Upon learning that she was to receive the award, Margaret commented, "I enjoy my job and the people I work with".

"With 41 percent of Muleshoe being minority and seven seats on the school board, only one out of seven or 14 percent is unfair to the minority." He recommended a seven single member district and asked the board to have another plan drawn up. He had maps to show how the board could be divided and asked the board to seek legal advice.

The voting district issue on the agenda was tabled until the next meeting.

Jay Messinger and members of the Industrial Foundation also met with the board. Bill Moore, superintendent of schools, stated that although the board could not contribute financial help to the Industrial Foundation, on the advice of their attorney, the school was very much in support. Mrs. Purdy stated that the board appreciated all the Industrial Foundations efforts to make Muleshoe a Firearms surpassed motor vehicle accidents as the state's leading cause of injury-related deaths in 1990, according to an article in the November issue of Texas Medicine, the official news magazine of the Texas Medical Association. The authors of that article contend gun control measures should be considered to reduce firearm fatalities.

"We recognize that the prevention of firearem-related fatalities is a very emotional and controversial issue," the authors of the Texas Medicine article state. "However, as with any major public health problem, risk factors, interventions and preventive strategies need to be vigorously evaluated.'

The recent incident at a Killeen cafeteria in which a lone gunman shot and killed 23 people has intensified debate on gun control issues. It prompted a Waco congressman to change his position during a congressional vote in October on gun control measures. Those measures, however, were defeated.

According to the Texas Medicine article, there were 3,443 deaths related to firearms in Texas in 1990, compared to 3,309 motor vehicle-related deaths. That marked the first time in at least 27 years that motor vehicle deaths did not rank as the state's leading a cause of injury deaths, say authors David F. Zane, Mary Jo Preece, Dr. Patti J. Patterson and Dr. Erik K. Svenkerud.

"Motor vehicles have been the leading injury killer in the state since vital records were computerized in 1964," the authors state.

All four authors are employed with the Texas Department of Health. Zane and Preece work in the Injury Control Program of the TDH Epidemiology Division. Dr. Patterson holds an associateship for personal health highest firearm death rate. The authors note that the National Committee for Injury Prevention and Control has recommended that states consider firearm licensing alternatives, such as restrictive licensing and permissive licensing with waiting periods and background checks. The committee also says cities and states should consider prohibiting the carrying of firearms except by law enforcement and security personnel in areas where people are at high risk for firearm injuries; that priority should be given to strictly enforcing current laws at the federal, state and local levels; and that local, state and federal initiatives to restrict the manufacture, sale, possession and carrying of handguns should be supported and evaluated for their impact on firearm injuries. The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 30,000 physicians and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 119 component county medical societies arcund the state. The Association represents 82 percent of the doc, irs of medicine licensed and residing in Texas and 96 percent of the state's allopathic medical students. TMA's key objective is to improve the health of Texans through professional and personal development of its members.

Arts Wing Opens at Museum

The newly renovated Arts Wing of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon will open on Sunday, November 17. The public is invited to the formal dedication and ribbon cutting ceremony at 2:30 p.m. on the second floor of the museum. The renovation includes the establishment of the Senator Grady and Andrine Hazlewood Lecture Hall. Other areas, which have been renovated and will open on the 17th are the costume, furniture, decorative arts, and fine arts galleries.

Following the dedication, a film on the Russian American Artist Nicolai Fechin will be shown in the new lecture hall at 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. "We are very anxious to show off our new 'state of the art' audio-visual equipment and felt this would be the perfect opportunity," stated Linda Hutton, marketing director for the PPHM. The Lecture Hall seats approximately 150 people and will be used for lectures, symposia, films, etc. Renovation of the Lecture Hall was made possible by a generous gift from the Hazlewood Estate.

With the opening of the new Arts Wing, the Museum's extensive costume collection will be featured in an exhibit entitled those elegant edwardians; an evolution of style, 1900-1914, focusing on women's fashion during the Edwardian Period. The exhibit will include tailored suits, a lingerie dress, an evening gown, and a Paris designer original. Graphics and interpretive text accompany the garments.

The first installation in the new furniture gallery will focus on decorative furniture from the Museum's large collection of furniture and decorative arts objects. Visitors can trace the development of furniture styles from the fourteenth through the twentieth centuries in England and the United States. A fourteenth century Gothic canopied chair opens the exhibit, followed by seventeenth and eighteenth century English pieces and mid to late nineteenth century American pieces.

In the decorative arts cases, silver, ceramics, glass, carved ivory and wood will be featured. A major portion of the exhibit will consist of English silver, and pieces of Chinese and lains from the fifteenth throug the nineteenth century. Irish cut glass, American crystal, and French art glass by Lalique and Galle, are also included.

In an effort to present the Museum's collection of Texas art and promote its historical significance, the PPHM recently began a project focusing on works prior to 1950. The aim of the project was to assemble a comprehensive, state-wide collection and to exhibit it in a gallery permanently dedicated to Texas art. This project has now become reality, with the opening of the "Texas Gallery." To date, this is the only permanent installation of its kind in the State. The new gallery encourages a pride in Texas art, similar to that which we feel toward Texas history.

With the opening of the renovated area, visitors will see many changes. The entire area was dismantled and reconstructed to provide the Museum staff with the means to present interpretive, educational and exciting exhibits. "We are excited about the changes and encourage everyone to visit. Our goal for the coming year is to invite the people of the Panhandle to 'Share the Adventure' as we join in the Columbus Quincentenary and explore new directions in '92," stated Diane Brake, interim director of the PPHM.

Report From Larry Combest

Our victory in the Cold War against Communism is now winning battles here at home for the American people. We no longer have to lure a country away from Soviet influence with massive foreign aid, and I believe the Congress is beginning to realize that fact. This past week, I was among 262 members of the U.S. House of Representatives to successfully reject an overblown, terribly expensive Foreign Aid Bill. This legislation was a so-called $25 billion "compromise" with the Senate's foreign giveaway version, but House members were furious at the details--and stopped the Congress from writing another multi-billion dollar check at the expense of taxpayers. Score one more for the people, but we will be vigilant against another attempt.

I will continue to oppose foreign aid bills that are excessive in cost and questionable in content. A little less than one-fourth of this proposed aid package was for military aid to four Middle East countries at a time when we are trying to cut down on armed conflict around the world. Many in Congress risk being labeled political opportunists for claiming not enough is done on domestic policy when they spend your tax money overseas and ignore our domestic needs. If you want your community's share of $3 billion in public works projects, then you will have to live in Portugal, Morocco, Tunisia, Chile, Indonesia, or India--that is where the economic development funds are going instead of here, where American roads and bridges need repair.

This misguided spending spree would have also siphoned $132 million for guaranteed small business loans in foreign countries. A total of $800 million in loan guarantees would go to other countries, co-signed by the American taxpayers responsible for any default. Meanwhile, American farm families who lose their homes and only means of support are not so easily forgiven as the foreign nations that fail to repay their U.S. loans.

Twenty million American dollars would have been spen overseas for training police ir foreign countries when here a home, the local police need that help. And if Americans get wind of all this, the foreign aid bill proposed $2 and a half million in grants to convince the taxpayers of the benefits of foreign aid. I believe it is clear all the benefits would have gone overseas. Next year's $362 billion budget deficit will require more than $208 billion in interest payments each year.

Through two world wars, countless conflicts and peacekeeping efforts America has landed soldiers on foreign soil in defense of liberty and peace. In war, our nation has sacrificed its best. Americans are rightfully proud of our contributiion to a better safer world. We have given much. However, it is too much to ask that we give all.

IN FASHION

Fashion no longer dictates how all people should dress. Now, with the economy not too bright and prices continuing to rise, the consumer has informed the fashion industry what she wants and how much money she will spend.

Today, being value-minded, the consumer prefers "seasonless" fabrics in worsteds, wool blends and silks that are washable. Also, essential in getting the mileage they want, neutral colors like beige, peach and celery are preferred. Accessories are dictated by the season in which they are worn.

A recent health department study that examined all firearm deaths in Texas between 1985 and 1990 found that 19,184 Texans died from gunshot wounds during the six-year period, including 408 children. Those between the ages of 25 and 34 had the highest death rate from firearms.

Football Highlights

Florida football fans might be forgiven this week for thinking there are no other games being played Saturday, iust Florida State-Miami. It's certainly the game of the year. The Seminoles are at home playing this mext to the last game on their schedule. They meet Florida in two weeks. Boston College and San Diego State remain on the Gator schedule. Before last week's game against West Virginia, Miami's defense had allowed opponents just 8 points per game. Florida State's opposition had averaged 16 per game. Total offense: Miami, 262 points in its first seven games; Florida State, 376 in nine games. In the past five years, Miami has dominated this intra-state rivalry, winning four of five from Florida State. The Seminoles' last win over the Gators was two years ago, 24-10. Last year, 31-22, Miami. So what does all this mean? Not a thing. Saturday is a new season for both teams. With tongue in cheek, we're picking Florida State.

In the oldest rivalry among Division 1-A teams, Minnesota and Wisconsin will meet for the 101st time. The Gophers lead the series, 55-37-8, in a series that started 'way back in 1890. Since the Gophers haven't enjoyed the success in the Metrodome that the Minnesota Twins have, the winner Saturday will probably be Wisconsin. Our pickin' percentage through games of Saturday, November 2nd, stands at .748 with 1304 right and 440 wrong. No complaints!

There's another contest Saturday that will come close to rivaling the Florida State-Miami conflict. Penn State plays host to Notre Dame, and the Nittanies would like nothing better than to make it two in a row over the Irish. Penn State won last season in South Bend, 24-21. We think the Nittany Lions will do it . . . barely.

Improving Arkansas could be a spoiler in the Southwest Conference Saturday against Texas A&M. The Aggies are at home and are favored, but the Razorbacks gave Baylor a lot of trouble two weeks ago before losing 9 to 5.

Dietitian Offers Holiday Nibbling Tips

Those holiday buffets burgeoning with the year's best party nibbles can be perilous to your diet. In fact, the months between Halloween and Super Bowl are a mine field of calories, fat and salt waiting to demolish any cautious eater's best intentions. After a couple of parties, there you are with abundant padding on the hips and pants zippers fluttering at half staff.

"During these months between late October and late January, if you're not careful, you could add six or seven pounds," Kay Schooler, registered dietitian and Director of the Clinical Dietitians at Scott & White in Temple. "The trap we get into during the holidays is that we feel we must partake completely. Then we blame ourselves when we overindulge.

You could refuse to attend sholiday gatherings and become a hermit for three months out of the year. You could just give up, stuff yourself with sugarplums and suffer the consequences in February. "It's so easy to sit back and say, 'Well, I've messed up my diet by eating this; so, why should I try to keep up with my diet the rest of the year?" Ms. Schooler said

So much sour cream dip out there and so little time. What's a nibbler to do?

Planning is the key, Ms. Schooler said. "You know gou're going to Grandma's for a big holiday dinner. Admit to vourself you might go overboard of your favorites. "Keep your Carry the plate all evening, and portions reasonable, and decline you probably won't be pressursecond helpings," Ms. Schooler ed.' advised. "For a few days afterward, watch what you eat, and keep your activity level up. You'll be surprised what the scales will say.

Another pitfall is party buffet tables--those vast landscapes of foods overburdened with unnamed dishes filled with fats and calories. Party nibbling can quickly compound the pounds. If you're careless, a weekend party could undo some of the good dieting you've accomplished the week before. Keep up that pace, and soon you'll resemble a real party animal with an underslung belt and a capacious midsection.

To add to the problem, some hosts badger partygoers to eat more or to sample dishes. So, how can you graze gracefully without making the buffet table look like scorched earth?

"Most of the time, when the food is laid out on a buffet table, we tend to stand around the table to talk," Ms. Schooler said. So, it's easy to reach down and pick up more food as we visit."To prevent this nibbling and adding extra calories, look over the table, put your selections on a little plate and go to the other side of the room. This is a survival tactic, so you're not right on top of the food. When you make your selections, choose more vegetables and fruits and go light on the dips and cheeses."

Generous hosts eager to the family feast day and partake won't push you to eat more.

The rule also works with drinks. Alcoholic drinks add many calories quickly. An ounce of liquor--which is less than a jigger--has about 80 to 100 calories. Cocktail mixers, fruit juices, soft drinks could add another 100 calories or more to the drink. Ms. Schooler recommends carrying a glass of diet or club soda with a twist of lemon or lime. "No one will know it's not an alcoholic drink. You also won't run the risk of having too much alcohol to drink," she said.

Besides being high in calories, the effects of alcohol promotes nibbling--especially for salty snacks such as chips, pretzels, nuts and dips. "Salty snacks make us thirsty, and we drink more. We're not attuned to how much we're consuming and that can add more calories and fat."

Beware of those non-alcoholic flavored waters and carbonated fruit drinks. Read the labels carefully because some are loaded with sugars. "Even though it says 'water' on the label, the drink can have as many as 120 calories per serving, about as much as a regular soft drink," Ms. Schooler said.

She also advises party givers to be responsible hosts by offering guests plenty of raw vegetable and fruits, diet drinks and non-alcoholic options. "As a substitute for sour cream,

Benefits Of Holiday Season Exercise Great

With Thanksgiving and Christmas just around the corner, now is a good time to being an exercise program to avoid putting on extra pounds. Exercise is important because the pounds come off faster and stay off longer with increased physical activity.

Fortunately, it is not necessary to spend long hours exercising. Even 30 minutes of aerobic exercise every other day can be effective. Aerobic exercise means the body uses oxygen and fat to produce energy. Examples include walking, jogging, swmimming and climbing stairs.

According to Susan Hartsfield, exercise specialist at The Center for Cardiac Rehabilitation and Fitness at Methodist Hospital, an hour of brisk walking burns up an average of 348 calories. This translates into 36 pounds of weight (fat) lost in one year. Besides helping you maintain a desirable weight, a regular exercise program can help you:

Strenghthen your heart and lungs

Increase the level of HDL good'') cholesterol in your blood

Lower an elevated blood pressure

Some guidelines to follow for an effective exercise program include exercising at least every other day, every day if you need to lose weight. Exercise at a pace that causes you to perspire but doesn't make you puff. Your breathing should allow you to talk while exercising. Also, exercise at least 30 minutes non-stop per workout, 60 minutes if you need to lose excess weight. Studies have shown that moderate exercise makes people less hungry and helps curb the appetite. Therefore, a good time to exercise is right before dinner so you will be less tempted to overeat.

The goal of any dieter should be gradual weight loss and changes in eating habits that will help you maintain a normal weight. Dieting should be done under the guidance of a physician or other qualified health professional. Be sure to consult a physician before starting any exercise program. For more information, contact the centre at (806) 793-4386.

blend cottage cheese with a little lemon juice. A packet of plain gelatin added to the blended cottage cheese dip will set it firmly. Then you can add your own spices and flavor-ings," Ms. Schooler said. "Using plain yogurt instead of sour cream for dips can save about 300 calories per cup. Non-fat salad dressings are also good substitutes for sour cream in dips. Instead of cream cheese," suggests Ms. Schooler, "use farmer's cheese or neufchatel cheese." Devise low-calorie versions of the usual party fare. "Cut the fat and sugar in a recipe by about 25 percent," she added. "For instance, if a recipe calls for one cup of butter or sugar, try using three-fourths of a cup. Your reduced-fat version will be similar in flavor but saves on calories.'

A little common sense goes a long way for holiday nibblers. Watch the frequency and size of your portions," Ms. Schooler said. "Ask yourself, 'Do I really need this just because someone put it on my plate?' Maybe you can take a bite just to taste and no more--just so you won't hurt anyone's feelings."

Above all, if you've exercised and behaved yourself at other meals, don't feel guilty about that one sumptuous holiday meal. Bon appetit!

Marketwatch Report Details Thanksgiving Foods

Ground beef, a welcome change from leftover turkey, will see best prices on 3- to 5-pound packages. It will be available from 99 cents to $1.09 per pound, he said.

Pork items and prices will follow a similar pattern. Boneless pork roasts will be sold as a substitute for turkey. Loins could be priced from $3 to $3.50 per pound.

Hams, another popular item during this season, should not be difficult to find at $1 per pound. Bacon and sausage, for large breakfasts served during family gatherings, also will be on sale, he said.

Other Thanksgiving Day foods priced lower include fresh items such as apples, avocados, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, grapes and squash. The biggest splash in the newspaper advertisements will be for cranberries at 79 cents a pound and sweet potatoes from 29 cents and 39 cents per pound.

Fresh citrus also will be coming to market during the season, but prices will be marked down little and size and sweetness may not be up to expectations.

"There is a great demand for 'gift fruit' packages, and Texas production is still practically nonexistent due to the freeze a couple of years ago," he said.

Thanksgiving also kicks off the baking season. Flour, sugar, dough products, eggs, puddings, chocolate chips, butter, margarine and yeast are a sample of baking ingredients that will be priced below normal, he said. For those with less time for baking, cake mixes, prepared icings and frozen desserts will be priced lower. "Of course, bakeries will have specials on pies, especially pecan and pumpkin," he said.

Canned and frozen foods that are in demand for the Thanksgiving meal also wil be reduced. Heading the list will be canned pumpkin and cranberry sauce. Canned sweet potatoes, pickles for relish trays and salad dressings will be discounted. Frozen vegetables, pie shells, whipped dessert toppings and fruit lead the sale items from the freezer section, Edwards said.

Nonfood items that play important roles in the Thanksgiving feast such as festive napkins and tablecloths, centerpieces, greeting cards, aluminum foil, baking bags and disposable roasters--will not be overlooked as prices go down.

Other items not specifically related to Thanksgiving will be featured in November. Soups and orange juices, cough and cold remedies, vitamins, and hot breakfast cereals and frozen waffles will be advertised early in the month and for a while after Thanksgiving Day.

Bailey County officers the past weekend removed some of the profit that might attach to bootlegging in this county. Sheriff Hugh Freeman and Garland Freeman, deputy, raided the colored section of town Microwave this sauce on Saturday afternoon and seized twenty half pints, 45 pints and 5 fifths of whisky. They arrested two colored men, Raymond the two were charged in county court with possession of liquor for sale in a dry area, and with having liquor without Texas tax stamp. Judge Cecil Tate lowered the boom Monday morning when the two were brought into his court. He assessed each man a $500 fine.

A meeting to get Bailey County's Civil Defense organization "out of the planning stage, and into action," has been called for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the District Courthouse at Muleshoe. All civil defense unit chairmen are expected to be present. Judge Glen Williams, county civil defense coordinator, said the purpose of the meeting will be to establish definite workable plans of action to be taken by the people of this county in case of a natural or man-made disaster. The group will set up definite steps to be taken in case of emergency conditions, and then the populace will be informed of these directions so they may know what to do. Fallout preparations will be made on two alternate plans, based on time limits. Also, preparations will be detailed for execution in case of tornadoes or other natural disaster. A serious world situation has prompted a stepped up interest in civil defense throughout the country.

Reading: Gateway

To Learning

By Bill Moore Superintendent of MISD

It's hard to believe that the second six weeks ends on November 8. As you look at your child's report card you may or may not, depending on grade level, see a grade for reading. But rest assured that reading will play a part in every grade on that report card. It's no coincidence that the first of the three R's is reading. Without the ability to read, children are blocked from learning anything else. Reading is a gateway to information, literature, humor, adventure, mystery, and ideas. Without solid reading skills, higher education and good jobs remain out of reach.

The world has entered an information age and an ability to read-and fully comprehend what was read-has become a "survivor skill". It is a national tragedy that 23 million Americans are functionally illiterate and some estimates say that 65 percent of the work force read between the fifth and ninth grade levels.

As educators we are committed to instilling a love of reading. We want to graduate students with outstanding reading skills they can count on throughout their lives.

We are in the business of teaching reading to youngsters and improving comprehension and imparting an appreciation of literature. This can be greatly enhanced at home. If a child sees a parent reading, or visiting the library, or turning to books or periodicals for information, he or she is more likely to do the same. There are many ways parents can encourage the child to love to read.

The first and foremost way you can help in this effort is to let your child see you read. Whether it's newspapers, magazines, or books, your child should get the idea that reading is a natural, pleasurable part of your life. Have reading materials around the house. At gift time, give books or a magazine subscription. There are many fine child oriented magazines and your school librarian would be glad to give suggestions.

Read aloud to your child. Let reading be something pleasant that you share. Set aside special times to read, then talk about the stories with each other.

With older children, talk about books or articles you are reading and ask them about what they are reading. Studies show that when parents get involved in an activity with their child, the child will be more interested in it and will do better.

We also need parents to reinforce what we are doing in the classroom. Ask your child what he or she is reading in school and emphasize the importance of reading.

Help your child's teacher build a strong, basic foundation for your child's education. Take the time to nurture a love for reading-his or her future depends on it.

Six Flags Extends Season

For the first time in its history, Six Flags Over Texas will extend its regular operating season to include most of December and the first week of January.

In recent years, the theme park has been open on a limited basis during the month of December for its Holiday in the Park celebration.

Park president Bob Bennett said the move comes as a result of guest requests that rides be open during the holiday season. "We will have everything running except our water rides," Bennett said.

"To compensate for the lack of the water rides," he added, "we will lower our ticket prices for the period beginning the day after Thanksgiving and extending through January 5, when we will close for the remainder of the winter."

Six Flags' 1992 season will begin in early March.

Bennett said the popular Holiday in the Park Christmas event will continue as a special attraction during the extended season.

"Our ticket prices will drop even further during the evening hours to accommodate those who have only a limited interest in rides, but want to experience Holiday in the Park," he stated.

There will be a one-weekend hiatus before the special winter schedule begins. The theme park will bre closed November 23 and 24 as holiday decorating crews put on the finishing touches.

park's adult price will drop from the regular $21.95 to a winter price of $15.95. After 4 p.m. each operating day that price will dip to $12.95.

inches tall and senior citizens age 55 and over will be $9.95, rather than the regular $15.95.

Starting the Friday following Thanksgiving and continuing through New Year's Eve, Six Flags will be open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Exceptions will be those Fridays falling on December 6, 13 and 20, when the park will not open until 5 p.m.

With the exceptions of Christmas Eve, Christmas Day and New Year's Day, Six Flags will be open daily from December 21 through December 31 from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. and January 2 through January 5 from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Looking For Good Year

Texas Deer Hunters

Texas hunters are readying for what may turn out to be one of the best deer seasons on record.

Hunters are very optimistic about the quality of this year's deer herd, said Dr. Dale Rollins of San Angelo, wildlife specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Everything is playing right into the hunters' hands," said Rollins. "Much of the state had excellent general rains earlier this year so the animals are in good shape. It is drying up some now, which from a hunter's standpoint is good within reason. Deer are becoming more active in their search for food, which should make for good hunting opening day."

to improve the drought tolerance of crops used in Texas. The principal investigator is Dr. John E. Mullet, professor of biochemistry and biophysics at Texas A&M University, College Station. Co-principal investigator is Dr. Darrell Rosenow, professor and sorghum breeder the Experiment here with Station, an arm of Texas A&M. Collaborators are Dr. Henry Nguyen, professor and plant geneticist at Texas Tech, and Dr. Fred Miller, professor and sorghum breeder at A&M.

The other two-year project, funded for $105,900, is to develop procedures for evaluating the economic merit of cotton varieties and breeding lines on the basis of fiber qualities.

Dr. Don Ethridge, professor of agricultural economics at Tech, is principal investigator. Dr. Jane Dever, associate research scientist and cotton breeder with the Experiment Station here, is co-principal investigator.

The long term objective of the first project is to improve drought tolerance of crops used in Texas and minimize the impact of limited water, Mullet and Rosenow said. They will use sorghum as a model to apply to other crops. "We will be using new biotechnology techniques to look at drought resistance in sorghum, tagging genes which confer drought resistance," Rosenow said.

Crosses of drought resistant and drought susceptible sorghum will be planted at Experiment Station plots in Lubbock, Halfway and Chillicothe. Laboratory evaluations of plant samples will be done at Tech and A&M. Growth chamber work will be done at College Station.

The cotton project is designed to benefit farmers, ginners, seed companies, genetic ressearchers, merchants and textile processors, Ethridge and Dever said.

"We hope to produce a computer software package which will help breeders select breeding lines and help farmers and ginners select varieties for the fiber qualities textile manufacturers and merchants want," Dever said.

CIA Lab Names Jonathan Villa Student Of The Month

Jonathan Villa, Muleshoe High School senior, was named Student of the Month for October in the CAI computer lab, according to Mrs. Kim Silhan, CAI instructor. The CAI lab was established as part of the Job Training Partnership Act. Jonathan was chosen for this honor because of his diligent performance of the skills for which the lab is designed. His selection was based on (1) the overall performance on the computer for the month; (2) attitude in class; and (3) completing the required paper work for the JTPA program.

The CAI lab is part of the student's regular classroom assignments in their math or English classes. They are referred by the classroom teacher for reinforcement of skills that are presented in English and math.

The students come into the lab two days a week for 20 minutes each session; they work on the computers at their own level. This level is assigned based on testing of individual needs.

The monthly goal established for each student in the CAI lab is to achieve 250 correct answers each month. The students that have achieved their goal of 500 correct answers for the month of October include: Jaime Barron, Orlando Camarens, Mary Ann Castorena, Berlinda Cavozos, Tracy Clewis, Alberto Cortez, Margaret Crawford, Mandy Edwards, Jessy Espinoza, Erma Flores, Monica Gallegos, Stephanie Gilliam, Luis Gomez, Wally Guerra, Gloria Guillen, David Lewis, Edgar Lopez, Scott Moore, Angie Rincon, Sonia Sigala, Bill Tosh, Adam Villa and Jonathan Villa.

Controlling Hypertension Essential To Health

Hypertension is referred to as the "silent disease" because it has no symptoms until it reaches an advanced stage. If not controlled, hypertension, or high blood pressure, can lead to heart attacks, strokes and kidney failure.

Usually, hypertension can be detected during a routine physical exam or during a high blood pressure screening program. There are two measurements of blood pressure-systolic and diastolic. Systolic pressure refers to the pressure at the moment the heart muscle contracts to pump blood out. Diastolic pressure is the pressure at the moment the heart muscle relaxes to let blood flow in. Systolic pressure is always higher than diastolic pressure.

According to Wanda Young, R.N., B.S.N., education coordinator at Methodist Hospital, there are some general guidelines to follow to find out if your blood pressure is high: SYSTOLIC your doctor.

(TOP number)

140-159: Borderline; recheck in two months.

Less than 140: Normal; recheck in two years.

DIASTOLIC

(Bottom number) 90-104: Mild hypertension; Check within two months.

85-90: On high side of normal, recheck annually.

Less than 85: Normal: recheck in two years.

The American Heart Association states that about 2 percent of the people with high blood pressure have secondary hypertension, or hypertension caused by diabetes, a kidney disease, a hormonal imbalance or some other identifiable disease. In this case, treating the underlying causes will usually cure the hypertension.

The other 98 percent of people with hypertension have primary or essential hypertension. The causes of this type of high blood pressure are not known, but it can be triggered by a number of factors. A family history of hypertension or stroke at an early age increases the chance of developing high blood pressure. Men are more likely than women to develop hypertension, especially before middle age.

Other factors such as alcohol consumption, cigarette smoking, excessive weight and diet are also linked to hypertension. If you suspect you have high blood pressure, consult your physician.

How does one defrost frozen shrimp?

First, separate them if you can and arrange in a single layer in a baking dish. Microwave for one half the defrosting time.

Break up any stuck-together shrimp, rearrange, and defrost for the other half of defrosting time. If some ice remains, that's all right, but shrimp should be pliable. Rinse in cool water and let stand for 5 minutes. Ice should disappear.
