OBITUARIES

Robert Coleman Stubblefield

Robert Coleman Stubblefield

June 11, 1936 - December 31, 2017
Robert (Bob) Stubblefield passed away peacefully at the age of 81 on December 31, 2017 surrounded by his family at McKee Medical Center in Loveland.

Bob was born in Bakersfield California to Mildred and Robert Stubblefield. He has three sisters, Dorothy Stancliff of Montana, Trudy Hylton of California and Lois Hood of New Hampshire. Bob grew up in Kernville California and after graduating high school he enlisted into the Army where he was stationed in France with a transportation unit. After his time in the military, he became a dynamite demolitionist and foreman for Yeager Construction in Riverside California. He retired after 36 years with the company. In 1964 Bob married his first love Sharon and they had two children; Michael Robert and Carrie Lee. In 1989 he married his second love Billie, gained five more wonderful children and was with her until her untimely passing.

He loved spending time with his family and friends reminiscing about his days working on the farm hauling hay with his dad, land surveying in the Sierra Mountains on snowshoes, meeting Natalie Wood in Kernville California filming a scene for a movie, meeting Red Skelton on a highway construction site in California and meeting Dale Evans in a hospital in San Bernardino California where he was an inpatient after rolling his work truck down the side of Big Bear Mountain. Bob lived his life to the fullest and always had a story or joke to share.

Bob was an extremely humble man and was always there to help others no matter what the circumstances were, he never realized the impact he made on people's lives. He was known by many nieces as the gentle giant. One of Bob's most recent favorite past times was attending the PAMVET breakfast every Saturday morning. Attending this breakfast meant the world to Bob, he found a new joy which was refreshing to his family. All the PAMVET veterans meant so much to Bob, they were like his second family. Bob lived his last days with one goal in mind, attending his grand daughter's wedding on December 18, 2017. He passed away two weeks later.

Bob is survived by his daughter Carrie Lee Audas and her husband Will, his three grandchildren Jeremy Audas and his wife Aubreigh, Cierra Pfeiffer and her husband Andrew and Michael Audas who was born on his grandfather's 64 birthday, his sister Dorothy Stancliff, Trudy Hylton, Lois Hood and several nieces and nephews. He is also survived by stepchildren Darrel Chastain and his wife Cheryl, Duke Chastain, Richard Chastain, grandchildren, Curtis Chastain, Phinesia Taylor, Amanda Grubb, Clinton Grubb, Kristina Chandler, Jonathan Rodman, Sara Sufentes and 15 great grandchildren.

He is preceded in death by his parents Mildred and Robert Stubblefield, first wife Sharon Stubblefield, son Michael Robert Stubblefield, wife Billie Stubblefield, step-son Charles Chastain, and step-daughter Lori Grubb.

Special thank you to the veterans with PAMVET for all your love, support and friendship and to UHealth EMS and paramedics Sharon Lowery and Leslie Nine for volunteering your time to transport Bob to and from his granddaughters wedding and caring for his medical needs and to Chief Pat Songer for organizing and overseeing the transportation. In lieu of flowers, please donate to the Wounded Warrior Project, support. woundedwarriorproject.org

Cross Plains VFD Needs Your Help

The Cross Plains Volunteer Fire Department needs your help!

Many people may not realize that equipment like the "Jaws of Life" and the air tanks and breathing apparatus that the firemen use in house and structure fires need to be inspected and re-certified each year.

This inspection on the life-saving equipment, plus major repairs to the firetrucks, has cost the Fire Department over $10,000, just in the past month or so.

This expenditure, plus insurance and other current expenses have left the department in a financial crunch.

Over the past year, the Cross Plains Volunteer Fire Department responded to 69 calls, many of those were grass fires that the department was able to contain and keep the damage to a minimum.

Some of the calls were for automobile wrecks, where the "Jaws of Life" and other instruments were used to extricate people from their vehicle.

Other calls were for structure fires and automobile fires.

CPVFD has been there on call, ready to roll and put out the fire and work the wreck.

Now, CPVFD needs you help. If you've been thinking about making a donation to help out local fire department, now is the time.

Please send your tax-deductible donation to: CPVFD, P. O. Box 399, Cross Plains, TX 76443.

Cross Plains Public Library Book-to-Movie Event Next Week

"...I'm a nobody that's tryin to tell everybody 'bout Somebody that can save anybody." "But I found out everybody's different-the same kind of different as me. We're all just regular folks walkin down the road God done set in front of us." - Denver Moore

The Cross Plains Public Library will host a book-to-movie event featuring "Same Kind of Different as Me: A Modern-Day Slave, an International Art Dealer, and the Unlikely Woman Who Bound Them Together" by Ron Hall and Denver Moore, on Thursday, March 22, beginning at 5:30p.m. Join us in the Multi-Purpose Room of the library to watch the movie and then head to Jean's Feed Barn for a Dutch-treat dinner to discuss the book vs. the movie. Participants may purchase their own copy of the book or pick up a copy for $5 at the library. Kids can check out the book "Same Kind of Different as Me, For Kids" from the library. Parents are encouraged to discuss the topics addressed in the book with their children.

"Same Kind of Different as Me" is a true biography/autobiography story taking place in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The authors, Ron Hall - a rich white entrepreneur who deals in international art, and Denver Moore - a homeless black man, recount their story of forgiveness, trust, hatred, bigotry, compassion, fear, and brotherhood. And Ron's wife, Miss Debbie, is a catalyst for representing how ONE person can affect MANY others and how actions have a rippling effect to touch so many more. Be sure to join us to view this profound film and participate in a lively discussion!

Anson Jones, the last President of Texas

Texas and the frontier attracted many settlers who sought a chance to start over from frustrating failures in the East. Dr. Anson Jones, a physician, merchant, and teacher, saw his own life tumble to the brink of ruin. Jones worked his way up from his most desperate days, eventually becoming a respected diplomat and the fourth elected president of the Texas Republic.

Jones was born in January 1798 in Massachusetts. As a young man, Texas and politics were the furthest things from his mind. He initially trained to be a printer, but friends saw his insight and intelligence and encouraged him to pursue a career in medicine instead.

He traveled to New York, and even though he had very little formal education, he was granted a license by a local medical society and began practicing medicine in 1820. Medical science was still primitive at the time, and there were few medical schools. Simply by proving his competency and skill, he was able to begin his medical career. However, Jones struggled financially for many years. He opened a pharmacy in addition to his practice in New York, but both ultimately failed.

He settled in Pennsylvania by 1824 where he set up a new practice also opened up a one-room school. Jones continued to face legal problems because of his mounting debts. He worked off his bills and continued to study medicine, eventually earning a medical degree from Jefferson Medical College by 1827. He drifted down to New Orleans in 1832 and spent a year as a merchant. By this point, Jones was greatly frustrated with his life. His career as a doctor was in ruins, and his run as a merchant left him heavily bankrupt. Friends encouraged him to move to Texas. With little left to lose, Jones moved once again to improve his fortunes.

Jones settled in Brazoria County, outside modern-day Houston in 1833 as relations between Texas settlers and the Mexican government disintegrated. Finally, his luck started to change. Few doctors were available in the area at the time, and his practice took off. He became a respected member of the community. In 1835, he was a delegate to the Consultation; a meeting of Texans to discuss their concerns about the actions of the Mexican government. When war erupted between Texas and Mexico that fall, Jones openly spoke out in favor of independence and joined the Texas Army as a surgeon.

He was soon elected to the Texas Congress, representing Brazoria County. In June 1838, Texas President Sam Houston appointed Jones to become the Texas Ambassador to the United States. Houston had pushed for annexation to the U.S., but fears of provoking war with Mexico and increasing concerns about adding more slave territory to the United States by adding Texas left annexation hopes in ruins. Houston reluctantly asked Jones to withdraw the Texas petition for annexation.

Jones returned to Texas in 1839 and found that he had been elected to the Senate. He became an active critic of Houston's successor, Mirabeau B. Lamar. Houston asked Jones to run for vice-president in the 1841 election, but he declined. Houston, however, believed in his skills and asked him to serve as secretary of state for his three-year term. With Houston's second term in office, he was determined to make annexation a reality. He worked with Jones to develop a strategy to increase American interest in Texas once again. The two worked to cultivate closer trade relations with England and France, provoking American fears of their two trade rivals getting a foothold in Texas. American President John Tyler began working to secure an-nextion by 1843, aggressively pursuing negotiations while more nations became interested in trade with Texas.

Annexation became major issues in the 1844 presidential elections in both Texas and the United States. Jones ran for the presidency against Vice-President Edward Burleson. Burleson accused Jones of opposing annexation because of the expansion of trade with Europe, accusing him of wanting Texas to be a puppet state to France and England. Jones knew that annexation was not assured as many politicians and abolitionists rallied to block Texas entry into the Union. Houston endorsed Jones in the tight contest. In the end, Jones won the election, with 7,037 votes over the 5,668 cast for Burleson. Though the 55.4% for Jones was a decisive victory, it was the closest presidential election in the history of the Texas Republic.

Jones served as the last president of Texas. He presided over the transition from independent nation to statehood. In 1844, he was at the peak of his career, risen from the ashes of a difficult past.

Texas Historical Commission news briefs

TEXAS HISTORICAL COMMISSION KICKS OFF STAY AN EXTRA DAY IN TEXAS SWEEPSTAKE

The Texas Historical Commission's (THC) Texas Heritage Trails Program (THTP) is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year by launching a 10-month-long sweepstakes with prize packages offering travel getaways—one to each of the 10 trail regions. The Stay an Extra Day Sweepstakes encourages travelers to take a deeper dive into their explorations of the Lone Star State by staying an extra day. In the spirit of Texas Independence Month, the THC is kicking off the sweepstakes with a revolutionary trip to the Texas Independence Trail Region. Entries are now being accepted until March 31 for a chance to win lodging, tours, and meals for two in and around historic Goliad. The prize package includes two nights of lodging at the Quarters in Presidio La Bahia in Goliad; guided tours of Presidio La Bahia, Fannin Battleground State Historic Site, and the 1894 Goliad County Courthouse; and three meals for two at local restaurants.

The contest is open to adults ages 18 and older. For more information and to enter the contest, visit www.ExtraDayInTexas.com. Follow @txhistcomm on Twitter and Instagram for dates and announcements.

The Texas Heritage Trails

Program is the THC's award-winning heritage tourism initiative. An economic development measure, the THTP encourages communities, heritage regions, and the state to partner and promote Texas' historic and cultural resources. These local preservation efforts, combined with statewide marketing of heritage regions as tourism destinations help Texas communities promote tourism, revitalize local economies, and foster community leadership through historic preservation.

The Trail Regions are based on the original 10 scenic driving trails created in 1968 by Gov. John Connally and the Texas Highway Department (now the Texas Department of Transportation) for HemisFair. APPLICATIONS FOR TEXAS MAIN STREET DESIGNATION NOW AVAILABLE

The application process for becoming designated as an official Texas Main Street community is now open. The application and timelines are available on the Texas Historical Commission's (THC) website at thc.texas.gov/becoming-main-street-community. Since 1981, the Texas Main Street Program has been helping revitalize historic downtowns across the state, drawing in billions of dollars of reinvestment while preserving the character of each participating community.

The application includes complete information about the process; optional Intent to Apply notification; Selection Criteria; and sample budgets. Applications are due July 31, 2018. An optional Intent to Apply notification is due April 27. Information about the Intent to Apply is included on page 8 of the application. Applications are considered by Commissioners of the THC at the fall quarterly meeting in October, and official entrance into the program occurs January 1, 2019.

Applications are considered based upon five primary criteria: historic commercial fabric; historic character; community and private sector support and organizational capacity; support and financial capacity; physical capacity and business environment; and demonstrated need. Each year, up to five cities or historic neighborhood commercial districts may be selected. Designated communities receive a range of services and resources through designation that includes professional expertise provided to the program, and to downtown property and business owners in the areas of design, preservation, downtown-specific economic development, organizational management, and small business development.

Additional information about the TMSP can be found on the THC website at www.thc.texas.gov. Application questions can be directed to TMSP State Coordinator Debra Drescher at 512-463-5758 or debra.drescher@thc.texas.gov.
