Car Sought

In Disappearance Of Missing Child

A detailed description of an automobile was circulated among law enforcement officials Tuesday in hopes of developing clues in the disappearance of Shawnlee Perry on May 7.

Five year old Shawnlee has been missing from her home in Earth for almost a month. She was last seen playing near an abandoned church adjacent to her home.

Although it is unknown if the car in question had anything to do with the disappearance of Shawnlee, authorities are looking for a light blue, two-door Ford Thunderbird with a white vinyl top, a citizens band radio antenna and honeycomb wheels. The car is likely to be a 1977 or 1978 model.

Despite a search by volunteers and lawmen, and the circulation of fliers concerning the girl's disappearance and bearing her picture, no new evidence of her whereabouts has surfaced.

Shawnlee has blond hair, hazel eyes and four silver-capped teeth. She weighs about 40 pounds and was wearing black sweat pants with red paint on them and a short-sleeved T-shirt, when last seen.

Kip McCall Receives Scholarship

The Fred J. Johnson Memorial Scholarship, a $500 scholarship given to a high school graduate who was an active participant in the Leadership Muleshoe Program, goes to Kip McCall this year. This scholarship is given by Buck and Carolyn Johnson in memory of Buck's father, Fred Julian Johnson.

Fred Johnson was one of three children born to Norwegian immigrants, Lars and Julia Johnson. Orphaned at the age of five, Fred lived with relatives until he was 15; from that time on he made his own way. The hardships of his youth seemed to make him more sensitive to the needs of young people. Although his formal education ended during his first year in college, Fred was an avid reader--an acknowledged historian and Shakespearean scholar who often served as "guest instructor" for the Shakespeare portion of senior English at MHS.

Johnson, his wife, Evelyn and sons Jim and Roald, moved to Muleshoe in November 1945. He operated a farm implement dealership until his retirement in 1964. He served the youth of Muleshoe as pronouncer of the Bailey County Spelling Bee from 1952 until his death in 1972.

He was the first commissioner

Rain, Hail, High Winds Hit Area

For the second consecutive day, storm clouds moved over the Muleshoe area late Monday afternoon bringing heavy rain, hail and high winds. Bailey county was placed under a severe weather watch both Sunday and Monday resulting from an upper-level disturbance moving southeast out of Colorado. The cold air was forcing warmer air in front of it to rise resulting in the precipitation and creating conditions for possibly severe thunderstorms.

The heaviest storms Sunday appeared to be in the southern end of Bailey County, where heavy rains, and hail was reported. On Monday morning the Texas Highway Department reported that one of the roads, which is maintained by the Morton office was still under water.

Sunday afternoon, the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge received .80 inch of rain and on Monday they received .30 inch.

Storm clouds seemed to center over the northern part of Bailey County and the southern part of Parmer County on Monday afternoon.

In the Progress community, John Guley reported that he received heavy rain, high winds and a lot of hail late Monday. Although Guley's rain gauge was cracked and he didn't know the amount of rain he received, he stated that there was a lot of water. "The wind was so high, the rain seemed to come straight sideways and I believe the hail was the worst I have ever seen," Guley said. "At 9 p.m. I still had ice on the ground, it completely ruined the cotton, wiped it out." Guley stated that he didn't know the extent of the damage to the potatoes, which were blooming, but he knew they were damaged.

At Lazbuddie, Mrs. Wanda Templar at B&B Cafe, reported that she received .7 inch of rain Monday at her home one mile west of Lazbuddie. Rain varied in the Lazbuddie Community ranging from .25 to .3 inch in that area. Mrs. Templar also reported that she did not receive any hail.

Three tenths to one half inch of rain fell at Foster Fertilizer at Lazbuddie with no hail.

On the Bob Gable farm in the Y.L. Community heavy rain mixed with hail fell in the Monday afternoon storm. The rain and hail was accompanied by strong winds. It was reported that the wind uprooted two evergreen trees in the Gable yard.

It was also reported that hail covered the ground like snow in that area, resulting in the loss of cotton and the corn being severely damaged. Water covered the roads in that vicinity, making travel hazardous.

Property Owners Informed Of 1992 Values

Texas property owners have the right to be informed of changes in their property's value by local appraisal districts. On May 15, 1992, Bailey County Appraisal District mailed 2,016 property owners their notices showing the 1992 proposed value.

Margaret Johnson, Chief Appraiser of the district reminds property owners that the notice of appraised value is not a tax bill. "Please do not pay from this notice," Ms. Johnson said.

Ms. Johnson emphasized the importance of the notice and the key information that it contains for a property owner. "A property owner has the right to appeal to the Bailey County Appraisal Review Board on any disagreement with the property's value, exemptions, ownership and other areas," she said.

The appraisal review board, more commonly called "ARB", is an independent panel of citizens responsible for reviewing the appraisal district's values. The ARB also hears and settles protests from property owners who disagree with some action by the appraisal district.

"You shouldn't try to contact ARB members outside of the hearing, said Ms. Johnson. "The law requires ARB members to sign an affidavit saying that they haven't talked about your case before the ARB hears it."

What should a property owner look for on the notice? "Take special note of the proposed value for 1992," Ms. Johnson said. "The notice shows the land's value and any improvement value for the property for the current year." An improvement is a building, structure, fence or any other type or fixture to the land.

The appraisal notice also includes current year information on exemptions granted to the property. It provides last year's value, too.

Notices to property owners whose values increased more than $1,000 will also include "estimated" taxes. These "estimated" taxes are based on the new value and estimated tax rates if the taxing unit set tax rates for the same amount of operating dollars as last year. Generally,

In this year's presidential election, a couple of things may affect the stock market.

There's a rush by all candidates to "jump start" the economy.

In my opinion, the best thing the candidates can do is to do nothing.

We are already getting signs an economic rebound could be here by late spring.

Any moves to fuel the economy could be inflationary. I believe the relatively high yield on long-term bonds reflects investors' concerns that politicians will do something "goofy."

The other area is the health-care sector.

The question is not "if" health-care reforms will take place, but "when" and to what extent?

The current weakness in some leading health-care issues is a buying opportunity

Activities Added To Celebration

At least two new activities have been added to the upcoming Pioneer-Independence Day Celebration in Sudan. The Greased Pig Scramble will be held at 11:15 a.m. next to the Hotel for youths 8 through 12 years of age.

An auction of "donated" baked goods will be held during the noon hour. Everyone is asked to bring a pie, cake, cookies, bread or your favorite baked goods to be sold to the highest bidder.

Proceeds will go to the celebration fund to be used for ribbons and prizes. This is the way that everyone can participate in the community event.

The coin dig will begin the events at 9 a.m. followed by the ever-popular turtle race. It is not too early to begin looking for turtles.

Drawings for merchants' prizes will begin at 10 a.m. Winners will be drawn from names of people who have purchased raffle tickets from one of the organizations.

Most raffle tickets cost $1 each and may be purchased from the Senior Citizens for a beautiful quilt; Sudan Women's Club, GE cordless telephone, 4-H Club, pair of boots, celebration committee, dual cassette AM/FM recorder/player. Sudan Twirlers and Lions Club will also sell raffle tickets.

The tractor pull will begin at 10:30 a.m. as will competitive games for youth 8 and over. The stick horse races will begin at the same time as the greased pig scramble.

During the lunch hour food will be available from several booths and the auction along with live music will keep you entertained.

The Arts and Crafts show in the Senior Citizens building will be conducted by Wanda Swart. There will be exhibits by all age groups.

Afternoon activities will include water polo, tug of war and the outhouse race. Outhouses will be provided for 3-member teams to use.

Line up for the parade will begin at 4 p.m. on the high school parking lot. Floats are needed for the parade. Cash prizes of $100, $75, and $50 will be given for floats only. Theme for this year's celebration is "Recycle The Past-Improve The Future."

A Jack-n-Jill volleyball tournament is slated to begin at 6 p.m. to be followed by the street dance at 8 p.m.

At the present time, there will be no registration in the Hotel. The

"You couldn't see anything it was raining and hailing so hard." She stated that after the storm was over approximately six to eight inches of hail had backed up against the garage doors. "The cotton is gone but although it beat the corn up pretty bad, we think it will come out of it."

Salad Days Return

The salad days of summer are returning in June with fresh, tasty vegetables and fruits coming to market.

Tomatoes and peaches are but two of many favorites that have been missing much of their flavor since last summer.

"It's nice to have peaches in February, although they frequently smell, taste and have the texture of styrofoam," said Dr. Dick Edwards, marketing expert with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"This also can be said for any number of items that come to market during the winter."

Tomatoes will be on sale in June for about 39 cents per pound. Blueberries at 99 cents a pint will be available, he said. Watermelon will be marked down to 25 cents per pound.

The continuing parade of other fresh, domestically grown vegetables that started in May will be sweet onions, artichokes, radishes and carrots.

Reappearing in the market will be apricots, red and black raspberries, cherries, cantaloupes, sweet corn, honeydew melons, plums, yellow squash, green beans, rhubarb, mangoes and pineapples.

"This past winter was relatively warm with more rain that has been seen in the past few years. These conditions have guaranteed excellent production for many of these crops."

The only dark cloud over the good news is a late freeze that hit some regions of Georgia and South Carolina. This caused damage to about 20 percent of the peach crop in the second- and third-leading peach producing states. California produces the most peaches.

"However, the crop should still be large enough to allow prices to drop down to the 65-cent per pound range," he said.

In Texas, peach producers are expecting one of their best years ever.

"We're doing great, except it's murderous trying to get the peaches picked with all this rain," said Dr. John Lipe, Extension Service horticulturist in Fredericksburg.

He termed this year's crop better than last year's in yield and size.

"And last year was better than any other crop in 10 years," he said.

Wholesale prices are holding fairly stable," Lipe said. "We've had good prices for the producer, but they're not high prices."

Two-inch peaches are selling wholesale for $10 to $13 for half bushels, he said. Pick-your-own peaches start at $10 for a half-bushel.

With the emphasis on fresh, wholesome products that began about 10 years ago, fruits and vegetables have become increasingly popular.

"Riding the same crest of popularity are salad dressings," Edwards said.

Each year, during May and June, new varieties appear on supermarket shelves. This year is no exception, with honey-mustard flavors being promoted, he said. Connoisseurs of salad dressings should watch for the new-product coupons in newspapers and magazines.

A strong marketing push on pre-cut salad mixes also will occur in June, dropping prices to around $1 a pound, he said.

June also is National Dairy Month, and promotions will abound.

"The most attention will be focused on everyone's summertime favorite -- ice cream," he said. Another warm weather treat -- yogurt -- also will be featured in sales and coupons, he said.

A massive marketing campaign is gearing up for iced tea. Diet teas, herbal varieties, lemon-added, and even raspberry-flavored tea are but a few of selections from which to choose, he said.

June also is the kick-off month for the summer promotional season for all soft drinks. National brands of carbonated drinks will be on sale weekly from 99 cents to $1.25 per six pack. Store brands will be at least 20 cents cheaper, Edwards said.

Seafood is growing in popularity, and catfish producers have been disappointed that their product has not followed that trend.

"Consumption was down in 1991 and they are determined to reverse this trend. They will do it the old-fashioned way -- by reducing prices," he said. Whole fish prices will remain below $2 a pound and fillets should stay less than $3 per pound.

Shrimp prices will follow a pattern similar to that of poultry, he said. Prices have remained constant for more than a year, with imports from other countries stifling any price increases. The best buy remains the medium-sized, 36- to 50-count, shrimp, which are priced at $3.50 per pound. Other seafood items reduced in June will be snapper, king crab legs, trout, and crab salad.

Poultry consumption leaps during the summer, with fried chicken being a picnic favorite. Whole birds at 45 to 49 cents per pound and leg-thigh cuts at 29 to 35 cents per pound will be featured. Boneless breasts at $2.25 or bone-in breasts for $1.19 per pound are both excellent buys.

Meat marketing will shift toward products that are faster to prepare or that can be cooked outside. Expected sale prices are $1.59 for round steak, $1.79 for sirloin, $3 to $3.50 per pound for rib and t-bone steaks. The best buy will be hamburger in the chub packs for about $1 per pound.

"Prices will not be quite as pleasing as they were during the winter months because demand for such cuts during the summer will cause prices to increase," Edwards said.

Producers also have been reducing their herds, thus fewer cattle will be available. However, these forces are not great, and prices should increase only about 5 percent during the next several months, he said.

Featured pork cuts will be chops and ribs from $1.39 to $1.49 per pound.

Rain Fails To Dampen Best Texas Peach Crop In Decade

Unless nature intervenes unexpectedly, the Hill Country is set to make its best peach crop in a 11 years.

"This year's crop is sailing right past last year's whopper," said Dr. John Lipe, horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"If we don't float away or get hailed out, I'm predicting a 200,000 bushel plus harvest here in the Hill Country," Lipe said. "That's way up from last year's 120,000 to 130,000 bushels and matches the 1981 crop."

"Last year's crop set a 10-year record," Lipe said. "The difference this season is that all our varieties have a full crop -- and that's as good as it gets."

"Right now, the harvest is in full swing and we've got an avalanche of peaches," he continued. "We will have a flood of people buy peaches from roadside stands during the Memorial Day weekend."

Nearly all the peaches commercially grown in the Hill Country are found in Gillespie County, which produces about 10 percent of the state's crop. Almost every grower in the state has lots of peaches, Lipe said. There was very little freeze damage and lots of rain.

"Too much rain is tough on peach quality, but so far that's not been a problem. It's hard on the pickers, though, because they have to go on with the harvest even if it is raining. When peaches are ready, they're ready."

Lipe said the abundant moisture cap put undue pressure on the crop from diseases and insects, but so far these problems haven't surfaced to any degree.

"Going into late May we hit our June Gold season which is a cling peach," said Lipe. "Shortly afterward we'll see another cling, the Sentinel variety come off."

Usually we'll have our first freestone by June 10 when what we call our Harvester season begins."

Markets are being flooded with peaches, Lipe said, but they're moving and producers are getting fair prices. Wholesale two-inch fruit are bringing $10 to $13 per half bushel. Fruit measuring two and a quarter inches are $2 to $3 higher.

Lipe reports that road-side-stand and pick-your-own prices have varied little from last year. Prices for a half-bushel range from $15 to $20 plus depending on stage of ripeness, size and quality. Pick-your-own prices are ranging from $9 to $13 per half bushel.

Lipe said the past two excellent seasons and increased peach plantings across parts of Texas have helped educate the state's consumers to the thrill of tree-ripened peaches.

"Buyers here are now willing to pay more for our fruit because it's better," Lipe maintains. "Imported fruit must be picked green and never reaches its taste potential. Much of it has a flavor akin to cardboard. It's gotten to the point with the abundance of excellent Texas peaches that you get what you pay for."

Local Employees Receive Service Awards

Texas Department of Transportation held their annual Awards Day ceremony Tuesday, May 12. Four hundred and twenty employees and guest were on hand to see their co-workers receive special awards presented to them by William (Mel) Pope, District Engineer.

Those from Muleshoe who received awards included: Leonard Gallegos, nine years Heavy Equipment; Ronnie Garner, nine years Heavy Equipment; Ruben Gonzales, seven years Heavy Equipment; Lehmon Jacobs, three years Heavy Equipment; Richard Morris, 20 years Service and 17 years Safe Driving; David Parker, 11 years Service and 17 years Safe Driving; Brian Rudd, 12 years Safe Driving; and Herbert Whalin, 20 years Service and 15 years Safe Driving.

In Pope's welcoming comments he expressed his thanks and gratitude for the hard work and special care in driving to make their job safer.

Pope stated, "Some changes this year are regarded to safety. Everyone that operates heavy equipment was required to pass a difficult test to receive their commercial driver's license and I commend you for your effort in completing that requirement. Also, we saw a new emphasis on use of safety foot wear and most of you met this requirement.

"Our overall accident rate is down and this is encouraging. We urge all of you to work safely to keep our accidents to a Minimum."

NEW WEED CAUSES PASTURE CONCERNS

A weed that smother other growth around it has invaded northeast Texas. It's feared it could spread into other areas of the state.
 A native of Europe, purple scabious has spread through a 7-county area in northeast Texas: Hunt, Kaufman, Delta, Collin, Dallas, Tarrant and Denton counties.
 It's invaded small grain fields, roadsides, pastures, rangeland, highway rights-of-way, and even home lawns along farm to market roads, said Kenneth White, Extension agent for Collin County, where the plant was originally identified in Texas in 1980. It is a member of the Scabiosa atropurpurea L. family -- the only one reported in the state.
 The newest recorded finds are either along roadsides or in vacant lots in Denton, Tarrant, and Dallas counties, said Dr. Barron Rector, range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
 At one site in Collin County, researchers found 26 plants to 24 square inches, White said. Many plants have been found around the Farmersville area. Livestock operations, as well as pasture and forage production, account for half of Collin County's $60 million a year agricultural income, White said.
 Purple scabious grows to about 24 inches tall. Its purple head produces hundreds of prolific seed. The weed crowds out grass, and it competes with grass and other forage plants.
 Rector said the plant thrives in areas that have been mechanically graded, bulldozed, or where most of the native vegetation has been removed and where weeds can survive.
 It can be spread by vehicles traveling through an infested area, either in dirt sticking to tires or plants caught by bumpers. Cutting hay when the plant is seeding is another way to spread it, he said.

 "The more you mow it, the more it will sprout. All that's doing is creating a disaster," White said.
 "With the cultivation we do with field crops and the other herbicides we use, we've been able to keep it out of cropland," he said, but it is a true survivor.
 "It's been down to 6 degrees and we haven't seen any freeze-out of the plant. It survived drought. It's survived all kinds of adversities here."
 Because of its endurance, the plant could spread anywhere in the state, White said.

Long-time cattle ranchers in the county believe the plant was introduced through hay brought in from midwestern states for drought-stricken livestock producers in the 1950s. The ranch where the hay was brought is located on a state farm to market road and many think it spread from there.
 White has worked with county-based staff of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation in trying to control the spread of the weed.
 One herbicide, Ally, produced by DuPont, was labeled for pastures through these efforts. Another herbicide is now labeled for roadsides.
 A rate of two-tenths of an ounce of Ally to an acre will control the weed. The herbicide can be applied from December through May, as long as the plant is not flowering. The plant blooms in May in Collin County.

A sulphur urea compound, the herbicide is absorbed through the leaf and inhibits the intake of nutrients, thus "melting" the plant.
 "It'll hammer it," White said, "and its cost is as cheap as mowing." Ally has no grazing restrictions, he said.
 Around homes, people can use any effective herbicide labeled for broadleaf weeds and yards, but it may take repeat applications, he said.
