By the time a baby is 6 to 7 months old he discovers he can throw.

About now he'll enjoy playing ball. He'll sit on the floor and push a big ball away from him and love to have you push it back so he can do it again.

During the first year a baby doesn't need many bought toys, but you'll probably want to get him some. Get plastic rattles, rings, big beads on a string, a small stuffed animal or two, or tails to wiggle are more fun than snug ones. He'll like a soft rubber toy that squeaks. A large soft ball and something that dumps into something else are good toward the end of the first year.

Watch out that every toy is safe. Be sure it is too big to choke on and has no loose parts that can come off, like whistles in rubber toys, buttons on stuffed animals, stones in rattles. See that there are no sharp edges or points and no paint that could poison him.

Women's Industrial, Art Show Attracts Entries By Thousands

By JOY MILLER

AP Newsfeatures Writer

They felt pretty daring, the women from Keokuk and Blue Hill who traipsed off in the early 1920s to display their home crafts and industrial interests in booths set up in a New York City hotel.

It was called Women's Activities Exhibit then. And it looked a great deal like a county fair.

But today, 31 annual exhibits later, the Women's Exposition of Arts and Industries—as it's called now—is a vast, well-organized clearing house for the year's activities of tens of thousands of women from all over the United States.

In fact, so many women participate through the 150 nationally known women's organizations and the 30 different nationality groups that not even the sponsors, the Women's National Institute, knows the exact number.

The show, held this year at a New York City armory, points up the ever-widening interests of women in social, educational, cultural, religious and patriotic fields.

As for handicrafts, 10 rooms show their application to modern living, with demonstrations of handmade work and how-to methods.

The nationality groups display and sell the products and foods of their ancestral countries — from sausages to colorful blouses — to raise money for annual charitable projects.

And there's a fashion show, beauty contest and international cat parade to entertain the 100,000 persons expected to attend.

One of the featured attractions is a one-woman show of more than 30 prize-winning quilts, the lifetime work of Bertha Stenge, a Chicago housewife. Mrs. Stenge says:

"When I first started making quilts 25 years ago, I used traditional designs. Now I go in for originals. Sometimes the research work on an historical subject will take as long as six months before I start whipping stitches. Although I've made 35 quilts, I expect to have a collection of 50 before I call it quits."

A housewife from New Jersey, Mrs. Anita H. Grotefend of Westfield, who has turned apron-making into a successful business, has a booth decked out with her colorful product.

"I made my first apron in Rio de Janeiro, where I was born," she explains. "It was as flamboyant as anything you ever saw. All my friends admired it so much that I started making aprons as gifts. My husband became ill. It's nice to be doing something you love and know that it gives women a lift while doing their kitchen chores."

The day after a show closes, the women start in planning for next year's exhibition.

Mrs. Louise Popiel of Miami integrating the programs of the Shores, Fla., who has the task of nationality groups, is proud of the efficient way the women conduct their meetings and work out the details.

"Men think that women take longer than they do in making up their minds," she says. "I think that we women could teach them a few pointers. No all-men board meeting can beat us when it comes to making rapid-fire decisions on exposition matters."

Despite Short Practice, Bulldogs Trim Hagerman Club

Although the 1954-55 Bulldog football squad has been in practice a little over one week, they trimmed the Hagerman Bobcats in the season opener Saturday.

Bulldog Coach Verlon Davis, some of his lettermen have not yet begun practice, as a result of the delayed football season. The Hagerman squad has been practicing the game now for better than a month.

During the third set, Hagerman made every effort to close the gap, bringing the score to 49-31, but not enough to stop the final Bulldog thrust of 18 points in the fourth, which the Bobcats matched ending the game 65-47.

Skyliners Win 6 Of Seven Games, Saturday Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skyline conference basketball teams fared well the first big week-end of the new season, winning six of seven non-league contests Saturday night.

Utah humbled Idaho, 71-54; Denver edged Regis, 66-63; Colorado A&M slipped by Colorado State, 38-34; Wyoming whipped Montana State, 77-63; Utah State beat Idaho State, 66-58, and New Mexico trimmed Eastern New Mexico, 88-65.

Brigham Young was the only loser. The powerful University of Colorado Buffaloes conquered the Cougars, 88-66. Montana was idle.

Skyline teams this week will play 16 games, all against non-league opponents. The action will start tonight with Brigham Young winding up its two-game series at Colorado and Utah entertaining Hawaii in the first of two contests.

Courtney has been sought by several clubs including Cleveland ever since he broke in with the old St. Louis Browns. He is regarded as a high spirited competitor, a good handler of pitchers but only a moderate hitter.

Johnson is the No. 1 player going to the Orioles. A former New York Yankee farmhand, he appeared in 46 games and had an 8-7 record.

Travelers Move Into Second Game With Phillips Tonight

With a none-won, two-lost record already in National Industrial Basketball League competition, the CVE Travelers move into another game tonight with Phillips 66ers.

Defeated 79 to 48 Friday night at Bartlesville by the 66ers, the Travelers tonight face what may be the nation's top basketball team in Arkansas City, Kans.

Both Friday and tonight's games are league encounters. Wednesday, the Travelers meet the Caterpillars of Peoria, Ill., then Friday and Saturday go against the Goodyear Wingfoots, all in NIBL contests.

Friday's game will be played in Akron, Ohio, Saturday's in St. Mary's, Ohio.

The Travelers won't play a home game until Dec. 20, when they are scheduled to host the 66ers on the road at Artesia Junior high school hard-wood.

In Friday night's contest, a tight Phillips defense bottled up Artesia scoring patterns.

Arnold Short of the 66ers was high point man with 16, followed by Don Heathington of Artesia, and Chuck Darling of Phillips, with 13 apiece.

At one time in the first half, Artesia did-head the Phillips club but the 66ers made it 41-27 by halftime.

There was no contest in the second half.

Arkansas Coach Gets New Cad, Pay Increases

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)— Less than two years ago Bowden Wyatt arrived at the University of Arkansas from Wyoming, driving a pickup truck.

The Razorback football coach and his wife and daughter will step into a 1955 Cadillac today, a gift from the people of Arkansas in recognition of Wyatt's astonishing success with the Razorbacks.

That's not all that's in store for the young Cotton Bowl-bound coach. There's the matter of $20,300 contributed by thousands of Arkansas people in a whirlwind two-week Bowden Wyatt appreciation fund drive.

On top of that, Wyatt has been voted a pay increase of $12,000 to $15,000 yearly by the university board of trustees.

Also, the trustees hope to give Wyatt and his staff an extra month's pay this year. That will be to pay for the added effort of coaching the Razorbacks prior to their Jjan. 1 Cotton Bowl date with Georgia Tech in Dallas.

At the same time the Browns clinched at least a tie for the eastern division title—an honor and a chance at their third successive off by Paul Brown's club the last five years.

The New York Giants, however, maintained a mathematical chance of tying the Browns by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-3.

The Chicago Bears strengthened their hold on second place in the western division with a 29-7 decision over the Chicago Cardinals and San Francisco, still in the running for second place back of the Lions, suuhot

Baylor Tops Arkansas in Yards—But Not on Scoreboard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southwest conference football campaign is over, and statistics show Baylor should be the champion instead of Arkansas.

The Golden Bears led both in offense and defense, averaging 329.7 yards per game and giving up 261.

Baylor beat out Southern Methodist as a result of the final game—SMU's 26-14 loss to Notre Dame Saturday. The Irish ran up 477 yards on the Methodists, holding them to 103.

Arkansas, which won the championship, was a flat last in both statistical departments. The Razorbacks averaged only 246 yards per game on offense and gave up 279.8 on defense.

Baylor players took two individual championships. Billy Hooper led passers with 56 completions in 107 throws for 818 yards with Duane Nutt of SMU second with 58 connections on 105 throws for 783 yards.

Nutt didn't play in SMU's final game or he might have overtaken Hooper.

New Mexico Skiers Anxiously Wait for Snowfall Dates Near for Practice for National Event

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Sure, there has been a smattering of light, powdery snow on the almost barren slopes of the state's three ski runs, but it has melted almost as soon as it hit the ground.

The winter sport faithful, with the promise of a national event to be held in March to climax the season, are patiently watching the skies for a trace of snow-bearing clouds.

La Madera run near Albuquerque is probably in the best shape—snow-wise—of the three. About a foot is still needed at Santa Fe Basin, and only a light covering has fallen at Tres Ritos near Taos.

Tres Ritos, however, is holding hopes of having enough snow by the middle of this month to start the season, but doesn't expect to have sufficient pack for general participation until after the first of the year.

A great deal of work has been done on each of the three courses, particularly at Santa Fe where the hasin will host the 1955 U.S. National Senior Giant Slalom championship.

The area has been selected one of the top 12 ski resorts in the country by a national sports publication.

The power lift has been completely rebuilt. Two electric generators, replacing gas engine power, are in operation. Five slopes are open, one for experts and two each for intermediates and beginners.

A new Skikulli, a German made lift, will be installed soon, higher on the slope than the present power lift. It is a T-bar type lift.

Looking ahead, the course plans the installation next year of a new Polish type power lift about 5000 feet long. It will have a rise of 1400 feet to the top of Sangre de Cristo peak. The lift is now being manufactured in Poland.

Near Albuquerque, work is continuing on improving the various courses.

La Madera run is being managed by the Albuquerque Ski club again this year. The course has a T-bar tow in operation, carrying skiers 4,200 feet to the top of Ski Bowl. The trails extend much higher, but skiers must get there on foot.

The best trail extends about 7,000 feet, ending near La Madera Lodge. The lodge, high in the Sandia Mountains, in the past has drawn about 500 to 1,000 on good weekends.

Brennan Happy Over His First Irish Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)— Terry Brennan, 26, is proud of his Notre Dame football team and "very happy" over the 1954 season.

But the successor to Coach Frank Leahy asserted he is already worried about the 1955 opener against SMU, the team the Irish whipped Saturday 26-14.

"Southern Methodist had a lot of fine looking juniors out there," said Brennan.

"We'll lose eight of our starting eleven men and we'll have to field practically a new line. So it's simple arithmetic that Southern Methodist will have the edge."

American Doubles Team Overwhelms Aussies in Finals

MELBOURNE (AP)— American's Davis Cup doubles combination of Viv Seixas and Tony Trabert staged a stirring comeback today to beat Australia's Wimbledon champions, Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, in the finals of the Victorian tennis championships, 4-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

The triumph, following the semifinal conquest of Australia's other tandem of Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, buoyed U. S. cup hopes and virtually eliminated Hartwig and Rose from challenge round consideration.

"I don't think the selectors would dare take a chance with Rose," said Colin Long, former Australian player who writes for the Melbourne Sun.

Bill Talbert, the U. S. captain, took the triumph calmly. He said he was "very pleased," but was not interpreting it as a sure doubles point in the Davis cup competition.

"I thought the boys won without having to extend themselves," Talbert said. "Even so it was too

Top Designer Is Convinced Dior Look Unpopular

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

The way to find out what women want to wear is to ask them, says Oleg Cassini, a designer known for clothes that dramatize the feminine figure.

Accordingly, when news of Christian Dior's move to minimize the bustline was flashed from Paris, this suave Italian consulted some of the young ladies with whom he is frequently seen at New York's smarter night spots.

"I found," says Cassini, "that the girls had no interest in the flat-chested look, and they preferred clothes that showed off their slim waists. After all, if you have a figure, why not make the most of it?"

His new collection for resort and early spring, therefore, preserves the curves, achieving a new look by use of the long-torso silhouette and longer jackets on suits.

"I don't believe in tampering with a woman's figure," continues Cassini. "The bosom remains as nature intended it. And my dresses also have waistslines."

Cassini believes in clothes that fit the kind of lives American women lead.

"If you can't sit down, breathe or walk in your new costume, you're not going to look either pretty or happy in it," he says. "Many French designers do not understand the American woman's active life, and that is why European clothes always have to be modified and adapted before they are successful over here."

In his new collection, Cassini highlights the sweater dress and the "sweater look."

He shows sweater tops for evening gowns knit daytime dresses with matching or contrasting cardigans, sweaters in all guises and for all occa-

Spring Bulbs Are Forced to Bloom Early

AP Newsfeatures
Gardeners are busy citizens these days planting next Spring's bulbs, next June's roses, next summer's perennials, shrubs and trees.

They are not too busy, however, to take pause and heave a pensive sigh—not so much at the prospect of winter as at the long wait before the daffodils glow and the tulips grow.

New gardeners may think they have no choice but to sit out the winter and wait for the Spring dance. Seasoned lads, with a way about them, already are promoting a December date with some paper white narcissus and dreaming of an indoor rendezvous with a pot of red tulips to brighten a dull winter day.

The trick merely is to borrow a page from the florist's book on forcing spring bulbs to bloom weeks or months ahead of schedule.

Buy quality bulbs now and heed your nursery or seed man's advice on the best types for forcing.

The narcissus is the easiest and simplest to manage for early indoor bloom. Set the bulbs in pebbles and water in a decorative container in a cool dark place until the tainer suited to the purpose, and roots are established and upper end. Cool darkness and moisture growth starts. Add water as needed. Prime essentials with these bulbs. Full growing directions usually are provided with the purchase.

When the leaves start growing, move to a light, coolish room—60 to 65 degrees. Always bear in mind that spring bulbs are cool weather flowers by nature.

Tulips and daffodils must be potted in good soil: try a mixture of one part peatmoss, one part sand, and two parts topsoil. Use wide clay pots at least five inches deep. Cover the bulbs with about a half or one inch of soil.

Daffodils and tulips need about eight to 10 weeks in a dark, moist place where the temperature doesn't go above about 40 degrees. To get these conditions, many gardeners sink the potted bulbs in a trench about a foot and a half deep in the garden. Each pot is covered with an inverted pot, and heaps with ashes. This protects against worms.

After this cooling off period, the bulbs are ready to bring out to a light—but still cool place indoors. After a few days, set them in a sunny window where the temperature won't go above 60 degrees.

cool indoor temperature edict. The Don't be discouraged about the area near a window, away from a radiator, usually will fill the requirements well.

Fancy leaved caladiums also live the indoor winter landscape. They are grown easily, and thrive even in warm apartments. For a little effort, you'll get an effect with the colorful, decorative leaves that will have your guests exclaiming.

But don't forget those outdoor chores. Winter is nipping at your

Stuffed Animal Toys Cherished By Youngsters

AP Newsfeatures
Kids the world over cherish stuffed animal, especially who has a personality of its own.

One of the most personable of the stuffed animal kingdom is the inquisitive dachshund, appropriately called "Nosy" and irresistibly made in brown velvet.

A standard pattern has called for center directions, and local center experts who have tried it say even if you've never made a stuffed animal before, this one is sure to be a success.

Only 3/4 yard of brown velvet is required for Nosy, and Susie would love to have matching a little brown velvet skirt. Nosy is stuffed with ton batting and the eraser eraser pencil is used to fill such to-get-at places as the legs tail. The eye is a beady jet black over a circle of felt; a green satin bow adds a hot touch.

The pattern also includes directions for a cuddly stuffed made from terry cloth and stuffed with shredded foam rubber washability. Faces on both dolls may be embroidered on sewing machine, with the transfers included with the pattern envelope.

Stuffed animals are good but stretchers, too, since they may be made from ragbag scraps.
