Baseball Realignment to be Key Topic For Annual Artesia Baseball Meeting

By ED BOYKIN
Possibility of realignment of West Texas and New Mexico baseball, spurred by the announcement of a trip to the territory by minor league czar George Trautman, will be a key subject when the annual stockholders meeting of Artesia Baseball Club, Inc., is held tomorrow night.

Both the loops have applied for Class B classifications and can meet specifications which stipulate total population of all towns with clubs of 250,000.

Lanning said, whether the local loop goes B or remains in the Class C status, he would prefer to raise the salary limit here to $4800, which would put the clubs on a healthy basis both fund-wise and quality-wise. Lanning added, the increase would give player healthier living wages also.

Lanning stipulated that all clubs in the league would absolutely have to adhere to the policy to make it worthwhile. He added this would help in drawing younger ball players from major league clubs because those organizations do not send players to outlay

Hometown to See New Show By Joanne Wheatley Tonight

By DAVE RODWELL
When Joanne Wheatley presents her first hometown concert tonight since leaving Fred Waring, her friends and boosters will see an act that's the talk of show business and pop music circles across the country.

JOANNE WHEATLEY

This is the Joanne that handles the blues of "Lover Come Back to Me," the hillbilly-ish "Ricochet," or the hot "Misirlou" with equal mastery.

No longer is Joanne's style set in the rigid format imposed by the Waring show, with she as the singer of Sad Songs. Today she is the Joanne of individual charm and personal magnetism whose versatility has frankly wowed the critics and the general public.

Artesia will see the result when she goes before Senior high auditorium's footlights at 8 tonight. Tickets, incidentally, are still available and will be sold at the door.

Joanne, her musician-arranger husband, Hal Kanner; their two-year-old daughter, Abbe, and nurse; and manager, Stah Greason and his wife, arrived in Artesia early Sunday morning.

After a too-short rest, they swung into yesterday's eight-hour rehearsal with Bill Watson's band of Carlsbad, supplemented by local talent in unfilled spots.

The building will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. today and Tuesday and from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. the rest of the week to enable victims of the water to apply for help in getting back to normal operation.

The Red Cross is in its second phase of disaster relief here in what is termed rehabilitation. Those who need more than immediate food, clothing, shelter or medical care may make application (Continued on page four)

The election came during closing hour of the organization's annual convention in Raton this week-end.

"New Mexico and Utah have a dual interest, on the one hand as states of the upper division and upper basin, and on the other hand as states entitled to a portion of the waters available to the lower basin as a whole.

"An effective division of the waters available en bloc to five states cannot be made in the absence of two of them.

"The United States asserts claims to the waters of the Colorado River system which are independent of, and adverse to, not only the rights of the present parties, but of all of the states of the Colorado River Basin.

"Most prominent of these is a large claim to the use of water made on behalf of Indians. All of the parties to the Colorado River Compact are necessary parties to a determination of whether this Indian claim and other federal claims... are outside of the Colorado River Compact and superior to the rights governed by that compact. (Continued on Page Four)

There were a few isolated thunderstorms over the central and southeast portions. But the only measurable precipitation was at Roswell, and it was only .01 inch.

Roswell also had the highest temperature Sunday with 90 degrees. Lowest overnight reading was 34 degrees at Gallup, on the western border, while Hobbs was warmest overnight with 62 degrees.

Lanning has been notified of a realignment meeting to be held at Hobbs, between Oct. 15 and Oct. 30 by George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues.

Though official date of the meeting hasn't been announced, Trautman chose Hobbs for the meeting of baseball officials from the Longhorn and West Texas-New Mexico leagues. The minor league czar called the meeting himself and will preside.

California Brief on Colorado Water Suit Names New Mexico

By JOHN KAMPS
Washington (AP) — California has submitted a 66-page argument supporting its move to bring four additional states into the Supreme Court suit over the Colorado River.

Administration Reveals 1,743 Fired as Risks

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration today revealed 1,743 its official count of federal workers fired or resigned with subversive data in their files.

The figure was up 1,314 since last March.

The number was reported by the civil service commission as of last June 30 and covered the period since President Eisenhower's new security program went into effect May 28, 1953.

The count has become a hot political issue.

Vice-President Nixon has said repeatedly the administration has removed "Communists, fellow travelers and security risks" from the government payroll.

Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has challenged Nixon to name a single Communist let out under the program.

Mitchell contended Nixon is lumping real subversives with such persons as loose talkers and drunks.

The new tabulation listed the 1,743 "separations" as cases in which the employees' services were "terminated," or who resigned, with their files containing "information indicating, in varying degrees, subversive activities, membership in subversive organizations."

Altogether, the new tabulation showed 2,611 cases of "termination" for information under 8-A. That reference was to the section of the Eisenhower security program covering such matters as sex perversion, felonies and misdemeanors, and all other types of derogatory material, along with information relating to subversion.

Under the same "8-A" heading 4,315 were reported as having resigned before determination of their cases.

A total of 6,929 separations compared with 2,486 reported last March.

The first figures put out in tabular form last March 1 showed only 2,427 off the government payroll under the security program, 383 of them under the subversive section. The table, however, did not include Defense Department figures, which came in a couple weeks later.

The Eisenhower security program substituted for one that had been in effect under the Truman administration. Unlike the previous Truman program, the new one made no distinction between disloyalty to the government and potential danger arising from talkativeness, drunkenness or liability to blackmail.

Governor, Officials Ask For Emergency Aid To Flooded Pecos Valley

Flood Control Meeting Set October 25

A meeting to discuss temporary and permanent Artesia flood control measures has been scheduled for 3 p. m., Monday, Oct. 25, by Mayor W. H. Yeager.

Mayor Yeager set the meeting during an informal conference Saturday afternoon originally called to air feelings over alleged construction of dikes and ditches west of S. Thirteenth street which diverted Eagle Draw flood waters last Thursday and Friday.

Yeager said he felt tempers would have cooled sufficiently to discuss reasonably needed flood control measures by Oct. 25.

At the same time he pointed out a great deal of fact-finding and study, primarily through the city planning commission, is necessary before effective flood control steps can be taken.

Yeager said city, county, soil conservation service, residents, and engineers would be invited to the meeting.

Hugh Kidd, member of the city planning commission present, said the body he represents will begin fact-finding work immediately.

Quarterback Club To Meet Tuesday Night, See Films

Artesia Quarterback club will meet at 7 p. m., Tuesday for its regular meeting.

Pictures of the Artesia-Clovis game will be shown and the coaches will review that contest. Also, a scouting report on the Kermit-Pecos game will be given.

The Bulldogs meet Kermit this Friday.

A special feature of the meeting will be the showing of the 1954 Gator Bowl game between Texas Tech and West Virginia.

The session will be a regular dinner-meeting with plates $1.25 each.

Tickets Placed On Sale Today For Kermit Game

Tickets went on sale today at Artesia Senior high school for the Kermit-Artesia game at Kermit Friday night. The sale will continue through this week.

Principal Calloway Taubee said a good selection of reserved seats, priced at $1.25, is available. A seating chart also is available.

Charges Levelled Against Promoters Of Coffee Prices

WASHINGTON — The federal trade commission today charged the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange has unlawfully restrained international trade in coffee and thereby "promoted substantial increases" in prices.

The complaint named the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, Inc., four of its officers and eight of its members, and also the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Assn., Inc.

The FTC said, in announcing the complaint, that it was a follow-up to the economic study of the coffee market made by FTC last spring.

In its report on this study, the FTC said last July that the sharp increases in coffee prices during 1953 and early 1954 "cannot be explained in terms of the competitive laws of supply and demand."

A complaint issued by the FTC is answerable before the commission itself. In the normal course, a hearing is held and the commission then makes a decision as to whether the charges have been substantiated.

If it decides the charges are true, the commission can order defendant to cease the alleged illegal practices.

Nurses Meet

GALLUP — About 150 nurses from throughout New Mexico today start their annual convention meeting of the New Mexico Nurses Assn. The convention runs through tomorrow.

Controversial Water Well Metering Up for Discussion

SANTA FE, (AP) — The controversial well-metering proposal in the Pecos Valley will be discussed further before any action is taken toward putting it into effect.

State Engineer John Erickson said he will talk the matter over with members of the Pecos Valley Artesian Conservancy District board and water users.

"I don't think they could stop us from going ahead," Erickson commented in reference to strong opposition from North Eddy county farmers. "Maybe the thing to do is to go ahead and test the law in court, I don't know."

John F. Russell, attorney for the conservancy district, said last week he feels sure that if Erickson orders meters installed on the irrigation water wells a suit challenging his authority will result.

The conservancy district formally asked Erickson to put meters on the estimated 1,800 water-wells in the district because of complaints that farmers are using more water than they are entitled to.

Erickson said the group opposing the action "have some objections that are valid."

"There is a question whether it is practical to do it that way," he said.

"It can't go on too long the way it is. Everybody will be hurt badly, and they'll all go out of business about the same time."

He said this week's rains certainly will be of benefit to the seriously falling underground water tables but how much has not been determined.

Roundtable Slated For Tuesday Night

A Boy Scout round-table will be held at Junior high school tomorrow night at 7:30 for all scouts, interested parties, unit leaders, neighborhood committees, and representatives from each sponsoring institution.

Vernon Mills, district chairman, will be in charge of the meeting which will feature training programs for Cubbing under George White, and Scouting under George Nichols. Explorer leaders will be Jack Frost and Don Knorr.

Urged to attend the meeting are den mothers, cub masters, scout masters and their assistants, and explorer advisors. Refreshments will be had after the meeting which has been called for organizational purposes.

Chamber's Board To Study Flood

Chamber of Commerce board of directors were to meet today at noon to discuss results of the recent flood in Artesia and the proposed diversion dam to be erected west of the city within the next year.

Chamber Mgr. Paul Scott said, though actual work on the dam won't start for some time, the group will probably start work on property easements in order to have details taken care of when construction can begin.

Supreme Court to Have Last Word on Water Metering

By EVAN MAHANEY
With every farmer in the fertile Pecos Valley trying to decide the fate of this area's water supply and whether the state should put meters on the wells, the ultimate decision will not rest with any farm group in the state, or for that matter, even a person from New Mexico.

When the final word is given, it will come from Washington, D. C., where men in dignified black robes representing the Supreme Court of the United States will hand down a decision affecting every farmer in the whole nation.

And the Pecos Valley's dwindling water supply will play a large part in that ultimate decision.

The actual question to be answered in the strife over water is not whether to put the meters on wells, but just whom the water under the surface actually belongs to.

At the recent meeting of North Eddy county's Farm Bureau farmers made the statement that "we're treading on mighty dangerous ground when we go to tampering with a man's water."

The question boils down to whether the farmer actually owns the water, or the state.

At the recent meeting of North Eddy county's Farm Bureau farmers made the statement that "we're treading on mighty dangerous ground when we go to tampering with a man's water."

The question boils down to whether the farmer actually owns the water, or the state.

As New Mexico law now provides, the state actually controls the water being used to irrigate in the Pecos Valley and throughout New Mexico. But not so with Arizona.

But according to valley farmers. (Continued on Page Four)

Search for 8 Flood Victims Is Continued

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Edwin L. Mechem and Pecos Valley officials today were expected to make their second formal plea for disaster aid for the flood-stricken Pecos River Valley.

At least five persons lost their lives in the floods last week that did between eight and ten million dollars damage to crops and property. Eight persons still are missing in the Hagerman area.

Sheriff's posse and volunteers continued to search for the missing flood victims. But they were hampered by high water in the rivers and some water still left in the fields.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross closed the last of its shelters at Hagerman and today set up rehabilitation centers in the Roswell area to handle the losses and needs of flood victims.

"We will handle relief on a need basis, not a loss basis, however," said Art Jones, disaster director from St. Louis. "This is being taken care of on a grant basis and not on a loan basis. This is from the American people. It will never have to be paid back."

In Santa Fe, Col. John Chapman, state director of civil defense, said two federal civil defense executives have finished their survey of damage in the area and have reported to their Denton, Texas, home office.

Chapman said the second formal requests by Mechem and southwestern New Mexico officials were just minor formalities needed to clear the way for federal aid.

Two types of aid are available, Chapman said. One comes under the Department of Agriculture disaster program which will take care of crop damage—the major portion of the tremendous cost. The second is under the Civil Defense Agency. It will handle property damage.

Mechem called on President Eisenhower for federal aid while flood workers still were fighting rampaging waters. Vice-President Richard Nixon, flying over the area last Saturday, added in a call to the President.

Coaches Face Tough Problems After Bulldogs' Great Win Over Wildcats

Consider the problems of Coach Kermit Smith and his three-man staff after their Bulldogs drubbed Clovis 12-0 in a 2AA conference Friday night.

Artesia now faces rough-and-ready Kermit for their next game, scheduled Friday night at Kermit. The Bulldogs would like to win. But enough to risk injury to players, who came through tough Clovis game in pretty shape? And with always winning Hobbs, Carlsbad and well farther down the line?

And the shape of the Bulldog rule isn't one conducive to Kermit Smith, Jack Barron, Walt Barron, and Verlon Davis of Artesia, either. After Kermit's home game with New Mexico Military Institute, then a week, then the Terrible Trio, what happens to the thinking of the Bulldogs after a victory as Friday's, followed by a game with Kermit, then a week of soft weeks?

Do people are willing to leave Kermit to Smith & Co., especially Friday night's game.

The show was all Artesia, when you look at the score, the statistics, the play-by-play—anything.

Artesia was a strong backfield with a fair line, Clovis with a fair line and a fair backfield, Artesia with a team of heavyweights—and how they run.

The big Clovis machine never got rolling. It never once was in the Artesia 20, while the Bulldogs made it into Wildcat territory on six occasions, scoring on two of them.

While Clovis had mighty Milton Barron, who looked and probably is a good 20 pounds heavier than the 187 pound program gives him credit for, Artesia had big gun Johnny Riddle and the split-T formation of which he is the undisputed master in New Mexico high school football.

And while Artesia could concentrate on stopping Barron, Clovis never knew whether it would be the deceptive Riddle, charging Don Lewis, lightning-like Freddie Sanders, or scotching Leo Barker—or a pass, just to keep the Wildcats honest.

While the two clubs cracked skulls in the first quarter testing each other, Artesia struck in the second quarter, set up by a brilliant stop of Barron as the huge back tried for needed yardage for a first down.

Artesia took over on the Bulldogs' 29. Riddle punched around to the 33, then completed an over-the-line pass to Clyde Bratcher, who was downed on the Bulldogs' 49. Sanders slammed through to the 47, Lewis carried to the 42, then uncorked a sensational run that took his teammates clear down to the 10. Barker went to the 7. On the next play the ball was fumbled up to the 5, where the Bulldogs recovered. Lewis was thrown back to the 6.

Then Riddle snapped up a bouncing fumble and raced around right end to pay dirt. Two tries at the conversion, one by ground, one by kick, failed. The TD was made with 1 minute, 20 seconds left in the half.

Artesia made it 12-0 eight minutes into the third period after Jerry Donogherty blocked a pass attempt by Wayne Wolf, downing it on the Clovis 23. After two no-gain plays, Sanders scrambled to the 20 on a pitchout. From there Riddle uncorked a run around left end to pay dirt.

Clovis made it to pay dirt once on Barron's great 79-yard run, but the TD was called back and a 15-yard-penalty assessed for illegal use of the hands.

Roswell, Hobbs to Hold 2AA Texas Meets Grid Spotlight This Week

By ROBERT GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With a brand new District 2AA race shaping up, Roswell and Hobbs grab the football spotlight in New Mexico's high school AA conference this week.

The unbeaten Coyotes and winless Eagles open their district schedules in Roswell—and the game may be tougher than the records would indicate.

The defending state champion Coyotes haven't lost—but they've had to rely on the breaks in getting most of their victories. Hobbs, on the other hand, has taken five defeats, but they've been playing top opposition from Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Dugan's parents had moved to Midland, Tex., and the Clovis school did not appeal to the NMHSA executive committee as required.

Clovis school superintendent Travis Stovall, in announcing the school would go along with the ruling, said "there is a moral side to the case" and that Dugan "has a strong point in his favor and his parents feel that he should be given consideration."

With Clovis, once making noises like a potential state champ, eliminated from the running, both Roswell and Hobbs need the game to get off to a good start in the district.

Clovis had to forfeit its victory to Carlsbad because of a ruling by the New Mexico High School Activities Assn. Then they lost to Artesia. The Wildcats will take the week off to lick their wounds.

Artesia and Carlsbad, now tied for the lead in the district, each has a rough Texas school to contend with this week. Artesia, going after victory No. 6 in a spotless season, has Kermit, while Carlsbad takes on Pecos.

Big city Albuquerque dominates the IAA district play this week with a pair of league battles scheduled to be played in the Duke City.

Peace-setting Highland plays cross-town Valley High. Albuquerque follows up the next night in another intracity battle with up-and-coming St. Mary's.

Santa Fe, buried deep in the standings after a heart-breaking 7-6 loss to Albuquerque last week hopes to improve that standing against lowly Las Cruces this week.

The only other game involving a team in the big school conference pits Farmington against Cortez, Colo.

Arizona, Red Raiders Hold Border Title

PHOENIX (AP)—Texas Tech's Red Raiders may owe a vote of thanks to the University of Colorado if they win a second straight Border conference football championship.

As it looks now, the conference race will be settled Nov. 6 when the University of Arizona and the Raiders clash in Tucson. Tech needs only to win that one and get past Hardin-Simmons three weeks later to finish with a perfect league slate.

The Raiders pummeled Texas Western 55-28 Saturday for their second conference victory in as many outings and third victory of the season.

But Arizona's Wildcats were chased up a tree by Colorado Saturday, 40-18, for their first setback in three games. The extent of the damage may become evident next Saturday when the Cats entertain Idaho at Tucson.

Tech's victory was the only one registered by a Border club Saturday. Arizona State at Tempe lost 19-12 to San Jose, North Texas State trimmed Hardin-Simmons 20-7 at Denton, Texas and New Mexico A&M lost 34-7 to Howard Payne.

Tech will make a bid to redeem its conference prestige at Loui State this week. Tempe visits Midwestern, Hardin-Simmons goes to Cincinnati and Texas Western is host to Trinity.

Last place in the conference race probably will be settled at Canyon, Texas where the Aggies meet West Texas State. The loser of this game usually wins the cellar. Both clubs are winless so far this year.

Powerful Detroit Upsets Big Rams In National Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If anybody plans to knock off the Detroit Lions for the National Football league championship this season, they've got their work cut out for them. The Lions aren't going to be easy to budge.

A case in point is what happened in the Los Angeles Rams yesterday at Detroit. In past years the Lions just rolled over and played dead for the Rams, winning only 4 of 17 meetings since 1946.

Yesterday the best the Rams, admittedly still shaken by the bruising tie with San Francisco's 49ers the previous weekend, could do was a field goal as Detroit rolled to a 21-3 triumph.

The only other unbeaten team in the Western Division had a tough time staying that way yesterday. The 49ers found themselves seven points down in the final period at Green Bay, but with the help of Y. A. Little, who came off the bench with his broken hand, caught fire for a 23-17 victory.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Bears defeated Baltimore 28-9, Cleveland beat the Chicago Cardinals 31-7 and New York ran wild against Washington 51-21. Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 24-22 Saturday night.

Only Unexpected Disaster Can Hold OU From Mythical Title

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Unless an unexpected disaster overcomes Oklahoma, the Sooners should win the mythical national college football championship this year.

With only three weeks of the season gone, time probably has run out on Notre Dame. The one defeat the Irish suffered at the hands of Purdue probably will deprive young Terry Brennan of a title in his first year as a head coach.

Oklahoma already is over the big stumbling block of its schedule, and, although Bud Wilkinson's lads still have seven games to go, none of the remaining teams figures to be in the class of Texas, which fell before the Sooners 14-7 last Saturday.

Oklahoma still has Kansas, Kansas State, Colorado, Iowa State, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma A&M on its schedule. Some of these certainly are not pushovers, and that greater qualifier, the one-planet system, could work against any club.

Nevada Democrats Battle Appointee

RENO, Nev., (AP)—Nevada Democrats carried to the State Supreme Court today their battle for an election in November to fill the two-year balance of the late Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran's term.

The high court arranged to hear an appeal on an injunction won yesterday by the GOP against putting senatorial candidates on the November ballot. The court indicated it would rule swiftly.

With the Republican majority in the Senate only three seats, the legal maneuvering has taken on added drama and injected fuel into an otherwise lusterless Nevada election campaign.

At stake is whether Republican Gov. Charles Russell's appointee to the Senate, Reno Republican Atty. Ernest Brown—an Eisenhower supporter—will fill out the term or whether an election will be held next month to decide the successor.

Lester Summerfield, former GOP national committeeman from Nevada, won the preliminary round of the great legal hassle yesterday when Dist. Judge A. J. Maestretti granted a permanent injunction.

Only last week, the State Supreme Court rebuffed Summerfield's attempt to obtain a permanent injunction and sent him back to the lower courts first.

But if the Sooners can lick an outfit like Texas without the aid of Gene Calame, they ought to be able to take anyone else with him. He probably will be back against Kansas.

Jim Harris took over for Calame and the sophomore substitute made his gloomy coaches eyes light up. Harris' passing was a revelation and he'll be heard from in the future.

The rest of the Notre Dame schedule is loaded with booby traps and the only hope the Irish have of coming out on top as the experts predicted in the preseason Associated Press poll is to sail through their opposition and for the Sooners to be upended at least once.

You can make a quick sauce for plain cake or cottage pudding by heating a cup of apricot preserves with a little lemon rind and lemon juice. Top the dessert with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream. This amount of sauce will make enough for four servings of cake or pudding. The sauce may also be used over baked custard.

Breaded pork chops are delicious but you must make sure they are well done. To test, cut a small slit near the bone; if no trace of pink can be seen on the meat it is ready to serve.

Four-Pronged Artesia Attack Too Much for 'Cats

By ED BOYKIN

At this time, the Bulldogs' win over Clovis has been replayed so many times it's worn out but we can't help wanting to put out the bits worth into the pot.

As it appeared from this corner, the four-pronged attack put on by the Artesians was simply too much for the Wildcats. Coaches Smith and Barron didn't play anything in particular, just more of the same, for the Clovis game.

With the terrific split-T attack the Bulldogs can show, nothing else needs to be added. Field general Johnny Riddle stuck strictly to his set offense: half-back dives, off-tackle slants, and that all-powerful option play.

Once again we affirm our faith in that old split-T. With the quick diving halfbacks the Bulldogs are loaded with and that pile-driving fullback, Johnny Riddle can direct many college teams jealous.

Freddie Sanders and Leo Barker can hit as quick as any half-back we've ever seen and can then wheel around in the secondary when they get there. Both the backs are steady on the defensive side of the ledger too, making many saves of possible TDs.

Don Lewis is an undetermined quantity. No one ever knows what's going to do or when. One thing is certain about the fullback though: most of the time it takes half the opposing team to pull him in a complete stop. Witness that on he reeled off Friday night during which at least everyone on the Clovis team got a whack at him twice.

They finally had to do everything but throw a rope on the boss" to get him down.

And speaking of "bosses," for our money the entire Bulldog line deserves that title. Striking out on the offensive to spring loose the backs and then rising up on

Bargain Offer to End

THE SPECIAL BARGAIN price of $5 per year for your hometown newspaper, The Artesia Advocate, delivered to your door five afternoons will come to an end Friday, Oct. 15.

This special offer was made for 30 days. It is good for delivery of your Advocate either by mail or carrier boy.

This is the first time that such an offer has been made since The Artesia Advocate became a five-afternoon daily newspaper but it will continue to be offered each year from Sept. 15 through Oct. 15.

Those who renew their subscriptions at this time or who subscribe at this time can again renew their paper at the special saving again next year.

The Advocate is happy to pass on this saving to its readers and to its subscribers.

All that is being done to make this saving possible is passing on a saving to the subscriber since there is no expense involved in conducting a circulation campaign or in awarding prizes for renewals or for new subscriptions.

Normally if a subscription campaign is conducted not only is it necessary to have to pay a percentage to the firm conducting the campaign but it is also necessary that prizes be awarded to those soliciting the subscribers.

Instead of spending the money in this way every subscriber or reader subscribing has had a prize—the saving on the price of the paper for a full year. This saving has been passed onto them instead of being paid for campaign expense and prizes.

The Advocate is grateful for the fine reception that has been accorded the bargain offer and hopes that all who plan to take advantage of the offer do so before it expires.

The $5 bargain rate for a full year's subscription will be continued through Friday, Oct. 15, but after that date the price will go back to the regular $10 per year rate.

If you haven't taken advantage of the offer do so before the deadline on Friday, Oct. 15.

Coffee Talk

Ed Leaving

This is Ed Boykin's last week with the Artesia Advocate. After a two-week breather he enters the Air Force as Second Lieutenant Ed Boykin through the Air Force ROTC program he entered at New Mexico A&M college.

Ed has won many friends during his 4½ months in Artesia. His sports column, "Artesia Sports Scene" has attracted a wide following among sports fans.

As a reporter on the general news beat he has covered his field thoroughly and has won one of the hardest accolades any newsman can achieve—a reputation for accuracy and fairness.

His work with the Advocate has been his start in journalism; we at the Advocate hope that following his duty for Uncle Sam he will return to newspaper or allied fields to follow up such a good beginning.

Evan Coming

Ed will be succeeded by Evan Mahaney, an all-around reporter formerly with the O'Brien chain.

While Evan's not due to go to work until a week from today, he couldn't resist pitching in when the work piled up on the Advocate staff during last week's flood.

He joined the staff voluntarily to aid in bringing Artesia's most complete word and picture coverage of the flood. His two pictures of Lawrence ranch flood victims in Friday's paper was indicative of his top flight work, representing some of the best photo-journalism seen in Artesia.

Nationwide

One of those pictures taken by Evan, incidentally, was sent across the nation by Associated Press wirephoto, as was another, a scene shot in the Vaswood addition by Dave Rodwell.

The Associated Press had already dispatched a reporter-photographer-engineer team to Roswell when they were first alerted to the Artesia flood by phone early Thursday morning. That team of three worked throughout the flood with Roswell Record staffers to give the best coverage possible of the story.

It was a story which made headlines across the nation, coming on an otherwise dull news day and piquing everyone's curiosity because of the incredibility of flood in the arid, drought-stricken Southwest.

Many Artesians, including Advocate staffers, received calls from across the United States from worried relatives and friends who had seen newspaper stories and television pictures of the flood area, and were concerned over the fate of loved ones here.

Carlsbad Offer

When Floyd "Skipper" Rigdon of the Carlsbad Current-Argus learned news teletypes for all Artesia news media had been knocked out of action from early Thursday morning on, he called with an offer to fill in on important wire news.

Just as he called, teletypes at the Advocate went back into action through a patchwork set-up routed through Pecos, Texas. Ordinary service is received on a circuit from Albuquerque to El Paso to Roswell to Artesia.

At any rate, the Skipper's offer was deeply appreciated for the thoughtful action it was, representing the deepest professional desire to aid colleges and get the news through.

Flies Again

There is some concern that Artesia will again be plagued with the great volume of flies and mosquitoes that hit after the August flood.

Some feel the weather now is too cold for the pests, while on the other hand others say fall isn't far enough along to have made it too uncomfortable for flies and mosquitoes.

At any rate, common sense sanitary precautions are still needed for the protection of area residents, not only from the bother of insects but from every health consideration.

Quick Coffees

Mayor Bill Yeager smoothly handled a potentially explosive intra-community squabble over who diverted Eagle Draw flood waters. . . Veterinarian Dr. D. T. Gabbard still has some kittens at his place on the Hope by pass he'd like to give to folks. . . Many city-employed personnel worked nearly 48-hour stretches during the flood, including police officers and city workmen.

The Advocate's special subscription offer for a year's subscription at $5 expires Friday this week. Good for Artesia trade territory college students, and men and women in the armed forces anywhere. . . State Police were still checking condition of the Pecos river last night. It had gone down.

NEW MEXICO WEATHER Partly cloudy today, tonight and Tuesday. Few widely scattered afternoon or evening showers and thunderstorms. No large temperature changes. High today 70-80 northwest, 80-90 southeast. Low tonight 30s northern mountains, 40s northwest, 50-60 southeast.

Even One-Room Apartments Can Have Gracious Living

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor You can achieve an atmosphere of gracious living even in a one-room apartment, if you plan well and make the most of each inch of space, says Sidney L. Liberman Jr., a young industrial and interior designer who, with his pretty wife, Sally, is accomplishing some minor miracles for New York apartment dwellers.

A bed with upholstered headboard, and an easy chair with matching ottoman are covered in a fabric combining a soft shade of dark and light green.

Floor-to-ceiling book shelves provide storage space, and the desk can be used as a table.

They used big wooden lamps with inexpensive paper shades painted the same color as the lamp bases.

"The trick is to keep it simple," says Sidney. "In a small room you can achieve a feeling of more space by painting the walls light, the ceiling a darker tone. Drapery and upholstered fabrics should be in small, subdued patterns or solid colors, so they don't jump out at you.

"The problem of almost every small apartment is storage space. Book shelves that go from floor to ceiling can provide a pretty good solution, especially if the lower shelves are closed in, like cabinets. A desk can double as a table, when it is covered with a cloth, and its drawers can provide additional storage space.

"Instead of end tables you can have more storage cabinets, with several drawers, to hold records and odds and ends. These take up no more space than the usual end table, but you use all the space." Sidney and Sally recently decorated one New York room, 12 by 16 feet, as a self-contained apartment. This happened to be a room in a large apartment occupied by a bachelor, who liked the one room so much that he does most of his entertaining there. Here's how they decorated it.

The walls are white, the ceiling a deep grape color, with upholstery on a small love seat, a desk chair and an occasional chair repeating the grape color in a lighter tone.

Mrs. Gott Is Granted Divorce By District Court

CARLSBAD — Mrs. Warren G. Gott, a British citizen residing near Artesia, was today granted a divorce in district court by Judge C. Roy Anderson.

Mrs. Gott is the former Louise Chamberlain cousin of the late Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of England, and a niece of William Houston Johnson, retired editor of the Tucson, Ariz. Citizen.

Mrs. Gott of Midstone, England, was a lieutenant in the woman's division of the British Air Corps during World War II. She is the former wife of the late Newton Manning, European manager of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., who died in Detroit in 1947.

She married Mr. Gott upon his graduation from the University of Arizona in May 1950 and moved to Artesia.

At the present time she is residing on her 200-acre Pecos Valley farm five miles southeast of Artesia. Gott is a graduate student at the University of Texas, Austin, Texas, where he is studying psychology.

Mrs. Gott was represented by attorney Don G. McCormick. Gott was not represented.

SINCLAIR GASOLINE

Supreme Court

(Continued from page one.) If the decision given by the Supreme Court declares water belongs to the individual owning the land, only the "big" farmer will be able to continue farming in the Pecos Valley.

Already in Arizona there are farmers working on a volume-marginal basis growing good cash crops, who pull water 300 to 400 feet with large 200 horsepower engines. The small farmer, under present cost of pumping, will be unable to pull water that far.

For if there are no restrictions as to use of water, the "big" farmer can drill his wells deep, equip them with large engines and pull 1,000 gallons or more per minute, while the smaller farmer will only suck air with his 120-foot well and 40-horsepower electric motor.

The arguments pro and con for the water meters are convincing; and those in the government agree that the Supreme Court will find it difficult to hand down a decision which will affect millions of people, helping some and hindering others.

Most farmers are in agreement that there is no happy medium with the water situation, especially in the Southwest where the very livelihood and economy of a six-state area rests solely on the use and supply of water.

The proposal in the Pecos Valley by the Artesian Conservancy district is to place a limit of three acre feet per annum on each well operating on assigned water right-land.

According to board member Willard Bradshaw, the figure was arrived at after New Mexico A&M college released statements following experiments that three acre feet of water is sufficient for growing any crop, including alfalfa.

But the "catch," a sit was referred to, is the statement by the college that three acre feet is sufficient, "under proper conditions."

The figure is relatively little to quibble over, farmers avowing the meters say. The issue is whether to limit the water supply, be it three acre feet or four. According to Bradshaw, there are farmers in the area who use seven acre feet of water per year.

But while those in the Pecos Valley continue their personal arguments over the water crisis, lawyers in Arizona and Washington are preparing cases which will, in the end, tell the final story of whether the state can and will put a limit on wells in the fertile Pecos Valley.

Other members of the commission are Charles K. Johnson, chairman, V. P. Sheldon, J. H. "Bus" Brown and Raymond Lamb. Kiddy and Lamb, also present, indicated they would seek topographic maps and aerial photographs of flood water movements.

The big decision in the Kanner family came a year and a half ago. Joanne would break with the Waring organization, regretfully but necessarily.

Then came the three or four months of rehearsals in which her act as a soloist was created and perfected, an act built around her versatility, personal charm, and talent.

"We kicked around our ideas," says Greeson. "We wanted a different approach to the act, because Joanne is different from any other artist in show business."

Out of that came the long personal tour, from the Copacabana in New York to the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, from Edgewater Beach in Chicago to the Saxony hotel at Miami Beach, from St. Louis' Chase hotel to the Baker in Dallas, the Sands in Las Vegas. . . Greeson's eyes glow when you ask him how it went, what the public thought of this kind of Wheatley.

A look at the engagements ahead was answer enough—next to the Shamrock, then other prominent settings in which Wheatley, Kanner, Greeson & Co. may bring the public this new Joanne.

On her program for tonight are My Song, He's Funny that Way, Dancing in the Dark, Ricochet, Song from Moulin Rouge, Hello Young Lovers, Ro- Ro- Rollin' Along, Because of the Mountain, Lover Come Back to Me, Take Me in Your Arms, Come Rain or Shine, The High and the Mighty, Wild Horses, Hey There, No Two Two People, If You Love Me and Misirlou.

In the orchestra which accompanies Miss Wheatley will be four Artesia musicians—Justin Bradbury and Herbert Beasley of the school music staff, Tony King and Wesley Jones.

Yesterday's rehearsal also revealed Kanner has something more than talent as an arranger—he comes into the act. Just how is one of those things the Artesia Civic Music League wants you to come and see.

Adlai to Rest

(Continued from Page 1) of Nixon's charge in Los Angeles last night that the Democrats have raised to real issues and have no constructive suggestions to offer.

"Mr. Nixon's remarks remind me of a wonderful and classic remark of a woman puror made when she turned to a neighbor and said 'I don't want to listen to the evidence. I like to make up my own mind.'"

The unsuccessful 1952 Democratic presidential candidate was met at the Albuquerque airport by gubernatorial candidate John Simms, Natalie Buck, candidate for secretary of state; Ralph Trigg, aide to Anderson; and Clarence Forsling, prominent Albuquerque Democrat.

Simms and Mrs. Buck had flown in from Santa Rosa to greet Stevenson. Anderson remained at Santa Rosa with his East Side caravan.

The former Illinois governor shook hands with many of the people pressing against the railing at the landing ramp. He flashed a smile and waved his grey homburg for photographers.

He evinced surprise at the number of people at the airport and told them smilingly he was glad to see them there since "they have been having trouble getting people into the halls where I speak."

"I'll come back again if you don't look out, and make a speech next time," he said.

Jewish Building In Cincinnati Sets Pace for Judaism

AP Newsfeature By CHARLES E. FRANKEL

CINCINNATI—It's not the oldest Jewish synagogue in the country but none has exerted more influence on the tone of American Judaism than the red Moorish building which sends its twin minarets reaching for the sky just across from City Hall here.

It is the Isaac M. Wise Temple, often called the "Mother Church" of Reform Judaism.

This year is doubly significant for the members of this famous synagogue. Not only is 1954 the 300th anniversary of the arrival of the first Jew in what is now the United States, it also is the 100th anniversary of the arrival in Cincinnati of Rabbi Isaac M. Wise, who came here from Albany, N. Y. Wise was one of those who wanted to cast off the shackles of the past and build an American Judaism wedded to the tradition of the prophets but integrated with the culture of America.

Reform Judaism was the result. It is the liberal branch of Judaism and is contrasted to Orthodox, the fundamentalist group within the religion.

"Out of the reservoir of this temple all the currents of American Reform Judaism began to flow," said Samuel Wohl, one of the temple's two present rabbis. "This is the historic shrine of Reform Judaism in America. It is here where Reform Judaism received its great interpretation. Here the Hebrew Union College—the first Jewish theological seminary in America—was founded."

Reform has created a type of worship which is esthetically pleasing and understandable," he said. Family worship has been encouraged and the segregation of men from women—the practice in Orthodox synagogues—has been abandoned.

The major contribution of Reform Judaism has been the breaking down of barriers of different faiths in social, economic and political fields," Wohl said.

New Junior High Camera Club Is Newly Organized

Recently organized in Junior high is the Camera club under sponsorship of Wilbur Ahlvers, arts and crafts teacher. The group includes all those interested in learning to take better pictures with the cameras they have. It is not required that students wishing to join have a camera of their own, but it will be of benefit to them if they do. The more advanced students will eventually assist Ahlvers in taking publicity shorts of Junior high activities. These will appear in the local newspapers from time to time, and will be taken with a 2 1/4 x 3 1/4 Graflex press type camera. The money for this camera was donated by the Junior high audio-visual department which is directed by Sank Tunnell. Later in the year every member will learn to develop and print his own films. A temporary darkroom has been set up in the arts and crafts room for this purpose. The meeting dates have been set as the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

DeMolay to Plan Wednesday for Gallup Conclave

Noah Buck Describes Flood As Worst Here in 58 Years

In 58 years of residence in the Artesia area, this last head of water was the worst flood he's ever seen, according to Noah Buck, Cottonwood farmer. Hit by an $18,000 left-hook as a result of the flood, Buck, who came to the area in 1886 as a seven-year-old boy, has been on the same land, a mile north and three-quarters of a mile west of the Cottonwood school house, since arrival in the Pecos valley. Explaining that his damage estimate was made up of $10,000 in crops and about $8,000 in property damage, Buck reminisced on the old days in this end of Eddy county. When his family arrived here there was only one house located around the city area. It belonged to the niece of the famous "Jingle Bob" Chisum. Mrs. Sallie Roberts. At that time residents around the area obtained their mail at Hagerman. The Bucks and a Turckling family, located down south of Artesia, were in the sheep business and Mrs. Robert was in the cattle raising market. Buck declared Artesia began to settle up when artesian water wells were discovered. At that time new-comers to the area started fencing up the range and Buck's father, C. J. Buck, went into farming business.

Valley Presbytery Of Presbyterian Men Slates Meet

Pecos Valley Presbytery Council of Presbyterian Men is sponsoring a special program at the First Presbyterian church in Artesia featuring J. Walter Beyers, vice-president, areas 7, of the National Council of Presbyterian Men. Beyers, of Fort Collins, Colo., will talk to those present for the Sunday, Oct. 17 meeting on "how and why the church needs you." Reservations for the meeting, to be held from 3 to 8 p. m., are necessary at once, and can be obtained by calling the church office 466-W. There will be a fried chicken dinner at 6:30 with each plate $1.98.

Attendance in Schools Highest On Records Here

M. A. Sams, visiting teacher and attendance officer for the Artesia school system, reports attendance for the school system in September was the highest average since he began his work in 1945. Average daily attendance reached an all-time high per cent of 96.65. The report includes Hope, Loco Hills, Atoka, Cottonwood, and all schools in the city. The average number of pupils in daily attendance was 3,379.

John R. Oliver Slated for Return To United States

SAN FRANCISCO — (Special) — John R. Oliver, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan E. Oliver of 1207 Mann avenue, Artesia, N. M., was scheduled to return here Oct. 11 aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Boxer which is completing an eight-month cruise to the Far East. The Boxer and her air units during their tour to the Orient, underwent training exercises with the First and Seventh Fleets in the South China Sea and the Sea of Japan. They visited the ports of Manila, P. I., Yokosuka, Japan, and Hong Kong, China. The Boxer was one of the Navy's most active carriers during the Korean conflict. She completed four combat tours besides one record breaking speed run to the Far East with men and material.

College's Costume Maker's Ability Won in England

By ROBERT L. SHAFER AP Newsfeatures YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio—Says Shylock: "You knew . . . of my daughter's flight." Says Salerio: "I . . . knew the tailor that made the wings she flew with." In the highly successful Shakespeare Festival under the stars at Antioch College here, the tailor who outfits Shylock, Salerio, the daughter and all the other characters, got her costume-making experience making clothing from drapes in wartime England. She was there delivering fighter plans to combat units and doing other flying chores. Mrs. Robert Leveaux has been grounded voluntarily since that 1942 flying experience. Now she's as busy as a whole squadron, rearing a family and keeping a family and keeping some 40 actors outfitted in rich-looking Renaissance costumes. Her previous experience in show business, was a flying show in California in 1940, shortly after she took to the air via a government civilian pilot training course. In the professional air shows she did a solo strip tease performance. She would climb into the plane fully dressed—right down to the spike-heeled shoes and the gloves—take off, and start dropping articles of clothing over the side for the benefit of the audience. The climax was when she landed, descending from the plane still fully clothed. In 1941 she changed her act to that of flying secretary, piloting an official of a firm building airfields and—on the ground only—taking dictation. In the fall of 1941 Mrs. Leveaux—then Roberta Sandoz of Northport, Wash.—went to England, one of 23 American women pilots signed to the Air Transport Auxiliary, the women handled routine flights, relieving men for combat duty. Roberta spent most of her 18 months in ATA flying in Spitfires, delivering new ones to combat units, bringing back planes that needed maintenance. She also did some air chaffering for visiting VIPs. Roberta voluntarily clipped her wings in September 1942 when she married Pete Leveaux of Kensington, London, then a major in the King's Royal Hussars. Leveaux now is eastern sales manager for the Jostens Manufacturing Co. of Owatonna, Minn. Roberta has costumed all three seasons of the Antioch festival, starting with the "Chronicles of the Kings" (Kings John, Richard II and III, Henry IV, V, VI and VIII) of the first season, through the Greek and Roman plays of Shakespeare in 1953 and the current series. Dressing up actors while rearing a family is sometimes "hectic and hard," Roberta admits. Often her three children eat in restaurants. "But they eat with me," she says. "They seem to thrive on it, and I guess I really love it all. Perhaps the years I spent flying acted as a 'hyper' shot, for I must be busy to be happy."

"At that time, the creek was fed by from 15 to 20 springs along its bed," he said. "It ran about one-fourth a mile and then disappeared into gravel. The flow in the creek increased after we drilled a well," he added. Buck said, "At one time there were enough water rights filed on the creek to cover about 1,000 acres, but only about one-sixth of those got water from the creek." Speaking of Clark Lake east of the farm, Buck said it was dry when they first came here and said it was about in the same shape now. "I remember the three people that drowned in that lake," said Buck. "One lawyer and two Mexican boys; I helped recover bodies of all three." Living on the original Buck land
