Ten of Team's 11 Starters Play Finale

The Artesia Bulldogs left the city this morning for Albuquerque and preparation for tomorrow's state AA championship game with Highland high school.

The Artesia team, on the basis of comparative performance against mutual opponents, is rated a slight favorite over Highland by the rest of New Mexico, and a two-touchdown favorite by hometown fans.

Game time at Zimmerman Field on the University of New Mexico campus tomorrow is 1:30 p. m. The game will be broadcast locally by radio station KSVP. So far as can be learned, it will not be televised "live."

Artesia will represent District 2AA, in which it is unbeaten by virtue of victories over Hobbs, Carlsbad, Roswell and Clovis Highland, after a vote of District IAA, which it represents, goes into the game after ending its season in a three-way tie with Albuquerque High and St. Mary's.

After arriving in Albuquerque, the Bulldogs will work out lightly this afternoon at Zimmerman Field. They will rest tonight, work out very lightly tomorrow, but further rest will be emphasized.

For the Bulldogs, it will be the first daylight game of the year, all others having been under the lights.

For 10 of the 11 starting players, tomorrow's contest will be the last of their high school careers, with the exception of the North-South game scheduled for next August.

Only Clyde Bratcher, who alternates at end and in the backfield, will return from the 1954 squad. Playing their last game as a team will be Johnny Riddle, Freddie Healthy, happy children, that's what we're working toward when we buy the Christmas Seals of the North Eddy County Tuberculosis Assn., Mayor W. H. Yeager declared today when he signed his annual Christmas Seal proclamation.

"A sheet of the 1954 Christmas Seals with its gay chain of children pictures what we all want for our children," the mayor said. "Health and happiness and a future without fear. Perhaps we can't insure such a life for our children, but we can do something toward it by helping to erase the dark shadow of TB which lies across so many lives."

The Christmas Seal sale opened Nov. 15 and will continue through December.

In his proclamation, Mayor Yeager brought out the fact that a new case of tuberculosis is reported in the United States every fifth minute. He called for support of the TB association's efforts to check the spread of the disease.

Survey Making New Topographic Maps of Area

The first new topographic maps of the Artesia area in many years will soon be available to the public following intensive field work by the U.S. geological survey.

Four men are in the Artesia area to complete the topographic mapping, which hasn't yet caught up with the demise of such once-thriving villages as Dayton.

The new maps will join the area which the geological area survey started mapping near Roswell in 1947. It has been completed to four miles north of Artesia through mapping done up to last winter.

This season mapping is being done to include the city of Artesia and the area south to Seven Rivers.

Members of the mapping team are James T. Lee, E. Boyd Getys, Andrew Kordziel and Thomas Taylor, who are temporarily living in Artesia. John M. Stricklin is the engineer for the project.

Maps made from 1947 through 1953 are available to the general public. They may be obtained by writing to the Rocky Mountain Engineer, U.S. Geological Survey, Topographic Division, Building 25, Denver Federal Center, Denver 2, Colo.

Three From City Attend Session On Tax Increase

City Attorney Neil Watson reported to city council Wednesday night on the municipal meeting he, Mayor W. H. Yeager, and councilman George Ferriman attended that afternoon in Roswell.

Watson said representatives from southern and eastern cities discussed a proposed 20 mill additional tax levy, mainly in trying to form a campaign to get good representation at the next state legislature meeting where the bill will be introduced.

Watson said the representatives presented their individual cities' needs, and how the additional property tax would aid in the budget and government of small municipalities.

The city attorney said another state meeting will be held in Albuquerque Dec. 6. The council approved one or more members to attend the meeting.

Yeager explained that the league is largely concerned with securing more equitable taxation from the state legislature, in that they feel municipalities the size of Artesia are not receiving enough money to properly function.

Expansion Set For Artesia Wool Growers Co-Op

Artesia Wool Growers Assn. Wednesday night at city council meeting asked the council to narrow a section of 100 foot easement along the railroad on Mobley

According to a spokesman for the association, an expansion of the present co-op building just west of the railroad is being planned.

However, the spokesman said, a 100-foot easement prevents the expansion, since 40 additional feet are needed. The street is presently only 30 feet wide and a dead-end at the railroad, he said.

New Mexico A&M College Awarded AAUW Approval

New Mexico A&M college has been accredited by the American Association of University Women.

The Artesia branch of AAUW immediately following the announcement, issued an invitation for A&M graduates to become associated with the local organization. Phone calls for information may be made to Miss Nancy Haynes, number 538-J.

AAUW is an organization of women graduates from approved colleges and universities, whose degrees meet the association's general education requirements.

Announcement of New Mexico A&M's approval by AAUW was made Nov. 15 in a telegram from Dorothy Woodward, AAUW chairman of standards and recognition.

"This approval by AAUW will probably mean that our enrollment of women students will increase," said Dr. Mary I. Champion, dean of women at New Mexico A&M. It is one of the most encouraging developments in the education of women, she said.

"The approval means that all future and past women graduates of New Mexico A&M will be able to affiliate with any AAUW chapter," Dr. Champion explained.

New Mexico A&M college made application for accreditation in March, 1954. Recently the college was visited by a representative from AAUW who inspected facilities for women.

Five requirements were used to judge New Mexico A&M's qualifications for AAUW. The college was judged on rating of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; provisions for basic general education, particularly science, social science and the humanities; adequate provision for women students; professional opportunities for women in faculty and administration; and maintenance of academic freedom.

Travelers Open Tough 1954-55 NIBL Season Monday Night

The most powerful CVE Traveler basketball team to be fielded in the four-year history of the organization Monday night opens its season against the always-tough Ada Oilers of Houston.

Mgr. Paul L. Frost and Coach C. G. "Red" Goodwin will send out a 12-man squad totalling 76 1/4 feet of college-star basketball players under the Artesia Central Valley Electric banner.

The Travelers will be opening their fourth season in the National Industrial Basketball league, a season which will send the Artesia club into 23 league tilts and 20 other contests.

In an effort to meet a generally strengthened league situation, Frost and Goodwin have added six new players to the six veterans returning from the CVE squads of previous seasons.

Whether or not the strengthening will mean better CVE chances in the tough NIBL circuit remains to be seen, but Artesia fans will probably get a good idea after Monday night's contest.

CVE will be playing in a seven-team league following collapse of the Santa Maria (Calif.) Golden Dukes, the league's only civic-sponsored team, at the end of the 1953-54 season.

NOT UNTIL Dec. 20 will the Travelers again show their stuff on the home court, when they are scheduled to meet Phillips 66 of Bartlesville, Okla.

In between comes a rigorous road schedule that sends CVE against the 66ers, Peoria Caterpillars, Goodyear in Akron, Ohio, and Allen-Bradley in Milwaukee. Other NIBL clubs are the Denver Bankers and the Ada Oilers of Houston.

The Travelers play their first scheduled game Saturday night against New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell, a game they're expected to win easily.

Monday night it'll be a different story. Following a recent road trip to scrimmage with two West Texas colleges, Coach Goodwin reported "our offense looked mighty good, but our defense was pretty weak."

And thereupon Goodwin settled down this past week to brushing up on individual and team defensive work.

IN THE SCORING department the Travelers look good—they have shooting power, both from the field and the free throw line. The question of defense is at this time the critical one. There is one department at least that Goodwin won't have to worry about—height. His squad this year averages 6 feet 4 inches. The shorty of the squad is 5 feet 11 inches. That means rebound power.

The National Industrial Basketball League was formed prior to the 1947-48 season—its first—to further public relations in behalf of the industrial organizations sponsoring teams. It is currently rated as the strongest and best amateur basketball in the nation. The league provided Olympic championship clubs in 1948 and again in 1952.

The Travelers are sponsored by the Central Valley Electric Co-op of Artesia, which is the smallest city in the league to field a team. Its players hold down regular jobs in addition to playing basketball.

ARTESIA FANS Monday night will see the league's big innovation—a free throw circle that resembles an hour glass. It puts the defensive man on free throws nearest the basket farther away from the hoop, bringing the normally far-away men closer in, in effect.

The six veterans returning to the 1954-55 club are Jack Hess, Dwayne Stewart, Don Haskins, Dee Nutt, Bill Lea, and Don Heathington.

The "rookies" are Elmer Beard, Gus Lovett, Gary Shivers, Elton Tuttle, Bill Sharp and Mac Williams.

Canadians Boom Scandinavian Furnishings

Canadian housewives are attracted by the beauty and fineness of Scandinavian design both in furniture and household articles. Stores are showing Nordic craft work and textiles, and the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto is host for a month to a special travelling show called "Design in Scandinavia."

Danish craftsmen demonstrate an affection for material and much of the furniture in the museum exhibit blends elegance and utility.

In a flight of fancy one designer produced the "jacket rest," a chair meant for hanging a coat on. The chair also had a turned-up seat—just the thing for draping a pair of trousers.

Bulldogs Favored in This Corner for Two TD Win

By DAVE RODWELL

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS reports today neither Highland nor Artesia is a clear-cut favorite to win the state AA championship game tomorrow at Albuquerque.

We differ, strenuously so. If the vociferous sports writers of northern New Mexico would once leave their halliwicks, find out what's going on in the rest of the state, they'd see the clear-cut reasons for Artesia superiority, as have our doubting conferees in southern New Mexico.

Artesia has a fair-to-middling line, and a backfield that can only be described as "great." Two standouts in the line—Ray Gressett and Jay Mitchell, who are candidates for the AP All-State team—plus that backfield put Artesia head and shoulders above other New Mexico teams.

Johnny Riddle as quarterback is a triple threat man—running, passing, punting. Riddle is also one smart ball player, as witness the mental tug-of-war during the Roswell game, when plays were sent in by that team every other play, while Artesia's generalship was left relatively free to Riddle.

That's the way Artesia coaches develop their boys. Freddie Sanders needs only that tiny hole through the line or a chance to show his broken field running around end and through the secondary to be gone. Leo Barker is another speedster, Don Lewis, both a fleet-foot and a power player. The reserve backfield men—Ron Price, Max Ratliff, Clyde Ratcher—are all capable.

BY COMPARATIVE SCORES Artesia has outperformed Highlands consistently through the season. Highland, however, will have an undeniable hometown advantage when it goes against Artesia in Zimmerman Field, the University of New Mexico stadium. That may be good for one touchdown.

Artesia however, is at least two-touchdowns better than Highland, despite Dewey Bohling and company, on the basis of the season's performance.

It may be better than that. These Bulldogs, one of the few high school teams to come along over which fans can really ecstatic, come through when the chips are down. There is no doubt in anyone's mind that the Kermit game would have been won if the Bulldogs had had to win it.

Artesia has no reserve depth to speak of, although it is stronger in this respect than in the past previous years. Yet somehow, despite injuries, they pull the hard ones out of the fire.

This is also Artesia's year, a year when the Bulldogs have to win. Next year it will be rougher—it's always rough to lose 10 of your 11 starters and the Bulldogs may not be able to do so well, although with Reese Smith, Jack Barron, Verlon Davis, Walt Bynum—who can tell?

We look for Artesia, despite high altitude, a strange field, the blindness of northern sports writers, the long trip to Albuquerque, lack of reserve strength, to win that game tomorrow by at least two TD's on the basis of great ability and sheer determination.

FOR YOU FANS who can't make it to Albuquerque, there will be two chances to get in on this championship contest. One is by the broadcast by radio station KSPV, which will start probably 15 minutes before game time at 1:30 or by several other Southeastern New Mexico stations.

The other is through film, both black-and-white and in color. The color is made possible through a special grant by the Quarterback club in a vote Tuesday night. The

THE CVE TRAVELERS open their season Monday night with a game against the Ada Oilers of Houston at Junior high school. It is the Travelers' first game in the National Industrial Basketball League.

This year's Travelers you've got to see. They have the one great thing missing last year—height. The Great Factor in American basketball today.

They have also picked up a couple of speed merchants. Advance ticket sales indicate this should be a good year for the Travelers as far as attendance goes. Yet Artesia has never supported the club in the style to which it should be accustomed.

This is the year when the city must make up its mind about the Travelers—we think that's pretty well understood, so 'nuff said. Be there Monday night.

UNM President To Speak Before State Newsmen

ALBUQUERQUE — Tom Popejoy, president of the University of New Mexico whose athletic policies have been under fire in recent weeks, appears Monday before a group of New Mexico newsmen.

The university president will be guest of honor and speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the New Mexico professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, an organization of newspaper men and radio newsmen throughout the state.

Popejoy is expected to discuss his feelings and policies on the athletic situation at the university.

UD Votes Not To Accept Bid For Sun Bowl

DENVER — Denver university's football squad voted itself out of the Sun Bowl New Year's Day football game yesterday.

Most observers eyed the action as leaving the door open for acceptance of a bid to the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., if one turns up.

Last week, the Gator Bowl committee was reported to have shown interest in the Skyline conference champs. By beating Colorado A&M yesterday, Denver won the circuit crown.

Encourage That Trading Here

THERE ARE a good many things that every community, including Artesia, can do to encourage people to trade with us.

Oftentimes we get so busy with our own particular problems we neglect or forget what folks say about us as a city or a community or about our places of business. Sometimes we just are not at the right places at the right time to hear what they say.

And in most instances if we did hear what they were saying we would do something about it.

We recently happened to be in another city in another state and heard what one of the traveling men had to say about parking in that city. He pointed out he visited the city often; his firm contributed to a special celebration they held each year; and they gave freely to the ball club there. However, he stated, there were no places to park and no public parking lots. The result was he parked where he could and when he was cited into police court for parking overtime he didn't like it.

He didn't object to paying the fee for the parking meter although he was convinced that parking meters did not solve anything except help provide more funds for the city.

What he was objecting to, of course, was taking the time and trouble to go to the city police station to pay the small fee assessed for violating of a parking meter regulation.

We haven't any answer for taking care of the folks from outside our city who come in to shop with us because their license plates are all the same as those of the residents of Artesia. However, we have adopted a policy of placing courtesy tickets on those of state or out of county license plates on their cars.

We also could work out some ways and means so when our farmers and ranchers come in they could have courtesy cards of some type so if they stay a few minutes over their allotted time they won't have to run back to drop nickels in the parking meters or won't have to go down to court or the police station to pay a fee.

It is just one of those things which helps show the folks spending money with us we appreciate their business and we want to continue to enjoy their business and we want them to continue to trade in Artesia.

There are always too many others trying to get business that belongs to us to overlook doing anything that helps keep this business here.

Cottonwood Community Club Holds Thanksgiving Lunch

Cottonwood Community Extension club celebrated its annual Thanksgiving luncheon with an all-day affair Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Everett O'Bannon with Mrs. Glenn O'Bannon as co-hostess.

Turkey with dressing, yams, variety of salads, pumpkin pie and coffee were served buffet style from a table complimented by a large cornucopia of fruit, with miniature cornucopias filled with fall flowers decorating the individual tables. Decorations were arranged by G. W. O'Bannon, son of the co-hostess.

Following the dinner a business meeting was called by Mrs. Elton Green, president. A report was made of the council meeting in Carlsbad by the council committee. The new program for the year was also introduced.

The next and last meeting of the year will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 21, at the home of Mrs. Monroe Howard in the form of a Christmas party. It was decided that each one bring two gifts, one for a mystery friend and one exchange of gift.

Those attending the dinner were Mrs. Arch Horton, Mrs. Curtis Sharp, Mrs. David King, Mrs. Elton Green, Mrs. Curtis Anderson, Mrs. Button Schultz, Mrs. H. V. Highland is believed to have a generally stronger line than the Artesia Bulldogs, while Artesia is given the nod on speed through its now-famous backfield.

Artesia will be at the disadvantage of having scouted Highland only once—that when Highland played Albuquerque High last Saturday morning, losing on penetrations after tying 7-7.

The Bulldogs will also be playing at an altitude of some 2,000 feet more than they are accustomed to, with the university field at nearly 530 feet against the 3300 feet of Artesia's Morris Field.

The early trip to Albuquerque by the team is aimed at overcoming initial difficulties with that altitude.

Early tomorrow morning, Senior high school's big band, the Pep club and other pep groups will leave for Albuquerque. A large group of fans is expected to attend the contest. The trip of the band and other organized high school booster groups is made possible through an overwhelming community subscription of $612 in a tag day last Saturday.

A third airman was involved in the smashup but was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell where his condition is reported as critical. He was identified as Ronald Moses, 21, suffering from two broken hips, severe head injuries and possible internal injuries.

STATE POLICE investigating the accident from Roswell and Artesia said apparently neither driver had time to apply his brakes, since there were no traces of skid marks on the highway. The Dunn car was traveling north.

Both cars came to a halt on the east side of the highway, with photographs showing the point of impact apparently in the east lane. Terry was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by a passing physician.

An inquest was held at Roswell this morning but no information was available to the Advocate at press time.

Other state highway victims were Joan C. Grinsdale, 22, Santa Rita; Katherine Quinn, 20, Cleveland, N. M.; George Thomas Stagner, 27, Albuquerque; and Mrs. Jessie Davis, 32, Maywood, Calif.

All died in separate accidents, the first two on Wednesday and the last two Thursday.

Miss Grinsdale lost her life when she was impaled on a bridge rail when the car in which she was riding went out of control 23 miles south of Socorro.

Mrs. Davis died of injuries received Tuesday when the car in which she was riding blew a tire and crashed at high speed 12 miles east of Deming.

Miss Quinn died after she fell

Leaf-Burning Care Is Urged By Firemen

Caution in burning leaves has been urged on Artesia householders by the city fire department.

Public Relations Chairman J. D. Smith said care in tending burning piles of leaves "will save the fire department a lot of runs this fall."

Smith advised that residents burning leaves should not leave fires unattended, since quick-rising fall winds and general tinder-dryness cause fires to spread rapidly.

Artesia Request For Flood Damage Aid Is Speeded

Artesia's request for emergency aid from the federal government on damage as a result of the Oct. 7 flood is receiving top priority.

City engineer Doug Fowler said this morning he received a phone call from the federal civil defense administration office in Washington, assuring him that the application is being processed "as fast as possible."

The application calls for some $19,000 aid for damaged city streets and sewer lines as a result of the flood.

Routine Honey Mission Causes Two Accidents

LONG BEACH, Calif. — A bee on a routine honey gathering mission caused two traffic crashes yesterday.

The insect whizzed into a car driven by Mrs. Florence Lassiter, who grabbed a book, made a swipe it and missed. The book flew from her hand. As she leaned to pick it up she crashed into Walter Page's car, police said.

The impact threw Page's auto into one driven by Sam Macadoo, who had two passengers riding with him, officers added. All five persons involved suffered cuts and bruises and the cars were badly damaged.

Win for Texas Saves Neck of Coach Price

AUSTIN — Texas continues its hoary joust over Texas A&M in their deep-set Southwest football rivalry and it probably has stilled for the time being the cries for Texas Coach Ed Price's scalp.

The Longhorns beat Texas A&M 22-13 yesterday to preserve the tradition of Memorial Stadium — no Aggie team ever has won there — as Billy Quinn, Charley Brewer and Joe Youngblood pooled their talents for a mighty effort when the chips were on the line. Sixty thousand saw the first game of the rivals.

Quinn roamed for 106 yards and a touchdown, Brewer passed for 121 and two touchdowns and Youngblood, in addition to some terrific running and catching a touchdown pass, booted a 17-yard field goal.

Texas, at the end of a disastrous season during which Price came under fire of the alumni, wound up in fifth place in the Southwest conference standings while A&M finished last without a victory. It was the worst season Coach Paul Bryant ever has had. Bryant came to A&M from Kentucky this year.

Texas had a season record of four victories, five defeats and one tie whereas it had been the heaviest pre-season favorite to win the championship in the history of the conference. A&M wound up with one victory and nine defeats. The lone Aggie triumph was a 6-0 inter-sectional decision over Georgia.

Before the game the Longhorn club, an organization that yields strong influence with the administration and the board of regents, held a meeting it had been indicated Price would be discussed. But the club decided it should not involve itself in anything relating to the coaching situation.

JURY SAYS KILLED SELF

ROSSELL — A coroner's jury held yesterday that Robert Willis Strang, 37, died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds. He was found dead Wednesday on the S. P. Johnson ranch 35 miles southwest of Roswell. James I. Boyer told officers he found Strang on his bed. A heavy rifle and box of shells were nearby.

ROAD SUIT PLANNED

SANTA FE — A demarcation suit against 19 properties along U. S. 66 in Grants is to be filed to obtain 20 feet more right-of-way for a four-lane divided highway. Robert W. de la Rue right of way engineer for the State Highway Department said the suit would be filed by the Valencia county commission. The job is to be awarded next spring.

Holiday Makeup Selection Is Important for All Women

By VIVIAN BROWN
 AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Know your own type when you choose your holiday makeup. Latin types can't wear the same makeup that their blue-eyed blonde sisters use. Honey blondes—Swedish, German, Polish—would find heavy makeup that are becoming to Spanish señoritas too overwhelming for their fair complexions.
 Fair skinned and clear olive skinned girls can go for the well-scrubbed look. But darker and muddier complexions need emphasis of their complexion tones to point up their natural vivacity.
 Members of the Union de Mujeres Americanas (United Women of the Americas) recently attended a lecture conducted by Goubaud of Paris to learn the A-B-C's of applying American makeup to emphasize Spanish beauty.

The girls were taught to play up their sparkling brown eyes, deepen the tone of their olive skins and emphasize their natural full-lipped beauty.
 The program started with a skin cleansing technique using a peach milk and skin freshener. A peach powder foundation was applied to lend a smoother surface for the face powder, a tone deeper than the foundation. The peach shade seemed to bring a special glow to the darker skin.

Most Señoritas have enchanting eyes, born for moonlight, fiesta, guitars and romantic songs, so these Latin ladies were shown how to emphasize their lashes and eyebrows. A refined oil lubricant or eyelash oil was applied as a lash softener. Mascara was applied heavily but not stickily. After the application a dry mascara brush was used to separate the lashes so they would fall naturally. An eyelash curler was used after this to give added length to shorter lashes.

Green eyeshadow was recommended for mocha-brown eyes, violet eyeshadow for green eyes. The eyeshadow was applied with a brush, starting at the middle of the lid and gently brushing out toward the temples until the shadow is smoothed. For evening wear a gold metallic eyeshadow was recommended for wear over the green shadow, giving eyes a special sheen.
 Eyebrow pencil was applied with short featherlike strokes to give a natural brow line.
 Sometimes two lipsticks are used in harmonizing colors. They are applied with a brush, using the darker lipstick first, blotted dry with tissue, then the second or lighter shade, giving the mouth a becoming natural outline.

Rouge is applied over the foundation, just enough to lend a faint blush. Most Spanish women have oval faces, requiring just a dot on the cheekbone which may be smoothed upward and out, fading it in toward the ears.

Whistling Work For Housewife Working in Navy

AP Newsfeatures
 UTICA, N. Y. — Whistling is work for Mrs. Mary Lee.
 You might call her a whistler. A great part of her job is blowing whistles, indirectly for the U.S. Navy.

Mrs. Lee works for a company which has made about 75,000 boatswain's whistles for the Navy. Her job: test 'em.
 She figures that she's tested more than 70,000, giving each a two-second blast. If the blasts were laid end to end, she says, they would reach for about 39 hours of whistling. She also inserts the little silver rings in the whistles if they whistle up to specifications.

"It's a bit monotonous at times," she says, "but a job's a job."
 Birds often were symbols of ancient Greek gods—the heron for Athena, the cuckoo for Hera, the swan for Apollo.

Goose Winning Favor as Bird For Holidays

By SANKY TRIMBLE
 AP Newsfeatures

LAS CRUCES, N. M. — The goose will hang high this holiday season, if a New Mexico farmer can convince American housewives.

Dean Stahmann, who raises everything for a dinner from canapes to nuts, is trying to stage a comeback for a one-time favorite table treat—the goose.

Not the overfat bird of yesterday, though the lean, young gosling is Stahmann's pet project. Originally he used geese to keep the cotton rows—sown between the pecan trees—weed-free. The geese pull up everything but the cotton.

Now it is different. The goose is

MOTOR REWINDING AND REPAIRING
 Fletcher Electric Company

king and Stahmann himself has become a kitchen expert on how to cook and eat a goose.

In Stahmann's operation, the goslings go into what amounts to an airconditioned hotel and gorge on vitamins. They get barley with rice polishings and rice bran, alfalfa meal, dried milk and a custom-mixed vitamin. At 13 weeks—when most of them weigh about six pounds—they go into a specially designed processing plant to be readied for the market.

Stahmann doesn't go along with the old theory you should cook a goose without dressing. He prefers the old-fashion bread stuffing with a good touch of cornbread.

The bird should be cooked at about 325 degrees, with a clove of garlic under each wing if you like just a tang, until the skin is mahogany brown and the skin crackles. When it comes out of the oven the bird is lean, beautiful and the meat splits off the breast bone at the touch of a fork. The time is about four hours in the oven for the normal size junior goose.
 What about the leftovers?
 Stahmann has no doubts about the culinary imagination of the American housewife. But just as some suggestions, how about a case of goose, goose broth, broiled goose, baked goose, noodles?

How often should you change oil filters? 2000 miles? 2500? 5000? Never! say the experts. You're wasting money ...and may be damaging your engine!

ENGINEERS DISCOVER HOW TO MAKE YOUR CAR LAST YEARS LONGER!

This is the secret that wouldn't keep—the discovery that can make present-day engines last hundreds of thousands of miles.

WHAT'S THE STORY ON OIL?
 To combat increasing engine friction in modern engines, lubrication engineers have developed new oils containing the "additives" you hear so much about. These additives are worth the extra 15¢ to 25¢ you are paying for oil, but...

ORDINARY FILTERS REMOVE THE ADDITIVES!
 The rag and paper filter packs you buy made of absorbent material soak up additives like a blotter, the money you are paying for additives is, for the most part, wasted. And ordinary filters give irregular filtration, allowing large abrasive particles to pass through to damage engine parts.
 Other faults of throwaway filter: they filter only 5% of the oil when it's cold, causing excessive engine wear during the first 3-5 miles of driving; and they "clog" and "channel" as oil pressure forces openings in the filter pack, making it worthless.

METALLURGISTS FIND THE ANSWER
 To overcome these filtration problems, engineers decided an entirely new kind of filter material had to be developed. Obviously, it had to be metal—but there was no way of making a metal screen fine enough.
 Finally, metallurgists found the answer by fusing together millions of tiny bronze balls into a porous filter. Being non-absorbent, it wouldn't remove additives, yet abrasives simply couldn't get through the spaces between the tiny bronze balls. And, since bronze just doesn't wear out, it would never have to be replaced!

Amazing LIFE-TIME Filter Now Here!

The Life-time Oil Filter was immediately tested by Government proving centers and pressed into service filtering liquid oxygen, nitrogen, etc., for guided missiles. Besides government tests, millions of miles of road tests in truck, taxi, and car rental fleets reveal amazing results — because the Life-time filter doesn't soak up additives, engine life is greatly increased wherever it is used.
 Now the Life-time filter is ready for use in your car.

Since porous bronze can't "channel", abrasives can't get through—but oil additives can, because Life-time filter is non-absorbent.
 After 2,000 miles — or 10,000 — oil is free of abrasives, but dark, proving engine is clean.
 The Life-time filter never needs changing—just rinse it occasionally in gasoline and it's good as new. Guaranteed for ten years.
