Officials Study Preliminary Urban Project Plan

City Council Given Choice in Features

Preliminary plans for Artesia's urban project are being studied today by Chamber of Commerce officials, city engineer Doug Fowler, Highway Utility Agent V. G. Donlin, and public utility manager Paul Scott.

At a meeting this morning, Donlin explained the stand the state will take on all utility measures brought about by the project. Donlin told Fowler that the project from center to edge of the new way.

He explained that the contract include all necessary under-standings and materials needed for either lighting, meaning the power company will need only to install the lights in the designated areas.

He asked Fowler to present a resolution in writing from the city council stating the kind of lighting they want. "This way," he said, "we can go ahead with the plan for the power company and they can begin their preliminary work on the lighting."

Donlin said the highway department will send a detailed plan of the project to all affected utility companies so they can plan their lines immediately. He said the project will affect a few fire hydrants and perhaps some gas lines, but not many.

Donlin remarked that the plan is "pretty clean," explaining that the city has adopted a "clean" urban project, have run into many more problems than Artesia will have to face.

Donlin also explained that the highway department will probably install sidewalks of the project. According to the utility department, Artesia's project will be like Roswell's.

Later this afternoon a business meeting will be held at which time resolutions will be discussed. All district officers will then give their yearly reports after the business meeting.

Playing Russian Roulette With .22 Undoes Hero, 16

HOBBS (AP)—Lloyd Kenyon, 16, had a cinch playing Russian roulette, he told State Policeman Hoover Wimberly.

Using a nine-shot .22 revolver, Kenyon explained, he always sneaked a peek into the chamber next to move to the barrel, and his young friends marveled at his courage.

Kenyon looked at the cylinder yesterday, found the next upcoming chamber empty, and pulled the trigger with the gun at his temple.

He looked at the cylinder again, pointed the gun at his left arm, and pulled the trigger again.

"Your mistake," said Policeman Wimberly to Kenyon, "is that in a nine-shot revolver the cylinder moves TWO notches, not one."

Kenyon nodded understanding from his bed in Lea General hospital.

The others said they thought the trip into Artesia would work a hardship on their children," he continued, "but none of them said they wouldn't send their children to school if the high school was moved to Artesia."

When Mrs. C. P. Bunch, board member, questioned whether Hope area people would feel an adequate survey had been made, Cox said the two state members of the survey team felt that they had talked with the people who were largely involved in transportation problems.

In other business last night the board discussed work of its three special committees—policy, curriculum, and building—which are just beginning to function and be organized.

Board Approves Stadium Study

Formal approval for football boosters to present their plans for an Artesia high school football stadium and indication of whether or not there is adequate community support for it was given by the Artesia board of education last night.

The board in effect invited civic groups interested in stadium construction to prove to the board there are the possibilities of financing a stadium without placing the school's athletic program in jeopardy.

"We are not saying yes to the question of whether or not we approve a stadium," Acting Board Pres. Earl Cox said. "We are saying the board is interested in being shown whether or not there is enough interest to make the stadium financially possible."

In its action, the board said any committee formed to investigate stadium plans and financing should include representatives from a number of civic groups.

Among those groups are the city council, Artesia Education Assn., members of the coaching staff, Parent-Teachers Assn., the Chamber of Commerce, Quarterback club, Central Valley Electric Co-op, Artesia Baseball Club, Parents and Boosters club, possibly civic clubs not otherwise represented, and others, the board ruled.

It named the groups to insure broad representation of every phase of community thought concerning the stadium, Cox said.

"We want to find out what public sentiment is," he said. "We want to know how much money could be raised for a stadium, and how much we would have to issue in revenue bonds to pay the balance."

In a special meeting last Thursday to discuss the Hope high school survey, the board discussed the stadium proposals some members had heard in the community.

It took no action at that time, other than to release through Board Pres. Howard Stroup permission to print reports of the discussion, which at the time were made off the record.

State to Get Hope Report, Board Told

A report on the Hope high school survey by a four-man state appointed team will be presented the state board of education, and no indication of the report's nature was learned before the team left last weekend, the Artesia board of education was told last night.

Informally reporting on work of the state survey team which he accompanied, board member Earl Cox said Tom Wiley, state school superintendent, and J. T. Reese, state school transportation director, talked with seven Hope area families.

"We traveled all over the roads southwest of Hope," Cox said. "The roads were easy to get over at the time. We traveled the bus route on the south side of the highway."

Board members George O. Teel of Hope said those on the south side of the highway "are the worst. Those in Chaves county are easier to travel."

Cox said the two state men talked to two Chaves county families, the Seelys and the Casabones. Of seven families talked to, two were in favor of having their children brought to Artesia, he said.

"The others said they thought the trip into Artesia would work a hardship on their children," he continued, "but none of them said they wouldn't send their children to school if the high school was moved to Artesia."

When Mrs. C. P. Bunch, board member, questioned whether Hope area people would feel an adequate survey had been made, Cox said the two state members of the survey team felt that they had talked with the people who were largely involved in transportation problems.

In other business last night the board discussed work of its three special committees—policy, curriculum, and building—which are just beginning to function and be organized.

It also reviewed curriculum problems at Junior high school, which with completion of a proposed addition to the building will house ninth grade classes, in addition to the present seventh and eighth graders.

The school will thus have a three-year program for the first time, which has created several questions, such as type of curriculum, number and length of periods, and others, according to Mrs. Bunch, head of the curriculum committee who attended a recent Junior high curriculum committee meeting.

The board also discussed a lunch program for Loco Hills, giving a tentative go-ahead for Business Mgr. A. R. Wood to make an investigation of the program's cost.

The board accepted the resignations of Mrs. John T. (Moreno) Short and Robert Murray. It approved the hiring of Mrs. Marie Sams, Mrs. Mollie Price and Mrs. Francis McCarty as teachers. It also approved hiring of Mrs. Alta Vandagriff and Warren Johnston as school bus drivers.

Chavez Predicts Cut in Foreign Aid for Highways

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Sen. Chavez (D-NM) said today the federal government probably will have to cut down on foreign aid if it embarks on a huge highway expansion program.

Mechem Glad Political Wars Over

SANTA FE (AP)—Gov. Edwin Mechem apparently is glad his big political hassle is almost over.

In an interview, he seemed thoroughly relaxed and good naturedly waved toward the door of his office and said:

"Four years of this is enough." As he perched at ease with his feet atop the desk of his aide, Charles DuTant, Mechem was asked how he felt about his defeat by incumbent Democratic Sen. Clinton Anderson.

"I'm sore," said Mechem, quickly adding: "I'm sore all over—I played football with the kids."

Asked if he considered the Democrats' lopsided victory a repudiation of his own four-year Republican administration, he said he didn't know what to think about it. He said he wished he knew how to figure the election results.

Asked what Mrs. Mechem thought of his defeat, Mechem replied with a wide grin. "She was mad."

For a long time, Mrs. Mechem has been portrayed as having had enough of public life and wanting the governor back practicing law in their home in Las Cruces. Their children were enrolled there this fall.

Mechem said it is difficult for a person who has to worry about making a living to watch the rest of the world push ahead in business while the person, hopefully spends his time on politics.

Fatal Weapon Is Introduced In Trial By Defense Lawyers

The case of Eulalio Solgado, 14-year-old Carlsbad boy charged with the fatal stabbing Aug. 7 of 17-year-old Nick Gomez of Artesia, will go to the jury this afternoon following instructions to jurors and final oral arguments by attorneys.

Solgado, one of only two defense witnesses, returned to the stand this morning to resume testimony he had started yesterday. While he responded easily to examination by his attorney, Fincher Neal of Neal Neumann, and Neal of Carlsbad, he was reported "shaken" on cross examination by prosecution attorneys, Dist. Atty. Pat Hanagan of Roswell and Asst. Dist. Atty. C. N. "Bill" Morris of Carlsbad.

Following Solgado's testimony, District Judge Luis Armijo of Las Vegas, who is hearing the case in place of Judge C. Roy Anderson, Carlsbad recessed court at 10:30 this morning until 3 p. m. this afternoon.

He will prepare instructions to the jury during the recess. Instructions and final arguments will be given the jury when court reconvenes at 3 this afternoon. The case is expected to go to the jury later this afternoon.

Solgado began his testimony concerning Gomez' stabbing yesterday afternoon after the state rested its case.

In testimony last night, Solgado told the jury he swung at Gomez with a knife. When asked by defense attorneys if he hit Gomez, Solgado said, "I guess so."

"We started running," he said. On another defense question, he said he did not see the youth fall.

Solgado went on the stand yesterday afternoon after the state rested its case and one other defense witness presented his testimony.

THE YOUTH said he accepted a ride to Artesia the night of Aug. 7 at the invitation of "some fellows." He rode in the Henry Lopez car, accompanied by Sammy Helguin, Smiley Ruiz, and Henry Garcia. In another car were Justo Yamez, Jacky Martin, Alexander Trivino and Buddy Melendres.

The two cars left Carlsbad around 7:30 p. m. Solgado testified Lopez' car had a flat on the way. When it arrived in Artesia, the other car had already stopped and its occupants were around the parish hall, he said.

Yamez told occupants of the second car a private dance was being held in the parish hall. Then the Carlsbad youth got back in their cars, Solgado said.

But a group of Artesia youths threw rocks at the car. Lopez stopped it and Solgado, Yamez, Helguin and Garcia got out, Solgado said. He told the jury that as he got out from the car he reached in the glove compartment, pulled out the butcher knife he had brought from home and put it in his pocket.

"WE WALKED toward the Artesia guys," he said. "Garcia and I were behind the others." He identified an Artesia boy only as Orlando, who held a knife in his hand near Melendres. Then someone hit Martin on the head with a rock.

After Martin had been hit "a fellow came toward me from around the side of the parish hall," Solgado said. "He pushed me and swung at me with a knife

I backed up." As he backed up, the youth said he pulled the knife from his left pocket and swung at his assailant. Asked by defense attorneys if he hit Gomez, Solgado said, "I guess so—I don't know. We started running."

Solgado said the Carlsbad youths ran to their cars and drove back to Carlsbad. He started walking with some other boys he said, and threw the knife into some bushes.

Following his release on bond he got the knife and gave it to his attorney, Solgado said. Neal submitted the knife in evidence, a butcher knife 8 to 10 inches long. Solgado identified it as the knife he had taken to Artesia.

HE TOOK the knife on the suggestion of the other boys, he said, because they advised him "Artesia and Roswell boys gang up on us." After that testimony Judge Armijo adjourned the trial until 9 a. m. today.

Lopez, driver of the car in which Solgado rode to Artesia and returned, was the first defense witness.

In its case yesterday, the state presented seven witnesses, the first two Artesia doctors testifying to the nature of Gomez' fatal wounds. Frank Gomez of Artesia and Henry Garcia testified as to the trip and the fight circumstances.

Jackie Martin was placed on the stand by the state as a witness, but his testimony, after he was described by the prosecution as a "reluctant witness" was ordered stricken.

HE HAD BEEN asked by Hanagan and Morris if he heard Solgado say anything when the boys were returning to Carlsbad. Martin said he might have heard Solgado speak, or it might have been someone else.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Hawkins testified he talked to Solgado twice Sunday, Oct. 8, once at 8:30 a. m. and again at 10:30 a. m. In both questionings the boy denied having a part in the fight, telling Hawkins, the deputy testified, he was in a show at Carlsbad.

But when he was questioned about 1 p. m., the youth admitted his part in the fracas and signed a statement given a secretary in the district court library, Hawkins said.

In the statement Solgado said he had wiped the murder weapon with a handkerchief, then put it in his pocket. He later put the handkerchief behind a radiator at the county jail, he said.

In his testimony Garcia testified that on the ride back from Artesia, Solgado was sitting on the left side in the back of the car. In the middle was Martin, and Garcia was on the right. Garcia testified Solgado leaned over and (Continued on Page 4)

Capitol Speculation Runs Wild Over Simms' Ax Plan

By JOHN B. CURTIS AP Staff Correspondent

SANTA FE (AP)—A favorite conversational piece at the Capitol these days is how big a turnover look for when John Simms moves into the governor's office Jan. 1.

Simms himself indicated in his campaign talks that the average state government worker who is doing a good job has nothing to fear. The Democrats had no wholesale firings or purges in mind, he said.

At a news conference Oct. 31 he said he intended to "try to get the very best qualified people for key administration posts." Past participation in politics would not make anyone ineligible, he said, although "key posts are not going to long-time machine politicians."

up covering ouster of members of the highway commission. Records show that board of all educational institutions will have two vacancies each early in 1955.

Paul Larrazo, prominent Republican and now U.S. Attorney for New Mexico, is one of the university regents whose terms expire Jan. 1.

In the case of some institutions, terms of all board members expire in 1955. These include the state penitentiary, the girls' welfare home, the state insane asylum, the Springer industrial school and the Miners' hospital at Raton.

The big state revenue bureau is a major source of patronage under the governor, especially now that the highway department's independence—approved by the voters in 1949—has made the highway office an autonomous island in the middle of the rest of the state government.

one Santa Fe Republican. "After all, it remained Democratic all through the Mechem administration."

This was a reference to repeated Republican complaints that Republicans were not given highway jobs after Mechem took over.

Manuel Lujan, state revenue commissioner who heads the revenue bureau, is expected to be replaced. One of his top division directors, Joseph C. Bergere, already has resigned.

Other top jobs in the bureau are held by Peter Ortiz y Pino, finance officer, a Democrat who kept his job under the Republicans; Tony Luna Jr., motor vehicle commissioner; Horace Moses, gasoline tax director; Eliego Baca, liquor director; Albert I. Cornell and Chester Hunker, attorneys; and Jack Cragin, ports of entry director.

Maurice Miera, director of the employment security commission at Albuquerque, is expected to be replaced, although lawyers may (Continued on Page 4)

Miss Jo Laverne Durbin Becomes Bride Saturday Of Claude A. Holloway at St. Anthony Church

Miss Jo Laverne Durbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Durbin, became the bride of Claude A. Holloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holloway of Joinerville, Tex., at a nuptial high mass held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Anthony church.

The Rev. Gabriel Eilers officiated, using the double ring rite.

Bouquets of yellow mums decorated the altar. Graceful, tall floor baskets of giant yellow and white mums were at each side of the altar.

Traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. W. J. Cluney, who also accompanied Mrs. Louis Campanella who sang the Mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the wedding dress of her sister, Mrs. Charles R. Snyder. The gown was of white satin, having a scalloped waistline, lace yoke, long, petal-pointed sleeves, and a wide skirt ending in a chapel train.

She wore a fingertip veil of French illusion, fashioned on a satin bonnet and trimmed with Chantilly lace and seed pearls. The veil was borrowed from Mrs. James Everts, Jr.

Something old was a handkerchief given to the bride by an aunt of the bridegroom, Mrs. Parkhurst Ames. Something new was a white prayer book, gift of the bridegroom, something borrowed was the veil, and a tiny bag of rice attached to her bouquet and tied in blue ribbon and net completed her ensemble.

The bride's bouquet was a white orchid with yellow throat with stephanotis arranged in shower atop the prayerbook.

Mrs. Charles R. Snyder, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Mary Catherine George, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid. The attendants wore identical frocks of net over satin, with tucked bodice and satin jackets. The matron of honor was in aquamarine and the bridesmaid wore yellow. They carried bouquets of yellow orchid mums and wore cloche hats of satin in colors to match their frocks.

Little Sharla Anne George, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a frock of orchid net over satin and a matching cloche hat.

MR. AND MRS. CLAUDE A. HOLLOWAY

She scattered petals from an orchid satin basket.

Best man was Charles Snyder, brother-in-law of the bride. Serving as groomsman and usher was Orville Durbin, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Durbin wore a navy blue suit with gray accessories and a corsage of pink Poinsettia roses.

A wedding breakfast was held immediately after the ceremony at the Old American Dining Room, for the immediate family.

The wedding cake was in the form of a cross fashioned as an altar was steps leading to the top on which a bride and bridegroom stood. It was garlanded with yellow rose buds, as was the white tapers which stood on either side in crystal candlesticks. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Othel Olson.

After the breakfast, the couple left for a wedding trip. For traveling, the bride chose a tweed suit with pink accessories and wore the orchid from her bouquet.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst Ames of Tulsa, Okla., uncle and aunt of the bridegroom.

Local Doctor Discusses Cause Of Lumbago

Technically, lumbago is a severe muscular contraction of the quadratus lumborum muscle, but generally, the term lumbago is applied to all forms of severe pain in the lower back. Above the waist the spine is strengthened by the ribs which are attached to it. Below the waist the large hip bones serve this purpose, but in the region of the waist the entire support must be maintained by the vertebrae and the muscles which hold them in their normal position.

Since these particular muscles are called upon to do so much work, it is very important that they receive their full 100% quota of nerve energy to give them the greatest possible strength and flexibility. Should any of the vertebrae of the spine become displaced or subluxated a nerve pressure will be produced which will interfere with the flow of nerve energy. The muscles will then be weakened and lumbago may result.

The Chiropractor is especially trained and equipped to locate the subluxated vertebrae and further trained in the art of returning these vertebrae to their normal position.

If you are suffering from lumbago or other lower back pains, it is not true to say "I have done everything possible" until you try Chiropractic.

For further information about Chiropractic you are invited to consult Dr. Kathryn Behnke Rains, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, phone 861. Office hours daily except Saturday afternoon.

Athletic Board Finds Special Loan Fund for Clovis Gridder

BUENOS AIRES, (AP)—The New York Athletic Board today is releasing a complete copy of its findings on the Milton Barron case, completely exonerating the Clovis Rotary club of any blame in the Boy's suspension from athletics.

The NMHSAA ruling body for high school athletics today announced that it suspended the agency that suspended Barron for the remainder of the season, placed the blame for his suspension on "lack of knowledge of rules and regulations" of the organization.

Clovis fullback, was suspended for ineligibility. Later the Clovis schedule was suspended for the season. Previous fullback Bob Dugan had been ineligible and Clovis ordered that all games in which he played be voided.

Barron's suspension came after investigation of his case, at the invitation of Clovis school officials, by a three-man NMHSAA committee headed by Executive Secretary U. G. Montgomery.

"In the case of both the Rotary and Roscoe K. Staubus fund we find that definite written rules are established to administer the funds with a committee to carry out the administration of each of them," the committee report says.

"We have checked the Rotary club student fund records thoroughly and find these records to be in good order and that it has made only one loan since it was established in 1951 and this was to a college student."

The committee, composed of Dwight L. Nichols, R. R. Lewis, and Montgomery, reports that "influence was used by downtown business men to get Milton Barron and his mother to come to Clovis." Barron last year played for Melrose.

The report continues that "a student loan fund called 'Personal Student Loan Fund' was established on Sept. 10, 1954 specifically for Milton Barron. The money to establish this fund was donated by a number of business men of Clovis. There are no written rules to administer the 'Personal Student Loan fund'."

The committee also says there "is a definite lack of harmony and agreement among those coaching and administering the school athletic program. There is a definite lack of knowledge of the rules and regulations of the High School Activities Assn. on the part of the townspeople and the students."

The report closed with a complaint to the Clovis schools on "its professional attitudes in asking" for a review of its athletic program.

Arizona Injuries In Teah Game Threaten Relation

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Injuries received by University of Arizona football players in the game here Saturday night won by Texas Tech 28-14 have brought a cry for breaking of the football relationship between the two schools.

One of the demands for a break in athletic relations came today from William R. Mathews editor and publisher of the Arizona Daily Star. In his column "Tuesday Morning Quarterback," Mathews said, "No more football with Texas Tech in any kind of circumstances."

Another who asked for the break was Roy Draehman, prominent Tucson realtor, who told the Townsfolk, downtown supporters of the Arizona team. "A lot of people feel we should break off athletic relations with Texas Tech. The time has come to tell them we won't play them."

Coach Warren Woodson of Arizona refused to make any comments on the suggestions as did J. F. McKel, director of athletics. Woodson denied telling Jack Murphy, sports editor of the San Diego, Calif. Union in a telephone conversation that "this thing might blow up into breaking off relations with Tech." Murphy had quoted Woodson as saying that.

One of the Arizona players injured in the game was Art Luppino, Arizona tailback who has led the nation in rushing and scoring. He came out of the contest with upper and lower lips badly cut, one tooth chipped and one loosened. Woodson said he hopes Luppino will be able to play in this week's game against Texas Western at El Paso.

Two players were lost to the team, at least for Saturday's game. They are Max Burnett, Arizona fullback, who suffered a broken nose, head and face injuries, and guard Glenn Bowers who suffered a recurrence of a back injury and may be out for the season.

At Lubbock, head coach DeWitt Weaver of Texas Tech, explained his game-time comment expressing doubt as to the legitimacy of Burnett's injury which stopped the clock six seconds before the half. When play was resumed, Arizona scored.

Bulldogs Roll Total Offensive to 2,663 Yards, Sanders Shades Lewis as Leading Ground Gainer

Artesia Bulldogs have rolled up a total offensive to 2,663 yards in eight games, an average of 332.9 yards per game, according to statistics compiled by the Artesia Advocate.

Showing up that mark the Bulldogs held their opponents to an average of 205 yards per game.

Sanders moved into the lead in gaining lead this week following Friday night's game at which in which he piled up 56 yards while former top gainer Don Garner 28. Sanders' seasonal new stands at 472. Lewis' yardage is 427.

Riddle, who lost time last week to sit out the Kermit games, is third with 354 yards, and Leo Barker, who gained 69 yards against Carlsbad, fourth with 256.

Ronald Price follows with 159, Clyde Bratcher 109, Max Ratliff 37, Jim Belvin 29, and George Price 10.

The Bulldogs have a total point figure of 208, compared to the combined opposition's 76, an average of 26 per game compared to 9 1/2 for the opposition.

Artesia has gained a total of 2,111 yards rushing, against 1,219 for the total opposition. The Bulldogs have racked up 552 yards in the air on 22 pass completions, against 431 yards for the opposition on 29 completions.

Only in the first down department has the opposition — chiefly through Kermit and Carlsbad — showed ahead of Artesia. The Bulldogs have a total of 79, the opposition 89.

Of that total, Artesia has scored 62 first downs on the ground, 12 in the air, and five by penalties.

The opponents have made 69 on the ground, 18 in the air, and two by penalties.

Razorbacks, Texas Work For Balance

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two "surprise" teams of the Southwest conference—Arkansas and Texas—worked on the same goal Tuesday: A winning combination.

Arkansas, picked for the cellar by sportswriters and broadcasters, was preparing for its conference battle with Southern Methodist and aiming for its eighth straight win.

Texas was just looking for a winning combination. The Longhorns, five-time losers, winners of two victories and a tie, were picked overwhelmingly for the conference championship. The Longhorns will try to salvage part of their former prestige with their game this week-end with Texas Christian's brash sophomores and Texas A&M's tough—but virtually winless—Cadets on Thanksgiving Day.

Both look like rough assignments for the Longhorns, and Arkansas, ranked fourth in the national Associated Press poll again today, still must face Louisiana State and the University of Houston after playing the vastly improved Mustangs this Saturday.

"We're still got three games to play," Razorback Coach Bowden Wyatt said as his boys finished their regular light duties for Monday and went to the showers. The Porkers, Wyatt admitted, were in good condition.

Mentor Ed Price switched Billy Quinn back to fullback in his search for a winning combine. He moved Don Maroney and Bill Long down to the second and third teams and said: "We're trying."

As the Methodists started preparations for the highly-ranked Hobbs, their regular left halfback, Don Melhennp, was on the doubtful starter list. He suffered a bruised kidney in the close 6-3 victory over the Aggies last Saturday. The Mustangs may start John Marshall, high-scoring soph, in place of Melhennp.

At Fort Worth, the Texas Christian Horned Frogs concentrated on offense for their battle with the Longhorns. Coach Abe Martin sent his charges through long passing and running maneuvers and said they would scrimmage but little this week.

Fullmer Captures Standing Offer For Return Bout

NEW YORK, (AP)—Undefeated Gene "Cyclone" Fullmer, a good, tough and aggressive middleweight has an invitation to come back to New York any time as a result of his rousing Eastern and television debut against Jackie La Busa.

The strong-legged, 25-year-old middleweight from West Jordan, Utah, made his perfect record 25-0 last night by drubbing the New York prospect at Eastern Parkway Arena for a lopsided 10-round decision.

As a result, matchmaker Teddy Brenner signed the Rocky Mountain copper miner for a Dec. 20 tilt with Rocky Castellani, fourth-ranked 160-pound contender.

"If Castellani doesn't want to take on the kid—but I think he will—we'll get Paddy Young or some other top middleweight," said Brenner. "This kid is the best Westerner to come here since we brought Bobo Olson in from the Coast for his Eastern debut."

Thomas Edison's first patent in 1868 was for an electrical vote recorder.

UCLA Retains Rank as Leading College Grid Club By Whopping Margin of Writers' Votes

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press

By a comfortable margin in a whopping big ballot UCLA retained its ranking as the nation's leading college football team in this week's Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

An even 300 votes were tabulated to confirm the high-scoring Uclans' claim to the top place over the challenges of Ohio State and Oklahoma, leaders in earlier polls this season.

UCLA was first on 117 of the 300 ballots. Ohio State got 80 first-place votes.

Points were tabulated on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

The first five teams held the same places they dropped into during the general reshuffling of the past two weeks, but several important changes were registered elsewhere in the first 10.

After UCLA, with 2,660 points, and Ohio State, with 2,594, came Oklahoma, Arkansas, Notre Dame, Army, Mississippi, Southern California, Iowa and Navy in order.

Miami of Florida, suffering its first defeat at Auburn's hands after six straight victories, fell from sixth place to 11th. Purdue also disappeared from the top 10 after taking a 25-14 licking from Iowa. That made room for Iowa, 12th last week, and Navy in the select group at the top.

Army's 48-7 shellacking of previously unbeaten Yale couldn't do more than lift the cadets from seventh into Miami's vacated sixth place. Mississippi and Southern California advanced two notches each to seventh and eighth.

The leading teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. UCLA (117) 2,660, 2. Ohio State (80) 2,594, 3. Oklahoma (44) 2,292, 4. Arkansas (43) 2,207, 5. Notre Dame (3) 1,480, 6. Army (4) 1,452, 7. Mississippi (5) 729, 8. Southern Cal 672, 9. Iowa 565, 10. Navy 495.

Second 10:

11. Miami (Fla.) 168, 12. Cincinnati 155, 13. Minnesota 148, 14. Wisconsin 110, 15. Virginia Tech 95, 16. West Virginia (2) 92, 17. Maryland 84, 18. Baylor 76, 19. SMU 65, 20. Georgia 62.

Johnson Swings Into Plans To Hire Pair of Managers

NEW YORK, (AP)—Having won his four-month fight to purchase the Philadelphia Athletics and transfer the franchise to Kansas City, industrialist Arnold Johnson today tackled the problem of hiring a field and general manager.

He may disclose some of his plans at a press conference today.

Elated by the 6-2 vote of approval given him by the American league, Johnson yesterday said he had an open mind on the managerial situation. He said he had talked to no one about the jobs but had many applications.

It was learned that Lou Boudreau, deposed manager of the Boston Red Sox, has the inside track to the field managing job, and Parks Carroll, who was business manager of the New York Yankees Kansas City farm club in the American Association is a top candidate for general manager.

Under terms of the deal, Johnson will pay $450,000 each to Roy and Earle Mack for the 163 shares each owns. He already has paid Connie Mack $604,000 for his 302 shares. He must pick up a $1,200,000 mortgage held by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. and must also pay off debts estimated by him at $800,000. He will get back, however, $1,675,000 by the sale of Connie Mack Stadium to President Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I AM THE HAPPIEST MAN in the world," Johnson said. "It was the toughest fight I have had in my life."

Were it not for the switch in sentiment of Walter O. Spike Briggs, president of the Detroit Tigers, the shift would have been blocked. A three-fourths vote is needed for a franchise shift and had Briggs stuck to his original position, Detroit would have joined with Washington and Cleveland in rejecting Johnson's bid.

Briggs and Clark Griffith, 84-year-old president of the Senators, had been violently opposed to the shift.

"I wanted harmony in the league," Briggs explained later.

DON KNORR has been named the new junior high guidance director. He will replace Mr. Fred Napp, who recently was appointed to a personnel position at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Knorr has just completed a testing program given to all students in the seventh and eighth grades. The Stanford Achievement tests, 2,000 in all, will be sent to ENMU at Portales, N. M., to be scored.

Spain, Germany Surprise Winners In Horse Show

NEW YORK (AP)—The 66th National Horse Show ends Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden after a week of surprising domination by West Germany and Spain.

Only one more event, the J. Spencer Wood Perpetual Challenge Trophy, is available to the crack European riders who thus far have taken 10 of the 12 international jumping events.

Fritz Thiedemann's victory in Monday night's individual Challenge Trophy was West Germany's seventh blue ribbon in as many days. Earlier in the day Major Garcia Cruz had accounted for Spain's third triumph when he won the Royal Winter Fair Trophy.

Even Mexico's ace jumpers, headed by Gen Humberto Mariles, who have walked off with many blue ribbons at Madison Square Garden shows in recent years, have proven no match for the West German and Spanish onslaught. Mexico and the United States, have but one victory in international jumping since and Canada thus far has been shut out.

Arthur McCashin, veteran American rider from Pluckemin, N. J., gave Thiedemann a battle for the International Challenge Trophy. He guided his mount, Mohawk, around the difficult course without so much as ticking the bars on the various jumps. But Thiedemann also managed to get his horse, Meteor, around the course without a fault, even though Meteor's hind hooves nicked the top bar on the fifth jump. The two riders were the only ones with perfect rides, so a jump-off was ordered with three of the obstacles raised.

Mohawk ticked the bars on the third and fifth jumps, without dislodging either, but his front legs knocked off the top bar on the sixth obstacle. That left it up to Thiedemann and Meteor, who sailed around the course with another perfect ride to win the trophy.

TALKATIVE NEIGHBORS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The day of the country party line is rapidly becoming history, but apparently users haven't changed much since crank-and-talk days.

"Why even in Nashville we don't have to read the papers to tell when the dollar-day sales are on," says Sam Youngblood, Tennessee general manager for the phone company. "We know by the flurry of telephone calls in the afternoon — when the housewives get home from shopping and start telling all the neighbors what they bought."

Comic Book Industry Cleans Up

BESET BY CONSTANTLY increasing criticism the comic book industry has established for itself a code of ethics and morality, and established an office to see the code is maintained. Of 29 publishers 26 subscribe to the code. The code contains many of the rules established by the movie industry many years ago when it ran into similar protests. Good snail always triumph over evil, for instance, and scenes of horror, vulgarity, or extreme suggestiveness shall not be tolerated. The methodology of crime shall not be exposed, lest it prove suggestive to the impressionable.

So aroused was public indignation that the comic book industry was threatened with rigid censorship by forces outside the industry. While some publishers fought or evaded the clean-up campaigns others recognized the seriousness of the threat to the industry.

That 26 of 29 publishers subscribe to the code is a recognition by the industry of its power and its responsibility. It has wisely subscribed to self-policing. It has the fervent wish of the general public that the policing is effective and continuous.

Increased Enforcement of Tax Law

ACCORDING TO the state revenue bureau, 9,405 of New Mexico's 21,789 businesses declare they are grossing less than $500 a month, and there is a question as to whether many of those businesses are telling the truth.

Following widespread complaints, the bureau also has launched a drive of those people who don't pay state income tax. So far 13,000 new filings have resulted—some of them covering several years.

Many people applaud plans by the revenue bureau to investigate discrepancies in sales tax declarations, and to crack down on residents who file no income tax forms, let alone pay their share of operating the state's government and services.

It is grossly unfair to those who pay sales and income taxes not to have the tax laws enforced so that all equally share the burden. Many businesses go to great trouble to see that their sales tax returns are complete, accurate, and honest. It is not fair to them that others, simply by declaring their gross business under $500 a month, should escape the tax, nor is it fair to the customers from whom they collected that tax.

Likewise those who pay income tax are treated unfairly if the state does not see its income tax laws are strictly enforced. It has long been said around the state that many residents never file a return—and are never caught. There are some people who openly brag they have never paid New Mexico income tax.

Those who do pay their taxes have every right to demand that the laws be rigidly enforced so that all pay. If revenue under present laws is not sufficient for state government and services, we may expect new tax levies, which would only penalize those now paying taxes more heavily, while allowing the deadbeats to get off free.

Western States Are Urged To Join in Reclamation

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Reclamation Commissioner W. A. Drexler today urged the 17 Western states to unite in support of further reclamation projects. The commissioner mentioned no states by name in an address for the National Reclamation Assn. But obviously a good part of his remarks were directed at California, which is opposing the proposed upper Colorado River storage project. Drexler said one factor which blocked congressional authorization of the billion dollar project for Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico "was a sharp cleavage in the united non-partisan support of reclamation by all of the Western states."

Noting that "united support which has accomplished so much over the last 50 years was lacking," Drexler said: "It appears to me that reclamation's future is pretty much up to the West itself. We are at a crossroads, and there are very obvious signposts to tell us where the high ways lead. One road, which we may title 'disunity,' leads to a virtual stalemate. The other road, obviously marked 'unity' has a lot of obstacles in it, but it leads to a much more worthwhile goal of water utilization." Urging that the National Reclamation Assn. and the Western states carry the story of reclamation to the entire nation, Drexler said: "Read the Classifieds."

He expressed belief the public works committee would be "very sympathetic" to any proposals for better highways. "That is entirely a nonpartisan thing," he said.

"But if we have a big road program as contemplated, we must have cuts in foreign aid," he added. "That is the only place where I see that cuts in present expenditures can be made."

Legion Auxiliary Past Presidents Vote Yule Gift

Past Presidents Parley of American Legion Auxiliary met Monday noon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Truett with Mrs. P. V. Morris as co-hostess.

At noon a covered-dish luncheon was enjoyed. Members voted to send a Christmas gift to Miss Lucy Walters, who is a patient in a veterans hospital in California. Also discussed was the Christmas party with husbands as guests. Mrs. Albert Richards and Mrs. Ralph Rogers will be in charge.

Plans were made for the luncheon to be served Wednesday to Woman's club convention being held in Artesia. The parley also voted to donate $10 to Girl Scout troop sponsored by the Parley.

The afternoon was spent in fluffing poppies.

Mrs. Earl Darst gave a report on Girl Scout troop 16. Leader is Mrs. John Sparks. She also read a letter from Mrs. Gertrude Jacobs of Philadelphia, Pa., who is a member, saying that she plans to return to Artesia before the first of the year.

Members present for the luncheon were Mrs. J. L. Briscoe, Mrs. K. Jones, Mrs. Julia McGonagill, Mrs. John A. Mathis, Jr., Mrs. Francis Painter, Mrs. Earl Darst, Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Truett.

In the afternoon Mrs. H. R. Patton, Mrs. H. B. Gilmore and Mrs. D. M. Walter attended the business meeting.

Personal Mention

Rev. and Mrs. Orvan E. Gilstrap returned to Artesia Thursday after attending the International convention of the Christian church which was held in Miami, Fla. Other places visited were Key West, Jacksonville and the Cypress Gardens at Winterhaven, Fla.

Mrs. Ralph O'Dell of Brownfield, Texas, is visiting friends in Artesia while Rev. O'Dell is in the mountains hunting.

City Council—

and city officials had expected. "I feel confident," he said, "we will be able to secure all the easements we need, since there will be no major problems, such as moving a whole building, to block our plans."

Fowler said the city will now have to await the detailed plans from the highway department before it can start securing easements. Scott voiced the opinion that the plans would be here soon, explaining the department is presently devoting much of their time to developing the project.

Scott said Erwin asked for one other thing to be clarified by the city in the Wednesday night council meet. That point was whether the city will want asphalt islands for dividers in the project, or grass islands. Scott said the grass would be more attractive, but if grass is selected the city must provide for ways and means of maintaining the grass.

Fowler said the state will give the city all the utility materials, such as conduits and stations, under the written condition that maintenance and upkeep of the utilities be the responsibility of the city and not the state.

SMITH SAID THIS MORNING the power company will have a lot of work to do, mainly in moving their present power line. "However," he said, "we do not mind spending the money for such a thing if it will help beautify the community."

Smith and Fowler said mercury vapor lights would probably be the best choice for the project.

The project will run a little over two miles, with 50 foot clearance on both sides, making the project 100 feet wide. Scott said no cars can be serviced by stations or such within the right of way.

Egg Packaging, Marketing Plays Key Role in Sales

The old adage about building a better mousetrap and customers beating a pathway to your door just doesn't hold true in these highly competitive times.

The man with the better mousetrap cannot sit in his plant or store and expect to do as well as his alert competitor who carries on a progressive promotional program. The heart of any business is selling a satisfactory volume of goods at a satisfactory profit. Oftentimes, this can best be accomplished by cooperating with a competitor rather than working against him.

Poultrymen in New Mexico and adjoining states find that there is more truth than poetry to that idea. And, they're adopting a plan of cooperative marketing of locally-produced eggs that has not only resulted in better relationship but also greater profits from their laying hens.

Here's how the plan works: Local poultrymen get together and pick out a key producer that everybody has confidence in—because of his ability to sell to grocers and others and because of his honesty and bookkeeping ability. This key poultryman handles the eggs for all producers. This helps to eliminate most of the price-cutting and increases the bargaining power of the group.

Eggs are delivered to the key poultryman daily or two or three times a week. Some producers grade and package their eggs, others deliver them just as they are gathered. Each poultryman is assigned a number which is stamped on each carton used to package his eggs. This number helps to trace complaints to the proper source so that trouble can be corrected without involving the entire group.

If the key man washes, sizes, and grades all the eggs in the community, he can afford to invest in more expensive equipment, set up an assembly line operation and do a more economical job of marketing a more uniform product.

Uniform cartons are used by all poultrymen in the community with no identification of any one producer except by individual number. The type of cartons and the printing on them can add a great deal to the attractiveness of the package. Open windows in the top of the carton—say four or five windows about one inch square—is a good display practice.

Usually a name is selected which is suitable to the entire group.

Members of the group also agree upon the amount which is to be paid the key producer for his merchandising services.

Several selling methods are being used by various groups. Perhaps the most popular one is where the grocer is paid a set amount

New Range Improvement Plan For Southwest Is Launched

Establishment of a new research project to help ranchers improve their pastures and ranges in the arid and subhumid regions of the West, from New Mexico to North Dakota, is announced by the U. S. department of agriculture.

In making the announcement at the recent annual Ranch Day at Las Cruces, Dr. A. H. Moseman, director of crops research for the department's agricultural research service, said: "A major part of this research effort will be devoted to investigations of range reseeding, fertilization, and management formerly conducted by the U. S. forest service." These studies became the responsibility of the agricultural research service as a result of the recent USDA reorganization.

Dr. R. E. Wagner of the field crops research branch, ARS, has been named leader of the new project, with headquarters at the department's plant industry station, Beltsville, Md. A. C. Hull, formerly of the forest service, has been appointed ARS regional coordinator of range reseeding and fertilization phases of the project. He maintains headquarters at the Utah agricultural experiment station, Logan, Utah.

Dr. Wagner has been engaged in pasture establishment and management research for USDA at Beltsville since 1945. His most recent post was an assistant to L. A. Hein, project leader for pasture and range research in the humid region.

Before coming to Beltsville, Dr. Wagner was assigned to the Fort Hays branch experiment station, Hays, Kans., where he was concerned primarily with cooperative state-federal range investigations.

Hull has had wide experience in range reseeding research. In addition to his regional coordinating and supervisory responsibilities, he is in direct charge of certain USDA pasture and range studies in northern Utah, southern Idaho, and western Wyoming.

All USDA grazing management research in the Great Plains area and in the Jornada experimental range Las Cruces, is included in the new project. The Great Plains work is centered at Woodward Okla.; Nunn, Colo.; Miles City, Mont.; and Mandan, N. D.

E. H. McIlvain has recently been appointed superintendent of the USDA's Southern Great Plains Field Station at Woodward, succeeding D. A. Savage, deceased. Mr. McIlvain has conducted grazing management research on native and reseeded ranges at Woodward during 10 of the past 14 years. He served 4 years with the U. S. Army in World War II.

Water Determines Milk Production In Dairy Cows

The amount of water that dairy cattle drink has a lot to do with how much milk they produce, says county extension agent Richard Marek.

Tests have shown that providing water so that animals have free access to it, increases the milk yield of high-producing cows about 4 per cent over watering twice daily; and 6 to 11 per cent over watering once daily.

This isn't hard to understand, points out Marek, when you consider that milk is 87 per cent water. Including both the water in the feed and the water which is consumed as such, cows will take in about 3.5 to 5.5 pounds of water per pound of milk produced.

High-protein feeds increase water consumption somewhat. From 12 to 15 gallons per head daily is an average amount for a herd, including both cows in milk and dry cows. However, cows producing 100 pounds of milk a day will drink 35 to 40 gallons of water daily, explains the county agent.

For a cow to drink the maximum amount, the water must be accessible, fresh, clean, and at a desirable temperature.

Water plays an important role in the barn and milk room, too, minds Marek. To produce high quality milk, the udder of the cow the person doing the milking and all the milking equipment must be clean. This means using a hot water.

for each dozen of eggs that he sells, at retail price established by the poultrymen.

Where there is a large enough volume of eggs, it's possible that the local egg dealer would be a good man to handle the group's eggs. He has the equipment and business contacts, and thus, the marketing outlets.

This plan which requires a little planning and cooperation among the producers in the community has proven that neighboring poultrymen can be helped instead of competitors in marketing locally-produced eggs. "All for one and one for all" motto is helping many groups to maintain fair price levels for their products and realize greater profits.

Stroup Elected Crop Association Board Director

Officers of the New Mexico Crop Improvement Assn. adopted new by-laws and elected four new directors at their annual meeting held at New Mexico A&M college, Gordon Hoff, extension agronomist and secretary of the organization, announced today.

Newly elected directors are J. E. Payne, Virden; Howard Stroup, Artesia; W. F. Hayner, Las Cruces; and C. W. Gaines, Deming. Prior to the change in by-laws, chairman of the local Crop Improvement Assn. served as director of the state association.

Other business conducted during the one day meeting included the adoption of new certification standards for all crops grown for seed in New Mexico and establishment of what the association considered is fair prices for certified 1517 cotton planting seed for 1955.

A new handbook containing the revised certification standards will be issued soon by the association according to J. T. Stovall, administrative officer.

Prices agreed on for 1517 cotton planting seed were as follows: undelivered seed, $125 a ton, wholesale in bulk; $135 a ton for sacked and tagged seed, wholesale in 10-ton lots; $145 a ton for sacked and tagged seed at retail. Prices agreed upon are an average of about $20 a ton less than last year's prices. The reason for the recommended reduction in prices is carry-over of 1954 planting seed and anticipation of a further reduction in planted acres for 1955.

The morning session of the annual meeting featured talks on results of cotton breeding at State College by Glen Staten, A&M Experiment station agronomist; cotton breeding for disease resistance by Dr. L. M. Blank, senior pathologist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service, State College; and a pictorial demonstration of the diversity of A&M's on-the-farm-and-ranch demonstration plot program by Dr. P. J. Leyendecker, head of the college's agricultural services department.

About 65 officers and members attended the annual meeting. Presiding officer was J. W. Donaldson, Deming, association president.

Cost Sharing Is Provided By U.S. To Boost Cover

Cost sharing is one of the tools provided by the U. S. department of agriculture to aid farmers and ranchers in the establishment of a permanent soil cover as a means of conserving soil and water, says county extension agent Richard Marek.

Pakistan, A&M Exchange Plan Approval Given

Plans for an exchange of personnel between New Mexico A&M college and the University of Sind, Pakistan, are rapidly taking shape, says Dr. R. A. Nichols, dean of A&M's school of agriculture, and home economics and director of the experiment station and extension service.

New Mexico A&M will furnish a core staff of advisers to aid the Pakistan college in establishing a school of agriculture and an agricultural experiment station.

The University of Sind has already completed the buildings for its agricultural school, and class work will begin in June, 1955. Later, the college plans to expand into engineering and the arts and sciences in an effort to establish an institution comparable to the American land-grant college, Nichols explains.

A minimum staff of four men will make up the initial A&M group. They will include experts in extension, research, instruction, and library work. All costs of the program will be shared equally by the governments of the United States and Pakistan under the Foreign Operations Administration. The college will be liberally reimbursed for all administrative costs involved in the program.

"Similarity of climate, terrain and general crop production conditions in Pakistan and New Mexico prompted officials of the Middle East country to seek the assistance of A&M scientists," Nichols states. "The exchange will not only give staff members of our college a chance to render a great service to the Pakistan people, but it will also afford us an excellent opportunity to learn more about cotton production, soils, and grasses and legumes."
