EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Hope High School basketball team is asking for the support and cooperation of the people of this district. It is no more than fair then that the people of this district ask the cooperation of the basketball team by refraining from smoking and by observing training rules during the basketball season. Of course, when smoking, they can win from Weed and a few of the other weaker teams, but when the going gets tough then is when it tells whether training rules have been observed. Look at what happened at the tournament last year: Captain made the local boys look like a bunch of eighth graders. Of course, we don't lay the blame on cigarette smoking altogether, but smoking has a lot to do with it.—Ed.

Hope Wins From Lake Arthur 40-20

Lake Arthur went down to defeat Thursday night 40 to 20. L. Arthur started off with a bang but were unable to hold the lead. Kincaid Bros are perhaps the best on the Hope team but they are all mighty good. Of course its too early in the season to do much predicting. We'll wait until after next Fridays game with Dexter.

In the preliminary game Hope B Squad smothered LA BS by a substantial score! Jones, Parrish and Forister of the misquito brigade led the attack upon the enemy and came out with flying colors.

Coach Evans seems to be doing a good job of teaching the boys the fine points of the game.

PERRY SELLS LAS CRUCES NEWSPAPER PROPERTY

A special dispatch from Las Cruces to The El Paso Times states that Wallace Perry, owner and publisher of The Las Cruces Sun-News for the past seven years, announced Saturday that he had sold the publication to James H. Skewes, publisher of The Meridian, Miss., Star, and Orville E. Priestley, publisher of The Artesia, N. M., Advocate, effective immediately. The Sun-News will be published under a new incorporation, "The Sunshine Press." Mr. Priestley will be active editor and publisher, R. B. Boyle will remain as business manager and Orren Beatty, Jr., will be in charge of the editorial department and business manager.

Last Saturday morning a pickup turned the corner so fast in Hope that two ladies who were riding in the back of the truck were hurled off and landed on their heads, receiving several painful injuries. They received first aid treatment at Musgrave's store. The pickup had no license, no brakes, no brake and light sticker and the driver did not have a driver's license. Like we said before, someone is going to get killed unless this fast driving is stopped.

School News

No school next Monday, Nov. 11 as this is a holiday. This will give all the deer hunters in the school two days to hunt without missing school. So far, we know that Mr. Moore and several of the boys will be out trying for a deer. Mr. Moore happened to be one of the lucky ones in the state to get a permit to kill a buck or a doe in the west Sacramento Mountain area.

The school has the promise of bleachers for the stage by Jan. 1. This will be in time for the Artesia game. Basketball is getting up to fever heat, so don't miss the Dexter game here Friday, Nov. 15. Tatum is not coming for their game in the afternoon.

The Hope quintet won their first game of the season from Weed by a score of 38 to 12. Bob Kincaid scored 37 points, Aubrey Kincaid scored 12 points in so many minutes and went out in the second quarter with a bad ankle. Forister did a grand job of ball handling his first game after an operation and also scored. The best piece of work so far was the recovery of the ball by Don Potter and Alfred Wilburn, both just over an operation. Every boy on the squad played. We hope to break the "jinx" that Lake Arthur put on Hope by stopping their streak of wins. We are grateful for the nice opening crowd. See every game if possible.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grades had a "Hallowe'en" party that was enjoyed by all. They had people guessing who they were. They went from room to room, passing around as spoons. We want to thank the room mothers for serving refreshments. They served cocoa, candy, cookies and apples. It was certainly appreciated. We are all back in school and we hope to do good work.

"Fairies Are Really Truly" was presented by the first, second and third grades Tuesday night and was enjoyed by a large audience. It was said that it was the best play that has been put on for a long time. Mrs. Marable and Mrs. Young are to be congratulated upon their success. The cast of characters are as follows: Dotty, just a little girl, Peggy Parrish.

Teddy, her brother, Tommy Green. The run-away fairy, Peggy Clements.

Queen of the fairies, Letha May Newbill.

Rainbow fairies in blue, Betty Madron, Winnie Stegall, Melissa Jones, Christine Seeley.

Dewdrop fairies in pink, Barbara Nell Seely, Eva Ann Teel, Rose Ellen Madron, Phyllis Bush.

Dream fairies in green, Patsy Young, Peggy Clements, Alice Wilkerson, Annie Lee Madron.

Sunbeams, Edward McJan, Roy Lee Newson, Dee Moore, George Chalk, Roy Trimble, Floyd Bryant, Eugene Babers, Billy Madron, Bobbie Parker, Gary Teel, Bennie Schwalbe, Don Harris.

Greatest thanks and appreciation to Dee Moore and Floyd Wilkerson for substituting at the last minute, the Home Ec girls for their help with the costumes, the seventh and eighth grades for their help with the decorations, Mrs. Teague for her assistance with the drills and Betty Zane for her accompaniment.

March of Dimes Director Named

Thomas J. McCaffrey

Thomas J. McCaffrey, of Albuquerque, has been named New Mexico State Chairman of the 1947 March of Dimes which takes place January 15-30, Basil O'Connor, President of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has announced.

Prominent in business and fraternal circles, Mr. McCaffrey is secretary and treasurer of the Mountain States Mutual Casualty Company, a member of the board of directors of the Community Chest and a member of the Rotary Club.

Mr. O'Connor, in making known Mr. McCaffrey's acceptance of the chairmanship, revealed that in coping with the 1946 outbreaks of infantile paralysis the National Foundation sent to its chapters in the field more than two and a-half million dollars in epidemic aid up through September.

"Many of this year's polio patients," Mr. O'Connor said, "will require hospitalization and care for a long period of time. The after-care of these patients will be more expensive than treatment in the acute stage. The high cost of epidemics points up the real need for the services of public-spirited men such as Mr. McCaffrey. His efforts will prove of great value in the forthcoming appeal."

During last year's March of Dimes, Mr. McCaffrey served as Bernalillo County campaign director.

President Theodore Roosevelt was traveling cross-country by railroad on one occasion. In the middle of the night his aide came to his berth and awakened him.

"But why should I get up at this unearthly hour?" protested Roosevelt sleepily.

"Some country people have gathered at the next station to see you," replied the aide.

"I'm sorry, I've had a hard day and I'm exhausted."

"But you must, Mr. President, these people have come almost 75 miles to see you."

"Don't let it bother you," replied Teddy Roosevelt. "They would have traveled 150 miles to see a cat with two heads."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Labor Asks New Pay Boosts; Thorny Issues Face U.N. Meet; Free Food of OPA Controls

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Taking full advantage of their new right to strike, employees of Tokyo radio parade en masse before building of Japanese Broadcasting corporation in protest against the hiring of government technicians to operate station during strike.

LABOR:

New Demands

New contract demands by the auto, farm equipment and mine unions left Americans wondering if a new wave of strikes was in the offing just as production appeared to be getting into full swing. With increased output, consumers saw more goods at lower prices.

Auto—Widespread interest centered in the CIO-United Auto Workers offensive against the Chrysler corporation for wage increases corresponding to the rise in the cost of living since the union was granted an 18 1/2 cent an hour boost last January.

In pressing its offensive against Chrysler in the hope of establishing a wage pattern for the entire industry, the UAW disclosed it would ask for a minimum increase of 16 cents an hour to take care of the 12 1/2 per cent rise in the cost of living since last January. A boost of 26 cents an hour will be demanded if the cost of living should soar 20 per cent or 33 cents if the rise reaches 25 per cent.

Farm Equipment—In re-opening contract negotiations with International Harvester, the CIO-Farm Equipment Workers asked that union members "be allowed to share in the prosperity of the company and the country." Harvester spokesmen denied the allegation that the firm would treble its best prewar profits in 1946.

Besides hitting for substantial pay increases, the FEW also will seek a guaranteed annual wage assuring a minimum of 40 hours compensation for each of 52 weeks.

Coal—Charging the government with violating the contract with the United Mine Workers under which the U. S. is operating the nation's soft coal pits, UMW Chieftain John L. Lewis called for a new pact embodying revised wages and hours.

As breaches of the old contract, Lewis cited the government practice of weighing washed coal instead of raw coal at the mine tipple in estimating payments of five cents a ton to the UMW royalty fund, and of allegedly misinterpreting eligibility of union members for vacation pay.

Secretary of the Interior Krug's attempt to defer the opening of negotiations met with Lewis' blunt assertion that failure to hold discussions would void the contract. Without a contract, the miners traditionally have refused to work.

U.N.:

Meeting Underway

Vyacheslav M. Molotov shook the hand of Mr. Truman warmly in the lobby of the United Nations meeting place in New York after his address to the delegates and a Russian interpreter told the President: "Mr. Molotov wants to congratulate you heartily on that speech. He thought it was a great speech."

Later that night when Mr. Truman greeted the delegates at the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf Astoria hotel, Molotov and the President again shook hands warmly, and the interpreter repeated: "Mr. Molotov wants to thank you again for your splendid speech."

The speech which Molotov so highly praised was a masterful diplomatic piece, indeed. It recognized the talk of another war arising from the differences of the big powers over the postwar composition of the world, but appealed to the sensibility of the major statesmen to avert such a disaster. It called for compromises to adjust differences between the East and West, but committed the U. S. to no definite adjustments. While firm, it was conciliatory.

Thorny Issues

Mr. Truman could well prepare the path for firmness and conciliation what with the U. N. about to mull over an agenda packed with explosive possibilities. Foremost of these was the proposals advanced by Australia and Cuba to eliminate the veto right of the big powers on the security council, a right the Russians have jealously guarded to protect their interests against the Anglo-American majority.

Other thorny issues included: ● Creation of a trusteeship council to govern dependent areas of the world, particularly the strategic Italian colonies along the Mediterranean.

● Russia's proposal that allied countries report on their maintenance of troops in other states, except former enemy nations.

● Iran's protest against Russian pressure for political and petroleum concessions.

● Russian demands for the early ouster of the Franco regime in Spain.

Tough Egg in Making

Reported pleas of poultrymen and handlers for a more durable egg that would better withstand the vicissitudes of distribution appear to be nearly answered.

Department of agriculture scientists report that they have developed an egg that will resist between eight and nine pounds of pressure compared with the present average of four pounds. "We really have something," a department spokesman declared.

Breeding has played the most important role in the development, it was said. Egg characteristics especially sought were a tougher, less porous shell and a firmer white, both essential in shipping and storage.

OPA:

Free Food

In removing virtually all food items from food control except sugar, syrups and rice, OPA declared that the previous decontrol of meat and edible oils no longer made it feasible to regulate the few remaining foodstuffs.

Items freed include bread and bakery products; four and breakfast cereals; most edible oils; bananas and oranges; canned fish, tomatoes and tomato products; pineapple and pineapple juice; candy and macaroni.

Following the relaxation of restrictions on brewers' and distillers' use of grain, controls were removed from beer and whisky. Brewers were authorized to use 90 per cent of the grain they used in the corresponding quarter of 1945 while distillers are to receive between 300,000 and 500,000 additional bushels of grain monthly.

As the U. S. moved more rapidly toward a free economy, OPA freed scores of other goods from control, including stove polish, bicycle tires and tubes, rubber tractor and implement seat cushions, metal tire valves, wheel blocks, paper household aprons, sanitary napkins, paperboard pots and trays, and cosmetics.

VETS:

Warned of Idling

Vets who have been taking it easy and drawing unemployment compensation checks were advised to get out and look for work if they were to take advantage of existing opportunities and conserve their jobless benefits for a rainy day. Vets are allowed $20 a week for a maximum of 52 weeks or $100 a month for 10 2-5 months up to two years after the war has been officially declared over.

Expressing concern over the rate at which many vets are exhausting their jobless benefits, Veterans' administrator Bradley issued this friendly advice:

"A veteran who lies idle for a year, living on unemployment checks in a period when jobs are more plentiful than they may be later, might find it hard to get work and to get to work when his readjustment allowance ends.

"That veteran is losing seniority and experience leading to a better job.

"He is forfeiting the cushion of his deferred unemployment payments—a cushion that is like money in the bank. . . ."

The VA disclosed benefits are being used up to a greater degree in the South than elsewhere. Whereas only 2,228 of 1,407,000 New York vets have exhausted their payments, for instance, the rate for Mississippi is 3,429 out of 193,000.

FAO:

La Guardia's Cause

Tempestuous Fiorello LaGuardia, variously known as the "Little Flower," "Butch" and "The Hat," has gone to bat for a new cause—the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization plan for a balanced world food distribution.

Under the plan, the FAO would purchase all of the food above stated per capita requirements in surplus producing nations, then resell it to countries lacking ample supplies. A revolving fund of 750 million dollars would be needed, with member nations contributing their pro rata share.

Because surplus purchases would tend to stabilize markets, LaGuardia predicted bitter opposition from speculators who depend upon price variations for profits. Said "Butch": "As long as there are fluctuations in the ticker tape, the boys make money. But ticker tape ain't spaghetti."

BRITAIN:

Socialism for Reich

The British Labor party's plans for the socialization of heavy industry in the British occupation zone of Germany waited upon U. S. acceptance.

Advanced by Attlee's government as a projection of the Labor party's own socialization program and in deference to popular German demands for distributing wealth, the plan could not be expected to work without U. S. political and financial aid.

Should the U. S. demand a larger degree of free enterprise in the post-war German economic picture, Britain could hardly resist since American credit will be needed for rebuilding war-battered industry and supplying needed materials. Unless the U. S. provides one-third of the British zone's wheat requirements, Britain would have to halve the bread ration in the United Kingdom.

In socializing the coal, steel, chemical and engineering industries the Labor party proposed to invest ownership in the German public, with adequate controls worked out to prevent a resumption of war production.

WOMEN:

Good Soldiers

Women soldiers withstood the physical and mental ordeals of war almost as well as men, according to figures released by the army. Although their sickness rate was above that of the army as a whole they showed no outstanding disqualifying weakness as a group and—especially overseas where they were subjected to more hardships—the difference between sickness rates for WACs and male personnel was very slight.

Processing of Feed On Farm Possible

Improved Machinery Lowers Milling Cost

Home processing of feed has grown in popularity during recent years as electricity made possible the economic use of small hammer mills and mixers, putting feed handling on almost an automatic basis.

Farm processing of feed permits farmers to use home-grown grain more economically and follow individual feeding formulas.

Small mills, operated by electric motors of 1 horsepower or less, can grind 100 pounds of grain at a cost of from 1 to 3 cents. Larger mills, powered by 3 to 7½ horsepower motors, are needed for grinding ear corn or roughage. These larger motors use from 1/10 to 3 kilowatt hours of power for each 100 pounds, depending on the fineness to which feed is ground.

In an automatic setup, mills are mounted under storage hoppers so grain flows through gravity chutes to the grinder. Ground feed either drops into a box under the grinder or is blown into an overhead feed bin to be re-directed later to the mixer.

The farmer starts the grinder motor, opens the gate in the grain feed chute and goes about his chores. The motor is equipped with an overload protective device and the mill is built to operate safely even when no grain is fed into it. There are also devices available to turn off the mill motor when feed requirements have been ground.

Young Tree Support

Keeping young trees straight without injuring them is always a problem. By the use of bicycle tires, watering hose or parts of auto tires, this may be accomplished.

The wire which is run through the rubber tube may be hooked to slip over post or through cable as desired, and locked into wire going through rubber, as shown in illustration.

Hay Improved by Roof Air Conditioned Mow

Pennsylvania farmer "air conditioned" hay mow.

Unfavorable conditions of temperature or light will result in costly spoilage of hay as well as other farm products. The above photo shows how one Pennsylvania farmer painted the roof of his hay barn with aluminum roof paint to protect his 1946 timothy hay crop.

This serves a double purpose of year-round weatherproofing and summer cooling and saves crops at small cost.

Toy Cars, People and Trees Recreate Accidents in Court

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Toy cars, miniature replicas of people and even diminutive trees recreate the setting of traffic accidents in the court of Guy Shearer, police judge pro tem.

"We're not playing with toys around traffic court," Judge Shearer insists, adding that the project is intended as a means of speeding up cases.

Deciding that action on traffic court cases was unnecessarily slow, conflicting evidence in a minor case often requiring nearly two hours for presentation, Judge Shearer decided to modernize and streamline the procedure.

Judge Goes Shopping. The judge went shopping, trudging the business district for several hours before he finally found seven toy cars in a dime store, paying 10 cents each "out of his own pocket."

The toy cars are used to illustrate testimony of witnesses in traffic mishaps. Used with the cars are six maps showing various types of intersections in the city. The maps were drawn on large cardboard placards to scale with the model cars.

When a traffic case is called, a map covering the particular type of scene where the accident occurred is set up and witnesses are asked to place the model cars where the street-size vehicles were at time of the mishap.

Add Realistic Touch.

Toy people and trees also play an important part in the plan. Trees are placed at intersection corners to add realism to the scene and persons involved in the mishap are placed in the positions they occupied.

"This procedure," Shearer explains, "makes clear in the minds of the court and the witnesses just what happened and eliminates confusion."

Threat of A-Bomb Impels Easterner To Head for West

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—The reasoning of William Keenan went something like this: The United States has the atom bomb, but soon other nations will have it. If there were a war between one of these nations armed with the atom bomb and the United States, what would be the enemy's main target? The answer that Keenan arrived at was "the New York area." That is where Keenan lived—until he became alarmed over perils of life in the atomic age.

Loading all his furniture and other possessions in a truck, Keenan set forth for "somewhere in Montana," where, he believes, there will be little possibility of a rain of the destructive war weapons.

Accompanying Keenan on the trek west were Mrs. Keenan, their son, Billy, and three daughters, Barbara, Pauline and Ruth.

War Battleflags Being Relegated To Show Cases

DES MOINES, IOWA.—World War II already is reaching the "show case" stage in Iowa history.

The next session of the state legislature will be asked to provide display cases for World War II flags of Iowa units, which will be presented to the state at an Armistice Day ceremony in the statehouse.

Four cases of faded and often tattered Civil war flags and one case each of Spanish-American and World War I standards now repose in show cases.

Under the once red-white-and-blue Civil war flags are such observations as these:

"May the wreaths they have won never wither, Nor the stars of their glory grow dim."

"The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

Beneath the World War I flags appears this legend:

"So long as time's great cycle runs,
Or nations weep their fallen ones,
Thou'lt not forget thy patriot sons,
Iowa, O! Iowa."

Some of the flags have been on display for more than half a century. Occasionally someone looks at them.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

BOOSTS RURAL FLYERS

Seven out of ten light planes in the near future will be found in rural areas, Forrest Watson, president of Flying Farmers association, told delegates to the National Aviation clinic meeting in Oklahoma City, Okla. Watson based his prediction on the fact that flying is far more practical and economical for the farmer or rancher than for city residents.

Because of the marked increase in personal flying, airplane designs must be changed to provide for greater sturdiness and ability to handle bulky loads, as well as to permit shorter takeoffs and landings. Watson advised the clinic. He also called for more landing strips and development of an air marking system.

Objectionable assessments made on private fliers were listed by J. B. Hartman Jr., general manager of Aircraft Owners and Pilots association, as inadequate services at airports, overcharging for maintenance and repairs, landing fees, excessive fuel taxes, federal charges for recording aircraft ownership, multiple licensing requirements, failure of retailers to live up to contracts and discriminatory prices for fuel sold to transient fliers.

Although he has only one arm, J. B. Wilde of Meunster, Tex., found no difficulty in learning to fly. He soloed a Cub recently and gave flying a nice plug. "Flying is easy," he said, "everybody will be flying pretty soon."

ALASKAN RUSH

A new version of the Alaskan gold rush of '98 is under way—this time in the form of big game hunters. An increase of more than 500 per cent in the number of hunters who have flown to Alaska for hunting expeditions is reported this year.

Passengers fly to a major Alaskan city on either Pan American or Northwest air lines' northern routes and then board smaller planes for the game regions, accompanied by experienced Alaskan guides. Hunters can fly north and return with their game during a one or two-week vacation.

Records show that at least one plane load a week has flown north this season and officials expect the number to be doubled or tripled next spring and fall, particularly during the grizzly bear hunting season.

HELICOPTER WITH FLOATS... One of the first helicopters with floats ever to be granted an NC license by the CAA is shown above. Floats enable the craft to come down on countless lakes and waterways.

MARINE CORPS ANNIVERSARY... Throughout the world, members of the marine corps will pause on November 10 to recall the founding of their organization 171 years ago. They also will pause in tribute to gallant Leathernecks who gave their lives in the fierce battles of the Pacific. Here is shown the fifth marine division cemetery on Iwo Jima, with a sketch of marines in combat.

HISTORY OF HEROISM

Marine Corps To Observe Anniversary of Founding

Traditions springing from the deeds of heroic marines down through the decades of American history will burn fiercely in the hearts of present-day Leathernecks as the U. S. marine corps observes the 171st anniversary of its founding on November 10.

At ceremonies throughout marine corps bases in continental United States as well as at outposts in Shanghai, London, Manila, Panama Canal zone and others manned by Leathernecks, the men of the corps will assemble. They will be told once again the story of the founding of the marines at Tun tavern in colonial Philadelphia on November 10, 1775, before signing of the Declaration of Independence. Wherever they gather, marines will remember with pride the men of their corps who died at Trenton, Tripoli, Manassas, Belleau Wood, Managua, Guadalcanal and Iwo Jima.

Still Protect Lives.

Although no longer fighting a war, the marines of today are as active as ever. They are back at their job of protecting lives and property, at the same time perfecting those special talents which always have distinguished them in the military field.

At Lake Success, Long Island, N. Y., marines have been selected as the representatives of our armed forces to preserve order and to maintain the security of the United Nations. Some 80 marines of the provisional guard, outfitted in new blue uniforms, take posts at strategic places to direct traffic, to answer inquiries and to check passes.

In China, as members of "cease-fire" teams—umpires in the Nationalist-Communist dispute—marines operate in the field to bring about conciliation between local factions before bloodshed can begin.

On the other side of the world, 900 miles from the North Pole, a force of marines is testing winter combat clothing and studying techniques of cold-weather campaigning—a radical change from the steaming jungles of the Solomon islands.

Significant History.

Throughout the history of the United States, the marine corps has played an illustrious and colorful role in all conflicts. The corps' battle record commenced with the Revolutionary war in 1775. Then followed the naval war with France in 1798, the war with Barbary pirates in 1805, the War of 1812, the Indian wars of 1836, the Mexican war of 1848, Perry's expedition to Japan in 1854, the Civil war of 1861, the expedition to Korea in 1866, the Spanish-American war of 1898, the Boxer rebellion of 1900, World War I in 1917, the Nicaraguan revolution of 1927 and finally World War II.

In the period between wars, marines were constantly on the job protecting the lives and property of American citizens in numerous revolutions and uprisings, in civil disputes at home and in time of national disasters.

Boast of Personnel.

Heralded as the best trained, most efficient fighting organization in the world, the marine corps boasts of the esprit de corps of its personnel.

Esteemed by his nation, feared by his enemies, censored for his cockiness but respected by all, the United States marine is one of the world's most versatile and colorful fighters.

Carrying out the boast that "the marine corps takes care of its own," the organization has established a rehabilitation program designed to serve discharged Leathernecks. In the first six months of 1946, 65,000 discharged marines were counseled by letter and 35,000 by personal interview. Former marines in various fields have helped in rehabilitation of other members of the corps, this co-operation being cited as one reason for the boast that "there are no ex-marines."

Yanks' Preferences In Music Are Varied

NEW YORK.—Musical preferences of American servicemen overseas vary considerably from those of the folks back home, it is revealed in a poll taken through Armed Forces radio stations around the world.

In Hawaii "Making Whoopee" is the favorite tune. Other preferences: Panama Canal zone, "Poker Game"; Manila, "Don't Cry Baby"; Puerto Rico, "Doctor, Lawyer, Indian Chief"; Germany, "Oh, What It Seemed To Be"; Aleutians, "I Wanna Get Married"; Austria, "Let It Snow"; Italy, "Symphony," and Japan, "I Can't Begin To Tell You."

Bread Consumption Reported on Decline

CHICAGO.—Bread, long known as the "staff of life," has been slipping in public esteem for 37 years, a report by National Federation of Millers discloses.

In 1919 the average American consumed 212 pounds of wheat, the report shows, while now the figure has dropped to an all-time low of 150.

Contending that people aren't eating enough bread and other wheat products, the association plans to launch a two-year campaign to restore wheat as "the No. 1 ingredient in the diet of the American people."

Ancient Ashes Used For Building Blocks

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Tests under way at University of New Mexico are designed to show that ashes and cinders deposited by volcanoes in New Mexico during the Mesozoic period of several thousand years ago can be utilized as a building material to aid the postwar shortage.

Main objective of the tests is to determine the best method of manufacturing "cinder blocks" from the ancient material. Already in use in the state, the blocks are gaining popularity because of their extreme lightness and low thermal conductivity.

Experimenters are endeavoring to secure a building material which will be light, strong, fast curing and easily manufactured.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Wastes

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

BRITISH screen star Ann Todd was the most nervous person in Hollywood when she made her first American radio appearance on "This Is Hollywood," co-starring with Ray Milland in "The Seventh Veil" (and what a fine picture that is!). Milland tried to reassure her, but she just stood and shivered till she walked out on the CBS stage; then she was all right. When he found nothing he could say could help her, Milland spent the rest of the time while waiting for the introduction by doing calisthenics.

"Time to Remember," Milton Bacon's CBS program weekday mornings, is one of the best of the daytime programs; day after day he presents fascinating and little-known stories about places all over the country 10:45 to 11:00 a. m. EST.

RKO's "The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer" is the first picture in which a giant Constellation will appear. Cary Grant just happened to mention that a big transport plane was needed, and Howard Hughes promptly lent them one.

"Claude Rains should change his name to Claude Reigns," a New Yorker remarked recently; Rains' name was up in lights on the marquee of three Times Square theaters. He was co-star with Vivien Leigh in United Artists' "Caesar and Cleopatra," co-starred with Paul Muni in their "Angel on My Shoulder," in which Anne Baxter also appears; co-star with Bette Davis in Warner Bros.' "Deception."

A little matter of $50 a month kept Gene Autry from becoming a professional baseball player. When he was playing pro-ball, in the '20's, Branch Rickey offered him a job in the Texas league. But the salary was $100 a month, and Autry was making $150 as a railroad telegraph operator. Autry says "Besides, I was a player that might be referred to as good hit—not much field."

Ohio's Governor Frank J. Lausche is one of the radio fans of Joe Sódja, gigantic electric guitarist on the Fred Waring show over NBC. Sódja used to be one of an instrumental trio accompanying Josephine Lausche, vocalist, on a program over a Cleveland station. The other two musicians were Dr. Bill Lausche, pianist, and Charles Lausche, violinist.

Berne Surrey scalded Peter Lorre to death in a turkish bath, struck Robert Montgomery dead with a bolt of lightning, gassed Dana Clark and staged a train wreck to get Orson Welles. All done with sound effects, of course, on the CBS "Suspense." Of course the stars don't get hurt, but Surrey sometimes does—as when he fell across a table full of dishes to sound like Marsha Hunt collapsing.

The 1946 Thanksgiving Day "Two Hours of Stars" is getting under way at CBS; as usual, music, comedy and drama will be featured, the show will originate in Hollywood and be shortwaved all over the globe. Don Ameche, Lauritz Melchior and Jack Benny are the first stars to be signed, with Ameche acting as host, as usual. This is Ameche's fourth year in that capacity.

Producer Carey Wilson, Director Victor Saville and the cast of "Green Dolphin Street," as well as other Hollywood celebrities, will appear as themselves in a magazine serial now being written by Leslie Ford, the well-known writer of murder mysteries. The set of the picture and other parts of the M-G-M studio will provide the background, and there'll be at least one corpse, of course.

PAUL FOUNDS THE CHURCH AT PHILIPPI

LESSON TEXT — Acts 16:11-15; Philipians 2:5-11.
MEMORY SELECTION — I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.—Philipians 4:13.

Missionary zeal keeps a Christian in action for God. After a time at the church in Antioch, the urge to preach the gospel sent Paul out on his second missionary journey. This time his partner was Silas, because he and Barnabas had separated over taking Mark along, since he had turned back in the midst of the first missionary journey. Timothy took his place (Acts 16:1-5).

Our lesson is of unusual import because it tells us how the gospel first came to Europe, from whence it later came to America. Paul's efforts to continue his ministry in Asia were hindered by the Holy Spirit (Acts 16:6, 7). It was then that he was given a heaven-sent vision of a man in Macedonia crying for help. At once the party set out to obey the leading of the Holy Spirit (Acts 16:9, 10).

I. Paul's Ministry to the Philipians (Acts 16:11-15).

Philippi was an important city, a Roman colony and outpost. Apparently the Jews who had come there to live had not felt any strong desire for religious fellowship, for they had built no synagogue. Certain godly women met on the Sabbath by the riverside for prayer. Here was Paul's opportunity and he took it.

The story of the conversion of Lydia has many elements of special interest. It presents the turning point in the progress of the gospel, which by the grace and leading of God brought it northward to Europe rather than southward into Africa or eastward through Asia. Many of us have heard because of the way Paul was led, and one wonders if Europe and America might not otherwise have been the "dark continents."

Then we note that the first convert was a woman. She was not the last woman to give an attentive ear and a believing heart to the gospel message. The church through all its history has been blessed by the readiness of women to bear and heed the gospel.

We like to note that Lydia set a pattern of hospitality and service which her sisters in the church have maintained (see v. 15). She "constrained" the visiting preachers to enjoy the comforts of her home, and thus put forward the work of Christ (see III John 5-8).

It is encouraging to observe how perfectly the leading of the Holy Spirit worked out in the experience of Paul and his brethren. The Lord sent his prepared messenger to the place where there was a prepared heart waiting to receive the Word.

The second Scripture portion of our lesson is not related to the first except that it gives a portion of the letter which Paul, by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, wrote to the church which he had helped to establish at Philippi about 12 years later.

II. Paul's Message to the Philipians (Phil. 2:5-11).

Although after Lydia's conversion Paul met opposition and suffered imprisonment (Acts 16:16-40), that was only the beginning of a blessed ministry there.

The church at Philippi though poor and persecuted was loyal and warmhearted. They sent a generous gift to Paul, who was in prison in Rome. He wrote to thank them, and his letter became a real hymn of joy and assurance. It discusses Christian experience, its principle, pattern, purpose and power.

Chapter 2 presents the mind of Christ as the pattern of true Christian living. Nothing is to be done for vain glory (v. 3), but in the spirit of Christ, who willingly gave up his glory with the Father that he might become our Saviour. It has well been said that if he had not done so, we should have been amazed at his glory, but we should never have been saved.

He who might have "grasped" (v. 6, R. V.) his equality with God, laid it aside that as a man he might die for the salvation of lost mankind (v. 8).

Little wonder that God has given him such a high and exalted position (vv. 9-11). One day every tongue shall confess that he is Lord. Hasten the day!

Needs No Cooking. Saves Money.
The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is surprising for quick results. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Fill up with your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a long time, and children love it. This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

W.N.U. FEATURES

CHAPTER I

Outside, the sidewalks were damp and slippery. It was late February. The sky was blurred with an approaching storm. McCale walked up Stuart street slowly, stopping to buy an early morning paper at the corner.

He'd just had some mid-morning coffee with a couple of erstwhile private "eyes" and they'd told him in great detail of how Miss Adelaide Bigelow, of the Bigelows, had been traipsing from office to office for the "right" detective. Just what she needed a detective for, they didn't know, but it looked promising.

To McCale it looked like hokum; besides, he wasn't interested. He did not, at the moment, realize that the first pebble had started to roll, that even then he was being gently prodded into the relentless avalanche of a big case. He stopped for cigarettes at a drug store and stood at the counter idly turning the pages of the newspaper.

On page ten, Mrs. Atkinson Keye, socialite, was off to Reno again. Business as usual. A Mrs. Mulligan of Roxbury had given birth to her twelfth child. And, wait a minute, under a misty photograph of a very debby deb, the caption: "Lydia Prentice of Marlborough street and Magnolia, one of the bride's attendants at the wedding next Saturday of Veronica Perkins Bigelow to Curtin Vallaincourt."

So that's all it was. A society wedding. He laughed soundlessly as he thought of Leach and Garity making a big story over some old blue-blood who was, no doubt, looking for a couple of dicks presentable enough to mingle with a crowd of gilt-edged guests, while they kept a sharp eye on the wedding presents. He did not have to be much of a sleuth to figure that one out. He chuckled at the mental picture of either of his so-called pals straining to look "to the manner born" in such a situation.

How McCale Became a Private Detective

As he folded the paper, his eye caught a word or two in the gossip column, "After Dark." It read: "At the Latin Quarter last night Curt Val'aincourt, the handsome lad who is to middle-aisle it with Veronica Bigelow next week, waited in vain for her to appear. He ended his vigil by lapping up Zombies with Shari Lynn, the "torchy" singer from the floor show. We didn't know they knew each other."

McCale frowned at the last allusion. Too bad these keyhole lads had to spice everything up so.

McCale's office and living quarters combined were on St. James street, a bit far uptown for that sort of thing. They were in a block of old brownstone houses, the last that remained in that vicinity. Here, while they lasted anyway, McCale was able to cling to the illusion that he was a cut above the average detective. He had worked his way through a Midwestern college. He took summer courses here, there, and wherever he heard of something that might interest him. And he was interested in many things.

He woke one morning knowing that detection would be his career.

Then he took a course in criminology at a famous university, sat in at lectures at police college, talked himself into a job with a run-down detective agency. After that, he had set himself up as a private investigator. Cynical over police methods as he found them in practice, sick to death of the strike-breaking jobs, the divorce work, the undercover bribery, the questionable ethics of many of the men masquerading as honest investigators, it was the only thing for him to do. Only a few clients had come his way. But it was worth it.

McCale was small and dark and smoothly articulated. His hair was shiny and black; his eyes, inclined to be withdrawn one minute, would quicken with a peculiar glint the next. His mouth was too large for the countenance it graced, and, in repose, a trifle sardonic. But when he smiled or laughed, it lit up his whole face in a most disarming way.

He was nearly at his own doorstep when he noticed it. An antique limousine, broad in the beam and high in the tonneau, was drawn to the curb before his door.

McCale opened the waiting-room door and stepped inside. The room was empty. The faded carpet and real leather chairs stared at him blankly. The wine velvet draperies were pulled back to let in what daylight there was. There were fresh yellow flowers in a squat white bowl on his secretary's desk, but she wasn't there.

He was thinking that it looked very quiet, very nice, not like a detective's waiting room at all, when Ann Marriot came in. She closed the door of the inner office, giving him a warning look.

Ann Marriot was the type of girl you might pass by at a first meeting, but when you knew her better, you became aware of her attractiveness. Her features were nice—gray eyes set far apart; a straight but not too small nose, and a good-sized mouth. She ran to intelligence and tweeds and her ash-blond hair always imparted the fragrance of carnations. McCale caught a whiff of it now, as she handed him an engraved calling card.

"Miss Bigelow?" His sharp eyes took her in at a glance.

It read: Adelaide Perkins Bigelow.

Wealthy Old Lady Appears Troubled

"Miss Bigelow is waiting in your office," said Ann.

"Why in there?" McCale asked, lowering his voice.

"Well," she answered, flushing slightly, "it's nice in there. There's a fire in the grate and the big chair and—books and things."

"Ah, I see. You are duly impressed by the royal presence."

"Not at all," she rather snapped. "She's quite nice. Did it occur to you I might want to impress her?"

McCale smiled. "Bless you, my child," he said as he went in.

A little old lady, quietly dressed, turned in the act of reaching for a book, to face him.

"Oh," she said, nearly dropping it.

"Miss Bigelow?" His sharp eyes took her in at a glance.

She was small, almost birdlike, and nervous in a fluttery way. She had a fine, delicately modeled face, too delicate, perhaps, to be imposing. Yet there was evidence in her carriage and in her manner of dignity and stubborn strength. McCale was aware, too, of a certain uneasiness, a lurking apprehension behind the too bright eyes that he could not attribute to surprise at his sudden entrance nor to her being out of her milieu in a detective's office.

"I was interested in your library," she floundered. "I expected you—"

"To look quite different?" McCale frowned. "More like a doctor or college professor, perhaps?"

"Why . . ."

"That's all right. None of us can choose his personal appearance. If I could, I'd be quite a different-looking person, I assure you."

There was something ingenuous about the way he said it. Then he smiled and everything was quite all right.

"It isn't that at all." She was just as candid. "You're quite nice-looking, really. It's just that all the detectives I've ever seen—that is—er—heard about—are rather big and brutal-looking—and tough."

McCale wanted to answer that, all things considered, he was probably just as tough—that he just wasn't big. But he didn't.

She seemed, for a moment, at a loss to begin. The old eyes searched his anxiously, and were withdrawn, as if the brain behind them was confused and helpless. He knew that there was desperation there, that it was difficult for her to play a part, but that she had determined to play it. He waited, and the silence in the room lengthened.

"My niece is to be married next week, Mr. McCale. Perhaps you have heard of her?"

"Yes, indeed. Veronica Bigelow. Her pictures are very lovely." He'd never seen one!

She brightened considerably. "She is lovely. My favorite niece, Mr. McCale. She'll be very wealthy, too. My brother's child. The wedding, of course, will be at Trinity, but the reception is to take place at the family's town house. There are a great many beautiful and priceless gifts on display. They will have to be guarded night and day."

Guarding Gifts Pays Well

"The police," ventured McCale. "Pshaw! The police." She became more assertive. "We don't want plainclothes men all over the house. They'd stick out like sore thumbs. I want someone quiet and unobtrusive—just—just someone—"

The old voice faltered and trailed off.

McCale looked at her attentively. "Of course. I'm quiet and unobtrusive and inclined to be helpful."

She dropped her eyes. "I—I think you're the man I want."

"It doesn't exactly take brains to watch over a table of wedding presents."

"I know that. But if something were stolen, if something did happen, you'd have to investigate, wouldn't you?"

McCale glimpsed then, for an instant, the whirlpool of events to come. There was something in that remark alone that piqued his curiosity.

He made up his mind. "That will be twenty-five dollars a day," he said, and added meaningfully, "for guarding the wedding gifts."

But she would not rise to his bait. She searched a moment in a large black bag that hung from one arm. A hundred-dollar bill crackled as she put it on his desk.

"A retainer," she said.

"One moment. Miss Marriot will give you a receipt."

"Never mind. It isn't at all necessary. Will you come to tea this afternoon, at five?"

"To tea?"

"Yes. Please do." The tired old eyes pleaded with him. "The family—you should know them by sight—and there might be something to talk over—some arrangements you might want to make."

"Why, yes," he agreed, sudden intuition quickening in his mind.

She seemed relieved; turned to go.

"One moment, Miss Bigelow. You'll want me to assume responsibility—when?"

"Oh, right away." That look had come back into her face again. "Immediately."

"But the wedding is—"

"I know. I'd feel safer"—she caught herself—"that the gifts would be safe if you were to take charge today. They keep arriving—more and more—most valuable, some of them."

He cut in on her embarrassed floundering. "Very well. I'll see you at tea. That's all you want to tell me?"

She looked wretched. "That's all," she said.

The door closed quietly after her. McCale stood staring thoughtfully into the fire. He heard Ann Marriot say good-morning and the outer door shut.

"She's a nice old thing," said Ann Marriot. "I hope you weren't curt and distant with her. She seemed to be in trouble."

"She wants me to guard her niece's wedding gifts."

"But . . ."

He shrugged. "I took the job." He flipped the hundred-dollar bill under her nose.

"Nice big retainer. Funny. She seemed sort of lost to me."

"Ann," McCale said, "that old lady is frightened!"

AROUND THE HOUSE

After cleaning hair combs place them in a solution of one tablespoon of ammonia to one quart of water and they will look bright and clean.

Creaky stairs can be corrected simply by inserting a piece of rubber under the treads. If no rubber scrap is available make a wedge of soft wood and insert firmly with the hand.

To prevent the rusting of needles, keep them in a small bottle.

To retain a design or lettering which appears on furniture, canisters, breadboxes which you wish to repaint, spread a thin coating of melted wax with a fine brush over the design or lettering. This preserves the design.

Keep a record on paper of what happens when your child is sick. Such a record will be of great help to the doctor. On it write the child's temperature and the time it was taken, the number of times he vomited, and when body elimination took place.

NEW YORK—By every train and bus they come to this island, with dreams in their eyes, courage in their hearts—maybe even some money in their pockets: the ambitious and the star-struck youth of our land.

It's nothing new, but it's always new. You see them walking along Broadway or Fifth Ave. with the wonder of it all, and the wonder of themselves, shining in their fresh, eager faces. For the first few days, at least, and then they're absorbed into the great city, just as they wish to be.

There always seems to be a room somewhere on Manhattan to receive them, and somehow a job or a friend. Most of them eventually sink into a routine anonymity of work and living, and consider themselves lucky just to be in the place where fame and fortune can be found; others find them—and thus New York renews itself with every day and every train and bus.

I never see one of these new, ambitious kids, so sure of themselves and their luck, but that I think of a vacancy left in some little hometown in the midlands, in some parental heart. But that's the way it is—perhaps the way it is meant to be.

STORIES OF HOW NAMES HELPED MAKE AMERICA GREAT

DID THE TURKS INVENT TURKISH TOWELS, MOTHER?

"TURKISH" TOWELS WERE MADE OF "TERRY CLOTH"—WOVEN WITH A SURFACE OF LOOPED THREADS. ANCIENT EGYPTIAN KINGS USED TOWELS OF THAT WEAVE.

SEE THE LOOPED THREADS, BILLY? THAT TOWEL IS 4000 YEARS OLD.

QUICK. ANOTHER NAPKIN, LEST I CATCH COLD FROM THE WATER!

FOR CENTURIES HOUSEWIVES WOVE THE CLOTH, OR USED WORN-OUT SHEETS OR CLOTHING, TO MAKE THE FAMILY'S TOWELS.

ABOUT 1850 HENRY CHRISTY, AN ENGLISH TRAVELER, FOUND THAT TURKISH WOMEN MADE TERRY CLOTH JUST AS THE ANCIENT EGYPTIANS HAD.

THE CHRISTY FAMILY HIRED A WEAVER-MECHANIC TO INVENT A MACHINE TO MAKE TERRY CLOTH. QUEEN VICTORIA WAS GIVEN THE FIRST TOWEL FROM THIS LOOM.

IN 1863 THE INVENTOR STARTED A FACTORY IN AMERICA TO MAKE TERRY-CLOTH FOR "TURKISH" TOWELS. OTHER COMPANIES SOON FOLLOWED.

AFTER COMPETING MANUFACTURERS IDENTIFIED THEIR TOWELS WITH THEIR BRAND NAMES TO GUARANTEE QUALITY, INCREASED DEMAND BROUGHT DOWN COSTS.

COMPETITION BETWEEN BRANDS BROUGHT OTHER IMPROVEMENTS—SOFTER TOWELS, VARIETY IN SIZES, AND ATTRACTIVE COLORS.

TRUMAN'S FUMBLING RESULTS FROM OBEYING CIO ORDERS

WASHINGTON.—A political innocence and deficiency are being assumed for President Truman in popular report. These are natural public reactions to the series of failures of policy which the President has suffered, and no doubt these will prevail in the imagination of the man in the street.

But the truth of the matter is far different from that — and more subtle.

Mr. Truman has simply failed every time he undertook to champion a CIO policy, and he has won on the single notable occasion in which he opposed CIO.

This is the inner history of his administration. He went against CIO's demand for appeasement of Russia, and won national bipartisan unity for his foreign policy. When he lapsed on this and let his Commerce Secretary Wallace make a speech to CIO in New York advocating a middle foreign ground against his own Byrnes policy, he had to fire his own secretary in order to retreat to firm ground.

At the outset of his administration he enjoyed full congressional support until he undertook to champion the key CIO bills on unemployment insurance and spending. With that step he alienated congress, and lost his fight, getting only some meaningless little bills passed. On the strike legislation matter he lost, and wound up with no power whatever in this crisis, in full accord with precisely the same scheme of affairs. When he clung to their OPA controls too long, he had to surrender again.

UNREALISTIC PROGRAM

The CIO policies have thus proved to be wrong, because they were not founded upon what is, but upon what the leftwing union leaders thought ought to be. They were popularly unrealistic. They were not conceived to give the people what they want, or in recognition of their current troubles, but what the union men thought the people should have.

This is clearly discernible. The unemployment insurance motif was promoted by the CIO at a time when the nation was critically short of enough workers to do its business, and when prospects were it would be short indefinitely. The spending bill was advocated when the budget and national income were already at highest levels and going higher, and thus when spending should have been curtailed.

The Russian appeasement policy could not stand in the face of Russia's bulldozing efforts to build a postwar empire.

Likewise, of what good were OPA controls on meat prices at a time when there was not any meat?

The CIO chieftains and economists have just planned unwisely. This was unavoidably true because their primary interest was not in the people but in their own unions—which want greater government spending and unemployment insurance at all times, a strict OPA to hold prices down while their wages go up. Thus their schemes could not win.

'CLEAR WITH SIDNEY'

The charge has been made that Mr. Truman got his job because he was "cleared with Sidney" meaning the late Mr. Hillman of CIO-PAC at the Chicago convention, although this has been officially denied. At any rate, the late Mr. Roosevelt played the same game, and it is natural his handpicked successor would try it, even after the game had run out into an inflationary era, calling for different tactics.

This is the nub of the matter. Does it not point to an obvious solution? Fortunately the CIO policies, at least the old Hillman policies, are now just about washed away. The issues ahead center around the necessity of making a profit system work.

Domestically we must get production and a stable economy. We must get a settled period of prices and wages—not continued strivings to get one above another. This may be less difficult than you would imagine. Recent experiences have worked toward unity on this problem also. The AFL led the demand, for instance, for abandonment of OPA, and shows a greater realization now that business cannot pay high wages without commensurate profits.

When Friends Drop In

This is a no-fail cake made by the new, mix-easy method. Raisin filling is tucked in between the layers and the cake is frosted with a tangy lemon frosting.

As weather gets cooler and we tend to stay indoors more, we're bound to be doing some entertaining. No, it probably won't be anything fancy or fussy, but a homemaker is always on the lookout for easily prepared tidbits of deliciousness that will make the evening more pleasant.

The efficient hostess will always see that there are a few cookies stored away in a tin or jar that the family can't reach. Let's call it an insurance cookie jar, if you please, for then you can always be sure of having something on hand to serve with fruit or beverage when friends drop in.

Another idea that has taken many a woman's fancy is a snack shelf. On this she keeps small plates and napkins, cups and glasses and a store of things handy to fix and good to eat. Cheese and cakes or biscuits, thin wafers, jams and jellies, pickles, olives and perhaps jars of delectable snacks are some suggestions you might use in filling a shelf of your own.

As a starter, you'll like these cookie ideas:

Apple-Butter Cookies.

(Makes 2 dozen)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 cup buttermilk
- 1/2 cup apple butter or tart jam
- Granulated sugar

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add egg. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with buttermilk to the mixture. Chill until easy to handle. Roll to 1/8" thickness on lightly floured board. Cut with a round cutter. Put together 2 pairs with 1 teaspoon of apple butter or jam. Press edges together with fork. Sprinkle with sugar. Place on greased sheets about 1" apart. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes.

Molasses Crisps.

(Makes 3 dozen)

- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1 1/4 cups sifted flour
- 3/4 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Bring molasses and shortening to a boil. Cool slightly; add remaining ingredients and mix well. Chill several hours or overnight. Roll on floured board to 1/8" thickness. Cut in desired shapes and place on baking sheets. Bake in moderately hot (375 degrees) oven for 8 minutes. When cool frost with powdered sugar and water icing. Before icing has a chance to set, decorate with red or green sugar or tiny candies.

Another good idea is to make enough cake that will last for entertaining several times. A good, fruity cake will keep well; in fact, will mellow with age.

Pound Fruit Cake.

(Makes 3 pounds)

- 1 cup blanched almonds, cut in strips
- 1/2 cup diced preserved cherries
- 1 cup diced, preserved orange peel

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENUS

- Broiled Salmon Steaks
- Lemon Wedges Boiled Potatoes
- Buttered Broccoli
- Lettuce with Vinegar Dressing
- Raised Rolls Beverage
- Lemon Chiffon Pie

- 1/2 cup diced, preserved citron
- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1 cup butter or substitute
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 5 eggs
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mix nuts and fruits with 1/2 cup of the flour. Cream butter, add sugar and work together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, unbeaten, one at a time, and beat thoroughly after each addition. Sift together dry ingredients and stir with lemon rind and juice into batter. Add fruit mixture and stir until well blended. Bake in greased heavy waxed paper lined loaf pans in a moderate (325 degrees) oven for 1 1/4 hours.

With cake flour again available after its long absence, you can plan an all-out celebration for family or friends by making the kind of cake everyone has dreamed about for months. Even a beginner can make a tender, fine-textured cake because of this mix-easy recipe:

Ribbon Cake.

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 3/4 cup milk
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Sift flour once; measure into sifter with baking powder, salt and sugar. Have shortening at room temperature; mix or stir just to soften. Sift dry ingredients; add milk and mix until all flour is dampened. Then beat 2 minutes. Add eggs and vanilla and beat 1 minute longer.

Line bottoms of 2 8-inch pans with waxed paper, then grease. Turn half of batter into 1 layer pan. To remaining batter add molasses and spices, mixing only enough to blend. Turn into other layer pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes. Spread raisin filling between layers and lemon icing on top of cake.

If you are serving tea when entertaining, make it delicious by bringing the water to the boiling point and then allowing the tea to steep from three to five minutes.

Raisin Filling.

Mix together 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/2 cup sugar, dash of salt, 1/2 cup raisins, finely chopped, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Add 3/4 cup of water and mix well. Cook gently 3 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Add 1 teaspoon butter or substitute and blend. Cool.

Lemon Icing.

Cream together 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1 tablespoon butter; add 1/2 cup of confectioners' sugar gradually, beating well. Add a dash of salt, then 1/2 cup more of confectioners' sugar alternately with 2 teaspoons of lemon juice and 1 teaspoon water, beating until smooth and of the right consistency to spread.

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music.
There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly
Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere —with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, it's a heap more important to be a poor fiddle player, than not to play at all.
More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer—than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)
