The Britannia

by Johanna Wrinkle

"This summer one-third of the nation will be ill-housed, ill-nourished, and ill-clad. Only they call it a vacation." Joseph Salak

So we were on vacation!! Twelve ladies ventured forth June 4th to begin a fifteen-day tour of the British Isles. Those on the tour included Virginia Bowers, Jane Rudd, Lucy Smith, Ruby Lee Kerr, Jerry Mayo, Jean Allison, and Sammy Allison from Muleshoe, Susie Spain of Olton, Hazel West of Vancouver, Washington, Gaynell Pitts of Hughes Springs, Texas, (both formerly of Muleshoe), Esther Green of Kerrville and myself.

Those of us from Muleshoe arrived at Lubbock Regional Airport between 1:00 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. We were all eager except that we were to face the challenge of the "American Eagle" at 3:00. The little plane landed and we said goodbye to our relatives. We walked down the steps, out to the plane, then up the steps into the three-across fourteen-row turbo airplane. After sitting fifteen minutes, we were told the flight stewardesses seat would not unlock so we would have to unload while they tried to repair it, then we could reload or if it could not be repaired we would have to wait until 6:05. Our problem was we were to depart for London at 5:30. After about thirty minutes the pilot received permission to tie the seat and the stewardess could sit in a passenger seat. Everyone said goodbye again! We were on our way! They called ahead for assistance for us. When

DEEP WATER ON ROADWAY--Sunday morning water was over the highway in several places on 1760 as the result of the storms Saturday night. Crops in the area suffered damage due to hail, which accompanied the rain. (Journal Photo)

No Injuries Reported One Home Damaged

A long line of severe thunderstorms developed over Eastern New Mexico late Saturday afternoon. The storms continued to travel eastward, prompting the National Weather Service to issue tornado watches and warnings as well as severe thunderstorm, warnings for much of the South Plains, including Bailey County.

Residents of Stegall, Baileyboro, and Needmore found themselves directly in the storm's path.

In the Stegall Community a tornado struck the home of Francisco Armandariz, on the Pollard farm. Mrs. Terry Pollard reported that even though the house was still standing, and no one was injured, windows were broken and the house was flooded. She also stated that a silo was blown away and at the Carl Pollard's home large trees were uprooted and they lost their well house. "We lost all of our crops," Mrs. Pollard said.

The Bailey Gin was also hit by the tornado. "They will probably have to put up a new building," said Pat Duplar. She also told the Journal that trailers were scattered in the road. "We received from two to two and a half inches of rain, and some hail, it got all our crops," Ms. Duplar continued.

Bailey County Electric was also hit hard by the storm. The Journal talked to Duane Lloyd, manager, Monday morning and Lloyd stated that they lost approximately 150 poles from the Bailey Gin Co. west of Baileyboro, on 1741 and the Arch Highway. "There must have been two or three tornadoes in that area," Lloyd said. "We have had help from Lamb County Electric, South Plains Electric, Lighthouse Electric and Lytegar Electric." Although these men worked diligently throughout the weekend, not everyone had electricity Monday morning. Lloyd stated that they hoped to have all electric service restored by Tuesday night.

Mrs. Clifford Mardis, six miles south of Muleshoe on Highway 214, reported that they received hail ranging from pea to golf ball size. "We lost all our crops," Mrs. Mardis said. "We lost our cotton about a month ago and our milo Saturday. The wind was terrible and the hail was still on the ground Sunday morning on FM 746. If we can get into the fields this week, we'll go back with milo, if not we'll have to plant wheat."

Zeffa Shafer reported that they had two inches of rain Saturday. "We were only five miles from the tornado," Mrs. Shafer said. "I have lived here 60 years and this is the first time I have seen anything like this," referring to the weather.

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation employees worked until 4:30 Sunday morning putting out Water Ahead signs on all highways, as well as directing traffic where the highline poles and electric wires were on the roads. "There was a lot of water on FM Roads 298 and 746," Rhonda Smith, secretary, said. "To the north, the water was the worst at the Bailey, Parmer County line. Although the water was over the highway and mud had to be cleaned off the road, the highway was never closed."

Are You An Old Settler?

Being an Old Settler in Bailey County is not a matter of age or number of years of living in Bailey County. It has been said that an old settler is one who has lived here twenty-five years, but it is more than that. You can be a part of the Old Settlers Organization if you are interested in the history of Bailey County. If you like to hear about the early days from the long-time residents, this is the group for you.

The Old Settlers Reunion is held every year during the special activities on the Fourth of July. This year is no exception--the meeting will be held Saturday, July 4 at 2 p.m. at the Bailey County Coliseum. Everyone is invited to attend this reunion to enjoy a time of fun, entertainment, conversation about this area, and a little business.

If you have lived in Bailey County for a few years, if you are part of a family that has lived in the area for a while, or if you are a newcomer who would like to know more about the area, come to the meeting on July 4. You will have a great time getting to know or getting re-acquainted with others who will be attending the Old Settlers Reunion. The president, Virginia Bowers, and the other officers, Lona Embry and Rose Sain, cordially invite you to come for the Old Settlers Reunion on July 4 at the Coliseum. Plan to include this in the activities of the day.

Big July Fourth Celebration Planned

If you like to stay busy and have a lot of fun Muleshoe is the place to be as we 'Salute Our Flag and Our Country' over the Fourth of July holidays. Make your plans now to come early and stay late.

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, along with various businesses and organizations around Muleshoe promise you a fun filled, exciting weekend.

Activities get underway on Thursday, July 2 at 9 a.m. when Jana Stanfield, Curt Brummett and Gene Grassie will be at Joe's Boot Shop. They will be at Joe's until 6 p.m. and again on Friday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

At 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday you can see the Mule-Plex Production Company's play "The Butler Did It" in the Muleshoe High School Auditorium.

In addition to the play, there will be candy sales, with lots of prizes, thanks to the local merchants who made this possible.

On Saturday, July 4th Activities will begin at 7 a.m. with a sidewalk breakfast, sponsored by the Kiwanis, being served until 10 a.m. in front of Higginbotham-Bartlett. You may also register for the 10K and two mile run at 7 a.m. in the south parking lot of Muleshoe State Bank.

Jay Messenger Will Participate In TALL Program

Jay Messenger, vice president of Muleshoe State Bank, has been selected to participate in the third class of the Texas Agricultural Lifetime Leadership (TALL) program. TALL is a leadership program aimed at identifying and developing the leaders needed to shape and direct the future of agriculture.

"I am honored and excited to have the opportunity to participate in this experience," said Messenger. "The next two years will be very exciting and educational."

TALL is a two-year leadership educational program designed for people ages 25 to 40 in agriculture-related careers. The 26 member class meets about three days every other month and studies current issues related to agriculture. Included in the curriculum are seminars held in another state, Washington, D.C., and a foreign country.

"The applicants for TALL III were all talented agricultural people," said John Sykes, TALL Coordinator. "The competition was strong and the judges had a difficult time determining this class."

The 10K and two mile run will begin at 8 a.m. as will the kid's activities sponsored by Alpha Beta Pi Sorority, in front of Poynor's. These activities will continue until 10 a.m.

At 9 a.m. the parade will begin to line up on the south end of Main Street and registration for the American Legion Muleshoe Pitching Contest will be held at the old Chevrolet Lot on Main Street.

At 10 a.m. floats, antique cars and unique vehicles, two different classes, cars carrying dignitaries, riding clubs, commercial floats, individual riders or walkers, and animals will form a parade which will travel down Main Street to Highway 84, turn west to the Morton Highway and travel down the Morton Highway past the Muleshoe Health Care Center before returning to the Boy Scout Grounds on Main Street.

Following the parade, the Muleshoe Pitching Contest will begin at 10:30.

If you like to play games (three legged sack race) and many more, you don't want to miss going to

MISD Will Review Voting Districts

The Board of Trustees of Muleshoe Independent School District will continue its review of the voting districts established in 1990 to see if revisions are necessary based upon the 1990 census. The plan adopted in 1990 provides for five trustees to be elected from single-member districts and two trustees to be elected at-large in the school district. One of the five single member districts--district Three--has a majority Hispanic population. District Three is currently represented by Frank Saldana.

Earlier in the year, the Trustees contracted with Map Resources, Inc. of Austin to apply the 1990 census data to MISD voting districts in order to determine what shifts in population had taken place since the 1980 census was taken.

Mia Jennings

Mia Jennings To Compete In Scholarship Pageant

Mia Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bryan Jennings of Lazbuddie, will compete in the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant July 5-July 11 in the Tarrant County Convention Center in Fort Worth.

Mia won the title of Miss Lake Meredith by competing in the Miss Texas Preliminary last November in Borger.

The Miss Texas/Miss America Pageant involves four areas of competition. A 10-minute private interview with the judges composes 30%, talent provides 40%, and evening gown and swimsuit comprise 15% each.

For talent, Mia will perform at the piano "Rhapsody in Blue," by George Gershwin. Mia's first piano teacher, Dr. Cecil Bolton of Oxford, Mississippi, edited the piece for her, and Bob Wood of Nashville, Tennessee, recorded a background orchestral accompaniment tape. Mia will perform her talent competition on Friday evening, July 10, at the pageant.

Mia will be a junior at Baylor University where she is a Dean's Honor Roll student majoring in accounting with a piano performance minor. At Baylor, Mia is a member of Delta Delta Delta, Gamma Beta Phi, Alpha Lambda Delta, Mu Phi Epsilon,

Swimmers Not Only Candidates

Swimmers aren't the only candidates for swimmer's ear, a potentially dangerous condition caused by moisture in the ear canal.

"Swimmer's ear is not really a sports-related condition," says Dr. Dan Franklin, an otolaryngologist at The Methodist Hospital. "Anyone who takes a shower, perspires when exercising, or, for that matter, lives in the humidity of Houston get it."

Swimmer's ear is a layman's term for inflammation and infection in the external ear canal. It happens when water breaks down natural skin barriers, allowing bacteria to infect the ear's soft tissue.

Pain in the ear is the most common symptom of the condition. Other, less common symptoms can include fever and hearing loss.

Franklin says swimmer's ear is usually preventable by keeping the ear dry. "Over-the-counter ear drops containing acid and alcohol can help keep the ear dry," he says. "But once an infection sets in, you should see a physician."

Treatment is two-pronged: keeping the ear canal clean, and applying antibiotic ear drops.

Franklin issues a special warning for people with immune system deficiencies, such as diabetics, leukemia patients, and organ transplant recipients. "If these people have symptoms of swimmer's ear, they should see a physician immediately and receive aggressive treatment," he advises. "Otherwise, the infection can spread to the bones of the ear and become very difficult to get rid of."

ATPE News Features Listing

For the fifth straight year, ATPE News, the official publication of the Association of Texas Professional Educators, has published a job listing featuring education positions available throughout the state. The nine-page listing, which can be found in the May/June issue of ATPE News, contains jobs available for the 1992-93 school year.

The ATPE job listing is published twice a year in the May/June and November/December issues of ATPE News. It also is updated on a monthly basis and is available free of charge to ATPE members, as well as non-members. Copies of the job listing can be obtained from the ATPE state office by calling 1-800-777-ATPE.

Also in the May/June issue of ATPE News is a cover article that answers the question "Are today's students falling behind in the quest for physical fitness?" Unfortunately, the answer is yes. Instead of getting in a few laps at the track or at the swimming pool, the majority of America's youngsters are spending hours each day in front of the television. The importance of physical fitness for children is emphasized in the article; tips for parents and schools in promoting healthy lifestyles also are included.

The May/June ATPE News also contains an article addressing school policymaking concerning suspected child abuse; a column discussing school district responsibility in providing the 20 hours of staff development required by the 72nd Legislature; and a preview of the 1992 ATPE Leadership Workshops, which will be held in July at seven locations across Texas.

ATPE is the largest independent, nonunion educators' association in the state and nation. Its membership consists mostly of classroom teachers but also includes administrators, paraprofessionals, retired educators, education students and public members.

ATPE News is published five times a year by ATPE. Subscriptions are $10 per year and are available by writing to the Editor, ATPE News, 505 E. Huntland Drive, Suite 250, Austin, TX 78752-3792.

Ex-Patient Returns to Shriners Hospital

Former patient and beloved "Shriners Kid," Juana, (center, in wheelchair) was the focus of a special get-together recently with the staff of the Intermountain Unit of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children in Salt Lake City, Utah. As a child in Bolivia, Juana was critically burned and, because of a subsequent infection, had to have both of her legs amputated. She was eventually brought to the Shriners Hospital for treatment, where her zest for life never wavered. During her three-year stay, the longest of any child at the hospital, Juana brightened many lives. She remains a source of great pride for her two families--the one in Bolivia and the other in Utah, where she's now pursuing a master's degree in child development at Utah State University.

but we were off. We all had cokes, etc. and waited for dinner. It was delicious: fillet mignon, carrots, potatoes, broccoli, rolls, cheese, and ice cream. Then I began to feel decent and I could feel the stress leaving my body. I just didn't think we would make the plane. I set my watch ahead six hours to match London time. So at 9:00 p.m. our time changed to 3:00 a.m. We flew over Detroit, Michigan, and Montreal, Canada, on the way over. Esther and I had a nice visit and then we were ready to try to sleep.

Day 2-Friday

We had an excellent breakfast after a rather sleepless night. We were to arrive at 8:45 a.m. So the flight was approximately nine and one-half hours. We flew over Ireland and could see it clearly. As we were approaching Gatewick, we flew into a heavy bank of clouds, so I think we actually did not land until a little after 9:00. Apparently another plane or two came in at the same time because it took over an hour to go through customs. We met Jan, our tour guide, after we picked up our suitcases. I could tell immediately that we had a "winner" in a tour guide. We went to the coach and drove into London. This took over an hour. We were fortunate about our hotel and its location. Hotel Rubens was on Buckingham Palace Road just across from the Royal Mews and Buckingham Palace.

We checked into our hotel and then met several others and went to Harrod's Department Store. Harrod's is the largest department store in the world. The food department has always been my favorite part. We each bought some tea and an item or two and took a taxi back to the hotel at 4:00. We showered and changed for dinner at 5:30 at the LeCasion. Before leaving for dinner we met the other group with whom we were to travel. The other two groups were from Louisville and Paducah, Kentucky. We surely

Sunday morning water was still rushing across 1760, just like a river, at one point up on the fenders of cars. Most of the travelers were turning around rather than attempting to cross, while those that did cross crept across. A number of dirt roads were flooded, from side to side, giving the effect of a river.

Hail damage could also be seen to young corn along 1760.

The large siren was sounded and all storm shelters were opened, warning Muleshoe residents to take cover, when it was reported that a tornado was spotted at Clay's Corner and it was headed toward Muleshoe. Muleshoe received 1.1 inches of rain. Storm clouds also hit the Lazbuddie and Y.L. area. The Journal talked to Foster Fertilizer Monday morning and a spokesperson told the Journal they received about three inches of rain and some hail Saturday night.

Marilyn Gable, in the Y.L. Community reported that they had two and a half inches of rain and hail.

Mrs. Larry Kemp stated that they lost their cotton earlier in the year and replanted it with maize. Saturday night they lost their maize to the hail.

On the Don Bryant farm, they had from slightly over one and half to two and half inches of rain and hail. Mrs. Bryant stated that they lost their soybeans in the hail storm. They also received hail on their corn.

enjoyed both groups. We had beet stroganoff with rice and I thought it was good but apparently no one else liked it. We had trifle for dessert—and this ended up being the dessert for several nights I think. The restaurant was a small one with pink tablecloths with old wine bottles for candle holders. We were back to our hotel by 8:00, and we were a very tired bunch of travelers. Esther, my sister, and I were sleepy so it didn't take us long to get to bed.

Sudan Celebrates 75th Anniversary

Sudan celebrated its 75th anniversary Saturday with an all day celebration. Downtown Sudan was filled with live music and hundreds of townspeople and former residents from as far away as Hawaii and Virginia.

Sudan High School graduates from a half century ago and earlier gathered at Sudan Hotel or the Senior Citizens' Center to reminisce and chat while the children enjoyed stick-horse races, a tractor pull and water polo.

Sudan had a population of 1,400 people in 1950 but that figure dipped to under 1,000 at the last census. But some of the longtime residents say, its the town's friendly nature that has attracted people over the years. As one Sudan resident who has lived in Sudan since 1923 put it, it's a friendly place. It's a good place to raise kids."

Waymon Gordon, a retired service station owner and a 1933 graduate of Sudan High School, said life in a small town has agreed with him for the six plus decades that he has lived in Sudan.

"I like living in a small town," Gordon said.

Jonelle Bandy married and left Sudan after high school and she and her husband moved back to Sudan three different times before permanently settling there in 1970.

Mrs Bandy said that she had always said as a kid that she would never move back to Sudan, but she moved back three times.

After graduating from Sudan High School in 1941, Genevieve Kerr worked as city security for two years before moving to Lubbock. She and her husband, who worked in the oil patch traveled across the United States for several years. Mrs. Kerr said she returned to Sudan four years ago to care for her ailing mother, who died in December. "The town has changed considerably, we used to have four cotton gins. In 1941, on a Saturday afternoon, you had wall-to-wall people downtown," Ms. Kerr said. "Everyone would come to town, and the stores would stay open until midnight."

Ms. Kerr said one thing has not

July Fourth

Travelers Warned

The Fourth of July is one of the most highly celebrated of all holidays throughout the United States, and rightly so. This occasion should be remembered and should be celebrated, because of the rights and the freedoms that each of us possess.

We are also reminded this time each year that far too many will not have much to celebrate about in this great State of Texas. Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, states, "at least 50 percent of all traffic deaths are alcohol related and during this holiday many people will celebrate this holiday by consuming alcoholic beverages. We urge those that drink to plan their celebrations and to always have a sober driver behind the wheel of their automobiles, if the automobiles must be used. For everyone to remember, if you drink, don't drive—if you drive, don't drink. Become a responsible person, if you are going to drink, help us protect you as well as the other people, on our state streets and highways."

Major Cawthon said, "Remember to obey all traffic laws and to use that little piece of insurance that is lying right beside you, buckle that safety belt. It costs no money and only takes about two seconds to insure yourself. So, let's all have a happy and enjoyable holiday."

changed in Sudan in more than 50 years, is the town's friendly people.

"I never thought I'd come back and live in Sudan, but I still have lots of friends here," she said.

Eighteen Texas Counties Declared Disaster Areas

Low-interest emergency loans are available to eligible farmers and ranchers in 18 Texas counties that were declared federal disaster areas due to freeze or excessive rain between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31, 1991, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

In making the declaration, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan named Briscoe, Clay, Collingsworth, Floyd, Motley and Young counties as primary disaster areas.

In addition, Armstrong, Baylor, Gary, Hall, Jack, Montague, Palo Pinto, Stephens, Swisher, Throckmorton, Wheeler and Wichita counties were declared contiguous disaster areas.

Cottle, Crosby, Dickens, Donley, Hale, King and Lubbock counties were included under the same disaster under a previous disaster designation.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture was unable to confirm that sufficient losses were sustained in Childress and Hockley counties due to the drought and freeze

Report Of Crops Daily Potential Water Use

"Don't Pray For Rain If You Don't Take Care of What You Get" is the title of two historical precipitation charts recently published by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, to commemorate its 40th anniversary.

The two charts show respective precipitation amounts for Lubbock and Amarillo as reported by the National Weather Service during the 80-year period from 1911 through 1991.

Precipitation totals have been previously run in the Water District's monthly newsletter, The Cross Section, and have been very popular with readers.

The historical precipitation charts remind people to maximize the free water provided by Mother Nature, which reduces the demand for ground water.

Also, the charts provide a historical record of the average rainfall in the past and can be used by producers to gauge possible amounts of rainfall in the future to help determine how much irrigation will be necessary to maximize crop yields.

"Water conservation is everyone's responsibility. People need to be aware of rainfall amounts, so that they can take them into account when irrigating their lawns and gardens. By not over-irrigating, they can help conserve area water resources," said A. Wayne Wyatt, Water District manager.

Maximum use of rainfall is also important to agricultural producers "Agricultural production can be increased with utilization of precipitation," said Wyatt. One way of utilizing the precipitation is through furrow diking Furrow dikes are mounds of soil mechanically installed in the furrow that create small reservoirs to hold rainfall. Research has shown that furrow dikes increase yields. For example, for each inch of water available above the basic water needs for plant development, cotton will yield 30 to 40 pounds of lint per acre.

Selected methods of maximizing rainfall by both farmers and townspeople are illustrated by photos and text along the border of the charts.

"The precipitation charts encourage harvesting and utilizing every drop of precipitation possible. The result will be increased crop yields for farmers, lush lawns and gardens for city residents, and an extension of the life of the High Plains Ogallala Aquifer," said Wyatt.

Copies of the Lubbock and Amarillo historical precipitation charts are free of charge to residents within the 15-county High Plains Water District service area.

Wyatt added that brochures between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31, 1991 to designate those counties as primary disaster areas.

These declarations allow family-size farm operators in both the primary and contiguous areas to apply for emergency assistance from the Farmers Home Administration.

To be designated as a primary disaster area, the Farmers Home Administration determines if a sufficient number of farmers in each county suffered losses of 30 percent or more. The counties designated as contiguous disaster were declared so because they were adjacent to the primary disaster area, but did not have the same extent of losses.

Each loan application will be considered on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available, repayment ability and other requirements.

For more information, producers should contact a local FmHA county office.

One way to keep our landfills less full is to recycle our trash instead of just throwing it away and turn it into useful products. A good example of this is the recycling process that leads to the creation of Ruffies® Eco-Choice™ plastic trash bags. New from Carlisle Plastics, Inc., these unique bags are made from film containing at least 33 percent consumer-recycled plastic bottles.

When you buy a plastic milk jug, detergent, water or shampoo bottle, use the contents and throw the bottle away for curbside collection or bring it to a community recycling center, it may be among those purchased by Carlisle and processed in the company's recycling facility. There the bottles are ground, washed and converted into pellets for subsequent blending with a special high-strength plastic to make Eco-Choice bags.

More good news to many is the fact that Eco-Choice bags, which bear the Good Housekeeping seal, are thinner, but just as strong as conventional trash bags, so they contain less plastic—and less material winds up in landfills.

Precautions Protect Hunter and Landowner

Although summer has barely begun, many hunters already are seeking landowners' permission to hunt on private property when deer season opens in November.

Permission is granted via a hunting lease, which may last for the entire season or for a few weeks or days. A lease may be an oral agreement, but this option is not recommended, says Judon Fambrough, an attorney and senior lecturer with the Real Estate Center at Texas A&M University.

"A hunting lease not only grants the hunter permission to enter a landowner's property, it sets the terms and conditions of entry and use," explains Fambrough. "Thus, the lease agreement should be written, read and signed by all parties to avoid potential disputes."

While individual lease terms may vary, key issues should be addressed in all leases.

"Because landowner liability in Texas depends on the amount charged for entry in the lease, landowners may want to use a signed waiver from the hunter releasing the landowner from liability," says Fambrough. "However, the hunter must realize what rights are being given up and must grant the waiver willingly and intentionally."

Further details on arranging a hunting lease are given in Fambrough's The Texas Deer Lease, a 12-page publication from the Real Estate Center. The report, which includes a sample waiver form, is available for $1 in Texas and $2 out of state from the Real Estate Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2115. Request publication NR-570 and include $1 handling charge per order.

For a sample copy of the waiver form only, send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Real Estate Center at the above address.

The Real Estate Center was created in 1971 by the Texas Legislature to meet the needs of many audiences, including the real estate industry, instructors, researchers and the general public. The Center's comprehensive program of research and education yields publications, audiovisuals and computer software distributed widely under the slogan "Solutions Through Research."

Low Interest Loans Available For Farmers

Low-interest emergency loans are available to eligible farmers and ranchers in 17 Texas counties that were declared federal disaster areas due to early freeze, low water temperature and heavy and continuous rainfall from Oct. 1 to Dec. 31, 1991, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

In making the declaration, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan named Cameron, Deaf

Smith and Ellis counties as a primary disaster areas. In addition, 14 contiguous counties were declared disaster areas. They are Castro, Dallas, Henderson, Hidalgo, Hill, Johnson, Kaufman, Navarro, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Tarrant and Willacy counties.

These declarations allow family-size farm operators in both the primary and contiguous areas to apply for emergency assistance from the Farmers Home Administration.

To be designated as a primary disaster area, the Farmers Home Administration determines if a sufficient number of farmers in each county suffered losses of 30 percent or more. The counties designated as contiguous disaster areas were declared so because they were adjacent to the primary disaster area, but did not have the same extent of losses.

Each loan application will be considered on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available, repayment ability and other requirements.

For more information, producers should contact a local FmHA county office.

Government May Dictate Future Cars

(NU)-The federal government may want to put you behind the wheel of a smaller, less safe and more expensive car. This is the warning being sounded by a group called the Coalition for Vehicle Choice, whose more than 2,000 member organizations are opposing higher gas mileage standards for cars and pickup trucks. According to them, Congress is spinning its wheels trying to reduce gasoline use by legislating drastic increases in vehicle mileage requirements.

Several bills have been introduced which would raise motor vehicle fuel economy standards to 40 miles per gallon (mpg) over the next decade. In addition, Congress may consider proposals to limit carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) emissions by the year 2000 that could force the building of smaller and lighter cars, vans and pickup trucks. One may wonder "What does CO<sub>2</sub> have to do with gas mileage?"

CO<sub>2</sub> is one of several gases produced by burning gasoline. Despite what some think, however, it is not a pollutant. In fact, humans exhale CO<sub>2</sub> as a natural part of breathing, and plants need it to create oxygen. But CO<sub>2</sub> is a greenhouse gas, which some say is building up in the atmosphere and causing global warming. Although there is still no consensus in the scientific community on whether global warming is happening or how fast, some say we should limit CO<sub>2</sub> just in case — no matter what the cost to consumers.

Because controlling CO<sub>2</sub> means burning less gasoline, the government would most likely raise gas mileage standards in order to comply with such proposals. Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) standards, as they are called, would have to be raised to as high as 45 mpg. At present, these standards require the fuel economy of the entire fleet of cars produced by each manufacturer to average 27.5 mpg.

Opponents of dramatic increases point to a recent National Research Council study though, which says automakers could meet a 37 mpg standard by the year 2006, but only by building smaller and lighter vehicles. Also, according to the study, a 34 to 37 mpg average would add $500 to $2,750 to the price of a new car or pickup. A simple calculation shows that the money saved at the gas pump by a more fuel efficient vehicle may not be worth it. If the fuel-saving technology costs $1,000 more to get six more mpgs, at today's average gas price of $1.06 per gallon, a consumer wouldn't get the $1,000 investment back until his odometer went past 135,000 miles.

Safety experts both in and out of government warn that higher standards will reduce vehicle safety and utility. Smaller and lighter cars, pickups and vans do not offer as much crash protection as larger, heavier vehicles. Likewise, they are not able to haul large payloads or comfortably accommodate as many passengers as larger vehicles.

The Coalition for Vehicle Choice is urging Americans who want to find the vehicles they need on showroom floors in the future to write or call their members of Congress and tell them to vote against any proposals to increase CAFE standards or to limit CO<sub>2</sub> emissions.

Boll Weevils Planning Fall Arrival

Two mild, wet winters in a row may seem like heaven for Texas ranchers, but the state's cotton farmers likely will play hell with the boll weevil this summer.

An entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says the boll weevil problem is shaping up to be at least two or three times worse this growing season than last year.

"It's not just here, but everywhere in Texas south of Lubbock," said Dr. Tom Fuchs of San Angelo, who has monitored weevil numbers since 1979.

Considered cotton's worst enemy, boll weevils in such high numbers could ruin millions of dollars worth of cotton and cost millions more to control.

Traps monitoring the emergence of boll weevils from diapause, their overwintering state, this spring are finding huge populations. For example, the 177 traps monitoring boll weevil activity in 15 counties south of Lubbock found 21,142 weevils in the last six weeks compared to only 123 during the same period a year ago.

"If population growth continues on this plane, we will see an extremely serious problem by fall," said Roger Haldenby of Lubbock, coordinator for the Texas High Plains Boll Weevil Diapause Control Program for Plains Cotton Growers Inc.

Haldenby, however, does not expect the High Plains above Lubbock, where half of the state's cotton is grown, to be hit by the boll weevil. The diapause control program, which carefully sets planting dates late enough to avoid the boll weevil, has been effective in preventing the spread of the insect into that area for the past 28 years.

Fuchs said the last winter that knocked weevils back hard was in 1990. The coldest weather last winter came in early November after a disastrous October freeze. The icy blast stopped development on a crop already hampered by unseasonable rains.

"The good news about the freeze was that many weevils went into diapause early," said Extension Service entomologist Rick Minzenmayer of Ballinger, who monitors weevil numbers with Fuchs. "Those that didn't were left with little to survive on. Weevils entering diapause early usually emerged early this spring, when there was nothing to eat. Those that made the winter should survive for only a short time if cotton squares are not available."

Minzenmayer said the bad news is that huge numbers of weevils moved from cotton fields to pastures and other overwintering areas last fall, which grew lush with the rains.

The two entomologists are the only ones in the state who annually conduct leaf litter surveys for weevils. These are done to compare likely overwintering boll weevil populations to previous years. The counts and weather data are computerized to help cotton farmers decide how much land to plant, budget control expenses and establish a uniform planting date.

Overwintering areas remain a prime concern of the entomologists. These include fence rows and native pasture, but some of the worst culprits are old abandoned farmsteads. These three-to-five-acre sites usually grow rank with weeds and provide excellent overwintering areas. Weevils that survive in one of these small areas can infest from 100 to 500 acres of cotton, Fuchs said.

"Farmers in this area averaged $17 per acre for weevil control in 1989, a year comparable so far with this one. That amounted to $3.4 million expense over a nine-county cotton producing area (around San Angelo)."

"The only economical defense in breaking the cycle at this point is to plant Rolling Plains cotton uniformly after mid-May and pray that most weevils emerge early and die of starvation," Fuchs said.

The prime attack time for boll weevils is 40-45 days after the cotton is planted--or around July 1 in West Central Texas, he said.

"If this strategy doesn't work, then we can expect a repeat of 1989," Fuchs said. "That year, according to the National Cotton Council, the Rolling Plains lost an estimated 40,000 bales of cotton to the boll weevil alone. At just 50 cents per pound that's roughly $250 per bale or a $10 million loss to Texas farmers."

Check Pet Areas For Fleas And Ticks

Good sanitation is vital in gaining control of fleas and ticks, explained a Texas Christian University scientist.

"If you just put some effort into keeping the litter, the feces and the organic matter picked up around the area where the dog or cat frequents, this is going to lessen your problem," explained Dr. Nick Wilson, assistant director of TCU's ranch management program and holder of a doctorate in entomology.

Pets and the areas where they live should be checked for fleas and ticks every two weeks in the spring and early summer. During this usually warm and humid period the number of fleas and ticks can grow tremendously in just 30 days, Wilson said.

Regular use of a vacuum cleaner can curb the parasite population within the home. "Be sure to take the vacuum bag out and kill those adults that you may clean up or vacuum up as well as the eggs, pupae and larvae that you will be picking up," he said.

Use of pesticides such as malathion spray and Sevin dust offer other means of controlling flea and tick populations, but Wilson cautioned to read label directions so that pets and people won't become poisoned.

Wilson noted that malathion has a strong odor and can alter slightly the paint color of vehicles in the path of the spray mist. Areas such as a yard, porch or dog house can be treated effectively with a five-to-10-percent Sevin dust, Wilson said.

Keeping a pet healthy by regular visits to veterinarian for vaccinations and checkups is beneficial in controlling flea and tick problems, he said.

Big Time Stars Hop Onto Storytelling Bandwagon

In a California TV studio, actress-turned-director/producer Shelley Duvall directs megastars Robin Williams, Liza Minnelli, Jeff Bridges and Vanessa Redgrave in filming a segment for a new storytelling cable TV series.

In a Texas shopping mall, crowds gather around a giant yellow apple which forms the backdrop for the Mott's Storytelling Family Theatre stage on which professional storytellers regale young and old--a theatre that will travel to malls across the country through October.

A Connecticut school auditorium is packed to capacity one half hour before a professional storyteller is scheduled to appear and spin legendary yarns passed down from one generation to the next.

And already plans are furiously underway for the biggest storytelling event of all, the 20th Anniversary conclave of the National Storytelling Festival which will attract thousands to the historic village of Jonesborough, Tennessee this fall.

The storytelling festival, also sponsored by Mott's, will bring together nearly 100 professional storytellers who have appeared at the annual festival since its inception in 1973.

Storytelling is catching on in a big way says Wiley Mullins, Mott's USA Senior Marketing Manager. "People are discovering that the sharing of our heritage and folklore, via storytelling, can bring us together. Through the sharing of traditional stories, similarities between peoples are reinforced."

Ms. Duvall, perhaps best known for her role as Olive Oyl in the film "Popeye," says she wants to keep the art of storytelling alive. So she came up with "Shelley Duvall's Bedtime Stories," an anthology of animated stories based on famous tales shown on Showtime cable television.

"I've selected stories from my generation and some from my parents' generation, too," she says.

"Narrators will include Ringo Starr, Bette Midler, Michael J. Fox, Martin Short, Bonnie Raitt, John Candy, James Earl Jones and Dudley Moore."

The bookshelves in Duvall's office are lined with an eclectic collection of fairy tales and children's storybooks, including several first editions from Bambi to Tarzan.

How has Duvall been able to secure the star-studded lineup for her storytelling TV series? "Storytelling has captured everybody's imagination," she says. "It's time has come."

For information on the 20th Annual Nation Storytelling Festival, October 2-4, 1992, contact the National Association for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling, P.O. Box 309, Jonesborough TN. 37659, 615/7453-2171.

Watch Out For Summer Heat

Summer--the season for rising temperatures and numerous outdoor activities--is in full swing. However, time spent in the sweltering heat can take its toll unless some precautions are taken.

When exercising or playing outdoor sports, drink plenty of liquids to replenish the body's fluids. According to Chuck Barton, M.D., medical director of Methodist Hospital's Emergency Room, if an adequate amount of fluids are not replaced, dehydration can result.

"One warning sign of dehydration is heat cramps," Dr. Barton said. "If cramping occurs, sit down and relax, dab yourself with wet towels and drink plenty of cool water."

Heat exhaustion, a more serious condition, can follow dehydration. However, it does not necessarily occur immediately; instead, it can take several days or even weeks to develop. Symptoms of heat exhaustion can include cool clammy skin, headache, nausea, dizziness, profuse sweating and an elevated temperature.

To treat heat exhaustion, loosen or remove tight clothing, lay down with feet propped up and drink water. When symptoms begin to subside a little, seek medical attention.

The worst case scenario is heatstroke. Symptoms include a red blotchy face which then turns white, dizziness and confusion, and cessation of perspiration.

Heatstroke is life threatening and emergency personnel should be notified immediately.

"Until paramedics arrive, cool the body by fanning and soaking in cool water or wrapping in wet sheets; slowly begin to drink fluids," Dr. Barton said.

To prevent heat associated illnesses, avoid outdoor activities from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. because these are the hottest hours of the day, drink more fluids than normal; and get plenty of rest.

Texas Peaches Best Quality Ever

Texas peach producers expect to harvest one of the best-quality crops of the past decade, but low prices have dimmed grower optimism as producers are facing a flood of peaches from Georgia and California, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

Standing in a peach orchard near the Oklahoma border, Perry today reminded consumers to look for Texas peaches at the grocery store.

"Nothing beats a juicy Texas peach only hours from the tree," Perry said. "Other states are keeping their best peaches for markets back home, and we're getting what's left over. And those peaches have been jostled clear across the country for days."

"Texans don't have to settle for leftovers!"

Approximately 2,000 acres of peached dot northern Wichita and Clay counties, representing a major investment by growers to the Texas peach industry and to the agricultural economy of both counties.

The North Texas crop is in good condition this year, and additional moisture from the continued rains has produced large peaches on some orchards.

"Quality is good, and Texas peaches are going to be the best on the market this year," Perry told the group gathered at Tucker Farm. "The pick of the peach crop is right here in Texas. That's important to remember, since we're facing a flood of peaches coming in from other states, driving grower prices down."

Tucker Farm is one of the members of the Farm Trail, a group of growers along Highway 171 who promote the local produce industry. The Peach Festival on Thursday, June 18, is the kickoff event of the summer produce season in the Charlie area. The festival is an annual event featuring a celebrity ice cream crank off.

According to figures released by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service, Texas production is estimated at approximately 563,000 bushels. Although total overall production is down 16 percent from last year, producers in some areas of the state are looking at a bumper crop. "Peach production from the Texas Hill Country could easily top 200,000 bushels this year making it one of the best crops in recent history for those producers," Perry said.

The continued rains that have helped the quality of the North Texas peach crop have taken their toll on area wheat production. The wheat crop from Abilene to Wichita Falls had started out to be one of the best crops in recent years, according to Bill Nelson from the Texas Wheat Producers Association.

However, high winds and heavy rains have knocked fields down, and lodging has been a problem in many areas. "The grain has also started sprouting in the heads, which knocks the quality and lowers the price growers receive," Nelson said.

Many wheat fields have been too wet to harvest, and conditions continue to deteriorate with the additional rainfall, Perry said.

Texas Farm Bureau Report

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has granted a Texas Department of Agriculture request that will allow farmers emergency use of the insecticide Asana XL on grain sorghum, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

"We appreciate EPA's quick response on this matter," Perry said. "Without this method of control, our sorghum farmers were projected to lose as much as $10 million this summer to the sorghum midge."

The sorghum midge is a type of fly that is primarily controlled by planting sorghum early and having it flower before midge populations can seriously threaten crops. But this season's heavy rains caused sorghum crops to be planted late, Perry said.

Along with midges, Asana XL also may be used to control headworms.

Plan A Totally Texas Fourth of July Celebration

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said that celebrating the Fourth of July with a Totally Texas Menu is as American as apple pie—made with fresh Texas apples, of course.

"I can't think of a better way to celebrate America's birthday than with a 'Totally Texas' meal," Perry said, noting that agriculture is the second largest industry in Texas, the nation's second largest agricultural producer.

"Our abundant supply of Texas-grown commodities makes planning a 'Totally Texas' backyard barbecue or picnic in the park easy for everyone," Perry said. "What's more—it's good for Texas agriculture, too!"

Totally Texas Menu, a marketing initiative Perry launched in November, is designed to expand markets for Texas farmers and ranchers by encouraging restaurants, hotels, caterers and the public to plan and consume meals using Texas-grown or -processed commodities.

In addition to barbecue brisket, hamburgers, fried chicken and potato salad made with potatoes from the High Plains, Texas consumers can look forward to adding Texas apples to this year's Fourth of July menu.

Apple harvest is underway around Bandera and should last until October in the Hill Country.

"Right now, the only fresh apples coming to market nationally are from Texas," Perry said, noting that most apples currently in grocery stores are storage apples picked last fall. "Once folks get a taste of a sweet, fresh Texas apple, our crop is going to sell itself!"

This is the first year of commercial production for Texas Hill Country Orchards in Kerrville, which, at more than 450 acres, is the state's largest apple orchard. Approximately 200 acres will be harvested, and production from the orchard is forecast at 45,000 bushels.

Harvest at Texas Hill Country Orchards is expected to start in mid-July with the gala variety. Other varieties being harvested this season are braeborn, granny smith and fuji, a long season, slow maturing apple.

Fourth of July means red, white and blueberry time for growers in East Texas, who expect to harvest about 1.3 million pounds of berries this year. Harvest should peak by the end of June, and quality of this year's crop is good.

"Plump, sweet Texas blueberries make the perfect Fourth of July topping to a bowl of hand-cracked ice cream," Perry said, "especially if it's ice cream made with fresh Texas peaches."

"This is one of the best quality peach crops we've had in decades," Perry said, "and producers in some areas are bringing in a bumper harvest."

The traditional way to top off a Fourth of July celebration is with an ice cold Texas watermelon. Harvest is winding down in the Rio Grande Valley and is well underway in the Winter Garden around San Antonio. Texas producers expect to harvest 30,000 acres of watermelons this year.

LUBBOCK, Friday, June 26, 1992

By Shawn Wade

Officials at Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) say an effort to maintain funding for the Market Promotion Program is now in full swing.

While the House of Representatives has been getting ready to consider legislation that authorizes funding for the program, cotton industry officials have been contacting key Congressmen to solidify support for the program. Consideration of the legislation could begin before Congress' July 4 break.

Opponents of the program portray the MPP as a "waste" of taxpayer money and at the least would greatly limit funding for the program, others want the program completely abolished.

PCG officials are currently working with the National Cotton Council (NCC) and other industry groups to drum up support for the program which has helped increase export sales of U.S. cotton by an average of $437 million each year since the MPP began.

PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson says, "The current effort to do away with the Market Promotion Program threatens to reduce vital export markets that serve cotton producers Beltwide."

Opponents of the MPP say the $200 million designated for the program in 1992 would be better spent in other areas. Increases in cotton exports and the expansion of overseas markets for U.S. cotton effectively refute these claims.

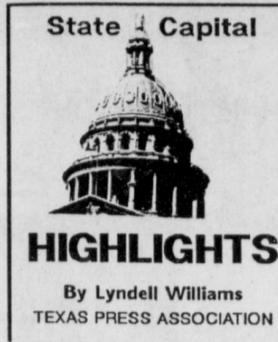

Since the program started in 1985 cotton export sales have averaged $437 million per year more than they were before 1985. Cotton exports topped the 7 million bale mark in 1991 and are expected to stay near the same level in 1992.

Cotton producers on the High Plains of Texas could be severely affected if funding for the program is significantly lowered or totally removed. A significant portion of the High Plains crop is sold in export markets each year.

"Elimination of the Market Promotion Program will have many unfavorable effects," notes Johnson. "Two of the most serious will be the loss of vital export markets and the negative effect a reduced export market will have on the balance of trade between the U.S. and other countries."

In 1986, U.S. cotton producers exported 5.3 million bales of cotton. By 1991 exports have climbed to more than 7 million bales with the help of the aggressive overseas promotion program conducted by Cotton Council International under the MPP. Beltwide the marketing of over 7 million bales overseas in 1991 provided more than $2 billion in annual sales to U.S. cotton producers.

"The MPP is an important vehicle for increasing the global marketshare of U.S. and High Plains cotton," adds Johnson. "PCG, the NCC and other industry segments will continue to fight for the continuation of this highly effective program."

AUSTIN - Political eyes of Texas turned briefly from Washington, D.C. to Houston last week, where the nation's mayors convened for their 1992 conference.

With Gov. Ann Richards and several state officials in attendance, politics was the main course served.

None outdid Jesse Jackson, who proposed a $1 trillion national version of the World Bank.

Funded by public and private pension funds and/or new taxes, the bank would make loans to ailing U.S. cities.

Gov. Richards and other officials did not say whether they supported Jackson's ideas, but they, of course, have money needs of their own.

Hispanics Offer Plan

For example, back in Austin, several Hispanic leaders proposed a $2 billion settlement to end a lawsuit against the state for discrimination against South Texas in higher education funding.

Led by former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros and leaders from the 41-county region, the group outlined its program to build medical schools and expand facilities and graduate programs on 11 campuses.

Do this, they said, and we will call off our attorneys.

Already Hard-pressed

Certainly, their bold ploy turned up the heat on Gov. Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and members of the Legislature.

Already faced with a shortage of money for public schools now funded by an illegal-but-collected-anyway tax, the state is hard-pressed to find dollars anywhere.

The lawsuit is peculiar: Brownsville District Judge Benjamin Euresi overturned a jury verdict to find the present higher education system unconstitutional for depriving Mexican-Americans equal education.

Morales: Cisneros' Protege

Attorney General Dan Morales will argue the state's appeal in October before the Texas Supreme Court; if he wins, the heat is off for awhile.

However, Cisneros' presence as plaintiff spokesman can't help but put Morales in a strange political spotlight.

Not only is Morales from San Antonio, but Capitol politicians remember a closer connection.

Three years ago, Mayor Cisneros was positioning for governor; in fact, he was the Democrats' golden boy until he fell from grace over a publicized affair and pending divorce scandal.

Knowing it wasn't his year, Cisneros handed the reins of his organization to local state representative Morales, who rode it into the attorney general's office.

School Audit Hot Line

State Auditor Larry Alwin, whose office is auditing 51 Texas school districts, urged people to call a toll-free hot line, (800) 829-8348, if they have tips that his employees should examine.

"Teachers, parents and students can tell us firsthand about school programs that are working. They can also tell where our tax dollars are being spent wisely," Alwin said.

The management audits are to be completed by November.

$40.7 Million for Texas

Texas will receive $40.7 million earmarked for summer jobs as part of an emergency urban aid bill signed into law last week by President Bush.

Eight Texas cities will split $12.1 million of the jobs funding: Dallas, which will get $2.4 million; Corpus Christi, $575,000; El Paso, $1.6 million; Fort Worth, $1.2 million; Houston, $3.5 million; San Antonio, $1.9 million; and Arlington, $290,000.

Another $28.5 million in summer-job funds will be allotted by the governor.

The $1.1 billion package, passed in response to rioting in Los Angeles last spring, is expected to create 414,000 jobs nationwide at a total cost of $500 million.

Wait Your Turn, Steve

Dallas mayor Steve Bartlett, a Republican and former congressman, may have inadvertently revealed his future political plans.

During a meeting last week to talk about summer jobs programs for teen-agers, Bartlett said, "When I became governor, uh, when I became mayor..."

Gov. Richards, a Democrat, who was in the same meeting, wagged her finger at him and said: "Not yet, Steve."

Other Highlights

■ The average faculty salary at a Texas public university is $5,000 below the $49,883 average for the 10 most populous states, a recent study shows. Professors are better paid in New Jersey, California, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Illinois and Georgia, in that order.

■ Texas senators recently learned they will probably convene Jan. 12 in an underground auditorium expected to be completed this year, because restoration of the Senate chamber will be unfinished. Senators also learned the price tag for the restoration and new construction has risen from $149 million to $185 million.

■ The Ku Klux Klan wasted no time scheduling a round of cross-burnings to celebrate the Supreme Court's ruling that a law against the practice was constitutional. "We're so pleased with the announcement, we thought it was time to light the cross," James Stansfield, Imperial Wizard of the Confederate Knights in Channelview, said.

Sound Bites

Force Candidates To Be Succinct

First used in the Eisenhower campaign, perfected in the Kennedy era and shrunk in recent presidential elections, the sound bite has become America's favorite way of communicating, according to a Texas Christian University media professor.

"We have condensed all messages into 30-second bites," explained Dr. David Whillock.

Whillock, who also owns a political consulting business, said a generation of Americans raised on television now expects news and advertisements to come to them "quick and dirty." This anticipation leaves little time to discuss the issues, he said.

Whillock noted that even talking about the issues has been reduced to sound bites where words like "race relations" and "homelessness" spew from candidates' mouths with few or no details following.

"Those are words for much deeper issues that we don't have time to go into," he suggested.

Despite the criticism of sound bites, Whillock defended the short statements by saying they force candidates to be succinct about their platforms and they offer voters a way to identify with politicians' ideas.

Clydesdales In Full Stride At Sea World

The world-famous Clydesdale horses, regal ambassadors for the Anheuser-Busch Companies and newest residents of Sea World of Texas, evoke expressions of amazement from visitors at the San Antonio marine life park.

Renowned for their majestic physical stature and awesome strength, the Clydesdales can be seen throughout the park's '92 season which concludes in November. There are 13 of these graceful but powerful "gentle giants" at Sea World, including a mare and her colt.

"The Sea World-Anheuser-Busch relationship, plus the fact that we are a premier zoological facility, makes this exhibit a natural for our park," said Robin Carson, Sea World of Texas general manager. "Like whales and dolphins, Clydesdales have brought much joy to millions over the years. By sharing these magnificent creatures with our guests, we further diversify and enhance the zoological, educational and entertainment quality of a visit to Sea World."

Sea World guests can view the Clydesdales daily, promenading throughout the park or at their exhibit near A Place To Meet, the park's multi-purpose, special-events pavilion. The huge horses reside in a spacious, one-acre compound complete with covered stalls and two large outdoor paddock area for show and exercise.

A staff of seven grooms (or handlers) provides around-the-clock care for the animals. Each day, drivers hitch a team of eight horses to their historic Studebaker-built red delivery wagon for a parade through the park.

The Clydesdale breed, long admired for its awesome strength, size and beauty, has been associated with Anheuser-Busch for almost 60 years, Carson noted. Clydesdales are an awe-inspiring animal, standing 6 feet tall at the shoulder and weighing up to 2,300 pounds when fully mature. They are capable of pulling loads in excess of a ton at a walking speed of 5 miles per hour.

When the Clydesdales travel, they are transported by tractor-trailer rigs customized for the horses' comfort and safety. Special amenities include cameras in each trailer that monitor the animals, and air-cushioned suspension and thick rubber flooring for a smoother ride.

Also new for '92 at Sea World is the new multi-million-dollar children's play area, Shamu's Happy Harbor; a kids-free admission offer which entitles a child age 3 to 11 free entry to the park with each paid one-day adult ticket (restrictions apply); and a superior concert series featuring superstar appearances by some of the biggest names in entertainment.

Sea World is open daily through August 30, and weekends and some holidays this fall. For more Sea World of Texas information, call 512-523-3630.

Gulf Greyhound Park Awards Contracts

The excitement continues to build as Gulf Greyhound Park, the world's largest greyhound racing facility awards six of 18 kennel bookings.

Kennel owners receiving their bookings have built their businesses from Texas bred greyhounds. Their operations are based in Lubbock, Slaton, Midland, Mulshoe, Waco and Lone Oak.
Gulf Greyhound Park will award 12 more bookings, with each kennel housing 60 of the top racing greyhounds in the industry.

Eighty-seven formal applications were received from kennel owners across the country, as well as numerous phone inquiries. "From the many applications received, we were able to select from the best in the industry. With a very competitive kennel booking, some of the successful kennels will have the opportunity to win over a million dollars in purse winnings during the course of a season," says Paul W. Bryant, Jr.,
President, Gulf Greyhound Park.

Lubbock native Charles Pevehouse of Pevehouse Kennel was excited to receive his booking.
Pevehouse has been in the greyhound racing business for 22 years and his best dog, "Home Spun Rowdy," has $298,000 in purse winnings under his collar.

Currently, Pevehouse races in Florida and Idaho. He believes that the best purses and dogs will be at Gulf Greyhound Park. "When the money gets here, the dogs will come," Pevehouse stated.

George Harlan Kennel, Inc., of Slaton, Texas also received a booking at Gulf Greyhound park.
"We are excited to be working with Mr. Harlan again. He has been a close friend and very successful at our other tracks in Alabama and Iowa," said Bryant.

Being a Texas native, Harlan feels very fortunate to receive a booking at Gulf Greyhound Park. "I have always wanted to run in Texas, and a man can make some money running here," stated Harlan.

His best dog was "Randy Handy," who was named Sprinter-of-the-Year, All-American and All-World.
"Randy Handy" holds over $253,000 in purse winnings.

Also receiving a kennel booking is the Hennigan-Petzold Kennel.
Operators Paul Hennigan of Waco,
Texas and David Petzold of Altus,
Oklahoma, currently race at Valley
Greyhound Park in Harlingen.

After receiving word that they were awarded a kennel booking, Gerald Erwin of Erwin Racing in Midland, Texas stated he plans to bring a young kennel to Gulf Greyhound Park. "I've got some young dogs at Harlingen and Greenetrack that we're excited about," said Erwin.

Erwin credits his success to his "family operation," involving his wife and children into the daily routine.

The James Robinson Kennel also received a booking at Gulf Greyhound Park. "So many kennel owners here (at Gulf Greyhound Park) will be from Texas, and they've been in the business for years. This is home and where they've always wanted to be.
They'll be proud to race in Texas," stated James Robinson from Mulshoe, Texas.

Additionally, the Stokes-LaRosa
Kennel received a kennel booking.
Out of Lone Oak, Texas, Stokes-LaRosa Kennel brings over 30 years of experience to Gulf Greyhound Park. "I feel really good about the chance to race here and in the state of Texas. For many years we've always had to race out of state, it's great being able to race at home," said Robert Stokes.

The Stokes-LaRosa Kennel will bring a host of young greyhounds and boasts of "Bob's Cruising" as the up and coming greyhound expected to create some excitement at Gulf Greyhound Park.

All kennel owners will hire up to three kennel operators, some of which will come from the Galveston county area. Gulf Greyhound Park is expected to announce additional kennel bookings within the next week.

Gulf Greyhound Park is located on I-45 South at Exit 15 in LaMarque. A fall opening date is expected to be announced soon.

Vick Fazio, Congressman (D-Calif):

"There's no question that people to be disclosed are going to have some explaining to do," commenting on hundreds of House members who overdraw House bank accounts and didn't repay."
