of Springfield, Mass., seek a crazed knifer in the slaying of Lynn Ann Smith, 14 (above), and Stephen Goldberg, 4, for whom she was baby sitting. Each victim suffered "about 20" stab wounds in the back. Evidence showed Lynn battled desperately against the slayer. (International)

Annual Ranch Inventory of Forage Asked

Soil conservation Service technicians working with soil conservation districts point out that this is the time of the year for ranchers on New Mexico yearlong ranges to size up their outfalls and attempt to bring their feed and livestock into a proper balance.

With the advent of first frost, the bulk of the forage plants have completed their vegetative growth for the current year and the "feed is in the stack" so to speak. This range feed, together with available supplemental concentrates and roughage must see the rancher through until new growth is available in the spring.

This period then is the time when the livestock operator must carefully appraise his herd "make-up", compare it with available forage and make timely adjustments costs and save time."

He suggests that homemakers can help their husbands fill questionnaires, look up records, and answer census takers' questions if their husbands are absent. Wives' answers to some of the questions usually will be just as accurate as their husbands'.

Sections of the questionnaire probably will be of special interest to some homemakers. The section on facilities and equipment asks whether the place has a telephone, piped running water, electricity, television, and home freezer.

Farm labor and off-farm work sections include questions about labor by members of the family other than the farm operator.

Burgess also points out that home economists, clothing, and household equipment manufacturers, and other individuals and organizations that serve homemakers often obtain information from farm census totals.

Any information released is in the form of totals for counties, states, or larger areas. Facts about individuals and farms are confidential.

Agriculture Census Won't Underrate Power of Women

The bureau of the census will "never underestimate the power of a woman"—especially during the 1954 census of agriculture in October and November.

"Farm homemakers can be a tremendous help in making this a complete and accurate farm census," says Census Director Robert W. Burgess. "They can help cut

O.K.'s Atom Pool

ANDREI T. VISHINSKY, Russia's chief delegate to the United Nations in New York, joins the Steering Committee in a unanimous vote to put President Eisenhower's "atoms for peace" plan on the agenda of the General Assembly. The project also calls for a scientific conference under U.N. sponsorship in 1955 to consider the peaceful uses of nuclear weapons. (International)
