Mabry, Anderson, Lee Are Choice Of Voters

Still incomplete election returns from over the state indicate the undisputed nomination of Gov. Thomas J. Mabry for re-election on the Democratic ticket, while Clinton P. Anderson has a strong lead over John J. Dempsey for the nomination for United States senator.

Governor
Thomas J. Mabry

Those trends maintained in Eddy County as well, where Sheriff Dwight Lee made one of the most spectacular races in the state, polling 2870 votes by unofficial count to 2144 total by his four opponents.

The unofficial count for the other candidates for the nomination for sheriff: E. C. (Ed) Price, 1226; H. Joe Welch, 493; Jack W. Birchell, 307; S. A. (Tiny) Davis, 118.

EDITORIAL

Nine times out of ten the candidate who expects to win must get out and contact the voters and use advertising space. A person just can't file for the office he or she is seeking and then sit back and expect the people to elect them. It just simply can't be done.

In the other three races strictly within the county on the Democratic ticket, William T. (Doc) Haldeman defeated H. V. Parker for the nomination for commissioner of district No. 2 by a vote of 2029 to 1795; M. F. (Frank) Sadler was nominated for probate judge over W. S. Moore 2858 to 1269, and Thelma T. Lusk was nominated for county treasurer over J. C. West, Jr., 2674 to 1696.

Here it is the month of June and the Republican national convention takes place the later part of this month. Who is the candidate that is going to be nominated? Stassen, Dewey or Vandenberg? Taft is eliminated from the race as the only delegates that he controls are the ones from Ohio.

The nomination of Sheriff Lee and the others is the same as their election, as there were no Republican nominations for county offices. Consequently the vote was extremely light. Likewise, Republican returns were received from too small a number of boxes to quote any figures on the state ticket.

From reports coming in from the road construction camp on highway 83 we believe that by the 4th of July we will be able to ride on pavement from Artesia to the forest service line west of Elk. If we hadn't had the recent rainy spell the black top would have been finished before the 4th. But that's all right, we are thankful for the rain, and we can put off taking that trip to the mountains a few weeks.

On the Republican ticket, Manuel Iujan led the four candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, according to incomplete returns. It appeared his closest rival was Philip Hubbell.

In looking over the election returns from the Hope precinct we notice that Gov. Mabry led the ticket with 132 votes and Dick Westaway with 132 votes. R. N. Thomas received 125 votes, Mrs. R. A. Wilcox 119, Mrs. Thelma Lusk 111 votes. 133 votes for Governor is not so bad but we could have done better. There were 354 registered Democratic voters in this precinct and there were 161 Democratic votes cast and 7 Republicans. There is something wrong somewhere.

Topping the Republican ticket was Patrick J. Hurley, unopposed for senator, who will run against Anderson in November. The congressional race on that ticket was still undecided, with three candidates running.

Now that the primary election is over we should all forget what was said and done during the heat of the campaign and all pull together and elect the Democratic candidates at the general election. Gov. Mabry will have an opponent at the election in November and we must not let him down. The Republicans and some disgruntled Democrats are going to do their best to beat the Governor but we must tighten our belts another notch and put him across with a big vote.

Although no accurate figures had not been learned here on the Democratic gubernatorial race late Wednesday it was indicated that Governor Mabry had a safe lead over his opponents, Eugene (Gene) Allison and Ralph Gallegos.

We are glad to see that Hope gave the county officials such a good vote, they deserve it. For service and efficiency in conducting the affairs of their office you can't beat Westaway, Thomas, Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Lusk. Mrs. Lusk promised us that if elected she would maintain the same efficiency that the treasurer's office has been noted for under Bill High. And we believe she will do just that.

For representative in Congress, it was indicated late Wednesday that Representative A. M. Fernandez has leading the field of five, with John E. Miles close behind and almost assured the second nomination. Representative Georgia L. Lusk was in third place, with Floyd Kennedy and Arthur Seefeldt trailing fourth and fifth.

EASTERN STAR

On Just 1st Mrs. Margaret Finke received the degree of the O. E. S. at the close of the meeting refreshments of cake, ice cream and coffee were served to members and guests. This was the last meeting of the Eastern Star until fall.

However, in Eddy County Mrs. Lusk led with 2612 votes, with Miles polling 1813 for second place, Kennedy was third with 1269 and Fernandez was a poor fourth with 1059. Seefeldt had 172.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Israel Registers Diplomatic Victory By Agreeing to 'Cease Fire' Order; Lewis Quits First Coal Conference

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

PALESTINE: Diplomacy

What the Jews of Israel lacked in armed strength to resist Arab attacks against their new state they had made up in shrewd diplomacy.

It was just possible that the decisive blow of the Palestine war was struck when Israel, foreseeing military defeat, agreed to order its army to cease fire on all Palestine fronts if the Arabs would do the same.

That development, which took place on the part of the Jews but, at least at the outset of this new line of circumstances, the Arabs were having none of it. They reiterated their determination to wrest all Palestine from control of the Jews.

Actually, all the Jews had done was to issue a surprise cease fire order in compliance with a U. N. security council request that the fighting be brought to a halt. Neither the security council nor anyone else had expected the request to be observed.

But that put it up to the Arabs who, faced with a deadline set by the U. N., were having trouble deciding whether or not to cease fire. If they stopped fighting now they would have done so without attaining their prime objective — the revoking of Israel's claim to sovereign statehood. If they continued the war beyond the deadline they would be laying themselves open to possible security council sanctions of the economic variety.

SECURITY: Desperate Plight

President Truman came up with another sound plank to reinforce his campaign platform when he demanded that congress overhaul and broaden the social security program.

To relieve the "desperate" plight of the aged and needy in this inflationary period he called for a 50 per cent increase in old age insurance benefits and asked that 20 million more persons be protected.

He offered a five point program and said he wanted quick action on it. For three years, the President pointed out with some irritation, similar requests on his part have been shunted aside. This time he was asking:

1. A 50 per cent increase "at least" in old age and survivors' insurance benefits; allowing pensioners to earn up to $40 a month instead of $15 without losing benefits; raising of the tax rate from 1 per cent to 1 1/2 per cent next January 1.
2. Extension of coverage to farm and domestic workers, the self-employed and others not now covered.
3. Broadening of unemployment insurance to cover employees of small firms (having fewer than eight workers), federal employees and others.
4. Disability insurance to protect workers from loss of earnings caused by sickness and injuries.
5. Increased federal benefits to match state aid for dependent children, the needy, aged and blind.

Whatever his motives in presenting the problem of inadequate social security benefits again at this time, Mr. Truman did have a good, even a noble, point.

"People whose sole income is from social security payments have just about reached the breaking point. All of them face a desperate struggle in trying to procure bare necessities at present prices."

Both President Truman and the aged and needy were hoping fervently that congress would be able to squeeze social security legislation into the crowded docket it had prepared for the month preceding adjournment.

As for congress itself, it was on the fence again.

Walkout

This photograph of the west end of John L. Lewis going east out of a door is perhaps symbolic of trouble to come in the nation's soft coal mines. First conference between the United Mine Workers and the coal producers on the miners' 1948 contract ended in frustration when Lewis walked out after refusing to seat a representative of the Southern Coal Producers association at the parley.

NO CONFERENCE: Lewis Again

It was all typically Lewinian. "I make the observation that there is now no conference," quoth John L., chief of the soft coal miners, as he walked grandly out on the first meeting to negotiate a new contract between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers.

UMW's present contract expires June 30.

Lewis broke up the discussion on 1948 wage agreements when he objected to seating Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, at the conference and was outvoted by the operators.

He was not against Moody personally. Officially, his union's position was that the 14 regional organizations which comprise the Southern association must bargain in 14 separate groups, rather than delegate bargaining authority to the all-inclusive association.

Following that, he could sit back and present the UMW wage demands in his own good time. Then, if the coal operators did not accede, he could call the annual strike.

Lewis knew his position was good. The UMW's recent pension walkout had left the nation's coal reserves seriously depleted. By the time June 30 rolled around soft coal stocks would not yet have been built up to the point where industry could stand a long strike.

Barring unforeseen circumstances, it looked like this would develop into another injunction case. The union still is under an 80 day court injunction prohibiting renewal of the pension strike; but the court might rule that another walkout would be a brand new strike. In that case a new injunction might have to be sought by the government under Taft-Hartley procedure.

HARVEST: European

Europe may look forward to possibly its best year since the war if food production prospects continue to be as favorable as they are right now.

U. S. agriculture department said that the continent will produce a larger part of its food needs this year than it did last year and that the crop outlook was good over most of Europe and the Soviet Union early in May.

Prospects indicate a considerably larger crop of bread grains — wheat and rye — than last year's desperately small one. A severe winter killed most of Europe's winter wheat and rye last year.

European production of bread grains may surpass 1.8 billion bushels, which was the size of the 1946 crop, largest since the war. Production last year dropped to about 1.5 billion bushels, compared with a 2.3 billion average before the war.

DAIRYING: To a Crisis

While the U. S. dairy industry was busy promoting its 12th annual June Dairy Month for the purpose of selling more milk, butter, cheese and ice cream it also was taking a long, critical look behind the scenes and not liking what it saw.

Industry analysis had spotted what appeared to be a dangerous trend. In its simplest form the trend could be defined as an inexorable increase in the U. S. population.

At the root of the problem was a stubbornly entrenched economic condition whose factors were the war, widespread hunger abroad and domestic inflation.

Continuing high prices for beef and veal have been instrumental in sending many dairy cows or potential dairy cows to the slaughterhouse. Too many American dairy farmers have discovered how they could reduce their herds drastically, put more land into money-making grain crops, realize a greater profit and still have more leisure time.

Adding those conditions to the fact that during the past few years the nation has experienced about a 45 per cent increase in its birth rate, the dairy industry came up with a grim conclusion: If these circumstances continue at the present rate, and there is every likelihood that they will, by 1952 the U. S. will be approaching the critical point at which it no longer will be able to produce enough milk to satisfy its own needs.

That, according to some prognosticators, might mean strict rationing in a land which hitherto had literally flowed with milk and honey.

Biggest Switch

Billboard advertising will reach a new spectacular extreme on Chicago's Lake Shore drive this July when the switch is thrown to turn on the lights of the world's largest sign — 114 feet high and 210 feet wide. A mile and a half of neon tubing, illuminating letters 38 to 58 feet high, will flash the name of a spirited product which a certain distillery wants everybody to switch to.

POLITICS: The Race

In Oregon, where the last presidential primary of this campaign year was held in an atmosphere of political hoopla, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was voted more likely to succeed than Harold Stassen.

Whether he would or not remained an open question, but it was certain that his political complexion had taken on a more sanguine hue as a result of the Oregon balloting.

Stassen, who had won spectacular primary victories in Wisconsin and Nebraska over Taft and Dewey, his chief rivals for the GOP nomination, and then had received a borderline setback at the hands of Taft forces in Ohio, at last had suffered a clear-cut defeat.

Oregon wasn't going to do Stassen any good. Having had to buck organized Republican opposition all the way along, he apparently had estimated that his best chance of procuring the nomination lay in building up sufficient prestige and momentum during the primary campaigns to stampede the June 21 convention.

However, he still will go to the national convention with at least 200 delegates pledged to support him on the first ballot. So, for that matter, will Dewey. A total of 548 convention votes is required for nomination.

Healthy Plants Needed To Assure Good Crop Sturdy Growth Hinges On Well-Fertilized Soil

Healthy plants, like healthy humans, are better fitted to fight off insect and disease attacks than are undernourished ones. Enemies have a tougher time getting under the guard of well fed plants. Such plants have stronger root systems and harder, better developed growth above ground. They can stand on their "feet" and defend themselves.

Whether your crops are well fed or undernourished depends on the condition of your soil. If your soil is loose, mellow, high in organic matter, of good tilth and carries plenty of plant food, it can give your crops a body-building diet. If your soil is worn down by overcropping and failure to put back plant nutrients and organic matter, it cannot support healthy, sturdy crop growth.

Any farmer can build his soil's fertility and crop producing ability by good management methods. He can get bigger crop yields per acre through use of fertilizer carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash as needed. He can build soil structure by growing deep-rooted legumes such as alfalfa or sweet clover in the rotation. Roots of the legumes will open tight soil and let air and water in. Plowed under, the legumes will add to the soil's organic matter supply. Crops following in the rotation will have more "elbow room" to seek water and nutrients deep down in the soil. The organic matter supply can be further increased by returning manure and crop aftermath to the soil.

Farm Meat Dollar

About a third of the American farmers' cash income last year came from the sale of meat animals. Meat packers paid out almost 10 billion dollars for livestock. From their total cash income, livestock producers paid out large amounts for stock, feed, help and increased operating costs.

Legumes, Grasses and Cereals Used for Silage

The term grass silage now includes all ensiled crops except corn and the sorghos and is different from them in that special precautions must be taken upon ensiling for the best preservation.

Grass silage may be made successfully from many crops. Legumes, such as alfalfa, clovers, soybeans, lespedeza and peas; cereals, such as oats, wheat, rye and barley; grasses, such as timothy, sudan grass, canary grass, brome grass and orchard grass, and mixtures of these crops.

The illustration by Purdue university shows method of dumping silage that saves in labor and quality.

Sulfa Used on Lepers

Some success in the treatment of leprosy has been secured by use of sulfa drugs, according to Dr. R. C. Williams, assistant surgeon general of the United States. He stated that beneficial results had been noted in the use of the drugs over a period of five years. Leprosy cases in the United States are estimated at from 1,500 to 3,000.

Infra-Red Ray for Cotton

The newest wrinkle in cotton ginning is the use of infra-red rays to dry moist cotton. The idea is to keep a constant heat all through the ginning process. The cotton is heated while going through the extractor and stands. A battery of 32 infra-red lights is set up on each unit. By the time the cotton passes through the press there is little moisture left.

Special Delivery Letter:

Dear Eric Johnston:
You could have knocked me over with a gangster scenario when I read in the paper that you were not only chairman of the National Conference on Family Life in America but that at its Washington meeting you made an impassioned speech calling on everybody to rally and fight for the protection of American family life and to keep the young on the right paths. This was because I was under the impression you were also the top man in the movie industry, the one fellow in the country in a swell position to protect the home and to keep the kids from getting too many films blueprinting murder and crime techniques. But this must be some other Johnston and I am glad I realized the mistake. I hate to go off half-cocked.

Well, your fine speech certainly roused me and when you told the delegates from all over the country in a straight from the shoulder talk that the protection of the American home was a paramount issue of the day I felt like cheering.

You appealed to the National Conference on American Family Life to find ways to help the family strengthen itself and you stirred fathers and mothers everywhere by your deep interest.

There is no greater threat to the American home and to the future of this nation than the present alarming crime trend among children. In one day the papers carried the story of three 12-year-olds who waylaid and shot a citizen in the back; of a half dozen school children who riddled a teacher's home with bullets from Winchesters, and of an 11-year-old child "shot by six boys who mistook him for a member of a rival gang."

Where do the kids get such ideas? The idea of getting armed to the teeth and doing some bumping off is not natural to any child and it is not taught in any home, Mr. Johnston. Everybody is with you in your realization of the despair and sorrow felt around American firesides as such things go on and we are so glad you see the situation so clearly.

Will you forward a copy of your speech to the Eric Johnston who has that big job in Hollywood and who could do so much so easily to protect the firesides and keep the kids from learning criminal ways?

Yours truly
Elmer.

P.S.—Where do you speak next and could you arrange to get the other Eric on the same platform?

STAGE SCREEN RADIO
By INEZ GERHARD

MACDONALD CAREY made his one Broadway assignment so memorable that people still remember him in the lead opposite Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady in the Dark." Paramount grabbed him, but not until after he had left to spend three years in the marine corps and returned to make "Suddenly It's Spring" did the studio realize that he is an excellent actor with charm and definite appeal. They starred him with Betty Hutton in "Dream Girl" and with Paulette Goddard in "Hazard." You'll see him also in "Abigail, Dear Heart" and "The Great Gatsby." After his New York vacation he heads for Hollywood and a super-western, with a chance to play a villain, at last.

Betty Hutton is credited with the best job ever done of singing in synchronization with an off-stage voice. Until now, Larry Parks held the record for his work in "The Jolson Story." Nadine Conner sang

BETTY HUTTON

"One Fine Day" for "Madame Butterfly" scenes in "Dream Girl," and Betty did a fine job of pretending to do the singing before the cameras.

We hear that the reason Joan Crawford backed out of doing "Mildred Pierce" on a "Screen Guild Players" broadcast was that she was scared of working before a live audience; had expected to do it in a closed studio.

Apparently other actresses just have no chance to compete with Loretta Young. Once again, for the fourth straight year, she has been acclaimed by the National Institute of Voice Teachers for her speaking voice.

Something new has happened to the Bing Crosby programs. The show now is broadcast directly from the tape on which it is first made, instead of being transferred to large transcription discs. American Broadcasting company says this makes the broadcasts absolutely indistinguishable in quality from "live" ones which are aired directly from the studio.

Probably the most unusual fan letter of the season is the one Art Linkletter received from aviator Paul Mantz. He wrote that during his last two transcontinental speed record flights he came in on the beam of Link's "House Party."

Following the late, beloved Tom Breneman on "Broadcast in Hollywood" was a tough assignment, but Garry Moore had letters from several thousand fans at the end of his first week, telling him how well he was doing. His success on "Club Matinee," then with Durante and recently as master of ceremonies of "Take It or Leave It" made him a natural for the job.

Robert Ryan moved into his new home after completing a co-starring assignment in "Berlin Express," but he and his wife slept on the floor the first two nights. Movers had delivered all the furniture to a house several doors away.

Odds and Ends . . . Elspeth Eric ("Big Sister") is a walking directory of information about the Chicago Cubs. That has been her team since childhood. . . Reese Taylor of "Road of Life" has the apartment hunting story of the season—he was offered a lease on an apartment if he would take care of the landlady's cat. . . Joanne Trunk, "Miss America" of 1931, is a waitress in a studio commissary. . . Lou Kostoff, music director of CBS' "Blondie" isn't doing much talking these days; his jaw was broken in a fracas with an unruly horse, so conversation is limited until the jaw wiring is removed.

Electric Appliances Require Safe, Convenient Location

Small electric appliances require a safe as well as a convenient place to stand if they are to be kept in good condition and repair bills are to be avoided. A safe place is both dry and level.

Tables and kitchen counters generally are safe locations for using appliances, but the drainboard of the sink is not. Electricity can travel through water. Therefore, wet hands, wet terminals and wet cords invite injury to the user as well as to the appliance. Water can ruin the heating element. Moreover, a sloping drainboard may let the appliance slip and fall.

Falls are the cause of much damage to small appliances in homes. Just one tumble can put an iron or toaster out of order and spoil its appearance as well. Every appliance should stand level. The cord should be out of the way so no one will catch or trip on it and pull down the appliance.

An electric appliance should not be set on a window sill where it can be knocked over when the window is shut, or where rain may come in and damage the heating element.

PRAIRIE GUNS By E.E. HALLERAN

Sue Leonard's father is killed on his death bed by Morgan Hapes, lawless sheriff...

He had closed the distance down to something under a half mile when he realized that the man was a soldier...

The sight bothered him even as he realized that here was his chance for some real information on the lay of the land.

The heat of the day was fading out into a reasonably cool dusk when Willie reached the spot where the railroad trestle spanned the Soloman like some enormous centipede...

The soldiers had great confidence in their underground monitor.

As he approached he saw that the troopers were Negroes, buffalo troopers as the Indians called them. One wore the chevrons of a corporal and he grinned amiably at Willie as the stooped rider swung in to meet them.

"Lucky yo-all got out o' the line o' sun, mister," he greeted. "We was gettin' all primed to try yo' with a rifle ball when we seen yo' wasn't one o' them red rascals."

Willie grinned. "Shucks, I ain't lookin' that ornery, am I?" "Couldn't tell for sure, boss. Powerful lot o' bad Injuns 'round here just now. Orders is to keep 'em away from the tracks. . . and we sure tend to orders."

Soldiers Make Willie Welcome

"Had any orders about grub?" Willie hinted. "My stummick must think I'm mad at it."

The corporal laughed and pointed back to where a thin trickle of smoke rose into the darkening western sky. "We got beans and a bit of salt meat back there. Yo're right welcome to what you want. Jest wait 'til I change guards at this sentry box."

"Soljer, yo've got a visitor," Willie told him. "I'll get my bronc across this excuse for a river while yo're doin' yo're duty. I reckon he wouldn't take kindly to walkin' across on the railroad ties."

He picked his way across the almost dry stream bed and waited for the corporal to return with the sentry who was coming off duty. He could see other men down the track now and it struck him that this was a sizable group to be out in the open with no sign of camp equipment. It wasn't until he rode closer to the campfire that he noticed the low mound of sod which rose above the prairie.

"What kind of a contraption is that?" he asked. "It looks like yo' built yo're soddie all cellar."

The corporal grinned with some pride. "That's a Underground Monitor, the invention of the colored race. We had to have some kind o' huts for this guard duty and that's what we worked out."

"Any good?"

"White soldiers copy 'em," the man grinned. "They're building them all along the line—and I reckon we're goin' to need 'em right bad if this mean ole Injun trouble gets any worse."

It was the second time he had referred to growing Indian difficulties but Willie did not stop to ask questions now. Other soldiers were coming out to welcome their visitor and there were tantalizing smells coming from the cooking fire.

Presently they were all doing justice to a substantial meal of army rations and then Willie led the talk to the gossip of the frontier. The men were willing to talk and by the time he was through with his supper he knew most of the details.

The guards along the railway line had been doubled because several small war parties had attempted to tear up sections of track. Trains were no longer running after dark and there were rumors that many Indians had left their reservations and had openly renounced the treaty of the previous summer.

The soldiers felt certain that the whole mess would soon break out in open war. They were veterans of other Indian campaigns and they seemed to feel that the army was tired of chasing war parties in the fall only to have the Indians settle down at the first snowfall and act innocent. This time there would be a showdown.

They also had great confidence in their Underground Monitor. They showed Willie its simple construction, merely a dugout with sod walls rising two feet above the prairie and a heavy sod roof resting on massive timbers.

The night passed without incident, however, and in the morning Willie made shift to repay his hosts. Some dark blurs on the prairie to the south indicated buffalo and he tried his hand at a little hunting. He found no difficulty in getting close to the animals, driving in swiftly when they started to run.

Willie loafed around the camp until it was time to turn in. Then he mounted and crossed back to the east side of the Soloman, rolling his blankets near the trail which he had previously traveled. There was just a chance that Terry might come along during the night and Willie wanted to be where he would know about it.

The night passed without incident, however, and in the morning Willie made shift to repay his hosts. Some dark blurs on the prairie to the south indicated buffalo and he tried his hand at a little hunting. He found no difficulty in getting close to the animals, driving in swiftly when they started to run. At close quarters he emptied his six gun into the side of a cow, trying to hit the vital spot behind the shoulder.

He took the hump meat and tongue for immediate use, cutting several strips from the rump in case the troopers should want to dry it. Then he headed back for the Monitor.

The soldiers were delighted at this prospect of a break in their monotonous diet and Willie found himself more welcome than ever.

Willie Idles The Time Away

He passed three days in lazy fashion, the news shown in orders dropped from passing trains being the only items of a disturbing nature. Troopers were warned to be on the alert for a large party of warriors which included most of the dissatisfied chiefs. They had left Fort Hays in high dudgeon and no one seemed to know where they had gone or what they intended to do.

He camped on the trail each night but still Donovan did not appear. Finally, on the third day, extra guards were dropped by the afternoon train and word came that the Indians had struck. The settlements on the upper Soloman had been attacked. Several women had been captured, houses had been burned, crops had been destroyed and the male population had been ruthlessly butchered.

Orders were out for a campaign of revenge and there was gossip of a scout troop being formed at Fort Hays. Willie promptly mounted his horse and headed west along the track. There was no longer any point in waiting here for Donovan. (TO BE CONTINUED)

THE BIBLE SPEAKS By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

SCRIPTURE: Esther. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 44:1-5.

Esther's Zeal For Her People Lesson for June 13, 1948

GEORGE MEREDITH has a line that runs like this, "God's rarest blessing is, after all, a good woman." In this study of Esther,

Dr. Newton

One must read the Book of Esther, of course, to have any grasp of this great story. It requires but a few minutes, and every reader will be richly rewarded.

A QUEEN WHO WAS BRAVE DANIEL

DANIEL, we agreed, was a brave person; but not more brave than Esther. There is a verse in Hebrews 13:6 that serves admirably to interpret this first stage of Esther's manifest courage.

We go to the palace in Shushan, where reigned Ahasuerus. His kingdom stretched from India even unto Ethiopia. His queen, Vashti, refused to come before him when he had made a feast. As a result of this refusal, the king ordered young maidens brought before him that he might choose a new queen.

There was in the court a Jew, Mordecai, who had been brought there from Jerusalem. He had in his care the daughter of his uncle, a beautiful maiden, named Esther. Mordecai saw here a great opportunity and he brought her before the king. She was chosen. This brief sketch accounts for her position.

A QUEEN WHO HELPED HER PEOPLE HAMAN

HAMAN, who was next to the king in authority, discovering that Mordecai was a Jew and was not worshipping as Haman had commanded, caused a decree to be issued which would put to death all the Jews in the kingdom.

Here is the heart of the story. Space does not permit a detailed recital. It is sufficient to say that Esther, though still in her early twenties, managed this delicate situation with such skill that the gallows which Haman had built for Mordecai turned out to be the instrument of death for Haman and his sons. Instead of the Jews being slaughtered, those who had planned the death of all the Jews lay dead.

ESTHER RISKED ALL AND WON ALL

IF EVER there was a perfect illustration of staking one's all on one great moment, Esther provides such illustration. "Who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" said Mordecai as he bolstered her nerve.

It is such a challenge as young people may be facing today. Obviously, the moment now confronting us calls for great faith and great sacrifice if this world is to be saved from utter destruction. It may be that this situation calls for hitherto unknown tactics. And let us pray God there is somewhere an Esther.

THE MESSAGE OF ESTHER

WHICH leads me to suggest that racial hatred was never more bitter than at this moment. Unless the winds of God blow, unless some mighty manifestation of divine intervention is granted, the world will break up on the rocks of prejudice and selfishness and ambition and all the forms and fashions of sin.

"God moves in a mysterious way, his wonders to perform." Let us pray that we may early witness some mighty stroke of his mercy and deliverance, ere the night let down.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Good Reason To Be Proud!

Cy Hartman's mighty proud of his growing herd of pure-bred Holsteins. He's not only careful to keep out undesirable strains, but he's quick to isolate any Holstein that falls ill so that the others are protected. Result: he's got about the best herd in the county!

Reminds me a little of the brewers' program of "Self Regulation." They're mighty proud of the places that sell beer—and their record of decency and good behavior. So they're awfully careful to keep out any undesirables.

And if one of them gets out of line, they're quick to act. If a warning doesn't do the trick, they call on the proper authorities to have that tavern "isolated" (or barred from business) till the fault's corrected.

Sure, it's more care and trouble to keep up "pure-bred" standards—among either dairy farms or taverns. But from where I sit, the result is readily apparent—and something to be mighty proud of!

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

by Lynn Chambers

Serve Stuffed Cauliflower for Dinner
(See recipes below)

Meat-Shy Meals

IF YOU CAN'T GET the meat variety you want for meals, or if you just want to serve something different, glance over the main dish ideas I've planned for you today.

These are all protein-rich foods and will do nicely for a main course either for a luncheon or simple supper. All recipes have flavor-value plus, and many of them will teach you new cookery tricks with foods that are real treats when properly prepared.

If you are serving heavy eaters with these dishes, plan a calorie-rich dessert that will completely satisfy the appetite. These dishes go well with rich, tasty pies, cakes and whipped cream desserts.

THIS CAULIFLOWER DISH makes a complete meal and turns out pretty on a platter when served with broiled tomato halves and choice mushroom caps, also broiled.

- Stuffed Cauliflower
(Serves 4 to 6)
- 1 large head cauliflower
  - 5 tablespoons butter or substitute
  - 3 tablespoons flour
  - 1 1/2 cups hot milk
  - 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
  - 1/2 cup shredded American cheese
  - Salt, pepper
  - 2/3 cup chopped mushrooms
  - 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
  - Broiled mushroom caps
  - Broiled tomato halves

Cook the cauliflower in boiling, salted water until tender. Melt three tablespoons butter in top of double boiler, blend in flour, then milk, gradually, stirring constantly. When thickened, add mustard, cheese, salt and pepper to taste. Sauté the chopped mushrooms in two tablespoons butter. Add the crumbs and two tablespoons of the cheese sauce. Place the cooked cauliflower on a round platter, spread the flowerets apart and fill with stuffing. Pour remaining sauce on top of cauliflower and garnish the plate with the broiled tomatoes and mushrooms.

- Tamale Loaf
(Serves 8)
- 1 large onion, chopped
  - 1 clove garlic, minced
  - 2 tablespoons salad oil
  - 1 quart canned tomatoes
  - 1 1/2 cups corn kernels
  - 1 tablespoon butter
  - 1 tablespoon chili powder
  - 1 tablespoon salt
  - 2 cups milk
  - 1 1/2 cups yellow cornmeal
  - 3 eggs
  - 1 cup ripe olives, seeded and chopped.

Brown onions and garlic in oil. Place in large, heavy pot with tomatoes, corn, chili powder, butter and salt. Mix milk and cornmeal and add. Cook until very thick, about 20 minutes, but stir occasionally being careful not to scorch. Then beat in whole eggs, one at a time. Turn half the mixture into a loaf pan or baking dish. Top evenly with chopped olives and cover with remaining cornmeal mixture. Cover and bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 45 minutes. Cool slightly in pan. Cut into thick slices and serve with a well-flavored tomato sauce.

The tamale loaf will make a complete meal when served with a tossed green or tossed citrus salad with Roquefort cheese dressing.

- LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU
- Chilled Tomato Juice
  - *Baked Crab Salad
  - Molded Pineapple-Carrot Salad
  - Bran Muffins Honey Beverage
  - Chocolate Cream Pie
  - *Recipe Given

Add 1/4 cup of the crumbled cheese to each 3/4 cup of well seasoned French dressing.

HERE IS A PERFECTLY DELICIOUS way to prepare that delicacy, egg plant. The tomatoes and cheese add a rich, meaty flavor making this suitable for a main dish.

- Egg Plant Parmesan
(Serves 6)
- 1 medium-sized egg plant
  - Cracker crumbs
  - 1 egg, beaten, diluted with 2 tablespoons water
  - 1 pound ground beef
  - 1 onion, chopped
  - 2 1/2 cups tomatoes
  - 1 teaspoon sugar
  - 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Slice the egg plant into quarter-inch pieces. Peel. Dip in crumbs, diluted egg and in crumbs again. Fry on both sides in a little fat until browned. Season ground meat with salt and pepper. Form into small balls and fry. Cook onions in fat until browned. Add well-drained tomatoes and sugar. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Place a layer of egg plant into a buttered casserole, then the meat balls. Sprinkle with half the cheese, and pour over half of the tomato mixture. Cover with remaining egg plant, cheese and tomato mixture. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for one hour.

- Spinach Luncheon Dish
(Serves 2)
- 2 strips bacon, chopped
  - 1 cup cooked, drained spinach
  - 2 eggs, slightly beaten
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1 tablespoon grated American cheese.

Cook bacon until crisp, drain off fat. Arrange spinach evenly in skillet over the bacon. Add salt to eggs and pour over spinach. Sprinkle with grated cheese, cover and cook slowly over low heat for five to seven minutes. Serve at once.

- *Baked Crab Salad
(Serves 6)
- 1 large green pepper, chopped
  - 1 small onion, chopped
  - 1 cup finely cut celery
  - 1 can crabmeat, shredded
  - 1 can shrimp, cleaned
  - 1 cup mayonnaise
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
  - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
  - 1 cup bread crumbs, mixed with 2 tablespoons butter

Combine green pepper, onion and celery. Remove all tendons from crabmeat and shred or flake. Remove black line from shrimp and cut in small pieces. Mix fish with vegetables. Add mayonnaise and season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Place in buttered ramekins or in greased baking dish. Cover top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven until top is nicely browned, about 30 minutes.

Farmers Buying Most Planes

Farmers have bought more post-war airplanes than any other group except airport operators. An increase in landing fields has also been spurred by the farmer's use of planes.

Shopping by plane has resulted in the establishment of stores at flying fields where the farmer can drop in and buy his groceries without going into the town's shopping area.

An organization known as the Flying Farmers is now active in 35 states and has over 5,000 members. To date 200 farm airstrips have been established in Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

ASK ME ? ANOTHER ?

A quiz with answers offering information on various subjects

THE QUESTIONS

1. Are there any American flowers that bloom all year around?
2. Can a starfish turn hand-springs?
3. How fine is a strand of spider web?
4. Is the water in a river the same level all the way across?
5. What proportion of America's population are red-headed?
6. Which farm crop is most typical of Alaska?

THE ANSWERS

1. No, but some, like the chickweed, bloom ten months out of a year.
2. Yes. One scientist even claims he taught a starfish to use a certain arm when turning over.
3. Usually only one thirty-thousandths of an inch in diameter.
4. In the Northern Hemisphere the water will be higher along the right bank than the left. In Southern Hemisphere, this is reversed.
5. About 13 per cent.
6. Potatoes.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSES

By Roger Whitman

QUESTION: Is the periodic use of yeast helpful or detrimental to a septic tank? What effect will the use of drain cleaners have on a septic tank? Is there any specially designed product on the market to keep septic tanks in better working order?

ANSWER: Small quantities of a drain cleaner can be safely used, but large quantities will stop bacterial action. In such cases, a large volume of water should be run into the tank to carry off the chemicals. Bacterial action can then be re-started by dissolving six cakes of yeast in lukewarm water in a wash-basin and flushing it into the tank.
