Hope Baptist Church News

(By Earl H. Brock, Mission Pastor)

We have taken up our work as mission pastor of the Hope Baptist Church. We are moved on the field and are very comfortably situated. We come into your midst with one desire in our hearts, that we may enter into your community life and minister in any way possible to the needs about us. Our program has not been completed as yet, but we plan to be here at Hope, the first and third Sundays in each month, at Elk the second Sunday and at Flying H the fourth Sunday. We extend a cordial invitation with a hearty welcome to any and all of you who would care to attend our services. Can you, like they of old say, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the House of the Lord." Sunday School each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Preaching service the first and third Sundays at Hope at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. At Elk Sunday school at 10 each Sunday. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. the second Sunday in each month. Flying H schedule not yet complete. "He came into His own, but His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them He gave power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on His name, which were born not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Marlar, Sarah May and Mary Lee Haley of Carlsbad were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lea.

Funeral Services For T. E. Young

Funeral services for Thomas B. Young were held last Thursday from the Church of Christ at Hope with Evangelist Allen Johnson of Roswell, officiating. Burial was in the Upper Hope cemetery under the direction of the Paulin funeral home in Artesia.

Faster Growth

Science may have uncovered another secret leading to faster plant growth with profound implications for farmers. Corn (left) sprinkled with water containing a tiny amount of the antibiotic, terramycin, grew taller faster than same seeds in untreated soil (right). Experiments conducted by Dr. Louis G. Nickell in the Brooklyn laboratories of Chas. Pfizer & Co. showed that as little as one part terramycin to one million parts of water make more seeds sprout into plants. Here, after three and one-half weeks, terramycin-treated corn averages 17.45 inches in height, while untreated corn is 14 inches high. Corn sprinkled with terramycin-spiked water also was found to be heavier both wet and after removal of all water.

November Is Deadline Month for Mulching

Most farm gardeners know that November is the deadline month in most areas for mulching the garden plot. In many farm-home gardens, a soft blanket of granular mineral will be used to give this protection.

When the gardener is cozy in his house this winter, this protective material will keep plants in good condition and ready for cultivation in the spring.

The material is vermiculite, containing countless tiny air cells that insulate and protect plants in severe weather.

It protects against rapid or severe temperature changes, which often threaten bushes, plants, and shrubs in cold areas. It also guards them against over-soaking by melting snow or rain on mild days in winter and early spring.

Terra-Lite, as vermiculite is called by the Zonolite company, Chicago, is poured from its bag to the ground. For good mulching, it is advisable to clear away the soil about 12 inches in each direction from the root and about an inch deep.

DDT Residual Effect In Soil Is Proved

Recent research by the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that a single application of DDT to the soil will kill some species of bugs and grubs for at least a five-year period.

Tests conducted in several locations in the northeastern states show an average DDT carryover in turf of 92 per cent after two years, of 43 per cent after four years, 36 per cent after six years, and 29 per cent after seven years' time.

Bug experts also found that the rate of application had little influence on the percent of toxic residue in the soil. Soil samples treated at the rate of 25 to 50 pounds of DDT per acre, show the percentage carryover after eight years of testing was about the same in either case. The difference was minimum.

Tests with different soil types prove that DDT lasts longer in poor soils; a shorter time in soils high in organic matter. Results of experiments with samples of 85 different soil types from seven states showed that persistence of DDT was about the same in sandy, silt, or clay loams, but much greater in soils heavy in sand content.

After analyzing 223,000 Japanese beetle grubs it was found that DDT began losing its killing power only in the fifth year after application. A single DDT treatment at 25 pounds per acre produced a 98 per cent grub kill within four weeks after the grubs were put in the soil, during the first four years. It required slightly more than five weeks for the same kill the fifth year.

Ruidoso Riflemen Win Matches

The following item is taken from the Roswell Record. George Trimble is the son of Ada Belle Trimble of Hoop.

Ruidoso—George Trimble, R. H. Hedgecock and Stanley Cochran returned early last week from El Paso where they competed in the South-western rifle matches. Trimble and Hedgecock won the two-man team match, and Trimble won the 1000-yard Wimbledon match. Hedgecock also placed second in the total aggregate the second day and third in the 1000-yard match. Trimble placed second in the rapid fire match and second in another 1000-yard match.

In winning the Wimbledon match, Trimble was using iron sights, while many of his competitors were using scope sights. Any sight may be used.

School News

3rd, 4th and 5th Grade News — What an exciting time we had at our Halloween party Friday afternoon. We tried to pin the tail on a black cat and Betty Stephen pinned it the nearest to the place where it should have been. We had fun bobbing for apples that were floating in large pans of water. Most of us got several apples and all of us got our faces washed. The apples were furnished by Mrs. Mansel Milam, Mrs. Joe Young and Mrs. Bill Madron, which we enjoyed. Mrs. Martin Hibbard brought us delicious chocolate covered donuts and Mrs. Lea furnished the orange punch. Visitors were Mrs. Hibbard and son Barry. Mrs. Lea brought her stereoscope to school and we have enjoyed the scenes from New Mexico and Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. George Casabonne and son Mike were visitors in Hope Wednesday.
