Explosion Kills Hundreds; New Trouble in Palestine; Moscow Meeting a Failure

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Thick black smoke gushed from burning chemicals in the Monsanto Chemical company plant in Texas City, Texas, one of the first factories to be demolished by explosion and fire in the devastated city.

TEXAS CITY BLAST:

Chaos Prevails

The explosion of the French freighter Grandcamp in a slip in Galveston bay, Texas City, Tex., was followed in rather fast order by explosion of the freighter High Flyer, as well as other explosions. Both ships were laden with tons of ammonium nitrate.

It may be weeks before any reliable facts can be secured-even as to the origin of the first blast. Hundreds lost their lives, the injured rapid agreement. may reach thousands and property damage of millions is certain. The initial explosion of the French vessel, will reach 20 million dollars.

Prompt assistance by state officials, federal authorities and Red Cross units as well as Houston, Galveston and other Texas firefighters and police, the cooperation of air lines, railroads and doctors, nurses the loss in life from reaching several hundred more.

A few hours after the first blast admitted. Texas City was the scene of chaos. Ten fires sprang up within a few the only section not leveled. Homes and the world. and buildings in Houston, Galveston and other cities were thrown open to the evacuees, who wandered around in a daze. The shock was felt 10 miles away and the fires could be seen for 100 miles. Even airplanes exploded in the air. One report was that a bus-load of children had disappeared, in explosion or lost in mad scramble to evacuate the city. Gas masks were rushed to the workers who remained in the city to recover the wounded and dead. The danger from escaping gas was extremely serious.

PALESTINE:

Reprisals Expected

Underground organizations have threatened reprisals for the hanging of four of their number as terrorists. Some four hundred thousand Jews are under house arrest in Tel Aviv, Jerusalem and Haifa. They are forced to remain indoors during the curfew period unless they have special permits. The Irgun Zvai Leumi organization has promised to hang 10 British for every Jew executed.

British military authorities are bracing themselves for trouble that is bound to come when the curfew is lifted. Jewish moderates are caught between the British mandated government, which they consider illegal, and the underground terrorist "government," also il-

The executions, performed secretly and ahead of schedule, fanned smouldering bitterness, following incidents on a refugee ship at Haifa, into flames. Only prompt imposition of the curfew and other stringent repressive measures have prevented riotous outbreaks, British authorities said.

No Agreement

The conference between U. S. Secretary of State Marshall and Premier Stalin has achieved little or nothing, in the opinion of American diplomats in Moscow. JAPAN:

War Dead, 2 Million

Official reports on Japanese military losses place the dead at more than two million. This is exclusive of 675,000 civilians killed on the home islands. Release of the figures comes as a shock to the Japs, who had no idea casualties would run so high.

A standard reference work gives 468,855 as the number killed in battle, scarcely a fourth of what now is considered the true toll. Jap army statistics admitted that 752,-129 were killed. To this must be added an estimated 608,700 long missing, who are presumably dead, making the army's true loss 1,360,-829 men. This later figure is more than 30 per cent of the 4,418,971 men sent abroad. Nearly 300,000 more died in eight years of sporadic fighting in China.

Naval casualties account for the remainder of the two million dead. The total is set at 413,750, all but 5,000 of whom were killed by American forces.

Youthful Leader

Although only 40 years old, Sir Edwin Noel Plowden has been entrusted with the gigantic task of supervising Britain's recovery plans. He has been a successful business executive, and was in the ministry of economic warfare.

THERE'S MUSIC IN THE AIR . . . Typical of the many musical events which will be staged throughout the country during National Music Week was this outdoor concert presented under auspices of the Choral and Instrument Music association of Chicago.

HIGH NOTE

Annual Observance Stimulates Interest in Musical Activities

WNU Features.

From unrehearsed hymn sings in small rural communities to elaborate musical festivals in larger cities, music will fill the air during the week of May 4 to 11 as more than 2,500 communities throughout the country join in observance of National Music Week.

Intended to stimulate greater year-round interest in music and music education, National Music Week has been observed since 1924. In previous years, various communities had sponsored their own programs at unspecified times.

Although the keynote for Music Week is set by a central Music at its local symphony orchestra con-Week committee, with headquarters in New York, actual programs are entirely in the hands of local committees and individual workers. The central committee, however, is available for guidance and informa-

Stimulate Interest.

The only idea actively promoted by the central committee is that the week be utilized for activity calculated to benefit year-round growth in musical interest. They believe that a period in which people are made more conscious of the value of music to the individual and to the community should serve as a time of enjoyment through making and hearing music, and as a stimulus to musical projects for young and old.

Many projects designed to aid veterans will be promoted as features of the 1947 observance. In some cities these will take the form of scholarships and educational opportunities generally; in others musical equipment for servicemen's centers and hospitals; in still others concert appearances for the especially talented. Local Music Week committees also will provide musical programs for patients in veterans' hospitals.

Another interest which will gain through the Music Week observance is "living war memorials" (notably buildings with acoustics for musical performances). In the larger cities such memorials are more likely to take the form of concert halls and auditoriums, and in the smaller places band shells and bandstands for outdoor use.

Churches Cooperate.

For many years churches have marked the opening Sunday of Music Week with sermons on music and religion, and with special programs by organists and choirs. Increasingly there is a trend toward inter-church and inter-denominational services. The closing Sunday, which coincides with Mothers Day, is frequently the occasion of musical events in honor of mothers.

To indicate the wide extent and variety of local observances, the Music Week committee cites a few examples culled from the 1946 records.

In one of the most elaborate observances, Los Angeles, Calif., staged a week-long series of programs under municipal auspices. Leading event was a music festival at Hollywood Bowl featuring a youth chorus of 700 voices. A school music festival entitled "America Sings," the premiere concert by a civic orchestra, concerts by the police, county and selected high school bands, and a program by a combined women's chorus were other highlights.

Baltimore, Md., also gave a prominent part to youth in its observance. A "Children's Prayer for Peace" program was marked by participation of youngsters from the Chinese, Jewish, Negro, French, Norwegian, Russian and other colo-greater interest in and attendance charge of two wandering cows.

certs was conducted in Springfield,

Ohio, during the week. Despite the achievements in the larger centers, however, it is in the smaller communities that the main strength of the Music Week movement lies. There are between 2,000 and 3,000 communities of less than 5,000 population that almost yearly mark the occasion in some worthwhile way.

Because of its median size and long history as a participant, Paris, Tex., is cited as an example of the smaller towns which stage unusual and effective programs.

The 1946 observance there began with an inter-denominational hymn festival led by joint choirs of several churches. Excerpts from an operetta by a school choral club provided the entertainment for the Parent-Teachers association meeting. The high school band gave a demonstration for Rotary club, and the public library included in its special display of books on music a scrapbook history of the local Music Study club. Posters submitted in a contest for upper grade children were hung in store windows and awards to the members were memberships in the Civic Music association.

Texas Paradise Stays Crimeless For Four Years

SARITA, TEX .- Surrounded by a sparsely-populated area, Sarita is gaining recognition as the crimeless section of Texas.

That distinction results from the fact that not a single crime has been recorded in the last four years. District court sessions consist merely of selection of jurors, who never are used.

"Nothing much has happened in the 33 years I've been here," insists District Clerk Nettie P. Woods. "We didn't have a divorce last year and I don't think we'll have one this year," she adds. No case of juvenile delinquency ever has been recorded in the county.

"I guess snakes give us more trouble than anything," the clerk says.

Births, deaths and marriages are the only newsworthy events in the county, in her opinion. There is no state old age assistance, no formal charity and during the depression of the 30s there was no WPA.

Youth's advantage

One day at rehearsal, Playwright Sir James M. Barrie was having difficulty with a young assistant, fresh out of college.

"I don't think the scene should be played that way," insisted the young man at one point. "Now when I was at school we did this." Barrie listened patiently, then quietly repeated his original instructions to the cast. Throughout the rehearsal the young know-it-all again and again interrupted to offer suggestions. Finally Barrie placed a paternal arm around his shoulder.

"My boy," he said, "I appreciate your comments, but you must not be too harsh with me. After all, I am not young enough to know everything.

New Disability Rating

Veterans' service bureau has received a number of inquiries from right suit." But some years later, veterans concerning the new dis- after he was established on the ability rating schedule as authorized by congress.

Veterans' administration informs us that these new ratings are reviewed automatically and that it is not necessary for veterans to write in concerning their cases while they are pending. Up to March, VA has reviewed 842,000 cases out of a total of 2,692,000 compensation and pension cases subject to review under the new schedule. Under the law the review will be retroactive to April 1, 1946, so veterans need not get impatient as to whether or not their cases will be overlooked.

The new schedule, officially known as the schedule for rating disabilities, 1945 edition, permits VA to make a more accurate evaluation of veterans' disabilities than the preceding schedules did. It also provides for new types of combat wounds and tropical diseases encountered by men in the armed services, not included under the old schedules. The new schedules provide for increased ratings for certain types of disabilities and decreases in other types, but does not make any blanket change in ratings although increases far outnumber decreases.

All veterans drawing compensation for service-connected disabilities will have their cases reviewed under the new schedule.

Questions and Answers

Q. My husband is with the 24th infantry division in Japan. Could you tell me when it will come home?-Mrs. P. G., Muncie, Ind.

A. There is no way of knowing when the 24th division, as a division, will be returned to this country. It may remain on occupation duty for a year or perhaps five years. However, the men in the division under the rotation plan are returning from time to time as their service ends.

Q. Before entering the service in 1941 I did not have any fillings in my teeth, but had several filled while in the service. I was discharged in November of 1945. I need dental care on the teeth that were filled while in service. Will that be service-connected and will the government pay for it?-L. R. S., Glen Allen, Ala.

A. Very likely the government will may for it. Had you gone to as' administration within a year after your discharge there would have been no question of the service - connection since VA regards such conditions up to a year after discharge as "presumptive service-connected." You likely will now have to establish the disability as service-connected. Go to your nearest office of Veterans' administration and apply for a rating as to the disability and they will determine the case.

Q. Can the $20 a week be stopped for refusing a job out of town or in town, and can they penalize a veteran four weeks for refusing the job?-C. J. L., Ellwood City, Pa.

A. Presumably you are referring to readjustment compensation for unemployment. Yes, the $20 a week can be stopped if you refuse to take a job which the USES of the state considers suitable for you. Veterans' administration has nothing to do with the $20 until you have been certified as on the rolls for compensation from the state organization. VA suggests that you take whatever job is offered.

Q. We have a neighbor boy who served in the Canadian army and later in the British air force. A to benefits of the servicemen's rethat is true?-Mrs. R. H., Pensacola, Fla.

A. Yes. Persons who served in the active military or naval service of any government allied with the United States in World War II and were citizens of the U. S. when entering such service, if otherwise qualified, are eligible for the benefits of the act and of Public Law for Hollywood. But Lynn, who is No. 16. Ric avoids her but she lator sees him with Sandra Calvert, an older, hardened woman. Captain Mackey, known as "Old Cyanide," tells her he knew her mother many years ago. She feels she bas met him before. Spang calls to say goodbye. Later, while riding with Dave Patterson, a family friend who has always secretly loved her mother. Julia, Jill startles him by asking, "Why don't you marry my mother?" Dave speaks of her father.

CHAPTER IX

Dave gathered up the reins. "I know, Jill. But there's nothing I can do. Nothing I can say."

"But-it's so stupid! With a world Dave's voice cut through the fogfull of unhappy heartbroken people, people who can't help themselves, who can't change things, why should people make themselves unhappy uselessly? When it doesn't make sense?"

Then Dave said, "I do love your mother, Jill. You've seen that so there's no use evading. But I can't talk to her about it, not with the barriers standing that she sets up and defends as she does."

"I know. She retires behind that aloof wall and smiles at you across it, but you can't touch her. And if you present any argument she levels you with that gentle kind of condemnation. She does that to me. It affronts her that other people don't share her mistaken loyalty. My father has always been something splendid in my life, but I can't put him, like a pillar of cloud, between me and the things I live with, the way Dooley does. I know that he wouldn't want that sort of loyalty. He was a human person, definitely, from the few things that Grandfather has let slip when he's angry at Ric. He liked living, and he wouldn't be happy to know that anybody took the veil on his ac-

"Yes, he liked living," Dave said, "and he did a lot of it in the few years that he had. He was a very handsome boy. He had that classic face, like Ric's, but he had blue eyes, with a cool direct look."

For Jill's face had changed, oddly. It was as if something had come to her, something only halfguessed before, something she had felt and feared a little, and put away, hanging flags and decorations to hide the sore place where it had

But inside she was cold and quaking. Inside somehow, now, she knew. About her father. All the things that had never been said, all the things that her mother had guarded, even in her thoughts when her children were present. Her father had been like Ric. Not a comfort, not some one to lean on, some one to be proud of, but a heartstrain, an unsolved riddle, a bewildering and uncertain element in the chemistry of her mother's life.

She whacked the mare suddenly with the reins, jerked her head up, pulled her about sharply. The startled animal floundered, lost her footing, jumped and scrambled to regain it, and Dave yelled warnbut too late.

Wheels were coming up the lane, an engine labored on the slope, and there were voices. Jill lifted her head painfully and looked into her grandfather's frightened face. John I. had no collar on and partly wipedoff lather was drying on his halfshaven whiskers.

"You look funny," Jill said hoarsely.

"If you mean, is my back broken, it isn't. I can move my legs and everything-see? It's just this arm, darn it!"

The station-wagon roared back up, and the two men got down, Dave in one leap and John I. backing out stiffly. They unfolded the army cot, and awkwardly lifted Jill Tugging and panting they pushed the cot into the rear of the stationwagon finally, and Jill relaxed and giggled a little, wagging her boots in their faces.

"You'd get zero on an ambu-lance crew, you two," she said. And then she turned her face away and closed her eyes.

Richard Returns

From the Dead

A little glow sustained Jill through the rest of that awful day. Through the jolting ride to town and the anguish of being lifted onto that stony table, through the torture of splints and the sick confusion of hypodermics. She lay in a high hospital bed and decided in a druggy, dazed lassitude that though this was purgaingly and hurled his horse ahead, tory, at least she had made things right for Dave and Dooley.

She did not know, because they rolled under the porte-cochere at Buzzard's Hill that night. She did not see her mother's startled face when she opened the screen door and saw a tall officer standing there with silver bars on his shoul-He did not lift her. "Don't, John I.!" Julia protested. She said, a trifle flatly, "Come in, Richard." But she did not hold out her hand.

"Nice to see you again, Dooley! Surprised?"

Julia's astonished confusion chilled to a controlled calm. She stood still, poised, stony, not feeling anything at all.

"Naturally, Richard. Having mourned you for years as one nobly dead, naturally I'm surprised. Will you sit down?

He took the chair she indicated and eased the creases of his smart gabardine slacks, with the old casual gesture that she remembered. John I. did not sit down. His white mustache was quivering like the antennae of an angry insect. His eyes snapped fire.

"And to what extraordinary circumstances are we indebted for the honor of this sudden visit?" he de-

"Please-" Julia stayed the old man's fury with a pleading hand. "Richard has come home. Sit down, John I. You're shaking all over. Would you like a drink, Richard?"

"Not now, thank you, Dooley. Why don't you sit down yourself?" She would not collapse into the chair. She let herself down carefully, a bit stiffly, feeling suddenly as though her body had turned to wood, as though her voice was something mechanical, grinding out

"So-you didn't want to come back, Richard? All these yearstwenty-five years-you've let us go on, with nothing but silence, nothing but emptiness-because you wanted it that way?"

"He didn't dare come back!" barked John I. "I suppose you've up all that mess in Washington? It would have been outlawed anyway, but I paid it all off-every penny.

"Was there something that had to be paid off?" Richard asked coolly, not stirred, not troubled apparently by the electric currents that sparkled around them in that room. "This is the first I've heard of it."

Old John I. snarled, "Ahh-h-h!" but Julia quieted him again with a gentle gesture.

"Sit down, please, John I. We can talk this over quietly, don't you think? We can listen to whatever Richard has to say."

When Loyalty Tumbled Down

"What can he say-now? Twentyfive years late?" demanded the old man. He would not sit down. He stood facing them, bristling all over, like a small, gray furious dog, Julia thought with a small corner of her mind.

"There's really nothing to say," Richard began blandly, lighting a cigarette, looking around for an ash tray and finding none, twisting the burnt match in his fingers. "I discovered that I missed you all.] was passing this way on a military mission-so I came home." "No amnesia? No wandering around Europe for years, not knowing who you were? You just came home!" John I. was bitter.

Julia's face was as pale as death. This was a death-something dying in her, an ember dying, a spark sinking into nothingness, the spark she had tended so long, so stubbornly, knowing all the while that it was doomed to the dry aridness of ashes, but refusing to give up. That was what hurt. Remembering that foolish loyalty, that tower she had built of air and dreams and deceptive memory-that tower built of nothing upon nothing!

"No, I haven't even a dramatic story," Richard said. "I wasn't wounded. I wasn't even scratched. I got a little sick of the war after lying around a muddy trench for seventy days, so I went to Paris. I stayed too long, and explanations would have been awkward, and then suddenly the war ended, so I didn't go back."

"We traced you that far," Julia said. "Your father went to Paris in twenty-one and spent two months in France-'

Big Business with Capital B— VA Tackles Stupendous Job

By WALTER A. SHEAD WNU Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—A slightly built, grayish, baldish man wearing the fatigue uniform of a four-star general, sits behind a huge desk in the mammoth, block-long Veterans' administration building. He is, without doubt, among the busiest men and has one of the biggest jobs in the world. He is Gen. Omar N. Bradley, administrator of veterans' affairs.

He brought with him to Veterans' administration the same qualities for which General Eisenhower gave him equal command with General Montgomery on the western front during the war and which made him one of the most respected commanders, one of the ablest tacticians and disciplinarians in the army.

Although eligible for retirement, General Bradley accepted the assignment by President Truman in an effort to bring to a state of efficiency the badly-managed, overgrown Veterans' administration created after the last war and bogged down in red tape and bu-

General Bradley took into VA his resourcefulness as a military leader, his bent for democratic action, for efficiency, for loyalty and discipline and his respect for the G.I.s who fought and won a war, thousands of them under his direct command.

Streamlines Agency.

He has streamlined VA; he has decentralized the administration nto regional commands. The job is one of the most stupendous and far-flung tasks in the world today. General Bradley is head of the biggest mutual insurance business in the world with policies in force totaling 35 billion dollars on the lives of some five million veterans. He directs a medical program which hires 5,000 doctors and cares for 90,000 patients.

Providing benefits and relief in one form or another for more than 14 million World War II veterans, VA maintains a master file of 24 million veterans or their dependents who have received active benefits. At the present time, approximately 18,300,000 Americans are veterans of some war.

For instance, VA has on its mailing list about 28,000 Kellys, 17,500 Cohens, 2,000 Kominskis, 16,000 Shultzes. From this tremendous number of former servicemen, VA has received as high as 11 million pieces of mail in a month.

General Bradley heads one of the country's largest loan agencies and, as of February 1, VA had approved loans for 639,200 G.I.s amounting to more than $3,421,000,000. Although a majority of these loans were for homes and farms, they ranged all the way from the veteran who started a diaper service in Spartans-burg, S. C., to the farm boy who wanted to purchase a new harrow in Arkansas.

Wholesale Purchases.

A purchasing committee of tremendous magnitude is another of VA's activities. This buys in mass lots for veterans' hospitals such as 676,000 pounds of breakfast cereal at one time, 144,000 pounds of salted soda crackers, 7,014 albums of records for juke boxes, 800,000 volumes of books for hospital libraries.

As of February, 1947, more than 2,430,000 ex-G.I.s were in schools or on-the-job training under provisions of the G.I. bill. Approximately 385,-000 private business firms were conducting on-the-job training courses. About 1,000 G.I.s are obtaining education and allowances for study in foreign schools.

In addition, General Bradley administers pension and disability payments to veterans, which run into the billions of dollars, and burial benefits, which also run into the billions.

Under terms of one law, he bought more than 6,000 automobiles for war amputees. He also directs a service to supervise legal guardians and custodians of about 141,000 wards of VA, children of deceased veterans.

Benefit Payments High.

Approximately six million veterans have received unemployment and self-employment compensation benefits through VA and United States Employment service.

Most of the VA administrative problems, which were at an extremely low ebb when General Bradley took over, have been due to the mushroom growth of its activ-

How long will the nation be paying huge pension lists? In March, 1946, VA made the final payment to a dependent, closing the rolls on the War of 1812. Payments still are being made to 49 dependents of Mexican war veterans, while 916 veterans and 2,392 dependents of Indian wars still are getting monthly checks. There are 116 Civil war veterans, with an average age of 100, who are still receiving payments.

YOUNG FLY, OLD DO NOT

When Americans are young and have little money, they fly. When they get older and begin to earn more, they don't fly.

Two interesting curves in graphic form tell this story in a study entitled "Age Study of the Flying Public," made by Civil Aeronautics administration.

The study reveals that almost 50 per cent of all pilots are found in the two age groups of 20-24 and 25-29, while persons in these groups comprise only 19 per cent of the total population 16 years or older. Less than 5 per cent of persons in these age groups earn $5,000 a year. Two-thirds of the people who earn $5,000 a year or more are between the ages of 35 and 55, but the proportion of all pilots in those age groups drops sharply from 10 per cent at 35 to almost nothing at 55.

Beyond 35, the percentage of pilots drops rapidly. Apparently Americans quit flying completely at 65 although there are known to be several sexagenarian pilots still active in the United States.

It is cheaper to operate an airplane than an automobile for business, Arthur Whitcomb, Keene, N. H., contractor insisted in testifying before the New Hampshire legislative committee on aviation. He reported that he flew his own plane 27,000 miles last year on business at an average cost of 51/2 cents a mile. He drove his car 18,000 cents.

FEES REDUCED

A 20 per cent reduction in fees for recording ownership of aircraft and aircraft liens, from $5 to $4, became effective May 1, under orders of Civil Aeronautics administration.

The charges were instituted last August under a congressional mandate to CAA that it defray the cost of service operations through service fees whenever possible.

Other charges levied by CAA in accordance with directions of congress include $10 for issuance of air agency certificates to flying and ground schools, mechanic schools and repair stations, and $5 for issuance of certificates to parachute

Even airline pilots scurrying back and forth across the continent can't escape the watchful eyes of their wives. Mrs. Jack Jenkins of Cleveland insists a short wave radio band on the living room console is a necessity for pilots' wives. When her husband, who pilots an American Airlines flight from Cleveland to Nashville three times a week, returns from a flight, she always has dinner on the stove and his slippers ready. She picks up his position report to the airport on their home short wave band.

"Shucks," says Sam, "Don't give me credit. I get my eggs from Slim Hines' dairy farm. Slim hasn't raised his wholesale prices, because Bert Childers has kept his price the same on chicken feed. It works by mutual agreement!"

And there again you have Self-Regulation, doing what no law could ever do! Like Self-Regulation in the Brewing Industry... Brewers and tavern keepers get together by mutual agreement to maintain decent, law-abiding standards among places that sell beer.

Spring Salads

"Most women know how easy it is to whip together a salad," said my next door neighbor. "Why don't they think of using a meat or fish salad to make spring lunches easy?" Naturally I agreed with her wholeheartedly, and promised to re-

What is better when you've been hanging out clothes or gardening, than coming in to lunch on a crisp, chilled salad? You know you can slip the salad together before you start the morning's work and place in the refrigerator until Protein is an important requirement of our body, whether we 11/2 cups grated tuna fish or flaked are young or old. Thus, it's wise to plan a main dish salad that makes use of one of the good protein foods such as eggs, fish, cheese or meat. But make it crisp and crunchy, too, using vitamin and mineral-laden
