United Nations Day Is Celebrated

A national United Nations Day program was presented at the Hope High School on United Nations Day, Tuesday, Oct. 24. The program was sponsored by the Freshman and Sophomore classes. The United Nations flag beautifully made by members of the Extension club, hung side by side with the American flag.

Mr. Lea, the school superintendent, in his opening remarks spoke of the attempt made by President Wilson to organize the League of Nations after the First World War and of its replacement by the United Nations organization, now celebrating its fifth anniversary.

Mayor Altman spoke on the charter of the United Nations in which she indicated the purpose for which the United Nations was formed and the ideals for which it stands.

The Rev. E. Cooper then gave an address in which he pointed out the aims of the United Nations, the means at its disposal to achieve its aims and the meaning for Americans of a free world.

Alta Ruth Young made a statement on the latest actions of the United Nations. David Sanders read a short history of that organization and Eugene Lee read a passage on the purpose of the Liberty Bell, which was being unveiled in Germany that day.

Babe Ann McElroy led as the audience stood and repeated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States and Eula Marie Cox led the singing.

A freshman sextet sang "Old Fashioned Garden."

The program came to a close with the singing of "America the Beautiful." Dorothy Cooper had charge of the program.

State Resources

The development of New Mexico's resources has been at a rapid rate during the past two decades. This is reflected in the increase in population, due, in a large part, to the climate of the Southwest. It is becoming more and more evident that the State's further economic development will depend more and more upon the development and conservation of our water resources. This fact is borne out in a 200 page report filed in September and recently presented to the President's Water Resources Policy Commission.

Hickman-Weddige Wedding Saturday

Miss Fay Hickman, of Artesia, became the bride of Lewis Weddige at the Drew residence west of Artesia, Saturday evening, October 21. Rev. E. A. Drew performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of a few friends. The bride's parents live at Capitan and she has been employed at a beauty parlor in Artesia. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Weddige of Hope, and has been engaged in the dairy business with his father. Lewis has been called to service in the armed forces and leaves the 30th for training camp in Arkansas.

Charles Hardin Quits Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hardin, longtime livestock growers of southern New Mexico, have purchased the John Blackburn home in Hot Springs and will make their home there, announcing their retirement from ranching. The Hardin ranch is another casualty of the Alamogordo Bombing Range, the army having taken over a large part of their ranch in the San Andreas mountains, including their modern home, built in 1941 out of the native rock of the country. The remainder of the ranch, which is sheep-proof fence throughout has been leased and the Hardin livestock sold. Prior to occupying the San Andreas mountains ranch the Hardins ranched in the Sacramento mountains. Mrs. Hardin is the daughter of Ed Watts of Duncan, N. M., another well known ranching family.

During the period 1920-1930 Charlie Hardin was one of the top calf ropers of the country and was active in rodeo contests throughout the southwest.—New Mexico Stockman.

Registration for November Election

It is the opinion of Mrs. Alicia Romero, Secretary of State, that the number of registered voters in New Mexico will reach 335,000 or more. For the 1948 presidential election, the registration amounted to 316,414. In that election the total vote for Governor was 189,992, approximately 60 per cent of the registered vote. In the national election, however, that year approximately 51 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls. For the coming election a very extensive campaign has been made to get voters to register and go to the polls in New Mexico.

Election Judges Appointed

The following are the officials who will conduct the election on Nov. 7 in Precinct No. 3:

For the Democratic party—Judges, Will Keller and C. A. Cole. Alternates—Geo. O. Teel, Mrs. John Hardin.

Counting Judges—Bob. Barley and Mrs. D. W. Carson. Alternates—Mrs. Jane Pitt and D. W. Carson.

Poll Clerks—Mrs. Geo. O. Teel. Alternate—Mrs. John Teel.

Counting Judges—Mrs. M. D. Brantley. Alternate—Mrs. Bill Madron.

Poll Clerks—Mrs. Felix Cauhape. Alternate—Mrs. Floyd Cole.

Counting Clerks—Henry Coffin. Alternate—Erving S. Cox.

Concrete Headgate Finished Soon

The concrete headgate to control the water going over to the southside will be finished this week Fred L. Jacobs of Artesia is the contractor. Mr. Weindorf of the SCS and a News reporter were out and looked it over Wednesday morning and it looks to them as if this headgate ought to get the job done.

School News

3rd, 4th and 5th Grade News—We have learned Psalm 23 and now we are learning Psalm 100. We have studied hard this week in order to learn our spelling test in three days. The teachers are attending the State Teachers Association in Albuquerque, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and the pupils are enjoying a vacation. We were glad to receive the United Nations flag from the Hope Extension Club and it is very attractive flying above the school building with the stars and stripes. We are glad that Alvie Madron has returned to school after being absent a week due to illness. Floyd Jones is ill and has been absent two days. We have made clever pumpkin men in our art work.

"Woodshavings" from the Manual Training Dept.—Here we are with some belated news of the shop activity. We moved the shop this year from the old location to the old grade school building which gives us a lot more room. The boys have worked hard in cleaning and repairing the building to make it a more attractive place in which to work. Several have cedar chests projects started, others are making small whatnot shelves, still others are making table lamps on the lathe. We are now in process of making a score keeper's table for the gym. We would like to invite everyone to drop in anytime and visit us.

Work Starts on Eagle Draw Bridge

Workmen have been busy this week in erecting an office building and moving in equipment preparatory to starting work on Eagle Draw bridge. The north edge of the present bridge will be about the center of the new bridge. A double lane bridge will mean wider approaches which will mean that quite a bit of dirt will have to be moved. After 30 years of effort by the people of Artesia and Hope, they are at last going to have a new bridge. Now if we could only get the square corners eliminated on the Artesia-Hope section of 83, wouldn't that be something? Let us hope that this can be done, but not 30 years from now.

To Drill Test Well

It is reported that the Magnolia Oil Company will move in equipment this week to drill a test well 8 miles west of Hope. About two years ago this company drilled a test on the Roswell cut-off but brought in a dry hole.

Denver Man Here Wednesday

Fred R. Baker, Jr., bureau manager of the Denver Post, with headquarters at Albuquerque, was a caller at the News office Wednesday morning. He promised to be back in a few days and see us again. This was his first trip down here and was much impressed with the looks of the country. Come again, Mr. Baker.

Uncle Sam Says

A lot of folks are tempted to speculate with their money. With the farmers, however, there's enough speculation in farming itself—what with the weather, insects, plant disease, livestock sickness, and prices. For the farmers, a safe, sure way of building financial security is with U. S. Savings Bonds. Should he need extra cash his money is handy, it's always there for emergencies. So, farmers, be sure that part of your fall crop or livestock check goes into Savings Bonds. They pay $4 for every $3 invested in ten short years. This is the time to resolve—"NOW LET'S ALL BUY BONDS."

DID YOU KNOW—

...THAT PETROLEUM EMPLOYEES ARE 3 TIMES SAFER AT WORK THAN AT HOME? THE INDUSTRY'S SAFETY TRAINING PROGRAM AND SPECIAL SAFETY CLOTHING AND EQUIPMENT HAVE SHARPLY REDUCED ACCIDENTS. LAST YEAR'S SAFETY RECORD WAS THE BEST IN THE INDUSTRY'S HISTORY.

...THAT TWICE AS MUCH OIL IS CONSUMED BY THE U.S. AS BY ALL OTHER COUNTRIES COMBINED? THIS USE OF OIL, AT THE RATE OF 597 GALLONS PER PERSON YEARLY, HAS CONTRIBUTED GREATLY TO THE INDUSTRIAL AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT OF OUR COUNTRY.

...THAT BOMB-BAY DOORS OF U.S. AIR FORCE BOMBERS COULD NOT BE OPERATED IN THE SUB-ZERO TEMPERATURES AT HIGH ALTITUDES IF SPECIAL LUBRICATING GREASES HAD NOT BEEN DEVELOPED?

...THAT SERVICE STATIONS IN THE U.S. ARE 95% OPERATED BY INDEPENDENT BUSINESSMEN? THE 250,000 SERVICE STATIONS OUTNUMBER THE NATION'S POST OFFICES AND DRUG STORES.

Just a line or two for the benefit of our readers who live in the frozen north, we might mention that here in the Penasco Valley the leaves are still green, farmers are harvesting their crops, sue has baling hay and cutting row crops. We just simply can't understand why people will live in a climate where all you save in the summer goes to buy winter clothes, filling the coal bin, putting up storm windows, banking up the houses, looking over the supply of snow shovels, etc. They must like it because there is a million or more people live up there.

Marketing Quotas Will Not Be Imposed on Wheat

The announcement of Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan that no marketing quotas will be proclaimed for the 1951 wheat crop is the result of compliance among most wheat growers throughout the wheat area with their 1950 acreage allotments, many wheat growers believe.

In making the announcement of no 1951 marketing quotas, Brannan said, "If wheat growers in general plant within their 1951 crop acreage allotments, as they did for the 1950 crop, it may be possible to continue to avoid marketing quotas in the future."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Peace Talks Proposed by Stassen; U. N. Forces Cross 38th Parallel; High Prices Weaken Defense Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Harold E. Stassen, president of University of Pennsylvania as he announced contents of a message he sent to Soviet Generalissimo Joseph Stalin proposing that they confer and urging Russia to "stop the drift to war." Stassen's message was delivered to the Soviet embassy and a copy to the state department.

STASSEN:

A Just World Peace

Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania and twice an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination, stepped in where angels fear to tread.

The former Minnesota governor wrote a letter to Premier Stalin suggesting that they confer on steps that need be taken to achieve "a just world peace."

Stassen was quick to point out that his letter was written without consultation either with President Truman or the state department; that is, Stassen had written to Stalin in his private capacity and the letter had no official inspiration.

Stassen declared that, if his bid was successful, he would have "four or five of this country's top citizen leaders" accompany him to Moscow for the conference.

There is a possibility that Stalin might accept Stassen's proposal. In fact, some quarters believe the Russians will jump at the chance, if for nothing else, at least for the opportunity to pound out the old propaganda line that the Soviet is anxious for world peace.

There is little possibility, however, that anything constructive will come of such a meeting. Whatever Stalin and Stassen's delegation might agree upon would have no official standing and in all probability would not coincide with American foreign policy.

As could be expected, Stassen's gesture produced political overtones immediately. One Democratic spokesman pointed out that the initiative of any such project properly belongs with the state department.

RIISING COSTS:

Cut 750 Jet Fighters

The howl of the housewife that prices have climbed beyond any reasonable or sensible level was taken up by the air force which reported between April and September increases weakened the force's purchasing power by an equivalent of 750 F-86 jet fighter planes.

The cost increases in essential materials, John McCone, under-secretary for air, told the house armed services subcommittee would run about $315 million.

The under-secretary cited many examples. Among the increases were crude rubber, 128.9 per cent; aluminum, 2.9 per cent; copper, 23.6 per cent; tin 32.9 per cent; plus signs of accompanying wage rises as another basic factor in cost estimation.

It all boils down to the fact which the housewife has long known: prices are climbing by leaps and bounds. If the increases were hurting the armed service then perhaps something would be done to relieve the pinch on the general public.

Rep. Carl Vinson, member of the armed services committee, was blunt about the situation:

"Let's not kid ourselves. Congress has a choice of seeing these programs cut (4,428 new aircraft by 1952), or coming up with additional appropriations to meet these rising costs."

UNITED NATIONS:

New Twist for Soviet

While men died on the battlefields of Korea, power politics continued to rage in the United Nations, but with a new twist from the Soviet Union.

The new twist developed when the United States urged the U. N. to adopt a plan by which national troops would form a U.N. force to keep world peace by the veto-free general assembly.

Instead of ripping the plan apart, Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinsky said he saw some good point in it, but suggested each point of the proposal be discussed separately.

At first the western diplomats were shaken by Vishinsky's conciliatory tone and stared at each other in disbelief. But then it dawned upon them that by discussing the points separately, Russia almost certainly meant to oppose the key provision that would allow the general assembly to meet in 24 hours and act against aggression if a veto paralyzed the security council.

It was the old, old story of politics between world powers.

CHICAGO:

A Case of Jitters

Senator Kefauver of Tennessee and his crime investigating committee arrived in Chicago, held a series of hearings, and departed leaving a case of jitters behind them that reached into high circles.

Said the senator as he departed: "We think we have found strong evidence that the Capone syndicate is still operating. . . . There is evidence of gangsters muscling into legitimate businesses, and of political ties between gangsters and politicians of both parties."

Kefauver's committee planned hearings in New York, Philadelphia and then a jump back to Chicago. A recent hearing in Miami revealed connections between gamblers and city officials in that winter resort.

After the Chicago hearings, Kefauver said he is convinced that a Mafia is in operation in Chicago at present. The Mafia is an Italo-Sicilian-born secret society of loose organization that specializes in extortion, and deals out its own punishment.

Civil Defense

The jagged line was the approximate defense line of North Korean forces battling against United Nations forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur at the time the general demanded the surrender of the Communists.

SECURITY LAW:

Matter of Discretion

The nation's new Internal Security act has already been under fire in enforcement. The law had threatened for a time to bar the return to this country of Arturo Toscanini, the world's most renowned conductor.

The immigration department quickly issued a statement saying the musician would be allowed to re-enter this country, thereby avoiding a storm of protests.

At the same time Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said he was using his "discretionary" power in permitting Friedrich Gulda, 20, Austrian pianist, to enter this country for his American debut at Carnegie Hall.

Gulda joined the Nazi youth movement at the age of 10 because the law forced him to. The new law bars admission to the country of anyone who ever has been a member of, or "affiliated" with, a Communist, Nazi, or Fascist party.

CASUALTIES:

Heaviest Report

As United Nations forces crossed the 38th parallel and advanced into Communist territory, the department of defense released the heaviest casualty list of the Korean campaign.

It contained names of 1,211 members of the U.S. armed services. The deaths numbered 225; those wounded in action, 822; missing in action, 73, and injured 48.

Good Dairy Barn

Lighting Essential

Speeds Up Work, Aids Sanitation Problems

Good lighting in the dairy barn is not only convenient, but necessary. For it speeds up work and helps the dairyman with his sanitation problems.

Farmers, therefore, are cautioned by agricultural engineers to wire their barns so that they have plenty of illumination on the job, around the job and going to and from the job. For these purposes, it is recommended that lighting outlets be located every 12 feet on the center line of the litter alley and every 20 feet on the center line of the feed alley.

If more illumination is desired than can be obtained from the above plan, a second line of lights can be placed in the litter alley over the hind quarters of each row of cows.

Flood lights on the outside corner of the barn, or conveniently placed yard lights, will help prevent accidents by illuminating the farmer's path from the barn to the house. If a milk house loading platform is used, it also should be well lighted.

Individual Lifetime Meat Quota Set at 55 Animals

Your lifetime quota of meat in terms of live animals represent 33 hogs, 10 lambs, 8 steers and 4 veal calves, a livestock publication reports.

That's provided you live to be 68.3 years of age—the life expectancy of a man born in the United States today.

The data was based upon actual consumption of the amount of meat eaten by the average person over a 52 year period. Since the turn of the century, average per capita meat consumption has been 67 pounds of pork, 61 pounds of beef, 7.5 pounds of veal and 6 pounds of lamb.

"Since the beginning of the century," the publication said, "the high point in per capita meat consumption was reached in 1918 at 163 pounds. The low point was 117 pounds in 1935. Since that time, however, meat consumption per capita has been fluctuating around 150 pounds per year."

Final Vaccination

Oscar Flores, director, (left) and General Harry H. Johnson, co-director, were on hand to see the final dose of vaccine administered in the three-year battle to eradicate foot-and-mouth disease in Mexico.

During the campaign approximately 17,000,000 animals were vaccinated three times, and the majority of them received a fourth immunization.

There have been no outbreaks of the disease since December, 1949.

Evil Thoughts

AN EDITORIAL

WHOEVER DELIBERATELY VIOLATES any of God's laws sins twice. The first sin lies in the intention that precedes the action. Thus a man who plans but does not actually commit the sin of murder has nevertheless branded himself, in God's eyes, as a murderer.

The same is true of adultery, stealing, or any other moral offense. Every man who offends God sins first through thought. It is in the mind that temptation takes root and the battle begins between conscience and the enticements of evil.

Bad thoughts, even those which may never be translated into bad action, must never be allowed to gain control of the mind.

Unchaste, lewd and even lustful thoughts invade the minds of the most virtuous. Temptations come unsought, but when they are resisted and overcome the soul is strengthened and acquires an added merit in the sight of God.

The secret of fighting evil thoughts lies principally in prayer. Impure thoughts must be replaced by something good. As soon as the mind perceives it is being seduced to evil, it should turn at once to God. The mind cannot hold two thoughts at once. Even the most persistent temptation must eventually yield to prayer and the grace of God.

It is always a help to keep constantly aware of the fact that God knows and judges every thought. Some people permit evil to occupy their minds because they feel safe in so doing. If they could only be made to realize that God will one day weigh each person, not only by his deeds but by his thoughts as well, they would be deeply concerned about leading a good life, even in their minds.

It is all too true that a person's thoughts create his character. His thoughts determine whether at the last he will stand worthily at the bar of eternal judgment or bow his head, ashamed and condemned by his hidden iniquities.

KATHLEEN NORRIS
The Tangled Web

THE UNUSUAL and painful situation into which one Percy Field, of San Antonio, Tex., has gotten himself, is described to me in an agitated letter from his mother.

She does not say that it was sin that brought about this tangle, because like most persons today she evidently doesn't believe in sin. The word has gone almost completely out of the language. People don't commit sins, nowadays, they are the victims of reactions to unfortunate early influences, traumas, inhibitions, fixations, phobias and other influences beyond their control.

Impossible Background

What Percy did was fall in love with a girl in a five-and-ten. Her years were 24 to his 20, and his mother writes that she was impossible. Her background also was impossible. Percy's mother met Alma, and descended promptly into that special Purgatory reserved for the mothers of impressionable only sons. Alma was beautiful, ungrammatical, uneducated, not only without culture, as old Mrs. Field then saw culture, but unaware that there was any such thing.

"Right or wrong," Percy's mother writes, "I prevented their marriage. My boy was willing to give this girl's child his name, but I could not—I simply couldn't agree."

"... mother met Alma ..."

Marriage then would have interrupted his college career, for I told him that if he married, he would have to work to support his wife. I told him I would not help, and sometimes I have felt since that this was pretty severe. But things you do at one time of your life look strange at some later time. Percy's sister was on the eve of a fine marriage and Percy's father had held a fine position in the Pennsylvania town where we lived then.

"The war came along and Percy went to the South Seas, earning more than one medal for bravery. On condition that she would never trouble him I sent Alma a check every month for three years. I saw Lucia, the baby, infrequently. Percy came home, married, and we moved to Texas. His business interests took him back frequently to Germantown, and I learned much later that he saw Alma and little Lucia then. He and his wife have a daughter, now 5.

Afraid of Scandal

"Now Alma, who is tubercular, has moved to a sanitarium a few miles away from where we live. I have seen her, and the beautiful child, Percy is devoted to this older daughter, and wants to adopt her. But his wife, Kathryn, objects. She says it will jeopardize the future of her own daughter, cause scandal, and that she simply will not consent to co-operate in what she calls an old disgrace. I have, of course, suggested that I take Lucia, but Kathryn will not hear of it. Our homes are joined by a lovely garden, an ideal place in which to raise little girls. I have come to feel deeply sorry for Alma, who married to give Lucia a protector, and was widowed in 1948. I believe her aunt is taking her little boy."

"What I am asking you," concludes this agitated letter, "is to give me some argument to use with Kathryn. Surely she can't refuse Percy the joy of providing for his own daughter. Surely there is some way to show her how simple and harmonious such an arrangement would be. She swears that if Lucia comes to my home she will never enter it, or allow Jacqueline, her own child, to enter it."

"Isn't it inhuman for her to refuse a dying woman?"

Well, Louise, you have changed. Perhaps Kathryn will. No mother can entirely blame you for shutting off so unsuitable a marriage for a boy of 20, but you didn't show much concern for the baby, and the casual way you observe that you believe the younger child of poor wrecked Alma is to be provided for, shows that your feeling is still stronger for Lucia as your granddaughter than as a small precious human being, with rights of her own.

What's Your Intake?

Lesson for October 29, 1950

FEW PEOPLE would care for a diet of sawdust, mixed with old bacon rinds and with carbolic acid for a drink. Yet some people who are very careful of what goes into their stomachs are astonishingly careless about the intake of their minds.

What goes into your mind counts for more, and lasts longer, than what goes into your mouth. What you eat can kill you—your body, that is; but what you think, what you read, what you hear, can kill your mind. It can even kill your soul. You can afford to be particular. Down at the Cracked Cup Cafe they give you no choice. If you don't like the 50c dinner you can walk out; and if you are at all particular you will walk out. But at the best restaurants you are offered a wide choice.

Are you a Christian? Then don't feed your mind at the mental equivalent of the Cracked Cup Cafe. Go to a better spot. The beauty of food for the mind is that the best costs no more. The best foods for the table are rather expensive; the best mind-foods, soul-foods, are not.

Ear-Gate

IS WHAT you listen to, good for your mind? What's your intake, by ear? A woman who had roomed in another woman's house for some time was looking for a new place. Her old room was inexpensive, sunny, convenient, clean; there was nothing wrong with the room. But she had to listen to the landlady every day, and from her she never heard good of any one.

"If I stay there any longer I shall go crazy," the roomer confided to a friend. "She'll get me to thinking the way she does, and she thinks everybody's a crook."

In Tennyson's "Idyls of the King" is that fine rule of the Round Table: "To speak no slander—no, nor listen to it . . ." Listening to slander, trash, mean and malicious gossip, day after day, is bound to have a serious effect on any one's mind.

Eye-Gate

THE STRANGE thing is that Christians can be seen taking the greatest of pains picking out the right food for their dogs and cats, and yet never exercising the least choice in what comes into their minds by ear or eye.

It would be interesting to compare what most people spend on quite unnecessary stuff like soft drinks and cigarettes, with what they spend for books in a year's time. Would you like to sit down with a great and good man or woman and let him talk to you by the hour, to give you the best of his mind and heart? It can always be done—with a good book. Not, usually, the best sellers!

An intelligent Christian woman recently had to move almost a thousand miles; when you move that far and have to pay by the pound for what you take, you screen your stuff pretty carefully. "I am throwing away all my best sellers," she said. "There's not a one worth wasting freight on." She was right about most best-sellers. But the old-time, long-time, all-time best seller of them all is the Christian Bible.

Is Your Mind a Vacant Lot?

IT IS MORE than a question of what you read and see and hear. An even more serious question is: What do you think about? Good reading, even the Bible, was never meant to be a substitute for thought. One of the great books of ancient times was "Consolations of Philosophy," written by a man in jail without a book in his cell. But the fine books he had read were in his head and heart, and when he became a political prisoner, alone and poor and friendless, his mind was still a garden, or a desert, or only a vacant lot littered with junk!

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complaints of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.
If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

GREEN GRASS OF WYOMING

By Mary O'Hara

The foal is born to Jewel and Old Pete stands by as guard and protector. A wolf pack attacks the mare and her foal and Old Pete rushes in to battle the wolves. He is successful for awhile, but the attackers finally bring him down, mortally hurt. Ken arrives as the wolves are finishing off Old Pete and drives them away with his rifle. Old Pete expires with his head in Ken's arms. Ken, getting his first sight of Crown Jewel, is amazed at her beauty. He wishes that Carey could be with him at the moment. Once again Thunderhead comes within reach of Ken, but the youth fails in his efforts to recapture the horse and is disappointed again.

CHAPTER XXIII

He studied his predicament, every possibility. He did not know that a slight, steady quivering had taken him. There was nothing he could do tonight. But tomorrow — yes, tomorrow — if he were good for anything, if he were any use at all, if his boasted power over Thunderhead had an iota of truth in it, he must catch the stallion, saddle him, bridle him and bring him home between his knees.

It was about three in the afternoon of a grey day when Nell mounted Redwing and cantered through the meadows to the field where Rob and the men and the hay crew were putting up the last of the hay. Already, in the other meadows through which she rode, the big stacks were piled, shaped, tamped down, covered with weighted tarps.

Nell guided Redwing to Rob's side of the wagon and tightened her reins.

When Rob stopped by the next pile and the men began to pitch, Nell said, "Got a wire from Ken."

Rob's face changed expression quickly. He looked at her. She nodded her head smiling. "He's got 'em!"

"Both of them?"

"Yes."

Rob let out a yell which made the horses jump.

"Look out!" exclaimed Nell, grabbing Redwing's reins.

"Well, that ends my troubles," said Rob with a big grin.

"Anything else in the wire?" he asked.

"Well, yes," admitted Nell, "Something that has me worried."

"Shoot," said Rob with narrow eyes.

"The wire said, Am riding Jewel, Leading Flicka and Sparks. Could not catch Thunderhead. He is following. Look out for Banner and mares."

"I'll put Banner in the stable."

Nell nodded. "He won't like it but that's the safest. If you just put him in the corral, Thunderhead would jump into it and murder him."

"And I'll put the mares and colts in the Six Foot pasture. He can jump into it and do whatever he has a mind to, but they can't jump out."

Rob Again Tells What Thunderhead Faces

"Are they all bred?" asked Nell.

"Every one of 'em." There was vicious satisfaction in Rob's voice.

They discussed it again later that night when she had pacified Pearl for dinner being so late, when she had combed the hay out of her hair, tucked Penny into bed, and when Rob was washed and tidy but no less angry. "If he simply couldn't catch him, what could he do? Because the stallion would follow the mares, and Ken had to bring the mares, didn't he?"

"He had a gun, didn't he?" said Rob coldly.

It was understood this summer, over there at Westgate, that since the stallion could not be caught, he'd have to be killed. Ken agreed to it.

"It wouldn't have been agreed to if I'd been there," said Nell.

"Well, it'll have to be agreed to by everyone," said he, as they left the table. "He'll be caught and gelded, or he'll be shot. We're not going on year after year with this nuisance."

They composed the telegram to Beaver Greenway and sent it off.

"Be easy on him now—" was the last thing Nell said to Rob when they saw Ken leading his cavalcade up the road, across the Green and on up to the stables.

But there was too much seething in Rob's mind for him to hold it in long. That evening, when Jewel had been stabled safely in the cow-barn with her foal, out of reach of Banner, when Flicka and Sparks had been put out to pasture to forget their responsibilities, to rest, to roll and ease their tired muscles, when supper had been eaten and Ken's story told, Rob burst out.

"Why the devil did you have to wait till the last minute to wire me and let me know what I was up against?"

"Because," said Ken dully. "I kept thinking that I'd get him yet. I kept trying to all the time."

"What's the last time you saw him?"

"Back there—before we got to Beaufort I heard some horses neighing far away. That's when he disappeared and I haven't seen him since."

"Stealing some more mares!" said Rob savagely. "I'll be hearing about that next!"

Ken made no answer. It was what he himself had been dreading.

Halfway up the Saddle Back, an ancient pine thrust its gnarled trunk up through a split and caverned rock to spread wide branches over the hillside.

Jewel and her beloved foal were home.

He sank back on the turf, laid one arm across his eyes and, in his mind, began the proposal. She would know, of course; she would meet him halfway; it would be easy—they would just go into each other's arms.

There she was, standing before him in her slim grey jodhpurs and white shirt. "Oh, what a climb!" She flung herself down where she had been lying.

"You — found my — note," said Ken.

"Of course! Under my door! I'm here, aren't I?" And Carey lay back on the hillside and looked up into the branches of the tree. "Why do you call it the Monkey Tree? I don't think it's a monkey tree."

"We call them that. There are only a few of them left on the ranch," said Ken. "Mother made up a rhyme—

Twisted old pine tree, I can plainly see

That you are just making a face at me.

You wink one eye and you bend one knee

And that's why I call you the Monkey Tree.

Everything Seems Gone Wrong to Ken

Carey laughed and Ken was furious at himself for reciting the rhyme. Everything was going wrong. To be talking about the pine tree was just as bad as to be talking about horses. Ever since the Greenways had arrived it had been horses, horses, horses. He had been obliged to describe every mile of his journey, all of his adventures. Then Carey had ridden Jewel and put her over the jumps. Then it went on all evening about the races Jewel would win. He hadn't even been able to think about his proposal. And now, when the time had come for it, it wasn't happening.

"How come your Grandma let you come without her along?"

Carey sat up quickly and turned solemn eyes to him. "Do you know something? I've found out that Grandma only gets sick when she can't get her own way!"

"What did we tell you?"

"She didn't want me to come here with Uncle Beaver. And when I said I wanted to, she began to complain of her rheumatism and I had to get hot compresses for her."

"But you came anyway!"

Carey nodded but with a little chagrin at herself. "It was Uncle Beaver who stood up to her. I didn't dare."

Ken lay there, silently, while Carey chatted about the episode. He felt quite desperate, because, no matter what turn the conversation took, it did not seem to get any closer to the proposal.

Around them the colors had changed. Brilliant green lay upon the hillside, the air was golden, the pink clouds were now puffs of snowy cotton. The hour was passing. The day—the last day was here! How could Carey be so oblivious?

Her face turned to him as he leaned closer, hardly knowing what he was doing, and he was aware, for a second, of the excitement in her eyes before he was too close to see them.

When Carey at last pulled away, she sat up and took a scrap of blue linen and pressed it to her eyes.

"I don't know why I'm crying!"

Ken sprang up and walked off a little distance. He stood there a few moments, then returned and flung himself down beside her and held out his arms. A deep sigh went through him — they clasped each other closely.

"Carey," he said and his voice was a little husky. "I've been waiting so long for this."

Ken Urges Carey To Resist Grandma

Her eyes wavered and her flushed face tucked down over her white shirt.

"I knew it was coming, didn't you, Carey?"

She nodded, examining a bit of quartz she had picked out of the grass.

"We're engaged now, Carey."

Carey had no answer to this.

"Aren't we?"

There was just the least doubt on her face.

He sat up abruptly. "How can you look like that! You know we're engaged!"

"We—e—ll, engaged—yes, I guess so, but—"

"Well, that means married, doesn't it? Engaged to be married?"

"Ken, it just seems so far away. Too far even to think of. And then you know, there's Grandma—I can't believe she will ever allow it."

Ken exploded. "That is just what I was waiting to hear! You're not going to let her interfere between us, are you Carey?"

"Us is the one thing she really wants to interfere with. I guess she knows, Ken."

"Knows what?"

"Knows—this—"

"This" was another clasping of arms, another kiss. Then Ken took both her hands and held them tight. "Promise me you won't let her ruin our life."

"I don't know what you mean."

"I mean—interfere with our marriage."

"But, Ken, we're too young yet anyway."

"I know it! Damn it!" he said. "I'll have to go to college next year, I suppose. Carey, if you would only go to college too, in the East, then we could see each other all the time, go to dances together, and be really engaged."

"I want awfully to go to college," said Carey wistfully, "but there it is. Grandma again. She doesn't want me to. She begins to get asthma at the very idea!"

"What does your uncle say?"

"He says it's entirely up to me. If I want to, he'll back me up." She drew a deep breath. "If I only dared!"

At this revealing remark, Ken's heart became tender. She was really afraid of the selfish old woman who had ruled her all her life. "You will now, Carey. Now you've got me. It'll make a difference." He kissed her again, and Carey, indeed, was beginning to feel that it would make a difference.

There was a creek to cross, and at last Ken had his chance. He caught her up and held her across him, grinning at her, feeling that he really had her at last.

Carey laughed at him and put one arm around his neck. As he waded with her, she gave a few squeals of fear. Ken stopped mid-stream—put one foot on a high rock propping up his knee and sat her upon it. He laughed, teasing her. "Now, I've got you!"

MIXING COLORING WITH PLASTER

Question: We are going to have our new home plastered, and I would like to know if this integral coloring mixed in with the plaster is a good thing to have done.

Answer: Yes, I consider it a very good way to get color on your walls without having to do a separate painting job afterwards. To be sure of a uniform color use only the factory-mixed material. Color mixing of plaster "on the job" is not always satisfactory.

War to Have Strong Influence on Markets
 L. H. Simerl of the University of Illinois predicts unsettled markets during the months ahead. He gives four reasons:
 First, the all-important corn crop is made largely during July and August. Yield depends mainly on rainfall and borer damage.
 Second, military operations always have a strong influence on market activities.
 Third, needs for price control and rationing will be discussed by the public and probably debated in congress.
 Fourth, even before recent international developments, many people had little confidence in prevailing price levels. Now most people are even more uncertain about probable price behavior.

Casserole Cookery Helps Cut Down Soaring Food Bills

WHEN THE FOOD budget evades all your efforts to keep within its necessary limits, then it's time to start fixing those nourishing, appetite-satisfying casseroles. There's a good bit of eating in a fine casserole, and you can frequently use leftover meats and vegetables in them rather than wasting them.

Even when saving money is no object, there are many people who like the home-like atmosphere of having a casserole dinner. Plan them as well, cook them as carefully as a roast, and your family will enjoy them as much as the Sunday dinner with chicken or a roast.

PROTEIN-RICH eggs and milk extend less than a pound of ham in this tasty casserole dish:

*Deviled Ham Puff (Serves 6)

- 8 slices, day-old white bread
- 1/2 pound cooked ham, ground.
- 3 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 1 tablespoon horseradish, if desired.
- 4 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Pepper to taste
Spread bread out and let stand several hours to dry out; then toast lightly. Cut crusts from the slices and place crusts in a greased, shallow pan, 9x9x1 1/2 inches. Combine ham, mustard and horseradish and spread in an even layer over the crusts, then arrange the whole slices, cut in half diagonally, on the top. Mix the eggs, milk, salt and pepper and pour slowly over the bread so as to saturate the top slices; allow to stand for one hour. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for one hour. Serve immediately.

Dried Beef Casserole (Serves 6)

- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1/4 pound dried beef, shredded
- 1/4 cup fat
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 2 cups cooked macaroni
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup cooked peas
- 1/2 cup grated American cheese

Cook onions, celery and dried beef in hot fat until onions are golden. Blend in flour, then milk gradually and stir until slightly thickened. Add macaroni, salt, pepper, peas; then pour into greased 1 1/2-quart casserole. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven 15 minutes.

Frankfurter-Tomato Casserole (Serves 6)

- 6 frankfurters
- 4 slices dry bread
- 1 No. 2 1/2 size can tomatoes
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1/4 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

Place three frankfurters on bottom of greased 1 1/2-quart casserole.

Meat, potatoes and several colorful vegetables are included in this delicious main dish pie. Note the effectiveness of baking powder biscuits cut with a doughnut cutter as topping.

This interesting casserole uses leftover ground ham with protein-rich eggs and milk, a seasoning of horseradish, with toast triangles, to make a dish worthy of hearty eating.

- 3/4 cups spaghetti
- 1/2 green pepper, sliced
- 1/2 red pepper, sliced
- 1 1/2 cups strained tomato
- 2 teaspoons salt

Meat and Vegetable Pie (Serves 6)

- 2 cups diced, cooked veal
- 2 cooked potatoes, diced
- 2 cooked carrots, sliced

Cover sliced onion with boiling water and let stand until needed. Cook celery until tender in 1/2 cup water. Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Make a white sauce of butter, flour and milk; add salt. Combine with drained onion, celery, bouillon, meat and vegetables. Turn into buttered casserole or baking dish and cover with small baking powder biscuits.

Baking Powder Biscuits

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup milk

Sift flour, measure; sift twice with baking powder and salt. Add butter and cut with pastry blender or two knives. Add milk and stir quickly. When dough is formed, turn on floured board and knead for about 20 seconds. Roll to 1/4-inch thickness and cut into small biscuits; lay on top of mixture in casserole. Bake in a hot (450°) oven for 12 to 15 minutes.

Canned pineapple, fresh pear sections and preserved ginger offer a tasty combination for cold weather eating.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Coffee and tea stains are the commonest cause of dingy looking dishcloths. Keep your cloths sweet smelling and clean looking by putting them in a wide-mouthed jar filled with half water, half laundry bleach, whenever the cloth isn't in use.

Here's a stunt that'll give you positive protection against moths for a wool bathing suit or sweater, without sprays, flakes or repellents. Wash the garment thoroughly, get it completely dry; then roll it up tightly, put it inside a clean quart-size mason jar, and close the top tightly. No moth can penetrate as long as the cap is tight.
