Texas Farm Bureau Report

The president of the Texas Farm Bureau applauds the recent announcement by President Bush calling for a 90-day moratorium on new federal regulations, stating that it was time to "call a halt to this growing regulatory nightmare."

TFB President S.M. True of Plainview said issues like wetlands and the Endangered Species Act create problems for farmers and ranchers. He said now is the time to stem the onrush of these regulations.

"We commend President Bush for recognizing that we have a regulatory nightmare in this country, and for taking this action to suspend the creation of new federal constraints," True said.

The Plainview farmer noted that delegates at the American Farm Bureau convention in Kansas City recently reaffirmed the organization's position on regulatory reform.

"We restated our position that congress should lay down specific guidelines and restraints on the agencies that are to administer the laws and be given the power to adopt rules and regulations," True said.

AFBF policy further states that environmental impact statements have become "burdensome and costly and should be balanced by consideration of the cost benefit analysis of such proposed regulations."

True said much of the work done by federal agencies involves duplication and could be streamlined.

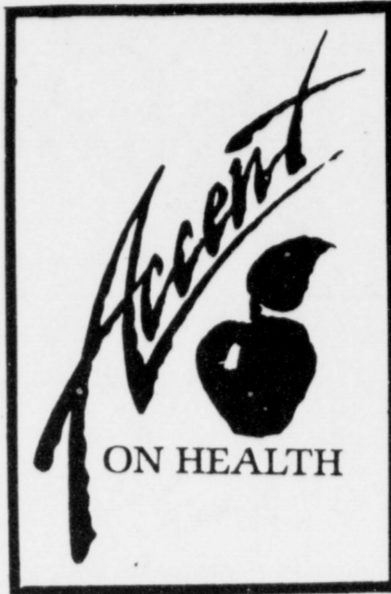

Noting that Bush has been committed to deregulation and less government since his days as vice president, True said the President's action clearly points out that "He wants to defuse this regulatory fiasco."

True also called upon members of Congress, including Texas' 27 U.S. Representatives and two Senators, to work with President Bush in addressing the regulatory problems.

You think things are hectic in your business? How would you like to be a publisher of atlases?

-Courier, Waterloo, Ia.

Although the main weather events of early winter this year have been record rains and flooding in parts of Texas, the danger of life-threatening cold should not be ignored. Officials at the Texas Department of Health (TDH) warn that even during comparatively mild winters, some cold weather-related deaths occur.

Last year, at least eight Texans died because of hyperthermia, severe loss of body heat, because of weather conditions.

Dr. Diane M. Simpson, TDH Associate Commissioner for Disease Prevention, said that while extreme or extended cold is dangerous to anyone, some people are more likely to suffer hypothermia than are others.

Small children are endangered because their bodies radiate heat faster than the bodies of adults. People who are sick, and those taking certain prescription drugs or alcohol may lack resistance to low temperatures. Homeless people who are unable to find temporary shelter also are at risk.

However, Dr. Simpson said that the group most susceptible to hypothermia is the elderly population. Death certificates at the TDH Bureau of Vital Statistics from 1981 through 1990 show that 61 of the 109 Texans who died from cold weather conditions were 55 or older.

Several factors combine to make cold weather more hazardous for people as they age. Often, an older person's metabolism is slower than that of a younger person, or the person may already be in poor health and taking medications.

The elderly may not perceive and respond to cold as readily as younger people, since the body's natural alarm system, the shivering reflex, lessens with age. In addition, older people with low incomes may set their thermostats lower than should, in efforts to reduce heating bills.

"These tendencies, plus the fact that many of the elderly live alone, set the stage for tragedies every year, even in Texas' temperate climate," Dr. Simpson said.

She explained that hypothermia begins when a person's deep body temperature falls below 95 degrees Fahrenheit, less than four degrees below normal.

She said, "Because the temperature drop may be gradual, and since an early sign of hypothermia is mental confusion, the victim may stay unaware of an emergency. Drowsiness, coma and death can occur while the victims remains oblivious to any problem."

Besides confusion and drowsiness, symptoms of hypothermia may be slurred speech, falling blood pressure, shallow breathing and pinkish tint to the skin. Anyone believed to have these symptoms because of cold temperatures is in immediate danger.

"We urge everyone to check on their elderly friends and relatives, especially during cold weather. Any symptoms of hypothermia should be taken seriously," Dr. Simpson stressed.

She added that no one, at any age should ever underestimate weather changes. People who have to be outside in cold weather should wear loose-fitting, layered clothing, gloves and face covering to block wind-chill.

Wind-chill is a term for the cooling effect wind has on the skin. Not only can wind-chill cause rapid heat loss from the body, but it also can cause frostbite--actual freezing of tissues.

What a warm and wonderful memory I have of Mulshoe, Texas Rotary. After meeting with you folks during our 3000 mile 21 day "fast tour" from Huntington Beach CA to Savannah GA, Gerry Tatar and I reminisced about the program (Students for Free Enterprise), Rotary, and the wonderful opportunities afforded us in this awesome, wonderful country of ours. We both still carry out plastic "mulshoes" and are pleasantly reminded each time we glance at them.

the entire tour. It was a real downpour. But who cared? We were going to jump in the Atlantic in any case!

Everyone who started the tour finished with the exception of one Californian who rode with us for the first two days and then returned to work. There were difficult days for everyone--each person encountered their share of personal hardship. Bicycling is like life. Each rows his own boat, but all know the challenges of the route. There is something to admire in everyone.

Thanks again for the wonderful memories. When in Sacramento on Microwaved onions are popular and easy to prepare. Peel and cut a slice off top and bottom--exposing all layers. Put a little butter or margarine on top of each and cover with plastic wrap.

Microwave half cooking time (about 5 minutes for 4 3-inch onions) on High, then rotate baking dish and turn onions. Cook final half time--5 to 7 minutes, until tender-crisp. Let stand, still covered, two minutes.

Teachers Hear Of Leadership

Retired teacher, Wilma Smith, introduced guest speakers at the Mulshoe Retired Teachers' Association meeting on Friday, January 17. They were Jody Field, Ronda Scott, and Kip McCall, all members of the Leadership Mulshoe organization.

Jody Field gave an overview of the organization, explaining its origin and purposes. Ronda Scott talked to the group about a Democracy in Action Tour that the students will be taking to the state capitol in Austin. Kip McCall then talked about benefits to belonging to the organization. "Just being here today is an example of how the organization helps me," McCall told the group. "It allows me to speak in front of adults, gain confidence in myself, and prepares me to be a better leader for the future," he explained.

The three members reported on activities they had planned with their adult leaders in their respective areas of study. Scott reported on a special program she had worked on with adult leader, Danny Noble.

Field reported that she would be attending and observing at the next school board meeting with her adult leader in education, Bill Moore, Superintendent of Schools. McCall reported that Sid Felan, Juvenile Probation Officer and adult leader in Law Enforcement, was making arrangements for him to tour the Lubbock Juvenile Detention Center and to sit in on some criminal court cases.

The program by the students was prefaced with remarks by Carolyn Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture who serves as advisor to the organization.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

MULESHOE, TEXAS

A Service of

Transamerican Diagnostic Services
(Providing Mammography Services for over 5 years)

CALL 272-4524 FOR APPOINTMENT

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

- I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
- II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
- III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
- IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

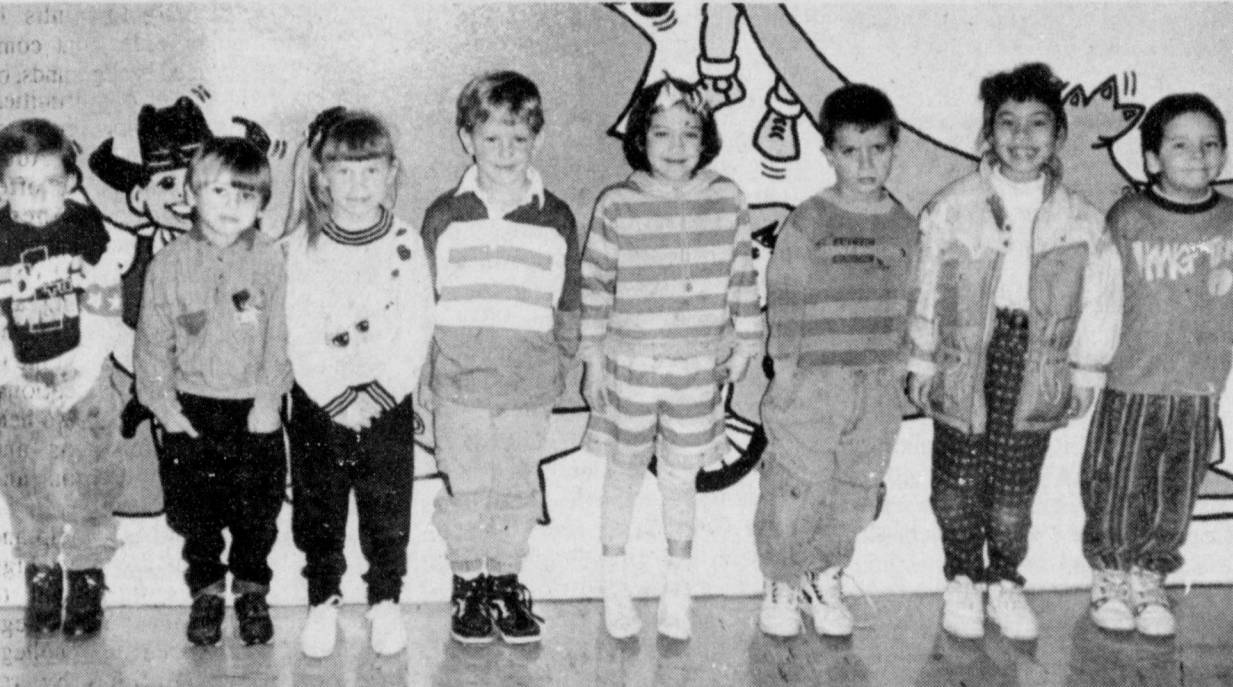

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

One Of Nine Women Develop Breast Cancer

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every nine women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year over 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from Transamerican diagnostic Services, Inc. in Midland "The Death Rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists." By using modern state of the art X-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt. A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early stage has a 90-97% survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50% survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a mobile breast cancer detection unit will be made available to local women.

On Tuesday, February 4 the mobile unit will be parked at Muleshoe Area Medical Center, 78 S. 1st in Muleshoe. Appointments may be made by calling 272-4524. For more information you may call Transamerican Diagnostic Services, Inc. at 915-561-8888.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit of Odessa which services Muleshoe today received the certification of the American College of Radiology Mammography Accreditation Program.

Mammography is an X-ray examination of the breast, which the American Cancer Society and other medical experts see as the best means for the early detection of breast cancer.

The program is voluntary and is designed to insure that women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The process is done through a peer review evaluation of the facility's staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality, and breast dose. The accreditation must be renewed every three years.

The accreditation program was instituted because of the concerns of radiologists, other national medical organizations, and the public that qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and that dedicated mammographic equipment be used. The American College of Radiology received an American Cancer Society Control Grant which was used to pilot test the Accreditation Program.

Breast cancer will strike one in 10 American women. The American Cancer Society predicts that about 41,000 women will die of breast cancer this year. As there is no way to prevent the disease, early detection and treatment offer the greatest hope for survival.

The American Cancer Society recommends that women do monthly self-exams and have regular physical breast exams by a doctor. It further recommends mammography on the following schedule: A baseline mammogram (for reference) between age 35 and 39. A mammogram every one or two years between age 40 and 49. An annual mammogram from age 50.

The Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Muleshoe Tuesday, February 4. You may call 272-4524 for an appointment.

Winners' Mother Speaks Out On Competition

When asked what they have done to bring the winner mentality into the family and predict the victories that Wade and Cody Wilson had with their stock at the Three Way Fat Stock January 25, their mother Jerri Wilson emphasized that the boys were given the individual responsibility for each of their animals. "Their father has always encouraged them to accept the full responsibility for their projects' welfare," she comments.

This attitude of personal integrity and full acceptance of the duties attached to fitting an animal for a fat stock show leads to a spirit of cooperation between the Wilson brothers. "Wade and Cody are good about backing each other up when there is a time problem or a scheduling difficulty with one of them.

Cooperation like this is hard to teach to some young people who may not have had the opportunity to work in 4-H or FFA projects that involve livestock.

Along with the sense of responsibility and enhanced spirit of cooperation that working on fat stock show projects brings, there is the personal satisfaction that comes only from being a winner.

The boys' father Rod Wilson has considerable experience in working in feed lot operations.

When Rod Wilson was asked what type of animal he would pick as a winner in the calf show, he emphasized that the carcass and its yield would be his major consideration. For Wilson, appearance alone is immaterial.

Jerri Wilson believes strongly in the stock show project effort as an individual triumph for the youngsters whether or not ribbons and trophies are won. "We feel and share in such a victory for our two sons at this time, but it is their victory, not ours."

The Wilsons moved to Three Way two years ago from the Abilene area and this is the second year that they have exhibited stock at the Three Way show.

Wilson was formerly employed by Abilene Cattlefeeders.

High-Speed Rail Venture
Texas' Newest Project

Texas' new high-speed rail venture, which proposes to link the state's principal cities with a state-of-the-art 200 miles per hour high-frequency bullet train, has become a Texas project. Simultaneous with the approval of a franchise agreement last week, the Texas High-Speed Rail Authority transferred the franchise won earlier by the Texas TGV consortium to the new Texas High-Speed Rail Corporation.
Corporate headquarters for the new company are being established this week in the First Federal Building on Loop 410 in northern San Antonio. A presence also will be maintained in Austin.
The new entity is chartered in Texas with $10 million in capital subscribed by members of the original group.

Prominent San Antonio banker and community leader Glenn Biggs was named new chairman and chief executive officer of the project several weeks ago. Founding directors, in addition to Biggs, are Steve Grant chief counsel for Morrison Knudsen Corporation; Brad Corbett, Forth Worth businessman and an original investor; Peter Jackson, president of Mannai Investment (Texas) Inc., a Texas company; and Clive Bode, a Fort Worth attorney. Biggs said other outside directors will be added to the board in the near future.

The corporation has applauded the franchise agreement approved by the Authority after a meeting of the body last Thursday in Austin.
Chairman Biggs called the agreement—the result of months of work by the Authority's negotiating committee—"a very constructive step in moving toward realization of high-speed rail service in Texas.

"The Authority has done a good job in crafting a reasonable agreement which balances the interests of the people of Texas with the provisions necessary for this project to take shape and grow," Biggs said. "We now have the legal and operational framework within which to move forward."
With opening of the new Texas corporation headquarters, the project's leader stressed that the high-speed rail system is planned for the Texas of the future, and asked for members' patience and support.
"We're talking about meeting the needs of the Texas of tomorrow...with growing airway congestion, growing highway congestion and growing concern for the environment," he said. "The time has come for the third leg of our transportation system which will become increasingly important in the future. High-speed rail can become a linchpin in the future development of our state, with enormous economic and quality-of-life benefits for our citizens."

MICROWAVE TIPS

Ground beef is often found in tubular packages. Avoid them since they don't defrost easily in a microwave.

It's easier to defrost a square package of ground beef, preferably no more than an inch or a little more thick.

Tube packages must be rotated and the ends always defrost first and may even cook before the center is defrosted. Break up tubed ground meat as quickly as possible when defrosting.

COTTON NEWS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK, Friday, January 24, 1992
Confusion.

That is what many High Plains producers are feeling whenever they sit down and try to figure out how the 1990-1991 disaster program will affect their operations. With sign-up scheduled to begin February 3 many are wondering how the program is going to be administered.

Those questions can now be answered by county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) employees who completed their own training session for the new program this past week. Producers can now get some of the answers they need to get their disaster applications in the works. ASCS officials are advising that producers who think they are eligible for disaster assistance, in either 1990 or 1991, get their paperwork started as soon as possible.

"ASCS is encouraging producers who intend to file a disaster claim to do so as soon as possible," notes Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG). "We have been told that when the sign-up period ends March 13, any applications that have not been completed will be dropped."

One exception to this is that producers waiting for production evidence will be given two weeks to gather that information.

PCG has also received several questions about what will happen if two different producers had disasters on the same farm, one in 1990 and one 1991, and both submit disaster applications. ASCS officials have explained that when this occurs both producers will be notified and it will be necessary for them to agree to withdraw, voluntarily, one of the applications before the March 13 cut-off date. If neither of the applications is withdrawn by March 13 ASCS will kick both the applications out.

Some of the questions most commonly asked about the disaster program have to do with issues such as how things like secondary crop value, net insurance indemnity, FmHA Emergency Loans and the 1991 deficiency payment will be handled in the disaster payment calculation.

With information about the program still somewhat sketchy at this time PCG has received the following information about these items.

Secondary crop value will probably not effect cotton producers on the High Plains who have suffered crop losses in either 1990 or 1991. PCG understands that this item pertains mainly to the value a producer could receive from shifting the crop to a secondary use. A good example would be someone growing oranges intended for sale as fresh fruit. If the producer is then involved in a disaster situation that prevents the oranges from being sold as fresh fruit, he could elect to have the remaining fruit squeezed for juice. The value of the juice from those oranges would then be considered the secondary crop value.

Net insurance indemnity is the difference between the amount of a producer's insurance claim and the amount of the insurance premium the producer paid. The resulting figure will then be added to the expected gross disaster payment due the producer. If the sum of these two items is less than the farm's expected gross income then no adjustment will be made to the disaster payment. If the sum of the two is greater than the farm's expected gross the disaster payment will be reduced by the amount of difference between the two.

Deficiency payments will figure prominently in the disaster payment calculation. The disaster legislation states that a producer may not draw a disaster payment and a deficiency payment on the same pound or bushel of a crop. In simple terms a producer who received a deficiency payment on 40,000 pounds in either 1990 or 1991 and is eligible for a disaster payment on 20,000 pounds will have a value for deficiency payments received on the 20,000 pounds eligible for disaster deducted from his final disaster payment.

The deficiency payment value will be derived by multiplying the total pounds eligible for disaster payments by the applicable national factor. The result of this calculation will provide the actual number of pounds that will be multiplied by the final deficiency payment rate to come up with the necessary reduction for duplication of disaster and deficiency benefits.

FmHA Emergency Loans will also figure into the disaster programs calculations. To the best of PCG's knowledge 1990 disaster payments due to producers who received an emergency loan in that year will be reduced by the amount of the loan. For 1991 producers who file for an emergency loan from FmHA will have the loan reduced by whatever amount they receive from a disaster payment.

All producers are encouraged to get their disaster paperwork started as quickly as possible. Additional questions about the program can be answered by county ASCS officials however they are urging that producers gather as much information as possible before making the trip down to the ASCS office.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - The U.S. Supreme Court may have brought Texas, screaming and kicking, into a new decade where two bona fide political parties will compete for independent voters.

Last week, the high court rejected the state attorney general's request to throw out federal court redistricting plans which Democrats fear will give Republicans a majority in the Texas Senate and close to one in the Texas House.

Ruling Blasted, Praised

Immediately, various Democrats loudly criticized the three-judge federal panel, the Texas Republican Party, and even their own leaders for misplaying their legislative cards.

"What the Republican Party failed to accomplish at the ballot box, they've engineered from behind the bench, cloaked in the black robes of Republican judges," said Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

But the Republican Party of Texas hailed the ruling.

"For the first time, we're going to have fair elections for the state Senate," GOP chairman Fred Meyer said.

The court's ruling means that Texas will be among the 11 states holding presidential primaries on Super Tuesday - March 10.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Dan Morales said he will continue his investigation into allegations that state Rep. George Pierce, R-San Antonio, assisted James Nowlin, a federal judge in Austin, in drawing the court's Senate plan.

Morales said he would not have made the investigation public and brought it to the Supreme Court's attention if Nowlin had not sealed the court's records detailing how it drew its maps.

Firsts in Speaker's Race

The race to replace Speaker Gib Lewis drew two historical firsts last week: the first woman and the first black candidates.

State Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, became the first woman to announce, closely followed by Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, the first black to seek the post.

The rules reform movement seems to be all the rage with speaker candidates now, as the oft-criticized committee chairmen of Speaker Lewis now talk reform.

Judges Went Too Far?

U.S. Attorney General William Barr said federal judges went too far in trying to correct unconstitutional conditions in Texas prisons and will support efforts to remove court-imposed limits on prison populations.

State officials estimate 3,000 empty prison beds could be freed for use.

The population limit placed in Texas by federal judge William Wayne Justice prompted the early release of thousands of criminals from Texas prisons and spurred the Legislature to raise billions for new prisons with taxes and bonds.

New Ethics Commission

Some describe it as a "weak sister," but the new Texas Ethics Commission got a political football thrown at it right off the bat, nevertheless.

Tom Smith, director of Public Citizen, a watchdog group, asked members to regulate campaign contributions in the coming House speaker's race, and "fill in the gaps" of a traditionally loose structure.

Smith said the commission also should decide if outgoing Gib Lewis can continue to use political funds to pay legal expenses for his upcoming ethics trial in Austin.

Lottery Start-Up

State Lottery Director Nora Linares said she has mailed out more than 56,000 applications to retailers who want to sell $1 lottery tickets for the state.

Linares hopes to enlist 15,000 to 20,000 retailers in the next four months. The retailers will make a nickel on every dollar ticket they sell.

To receive a license, applicants must submit a $125 application fee, a set of fingerprints, and undergo a criminal history check.

Other Highlights

Former Gov. Mark White resigned from the Hermann Hospital Trust board, the third trustee to do so amid a probe of trustee abuses. Media reports linked the Houston hospital's $245,000 meat purchase from financially troubled Granada Foods to White, a partner in the law firm representing Granada.

Unvarnished Truth

Want A Yard You Never Have To Mow?

Want a yard you never need to mow, water, or fertilize? A no care lawn may be impossible, but by planting buffalograss you can come close. The new seeded turf types named Plains and Topgun sold under the "Nature's Best Brand" from Bamert Seed Co. of Muleshoe, Texas offer vast improvement over varieties currently available.

Buffalograss once sustained immense buffalo herds and supplied raw material for sod homes of the early pioneers. It has now become the most popular native grass used in lawns today.

Buffalograss is a warm season, fine leaved, perennial, sod forming grass. It grows to height of six inches spreading by stolons and runners. Depending upon the height of lawn you desire, mow it once or twice a month or not at all.

Buffalograss is an excellent replacement for high maintenance grasses that require so much water. These high maintenance grasses are not only more expensive, they're more time consuming.

Naturally adapted throughout the Midwest and Southwest in areas of 12 to 35 inches of annual rainfall, sandy clay loam or heavier soils, PH 6.0 to 8.5, and up to 6,000 feet elevation, buffalograss is the right choice in so many regions. It is not considered shade tolerant but will perform better than most bermudagrasses under light to moderate shade. It should be used in high light areas.

Its ability to survive through prolonged droughts as well as very low and very high temperatures enables buffalograss to thrive in extreme environmental conditions. Buffalograss is the most drought tolerant grass available to the turf manager today. The species avoids drought and serve heat by entering dormancy but shows rapid recovery when moisture becomes available. Studies have shown that buffalograss requires only 30 to 60 percent of the water needed by improved bermudagrasses. Moisture conserving qualities of buffalograss helps it fit in perfectly with the XERISCAPE™ concept of landscaping with low-water-use native or naturalized plants. Consider the early green up and low fertilizer or pesticide rates of buffalograss when you are comparing its aesthetic and environmental qualities to introduced species such as bermudagrass.

Recently there has been considerable discussion concerning the germination period of buffalograss. It is true that native, nontreated buffalograss seed will take two to three years to reach 80 to 90 percent germination. However, we now have two solutions to this.

1. XERISCAPE is a trademark of the National XERISCAPE Council.

The first is a process in which we "fool Mother Nature". The seed believe they've gone through an extremely cold, wet winter. The six weeks process is non-toxic. Laboratory tests results show 75 to 80 percent germination in 10 to 14 days.

The other solution to breaking the dormancy is to actually take the caryopsis out of the hard waxy burr. The bare caryopsis will germinate in five to seven days after being placed in the germination.

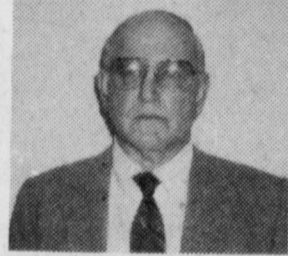

Bamert Seed Co. has been growing native grasses since 1951, and been producing and researching Texoka Buffalograss for nearly twenty years. Buffalograss can now fill a niche in the low maintenance turf market because of its low fertilizer, pesticide, and water requirements. Bamert Seed Co. announces the world's first proprietary turf type buffalograss seed varieties. Topgun and Plains have been in development for several years. They will set the standard for all future seeded varieties.

Plains is a synthetic variety. Selections came from several sites throughout the Midwest. Its denser turf and darker green make it a remarkable improvement over Texoka. Its upright growth habit aggressively shades out weeds and other grasses. Plains is best adapted to roadsides, school grounds and low maintenance areas where slightly taller varieties are acceptable. Plains will be commercially available for the 1992 spring planting season.

Topgun was developed from one superior female clone and crossed with selected males. It has been under close evaluation for 14 years. The evaluation criteria stressed color, density, height, early and late dormancy as well as stand longevity. Topgun's prostrate growth characteristics reduce mowing frequency and the healthy dense turf improves competitiveness. This variety greens up two weeks before most improved bermudagrass varieties and is designed for lawns, parks, and golf course roughs. Topgun is in commercial production but will be available on a very limited basis for the 1992 planting season.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
Can people try too
hard to gain the things they desire? I know a woman who would have been accepted by the nicest people in our town if she had not knocked herself out by trying to make a big impression on people she considered important.
Now everyone considers her a social climber and says things about her behind her back.

R.C.--Tenn.

Answer:
If people would only act natural and not try to impress people with false ideas about themselves they would have more successful lives.

The person who tries to dominate people and conversations will not be the one to make friends and influence people.
-Louisa

SMILES

How Late
Did you hear about the wife who cured her husband of his "have to work late at the office"
routine?
She asked him if she could depend on it.

Advice
My lady, be wary of cupid.
And heed to the lines
of this verse--
To let a fool kiss you
is stupid;
To let a kiss fool you
is worse.

Smart
"Who is Thomas Edison, anyway?"
"He's the man who invented the phonograph to keep us awake so we would stay up all night and use his electric lights."

LOW-FAT RECIPES

Nutritionists say it is a wise decision to look for ways to reduce the fat content of our diets. With so many low-fat or fat-free ingredients being introduced in every section of the supermarket, the opportunity to create tasty lower-fat menus has never been brighter.

Whirlpool Corporation home economists have devised a brunch recipe using several of these new products. Vegetable-Cheese Brunch Casserole is colorful, delicious, healthful and easy to prepare using the convenience of microwave cooking. It makes a simple weekend brunch dish for family members to appreciate or guests to rave about.

VEGETABLE-CHEESE BRUNCH CASSEROLE

(4 servings)
4 slices fat-free, light wheat bread, cubed
1/4 cup chopped fresh mushrooms
1 green onion, thinly sliced
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped tomato, drained
4 slices fat-free process cheese, cut into strips
1 cup fat-free liquid egg product
1 cup skim milk
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Place half the bread cubes in four individual (1 1/2 to 2-cup) microwavable casseroles. Top with half the vegetables and half the cheese strips. Repeat layers. Stir together egg product, milk, mustard and pepper.

Pour over mixture in casseroles, about 1/2 cup each. Place casseroles in microwave oven, arranging in ring. Microwave at HIGH (100%) for 2 minutes. Rotate casseroles. Microwave at MEDIUM (50%) for 16 minutes longer or until set, rotating casseroles after 4, 8 and 12 minutes.
Let stand 5 minutes before serving.
