Hundreds Of Men Needed For State Farm Crop Harvest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Hundreds of farm workers are needed to help harvest crops in New Mexico farm areas, the State Employment Service said today.

At least 500 workers are needed for the broomcorn harvest alone, which is now in full swing. In addition, workers are needed for a number of other types of crops, with favorable weather aiding the maturing of crops in most areas.

Other shortages, the ESC said, include general farm hands, irrigators, tractor operators, dairy hands, tomato pickers and bean pickers.

More cotton harvest hands are expected to be required within 10 days.

Nights Nippy There were a few thunderstorms in the northwest part of the state yesterday, otherwise typical fall weather covered New Mexico. The days have been warm and the nights rather nippy.

Crops which are being harvested now include tomatoes, broomcorn, alfalfa, grain sorghums, onions, green beans, carrot topping and some cotton. The cotton harvest is just beginning in some areas.

The ESC said it placed 1,083 Albuquerque workers in jobs during August, the highest monthly total of job placements ever recorded in Albuquerque by the office.

O. O. Olivas, district ESC manager, said the increase is interpreted as showing that Albuquerque's expanding economy is creating jobs.

Chinese Reds Here Will Be Returned Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Red China were reported at the point of final agreement today on the release of Americans held behind the Bamboo Curtain.

There are 25 Americans known to have been in Chinese Communist jails for several years and 3 persons under house arrest. In addition there are others whose status is uncertain.

An announcement on final agreement may come from Geneva, Switzerland, when U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan meet tomorrow.

Hold Breath Diplomats said that barring some last minute hitch in plans there was a good chance the final details for release of the Americans would be worked out.

It is understood here that the agreement so far developed covers these basic points: 1—Red China's assurances that all Americans who wish to leave Chinese Communist jurisdiction will be permitted to do so "expeditiously," subject to Chinese Communist judicial processes. This

More Anti-Peron Military Chiefs Put in Arrest

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An Army general accused with four other high ranking officers of plotting a rebellion against President Peron was reported under arrest today.

Authoritative sources said Brig. Gen. Delmirio Felix Vidella Balaguer, head of the Rio Cuarto garrison, was being held on the outskirts of Buenos Aires.

These informants said it was likely Balaguer's associates in the first reported military plot since the abortive June 16 revolt were also under arrest in garrisons near the capital.

There were no official announcements about the five army officers. Argentines learned of the accusations against them yesterday when La Epoca, a Peronista newspaper, published on its inside pages an order for them to appear for a hearing on conspiracy charges.

Take The "Fall" Out Of Fall Cleaning

American homemakers can save themselves about 100,000 broken bones this month—just by taking the "fall" out of fall housecleaning.

That's the estimate of the Sal Soda Institute, which says studies prove women are never so reckless of life and limb as when pursuing their old arch-enemy—dirt.

Sal soda concentrated, the washing soda cleaning compound, has been a housecleaning standby since before Grandma's day—which explains the Institute's interest in housecleaning safety practices.

Here, based on the Institute's statistics, is an ambulance driver's eye-view of the housecleaning carnage in the United States during an average year:

Thirty-two thousand are killed, 130,000 are permanently injured and 4,750,000 are sufficiently injured to require a doctor's attention.

Falls, alone, kill 16,000. Home-made, or bootleg cleaning compounds kill about 6,000 more through poisoning, explosion and fire.

These national death and injury statistics are culled from police reports and other public records. The figures have remained roughly the same for the past five years.

Here are some of the Institute's recommendations to homemakers for a safe fall housecleaning:

Keep ladders at a safe angle to the wall and directly in front of the area in which you are working. Never stand on the top rung. Never lift more than your common sense tells you is a safe weight.

Don't carry objects so bulky they block your vision. Keep little children from under your feet during rush work periods. Use games and toys to keep them amused. Put mops, brushes and other equipment away when not in use.

Don't leave them where they can be tripped over. Read all warning labels on cans and bottles. If you are warned to keep cleaning fluid away from fire—do it.

Run no risks with homemade cleaning compounds which might burn or poison. Too many safe and inexpensive compounds (such as sal soda concentrated) are available for the homemaker to take any unnecessary chances.

her duties. Official visitors accounted for a healthy chunk.

Other envoys with less personal wealth, spend less, but diplomats say it is a burden on all of them.

Free Ride

For most congressmen a trip abroad is a free ride. Almost all draw expense money from counterparty funds which embassies have as a result of the U. S. foreign aid program.

A portion of local currencies paid in for foreign aid dollars is retained for official U. S. government use.

"The amount sometimes drawn is nothing less than amazing," one veteran State Department employee said. "And expenses can include anything from a night club tab to some new Italian silk ties."

Information from other European capitals indicates the situation is almost the same there. But Rome, "the" place to visit this year, and Paris always a mecca, are the most popular, with Moscow a very close third.

Each visitor entails hours of work. He must be met at the airport in an official car and escorted into town. Usually he wants a briefing on developments. This ties up several embassy staff members, sometimes for several hours.

Many expect to be entertained and shown about town. Friends estimate that in Rome U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce spent at least $50,000 of her own money plus her $15,000 entertainment allowance last year in carrying out

Pledged To Church

He said Liniers and Belgrando had dedicated the captured flags to the Virgin N. Our Lady of the Rosary of the Reconquest and that their proper place was on the walls beside an altar bearing the Virgin's name.

The government press office reported that the generals had no authority to dispose of the banners, which rightfully belong to the entire nation.

Federal Judge Miguel J. Rivas Arguello considered the priest's petition but ducked a final ruling.

He noted the monuments commission had said it is holding the flags only temporarily and that "in due course" they would be returned to their natural depository, the Dominican community.

This has satisfied neither the church nor the government and the dispute continues.

Flags Playing Crucial Role In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 5 (AP)—Six historic flags—symbols of Argentina's independence—have become trophies of the new struggles the country has experienced this year.

For almost 150 years the four banners were displayed in the Roman Catholic church of Santo Domingo. Now they are in government custody, in the hands of the National Commission of Museums, Monuments and Historic Locations.

Four of them were captured from the invading British Army in 1806 during the reconquest of Buenos Aires when the British were driven out by the Spanish viceroy, Santiago Antonio de Liniers.

Taken In Battle

The other two were captured from the Spanish in 1813 by Gen. Manuel Belgrano in the Battle of Salta during the War of Argentine Independence.

Last June Navy-led rebels staged an unsuccessful revolt against the government of President Juan D. Peron at the height of the government's feud with the Catholic Church. That night mobs put the torch to many churches, among them Santo Domingo.

Firemen carried the flags from the church to save them from the flames. They were not returned.

Visitors Swamp U.S. Embassies All Over Europe

By STAN SWINTON

ROME, Sept. 6 (AP)—The flood of official visitors from the United States has grown so great American diplomats in Europe say they can't get their work done.

Since many of the visitors are congressmen or influential politicians, the diplomats won't air their complaints in public. Privately they say the problem of visiting firemen is causing them serious concern.

The U. S. Embassy in Rome, for example, has 416 official visitors due this month, and more names are coming in with every mail.

Some days there will be more visitors due VIP treatment than there are embassy officials to give it to them individually.

Bulldogs Battle Lovington Wildcats In Stadium Tonight

Coach Smith Predicts Hard Fought Game

Coach Reese Smith looks for a hard fought "cat and dog" fight between his Bulldogs and the Lovington Wildcats in tonight's A-team opener in Morris Stadium.

Smith says he expects a hard game. He discounted reports of Lovington's "inexperience" and pointed to a Lovington backfield averaging 155 pounds to the Bulldogs' backfield 132 pound average.

Smith was pleased the way the Bulldogs have lined up in practice. The entire squad of 27 men had been brought to opening game time with a serious injury.

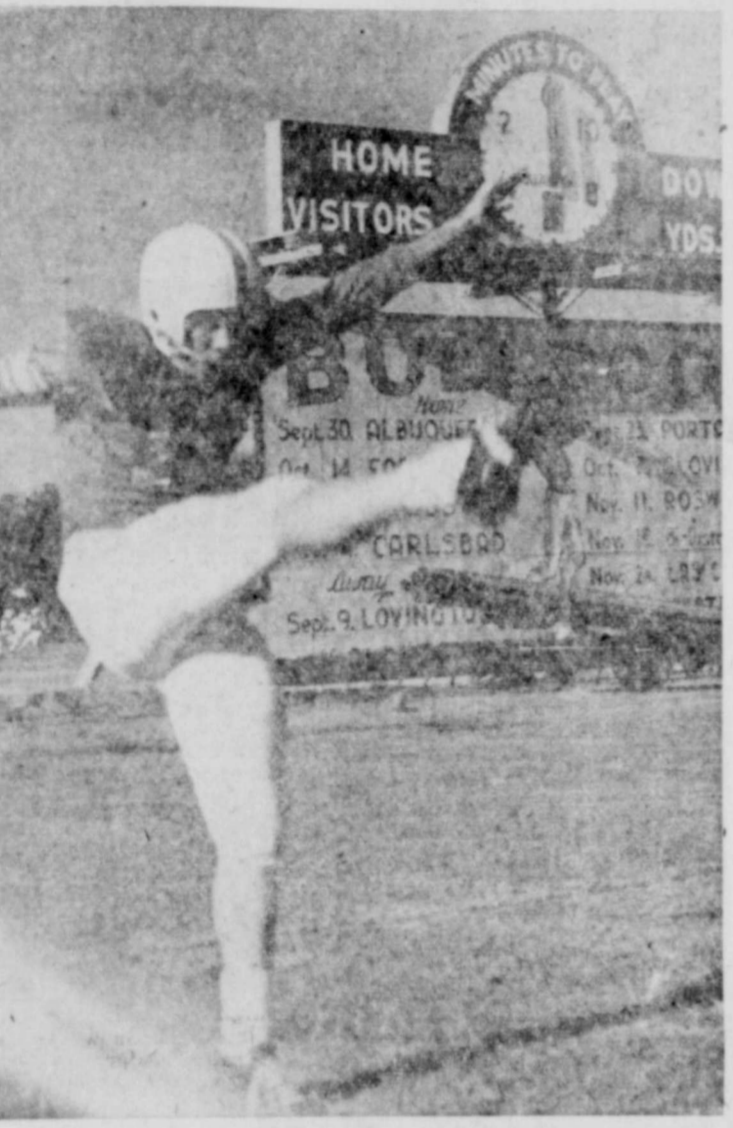

Artesia's line of starters average 170 pounds, appreciably more than the 165-pound average of the Lovington forward wall. Heavies in the line are Don Perry, right tackle, 185, while the Bulldogs' starting line boasts a 225-pounder, Bill Mayes. Lightest Lovington starter is 140-pound E. Robb and the Artesia starting line is at least halfback Jim Belvin at 145.

The Bulldogs, relying on the line and deception for which their formation is ideal, also rely on the pass. Max Ratliff, starting quarterback, is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 160. An old leg injury kept him out of the way.

Fullback powerhouse is fullback Clyde Bratcher, 170 pounds, and last year's All State team member. The fullback position has been an excellent line backer.

The halfback spots are small speedy Jim Belvin and George Price.

The Wildcats run their play in a wing-T formation, which they have used successfully for several years.

WHEN PUNT OR PASS is the dilemma, Max Ratliff is geared to decide which and do either well. The Bulldog quarterback is 6 feet-2 and is handy with kicking toe and passing arm. He'll call the plays in the Wildcat game. (Advocate Photo)

Wildcat Coach Says His Boys Inexperienced

LOVINGTON (AP)—With only six lettermen returning for the 1955 squad, Lovington's Wildcats will be hard pressed to keep atop the District 4-A heap.

That was the lousy prediction of Coach Virgil Boteler as his crew of hopefuls left for tonight's opener against the Bulldogs at Artesia. There are but eight seniors on the school's 46-man squad. Positions were still wide open during this week's practice sessions.

"Experience, or rather the lack of it, is the weakest of many weak points," Boteler said. "But the squad has shown good spirit in early drills and that's a strong point in their favor."

The Wildcats lost 13 lettermen by graduation and two others failed to show up for practice this year. Co-captain Bill Kiser, 190-pound senior guard, is ineligible.

But the other co-captain, Jerry Burks, burly 180-pound senior back, has brought a gleam to Coach Boteler's eye. Big, rugged and canny, he is expected to be one of the outstanding backfield performers in District 4.

Boteler is starting his sixth season as Lovington head coach. A former New Mexico U player, he had a record of 6 wins to three losses last year, including a 21 to 26 loss to Gadsden in the playoffs.

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—New Mexico gridders suffered the loss of a promising guard Keith Amerson yesterday—only 24 after learning that letterman Amerson suffered chest injuries in the car he was riding to Albuquerque from Hobbs crashed north of his home. Lobo Coach Titchenal said he fears Amerson may also be lost for the season. Amerson is a sophomore.

White Sands PG Defeats Sandia

WILL, Okla. (AP)— Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., held its spot in the winners bracket of the 4th Army Football Tournament here last night with a 12-4 Class AA victory over the New Orleans Port of Embarkation.

Earlier, in the other Class AA contest, White Sands, N. M., Provosts defeated Sandia, N. M., 4-1 to enter the finals of the elimination tourney.

Junior High Hornets Show Mastery, Down Rebels, 34-6

The Artesia Junior High Hornets, showing mastery in every department, outclassed the Rebels of South Roswell Junior High 34-6 in the season opener for both teams last night in Morris Stadium.

Fleet, elusive Gary Foulkes, Hornet fullback, was the star for Artesia, dashing across for three touchdowns and crossing the Rebel goal line for three conversion points. Foulkes repeatedly broke loose for substantial gains to set up the other Hornet scores.

South Roswell kicked off and the Hornets made first down in three running plays. Foulkes added another first down with a 15-yard run from a pitchout and then went over from the 9-yard line. His plunge for the extra point failed. Up to the point the Rebels hadn't laid a hand on the ball.

The Rebels advanced six yards on the first play after receiving the Hornet kickoff, then fumbled and Artesia recovered. Foulkes made it first down around left end. Artesia was penalized for off side, failed in a pass attempt and drew another penalty for taking too much time as the first 8-minute quarter ended.

The lone Rebel touchdown came late in the second quarter when fullback Harrison Hoskins, on a fake handoff, raced around his left end and eeked through a half dozen would-be tacklers to score standing up. The extra point try failed.

The trouble was that Foulkes had already got the second quarter rolling with another round-ended touchdown and had made the extra point good. And soon afterward Kent Barnett, Hornet right halfback sneaked through for still another Artesia touchdown. The half ended with the score 20-6.

Foulkes added his third touchdown of the game in the third quarter, with halfback Billy Williams adding the extra point. In the final period, Quarterback Tracy Patterson completed a pass to Williams, who twice reversed his field and dodged like a jack-rabbit to elude Rebel tacklers and go on for a touchdown. Foulkes went over for the extra point.

Jim Kanaga Strikes Out 13 As NuMexers Top Rockets 4-1 In 3rd Play Off Game

Pitching one of his best games of the season Jim Kanaga gave up only three hits and struck out 13 here last night to give the NuMexers a 4-1 victory over the Roswell Rockets.

Kanaga was in possible trouble in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings when he allowed the leadoff man to get on in each inning but managed to pull out safely.

The NuMexers' big inning was the eighth, when they scored three runs, two of them unearned. After two were out, Tom Jordan singled and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Dobkowski singled, scoring Jordan. Then Bawcom singled and Dobkowski came home on an error by Pruitt. Rocket right fielder, Gallardo singled to score Bawcom.

The Rockets' lone run came in the fourth on a home run by Werneke with none on. In the ninth, Stubby Greer, Rockets short stop, hit into a double play to end the game.

The teams play again starting at 8 p.m. Saturday, passing over tonight because of the conflict with the Artesia football game with Lovington.

Brooklyn's Pennant Victory National League's Earliest

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Brooklyn's pennant victory is the earliest ever in the National League, but in the American, one or two of the contenders may find it's later than they think after the next three pressure-packed days.

The Dodgers made it with a 10-2 thrashing of Milwaukee, erasing their own league record for an early clinching set Sept. 12, 1953.

The frenzied American League battle, however, now jumps into its most crucial three days yet. The Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees open a two-game set in Yankee Stadium today while the first-place Cleveland Indians begin a two-game series at Boston.

Sunday, Chicago moves to Boston and Cleveland visits New York in a pair of double-headers.

Loss Vital Ground

The burden is on the White Sox and the Red Sox. Both lost vital ground yesterday while Cleveland and New York reeled off victories. The Indians beat Baltimore 5-3 in 10 innings, maintaining their half-game lead over the Yanks, who wallowed Kansas City 15-0.

But the White Sox were jarred 2 1/2 games behind by Washington 5-4 and Boston, after winning six straight, slipped four games back with a 5-4 defeat by Detroit.

Cleveland stayed out front with four unearned runs. Larry Doby's 26th homer, leading off the 10th to break a 3-3 tie, provided the Tribe with an untainted run.

Baltimore pushed over a run in the ninth, off Ray Narleski, the Tribe's fourth pitcher, as the Indians missed what was supposed to have been a game-ending double play.

The Yanks had no such anxious moments. Bob Turley five hit the A's for his fifth shutout and 15th triumph and Yogi Berra belted a pair of three-run homers. Kansas City kicked in four errors, giving New York six unearned runs on their nine hits.

They've Been Successful

IN this day and time of big business we continue to measure success in the life we live by the wealth we have been able to accumulate.

Yet all of us know this is not success; it is not indicative of a successful life and that it only represents one side of us—that business ability we have or the ability we have to accumulate money.

Money is rather a cold and lonesome something to have when we reach the end of the trail without friends; without those who are concerned about us; and without association with others.

It may buy part of our needs but it doesn't bring us true friends and the respect and the appreciation of our fellow man.

We have known educators who have wondered all of their lives whether they should have remained in the teaching profession or gone into business. We know a professor of journalism who has taught for many, many years. He has earned the highest award his University can give him for his faithful service and he is still serving.

He has taught hundreds the principles of journalism and the ideals of life. He has given them the ability to think; the ability to write and do so accurately; he has taught them to respect others. He has those he has taught scattered throughout the world doing a job and having gained what the world calls success.

They are his friends and they are still his boys and girls. They come back to see him to relate their experiences, their successes and their disappointments. They come back to see him because they respect him and admire him and because of what he has meant to them in this old life.

The man is far richer today than he could have ever been had he gone into the field of journalism and followed that as a profession instead of the teaching profession. He perhaps has accumulated much of this world's riches but he has acquired something more valuable and of greater—the respect and the admiration and the friendship of those he has taught.

His life has been a real success in the things that count. Many other teachers, professors, ministers, individuals and even public officials have done the same thing and their life has been a wonderful success whether they have accumulated worldly riches or not because they have acquired the greatest riches in all the world—the respect and admiration and love of their fellow man.

to shoulder on the hospital steps. Thirty or 40 of them sat in the chairs in the hospital lobby, and two more endlessly went around trying doors in the basement and examining the hallways.

They seemed afraid, even with Long dying, that one of his many enemies might break in or sneak in to finish off the senator on his deathbed.

Another reporter and I were allowed a telephone in a small office next to the lobby. Long was upstairs in a room on the second floor. We couldn't go up. The guards watched us steadily.

A woman reporter, friendly with the bodyguards, sat outside our office. We sat out there too to see what happened in the lobby. Around 3 a. m. Long's family and his chief lieutenants came in hurriedly and went upstairs.

At 4:10 a. m. or a little later one of Long's men from upstairs came down. I don't know whether he gave the bodyguards a sign or they saw something in his face. But they jumped to their feet.

The Long man leaned over the woman reporter to whisper. I tried to hear. He said:

"Get back, you." I got back. But I heard him say: "He's dead." I had to be sure and the only place to be sure was on the second floor.

I ran for the stairs. The whole lobbyful of guards ran for the stairs. I was squeezed in tight trying to go up. I couldn't move. I thought: "This is where I get it." A strange thing happened.

The bodyguards who an hour before might have thrown me down the stairs, fell back and let me through. No one said anything to me. We all went up the stairs together, walking, no running, with me in front.

Later, I thought: Long had been their link with the fantastic political machine which was their protection and their bread and butter. And now he was dead and the link was broken.

In the rush to the stairs they acted for the first time without Long around to guide and save them in whatever they did and, without him, suddenly they felt alone, each of them individually, and uncertain.

Their power had been diminished and it was diminished more as time went on.

New Mexico Prep Squads Play 29 Games This Week

By The Associated Press
New Mexico high school football teams tonight touch off their 1955 wars with a hefty 29-game schedule that spreads through four states.

And on top of that, Albuquerque has a unique Football Jamboree involving all three of the city's Class AA teams. The jamboree, with Valley, Albuquerque and Highland taking part, has each team play every other squad for one quarter in the same game. It won't go on the records.

But the rest of the heavy schedule—including initial action for the eight other Class AA schools—all goes on the books.

Radiation-Protected Troops in Armored Vehicles to Be Future Spearhead Units

By ROBERT EUNSON
TOKYO, Sept. 5. (AP)—A news bulletin of the future:

Tank riding American soldiers wearing radiation proof coveralls and carrying geiger counters, smashed through to the center of the atomized enemy city.

Meanwhile, light armored vehicles, brought up by air transport planes, in support of the attacking column, smashed off both flanks of the spearheading tanks, mopping up straggling units which had survived the blast and penetrating enemy defenses in preparation for another breakthrough.

This very well might be a front line news dispatch of any future war, says Gen. I. D. White, America's foremost living exponent of armored warfare.

Atomic experiments, he said, have proved that people in armored vehicles can withstand such attacks better and be in position to exploit the use of our own atomic weapons sooner than any other troops.

In his first interview since assuming command of the 8th Army in Korea and U. S. Army forces in the Far East, the ruddy general sat easily in a chair at his Camp Zama headquarters, 20 miles southeast of Tokyo.

Gen. White was promoted to the rank of four-star general on June 10, the same day he was named commanding general of the U. S. Army Forces Far East and of the U. S. 8th Army. His promotion was confirmed June 25 and he took the oath of general in ceremonies in Bridgeport, Conn., where he was visiting his sister.

Near Berlin
The last time I had talked with White, his "Hell on Wheels" 2nd Armored Division had just battered into Magdeburg, 57 miles from Berlin.

On a ledge behind White's chair here at Camp Zama sat a row of scale model tanks and a tank retriever, reminding one that even though this 54-year-old combat commander has a job now that required more desk work and diplomacy than leading troops, he still can't forget his beloved armor.

When Gen. George E. Patton was killed in an automobile accident in 1945, the mantle of leading American tank commander passed unofficially to White.

During the German occupation, he organized the U. S. combat unit into a highly mobile armored command and then set up a tank training center at Vilsbiburg.

Back in the States, White commanded two of the Army's major service schools and passed down to junior officers knowledge he had gained fighting tanks in eight campaigns in Africa, Sicily and Europe.

Going overseas with the 2nd Armored Division as a major early in World War II, he commanded every unit in the outfit from a battalion to finally the division itself.

Patton and White were long and good friends, White serving under Patton at Fort Riley, in the 2nd Armored Division when Patton was the "hell on wheels" commander and in action in Africa and Sicily.

It was Patton who recommended White for the rank of brigadier general.

He served a tour in Korea, commanding general of the 10th Corps on the eastern front in Korea. "White recalls that we have never and light tanks which also give more protection. We could do better in Korea with tanks if the fighting there were resumed.

Obeying Truce
"eW do not have the new in Korea now because we obeying the armistice agreement by not bringing in weapons of kind."

He got up and walked around the room and said: "I don't want to leave the impression that alone can win wars. Armor composite unit, combining all branches of the service. I like to point out the great importance of tactical air support was absolutely essential in World War II. We would not have been able to get along without it in future.

The attack of the future may be either an airborne drop, followed by an airdrop in support, and then, with his thoughts still projected into the future, he said: "Because of the dispersion of forces that will be required of sides in the future. I think it will be even greater opportunity for gaining breakthrough."

He thought that over for a while, and then, with his thoughts still projected into the future, he said: "Because of the dispersion of forces that will be required of sides in the future. I think it will be even greater opportunity for gaining breakthrough."

PUBLISHER DIES

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—Funeral services for A. G. (Pat) Mayse, publisher of the Paris News and a prominent east Texas civic leader, were to be held here today. Mayse, died in Hobbs, N. M., Monday night while on a business trip. The publisher, who started his career as an unpaid printer's helper, came to Texas as a boy from Columbia, Tenn., his birthplace.

OFFICIALS IN NEW YORK

SANTA FE (AP)—Gov. Simms and four top state officials were in New York today to sign 4 1/2 million dollars worth of state bonds. The trip was paid for by the bonding company since it felt it would be easier for the officials to go to New York rather than ship the bonds here.

The protest shall set forth all protestant's reasons why the application should not be approved and shall be accompanied by supporting affidavits and by proof that a copy of the protest has been served upon the applicant. Said protest and proof of service must be filed with the State Engineer within ten (10) days after the date of the last publication of this notice. Unless protested, the application will be taken up for consideration by the State Engineer on that date, being on or about the 5th day of October, 1955.

Folklore Tale of Mushrooms Aiding In Cancer Check May Prove Valid

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—An old folklore story says that eating certain kinds of mushrooms may help prevent cancer.

Today a scientist who became curious about it said that extracts from some mushrooms do indeed show ability to retard or stop the growth of some cancers transplanted into mice.

These extracts are not yet pure enough for human tests, to disprove or prove the old story. They may provide a new clue for cancer control.

Studies Told

The research was described by Dr. E. H. Lucas and Joseph Stevens of Michigan State University at the opening of the annual meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

Dr. Lucas became interested in the claim in some central European countries that people eating a certain species of mushroom, named Boletus Edulis, had very little cancer.

He tested an extract from it and found it could retard growth of some types of experimental cancer in mice.

Since then, five years ago, 80 different species of mushrooms have been studied. Extracts from 10 have been found to contain some principle able to slow tumor growth in mice, Dr. Lucas said.

This work has been done in collaboration with the Division of Experimental Chemo-Therapy of the Sloan-Kettering Institute of New York.

Dr. Lucas said he has not been able to obtain medical reports substantiating the claim of less cancer among people eating the Boletus edulis in Czechoslovakia, Germany and Austria.

Similar folklore about mushrooms is reported in some areas of Pennsylvania where mushrooms are grown, he added.

The best that any extract has done is to retard growth of tumors in animals, not to make them shrink or disappear.

Son of man, whenever I doubt of life I think of Thee." So wrote George Matheson in his blindness. Whenever you and I doubt either God or man, we would do well to think of Jesus. His cross is a symbol of what God is and what we may become. The proud Roman at the foot of the cross said, "This man was the son of God." Jesus was supremely a man of faith. He had great faith in both God and man. We have faith in God largely because we must have Him. We are not sufficient unto ourselves. Do you have faith? Life becomes a radiant thing for people of faith, since they see so much deeper into the secrets of life. The universe opens its heart to eyes of faith; closed doors swing ajar when faithful steps approach; loving spirits smile their welcome to trustworthy souls; latent powers blossom in the presence of fidelity; young children and wise old age give themselves with abandon to those who offer confidence. God waits to share His blessings on men who can be trusted. Of the Pilgrims of yesterday, guided by the Divine, it was said, "They were men of faith and very sure of God." Are you sure of God?
