Bert Rawlins Announces For Probate Judge

Bert Rawlins, long time resident of Carlsbad, Thursday announced his candidacy for Eddy County probate judge, subject to the May 8 Democratic Primary.

In announcing, Rawlins stated: "To the Voters of Eddy County: 'In making my decision to enter the race for probate judge, I do so of my own accord. I have not been solicited to make the race by anyone but do so because I feel that I am competent to fill the office, and the salary from the same will aid me to go on with the work of making homes for boys desiring to make their way through school.'

"Up to the present time, since our marriage in Odesa, Tex., we have had my home open and aided 47 boys and am proud of the way they have gone on to useful lives.

"I grew up in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, starting my school career in the convent at Stanton (then Marienfield), T. X. I entered the newspaper business in Midland, Tex., before I had reached the voting age, and later moved to Odesa, Tex., where I served as postmaster for 12 years.

"My wife and I arrived in Carlsbad on the first day of January, 1914, to take a place with Joyce-Pruit Mercantile Co. I later coached in our high school and have held positions in different lines.

"I have tried hard to make a worthy citizen have watched Carlsbad grow from a village to our present city, and have never lost track of the fact that the potash industry is responsible for the development of the area and brought to Carlsbad so many worthy citizens.

Nelson Is Sent Into Cellblock

SANTA FE — David Cooper Nelson, held in two hitch-hike deaths, has been moved to the prison for safekeeping.

Warden Harold Swenson said Nelson will be kept in Cellblock No. 1, the maximum security unit.

Train Wreck Kills Fourteen In Mass.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. — A four-car Boston and Maine commuter train ploughed into a second train, halted outside the station yard here.

At least 14 were killed, and a police officer at the scene said the toll might reach 20. Scores were injured as many of the 1,000 passengers were thrown from their seats.

The collision came in a blinding snowstorm. The rear car of the halted train was splintered and turned over.

The lead car of the four-car train of diesel-propelled Budd Highliners was torn open "like a watermelon" in the words of one eyewitness.

A passenger in the halted train, Warren S. Martin of Danvers, said the train was more than 20 minutes late when it left Salem, and came to a stop about a quarter of a mile from the Swampscott station.

"I heard the short blasts of a whistle from another train, and the next thing we knew we were rammed," Martin said.

The halted train was en route from Portsmouth, N. H., to Boston, and Director William H. Kirley of the State Public Utilities Department said it had stopped at a "home signal" outside the Swampscott station yard.

The other train, an Danvers-Boston run, "ran into it," Kirley said.

The injured were rushed to hospitals in the vicinity as ambulances and doctors were hastily summoned.

Edward Penniman, a reporter for the Lynn Item, told of seeing 13 bodies. Another was pinned in a car.

In the first batch of 25 injured taken to the Lynn Hospital were many reported critically injured. The hospital summoned about 75 nurses.

Other victims were taken to Marblehead and Salem Hospitals and Union Hospital, Lynn.

The Boston Red Cross blood center sent 50 pints of blood to the Salem Hospital, and prepared to make similar shipments to the Lynn Hospital for transfusions for the injured.

The Boston and Maine Railroad said the streamlined Budd Highliner train, which left Salem at 8:02 a. m. EST, was due in Boston at 8:33 a. m. The Budd train struck the rear of the diesel, the B&M said, which had left Portsmouth, N. H., at 6:40 a. m., and was due in Boston at 8:14.

The collision occurred at the Swampscott Junction as both trains were headed southwest. Swampscott is about six miles from Boston.

Howard Ross of West Newbury, a Lynn Item stereotyper, was a passenger in one of the trains. He was thrown from his seat by the crash.

"There was nothing left of the first car of the Danvers train except the platform," he said.

A piece of the metal body of the Danvers train flew past the last car of his train, Ross reported. Ross said only one of the passenger cars was damaged.

Ike Proclaims Disaster Area In New Mexico

SANTA FE — President Eisenhower has announced, in a telegram to Gov. John Simms, that New Mexico has been designated as a drought "emergency disaster area" eligible for federal assistance.

Eisenhower directed Secretary of Agriculture Benson to confer with officials of New Mexico on the amount and nature of the aid needed. No funds were allocated pending Benson's survey.

The action paves the way for the allocation of federal funds for erosion control and the reinstatement of the emergency feed program for drought stricken Union County.

Ex-Dictator Is Booted Out Of Panama Hotel

PANAMA — Juan D. Peron, Argentina's fallen dictator who wants a home he can call his own was evicted Tuesday in new temporary quarters just around the corner from the U.S. Embassy offices.

Stripped to his underwear, the former President lugged furnishings around his brand new two bedroom apartment in the fashionable Bella Vista section near Panama's waterfront. It rents for about $110 a month.

Peron suffered the embarrassment of eviction by a former friend. The U. S. State Department sensitive to congressional criticism, booted him out of the U.S.-owned Washington Hotel in Colon, 50 miles from Panama.

Mixed Blood Persons Lose Voting Rights

CAPETOWN, South Africa — South Africa's "white supremacy" Nationalist government last night won its five-year battle to take the white man's vote from the only colored person who had it.

By a vote of 174-68 — 12 more than the required two-thirds majority — both Houses of Parliament in joint session amended the South African constitution to remove 50,000 "coloreds" — persons of mixed blood — from the common voting role.

President Urges Passage Of Colorado River Project Measure Up For Debate

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower sent word to the House today as it set out to debate the Upper Colorado River Project bill that he wants the measure passed.

House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) said after the weekly meeting of GOP legislative leaders at the White House that the President told them he is "very anxious" to have the bill passed.

The measure already has been passed by the Senate and is pending in the House.

Martin said the outlook for favorable House action is "very promising."

House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.) previously had predicted the House will pass the bill.

The final vote on the bill — which would authorize the second largest reclamation project ever considered by Congress — may not come before Thursday.

McCormack told newsmen that a poll of Democratic House members showed that a minimum of 120 would support the bill. And Republicans in favor of the plan have said that informal nose counts among GOP House members indicate enough votes for passage.

Supporters planned first a series of amendments designed to make the bill solidly attractive to the states it would benefit — Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. The 760 million dollar measure proposes a system of power dams, storage reservoirs and irrigation facilities across those states.

ENGINEERS POINT OUT SERIOUS PROBLEM AT NIGHT MEET HERE

Six prominent water-use engineers discussed different aspects of the Pecos Valley water problem last night at a meeting at the American Legion Hall here, and they agreed firmly that depletion of water in this area is in sight if the present excessive uses continue.

Sponsored jointly by the State Engineer Office and the Pecos Valley Artesian Conservancy District, the meeting was called at the request of local water users to consider practical means of checking the decline of water tables in the Roswell Basin. Approximately 60 ranchers and farmers in this area attended. Specifically the group considered whether well metering is advisable.

The most depressing analysis was given by last night's first speaker, J. C. Yates of the State Engineer Office. He pointed out that present developments in the basin exceed recharge and discharge of available water.

"It is apparent," he said, "that estimates indicate there is enough water to irrigate 66,000 acres. Yet at present, 140,000 acres are being irrigated, 122,300 acres being estimated valid irrigation rights."

He said serious difficulty could be expected within 40 or 50 years. C. S. Conover of the U. S. Geological Survey placed the blame for falling water tables directly upon increase in farm use. "Industrial use in the state as a whole is small," he said.

He used figures to show that water use has increased sharply during the last ten years. He said that recharge has been average during this period.

William E. Hale, also with the U. S. Geological Survey, blamed excessive pumping for encroachment of salt water upon wells which have been pure previously. "It is apparent that chloride (salt) encroachment is greatest during the summer when there is much pumping and that it is less in the winter when there is not much pumping," he said. However, he admitted that some problems were likely to arise whatever use is made of water in this area; and he suggested several remedial steps, all of which presented problems.

He said: "What wins 5,000 units of salt per million is water of bad quality, and we must consider the quality when we consider water supply." He also maintained that salt encroachment has moved from east of the Pecos to west of it.

In the case of Coleman the defendant was identified by Johnny Achen whom Coleman was said to have slashed with a knife or razor Feb. 10 at about midnight.

Achen testified that the defendant appeared to be under the influence of alcohol and had cursed him on at least two separate occasions. He said he had tried to get Coleman to leave the bar without causing any disturbance. When Coleman, after having started to leave, returned with hands in his pockets Achen panicked, struck at Coleman and started to run. He was slashed on the arm trying to escape.

C. E. Gardner, eye witness to the knife, also identified Coleman. He said immediately after the incident Coleman ran from the bar. Neither witness had seen the weapon.

Mrs. Baldwin's Father Succumbs In Albuquerque

Mrs. C. R. Baldwin received word Monday that her father, G. M. Richards, 95, died in Albuquerque Monday.

Funerary services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in Clarendon, Texas.

Survivors include Mrs. Baldwin and a son, E. O. Richards of Albuquerque.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin left this morning for Clarendon, and their son C. N. and daughter, Bernice will leave in the morning to attend funeral services.

Kefauver Attacks Ike's Farm Program

SIGOURNEY, Iowa — Sen. Kefauver (D-Iowa), carrying his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination into Iowa, attacked the Eisenhower administration last night for answering farmers' complaints with "slick slogans" and "pious excuses."

He told a crowd of more than 800 persons — mostly farmers — which overflowed Memorial Hall here, "It's going to take real money to get the farmers out of the difficulties they're in at the present time."

SCHOOL AUDITOR HONORED

SANTA FE — Gov. Simms was featured speaker at a dinner honoring O. J. (Tuffy) Holder Monday night. Holder has resigned as state educational budget auditor to work for the New Mexico railroads. About 150 school officials from over the state attended the dinner.

Radar Net Soon To Be Completed

NEW YORK — The last link in a 1,600-mile chain of radar "eyes" for split-second tracking of the nation's newest guided missiles will soon be finished in the West Indies.

A final radar station planned for the island of St. Lucia will complete the 10-million-dollar series of outposts that start at the missile test center at Patrick Air Force Base, Cocoa, Fla.

At present, the chain lies along seven Caribbean islands as far as Puerto Rico, 1,000 miles from the Florida missile-launching site.

MECHEM AT MEETING

WASHINGTON — Former New Mexico Gov. Edwin Mechem was expected to leave for home Tuesday after attending a meeting of the Commission on Government Security. He said, in answer to questions, that he would not visit with Republican officials or otherwise talk politics here. He has recently announced his candidacy for governor.

Scientists Discuss Cosmic Ray Hazards In Travels In Space

BERKELEY, Calif. — Men flashing through space at fantastically speeds may age more slowly than earthbound people but their hair may turn gray from cosmic ray bombardment. And they may not know which way is up.

Interplanetary ships may have to be rotated to produce a small amount of gravitational pull for the peace of mind and physical comfort of the people aboard.

These are some of the things which researchers in space medicine are talking about at a current symposium at the University of California.

The slow aging idea will be hard to prove or disprove unless there is an actual trial in space, said Dr. Nello Pace, University of California physiologist and director of California's physiology and director of the White Mountain high altitude laboratory in the California Sierra.

The relativity theory has it that time slows down for anything traveling at velocities approaching the speed of light, 186,000

Scientists Discuss Cosmic Ray Hazards In Travels In Space

At 161,000 miles per second, an hour of space time is about two hours of earth time. For all scientists known now, Dr. Pace said, a person who travels for several years at such speed might come back to earth and find that he had aged less than the people at home.

Prof. Herman B. Chase of Brown University reported finding a significant amount of gray in mice sent aloft 20 miles or more in balloons. There the animals were subjected to primary cosmic rays.

This indicates that a cosmic ray hazard exists, Prof. Chase said, but that it may not be as serious as other factors.

Maj. David B. Simons, space biologist at Holloman Air Force Development Center, New Mexico, said preliminary investigation of cosmic ray alteration of microbes, seeds and grasshopper eggs at very high altitude indicates a need for further study of the possible evolutionary effects on higher animals and man.

The Right Choice For Lenten Meals

Spinach and Cheese Souffle—there isn't a more perfect Lenten dish to be found anywhere. And made with quick-cooking tapioca, it's guaranteed to be "delicate of texture, tender and light."

Whether you serve it for lunch, dinner or supper, good accompaniments are chilled tomato juice, a crisp green salad, coffee and a delicious pineapple pudding garnished with whipped cream and nut meats.

Spinach and Cheese Souffle
1 box (11 ounces) quick-frozen spinach
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 1/4 cups milk
1 cup grated American cheese
1/4 cup butter
4 egg whites
4 egg yolks
Cook spinach as directed on package. Drain. Meanwhile, sauté onion in 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan until tender but not brown. Combine tapioca, salt, pepper, and milk; add to the onion. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat, add cheese and 1/4 cup butter and stir until melted. Add spinach and mix well.
Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add tapioca mixture to egg yolks and mix well. Fold into egg whites.
Spoon into 2-quart casserole. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 minutes, or until soufflé is firm. Serve with mushroom or egg sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Seafoods Brighten The Menu

Savory Seafood in a seasoned Corn Bread Ring is a delectable dish that fits into both home or party menus. The seafood recipe combines tuna and shrimp, but other canned seafoods may be used instead. If tuna in oil is not used, make the sauce by using two tablespoons of butter.

Follow your favorite recipe to make corn bread batter, and add finely chopped onion and parsley. Bake in an oiled ring mold.

Excellent to serve along with the main dish—battered mixed vegetables, assorted crisp relishes and red cherry pie.

Savory Seafood in Corn Bread Ring
1 can (7 oz.) solid pack tuna
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash cayenne
2 cups milk
1 can (5 to 7 oz.) shrimp
Corn Bread Ring

Drain the oil from tuna into a saucepan; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk slowly and cook until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add drained shrimp, and tuna broken into bite-size pieces. Fill center of corn bread ring with seafood mixture. Six servings.

Try using canned salmon, fish flakes, clams or crab meat for other good combinations.

Hermosa School P-TA Executive Board Plans March Carnival

The executive board of the Hermosa School P-TA met Monday at 2 p. m. in the principal's office. Mrs. M. A. Mapes Jr., president, presided.

Minutes of the Feb. 6 meeting were approved when read by Mrs. Hugh Parry, secretary. The group recommended that money in the original piano fund be used for the purchase of a new piano for the school. This would make it easy to have the music room on the lower level in the new wing.

Subscriptions were taken for the birthday calendar. Mrs. Howard Lewis reported present membership of 258. A letter was read asking for nominations from individuals groups for state offices. The group voted to submit Mrs. E. E. Kinney's name for the state office of vice-president.

In order not to conflict with the March 12 concert, the regular meeting of Hermosa P-TA has been changed to March 5 at 7:30. At that time a musical program of string students will be presented and Hermosa Scout leaders will be honored.

Stalcup announced the Hermosa school spelling bee for March 14 and the city-wide spelling bee for April 6.

Mrs. Mapes announced the auditing committee to be C. F. Hammett, George Ferriman, Vernon Watson and David Simons, as alternate.

Number Treated For Alcoholism Placed At 300

ALBUQUERQUE, (Special) — The New Mexico Commission on Alcoholism announced that it has reached the record of treating more than 3,000 patients since its inception in September, 1952.

The treatment to the alcoholic by the State is handled at two treatment centers, one the Turquoise Lodge in Albuquerque, the other the Pecos Valley Lodge in Roswell.

G. B. Robertson, chairman of the commission, says New Mexico is recognized nationally as having one of the "best set-ups for this care in the country. It is one of 30 states in the union officially to recognize alcoholism as a disease, and its legislation and procedures are often copied by sister states striving in the same direction.

Of the 3,000 patients treated, the commission feels that a conservative estimate of 1 out of 3 have remained on the wagon. A recent survey conducted by the commission revealed that men and women from all walks of life are treated at the lodges. The average age of a patient is 38; over half of them fall into the professional, business or skilled labor classification; 15 per cent have a college education and a large majority of patients are married and have dependents. Five per cent of the patients treated by the com-

Tiny Wardrobe Needed For Cast Of Puppet Show

The world's smallest coat-hang-ers will be used to neatly care for the various costumes being worn by the Lesselli Marionettes when they come to Artesia March 2 for a performance of one of the most famous of all children's stories—"Sleeping Beauty."

The same care and thought is needed for making a dress for the Princess in this production as goes into an adult garment—and surprisingly enough, almost as much material!

As the bodies of the marionettes are of cloth, and the heads of plastic wood, one of the most difficult parts of the sewing is designing a collar that will be attractive in keeping with the rest of the garment, but that will also conceal this most important joint.

In the case of the Princess in "Sleeping Beauty," her dress is made of silk chiffon embroidered with crystal beads, and a beautiful high collar fits in with the period of the costume. Almost three yards of material is used for skirt in the little dress.

In addition to the costume for the Princess, the wardrobe for the play also contains costumes for the King and Queen, for the wicked Bad Fairy, and the two Good Fairies, for the Watchman, a Jes-ter, the brave Prince whose kiss brings Sleeping Beauty out of her long slumber and a Hardsichordist.

Whether a material will travel well is of the utmost importance. Wrinkle-resistant materials in clear colors and light in weight are on the "must" list. Old evening dresses made of pure silk are prized by Mrs. Heath for the material answers all of these requirements.

A special pattern is made for every costume and the most successful are stored away afterwards for future use and reference.

Keeping-care of the wardrobe while on tour is also a big item. To assist her, Mrs. Heath carries what is probably the world's smallest ironing board, a diminutive affair, one foot long and graduating from one to two inches in width. For, just as in adult garments, ironing the sleeves is always the most difficult task.

"Sleeping Beauty," one of the eight Tales of Mother Goose, and a comic version "The Three Billy Goats Gruff" will be presented by the P-TA in the High School auditorium.

Writer Predicts Excellent TV Show Offering African Scenes

NEW YORK, (AP) — If all goes well, ABC should have a good weekly half-hour film program ready for the TV screen by next fall.

This is admittedly long-range optimistic forecasting since the idea still is only a gleam in the eyes of an explorer and a top-ranking ABC executive. The explorer is that old Africa hand, Cmdr. Attilio Gatti. The idea is, of course, Africa.

"Hollywood has not done justice to Africa," says Gatti, veteran of a score of expeditions to all sections of the Continent. "They fix up the animals. They always want to get a white girl in the act."

Gatti, who has been making carefully documented movies of Africa many years, hopes to bring some of the true magic and mystery of African life into American homes with a series of films flown back from location in many remote places. He leaves next month for Kenya where he and his expedition of 10 technicians will put together a pilot film on the Mau Mau desert, and the teeming game preserves near Lake Victoria.

Then the Italian-born explorer, who now lives near Newport, Vt., will fly back to New York seeking ABC approval of the pilot film. Whether or not the pilot is approved, Gatti is flying back to what he calls "my natural home," Africa. But to everyone fascinated by the continent it will be a big disappointment if the series fails to jell.

If ABC approves, the expedition will be only at the beginning of a long and arduous trek of thousands of miles. It will move down the Mountains of the Moon to Ruanda Urundi, then up through the Ituri Forest and into the Stanleyville region of the Belgian Congo. Next it will cross over into French Equatorial Africa and the Cameroons, and then swing toward South Africa. Films will be shipped back by air regularly.

PARK'S BIRTHDAY
YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., (AP) — The nation's first national park—Yellowstone—celebrates its 84th birthday Thursday.

On March 1, 1872, President Ulysses S. Grant signed a bill creating Yellowstone "for the benefit and enjoyment of the people."

For the past eight years, travel to the park has exceeded the million mark and in 1955 a record travel of 1,368,515 visitors was recorded.

Nine-Year-Old Is Honored With Birthday Party

Stephen Mulcahy was honored with a party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mulcahy.

The birthday cake was decorated in the cowboy motif with the candles denoting the age in candleholders like guns. The chocolate cake also depicted a rangeland scene with cactus and sage.

After the group were served refreshments they attended a movie matinee.

Those present were the honoree and Mike Simons, Bobby Davis, Victor Keyes, Eddie Goodwin, Bill Jakesway, DeWayne Gregory, Ricky Baldwin, and Bruce Mulcahy, brother of the honoree.

JOCKEY KILLED
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Charlie Guinup, a leading jockey at Rillito race track, was fatally injured yesterday when he was thrown from Letitia's Boy in the ninth race and trampled by several horses.

The 28-year-old jockey was in third place when Letitia's Boy apparently clipped the heels of the horse in front, stumbled and fell, throwing Guinup to the ground.

Due Process Of Law

THERE is a way provided in our state statutes for doing all things that need to be done legally.

Those statutes were set up not only to bring about law observance and enforcement but also to bring about the protection of the rights and the privileges of the citizens.

Every now and then we have those desiring to find short cuts to bring about the results without following the course prescribed by law.

In far too many instances this is by law enforcement officers.

Over the state we find that frequently driver's licenses are picked up by law enforcement officers. Only a judge—justice of the peace, city judge or a district court judge can pick up a driver's license and then only after a driver has pleaded guilty or been found guilty of an offense that provides for the revoking of that license.

We recall a case in Eddy county when a district attorney seeking to get rid of a family in the county failed to follow due process of law. He ordered an entire family to either leave the county or he would prosecute a member of that family.

That, of course, was the employment of a threat which is illegal. It likewise was permitting the district attorney to assume the role of judge and jury besides being the prosecutor. It also meant that he was willing to punish an entire family whether they were involved or guilty without even a trial.

That was not due process of law. We are glad that district attorney no longer has a public office in this judicial district.

But citizens should be zealous of these rights and privileges guaranteed to them under the constitution.

We believe that our county has those officers and officials who want to employ the due process of law and who do want to protect the rights of individuals and willing to give the defendant the benefit of the doubt including the fact that no defendant is guilty under our judicial district until he or she is proven to be guilty or until they plead guilty.

Laws were set up to protect all even the defendant when he or she faces charges and trials. And all citizens should be interested in seeing that all citizens enjoy these rights and these privileges.

Know YOUR Schools

By Jo Connell
DID YOU KNOW that first grade pupils in Artesia schools are given nine or ten formal tests each year?

These are given to determine readiness for school, aptitude for learning and to check academic progress.

The results of these tests are made available to the second grade teacher to help her do effective and understanding teaching of the child.

Did you know that every pupil from grades two through nine is given the Stanford Achievement Test each fall? This is done so his teachers can know his strengths and weaknesses and therefore be able to do a better job of individualized instruction? Of course, no teacher depends on testing alone.

Administering and checking or supervising the administering of these tests is a part of the supervisor's job. Burr Stout is filling this position and he lists another test given in our schools. Aptitude tests are given high school students to assist them in choosing a college and vocation.

The supervisor also assists with curriculum planning and directing; by serving as advisor to principals concerning supervisory problems, assisting with the planning and coordinating of grade level meetings to study problems common to each teacher in the same grade, and assisting with the ordering and distributing of all instructional supplies and text books.

A third phase of the work of the supervisor, lies in the Audio-Visual field. Stout serves as overall director of the AV program grades 1 - 12. He consults with teachers in selecting films, schedules and routes all incoming films for elementary schools, supervises distribution and return of rental films, maintains and directs the distribution of all film strips from the central film strip library and consults with principals concerning the purchase and maintenance of all school Audio-Visual equipment such as movie projectors, film strip projectors, opaque projectors, record players, radios, tape records, public address systems, dry-mount presses, etc.

Weak Windstorm Hits Panhandle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A weak windstorm, hatched in the deserts of New Mexico, moved through the Texas Panhandle today, showering the area with grit.

Propelled by winds of 30-35 m.p.h. the storm is expected to pass through the Missouri - Arkansas line bound for Kentucky and the Atlantic Seaboard. The Weather Bureau expects the storm to blow itself out by tomorrow morning.

There were no indications the storm might step up its force and bring a repeat performance of Saturday's tornadoes which slammed into southern Illinois and central Indiana.

Elsewhere in the nation, snow flurries continued over the New England states and the northern Great Lakes region. A slight cooling was noted in the Northeast.

It was slightly warmer over most other areas east of the Mississippi.

is used for arriving at an equitable distribution of water and an equitable charge for it.

J. L. Dirnberger from New Mexico A&M hit wasteful irrigation. "It is apparent that we are irrigating much more land today than formerly with the same amount of water, he said, stressing efficient irrigation practices. He maintained that studies show water tables rise when there is wasteful irrigation, but that this in itself was not necessarily a good thing. "The basis of good irrigation," he said, "is transpiration of the plant." The dictionary defines transpiration as the exhaling of water vapor through the skin of a leaf.

The final speaker, F. E. Irby of the State Engineer office, pointed out that some areas are using water much faster than it is being replaced. "They can do this because they are drawing upon a supply which has been stored in the earth for centuries," he declared, "but the day of reckoning surely must come."

A summary of points was made by S. E. Reynolds of the State Engineers Office, who presided at the meeting. He said, "Withdrawals in this area are 190 per cent of safe yields and the pinch is already being felt, the only solution is to reduce withdrawals, the dwindling supply of water is not equitably distributed, and equitable distribution will go a long way toward reducing withdrawals." A similar meeting was held this morning at Hagerman. This discussion comprises one of four such meetings set for Roswell, Hagerman and Artesia. Public discussions are held at each gathering.

Study Is Underway To Expand Number Of Heavy Bombers In Each Air Wing

WASHINGTON — The Air Force may substantially increase the number of heavy, nuclear weapon bombers in each strategic wing to give them even greater striking power.

A proposal is under study to expand from 30 to 45 the number of bombers in a strategic air force wing as deliveries of the new all-jet B52 accumulate, is was learned recently.

Under this plan, the Strategic Air Force would have upwards of 160 more B52s even if no change is made in the present plan for 11 heavy bomber wings under the 137-wing Air Force program scheduled for attainment in mid-1957.

How fast the big long-range B52s are being turned out is a matter of controversy among critics of administration defense policy. Sen. Symington (D-Mo) said recently it will be "a great many months to come" before the B52 production rate reaches as many as 17 a month.

Air Force officials have said in recent months that while the 137-wing total unit strength now appears adequate, further expansion of the numbers of modern aircraft in the Soviet air force might call for reconsideration of the program.

Gen. Nathan P. Twining, air chief of staff, told a Senate committee recently that the flexibility and range of the Tactical Air Force is being augmented by aerial refueling.

Higgins Thinks He Has Answer To League Play

SARASOTA, Fla. — Having had one season, his first as a big league manager, in which to find out why the Boston Red Sox have not been winning pennants, Mike Higgins feels that he has at least the partial answer now and will be somewhat better able to cope with his more experienced American League rivals in the 1956 race.

Not that the large Texan didn't do extremely well in his first stab at the job. He took over a club which had finished 42 games from the top the previous year and hauled it up within a dozen games of the champion Yankees at the finish. Higgins intends to do still better since he has learned how vitally important bench strength has become lately.

"It's hopeless to try to win without plenty of good reserves these days," he said in camp here. "Having eight good men and a pitcher isn't near enough any longer. I got to thinking last season that the whole game had changed since I was playing in the big leagues and that wasn't but about 10 years ago. I wouldn't be surprised if Casey Stengel could be given credit for being the first to see what was happening and adjusting his squad to fit the change."

Under the original plan, the bill before the house would authorize construction of the Glen Canyon Dam in northern Arizona at a cost of 421 million dollars; Flaming Gorge Dam in northern Utah, 83 million; and Navajo Dam on the San Juan River in north-west New Mexico, 36 million. In addition the bill contains provisions for the conditional authorization of the Curecanti Dam on the Gunnison River in western Colorado.

Boyle Decides To Reject Club That Fights For Male Freedom

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Carlstone reflections of a Pavement Plato? Who should control the spending of the family income—husband or wife?

It is generally believed that women boss the spending of about 85 per cent of the expenditures in the American home.

A revolutionary new organization—"The Brotherhood of the True Man"—has been formed by publicist Carl Ruoff to challenge this figure and spread the doctrine that the American male is and ought to be master of his own paycheck.

Operating under the slogan, "Never Underestimate the power of a Man," the organization cites a magazine survey to make the following claims:

That 4 out of 5 men buy the liquor, beer and wine consumed in their home.

That 4 out of 5 buy their own suits, hats, shoes, cigars and razor blade.

That 9 out of 10 buy their own cigars, 7 out of 10 their own shaving cream.

That 3 out of 5 pick the brand of shirts they wear, and 1 out of 2 actually go to the store themselves and purchase them.

Crying for even more masculine control over spending, Ruoff continues:

"What man would admit that he lets his wife decide what books to read, what airline to fly, what lawn mower to guide?"

"Do you want your 1957 automobile to be painted 'tickled pink' to match Modom's new lipstick, or do you want one in which you can stretch out to your natural length?"

"Will you drink your whisky out of a bottle or from the makings of next year's lamp?"

Ruoff has invited me to join in his new fight for "male freedom." He has also invited such other distinguished exponents of masculinity as Humphrey Bogart, Bob Considine, Robert Ruark, Toots Shor, Ernest Hemingway, Errol Flynn and Papa Dianne.

This is one revolution I'm going to sit out.

You don't weaken women by trying to take money away from them. That only makes 'em stronger and more determined. The true way to cross up women is to hand the control of money over to them—and make them feel responsible for spending it.

A man doesn't get ulcers from earning money, which can be fun, but from figuring out what to do with it after he gets it. If he turns this problem over to his wife, maybe she'll get the ulcers instead of him.

Any sensible husband ought to be content merely to lug home a satisfactory paycheck, and turn most of it over to his wife. Let the little woman then worry about how to pay it out.

As she gets wrinkles and writer's cramp struggling over the family paycheck, he is left free to indulge in such purely masculine joys as scratching himself, and reading the sports page.

The way to keep a wife happy is keep her uncertain, and the best way for a husband to keep her uncertain is to hand her over his income and tell her it's purely up to her whether they save enough to ride a cab, to the poorhouse, or have to go there a-foot.

There was a terrific crash and all hell broke loose," said a passenger, Joseph Cappucco, 23, of Salem, a Northeastern University senior. He said the collision was preceded by a "long whistle from the rear."

The family of Mrs. Warren McCannan lives within a short distance of the spot where the collision occurred.

Here is Mrs. McCannan's story: "I was looking out the back window of our home, which is about 50 feet from the tracks, when I heard what sounded like a terrific rumble—building up and building up into an awful sound."

"Actually the sound seemed to come from underneath—like an explosion of some kind."

"Then came the loud crack of the collision, and then silence."

"People started to stream out of the cars of both trains. It was a terrible sight. I guess I just stood there dumbfounded while my son, Paul, 16, ran out to the scene."

Herbert Hoover Jr. Blunders On Policy, As Well As Dulles

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — At the State Department, Secretary Dulles has no monopoly on awkward situations. His next-in-command, Herbert Hoover Jr., has managed to get into a couple too, with the help of President Eisenhower.

The department goofed once and got caught in its own flypaper another time while Hoover, the undersecretary, was running the show for Dulles, who was on vacation. The first involved Red China, the second tanks for Saudi Arabia.

Last spring Chou En-lai, the Red Chinese premier, caught the world's hopes and attention with this sudden proposal: that his country and the United States sit down and talk about relaxing tension around Formosa.

Hoover, with the approval of Eisenhower, gave an answer which got a bad world reaction and which Chou said almost closed the door on any talks. The answer was given so fast it couldn't have been thought out very well.

Hoover said the United States would insist that the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa sit in on any talks. This would just about prevent even exploratory talks since the Reds and Nationalists don't recognize each other as legitimate governments.

When he got back from vacation Dulles tried to straighten out this error by saying Nationalist China wouldn't have to sit in on a cease-fire talk but would have to be there if the conversation got around to who owned Formosa.

Hoover's next big unhappy moment came this month. Without any public announcement the State Department planned to send 18 tanks to Saudi Arabia. It might never have said anything about it if there hadn't been a leak. Someone saw the tanks on the Brooklyn waterfront, ready to be loaded on a boat bound for Saudi Arabia.

Sending tanks to the Arabs was big news, since the department for months had been delaying action on the pleas of Israel for weapons. The Israelis said they needed equipment for defense against the Arab nations.

Not until it was asked about it, and then only after some delay, did the State Department say it had approved the tanks for Saudi Arabia. It tried to brush off the whole business by saying it was a routine matter.

But it wasn't routine, to the newspapers and radio which played the news big. Many members of Congress sympathetic to the Israelis' request for arms denounced the shipment.

Quickly Hoover—he now says with Eisenhower's approval—ordered the shipment suspended. This infuriated the Arabs. All sides were angry at the department lifted the suspension, let the tanks be shipped.

How did this happen in the first place? And why, once the State Department had decided to let Saudi Arabia have the tanks, did it suspend the shipment at all? Hoover tried to explain to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Whatever light his testimony threw on the deal, it was a confusing kind of light. This was the story:

Some years ago, when Saudi Arabia let the United States use an air base there, close to Riyadh, it got this country to agree to let it arms later. Last April it asked for tanks for training purposes. On Aug. 25 the United States agreed.

Saudi Arabia paid for the tanks to be shipped on Feb. 26 and was notified the tanks would be shipped in February. This gave the State Department more than two months to check to be sure everything about the transaction was legal.

But when the legality of it was questioned, Hoover said he checked to be sure everything was legal. This didn't make Hoover, the department look very sure of what they were doing.
