Ray Norman Named Support Staff Recipient

Ray Norman, custodian at Mary De Shazo Elementary School is the January recipient of the MISD Support Staff of the Month Award. Norman, a native of Lake Livingston, is the son of Jime and Elle Weise Norman of Muleshoe. His mother is also an employee of MISD, as a food service employee in the Dillman Elementary cafeteria.

Norman moved to Muleshoe in 1989, and started working as a custodian at Mary DeShazo in August 1990.

In making the presentation, Moore said, "He was nominated for this award by 11 of his peers." He was cited for doing an excellent job, always being friendly, and having a special relationship with the students.

Norman said, "Working for Muleshoe schools has been a great experience. I love working for the school. The kids are great. Mary DeShazo has a great staff to work for."

Cindy Purdy, School Board President said, "We are proud to bestow this recognition on this worthy employee."

Mrs. Purdy called the regular school board meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. Monday night. Following the invocation and recognition of guest, Mrs. Purdy presented a certificate to Norman, recipient of the January MISD Support Staff Award.

Minutes of the public hearing held December 16 and the regular meeting, also held December 16, were approved as read.

The board voted to participate in the Lone Star Investment Pool. In speaking of the Lone Star Investment Pool, Moore stated they were a lot like Cash Management. He also stated that he had talked with Jerry Landrum and was told that they paid quite a bit higher interest.

A lengthy discussion was held on the process of evaluating the superintendent.

Mrs. Purdy informed the board of a South Plains Board meeting scheduled for 6:30 p.m. January 23.

April 20 will be the make-up (bad weather) day. It will be the Monday following Easter.

It was also reported that a reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday for Randy Adair and his family at the Old Depot. The Booster Club will be hosting the reception.

A financial workshop has been scheduled February 15 with all area superintendents invited. There will be four-45 minute sessions.

Supt. Moore also reported that he was going to nominate Al Bishop for 'Outstanding Principal.' Buck Johnson, assistant superintendent of operations, reported that he had received bids from eight different firms for cafeteria food. "I have good feelings on where we are headed in purchasing food," Johnson said. "We will get the same quality of food and still save the district about $1600."

Assistant Superintendent for Instruction, Elizabeth Watson informed the group that the annual Spelling Bee has been scheduled for March 5. She also spoke to the board members about the Inservice day Thursday, January 23 at 1:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

Mrs. Watson also passed out booklets "Look To the Future" What is Vocational Education?

The booklet gave the job outlook for vocational education graduates and listed the variety of vocational classes and programs to prepare students to enter the work force and/or to further their education through college or post-secondary vocational training, being offered in Muleshoe.

Biggest Little Banquet In Texas, March 6

In a press conference held Wednesday morning Robert Montgomery, president of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, read the following press release:

We are pleased to announce that the biggest little banquet in Texas will be held Friday, March 6th at the Bailey County Coliseum. The main speaker for this prestigious event will be the Honorable Ann Richards, Governor of the great state of Texas. This is the first time ever a governor has visited in Muleshoe and we will honor Governor Richards at this event.

This annual banquet, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, also honors local leaders by recognizing employee and merchant of the year, man and woman of the year, and farm family of the year. Several state dignitaries that have already agreed to participate in the event include Senator Teel Bivins, Senator John Montford and State Representative Pete Laney and Jim Rudd. Other state and national leaders are being invited but have not yet confirmed attendance to date.

Governor Ann Richards

The Muleshoe activities committee and the board of directors for the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture have worked cooperatively on this gala event which will honor local citizens and state leaders.

Montgomery stated that this was all due to the hard work of Carolyn Johnson, Chamber manager; Harvey Bass of the MAC committee; and Bernie Claunch, Bailey County Commissioners.

"This is just an example of people pulling together," said Mayor Darrell Turner.

"The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture and the MAC committee are co-sponsoring the banquet, but I want you to know this is not just our banquet but a community banquet," said Harvey Bass. "Keith Hicks from Lazbuddie ask about the Lazbuddie community helping with the banquet, stating that they were part of Muleshoe. I told them we would be glad to have them."

"The Chamber of Commerce manager and president are doing a beautiful job," but they could not do it alone they need everyone," Bass continued.

Muleshoe Don't Quit, Muleshoe is always doing something!

Seven Inch Snowfall Covers Area

Area residents woke to a blanket of snow Monday morning. Seven inches of snow fell in the Muleshoe area late Sunday, accompanied by wind causing some drifting. The storm also closed schools and the National Weather Service issued a hazardous driving warning Sunday night.

Area residents woke Sunday morning to sunshine and what looked like the promise of a beautiful day. Shortly after noon a strong upper-level storm system and cold front that had been in southwestern New Mexico most of the weekend hit, spurring a mixture of rain and snow, later turning to snow.

ASCS Schedules Disaster Assistance Program Here

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will administer a crop disaster assistance program to compensate eligible producers for crop losses caused by drought, flood, and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991.

"To be eligible, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent," said county ASCS official Danny Noble. "Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent."

Program applications may be filed from February 3 through March 13.

The 1990-91 crop disaster program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, extra long staple cotton, and rice; nonparticipating program crops; peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, sugarcane and tobacco; and all commercial nonprogram crops.

Noble said producers who intend to file should begin to assemble their records now, so they will be ready when the program opens. He said that farmers will receive a special mailing with specific information on the program this month. "If a producer does not receive the disaster program information in the mail by February 3, he or she should call the county ASCS office."

Noble explained that a producer may not file on one crop on a farm for one year and a different crop on the same farm for the other. "However, the producer may request benefits for 1990 on one farm and for 1991 on another farm."

The ASCS official said disaster payments would be computed according to the 1990 Farm Senator Bivins' announcement will take place at the airport.

Navy Ensign Melissa A. Martel, daughter of Mary A. Martin of Muleshoe was recently commissioned upon graduation from the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) Program.

During each undergraduate semester at Texas Technical University, Lubbock, officer candidates complete naval science courses as well as a full academic schedule that led to a degree. These courses, combined with annual summer training aboard ships and shore installations, served to prepare NROTC graduates for the duties and responsibilities of a commissioned officer.

delivered to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice Monday afternoon, January 13. Kenneth Henry left Monday afternoon delivering the package in person.

Many hours have been spent meeting with the county commissioners, City Council, school administrators, hospitals, utility companies as well as individuals getting this proposal together. The proposal included incentives offered and resources available to support the prison.

Since September 1991, the entire community has pulled together in an effort to get a minimum medium prison located here.

In September a press conference was held and Jay Messenger, speaking for the Industrial Foundation, announced their intention to pursue the location of a minimum medium security prison site adjacent to Muleshoe.

At that time, Messenger stated that a prison facility would be built within a 60 mile radius of Muleshoe.

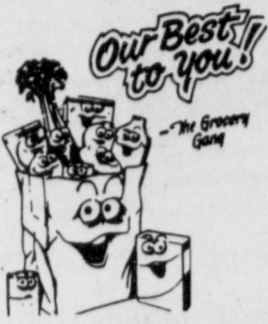

"This is one industry that won't be here a year or two and gone, it will be here to stay," Messenger stated. "The Foundation Board sites the positive economic impact and the overpowering support of the community as some of their reasons."

If awarded, this prison site would provide for 1,000 min-

Cattle Feeders Announce 25th Anniversary

In 1967, a fledgling industry gave "birth" to a new association. In the 25 years since, the "new kid on the block" grew, along with the industry it represents, into one of the most dynamic and powerful forces in animal agriculture--The Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA).

"This 'new kid on the block' is now a hardened veteran and the cattle feeding industry has matured into a solid economic force," said TCFA President Joe Hathoot. "Now, the TCFA three-state area of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico produces about 25% of the nation's fed beef and contributes $14 billion to the economy."

But Hathoot said it hasn't always been that way. Speaking during a news conference in Amarillo to kick off TCFA's 25th Anniversary year, Hathoot looked back on the growth the industry has enjoyed.

"Back in 1967, when TCFA was formed, Texas wasn't even considered a major cattle feeding state. We marketed only 1.6 million fed cattle," he said. "In 1991, Texas marketed 5 million fed cattle, making it one of the largest cattle feeding states in the nation."

When you add the fed cattle production in Oklahoma and New Mexico, the total comes to around 6 million--about 25% of the fed beef produced in the United States."

When discussing economic impact, Hathoot said he often finds it easier to look at the impact of just one feedyard.

"A typical feedyard in the TCFA area has about 20,000 head capacity. It will employ about 27 people directly. And, by the time the feedyard buys all the goods and services it needs to operate, it will generate enough economic activity to provide jobs for another 208 people."

According to Hathoot, that can be a significant economic base to the many small and medium-sized communities throughout TCFA Cattle Feeding Country that are home to feedyards. "Particularly so when you have several feedyards that help make up the economic base of a community," he said.

Included in the many jobs that a feedyard generates are truck drivers, packing plant employees, computer sales and support, industrial machinery parts and manufacturing and financing, to name a few.

"Take truck drivers, for instance," Hathoot said. "A single 20,000-head feedyard will require more than 2,300 truckloads of grain a year--that means about six loads of grain a day roll into a feedyard. An additional 480 loads of feeder cattle and 880 loads of fed cattle are hauled a year, so you can see a single feedyard alone can keep a trucking company busy."

Hathoot, however, takes particular pride in the significant role that cattle feeders play in feeding a hungry world. "More importantly, a single 20,000 head feedyard will produce enough beef to feed 234,000 people for a whole year--that's a community about one and a half times the size of Amarillo."

Lazbuddie's Homemakers had their Christmas party December 7 with 11 members and their families attending. The group enjoyed delicious food. After dinner, the members had a gift exchange. Santa also made a visit to the children with a gift for each.

January 7 the Homemakers had a business meeting and planned ladies' night out.

Chandra Sanchez showed the members how to make baskets from twisted paper. After refreshments, the group was dismissed.

Bailey courthouse architect is doing his bit in jail. This news item about a man well known to many Bailey County citizens, appeared in a recent issue of the Amarillo Daily Globe: Iron bars don't prevent Leslie C. Brown, ex-U.S. Marine, of World War I, from doing his bit for his country's war effort. Brown, 46 years old, in the Hale County jail awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary where he is sentenced to serve two years on a plea of guilty to a forgery charge, is painting name plated and turning the money from their sale over to the Red Cross. A native Texan, he was schooled as an architect and drew the plans of the Bailey County courthouse at Muleshoe. In addition to making the name plates during the past two months, Brown has painted and decorated the interior of the Hale County jail.

Earl C. Eubanks, many years ago a banker in Muleshoe, passed away in Hereford January 10. Mr. Eubanks was president of the old Blackwater Valley State Bank here for several years, about 1923, and was well known to many old time residents of this section. He moved to Hereford after selling his interest in the bank here and was in the auditing and tax business.

He is survived by his wife. Funeral services were from the First Methodist Church in Hereford Friday, January 11 and interment was in Princeton, Missouri.

Collecting items from foreign countries brings the story of many customs and odd articles into the home of Mrs. Byron Griffith. One of her favorite items and truly one of beauty and novelty, is a coffee table from Ghana sent to her by her niece, Marjorie Stephens who is a Baptist missionary in Nigeria.

The table is constructed of solid mahogany and two hand carved elephants serve as the table base. Their tusks are ivory. Ghana, located in West Africa on the Gulf of Guinea is known as the "elephant county" and was until 1957 called the "Gold Coast."

The small camel beside the table is from Jerusalem and is carved of olive wood. Bookends between the elephants are made from ebony wood and except for being handrubbed with the inside of the outer hull of coconut, is in its natural state. Most of the Africans polishing is done with the coconut.

Human Service Agency Announces Child Investigation

"Texas will take the lead in protecting victims of child abuse with the help of a $988,657 grant from the Children's Justice Act. The process of investigating and prosecuting child abuse, particularly sexual abuse, can often be as traumatic for the young victim as the actual violation. Funding from the grant will be used to develop projects that address this tough dilemma. Thousands of abused children will be helped as a result of these projects," Terry Trimble, Deputy Commissioner for Protective Services at the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) announced today. "This award will help respond directly to some of the basic problems of any child protective system: the continued retelling of the abuse nightmare by the child from multiple investigators, the length of time that some children stay in foster care, the lack of shared legal resources related to child abuse and neglect, and similar situations."

The funds will be distributed to several projects that share the common goal of improving the investigation and prosecution of child abuse, particularly child sexual abuse, and reducing the trauma that children experience in their contact with the legal system. Major projects that will receive grant funding include:

Children's advocacy centers--Children's advocacy centers allow a child abuse victim to communicate to a variety of agencies through one interview. This will improve the coordination of the civil and criminal legal systems to increase the effective handling of child abuse cases while reducing anxiety to children from exposure to these systems.

Litigation support for termination of parent rights cases--One reason children remain in foster care for extended periods of time is that the judicial handling of termination of parental rights cases in Texas often take several years. Grant money will be allocated to alleviate this situation through a litigation support project undertaken jointly with staff from the State Attorney General's Office.

Texas Legal Resource Center for Child Abuse and Neglect--This project, partially funded by the Criminal Justice Act grant, will address the following problems: the need by attorneys and judges involved in civil and criminal child abuse cases for legal, medical, psychological, and other information concerning child abuse and the need for coordination and communication among all individuals who are working on the various issues presented by child abuse cases but who are separated by the vast distances unique to Texas. The Texas Legal Resource Center is located in the University of Texas Law Library.

This is the second cycle of funding from a Criminal Justice Act grant that now totals $1,922,938 in awards to Texas. The grant is federally funded, originating from fines assessed federal offenders. A percentage of the money collected is dedicated to child crime victims. The grant was awarded to the State of Texas with DHS as the administrative agency. "The money must be used for programs, relating to the investigation and prosecution of child abuse cases. At DHS we are building bridges with other agencies that deal with child abuse through we hope to reduce the trauma of the situation as much as possible," Trimble said.

There were over 90,500 child abuse investigations conducted by DHS during FY 1991.

Sam Harlan Discusses Chemigation at Rotary

The Muleshoe chapter of Rotary met January 14 at noon in the Bailey County Civic Center with about 50 attending. Several visitors were introduced. Able Arguello led the pledge of allegiance and Bret McCasland gave the invocation. A Polio Plus drawing was held.

Terry Hutto led the singing and the chapter sweetheart played the piano.

Member Harvey Bass announced to the group that Governor Ann Richards will speak at the Chamber of Commerce Banquet now scheduled for sometime in March. This should boost our chances to get a prison located here, according to Bass.

"Things are going to get big here," Bass notes. "Our plans are made and the governor's office has confirmed the day here for Ann Richards." Nearly 1500 people are expected to attend the banquet.

Randy Field, president, introduced Sam Harlan who spoke to the group on the benefits of chemigation. Harlan notes that sometimes it is time consuming to set up a chemigation procedure for a particular agriculture problem that the farmer has. Harlan focused on the method as an interesting way to use less chemical in farming and reduce the cost of application. He plans to speak at the Texas irrigation conference set in Lubbock January 15. The meeting is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Irrigation Association. It will be a statewide meeting. Harlan's topic will be "The Grower's Experience with Chemigation."

Harlan notes that some chemicals just don't work well with chemigation. Harlan himself farms 650 acres of corn, 550 acres of cotton, running 10 irrigation circles. Harlan's operation makes use of three chemigation units and is located 4 miles northwest of Muleshoe. Sixty percent of his acreage is in Parmer County.

Chemigation is a process of injecting a chemical in irrigation water. The pump has two speeds. In fertilizing it is possible to inject 20 gallons of chemical per hour.

When herbicide are used with chemigation technique, 2 1/2 gallons per hour of herbicide can be injected.

It is necessary to co-ordinate the speed of the sprinkler with the speed of the pump. There is a new hose drop configuration. In this, the procedure is accomplished at a level of 3' off the ground.

The goal is to get the irrigation method right down on the ground, to lose less to evaporation this way. Chemigation is used in insecticide and herbicide applications also.

One advantage of chemigation is that there are no airplane costs for chemical application. One big disadvantage is that more management time is required. Whoever has chemigation in his ag operation handles chemicals more directly, so more precaution is needed also. A twenty dollar chemigation mask helps.

"We are looking for ways to protect our aquifer," Harlan says. "We want no spills at the site."

In answer to a question from Olan Burrows, Harlan commented that it is not necessary to have a computer to use the chemigation method.

Nick Bamert asked Harlan whether the chemicals he had used in the past are being approved for use with chemigation. Harlan noted the government regulations in these areas and said much money is being spent to get labels on chemicals.

This is a state owned facility, to be operated by the Texas Department of Corrections, and if located here will provide benefits for our area for many years to come.

Over the months, the optioning for 480 acres of land, 180 acres more than the minimum required bid, has been completed.

According to Messenger, the Texas Department of Criminal Justice are looking for an area that will benefit Texas in selecting the site. Messenger stated that the Industrial Foundation looked for ways to utilize the agricultural production here.

In a study completed by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice and Texas A&M University, they found that the Justice Division needs vegetable operations in the northern part of the state because of rains in south Texas that interfere with the growing season there. A study was made of all the vegetables grown and shipped from this area.

Adding more moisture, to the already wet fields, the snow hampered the cotton stripping one more time. A number of moduals are still in the fields soaking up more of the moisture. One farmer told the Journal that there was 50-60 gallons of water in each modual, causing it to take longer to gin, plus reducing the quality of the cotton.

state," Wilson said. "We are delighted to have one, and down the road, we may eventually get more. The only thing holding us back is money. The guns cost about $3,700 each."

Yields that could be obtained in the potato production were especially scrutinized. They found that it was possible to produce higher yields in this area.

One hundred and ten communities bid for the facility with about 70 communities submitting packets. Bidding will be conducted for 10 sites out of the 70.

Communities selected for these facilities will be notified in April. Until then we can only hope that the Industrial Foundation's packet will win their nod of approval.

Sales Tax Rebate Check Down

"January's local sales tax rebates showed a modest start for 1992, with payments being mailed to 933 cities totaling $85.5 million, or five percent more than last January's payments of $81.4 million," State Comptroller John Sharp said.

January payments to 106 Texas counties totaled $9.7 million, virtually identical to last January's payments.

"We have projected slow but steady economic growth for 1992, in Texas, despite the national recession, and retail sales should continue to show moderate improvement," Sharp said.

Muleshoe received a check totaling $13,510.68 down some 19.76 percent from $16,837.63 for this same period last year.

In Castro county, Dimmitt received a check for $14,094.92 as compared to last year's check of $29,077.74 for this same period last year, down some 51.53 percent.

Morton, in Cochran county, received a check for $3,582.76 for this period as compared to $4,524.90 for this same period last year, reflecting a decrease of 20.82 percent.

In Lamb county, Littlefield's share of the sales tax this year was $12,724.10 as compared to $15,557.74 for this same period last year, down some 18.21 percent.

Friona, in Parmer county, received a rebate check in the amount of $8,141.14 as compared to $7,987.15 for this same period last year, reflecting an increase of 1.93 percent.

The city of Houston received the state's largest payment for January, $13.5 million, an increase of 1.1 percent above last January's payment of $13.3 million. Dallas received the state's second largest payment, $8.3 million, an increase of almost three percent when compared to the $8.1 million the city received last January.

San Antonio received $4.9 million, the third largest payment in the state and an increase of 2.6 percent above last January's payment of $4.8 million. Austin followed with $3.7 million, a 2.3 percent increase above last January's $3.6 million and Fort Worth received $2.6 million, a decrease of almost three percent when compared to last January's payment of $2.7 million.

El Paso received $2.3 million, an increase of about nine percent compared to last January's $2.1 million payment.

Hospital districts in Baylor, Ector and Reeves counties were sent a combined total of $633,391, and city transit departments in El Paso and Laredo received a total of $1.3 million.

January's checks to cities, counties, hospital districts and city transit departments include taxes collected on November sales and reported in December by businesses filing monthly sales tax returns with the state. Businesses file either monthly, quarterly or annually, depending on the amount of sales tax they collect.

Shoppers pay the local sales taxes of up to two percent along with the state's 6 1/4 percent state sales tax when they make a taxable purchase. Merchants then send in the taxes to the Comptroller's Office with their tax returns. The state keeps its share and returns to cities, counties and other taxing entities their portion of the local sales tax.

Area voters must approve all local sales taxes at the polls. Most local governments use the money raised for services such as fire fighting, road maintenance and law enforcement. City sales taxes may also be used for local economic development and property tax reduction.

LUBBOCK, Friday, January 10, 1992

The announcement of preliminary information about the disaster assistance program for the 1990 and 1991 crops answers many of the questions producers have asked about the program.

USDA officials announced January 2 that sign-up for the disaster program would begin February 3 and continue through March 13. Sign-up will be conducted by the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

The disaster program, approved by President Bush, authorizes $995 million for assistance payments to producers with crop losses in either 1990 or 1991. Clarifying an often asked question, the preliminary announcement spells out what losses a producer may file on.

In general, the provisions say that a producer will select one year, either 1990 or 1991, for filing a claim on an individual farm. Producers are prohibited from filing on one crop on a farm for one year and then filing a second claim on a different crop on the same farm for the other year. The provisions do, however, allow a producer to request benefits on one farm for 1990 losses and on another farm for 1991 losses.

It is expected that the $995 million will be inadequate to cover all disaster claims. USDA has stated that after all claims have been filed they will be summarized and a nation-wide factor will be computed, prorating producer payments to match available funds.

The USDA announcement also listed April 16 as a possible date for producer payments to begin.

"We are very happy to see the announcement of these preliminary provisions concerning the disaster program," explains Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "The faster producers can find out how the program will be administered the faster they can get their claims filed and USDA can proceed with the necessary calculations to speed up the dispersal of producer payments."

Speculation about the size of this year's deficiency payment continues as producers anxiously wait to hear the final payment rate. The announcement of November's average price and marketings of upland cotton allows speculators to narrow the range of their estimates.

According to the preliminary figure for November, marketings jumped almost 600,000 bales to 2,524,000. Up from October's 1,926,000 bale level. The average monthly price, unfortunately, continued to slip and ended up at 61.2 cents per pound.

This increase in marketings combined with the decrease in the average price received by producers dropped the weighted average price received by producers to 64.6 cents. This November drop lowered the weighted average price a full penny from the 65.6 cent average computed through October.

The end result of the steady drop in the weighted average price over the past several months has been an equally steady increase in the projected size of this year's deficiency payment.

It is now believed that the deficiency payment will top out at about 9.5 cents per pound. A 9.5 cent total deficiency payment rate would mean that producers could expect to receive a final payment of about 5.5 cents per pound after subtracting the 4 cent advance payment.

Many producers are wondering how the recently passed disaster program will affect their deficiency payments. Producers need to be aware that by law they CANNOT receive a deficiency payment and a disaster payment on the same pound or bushel of an eligible crop. Answers and clarifications about how this rule will effect a producer's payments can be received from county ASCS offices.

Revised marketings and the cents per pound farm prices for January through July and preliminary numbers for August through November are included in the table below.

Symposium To Feature Management

Area farmers and ranchers are invited to attend a forage symposium on February 18 at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West, to learn new and improved techniques for year round management of native grasses, Old World Bluestems and sorghums found in the High and Rolling Plains area of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico. The symposium convenes at 8:30 a.m. with registration and exhibits.

Presenters will review many types of grasses found in the quad-states' region and will cover the major components of a comprehensive forage management system. Each speaker will incorporate adaptation considerations, elements of grazing and production management, haying considerations, expected cattle performance, and utilization of specific grasses in a total grazing system.

Phil Sims, a scientist with the Southern Plains Range Research Station in Woodward, Oklahoma, will highlight principles of managing Old World Bluestem beginning at 9:00 a.m.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher Bill Pinchak of Vernon will conduct a mid-morning session on managing native grasses following by Jerry Matches of Texas Tech University, Lubbock, who will address forage sorghum management.

The afternoon session begins at 1:30 p.m. when Dave Hutcheson will review supplements for native and improved pastures and outline cow/calf stocker considerations for area producers.

Extension economist Steve Amosson, Amarillo, will review profitability of grazing systems and TAEX range management specialist, J.F. Cadenhead, Vernon, will discuss techniques for brush control.

Carl Patrick, extension entomologist, Amarillo, will present information on managing pyrethroid resistant horn flies. Exhibits will be open until the symposium concludes at 4:00 p.m.

Cattle Feeders Introduce Environmental Notebook

In an effort to help cattle feeders continue their commitment to the environment, the Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA) has produced an Environmental Quality Assurance Notebook.

"This notebook is the latest in TCFA's efforts to help cattle feeders protect the environment," said TCFA President Joe Hathoot. "The notebook is a compilation of state and federal environmental laws, regulations and management practices that affect feedyards. By using this as a reference, a feedyard manager can help ensure his operation is environmentally sound."

TCFA unveiled its Environmental Quality Assurance notebook during a news conference announcing the 25th Anniversary celebration for TCFA.

"It's entirely appropriate that we're releasing our Environmental Quality Assurance Notebook as a way to announce our 25th Anniversary," Hathoot said. "Back in 1967, when TCFA was formed, environmental protection was the first project the Association undertook. One of the first things TCFA did was to help fund a research project on the environmental effects of manure. We've continued to emphasize environmental preservation throughout our 25 years, and will devote even more resources in the future to helping cattle feeders preserve and protect our environment."

In addition to releasing its environmental notebook, TCFA has other activities planned to commemorate its 25th Anniversary. "TCFA has a remarkable history for its short 25 years of existence," Hathoot said. "In an effort to keep that history alive, TCFA is producing a book that will chronicle the events that shaped the cattle feeding industry in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico and the association that represents it. We'll showcase the book to the public during our 1992 Convention, October 25-27 in Amarillo."

Also during the Convention, TCFA will recognize its 25 year members and describe the association's history in a multimedia presentation.

"For being only 25 years old, TCFA has accomplished a lot for its members," Hathoot said. "And we've helped nurture an industry that now is a major economic and political force. We're proud of our past accomplishments and look forward to the future with a lot of anticipation."

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS
 By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - The million dollar special session adjourned last week, and nobody could say for sure whether anything had been accomplished.

What is certain is that until a federal court speaks, the Texas primary election is now in chaos on several fronts:

- Candidates meeting the Jan. 10 filing deadline did so amid the uncertainty of unfinished boundary lines;
- Texas voters may not be balloting with the rest of the South in the March 12 Super Tuesday presidential primary; and
- The primary, whenever we finally get around to having it, may cost taxpayers an extra $1.4 million.

In the House, the end of an era came into sight when Speaker Gib Lewis announced he will not seek re-election, but told members he intends to remain presiding officer for another year.

Lewis, a conservative Fort Worth Democrat, faces trial on two misdemeanor ethics charges, but some insiders say he is tired of being hounded by liberals in his party.

The Gib Lewis Legacy
 Since 1982, flush with new seats, liberal Democrats have sought to organize the Texas House along party lines, like the U.S. Congress, in order to control it. But Lewis swept into the first of five terms in 1983, heir to the system of predecessor Billy Clayton which handed out a fair share of plums to Republican lawmakers.

Since then, the Legislature has increased expenditures and taxes despite Lewis' attempts at restraint.

In 1993, a new era begins in the Texas House, perhaps with Democrats sitting on one side of the aisle and Republicans on the other.

Senate Democrats Prevail
 In the Texas Senate, Democrats ran over their Republican colleagues and won approval of a redistricting plan that would preserve a Democratic majority in the Senate.

Last week, Attorney General Dan Morales was in Washington to plead with U.S. Justice Department officials to quickly accept the Senate plan.

"I remain hopeful and optimistic we're going to be able to keep the elections on time, March 10. A delay would have a negative impact," Morales said after meeting with officials.

The Senate plan must be "pre-cleared" by the federal agency even though it is identical to a plan approved by the Justice Department last year.

More Speaker Hopefuls
 One thing is certain, there will be no shortage of candidates to succeed Speaker Lewis.

As two more candidates jumped into the race, Capitol lobbyists moved to distance themselves from involvement in the campaign.

Reps. Sam Russell, D-Mount Pleasant, and Tom Uher, D-Bay City, said that they are officially candidates for the speakership.

The two lawmakers joined five other House members who have announced they will seek the post. The other candidates are Reps. Billy Clemons, D-Pollock; David Cain, D-Dallas; James Hury, D-Galveston; Pete Laney, D-Hale Center; and Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield.

Lawmakers and lobbyists predicted that the race for speaker will be a long battle that might not be settled until November's general election or the start of the next regular session in January 1993.

House Reforms Eyed
 One day after Lewis announced his retirement as speaker, a government watchdog group started campaigning to reform the chamber's rules and power structure.

Common Cause of Texas wants to make the House function more openly and democratically after the five-term speaker leaves office next year, said Mary Nell Mathis, state chair of the self-styled citizens lobby.

Electing the speaker by secret ballot is one of the reforms Common Cause is pushing. "This is the only secret vote Common Cause would ever support," Mathis said.

The group plans to mail letters to its 7,000 members to ask House candidates whether they will support reform of the House's operating rules.

After the filing deadline passes, the organization will send a questionnaire to candidates for the 150 House seats. They will be asked whether they back the reforms.

Other Highlights
 ■ Gov. Ann Richards became the first governor in 20 years to grant an executive reprieve. Johnny Frank Garrett was sentenced to die for raping and killing a 76-year-old nun in an Amarillo convent on Halloween 1981.

■ Texas Railroad Commissioners adopted a new system to set natural gas production allowables equal to the historic demand for gas from each field.

■ A citizen advisory committee recommended that certain sexually oriented businesses be prohibited from selling lottery tickets. However, the proposed ban would not cover adult bookstores and other legitimate businesses whose activities are protected by First Amendment free speech rights.
