Americans Flee Riot-Torn Casablanca

THE ARTESIAN WELL

By RICK RAPHAEL

We have long contended that New Mexico is the last outpost of the western frontier life and a sign in Nelson's market window this week confirmed our opinions. There, in big bold letters was the sign "Buffalo Steaks on Sale."

Now in this day and age we have gotten to the point where something really surprises us. Buffalo steaks startled us the least.

We got on the phone and talked with C. C. Nelson. "Tender as butter," he says, "and if you don't know it beforehand, you'd think you're eating good top quality beef."

Seems that Mr. Wilson has a friend in the game department, stationed in Roswell. His friend has been raising and feeding three of the months of the plains for a couple of years. Came time to decide what to do with the bison and Nelson offered to buy and dress out a young two-year-old. Took umpteen forms and permits from the game department to slaughter the vanishing American but finally the job was done and the buffalo which weighed 740 pounds, dressed out at 460.

So now, pardner, shuck yer coonskin cap, draw your hunk closer to the ol' campfire, hunker down and chomp a tender hunk o' buffalo.

That buffalo steak along with the fascinating face of the Golden Jubilee is going to be more than a 50-year celebration. It is fast turning into a complete re-creation of 1905 which in our opinion is wonderful. And the product will be the result of proud and unending efforts on the part of people like Bill Bennett, Mrs. Beatrice Blocker, Paul Scott and a score of other Artesians who are really putting their hearts and time into making the August festivities a truly great occasion.

It looks like baseball has made the grade for another year in Artesia. The fund committee seems assured of raising the money.

Scores Dead As French Army Seizes Control

CASABLANCA, Morocco, July 16 (AP)—The French army took over riot-battered Casablanca under martial law today and fired on Moroccan demonstrators in the native quarters. Five Moroccans were killed and 19 injured.

This brought the toll from rioting which had raged intermittently since Thursday night to 32 dead and at least 96 injured, by official count. Most Casablanca residents believe the toll is much higher.

As a precaution, U. S. military officers ordered all military personnel to take refuge at one of the American bases in Morocco.

Civilian Refuge

American civilians also were invited to seek safety there. The United States operates four air bases in Morocco and has a big naval base at Port Lyautey. The Army also operates a small port installation at Casablanca.

At almost the same hour as the shooting occurred in the native quarter, funeral services were being held at the Casablanca Cathedral.

Four Persons Die In State Road Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four persons lost their lives and several persons were injured Saturday in three separate accidents in New Mexico.

The dead were identified as Solomon Chavez, 72, Alameda; Alfonso Campbell, 55, Mesa, Ariz.; Mrs. Arline Jones, 70, Oklahoma City; and Victor Barela, 33, Pecos.

Chavez died in a two-car accident on the northern outskirts of Albuquerque. Sheriff's officers Richard Metzger and Bill Dawson investigated. They said the two cars collided at an intersection near Alameda.

Three other men were injured in the accident. Two of them were identified as T. Sgt. Donald E. Lent, Sandia Base and Ernest Jaramillo, Alameda. The identity of the third man was not immediately available.

Earlier in the day, Campbell and Mrs. Jones were killed in a head-on accident 20 miles west of Roswell. Five other persons were injured.

President Sees End To Long Cold War In Big Four Meet

GENEVA, July 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower reached Geneva tonight for a new and peaceful crusade in Europe.

Sunburned and smiling, the United States President arrived for the momentous Big Four summit conference next week and declared he hoped it would "lead all the world into a more tranquil and fuller way of life."

Other leaders of East and West, converging here for what may be turning-point talks in the 10-year cold war, also voiced optimism.

The President was cheered by a large crowd held back at the airport fence as he alighted from his plane, Columbine, 111.

Recalls War

He made a brief speech recalling "some 11 years ago I came to Europe with an Army, Navy and Air Force with a single purpose—to destroy Nazism."

"I came with the formations of war and all of the circumstances of war surrounded that journey at that time."

"This time I come armed with something far more powerful: the good will of America—the great hopes of America—the aspirations of America for peace. That is why I have come here, in this beautiful country of yours, to meet with my colleagues from other countries to see whether it is not best to find some road that will lead all mankind into a more tranquil, better, fuller way of life."

Family With Him

The United States President, attired in a single-breasted dark grey suit, blue tie and light blue shirt, was accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, who will act as his personal aide here.

He was greeted by Swiss President Max Petitpierre.

Earlier, at a refueling stopover in Iceland, the American chief executive told correspondents he

Dramatic Wave Of Prayers Go With President

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The prayers of his countrymen followed President Eisenhower across the Atlantic today and offered him added strength in the quest for world peace.

Clergymen of all faiths responded swiftly to the President's dramatic suggestion for a demonstration of the "depth of our aspirations for peace."

Across the country, rabbis, ministers and priests made quick changes in their weekend services to add their congregations to what the President had termed "a mighty force."

Five Services

Some, like the Very Rev. James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Episcopal in New York, had anticipated the President's idea. Not only were five peace services to be conducted at the cathedral today, but special prayers for the success of the Geneva conference were offered last Sunday.

The World Council of Churches and the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. had already appealed for special prayers.

And many Americans who could not join in special observances this

Mutinous Wyoming Convicts Grab Guards in Cell Block

RAWLINS, Wyo., July 16 (AP)—Mutinous convicts seized control of a new cell block in the Wyoming prison today and held three guards as hostages. None of the convicts has escaped.

The guards were locked in individual cells in the block. Another guard, L. F. (Ben) Reeves, 56, was cut on the hand by a knife carried by a prisoner as he succeeded in breaking away from the rioters.

The riot began about 9:30 a.m. and numerous panes of glass in the cell block were smashed. Guards fired tear gas and the mutineers grew quiet. However, they threatened harm to the hostages if tear gas was used again.

They were armed with butcher knives taken from the prison kitchen, plus knives of their own devising, pieces of horse shoes and other weapons.

Warden Deane Miller, who was absent from the penitentiary when the disturbance began, returned soon afterward. He held two meetings with spokesmen for the rioting prisoners—estimated at about 75 of the 275 inmates.

At the second meeting the warden was accompanied by Secretary of State Everett T. Copenhaver.

The rioters held in their honor, including a barbeque picnic for the oldtimers and their families at Central Park, Aug. 10. This is a goodwill gesture of the Old Timers Committee to assure that no oldtimer is overlooked, insofar as recognition is concerned, for the fiftieth year celebration.

Hit-And-Run Charge Nets Wanted Man

A man sought since May 14 for a shooting affray at a northside tavern, was taken into custody by Artesia police Friday night, leaving the scene of a collision in the 500 block W. Main.

Jose Jimenez Munoz, aged 24, allegedly collided with a car driven by Willis R. Williams, about 9:30 Friday evening. Damage to Williams car was estimated at $50 and about $100 to Munoz' vehicle.

Munoz had been previously sought on charges of unlawfully carrying a concealed weapon and for brandishing and shooting a firearm within the city limits. Arraignment was held Saturday morning in City Police Court on all four charges. On a plea of "not guilty," Munoz was held over for trial by Judge John Elliott, for Monday at 4 p. m. Munoz is currently in the city jail under $200 bond.

Real Jubilee Celebrities Will Be Valley Old Timers

The real celebrities of Artesia's fiftieth year celebration will be the oldtimers; those who traveled westward to the Pecos Valley in covered wagons and who staked their future in the fortune of the Artesia area.

Three Artesians Enlist In Navy

Three Artesia youths enlisted in the Navy Wednesday and are now stationed at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif. where they are undergoing recruit training.

They are Jose Luevano, son of Mrs. Sara Luevano, 105 Yucca Street; Antonia Navrette, son of Mrs. Julia Navrette, 110 Kemp Street; and Dionysio Perez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Perez, 113 Cleveland Street.

The announcement was made by Chief Jerry Morton of the Navy Recruiting Office in Carlsbad, who recruited the youths. Chief Morton said that there are still a few openings in the Navy to be filled during the month of July. Those interested should contact Chief Morton at the Navy Recruiting Station, City Hall, Carlsbad.

Rifle Club Talks National Tie-Ins

The first meeting of the Rifle Club was held Thursday evening at the high school, in conjunction with the City Recreation program. Instructor James Elliott talked to the group about the possibility of affiliating with the National Rifle Association, having team matches, and the location of a rifle range.

Also discussed was the meeting time, with the group choosing Monday as the meeting night. Each member present was asked to bring a new member to the next meeting to be held on Monday, July 18, at 7:30 p. m., in Room 16 at the high school. All interested teen-agers and adults are invited to attend.

12-Year-Old Rape Victim Switches Story In Court

HOBBS, July 16, (AP)—A 26-year-old oilfield worker who apparently jumped from the frying pan into the fire said Saturday night he will fight extradition to Texas on a statutory rape charge.

Elton Eugene Hosea won dismissal in Peace Justice Robert L. Bensing's court late Friday when the 12-year-old alleged victim insisted against strong arguments that the alleged sexual attack occurred over the line in Texas.

Bensing dismissed the charges because he had no jurisdiction. The girl's mother drove immediately to Seminole, Tex., 30 miles east of here, and filed charges.

Artesia, Dayton and Hagerman are all bustling towns of the lower Pecos Valley which were not heard of until they had Newspapers, but since the editor and printer have taken up their abode they are making considerable noise in the world. There is nothing like a good newspaper to build up a town.

Judge Cyrus Eakman, wife and little children who have been visiting in Texas, arrived home Wednesday evening. Their homecoming was somewhat saddened on account of finding their splendid milch cow very sick. She had eaten too much bran.

The banquet given at Lakewood Inn, Lakewood, Saturday night, in honor of Mrs. J. B. Michener, the hotel proprietor, was a swell affair and largely attended. Lakewood can now boast a very fine hotel.

Messrs. Dr. Weems, Propst and Talbot and families returned Sunday from a month's outing in Capitan White mountains. All of them are greatly improved in health and report a pleasant time, with plenty of game to eat most of the time while gone.

The protracted meeting at Methodist church will begin at 11 o'clock tomorrow and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Geo. R. Ray, assisted by Rev. J. C. Gage.

Quite a number of Pecos Valley railroad "Moguls" have been in town this week, looking after the washouts south of town.

Group Of 50 Prominent Artesians Will Be Hosts To Jubilee Guests

Fifty prominent Artesia couple have elected to host the oldtimers who will take part in the forthcoming Jubilee. They are included the Host and Courtesy committee which is jointly chairmaned by Mrs. Landis Feather and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Keinath.

The members will accompany the oldtimers to many of the various events held in their honor, including a barbeque picnic for the oldtimers and their families at Central Park, Aug. 10. This is a goodwill gesture of the Old Timers Committee to assure that no oldtimer is overlooked, insofar as recognition is concerned, for the fiftieth year celebration.

Goodwill Gesture of British Seamen Enthralls Youngsters

'Pirates' Invade San Francisco Harbor Aboard Warship

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Her majesty's cruiser Superb, one of the most modern warships afloat, turned back the clock 400 years here yesterday to throw a pirate party that 400 orphan children in the San Francisco Bay area will never forget.

The sleek cruiser of the British Royal Navy was transformed into a juvenile wonderland flying the Jolly Roger and the crew was dressed in pirate costumes complete with sabers, eye patches and black mustaches, as the Superbs officers and men capped its good will visit here in a splendid and dramatic fashion.

Commodore Donald Fuller, the Superb's commander, stood by with a spy glass under his arm as the children swarmed aboard early this afternoon and the wonders never ceased until they all trooped ashore again at dinner time.

While the youngsters stood watching pop-eyed, pirates were tossed by the half-dozen lots in the chilly bay after having been forced to walk the plank for supposed crimes.

Then other pirates seized the ships winches and donkey engines and scooped up children by the arm-loads to swing them high into the air and over the vessels side before they were lowered gently back to deck.

Some of the seemingly inexhaustible supply of nautical outlaws manned the 'cruisers' long boats and with pirate guns which boomed and shot huge puffs of smoke into the sky, carried the children around the bay to the tune of pirate chants.

Pirate cooks dished out jam tarts and pirate photographers ran a show of slides on one section of the deck while other pirate engineers operated a full scale merry-go-round on the fore deck.

Other pirate-manned attractions included a cable-operated "space ship, swings, a see-saw and a fishing pond, with real fish in it.

It was, all agreed, the most gratifying and the most capably carried out mission that a warship ever undertook.

Backstage New Mexico

By the New Mexico Staff of The Associated Press

A buck-toothed kid of yesterday with a doubtful reputation in New Mexico certainly had no idea he would be the subject of such controversy.

Just about every facet of the life of Billy the Kid has come under fire. A border bum or a New Mexico Robin Hood? Real name William H. Bonney, or something else? A right-handed shooter, or a southpaw? Really shot down by Sheriff Pat Garrett or lived to a ripe old age?

Now there is a brand new controversy.

Some quarters are resentful of the promotional use made of the Kid legend and its uncanny appeal to the tourist.

NEWSMEN OBJECT

Newspapers in neighboring Texas have carried the battle of the perhaps unplanned benefits New Mexico is reaping from the Old West character and the versions of his exploits.

Editor Wes Izzard of Amarillo recently told Albuquerque newsmen the state should stop writing and talking about the Billy the Kid and concentrate on beating the drums for something really worth while—the state's historic past or some of its citizens who have made a name by contributing something to society—a contribution Billy the Kid never made.

Making a tour of the entire border of Texas, Tolbert wrote recently about a visit with Texas Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey of San Augustine.

He quotes the state official: "This state Texas, that is, she has the most glamorous history of any of the 48. We have enough wonderful legendary characters, most of them internationally known, for six states. And yet we're not capitalizing on them in the way that, for an example, New Mexico sells Billy the Kid to the tourists."

"Billy the Kid is a million dollar business in New Mexico. And they seem to have a marker every place that Billy was supposed to have watered his horse. They even put up markers on obscure outlaws like Black Jack Ketchum."

Ramsey, according to the newspaper man, thinks it would be a good service for tourists if Texas would mark the journey of Davey Crockett across Texas. The Lieutenant governor has some other ideas:

"Billy the Kid did a lot of mischief in Texas. You'd never know it unless you'd read some books on the subject. We've got lots of other legendary boys and girls that all the tourists know, like Jim Bowie and Sam Bass and Belle Starr, the queen of the outlaws. And Sam Houston, of course. Wouldn't want to group him with some of the others I've named."

DEAL 'EM IN

In other words, the lieutenant-governor of the Lone Star State thinks Texas should capitalize on what is being done in New Mexico about The Kid.

"We've got to spend money if we want to really attract the tourists," he says.

And find a Billy the Kid for Texas.

OLDTIMERS aren't at all pleased with the popularity during the last few years with New Mexico's scenic recreation spots. Fighting the Sunday crowd in the Jemez Mountains recently for a picnic spot and elbow room to fish, one veteran resident commented:

"Next time I take the family on an outing, I'm going to spread the lunch at Fourth and Central in Albuquerque. Certainly have more privacy there than here."

Names of the three top American cities in retail sales per family reports a national statistical firm begin with the letter "A." Albuquerque, Amarillo and Atlantic City.

An Amarillo, Tex. writer noting there are 51 federal and state branch offices in the city, says "all the forms filled out in quadruplicate that go from these offices to Washington and Austin in the course of a month would paper the walls of Carlsbad Caverns."

ONE OF NEW Mexico's most beloved and widely-known literary personages gets high tribute in a recent publication. The new book is "Talk Like a Cowboy" by Elizabeth Feagles and published by Naylor Press of San Antonio, Tex. The book is dedicated, among others, to Eugene Manlove Rhodes, who

LITTLE SUBJECT INSISTS ON MEETING THE KING

His royal highness remains unperturbed at this highly irregular procedure. (International)

"through his writings has helped preserve the colorful language and customs of the American West."

OTHERS HONORED

Others so honored were Will James, J. Frank Dobie, Jules Verne Allen, Philip A. Rollins, Ramon Adams, Fred Gipson and William MacLeod Raine. The book itself is pretty basic—a primer in what cowboy wears, says and does. The author also writes under the name Beth Day. In private life she is the wife of Donald Day, author and member of the editorial staff of Reader's Digest. They have homes in Chappagua, N. Y., and Wiberley, Tex.—her native state.

The book is billed as a dictionary of real Western lingo for young cowboys and cowgirls—obviously aimed at the Eastern reader market where the slightest idea what kernal the average youngster hasn't the slightest idea what kernal cutting horse, remuda, critter and the like mean.

A FRENCH writer says he would be most happy to forgo the pleasures of living in Paris he could locate in New Mexico. Henri Anneville, a Parisian newspaperman in the United States on a State Department grant, is about to wind up a Western tour and return to his country. He writes he hopes one of these days to return to New Mexico, where he spent several days, and adds he already is starting to miss the Land of Enchantment. Anneville writes he has enjoyed the entire tour but "my best souvenir of my trip is Albuquerque and Santa Fe where I was so happy."

When the nation's record-breaking peacetime military budget went sailing through Congress in June it contained increases above what the President asked for both the Air Force and the Marine Corps. Congress, especially the Senate, just didn't agree with like on the sizes of the two services. Chairman of the Senate committee which handled this 32 billion dollar budget for the Armed Services was Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico. He initiated action in his subcommittee which led to Air Force and

Beef Is No. 1 Weekend Buy National Survey Reveals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beef will be the No. 1 feature in food stores across the nation this weekend.

Prime ribs and chuck roast will be particularly favored with prices moderately below those of a week ago. Some markets plan specials on ground beef and boneless stewing beef.

Fryers, legs of lamb, lamb chops and pork chops are other meats named by specialists as attractive buys for weekend shoppers. Selected markets will offer good buys in legs and rumps of veal.

Steak Higher

Sirloin steak prices will be on the higher side. A major chain is boosting prices from two to six cents a pound in most of its outlets.

The Department of Agriculture reports that meat supplies this year will average around 160 pounds for each American, or seven pounds more than last year. It figures that consumers will pay little, if any, more for meat this year than last.

Egg prices will be up two or three cents a dozen in some parts of the country this weekend. Butter will sell for about the same as a week ago.

Once again, produce departments will offer a wide range of vegetables at reasonable prices. The men who watch the markets report that beans, beets, cabbage, squash and corn are leading best buys. They also favor potatoes, eggplant, cauliflower, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, peppers, celery and tomatoes.

Boy For Gores

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Gore announce the birth of their first child, a boy, born at Artesia General Hospital July 15. He has been named John Thomas Gore.

Watermelons are cheap. And if you're puzzled about how to buy one, consider this advice from the Department of Agriculture:

"Usually, ripe melons of good quality are firm, symmetrical in shape, fresh and attractive in appearance. The rind is of good color, carrying from deep solid green to gray, according to variety. A bloom is over the surface of the rind, giving it somewhat velvety appearance, and the lower side of the melon is yellowish in color."

The USDA says such melons usually have a crisp, sweet and juicy flesh. Degree of sweetness, however, is largely dependent on the variety.

Oranges, grapefruit and lemons are considered good buys in fruit. Western cherries are attractively priced and grapes are lower, with the White Thompson seedless the most abundant.

Cantaloupes, honeydews and peaches are moderately priced. July is Ice Cream Festival Month and the dairy industry hopes you'll do your part. Last year, production was almost 600 million gallons and Americans spooned or licked their way through an average of 3½ gallons each.

The itinerary includes all of the mountain communities westward to Alamogordo north to Lake Arthur, Dexter, Roswell, and Tatum; east to Lovington through the Loco Hills area, and southward to Carlsbad.

The pamphlets will describe the various events for the 3-day celebration. This unique method of advertising is expected to arouse special interest in the general area. Flight arrangements are in the making.

Maybe It Will Help

ALTHOUGH all indications point to the fact that Gov. John Simms is going to call a special session of the legislature to give consideration to providing additional funds for the Welfare department it also has been indicated that a "get tough policy" is going to be adopted.

We are sure that regardless of how careful we may be in placing individuals on the welfare rolls we have those who do not deserve this help and assistance. We are sure that regardless of how careful we check we can still be convinced people should be on the rolls even though if the truth could be learned they should not be on the welfare rolls.

We still have those in this world convinced the world owes them a living and they do not care who pays it—they will gladly accept it from the welfare department.

We also know there are times when a little politics enter into the situation and some of those in a position to do so into placing those on the rolls to secure votes even if they should not be on the rolls.

We recently heard of an interesting experience of some of those claiming to be welfare patients. One individual who was able to pay some on a hospital bill was proud to claim the county paid for his child's hospital care. The hospital wouldn't accept that answer and brought about enough pressure that resulted in the individual having to pay on the bill. He was able to do so.

Another case was that of an elderly woman, who was hit by a car and suffered a broken hip. The one hitting her promised to pay but didn't do so. She had $1000 hospital bill when she finally was able to get around on crutches. Her sole income was $40 a month—income from the welfare department. She was a deserving case.

She started paying the hospital $20 a month out of the $40. She hobbled to the hospital each month despite their protest that she did not owe them. She argued they took care of her when she needed help and she was going to pay them. When the bill was down to about $500 the hospital finally managed to get a bill marked paid into her hands and halted her payments to them.

These are the cases that deserve welfare aid and help. The other mentioned above—the one able to pay but wanting someone else to pay his bills for him are not deserving.

Welfare help was intended for people like the elderly people unable to care and provide for themselves. That is the help we should be providing now and only for this kind of an individual.

ignores Warning

Gilbert Grandval, the French resident general who arrived only last week to take over active direction of the protectorate, attended the funeral services, although demonstrators had pointedly suggested that he and his representatives should stay away.

Many French residents of Morocco consider his views toward independence-seeking Moroccans as too moderate.

A group of French war veterans sought to block Grandval's way up the cathedral steps with the flags they were carrying, but the resident general waved them aside imperiously.

Escapes Mob

When he left, there were cries of "Death to Grandval" and a crowd closed in. He narrowly escaped injury. Police quickly cleared the way and arrested two of the demonstrators. During a moment of confusion, however, the two men who had been arrested escaped from the police truck and fled. The crowd punctured the tires of the truck, preventing a chase. Stones were tossed at members of Grandval's entourage.

Grandval was sent to Morocco with instructions to ease the direct rule of the French administration over Moroccan affairs and to turn back the operations to the natives. This policy toward the Moroccans has aroused the ire of many Frenchmen who believe order can be maintained only by showing a strong hand.

Curfew Ordered

The resident general last night instituted a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew in the booming port city of 650,000. Today he ordered the military to take over all the administrative functions which have been exercised by civilians, and established martial law.

The European quarter of town, scene of most of the rioting Thursday night and yesterday, was almost closed down today. Shops were tightly shuttered. Police and firemen worked to clear away the wreckage of burned out automobiles and other debris.

Barela died earlier Saturday when a car he was a passenger in overturned near Taos.

The four deaths jumped the 1955 New Mexico highway toll to 159 as compared with 184 on this date last year.

weekend without doubt agreed with the words of Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt, of Indianapolis, who said:

Pray At Home

"Those who feel the significance of the President's request will do it instinctively, if not in a house of worship then in their homes."

The Protestant Council of the City of New York submitted to its member clergy a "petition" to be made part of the pastoral prayer during Sunday morn's worship by the city's millions.

"Almighty and Eternal God," it said, "Father of all mankind, source of all peace, wisdom, justice and love, we pray Thee to give unto the leaders of the four nations meeting in Geneva a spirit of dependence upon Thee, that their hearts and minds may be open to Thy guidance and Thy will."

"Remove them from the limitations of fear and suspicion and endow them with the power of faith in one another and complete trust in Thee."

"May righteousness and honor, patience and forbearance, undisciplined by Divine Grace, bring them to a point of understanding that will produce for our world peace with love."

Probably typical of Roman Catholic house of worship everywhere, St. Patrick's cathedral in New York made plans for special prayers today at all Masses.

Jewish congregations were among the first to follow up President Eisenhower's plea, because their Sabbath services were held yesterday.

President Signs Carlsbad Flood Work Fund Bill

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed an appropriations bill that means, among other things, $9,221,000 for New Mexico flood control and reclamation projects.

The projects financed by the new bill include Chamita Reservoir at Abiquiu, $425,000; Rio Grande floodway, $1,600,000; Carlsbad, $900,000; Middle Rio Grande projects for New Mexico and Texas, $40,000.

President Eisenhower said he signed the bill "with great reluctance. He said the bill provided more projects than he had planned on and that detailed plans had not been completed on all of them.

He did not specify which of the projects he opposed.

The flood control and navigation projects, including Chamita Reservoir and the Rio Grande floodway, cost in all some seven per cent more than the amount the President had originally budgeted. The approved amount for the entire nation was 554 million dollars.

ing the last $600 of the needed 10 grand and then the club is over the hump for the rest of the season.

We like baseball but we're not such an addicted fan that we have to join Baseballs Anonymous to cure us of the naught. We can take it or leave it or leave it alone and we think it's wonderful that those who like it have a good ball club here to root on to victory. But we can't help out wonder how much $10,000 would do toward bringing a new industry into Artesia, or building a new wing on the hospital or a new clinic. Wonder how hard it would be to raise $10,000 for one of the latter purposes.

Our faithful readers (all seven of them—we have six kids and a wife) must have thought we tell into the Artesian Well this past week. As a matter of fact, we did and with the volume of work stacked up we didn't manage to cumb back over the edge of the well until today. One thing that kept the column from being written was a quick trip to Clovis mid-week to pick up above mentioned seven readers from the train which brought them here from California.

On the way up—we were late, as usual—the family jalousy developed a bad case of the dry heaves and we were forced to stop in Elida and get a new water pump installed. By that time we were ten minutes overdue in Clovis and there was still two hours of work to be done on the car.

While we were softly moaning the blues the gagman volunteered the use of his car to make the rest of the trip. Now that's the kind of neighborliness that makes you glad you live in New Mexico where an act of kindness is a habit, not the occasion for a testimonial dinner.

Tom Brown Jr. got the jump on fellow Lion Club members, Friday afternoon and handed out 55 shaving permits to Artesians without the gumption to grow a beard for the Jubilee. Excuses ranged all the way from "it tickles my wife" to "it makes my cereal taste like hay."

In Tom's haul were included the prize Mayor Yeager, Sheriff Deputy Jesse Sosa, Oilman Gerry Curtis and Ralph Nix, Bozo Green, Carl Foster, and J. D. Smith. Herman Mootz was cornered with a shaving permit while ticketing an over parked car.

"If you are a beardless pumpkin a buck'll save you a public dunkin'."

hoped the "cause of peace can be advanced for all the world" in the meetings which start here Monday.

British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure, arriving earlier, also expressed notes of cautious optimism that the six-day conference will make progress in finding a way out of the decade of cold war.

Russian Due Monday

Soviet Premier Bulganin, due here tomorrow, has sought to add to the atmosphere of optimism.

Bulganin said nothing as he climbed into his plane at Moscow airport. But only yesterday he told correspondents there was "no reason to believe the basis of future peace cannot be assured."

Eden and Faure arrived on separate planes from their respective capitals in a similar mood. Stepping into his plane in London, Eden had told reporters, "There are certain influences which should help us reach good decisions this time and to make some progress."

Before he took off from Paris, Faure said next week's meetings of the heads of government and their foreign ministers "will certainly be a step in advance on the road to reconciliation, and consequently on the road to the organization of peace."

Faure has expressed hope that a new conciliatory trend in Soviet diplomacy may herald a shift away from the deadlock that has plagued East-West negotiations since the Potsdam conference 10 years ago.

U.S. Far East Armed Forces May Be Cut

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, hinted today of still further reduction in American military strength in the Far East.

Taylor, who recently left the supreme command in the Far East to become chief of staff, briefed the 170 members of the annual secretaries' conference on the military situation in the Far East.

Details of what he told the conference were kept secret. However, an official summary—laconic and carefully worded—said Taylor discussed facilities available in Japan and Korea "and the impact on these facilities of future planned reduction in forces."

The summary said Taylor talked of the implications of the reduction in U. S. forces and "pointed out the major tactical and logistical adjustments this reduction made necessary."

Secretary of Defense Wilson told a news conference here yesterday that he has ordered impounded money voted by Congress to boost the strength of the Marine Corps. He said the action was taken to give the Pentagon people a chance to "take another look."

Houston Indicts Suspended Mayor

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Houston City Council today initiated impeachment proceedings against Mayor Roy Hofheinz.

The $25,000-a-year head of the south's largest city was suspended 30 days pending trial by the council. The impeachment charges allege, in part, that Hofheinz had knowledge and gave consent to certain actions involved in a city land office scandal now being investigated by the Harris County grand jury.

Ancient Remedies Still in Effect With Hill Folks

By HAL BOYLE

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Leaves from a touring notebook: Girls, if you want to be sure you'll have plenty of pork chops all your life, marry a man with hairy legs. Hairy-legged men make the best hog raisers.

Mother, if your child is crying with colic, it can be relieved by rubbing its stomach with a bone from a pig's foot.

night, avenging an earlier disputed loss to the former California state heavyweight champion.

He has them posted in "Homespun Valley," a living museum of hill folk lore highly popular with tourists.

Here are a few random samples: For baby chicks—"To have good luck raising baby chicks, throw the hatched egg shells over a house top."

For earache and headache—"Blow tobacco smoke in each ear."

Wart Removal

For warts—"Warts may be removed by rubbing each wart with a bean split open, then burying the bean halves under the drip of the house for 7 days."

For chicken pox—"Have the person with the pox lie down on the ground and run some chickens over him."

To keep away disease—"Wear a strip of flannel around the body."

For slobbering children—"To stop a baby's slobbering, go to the brook and get a minnow and let the baby suck the minnow's tail."

Of course, later, when he grows up, he may go to Harvard and swallow goldfish for fun.

Poison Day—"The most poisonous day of the year is the 27th of August. Just why this particular day has this odd distinction no one seems to know.

Ancient Cure

For Rheumatism—"Take the bark of a cherry tree, put it in corn whiskey and drink it."

This ancient remedy is still well thought of. If, in an emergency, the victim feels a twinge of rheumatism when no cherry tree is near, he is said to be afforded some relief if he forces down the whiskey without the bark. He can always get the bark another day.

Artesia Chemical Has Valley Water Wells In Top Production

The Artesia Chemical Company was formed in 1948 by Mr. M. A. Waters, "Doc" Waters as he is known to everyone, came to Artesia in 1946 to establish an acid terminal for the Hilliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. The Hilliburton Company moved their acid terminal from Artesia in 1948, and Waters saw the possibility of establishing a business solely for the purpose of acidizing waterwells in this area.

The Artesia Chemical Company is primarily engaged in the treatment of waterwells, both old and new, for farmers and ranchers in the Pecos Valley. The treatment consists of pumping muriatic acid into the limestone formation in the base of the well. The acid increases the porosity of the limestone enabling the water to pass through and to be pumped to the surface. An effective acid treatment will increase the number of gallons per minute that can be pumped and thereby lessens the drawdown of the water. With the increased pumping capacity of the well, the cost of the pumping operation is lessened for the owner.

It is important that every new well be acidized at the time of installation to forestall limestone formation; the farmer or rancher is thereby assured of efficient and economical pump operation. The Artesia Chemical Company advises re-treatment of these wells at least once every three or four years in which time a lime formation may have formed again.

The Artesia Chemical Company employs a working crew of three or four men to handle the acidizing work. The company has three 2000 gallon capacity tank trucks complete with pumping equipment and capable of handling all well jobs, regardless of size. The Artesia Chemical firm covers an area extending from Albuquerque, south to El Paso, and from Deming, N. M. to Van Horn, Texas. Artesia Chemical is the only company in this area, specializing solely in the acidizing of water wells.

The manager and owner, Doc Waters, resides in Artesia, is married, and has a ten year old boy. Mr. Waters holds a degree from Hardin-Simmons College in Chemistry; he started with Hilliburton as a chemist and operated their acid treatment department for 11 years, including extended field work. He was manager of their Odessa, Tex. Laboratory for two years.

The company has its office on North 285, just beyond the city limits. The company is proud that its seven year history has helped in the Pecos Valley farm production through the irrigation well acid service.

Experienced Seamstress Will Take Foundation Measurements Into Fit

Associated Press Women's Editor
By DOROTHY ROE

The undercover story is important to the woman who sews.

To an experienced seamstress, correct fitting is just as essential as correct stitching when it comes to making a dress. She is careful, too, to make all adjustments while wearing the foundation she plans to wear with the dress.

Experts at your local sewing center give you a few tips on achieving perfect fit in the clothes you sew.

First, study your pattern, and decide what undergarments you will wear with it. Under a sheath, unless you are very young and slender, wear a corselet or pair a long-line bra with a high-top girdle. Under a dress with a close-fitted top and full skirt, wear one of the long bras that shapes your waistline, and has garters attached to eliminate wearing a girdle. Under sports clothes, casual dresses and suits, wear a strap bra and pantie girdle.

Many home seamstresses begin by pressing the paper pattern pieces so they lay flat, then pinning them to a surface for a preliminary try-on. This is a quick and easy way to determine whether the pattern deviates greatly from your measurements. Another technique is to use the tape measure, concentrating for the first paper fitting on such critical measurements as bust and shoulder-to-waist length. If, for example, your pattern turns out to be a couple of inches too long for you in the waist, take a tuck in it before trying it on. Then check to see whether you have pinned it to the correct measurement.

Make as many alterations as possible before cutting the fabric. Then after you have cut out the pieces, pin the fabric sections together and try on the dress over the foundation you will wear. This is the time to adjust darts and necklines.

Stitch the darts and baste the seams. Now you are ready for the final fitting. Make sure that a slender dress fits smoothly over your hips; that a tight-waisted dress really is tight-waisted; that a scoop neckline reveals no lingerie straps. If your dress has a plunging neckline, make sure it plunges no further than your bra.

While you have the dress on, draw up a chair before the mirror and take a sit-down fitting. If the skirt draws tight over your thighs, or rides up over your knees, you must ease the seams. Lean over, to make sure the neckline does not fall away. Bring your arms forward, to make sure there is ease enough in the armhole seams. Walk a few steps, to be sure the skirt is not too tight. Notice whether the outline of your garter is visible, or whether your girdle makes a bulge at the thigh. If you are satisfied with the way your dress behaves, you are ready to stitch.

Press all seams as you stitch, so the finished dress will have a smooth appearance. When marking the hem, be sure to wear the correct shoes—high heels or flat heels.

One of the most satisfying things in the world is a perfect garment that you have stitched yourself, and proper fit is the most important factor in anything you sew.

brodery net dress over plain net and taffeta, with fitted sleeves. Around the neckline was a row of seeded pearls. She wore a short jacket with a stand-up collar, and a skirt trimmed in embroidery. The skirt was full, and ball-length. She wore mits trimmed in embroidery to match the dress. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls and ear rings, gift of the bridegroom.

Her veil was waist length of French illusion with a cornet syringa and green leaves. The bride's bouquet was an arrangement of white orchids with showers of ribbons on a white Bible, a gift of the bridegroom.

Following tradition the bride carried a handkerchief belonging to the bridegroom's mother for something old and borrowed; something new, was her dress, and in her shoe, she had a coin and something blue, garter.

Miss Wilma Freezen was bridesmaid. She wore a light organdy dress, with a full skirt and low neckline with sleeves. She carried a nosegay of white carnations. Thea Webb, cousin of the bride was flower girl. She wore yellow organdy dress with a full skirt with ruffles on the sleeves and skirt. She carried a basket filled with rose petals. Charles Zerina of Mitchell, S. D., brother-in-law of the bridegroom was best man, and Don Cutshaw and Bob Walthoff ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pink linen suit with navy accessories. Her corsage was white carnations. Mrs. Meinke, mother of the bridegroom wore a pink linen dress, with white accessories. Her corsage was also white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth. Her cake resembled an open Bible, with white streamers from the Bible in Patti and Mike in gold on each. The second tier of the cake formed the background and was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Lime frosted punch and cake were served. Mrs. Charles Zerina, sister of the bridegroom served the cake. Peggy Parrish served the punch, and Janet Walthoff ushers.

The couple left on a honeymoon trip to Cloudford and Los Angeles, and then will go to Yellowstone Park and Mitchell, S. D. She chose for traveling a brown linen dress, with a neckline, princess style with a flared skirt, and buttoned on the back. Her accessories were beige, and she wore an orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride attended Artesia High school. The bridegroom recently received his discharge from the U. S. Air Force after four years service, part of which was spent in Korea.

Out-of-town-guests present were Mrs. John Meinke, Mitchell, S. D., Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Meinke, Victoria, Texas, and Mrs. Charles Zerina, Mitchell, S. D., Mrs. Josie Wallace, Holdenville, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Walthoff, Well.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Meinke, Victoria, Texas, Mrs. Callan, Roswell; Mrs. Bill Fleming and son, Russell, Elmit, Texas, Don Cutshaw, Edwin Bickel, Jr., and Warren Harris all of Roswell.

Freezer Facts

Today's homemaker is a smart food buyer. One of her favorite tricks is taking advantage of "specials" in meats at the supermarket, buying extra cuts and storing them in her home freezer to stretch her food dollars.

But she also knows proper freezing must follow her trip to the store—if her thrift-wise shopping is really to pay off. Thus she keeps in mind three important points about freezing meats at home:

1. Choose high quality meats. Since freezing does not improve the flavor of any food, the frozen product will be no better than the food in its original state.

2. Package meats properly. Choose a wrapping material which keeps air out. When air is allowed to reach food during freezer storage, the result is loss of moisture, accompanied by a change in flavor. The food soon becomes unpalatable. The condition known as "freezer burn" occurs when air enters the package.

One of the best freezer wrapping materials on the market is the new plastic wrap made of saran. Because this transparent film clings to the shape of any food being wrapped, it is possible to mold the film closely even to irregular cuts of meat, such as roasts, squeezing out a maximum amount of air from the package.

Follow this simple method: First, pad any bony edges with an extra piece of saran; then overwrap with a single thickness of the film using the "drug store wrap" method; pull saran tightly around meat to get the closest possible seal before applying freezer tape; tape and label. Masking tape which may be written on is good and makes labeling easy.

3. Label foods accurately. Label each package with date, name of product, and approximate number of servings. It is helpful to add an "expiration date" to the label—the maximum storage time. Most freezer manuals will have storage time charts. Check freezer occasionally to use up those foods stored longest. Use all foods before expiration date.

Careful attention to good freezer techniques and proper packaging will insure a high quality frozen food product.

MASSEY-DAWSON MARRY

EL PASO, Tex., (AP)—Screen actress Ilona Massey, 44, and Donald Sheldon Dawson, 47, former aide of ex-President Truman, left for the West Coast after being married at Juarez, Mexico, yesterday. Miss Massey, actress and Hungarian singer, had obtained a divorce at Juarez Wednesday. The civil ceremony was the second marriage for Dawson, a Washington attorney.

mind that they can lose weight without losing their health by cutting down on everything they eat, instead of going on a starvation diet to maintain proper nutrition. results without losing energy, good looks and disposition.

A few pounds are easy to shed. More than that takes a physician's diet, they'd accomplish the same

Let's say you are hippy and have large thighs—a common summer complaint of young girls. Maybe you are about seven pounds overweight. You don't look well in slacks, shorts or bathing suit. What to do about it? Sit in the corner and twiddle your thumbs all summer? Silly.

Here's a plan that might see you through cheerfully as you lose weight.

Walk sometime during the day at a brisk pace for at least 1/2 hour. This could be broken up into two 15 minute walks—not strolls. Set a goal that is 15 minutes away and walk to it eagerly. Do some chore that gives you bending, dipping and lunging motion such as gardening, housecleaning, clothes washing.

If you are invited on a swimming or picnic party, avoid wearing tight trunks which will only emphasize your hips and thighs and make you feel self-conscious. Instead wear a suit with a long skirt or Bermuda length shorts. If you are short avoid slacks.

Now when it comes to eating, probably the root of your evil ounces, avoid banana splits, fudge sundaes, and in-between meal snacks. Concentrate on thirst quenchers like lemon or lime ades (without sugar). These are low-caloried and satisfying. If you are not hungry at mealtime why sit down to a big fattening meal. Instead eat a good nourishing bowl of soup and a few crackers. Here's a menu plan that will give you vitamins, prove satisfying on the hottest days and still help you shake off those ounces if you cooperate by moving around a bit.

Breakfast—1/2 grapefruit, 1 hard boiled egg, 1 pat butter. (Or substitute orange, pears or other fruit for grapefruit.) 1 slice whole wheat toast, 1 glass skimmed milk.

Lunch—1 cup jellied consomme madrilene, 1 sliced tomato, 1 carrot, stalk celery, cottage cheese with 1/2 fresh peach or apricot on top. Serve on several slices of lettuce. Three salted crackers, iced tea, coffee or a fruit ade drink is good with it.

Dinner—Serving of meat or fish with green vegetable or salad and boiled potato (easier to eat dry than baked potato.) Fresh fruit or gelatin dessert.

The important thing in dieting is to maintain energy, otherwise you won't have the stamina to burn up excess calories by exercise. It's going to be hard turning down that second hot dog at a beach party, but if you are still hungry when it is offered to you, why not eat it without the roll. It won't be hard to do if you keep an image of your sylph-like-figure-to-be before you every time they are tempted to indulge in that ex-

Hemlines Are Fall Fashion Eye Appeals

By LOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Hemlines make news in Pauline Trigere's brilliant collection of fall fashions, as she introduces intermission length for dinner and theater wear.

Shown principally in straight-as-a-dagger sheath dresses with matching jackets, the intermission costumes end just above the ankle, often with a border of fur at the hemline. One striking example is a blazing red sheath and jacket with a discreet mink collar.

NEW COATS

Trigere features a group of coats with set-in sleeves, some of which are even slightly puffed above the shoulder, giving a strictly new look. One such is a casual loose tweed coat in black and white domino checks.

High colors alternate with sober black and browns in this group of sophisticated fashions. A favorite of the season is a blazing orange called Desert Flower.

Harvey Berin and his designer Karen Stark have fun this season using lush fabrics such as velvet and satin in austere simple sheath dresses as demure as school uniforms.

A group of black velvet dresses have white satin collars and ties. And there is a dramatic new look to sheath dresses of the new white wine velvet, a soft ivory tone shown in understated cocktail dresses.

Berin also uses a bell silhouette effectively in a group of dresses and costumes in featherweight French tweeds and worsteds, carefully shaped and beautifully fitted, the bell-shaped skirt flaring smoothly toward the hemline.

Wildcatter Is Fanatic Addict Who Drills For Oil On Ulcer, Shoestring Cash And Prayers

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—The oil wildcatter is a born gambler, an incurable optimist statistically doomed to failure in a business where ulcers are a standard occupational disease.

Nine times and little more out of 10 he fore or less blindly picks a site for his well, drills for oil and comes up with a fistfull of dust.

But he is a tough breed and he is here to stay, says Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, member of the oil and gas regulating Railroad Commission of Texas and a word-recognized authority on petroleum. Wildcatter has been on the decline in Texas, the nation's top oil and gas producing state since Jan. 1, "but don't worry," says the general. "The wildcatter will bounce back."

Good Year

So far this year in Texas, wildcatters have drilled 2,300 wells and brought in 295 producers—12 per cent success. Last year for the same period the wildcatter tried 2,302 times and had 417 completions—18 per cent success. That was unusually good.

"Hard lucks go for this year is probably the answer," says Thompson.

"I don't think the wildcatter is going out of business. Far from it. He has an insatiable desire to drill for oil and he will keep on trying as long as he has a dime to operate with."

A dictionary definition of a wildcatter is "a prospector who drills for oil where it is not known to exist."

Colorful Figure

That and a lot more could be said in describing one of the most colorful and spectacular wildcatters of them all, the late C. M. (Dad) Joiner whose famous No. 3 Daisy Bradford near Overton in Rusk County opened the vast East Texas field and started the oil world two decades ago.

Like most wildcatters, Joiner was constantly plagued by money troubles. No. 3 Daisy-Bradford was drilled from a rig hewn of pine trees cut on the ground over a geological formation that most technical experts said was impossible. If it had been a quarter of a mile further east he would have missed. But he didn't.

"Oil wasn't supposed to be there, but it was," Thompson recalled.

"Dad Joiner, the super-wildcatter came up with a well after two failures that led to 25,000 producing wells in a field holding 5 billion barrels of oil. Three billion have been recovered and we hope to get 2 billion more by proper conservation methods."

Never-Say-Die

"He was one of those indomitable never-say-die fellows known as wildcatters. The field he discovered helped win World War II and changed the economy of a vast area."

Legend says that Joiner traded acreage for meal tickets for his drilling crew when he ran out of

Second Oiler In New Pool Runs Potential

HOBBS (AP)—The second oiler in a recently opened pool of central Eddy County has been completed for a daily pumping potential of 42 barrels of 34-gravity oil from perforations at 2,634 to 2,642 feet.

It is the G. K. Woods No. 1-A L. F. Rayroux which is situated 1,950 feet from north and 630 feet from east lines of section 24-21s-26e and one location southwest of a Delaware Sand discovery. The well is three and a half miles north of Carlsbad.

cash. But he stayed with it until discovery day: Oct. 3, 1930. That night oil sprayed over the crown block of the rig and spattered some of the peanut-eating, soda water-drinking crowd that had waited in the woods to see the well come in.

Thompson says he's glad the wildcatter's days are not over. They have brought in 80 per cent of all discoveries against dismaying odds. The average cost of a wildcat in the United States was recently given as around $90,000, with many running into the hundreds of thousands. But oil companies often help the wildcatter with win or lose agreements, and more often than not they and the wildcatter lose.

These statistics show that the wildcatter's chances of finding a new field, even a small one, is one in 53. His chance of finding a medium sized field is one in 300, and for a large field, one in 991. That's why, Thompson says, you've got to be tough and courageous to be an oil wildcatter.

JAILED FOR MARRYING A GI

UNITED STATES HEADQUARTERS BERLIN

GERMAN-BORN Rita Adams, 18, who married an American soldier, stands at barred fence of U. S. headquarters in West Berlin, where she learned she would get a visa to enter the U. S. She spent six weeks in an East Berlin Communist jail after marrying Earl Adams of Harrison, O. She was seized when she went to visit her sister in the Soviet sector, and jailed for not renouncing her American husband. Asked by the Reds how she could wed an American, she said, "Love has nothing to do with politics." (International)

Top Equipment Is Byword With Watson Trucking Co.

"My trucks are kept in good shape at all times," says Sam Watson of Watson Trucking. "This means a lot in the oilfield," he says, "for when a truck goes out the companies want it in good shape. On many jobs, like cementing and sand frac there will be six or seven different pieces of equipment, all working together. All must be there on time and in good shape. When the boys are ready they don't like to wait." Of course waiting on one piece of equipment, which may be broken down, can cost a company a good bit of money. Watson takes pride in keeping his trucks up in good repair.

He started his trucking company in January, 1954. He arrived in Artesia from Amarillo, Texas in 1934. He had hauled oil for his brother-in-law, H. E. Ansley, here until he started for himself. He says he has hauled oil for the last 20 years.

Two Tankers

Watson has two International tank trucks or complete units. One is a L-195 with 84 barrel capacity. The other is a B-185 with a 67 barrel capacity. These he uses for hauling oil, drilling water and water to wet down the roads. "It is hard to estimate," Watson says, "but the average 2000 foot cable tool well, in this area, uses about five loads of drilling water and two or three loads of water during cementing and setting pipe. Some drillers will use more water than others and some formations require more water than do others."

A rotary rig uses lots of water.

The roller type bit goes round and round to drill. The mud and water is mixed in a pit and pumped down into the hole. This is called the circulating system for rotary drilling. If the circulation stops, the driller can not make hole. Various methods are used to start the circulation again.

In cable tool drilling the water is put in the hole to make the bit cut faster. The driller also uses water to clean out the hole. This is removing mud, cuttings and water.

Bailer Operation

The cable tool driller runs the bailer into the hole and dumps the water out of it, provided the hole does not have enough strata water. He then pulls the bailer out of the hole and runs the drilling tools in. He drills a while then pulls the tools out and runs the bailer into the hole to clean out. Thus water is essential in both cable and rotary drilling.

In completing a well a short string of pipe is run in the hole and cemented to shut off surface water. Then the oil string of pipe is run and cemented in place.

If the well flows, tubing, usually two inch, is run into the hole. If the well does not flow sucker rods, a pump and a pump jack are used.

Watson Trucking operates in counties. Watson drives on of the Eddy, Chaves and part of Lea trucks and Ernest Madron drives the other.

OCC Studies Plea For 80-Acre Well Spacing In Pool

SANTA FE (AP)—The Oil Conservation Commission has under advisement an application for 80-acre well spacing in the south Knowles-Devonian Pool, near Hobbs.

Jake L. Hamon, Texas oilman, and Warren Petroleum Co. joined in the application for an exception to the statewide 40-acre spacing rule.

It was the second time the OCC had heard arguments on the request. The commission turned it down previously.

Hamon and Warren representatives said it would be uneconomical to develop the pool under the 40-acre spacing. When it was first discovered, a spokesman said, the pool was regarded as a good possibility, but since then oilmen feel it is not too extensive.

Potash Men Ask Wide Well Drill Protected Area

SANTA FE (AP)—Carlsbad will be the site of a July 29 meeting between potash and oil representatives striving to settle an inter-industry conflict.

Potash people have requested an extension of the "protected areas" around mining spots, where oil well drilling is prohibited.

The Oil Conservation Commission selected a committee of oilmen and potash people to make recommendations to the commission. The Carlsbad meeting will be at the office of U. S. Potash Co.

ANDERSON FARM SOLD
ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Builder Edward H. Snow has announced he has purchased the farm of Son Clinton Anderson, D-NM, near Albuquerque for an undisclosed amount. Snow said he plans to build a subdivision of between 900 to 1,000 homes. He said the total cost will run about 10 million dollars. Completion of the project believed to be the largest housing development ever undertaken in the state by a private concern, may take "several years."
