News and Views From Washington

By John J. Dempsey

Congressman from New Mexico
Washington, May 24—For the first time during the current session of Congress, the House voted last Thursday to override a presidential veto. In question was a bill which I referred to in this column three weeks ago. It would authorize the Armed Service committees of the Senate and House to pass on real estate leases or purchases by the Army, Navy or Air Force.

Such a provision relating to the Navy has been on the statute books since 1914, so this is no experimental legislation. It simply broadens the law to include the Army and the Air Force.

This law, as applied to the Navy, has saved hundreds of millions of dollars during the years it has been in force. How it works was pointed out very forcibly by Chairman Carl Vinson of the House committee on Armed Services, when he urged the House to override President Truman's veto.

The Navy decided to enter into a supply contract with a Detroit motor car company for the manufacture of air craft engines. In order to produce these engines, the Navy said its Bureau of Aeronautics would need a new plant, which would cost the government a mere $30,000,000!

"When that reached the Armed Services committee," Chairman Vinson told the House, "we said, 'Let us have a little investigation of this.' What happened? As a result of the investigation the Navy made a further survey and withdrew the proposition to spend $30,000,000 to build a new plant . . . because they found facilities in which they could carry on this work."

As I wrote in my earlier comments on this bill, it is in perfect accord with my own belief that the duty of Congress should go beyond footing the bill, and extend to a supervision of where money is actually being spent.

Its need is particularly evident in the Armed Forces because in those agencies, procurement is carried on with a complete disregard to the costs involved. While no one believes in penny pinching where vital military needs are concerned, military procurement officers have been known to take advantage of this fact to grab off just about anything they felt like taking. It was one of these attempted grabs, involving two new swank Washington apartment buildings, that caused this legislation to be enacted originally. The Department of Defense proposed to rent one of them for $400,000 a year. This figure would mean a return to the owner of $144,000 a year more than he could hope to receive by renting privately.

The leases were to be made, the Defense department said, because it needed more office space. Yet there is 125,000 square feet of space in the Pentagon which is now being used for such commercial establishments as the florist shop, the jewelry shop, the drug store, the dry-cleaning store, the book store, the household appliance store, the dress shop and the shoe-repair shop.

The bill was passed unanimously in the House. When the Senate approved it, it went to the President for his signature. He vetoed it on the basis that it transferred functions of the executive branch of the government to the legislative branch. But the House disagreed and voted 312-68 to override the veto. I was one of those voting to override.

MORE FOG. Just when it looked like some light was being shed on the reasons for the firing of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur from his Far Eastern command, new and conflicting statements have served to make the picture more confused than ever.

As I reported last week, Defense Secretary Marshall, testifying under oath told Senate investigators that the actual event which precipitated the decision to relieve MacArthur was his famous letter to House Minority Leader Joe Martin.

But on Thursday, President Truman told a press conference that such was not the case. It was MacArthur's ultimatum to the Chinese Reds on March 24 not the Martin letter, which brought about MacArthur's recall. And he had considered firing MacArthur for over a year, even before he placed him in command of the UN forces in Korea.

MacArthur's recommendations on conduct of the Korean war, with one exception, have been or in the process of being put into operation. The one outstanding point of disagreement concerns the bombing of Manchurian bases and on that point both England and the United States have agreed this will be carried out if the Reds engage in any great amount of bombing of our boys.

YESSON ON REDS: Much capital is being made of the supposed delay in shipping wheat to India, which that country desires. The fact is that this country is now shipping 100,000 tons a month and has been for the past several months.

Yet we learn that great publicity was given in India to one Russian shipment of 50,000 tons. This indicates that the "Voice of America," which is supposed to tell this country's story to people of other nations, is not reaching those people and is not getting the job done.

It might also be well for Indian officials, who are trying so diligently to stay neutral in the battle between Communism and Democracy, to examine what happened to the last country whose government thought it could "get along" with the Reds. That country was Czechoslovakia.

Carlsbad Caverns Summer Schedule

The addition of the regular summer 8 o'clock walk-in party to the present four trips a day schedule through Carlsbad Caverns effective Sunday, May 27, was announced today by Superintendent R. Taylor Hoskins, Carlsbad Caverns National Park. The additional trip is necessary to care for the seasonal increase in visitation, already much in evidence.

The summer schedule provides walk-in trips at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a. m. and 12:15 p. m. Elevator trips to join these parties in the caverns' lunch room for the tour of the Big Room will start at 9:45, 10:45, and 11:45 a. m. and 12:45 and 2:15 p. m.

The inauguration of the evening bat-flight programs on Sunday, May 27, was also announced by Supt. Hoskins. The bats have been very late in returning but a few are now present and it is deemed advisable to provide a talk concerning the bats. Visitors should be advised that the talk will begin at 6:30 p. m. at the caverns' entrance with the flight occurring at approximately dusk. Unless additional rainfall is experienced shortly it is not anticipated that the bat flights will be spectacular this year. It is recommended that those desiring to attend the bat flight arrive in the park at least 30 minutes before.

Food Store Being Built

A concrete building is being constructed on the corner of 13th and Main in Artesia and when completed, which will be early fall, will be occupied by H & J Food Basket No. 2. H & J Food Basket No. 1 was opened about a year ago on South First Street by T. J. Haile, Jr. and Bert Jones. They have made a success where they are and plan on a nice store and nice business at 13th and Main. The new building will be 50x100 feet with plenty of parking space adjoining.

Mother's Lament

(By Nat Campbell)

Well, what in the world am I to do
Now that school is out,
And the neighbor's children and all of mine
Are fussing and yelling about?
When their vacation is begun,
Always I've contended,
Right then mine is over with,
And peaceful hours are ended.
Once more, too, I realize,
The courage of a teacher,
I'm sure she has more patience and Reiligion than the preacher.
She handles children by the score—
A mystery to me—
While I am driven half insane
Just looking after three.
So I can only hope and pray
That somehow I'll survive,
Till school begins again next fall,
Gracious sakes alive!

BASEBALL!!

Artesia Wins From San Angelo 6 to 0

Artesia occupying the cellar position in the Longhorn League got tired of being shoved around, so on Sunday they took San Angelo down a notch in a 6-0 game. Rudy Lorona pitching for the Drillers gave a stellar performance on the mound and is credited with pitching a no-hit game. San Angelo had boasted the greatest winning streak in baseball—19 straight games.

Drillers . . . . . 000 200 022—6
Colts . . . . . 000 000 000—0

Batteries—Artesia, Lorona and Perez; San Angelo, Cox and Funderburk.
On Saturday and Sunday, the Drillers will entertain the San Angelo club and a large attendance is expected. A large number of baseball fans from San Angelo are expected up to Artesia to give the Colts their morale support and to personally see that the Drillers do not repeat the performance of last Sunday in San Angelo.

On May 30 and 31 the Roswell Rockets will be at Artesia and on June 7 and 8 Vernon will be matched against Artesia. June 9 and 10 Sweetwater vs Artesia; June 11 and 12, Midland vs Artesia.

Like we have said before, the season is still young and the possibilities are that the Drillers will be in the first division by July 6. It could happen and we think it will.

Quite a few Hope fans are going to be down to see the Artesia-San Angelo games Saturday and Sunday night. If Artesia could win two games from San Angelo, it would bring the league leaders down a few notches and boost the Drillers up a few steps. We want the Drillers up in the first division by July 6. We have been predicting that such would be the case and we hope the Drillers get on a winning streak so that we won't be made out a liar.

A charge of manslaughter has been added to the murder complaint already on file against football star Jerry Nuzum. A date of June 25 has been set for Nuzum's trial.

Marine police launches are patrolling the harbor at Singapore in order to enforce the British ban against shipping rubber to Red China. Orders are that rubber laden ships must not clear for Red China.

Rivers and creeks in Oklahoma and Texas are running bank full and have caused the death of four persons. Many rural homes have been isolated and transportation and communication lines have been cut.

A tornado struck Olney, Texas, last week end. Two persons were killed, 50 homes were demolished and the damage will run around $1,500,000. Olney is a city of about 5000 population, 50 miles south of Wichita Falls.

Over at Phoenix, Ariz., Federal Judge Dave W. Ling sentenced Dave Beard, 47-year-old former Yuma County sheriff, to serve six months in jail for evading $909 in 1946 income taxes. With the jail term went a $500 fine and a civil tax liability.

Rep. Walter E. Brehm, a Republican from Ohio, was denied a new trial today on charges of receiving illegal campaign contributions. Well, well, well, we thought it was only Democrats that pulled stunts like that.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Mrs. MacArthur left Sunday morning for the country where they intended to spend a quiet day. Over in Europe Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower have arrived in Copenhagen, Denmark, for a four-day tour of inspection.

A sheep herder over in Arizona had a fainting spell while cooking his supper. He fell in the fire and was burned so badly that one arm had to be amputated. His petition for compensation was refused by the state industrial commission on the grounds that the accident did not occur while he was employed herding sheep.

C. W. Clark former Dona Ana County school superintendent has been charged with embezzlement. Mr. Clark is specifically charged with selling a $132 school sewing machine to a Las Cruces resident and failing to deposit the money in the school treasury. Clark was returned to Las Cruces Monday following his arrest in Yuma, Ariz., where he was vacationing. He posted $1500 bond.

Last Sunday afternoon, rain and hail was reported from Roswell and Carlsbad. About 500 acres in cotton will have to be replanted in the Carlsbad area. The heavy rain caused a truck and a passenger car to collide one mile north of the Legion Hut in Carlsbad, killing two persons and injuring four. Up to the present time, the Hope area has had very little moisture.

The political committee of the United States has defied Russia and with record speed approved a world-wide embargo on direct and indirect shipments of war material to Red China. The 60 nation group, by a vote of 45 to 0, recommended for final assembly action tomorrow an embargo resolution designed to make certain that "not a single United Nations soldier is killed by bullets manufactured in free lands."

The American Red Cross is celebrating its 70th anniversary. A report shows that the Red Cross has spent $1,900,000,000 here and overseas in the 50 years since its first report to Congress. The newest and most dramatic Red Cross service—the national blood program, established in January 1948—already has collected a total of 2,976,100 pints of blood and has been designated the official agency for blood procurement for the armed forces. Last June the Red Cross was collecting about 60,000 pints of blood a month, entirely for civilian use. Two months later following the outbreak of the Korean war, blood procurement collections had jumped to 91,600 pints a month. Among the principal items in the roster of famines, floods, earthquakes and storms was the $11,800,000 spent for victims of the 1923 Japanese earthquake and the $6,000,000 spent for the sufferers in the 1928 West Indies hurricanes. Here at home, the biggest single Red Cross disaster operation was the 1937 Mississippi-Ohio flood on which the Red Cross spent more than $25,000,000 and recruited 3600 nurses.

Dairy farmers throughout the nation, especially in the midwest, are giving serious thought to one phase of the industry—the future of butter. Long the economic foundation of the industry, butter has continued to decline in per capita consumption.

Since 1940 consumption has declined from 16.9 to 10.5 pounds per person per year, while margarine, with a per capita consumption of 2.4 pounds in 1940, has increased to 6.1 pounds during the past year. The war hurt the sale of butter more than anything in recent years. People learned to do without and then when ceilings were lifted the price jumped above $1 a pound. The price was just too much for the average American family.

Shortly thereafter came the butter-oleo battle. Industry leaders now believe that was a serious mistake. These are the reasons the industry is worried over their future.

Mac Urges Action Against China; Farm Land Prices at Record Peak

MAN WITH A MISSION—At last, much to the relief of the average home-towner, the emotional thinking that manifested itself with the return of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the United States, gave way to considerable sober reasoning as the general testified before congress concerning the cause and results of his removal as commander in the Pacific. Stripped of the superficial, the general's testimony revealed him a man with a burning mission—to bring the Korean conflict to a swift and successful conclusion. His objective was no different from that of the administration, except by the method it could be reached.

Before the Senate

Testifying before the house and senate armed services and foreign relations committees, Gen. MacArthur pressed for a new far east policy and air attacks on China. His testimony was called a two-fisted attack on the administration by many Republicans.

THE OTHER VIEW—And after MacArthur presented his views of how to conduct the war in Korea, the one military man who in the eyes of the home-towner equals MacArthur in ability and popularity, Secretary of Defense Marshall, told the congressional committees that MacArthur's peace appeal to the enemy last March destroyed for the time being any chances of a Korean war settlement.

Marshall made clear that in his opinion MacArthur's war plans would risk an all-out war with Russia, expose Europe to attack, and perhaps split the free world into two camps.

Step by step the 70-year-old Marshall disputed many of MacArthur's statements and warned against the general's proposal to step up the Korean war by bombing Red China and forcing a Communist surrender. It was MacArthur's outspoken call for this action—and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops—that led to his dismissal.

That is the other side of the picture. But the question remains—which plan for achieving peace will the nation follow. It is a question that must be settled in the mind of each individual American, not just in congress.

LAND PRICES HIT NEW HIGH—Main Street economy is built around the land and what it can produce. And any fluctuation in land prices and its products is a good indication of the economic future of the home town.

Good farm property is in demand because people think prices are going higher. Land is a good hedge against rising prices. With the government indicating there will be a good market for everything produced, good farming land is a good investment.

The agriculture department measures rural land values by a national index. This index uses the years 1912-14 as the base period. With 1912-14 prices as 100, the index in March stood at the record high of 193. This was 14 per cent above a year earlier, and 9 per cent higher than the previous peak registered in November of 1948.

MIDWEST FEEDERS HURT—As expected, the OPS regulations rolling back beef prices raised a howl of protest from cattlemen across the nation. But of all the industry, the midwest feeder was hardest hit by the new regulations.

According to authorities in the meat industry, 85 per cent, or seven million steers slaughtered under federal inspection last year, came to market over the feed lot route. But the feeder is now expected to cut down on operations for a time because he cannot buy cattle at a price that will pay him to fatten them.

Fred Tomlin of Pleasant Plains, Ill., said in his case: "There is no reason for me to go out and pay 34 or 35 cents a pound for cattle with the prospect of selling them at 31 or 32 when fattened."

Communists Regroup to Attack
Beaten back in a slaughter that claimed as many as 75,000 casualties, Communists in Korea regrouped for another thrust to the south. UN commanders believed the fighting would stay in the area indicated in the above map.

THE BATTLE ISN'T OVER—The Communist spring offensive ended in the slaughter of approximately 75,000 Chinese and North Korean troops without any notable gains. But the battle isn't over. The Reds retreated into North Korea to regroup for the next phase which could mean another all-out attack at any point along the line.

It may well be that the second phase will begin at any moment. But UN commanders believe it, too, will end in slaughter unparalleled in history.

It was clear that UN troops remain in Korea because of superior air power, artillery and mobility. How long this superiority will remain or the UN side if the Chinese use their air forces in support of their troops is questionable.

HOME TOWN BORROWING—The home town who thought his town might get that much needed road, school, water system, drainage or sewage-construction project in the near future may be in for a big disappointment.

Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director, has asked states, cities, and counties to get clearances before borrowing in excess of $1,000,000. He made his requests on the need to halt inflationary spending and to save defense-needed materials and man power.

The mobilization chief also asked that soldiers' bonus payments, war memorials, recreational and other postponable projects be put off for the duration of the defense emergency—at least where funds must be borrowed to pay for them.

National, State Parks Provide Vacations for Home-Towners

May 27-June 2 is Park and Recreation Week. During this week the eyes of all America will be centered on the millions of acres of national parks, U.S. forests and wild life areas and thousands of scattered state parks throughout the country.

The week gains added importance in the eyes of Main Street because state and national parks have become the favorite vacation-land for home town America. The home-towner likes the idea of getting into his automobile, piling in the family dog, and taking off for a tour of his own country to see its wonders.

For example, over 30,000,000 people visit the national parks, monuments and capital parks, annually. As for state parks, it has been estimated that 125,000,000 people use them annually.

As for small town parks, with a real estate value of billions of dollars and with thousands of ball diamonds, recreation buildings, swimming pools, tennis courts, etc., it could not be estimated how many people use them. The home towns of America provide their citizens with more than 20,000 separate park units.

During the past 50 years parks and recreation properties, facilities and services have shown tremendous growth and influence. Today they make a major contribution to the welfare and happiness of the American people in every community in the land. The small town that has a federal or state park near it has learned from experience that it has meant business to the community. And it is a wise community that advertises its facilities and beauties.

The whole story of the local parks is not even yet known statistically, but listed figures show that 1,465 cities, towns, and villages operate over 19,000 separate park and playground units, with an area of nearly 5,000 acres valued at well over $2,000,000,000.

The man on Main Street should be sure that he gets his share of the benefits and joys that are his for the asking. National and state parks belong to him.

Foot Care in Focus For Foot Health Week

Summer is the toughest time of the year on your feet. So with National Foot Health Week (May 19-26) to remind you, it's a good idea to pay some attention to them.

Unfortunately, many people are less careful in summer about hygiene than during any other time. Outdoor activities and sports put unaccustomed strains on many persons who lead a sedentary existence during the rest of the year, and this results in burning, aching soles and toes that play havoc with posture, appearance and disposition.

Clinical records show that footwear of improper fit or material often is the principal cause of frustration and fretfulness during otherwise perfect summer days. Feet, like any other part of the body, breathe. Constant exchange and passage of air are essential for comfort, especially since feet tend to expand during physical activities in warm weather. That's why podiatrists and other foot specialists are unanimous in recommending roomy oxford-type shoes equipped with leather soles for all-around outdoor wear.

Shoes with leather soles are especially important in summer because leather's porous structure allows air to enter and maintain healthful foot temperatures. The home town should take advantage of the years of experience has given his local shoe store salesman and ask for their advice when they are purchasing summer footwear. It will eliminate many of a foot-ache.

A summer foot ailment that bedevils many Americans to an extent second only to the common cold is known as athlete's foot. The term is actually a misnomer for even persons whose most strenuous activity is lying in a hammock are as susceptible to it as professional ball players.

To prevent this pesky germ from getting a start and to remain on a sound footing, the American Foot Care Institute recommends the following basic foot rules which every home-towner will find helpful:

1. Wash Frequently!—Bath your feet frequently in tepid water, dry carefully and use powder afterwards.
2. Change Often!—Never wear the same shoes two days in succession, and change socks or stockings at least daily.
3. Wear Right!—For coolness and ventilation wear all-leather shoes, both soles and uppers. Save sneakers and playshoes for the beach or soft surfaces.
4. Fit Right!—Feet swell in summer. So be sure to wear the correct size shoes and stockings (a half inch longer than the longest toe). When buying shoes it is important to have the salesman fit you properly. Years of experience makes his advice worth listening to.
5. Exercise!—Limber up your feet at intervals—they have muscles, too. Wiggle your toes!
6. Prevent Athlete's Foot!—Ringworm of the foot thrives only in hot, soggy environment. Wear leather soles which absorb foot perspiration.
7. Take Care!—Don't be a "bathroom surgeon." If your feet need attention consult a podiatrist or chiropodist.

Illinois Legion to Sell Poppies to Aid Veterans

Since last November more than 12,000 wounded and disabled veterans of both world wars and Korea have been busily engaged in Illinois hospitals fashioning together pieces of cloth.

Their finished products—bright red poppies, the memorial flower of the nation's war dead—go on sale in Chicago and Cook county on May 25. Sales will be conducted for the rest of the state on May 26.

Proceeds from the street corner sales are earmarked for the aid of sick and disabled veterans and their families. Every penny taken in after expenses, goes directly into veterans' rehabilitation funds.

Some 15,000 volunteer workers will be at posts in Chicago from dawn to dusk, and additional 17,000 over other parts of Illinois.

Since 1931 poppy days have been held in Illinois under the auspices of the Veterans Poppy Day Association of Chicago composed of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Spanish-American War veterans.

COMMUNICATIONS

Western Union Begins Second Century of Service in the U.S.

On April 1 Western Union began its second century of service to the nation.

Organized April 1, 1851, as the New York and Mississippi Valley Printing Telegraph company in Rochester, N.Y., and changing its name to Western Union five years later, the nation's telegraph company observed its 100th anniversary through April.

Because of the world situation and the unusual load of business and responsibilities, the company did not have any elaborate celebration marking the anniversary.

Western Union's first executive office in Rochester, N.Y., back in 1851 was equipped with a single roll-top desk, a few chairs and a cast-iron cuspidor shaped like a plug hat. It was a modest beginning for a company that now has 43,000 employees.

Today, Western Union annually moves some 200,000,000 telegrams, 8,000,000 foreign and domestic telegraph money orders, and 5,000,000 cablegrams, many of a military and diplomatic nature. Additional billions of words are handled for the nation's press and over private wire systems leased to many leading industries.

The latest communications miracle developed by Western Union is the High-Speed Fax. It is the fastest overall communications method in the world.

Over the High-Speed Fax a message can be sent at the rate of 3,000 words a minute or 180,000 words an hour. It will transmit written, printed or picture matter, and there is no limit to the distance over which it may operate if a suitable circuit with electronic repeaters is provided.

MEN ARE GOOD only when they strive to obey God's will in all things. Man is not placed on Earth primarily to save his soul, but to do God's will. If he is faithful in doing this, his salvation follows as a matter of course.

During His life in the world, Christ served as a perfect model for mankind. Never once did he swerve from the path mapped out for Him by the Will of His Heavenly Father. In Gethsemane He prayed that the chalice might pass from Him, but He immediately added: "Nevertheless not My will but Thine be done."

At least three times during His public career, Christ summed up in a single sentence the aim and object of all He did, taught and said. Each time He pointed to the will of the Father as the great norm which directed all.

Blood Transfusion Is Religious Issue

CHICAGO—Does the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom take precedence over the saving of a human life?

That question seemed to be looming here as a two-week-old girl, Cheryl Lynn Labrenz, waged a successful fight for life in Michael-Reese hospital after a court took her from the parents who had refused to let her undergo a blood transfusion.

The baby, daughter of Darrell, 25, and Rhoda Labrenz, 23, members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect, was born with an RH blood factor, an inherited trait which causes a baby's blood cells to war on each other. In a great many cases the condition leads to death.

Medical experts at Bethany hospital, where the infant was born, agreed she had to have a transfusion. But the parents refused for days to permit it, arguing "it is against the will of God, and it says so in the Bible."

Eating and drinking of blood animal or human, they averred, are forbidden by the Scriptures. And, they claimed, a blood transfusion was just a forced feeding.

Displaced Persons

Lesson for May 27, 1951

"D.P.'s" are no 20th-century novelty. This displaced person has for centuries dotted the international landscape. We can define a displaced person as one who, unwillingly or unintentionally, is a long way from a home which no longer exists. A D.P. would usually go home if he could, but he can't. His home has been bombed out, or perhaps his whole home town destroyed. Perhaps he and his neighbors have been forcibly moved out by a government that wants some one else in their places.

Dr. Foreman

The D.P. is usually at first poor, in the nature of the case; a foreigner where he is, sometimes without even a native land to go back to, to say nothing of a home town. Perhaps the most tremendous uprooting of people in recent times has been in Korea, where war victims have had to move out by the million.

The Innocent With the Guilty

BUT THE story is not a new one. Back in Bible times many of the Hebrews became D.P.'s. After the downfall of Israel and Judah, thousands of Jews were taken to the country along the Euphrates and Tigris rivers, there to fend for themselves as best they could.

The Bible writers always looked on that experience as a punishment of the nation, and so it was. But the experience illustrates a number of things. One is that the innocent often suffer with the guilty.

Not all those who were forced into those long death-marches had been to blame for their country's wrong-doings.

D.P.'s Taking Root

ANOTHER thing to be noticed in the Bible story of these Hebrew D.P.'s is the way they took hold, wherever they were, and helped to build up the country and help themselves at the same time. They took root, in short, and even when later on their descendants were free to go "home," relatively few ever went back to Palestine.

From that time to this, the Jews have been scattered over the wide world, living (where it has been possible) as local citizens of whatever lands they call their own. We can still read Jeremiah's letter (ch. 29) to the D.P.'s from Judah, urging them to buy land, to lay out vineyards and plan houses and generally make themselves at home in Babylon.

We read of an Ezekiel, owning a home and settling down in Babylonia. We find Daniel the boy as a page in the royal household of Nebuchadnezzar, and as a man rising to prominence and power.

D.P.'s In American History

SO it has often been since. The United States alone owes a great deal to D.P.'s. The famous statue of Liberty is a welcome-sign to such people. The Pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower were D.P.'s, already twice uprooted.

Revolutionary troubles in Europe a hundred years ago brought to America shores Carl Schurz, for example, a fugitive from then police of two countries because he was a revolutionist; here in America becoming a top success in many fields; general of the army, minister to Spain, Secretary of the Interior, prosperous business executive, editor of great city newspapers, writer and orator of international fame.

So it may be in our time, that as God has before now brought good out of evil, he may in our troubled world bring even from the cruelties of deportation and homelessness again new understandings, fresh beginning, and an interweaving of many strands of humanity into a stronger fabric than before.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Never Buy A Child's Love

By Lawrence Gould

Should you "bribe" a child to kiss you?

Answer: Not unless you want to make a little hypocrite of him by teaching him that he can get things he wants by pretending an affection which he does not feel at the moment, or that he can get you "in his power" by refusing. A child should know that you like him to kiss you when he wants to, but you should no more demand or coax for his love than you should force yours on him. He cannot help loving you because he needs you so much, but the more spontaneous his love remains, the more real and satisfying it will be to him and to you.

keep jobs. Thirty-seven out of fifty-six patients treated "were salvaged through psychiatry and productively employed by war or essential industries." In one case "we kept a schizophrenic man employed for a year after his wife refused the recommended commitment."

Do psychiatrists "go after" patients?

Answer: No profession is entirely free from dishonest practitioners, but most reputable psychiatrists and mental hospitals have more patients than they know what to do with and have neither time nor inclination to try actively to get more. The person who believes that the psychiatrists are "on his trail" and will "put him away" if he is not careful is probably suffering from delusions of persecution. He is secretly afraid that a psychiatrist might unmask him to himself and force him to give up the false notions about himself and his neighbors which unconsciously are such a comfort to him.

Can psychiatry make fewer "unemployables"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Robert V. Seliger of the Henry Phipps Psychiatric Clinic, Baltimore. The experience of the Clinic during World War II showed that in a time of manpower shortage, short-term psychiatric treatment could enable men and women who would normally be considered unemployable to get and

KEEPING HEALTHY

Bad Posture Affects Health, Looks

By Dr. James W. Barton

A RECENT NEWSPAPER STORY told of a young bandit who entered a drugstore and while being served, quietly pointed a revolver at the proprietor and demanded the contents of the till. The druggist handed it over and the bandit quietly left the store. During this whole procedure two messenger boys lay on the floor reading the comics and were so intent thereon that they saw or heard nothing of the holdup and theft.

While this story illustrates primarily the boys' complete absorption in the reading of the comics, it touches on another point in which parents should be greatly interested, that is, that keeping the body in the same position for long periods of time can affect the shape and growth of the body.

In the Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. Jean Macnamara (Melbourne) mentions two basic principles which are helpful in viewing this problem in young persons: (1) The form of any living, growing thing is determined by inheritance, nutrition and position habitually assumed; (2) habitual position is most potent in altering the line of growth from that which was expected by inheritance in early life during periods of rapid growth and when nutrition is poor. Approximately this would be from ages of 9 or 10 to the teen ages.

A favorite position of children when lying face down to read is to rest the weight of the head on the palm of the hand. Thus weight is transmitted through the forearm to the elbow which rests on the floor or bed. The palm is pressed firmly against the bone of the cheek. This position causes a distortion of one half of the upper jaw—the dental condition known as crossed bite.

In addition to causing a deformity of the teeth and face, it can easily be seen how this position, with head held high, leads to curvature forward of the lower part of the spine or "sway back" as it is popularly called. Sway back in children very often persists into manhood and womanhood, making necessary snug fitting corsets for women.

OUTLAW GUNS

BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR:
The border town of Mesa Verde seething with plots and counter-plots, all hinging on the location of a store of munitions hidden by Derek Bartell. Archie Scott, a government agent who is supposed to meet Dan Frazer, also an agent, and tell him the location of the cache, is fatally shot just as the two are about to get together. Scott whispers two words: "The bullet." Frazer picks up Scott's gun and goes out into the street. In his search for the murderer, Frazer approaches Bartell's store. He sees a man outside aiming a gun through the window. Frazer shoots first and kills the man, Vince Gale, who was attempting to murder Helen Bartell.

CHAPTER VII

"If it happened," the deputy snapped. "How do we know you ain't makin' up the whole yarn? How do we know it didn't happen the other way around? Maybe you was the bushwhacker and it was Gale who busted in on the game. Maybe you killed him when he caught you at it."

Helen Bartell uttered a little cry of disbelief, but it was smothered by the ominous murmur from the cramped men in the alley. Frazer forced a laugh. "You're letting your imagination run away with you, brother," he scoffed. "Just take a peek at what happened? How many shots were fired?"

"Two," somebody said. "I heard 'em plain."

"Good," Frazer approved. "How far apart did they come?"

"Right together," the man replied swiftly. "If they'd been any closer it woulda sounded like one."

Bartell Asks Frazer Inside for a Talk

"Just two shots," he repeated. "And one of them killed this hombre. He was shot through from the left side under the arm. So it wasn't his own bullet that killed him. Which means he..."

"Not so fast," Delaplane snapped. "You ain't provin' you didn't fire the other slug too."

"Oh, yes I am. I showed you where my bullet went and witnesses have said that the two shots came right together, too close together to have been fired from the same gun. So I didn't fire the other one. Now take a look at Gale's gun."

He stooped to pick up the six-gun which still lay in the alley. Flicking open the cylinder he held it up to the light of the window. "One shot fired, see? Could that slug have gone anywhere except into the Bartell store?"

Both Emery and Bartell appeared just as the men filed out of the alley with their lifeless burden. Once more the story had to be told, and this time there was light enough for Frazer to watch its effect on the faces of some of the listeners. The most startling expression was that of Derek Bartell. The gleam of fanaticism had been in the man's black eyes when he arrived, but as he heard the story of his daughter's narrow escape the gleam changed to one of fear. Twice he asked to have parts of the yarn repeated, as though he had trouble in accepting the testimony. Finally, however, he seemed convinced of Vince Gale's guilt.

"Thanks, young man," he said briefly. "Won't you come in a few minutes? I'd like to talk to you alone."

When the store was closed, Bartell led the way to comfortable living quarters on the upper floor. The girl had preceded them and was setting out drinks and cigars when the two men arrived. Frazer had been wondering whether her father intended to include her in the proposed talk, and he quickly understood that such was the case. Evidently she expected to be treated as one of the firm. Which brought up another thought. Was Helen Bartell a party to the filibustering plans?

Finally it was the girl who jogged him bluntly. "Come, father," she said, her voice quite firm. "It's fairly evident that you asked Mr. Frazer up here for some purpose. Stop beating around the bush and tell him what's on your mind."

He braced himself visibly and turned directly to Frazer. "Do I understand that you have come to Mesa Verde in search of a job?" Frazer nodded. "You might call it that," he admitted.

"Then here it is," Bartell seemed relieved that he had taken the plunge. "Any hour now fighting may break out below the border. For years there has been trouble with the organized bandit gangs which infest the territory, and that trouble has been increased by the restless Yaquis. Some of us have foreseen this day and have planned against it, preparing for the moment when something will have to be done as a matter of self-protection. Neither the Mexican government nor our own will make any real effort to protect our lives or our property, so we have taken steps to defend ourselves. We are ready."

Frazer Believes Gale Feared Recognition

of this situation. After what has happened today I am satisfied that some of the men we have trusted are out to betray us. Gale, for example. I trusted him—and he repays me by trying to murder my daughter. Do you know why?"

Frazer nodded. "I think so. He was one of the men who conducted that hold-up and murder this afternoon. He was afraid he had been recognized by your daughter—who had surprised them by being on the stagecoach. He decided to kill her in order to keep from being exposed."

Bartell seemed to gain in confidence as he continued, "So I am hounded by treachery. I must depend on someone I can trust, or the

"It's fairly evident that you asked Mr. Frazer up here for some purpose. Stop beating around the bush."

"We could fight open enemies," the older man said, rather petulantly, "but we can't fight the sort of treachery which I fear is a part whole cause is lost. I think I can trust you, young man."

"You know nothing about me," he told Bartell. "Maybe I'm not..."

"You're as safe as anyone," Bartell interrupted bitterly. "You're a stranger in Mesa Verde, so it's a fair assumption that you're not in the employ of any of these thieving bands who have risen to hamper our purposes. A stranger is a better bet than an acquaintance who has sold out to the enemy."

"All right," Frazer shrugged, avoiding the girl's eyes. "You have my promise that I'll work for your best interests—and the best interests of the country. That's as far as I can go." This time he caught the girl's puzzled glance and wondered whether she understood his cryptic statement about her father's best interests.

Evidently Bartell misunderstood completely, for he nodded with some eagerness. "That's enough for me," he declared. "Now let's get down to cases. How much do you know of the situation here?"

"I've heard a lot of talk," Frazer replied. "It seems there's trouble in the Sierra Madre region. American miners have worked into the area and have found traces of profitable copper. The trouble is that they can't work the mines because they're hampered by the raiding Yaquis and the bandit armies who roam through the mountains."

"So you have planned to take control. You have gathered together a quantity of munitions and are ready to step in when the proper moment comes. Rumor is not clear on that point. I don't know whether a Yaqui insurrection will be the signal for armed intervention or whether another scheme is to be used. At any rate you are planning to seize control of a large part of the province of Sonora."

"That's entirely correct," he said worriedly. "Too correct for comfort. If a stranger in town can learn so much from gossip in a few hours it would appear that someone has been doing entirely too much talking."

"No trouble to learn that much," Frazer told him. "I've even heard more—only this part I don't imagine you'll like very much. The talk is that your crowd is expecting to get the support of a certain Mexican politician who will start a full scale rebellion as soon as you turn over the necessary arms to him. His soldiers and your volunteers will oust the regular Mexican authorities and set up an independent state that will apply for admission into the United States. Isn't that the plan?"

"The part you won't like is the talk that your Mexican friend is all set to sell you down the river. Once he gets his paws on the shoot-in' irons he's ready to give you the old heave-ho and set up in business for himself."

Bartell and Frazer Continue Their Talk

There was something like fright in those intense dark eyes of the stout man. "Where did you pick up these fantastic yarns?" he demanded, trying to hide his uneasiness under a show of brisk unbelief.

Frazer shrugged. "A man only has to use his ears. I was curious about that murder this afternoon and it all seemed to tie up. So I listened."

"What? Where does the murder fit into this business?"

Frazer settled himself a little more comfortably in the big chair he had appropriated, aware that Helen Bartell was watching tensely. Apparently the girl was learning something she had not even suspected before. The knowledge pleased him and he selected his words carefully, trying to make a double impression. "The talk is that the government has sent out a man to stop this whole show. Somebody got the government man before he could get to Mesa Verde and find just what was happening here."

For a moment Frazer was afraid Bartell was going to explode. His face grew redder as the fear grew in his eyes. He was beginning to understand the enormity of the thing which had grown out of his planning, but the stubborn streak in him was keeping him from recognizing his own responsibility. He sputtered a couple of times, but whatever he might have said was prevented by a hail from the street below. A fist thundered on the door of the store and a man's deep voice yelled, "Hey, Bartell! Better get down here pronto. There's hell to pay. Shake it up!"

The effect on the storekeeper was startling. He jumped out of his chair and grabbed his hat as he leaped for the stairway. Frazer tried to halt him with a question, but the stout man did not even turn to reply. There was only the clatter of boot heels on the stairs and the sound of a door slamming.

Frazer turned to find the girl's dark eyes upon him, the trouble in them frank and unhidden. "How much of that did you make up?" she asked bluntly.

"None of it," he replied. "I'm afraid I didn't even get around to some of the worst features."

Frazer was halfway down to the raked store when he heard the quick patter of footsteps behind him. "Wait," Helen Bartell called, a little breathlessly. "You'll stumble down there in the dark. Let me show you."

He obeyed, a trifle impatiently. It was beginning to dawn upon him that he had fumbled a golden opportunity. Instead of pumping Derek Bartell while the man was emotionally upset he had outsmarted himself, doing all the talking and learning practically nothing in return. Now there had been a break of some sort. It might mean that Bartell would be more careful in the future and would refuse to talk.

"Do you think my father is in danger?" she asked.

"No more than you," he retorted dryly. "He's dealing with some pretty slippery crooks, but there has been no indication that anyone plans to kill him. Which is more than I can say in your case."

Livestock Accidents Cost Farmers Millions Annual Bruising Loss Above $30 Million Mark

Livestock farmers could increase their incomes by guarding against accident and bruising of animals which would help reduce the enormous annual meat loss currently soaring above the $30 million mark, industry leaders advise.

A recent report of hog carcass studies revealed that 46 per cent of bruises found occurred on farms before and in the process of loading for shipment to market, and the further observation that 42 per cent was caused by canes, whips and clubs.

Steel ramp-chutes such as the one shown above ease the job of loading live stock. The ramp provides safe footing for the animals and greatly reduces the possibility of accidents.

In a move to check the huge monetary loss, use of prodders was banned recently at the stock yards in Chicago where much of the study was made by the National Live Stock Loss Prevention Board.

The report pointed out that a great decrease in bruising could be affected by proper training of live stock handlers, and also if shippers would guard against overloading of trucks and rail cars to insure animals riding comfortably and safely to market.

In a cattle bruise study made of 7,116 head selected at random, a similar loss to that in the hog survey was revealed.

Truck Patch Reserves Called to Active Duty

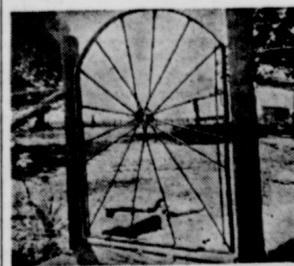

The U.S. department of agriculture is encouraging Americans to plant "liberty" gardens as a part of the national and civil defense program.

Officially called the "Garden and Food Preservation Program," the campaign puts it up to citizens in 1951 to carry on horticulturally in the best traditions of World War II's victory gardens and the war gardens of 1917-18.

In 1917 it was estimated that the nation's back yard and vacant-lot gardeners harvested crops valued at some $350,000,000. It was a record for the time, but easily broken by the victory sowers of the last war. In 1943 some 20 million vegetable gardeners—an estimated six million more than in the prewar year of 1941—produced about eight million tons of food, enough to fill 160,000 freight cars.

The agriculture department pointed out that fresh home-grown vegetables improve the nation's diet, benefiting both health and morale, and — no mean consideration in these times — cut down the cost of living.

Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE — NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "rushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

National Farm Safety Week Scheduled for July 22-28

If farm residents adopt safe practices throughout 1951, accidents may not kill an average of 47 farm people every day as they are now doing.

This will mean an important saving of America's manpower and production, especially vital now in view of the national emergency.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, recently urged this method of strengthening America's defense measures in announcing that the eighth annual National Farm Safety Week will be observed July 22-28.

"The purpose of this week is to encourage all farm people to adopt safe practices on the farm and in all phases of farm life the year around," Mr. Dearborn said.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmer's Union, the National Grange, the Farm Equipment Institute and many other organizations interested in farm life and agriculture have joined with the council and the U.S. department of agriculture in promoting the observance of National Farm Safety Week.

American Farmers Own 91 Billion Dollar Plant

The family economics bureau of the Northwestern National Life Insurance reports American farmers now own 91 billion dollars worth of land, buildings, live stock and equipment.

This gigantic food "factory" turned out approximately 30 billion dollars worth of produce in 1950, or a third of the "plant" itself. In 1900 and even in 1919, American agriculture produced only a sixth of its own physical value in a year. Even in prosperous 1929 it produced a little less than one-fourth of its "plant" value, according to the study.

The average farm today is a third bigger, comprising 195 acres of land, as against an average of 146 acres in 1900 and 145 in 1925. Annual net income per farm has climbed from $350 in 1900 to an estimated $2,225 in 1950.

The American farmer has accomplished these gains through a 900 per cent increase in his investment in tools and machinery and by better methods, better seed, better livestock, and more fertilizer.

CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS Admiral Forrest Sherman

A year ago, on the occasion of the first celebration of Armed Forces Day, we honored the concept of unification of the fighting services. Now that concept has been tested in combat, and the team further welded by battle. Today let us, as Americans, honor the American fighting man. For it is he—the Soldier, the Sailor, the Airman, the Marine—who has fought to preserve freedom. It is his valor that has given renewed hope to the free world that by working together in discipline and faith our ideals of freedom will always prevail.

Electrification Pays Off for Average Farm Production Increased 51 Per Cent in Seven Years

Within seven years electricity on an average farm can increase by more than 51 per cent the money earned per hour of productive labor—that's the lesson learned from a practical electrification experiment on the Joseph Motz farm near West Farmington, Ohio.

Since 1944, when electric power first reached the 262-acre farm, accurate records have been kept of the farm's production and progress. It's all part of a test program initiated by Westinghouse in cooperation with the Ohio Public Service Company.

Joseph Motz (above), used electrification to increase profits on his farm 51 per cent during the past seven years.

No "cude ranch" affair, the experiment was carried out under conditions identical to those faced by the average farmer. Mr. Motz has purchased new electrical equipment at retail prices, using only the profits from the farm's operation to do it.

Here are the facts:

In 1944, the Motz farm returned to the farmer 66 cents for each hour of work he put into the various productive enterprises. By 1950, this return had increased to $1.17 for each hour of work. Even eliminating the effect of the increase in farm prices from 1944 to 1950, the return per hour was up more 51 per cent.

Luncheons of Distinction May Be Prepared Easily Around Seasonal Foods

WHEN YOU'RE entertaining, the foods need not be elaborate to make a big hit. If they're well-prepared and attractively served, you may be certain to create the right impression.

Using seasonal foods and taking full advantage of their freshness and color will lend a distinction and elegance which is hard to achieve when you work with out-of-season produce.

Fresh summer greens, pink and red, with a gay touch of yellow are now at their height, and they can be brought to the table at their best. Plan your special luncheons around foods which feature these colors and you'll receive compliments galore on even the simplest fare.

FOR EXAMPLE, sandwiches of the double-decker type teamed with an attractive salad of pineapple and cherries and a Pineapple Torte gives you color and tasty foods at the same time.

Double-Decker Sandwiches
(Serves 8)

- 2 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 tablespoon pickle relish
- 1-2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- Salt and pepper
- 24 slices bread, crusts removed
- 8 slices ham
- 8 lettuce leaves
- 8 slices tomato
- 16 stuffed olives
- 8 radishes

Combine eggs, relish and mayonnaise; season with salt and pepper. Spread 8 slices buttered bread and top each with a second slice of bread, buttered on both sides. Place slice of ham and lettuce leaf on each. Top with a third slice of bread buttered on one side. Garnish with tomato slice, stuffed olive and radish rose.

*Pineapple Cherry Salad
(Serves 8)

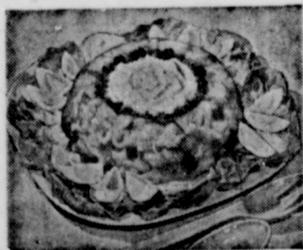

- 2 packages lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 pint soured cream
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
- 1/2 cup dark, pitted cherries
- 1/2 cup slivered blanched almonds

Salad Greens
Mayonnaise
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Cool. When mixture is slightly thickened, fold in soured cream, salt, pineapple, cherries and almonds. Turn into individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens and garnish with mayonnaise.

*Peach Shortcake
(Serves 8)

- 2 cups cake flour
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 3 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1/2 teaspoon soda
  - 1/4 cup sugar
  - 1/2 cup shortening
  - 1/2 cup buttermilk or sour milk
  - 3 cups sliced, fresh peaches
  - 1/4 to 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- Sift flour with salt, baking powder, soda and 1/4 cup sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles

Chunks of lobster combined with celery and cucumber are combined with chicken-flavored gelatin to make a cool but substantial salad for an elegant hot weather luncheon. To serve, the salad is laced with mayonnaise, greens and hard-cooked eggs.

Pear Sundae with Chocolate-Mint sauce is a flavor innovation which is bound to please the most discriminating taste. This type of dessert satisfies several types of tastes for dessert since it includes fruit, ice cream and sauce.

coarse crumbs. Add buttermilk. Mix just until dough follows fork around the bowl. Pat out in greased 9-inch round pan. Bake in a hot (425°) oven for 20 minutes. Split hot shortcake. Fill and top with sliced peaches and sprinkle with remaining sugar and cinnamon. Serve with cream, plain or whipped. Note: To sour milk, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar to 1/2 cup sweet milk.

ANOTHER DISTINCTIVE luncheon features hot soup with a chilly salad of lobster. It ends on a pleasant note with a Pear Sundae served with Chocolate - Mint Sauce.

*Clam Mongole
(Serves 8)

- 1 can condensed pea soup
- 1 can condensed tomato soup
- 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1 can minced clams
- 2 cups light cream
- Parsley

Combine soups, minced clams and cream. Heat thoroughly and simmer for 5 minutes. Serve immediately with 3 small sprigs of parsley.

Lobster Salad
(Serves 6-8)

- 2 cans rock lobster
- 1 1/2 cups chopped cucumber
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup French dressing
- 2 packages unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 3 chicken bouillon cubes
- 3 cups boiling water
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Mayonnaise

Cut lobster in chunks; combine with cucumber and celery. Pour French dressing over this mixture and allow to stand while preparing the remainder of the salad. Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water and add to gelatin. Allow to cool. When gelatin mixture begins to set, add pimiento, onion and salt to lobster mixture. Pour into ring mold which has been rinsed with cold water. Set in refrigerator until firm. To serve, unmold on a bed of lettuce and fill center with mayonnaise. Garnish with hard-cooked eggs, sliced or quartered, and parsley.

IF YOU PREFER a plain salad, you'll like this type which is just a bit simpler:

Lobster-Caper Salad
(Serves 6)

- 2 6-ounce cans lobster
- 1 cup thinly sliced celery
- 2-3 tablespoons French dressing
- Salt and pepper
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- Capers

Combine lobster meat and celery and French dressing. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Chill and drain. Serve topped with mayonnaise and capers. Garnish with lime or lemon wedges, ripe olives and deviled eggs.

Liquefied Petroleum Gas Popular Farm Fuel System Gives Farmer Independent Fuel Supply

The days of the wood stove and coal heating of the nation's farm houses, brooders and barns is almost a thing of the past. Newer, cleaner, and more efficient methods are being adopted at an unprecedented rate.

D. G. Nelson, who operates a 20-acre poultry feed and medicine research farm near Coral, Ill., is an example of what the American farmer is doing about heating.

He found that temperature variances of 4 to 5 degrees in brooder tests completely upset his experiments. After tests with three fuels, he settled on liquefied petroleum gas as the most efficient and inexpensive for his particular operation.

Convinced of the fuel's efficiency, he installed a supply tank large enough for house heating, water heating and cooking. The system also heats two 500-chick brooders. A new 1,700-square-foot laboratory now under construction will be connected to the system.

Nelson is particularly pleased with the dependability of the system that gives him an independent fuel supply right on the farm.
