Cost of these eight sessions will be $50.00-$40.00 for the course and $10.00 for lab fee, two checks please.

No prior computer knowledge is required, however, typing skills are recommended.

Cubs Graduate Into Boy Scouts

Ron Nail of Lubbock presented Betty Griswold a 50 year Veterans Pin during the Cub Scout Blue and Gold Banquet, held Saturday night in the fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church. In making the presentation, Nail said, "We don't give many of these away, and its a honor to have a 50 year veteran in the George White District, right here in Muleshoe." Nail also presented Mrs. Griswold a necklace, made of 12 Bear Claws and 50 Gold Beads, one for each year, and a Magdalen, given to him by Mrs. Griswold in 1972. Mrs. Griswold received a standing ovation, wiping tears from her eyes Mrs. Griswold stepped out into the crowd and hugged some of her boys--yes yes with her love for the scouts Mrs. Griswold calls them all her boys. A (50 year) cake presented to Mrs. Griswold in Lubbock was served at the banquet.

Webelos II posted the colors and Curtis Shelburne gave the invocation.

Following the meal, Mrs. Griswold, serving as mistress of ceremonies, welcomed everyone to the banquet and recognized the special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore, Hough Young, Jim Lutz, Ron Nail, and John Cory.

Mrs. Griswold also thanked all of the mothers who prepared the food and those helping with the decorating.

Bill Moore, superintendent of schools, was the guest speaker. "This is the first of many graduations for each of you as you graduate into Boy Scouts," Moore said. "You will be involved in more things and the more you get to do, you also get more responsibilities. You should learn to listen to your leaders. I would like to thank all of the leaders for working with the young people. I would like to thank the parents--success in scouts or school cannot be done with out the parents help. I applaud each of you on your graduation."

The boys were all encouraged to strive for the Eagle Scout Award.

Terry Hutto and a group of scouts, joined by all of the scouts attending, led "I've Got The Scouting Spirit" and the crowd was asked to join in as "Singing In The Rain" was sang.

Mrs. Griswold recognized Hugh Young and Jim Lutz, Kiwanians, for the Kiwanias Club's help with the scouting program.

Dr. Bruce Purdy and Hutto conducted a graduation ceremony for all the Webelos who were graduating into Boy Scouts including: Tyson Purdy, Ronnie Orozco, Michael Don Lopez, Brett Clements, T.J. Hutto, Jeffrey Snell, Nick Hale, Gary Jones, Dusty Kidd, Jeremy Tosh, Patrick Black, Chris Vaughn, Chris Hale and Greyson Renels. Parents of these Cubs were asked to come forward and join their sons.

Brett Clements and Chris Vaughn were not present for the graduation.

"This is the highest honor you can earn as Cub Scouts," said Chief Tato'Kola Waci'Pi, who helped with the graduation. The chief explained the seven virtues of life, Wisdom, Courage, Self Control, Justice, Hope, Faith and Love.

The Chief gave each of the mothers a pin stating, "It's appropriate for the mothers to pin the boys pins on since they play an important role in their scouting program. After the mothers had pinned their sons, the sons pinned their mothers.

As the Cubs promised to do their part to keep America beautiful and free, Chief Tato'Kola Waci'Pi painted their faces with war paint.

Each of the boys and their parents were asked to cross the stage as the boys graduated.

Mrs. Griswold recognized Sherri Maddox, Lori Tosh, Darla Stovall, Larry and Pam Hancock, Gary

FFA Members To Show At Houston Stock Show

Texas 4-H and FFA members are preparing themselves and their animal projects for intense showing competition at the upcoming Houston Livestock Show, Feb. 20 through March 7 at the Astrohall.

These FFA and 4-H exhibitors compete in one of two divisions of the Houston Livestock Show--the junior show division. The other division, the open show, attracts its exhibitors from the world's agricultural industry, who are primarily professional breeders and ranchers.

Entries in both the open and junior shows combine with horse show entries to make the Houston Livestock Show the world's largest.

Thirteen FFA students from Bailey County will enter their livestock in the show and includes: LeAnn Altman a Market Steer; Russell Black, Market Steer and Market Barrow; Matt Bohler, Market Barrow; Jacen Claunch, Market Steer; John Bryan Cowart, Market Steer; Robin Cowart, Market Steer; Bryce Embry, Market Steer and Market Barrow; Kyle Embry, Market Steer and Market Barrow; Lance Latham, Market Barrow; Jeffrey Wheeler, Market Steer and Market Barrow; Andy Wilson, Market Barrow; Keith Kindle, Market Barrow; and Wade Wilson, Market Steer.

A total of nine Market Steers and eight Market Barrows will be shown from Bailey County.

Representing 862 Texas 4-H clubs and FFA chapters, the junior show is expected to exceed 11,000 entries this year. A variety of animals are shown in the junior show division: market steers, market swine, market sheep, market poultry, beef and dairy heifers, breeding sheep, goats, commercial steers and breeding rabbits.

The four market animal categories (steers, sheep, swine and poultry) represent animals raised by the exhibitor as food sources. Top

Mule-Buddies Dominate Basketball Court Saturday

The Muleshoe-Lazbuddie fifth and sixth grade boys basketball team stunned the Clovis Cavaliers Saturday night. The Mule-Buddies showed the Clovis and Muleshoe crowd super basketball, winning by 40 points, 52-12, according to their coach.

Josh Morris caused havoc all night for the Cavaliers, scoring a team high 14 points and was also the team leader in rebounds, ripping down 11 rebounds. He is averaging 11.4 rebounds a game this season.

Brett Clements continued his consistent scoring with nine points and skied for nine rebounds.

Mason Sinclair picked the Cavaliers pocket several times and caused turn overs that helped the teams scoring. Mason scored eight points and six rebounds. He is averaging 4.1 assists a game this season. Dustin Cleavinger scored six points and eight rebounds. He is averaging nine rebounds a game this season.

Judd Glover speled---T-R-O-U-B-L-E---for the Cavaliers causing turnovers to begin many fast breaks and added five points and three rebounds. Jeffrey Bruns and James Barrett each scored four points with both boys playing super defense. Jeffrey Bruns rebounded the ball four times and James added two rebounds. Cade Morris also caused many turnovers that started the Mule-Buddies on many of their fast breaks.

The Mule-Buddies started their scoring fast, scoring 14 points in the first quarter to lead 14-0. In the second quarter the cavaliers scored seven points, however, the Mighty Mule-Buddies responded with 17 points to lead at half time 31-7. In the third quarter the Mule-Buddies defense took over shutting out the Cavs and led at the end of the quarter 41-7. In the fourth quarter, the Mule-Buddies scored 11 points, winning the game 52-12.

The Mule-Buddies appreciate the cheerleaders at the game Saturday night. They kept the crowd pumped up. The cheerleaders were: Megan Barrett, Johanna Cleavinger, Kayla Glover, and Rendi Hodge.

They also appreciate Ryan

Hope For Parkinson's Disease Patients

Deprenyl appears to help early stage Parkinson's disease patients by delaying the disabling symptoms, according to findings announced January 21 in the New England Journal of Medicine. Vitamin E, however, did not appear to help as researchers had hoped.

The findings were the result of a 28-center study that included Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. The study began in 1987.

Parkinson's disease, a progressive neurological illness, causes loss of motor skills including walking, balancing, writing and facial expression. It is caused by deterioration of the brain's nerve cells that release dopamine, a chemical necessary for normal body movements.

In the 800-person study, patients were evaluated at three-month intervals and followed until their illness became disabling enough to require levodopa therapy. Levodopa is the main therapy used to suppress many Parkinson's disease symptoms.

"Patients on deprenyl were able to function without levodopa about nine months longer than those patients taking vitamin E," said Dr. Joseph Jankovic, professor of neurology and study director at Baylor's Parkinson's Disease Center.

"Using deprenyl early delays the need for levodopa, which has been associated with such adverse side effects as nausea, fluctuations in symptoms and abnormal involuntary movements," Jankovic said.

Deprenyl also produced a slight improvement in the symptoms and signs of early Parkinson's disease, producing only minor side effects. After medication was stopped, benefits disappeared in two months. "Deprenyl rarely causes nausea or other side effects," he said.

Although vitamin E failed to delay the need for levodopa, other medications that affect nerve cell function may eventually prove beneficial, Jankovic said.

Investigators will continue following the study participants to determine the long-term effects of deprenyl alone and in combination with levodopa therapy.

"Now strategies can be designed not only to control symptoms, but also to slow the relentless deterioration in motor functioning," Jankovic said.

"We are looking beyond deprenyl and studying other, possibly even more potent, anti-oxidant drugs with the potential to protect nerve cells from progressive degeneration."

The clinical trial, DATATOP (Deprenyl and Tocopherol Antioxidative Therapy of Parkinsonism), was conducted by the Parkinson Study Group and sponsored primarily by the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke of the National Institutes of Health.

Teachers Appreciate Proposed Pay Increase

The state president of the 57,200 member Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE) today thanked Governor Ann Richards for proposing a five percent salary increase for educators during her State of the State address.

"This proposed pay increase is well-deserved, much needed and much appreciated by the educators of Texas," said Cathy Fletcher, a classroom teacher in Frenship ISD and ATPE state president since June 1992. "It's an excellent beginning toward moving Texas educators closer to the national average for teacher salaries, but we need to understand that we still have a long way to go just to get to 'average'."

CHEERS-Taxpayers will be delighted to know that Texas spends less on administering its higher education system than most other states.

In 1990, Texas universities spent an average of $1,128 per student on administration. The national average was $1,627.

In the 10 most populous states, the average was $1,873. That figure would have been higher except for the fact that Texas--one of the 10--kept its costs so low.

Texas Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth complimented the efforts to keep these costs down.

And even though the proposed salary increase is much-appreciated, Fletcher expressed concern that educators may be forced to accept a trade-off in exchange for the salary increase.

"This state has prorated millions of dollars in state funding aid to districts this school year, and the education funding proposals for the next biennium aren't expected to even keep up with the student enrollment," Fletcher said. "Not to mention the discussion around the Capitol that we need to relieve some of the mandates that we all know improve student learning--such as the 22-1 class size requirement--as a cost-saving measure."

"I know that all educator are going to appreciate the salary increase and consider of a victory, but if it comes with corresponding drops in the amount of money available to educate our students and do our jobs as educators, then it very well may be a hollow victory, indeed."

With 57,200 members, ATPE is the largest non-union educators' association in the United States. ATPE membership consists primarily of classroom teachers but also includes administrators, paraprofessionals, retired educators, student and public members.

Affection bends the judgment to her uses.

JTPA Program Awarded Grant

The Texas Job Training Partnership Act program has been awarded a $250,000 grant from the Woman's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor. The award is part of the Non-traditional Employment for Women Act. NEW amended JTPA to provide a wider range of training opportunities for women under existing JTPA programs; provide incentives for the establishment of programs that retain, place and retrain women in non-traditional fields; and facilitate coordination of JTPA and vocational education resources available for the training and placement of women in non-traditional employment.

Commerce's Work Force Development Division submitted the grant application on behalf of the Heart of Texas Service Delivery Area and the Texas State Technical College in Waco. The money will be used for a project called Project Texas, which is designed to empower women to achieve employment success in high-tech occupational areas currently under-represented by female workers. Project Texas is unique in the fact that the type of assistance available meets every conceivable need for services or resources that may hinder an individual's successful completion of long-term, technical training. The local JTPA program will provide a bridge between the Transformations-Training for

ENMU Holds Student Art Show

The Annual Eastern New Mexico University Student Art Show will be held Feb. 12-28 in the Golden Library Runnels Room. An opening reception will be held Feb. 12 from 3 - 5 p.m. in the gallery area. The reception and exhibition are open to the public and free of charge.

One of the judges for the show will be Michael Possert, a cinematic artist from Los Angeles, Calif. For six years Possert has worked in miniature special effects in Hollywood.

The work, he said, involves design and fabrication of scale miniatures and props for a production that does not have the money or time or ability to use a specific item. An example he gives is a terrorist blowing up the Eiffel tower. Impossible to do, except in miniature. Or, spaceships waging war can only happen with the use of special effects.

Model makers, he said, draw upon a multitude of artistic talents including designing, illustration, drafting, patternmaking, moldmaking, woodworking, metalworking, sculpture, painting, electronics, etc.

Some of the films Possert has worked on include "The Abyss," "Terminator 2," "Rockeater," "Alien 3," "Last of the Mohicans," "Solar Crisis," "Robocop 3," "Grand Tour," "Mom and Dad Save the Earth," and "Honey, I Blew Up The Baby."

His television work includes "Space Rangers" and "Star Trek: The Next Generation," as well as commercials for Budweiser, Duracel, Mazda, Orkin, Glidden, and others. He also has worked on theme park rides and restoration projects including motherhood from "Close Encounters Of The Third Kind" and the spacecraft from "Aliens"

Possert will be on campus Feb. 9-12 judging the student works and speaking to classes. The announcement of awards will be made during the opening reception Feb. 12.

Judges from ENMU will include Trisha Taylor, a freshman planning to major in gallery Management; Virginia McReynolds, a senior graduating with a bachelor of fine arts degree, emphasis on 3-D design; Valarie Becker, a BFA graduate and part-time instructor for ENMU and Clovis Community College.

The Jazz Alley Band will provide live entertainment between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. while Shanna Van Winkle, Cecil Caldwell, Mike Turner, and Johnny Travis provide entertainment from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"Crab legs, shrimp, sausage, corn, potatoes and other choice ingredients combined with our own special seafood boil will make for a great feed," said Rayma Fatterson, Ragin' Cajun chairperson.

"We're using a giant 'boiling pot' of fresh, tangy, Cajun-style seafood and vegetables served with paprika, garlic, plenty of spices and the secret stuff; a recipe borrowed from the Cajun bayou country," said Patterson.

"Casual dress is highly recommended," she said. "You'll be given a mallet for cracking your crab legs, paper towels and a bib--a different way of eating for the whole family."

Items donated by local merchants will be auctioned throughout the day by Ken and Brandon Peters, #6828.

Tickets are $25 for adults, $20 for students and senior citizens, and $10 for children over six. For ticket information, call 747-4798 or 747-2808. Deadline for reservations is Wednesday, February 10.

Twenty years ago, experts said that a man walking on the moon was impossible. Experts also said that persons with mental retardation couldn't run a hundred meters, swim the length of a pool or play a game or sport like basketball. As with lunar landings, the experts have been proven wrong.

Founded in 1968, the Texas Special Olympics provides sports training and competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for children eight years and older, and adults with mental retardation.

The fourth annual Ragin' Cajun, benefiting the area 17 Texas Special Olympics, will be held 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday, February 13 at the Depot Warehouse in Lubbock.

Albuquerque Youth Orchestra To Hold Concert

The Albuquerque Youth Symphony Orchestra will perform Friday, Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. in the ROTC building on the campus of Eastern New Mexico University. The concert is open to the public and free of charge.

"The ASYO is one of the finest youth orchestra programs in the country," said Robert Radmer, conductor of the ENMU Symphony Orchestra. "In the past four years it has toured England, Mexico, and the Houston Texas area. On its current tour, the orchestra will give concerts in Portales, Carlsbad, and Las Cruces, as well as Juarez, Mexico," he said.

The ASYO presents the finest in classical music each season, Radmer said. The program this year will consist of the "Overture to Raymond" by Thomas, "High Places" by New Mexico composer Michael Mauldin, the Hayden C. Major "Cello Concerto" with student soloist Margaret Steen, and "Les Preludes" of Franz Liszt. The ASYO has been in existence since 1955, and is part of an organization comprised of four orchestras serving about 400 young people in Albuquerque and its metropolitan area. The Youth Symphony, made up of 90 high school-age musicians, is the top WAITING GAME--An asteroid many times more destructive than the most powerful nuclear bomb is getting closer each time it crosses the path of the Earth.

Astronomers at the University of Texas at Austin, however, say there is no reason for worry. It missed the Earth by 2.2 million miles when it flew by in December. On its next fly-by in 2004, it will be a million miles closer.

Drs. Peter Shelus and Art Whipple say the asteroid named Totatis will make five more passes by this planet by 2012. However, they calculate that it can't possibly strike Earth before 2069.

Meanwhile, their advice is to relax and forget it. But just in case, they will keep an eye on it from UT's McDonald Observatory in the Davis Mountains.

orchestra. it is supported by three full orchestras of 100 musicians, each made up of students from grades six through 12.

The conductor of the ASYO is Dale Kempter, formerly of Portales, and recently retired Coordinator of Music for the Albuquerque Public Schools. Kempter was the Director of Orchestral Activities at ENMU from 1961 to 1964, leaving Portales to teach music at Albuquerque.

Partial support of the ASYO's Portales concert will be provided by the University Symphony League in cooperation with the ENMU ROTC and the ENMU Music Department.

Amarillo Opera Presents "Barber of Seville"

The Amarillo Opera/Amarillo College presents Rossini's Barber of Seville March 5 and 6 at 7:30 p.m. and March 7th at 2:30 p.m. in Amarillo College Concert Hall Theatre. Barber of Seville will be conducted by James Setapen.

This will be Setapen's debut with Amarillo Opera, but he is no stranger to local music lovers since he has been music director/conductor for the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra for over four years. He also has experience conducting and coaching opera all over the country. Luran Fulton-Corson will be the featured guest soloist.

Mila Gibson is the director and Gene Murray is her assistant. Mr. Murray also designs and makes many of Amarillo Opera's costumes.

Barber of Seville is based on the first of the trilogy of plays about the same principle characters by Beaumarchais. The second play, The Marriage of Figaro was adapted as an opera by Mozart.

Additional funding for the opera is provided by the Texas Commission on the Arts and the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Arts Committee.

Suave Family Manager Of The Year Contest

Does this description fit you? Who budgets time and money; sets policies and procedures; supervises training and development; and serves as chief decision-maker? It may sound like the job of a CEO at a major corporation, but it also describes the important role of today's "Family Manager". Today's manager juggles everything from parenting to finances, shopping, cooking, entertaining, decorating, landscaping, and auto maintenance, while often managing a second job outside the home as well.

The Suave Family Manager of the Year Contest recognizes the important role that family managers play in handling the dozens of tasks essential for taking care of the home and family on a budget. The makers of Suave personal care products will reward America's top family managers with over $10,000 in cash and prizes through the Suave Family Manager of the Year Contest.

Family managers are innovated to submit essays of 150 words or less describing their qualifications for the title of the Family Manager of the Year. Entries must include a favorite tip for finding value for your family without sacrificing

Survey Finds Increased Job Hopping As Economy Recovers

The recession forced many people to remain in their jobs longer than they would have liked. Now, encouraged by signs of a recovery, a growing number of them are launching employment searches in the hopes of finding more rewarding positions.

According to a recent survey of Robert Half International's office in major U.S. cities, the influx of resumes from those employed but seeking new jobs has jumped by approximately 25 percent compared to this time last year. Robert Half International is the world's first and largest staffing services firm specializing in the accounting, finance and information systems fields.

Corporate downsizing has taken its toll on layoff survivors--not just on those who have lost their jobs. At many firms, workloads have grown while salaries have shrunk," said Max Messmer, chairman and CEO of Robert Half International.

"And for companies that have undergone consolidation and are operating with streamlined staffs, losing even one key employee can have serious repercussions," added Mr. Messmer. He outlined several steps that firms can take to prevent talented employees from leaving:

- * Share corporate strategy with employees. When management discusses appropriate details of their strategic thinking, they can motivate staff by making them an important part of a team.
- * Offer training. Companies can show they care about their employees even in tough times by providing opportunities for professional development. Training programs on time and people management are practically appropriate when departments are running "lean and mean".
- * Re-evaluate pay policies. Even if corporate finances remain tight, and raises impractical, organizations can investigate compensation alternatives that focus on rewarding superior performance.
- * Give praise and recognition in private and public. Show appreciation and give regular feedback to employees to increase their loyalty and dedication to the company.

Robert Half International has more than 150 offices in the United States, Canada and Europe.

quality. A $5,000 grand prize will be awarded to the best overall entry. Ten first-place winners will each be awarded $500, and 350 second-place winners will receive a Suave portable beach mat.

Essays will be judged on the basis of originality, creativity, practicality and appropriateness to the theme. The first 500 entrants will receive "Suave's Guide to Living in Style For Less," with tips on how you can beautify your home, keep up with the latest fashions, entertain guests in style and look your best without breaking the bank, along with valuable coupons toward Suave products.

HOW TO ENTER:

Pick up the February issue of Redbook or Good Housekeeping for an official entry form. Or, on a 3" X 5" card, print your name, address, zip code, and daytime telephone number and sign your name.

Include your typed or hand-printed essay which includes your favorite value tip with your entry. Entries must be received no later than March 15, 1993. Winners will be notified by May 14, 1993. Entries should be sent to the following address:

Know The Weather

Do farmers believe that mild winters will mean bumper crops in the summer and fall ahead?

No. A mild winter, contrary to what some people believe, isn't necessarily best for trees and plants which produce salable products.

Some trees and plants require many cold nights during the winter. If they do not receive this cooling period, which controls the dormant period, they may produce little or bear too early, or both.

Thus an average winter is better than an extremely cold or an extremely warm one. There has been little change in our average winter weather over the years. The winters were slightly cooler at the turn of the century but the difference between then and now is negligible.

Agreement Sets Timetable For Protecting Rare Plants

The Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced it has reached out of court settlement of a case involving the agency's procedures to reduce the backlog of plants and animals awaiting listing decisions under the Endangered Species Act. The settlement agreement was reached with The Fund for Animals, defenders of Wildlife, in Defense of Endangered Species, and other individuals.

The agreement supports the service's existing priority system which ranks at-risk, candidate species based on the degree of threat faced by each candidate, as well as the taxonomic rarity of a species.

"This agreement essentially gives a seal of approval to the Service's existing method of setting priorities for these species in need of protection," said John Turner, Service Director.

Under the agreement, and based on the existing priority system, the Service will decide whether to propose for listing approximately 400 "category 1" candidate plants and animals over the next four years. Category one species are those for which the best scientific information supports listing but, due to other demands, the Service has been unable to develop a listing proposal. These species with the highest priority will be proposed first.

The Service has agreed to decide whether to propose for listing approximately 95 category one candidate species each year through September 1996, a commitment comparable with the past two years, when the Service proposed 215 plants and animals and listed 144. In addition, the Service is to report annually on its progress through 1997.

The agreement also formalizes a Service commitment to emphasize, where possible, multiple species listings or proposals that address entire ecosystems, instead of a species-by-species approach. In addition to being more cost-effective, these methods allow the Service to focus on the needs of plant and animal communities as a whole, not individually. Species petitioned for listing, that are determined by the Service to be warranted for listing but precluded by species currently of higher priority, will be classified only as category one species, instead of category one or two. Category two candidates are those for which insufficient information exists to conclude that listing is warranted but continued monitoring will be carried out.

Deer Season Continues For Serious Hunters

Deer hunters may be putting away their bows and guns and hanging up their camouflage, but he hunting season is definitely not over, according to the Whitetail Institute of North America. As a matter of fact, spring is a prime time for action.

"As many serious hunters already know, there is no better time to prepare for successful hunting than right now," according to Whitetail president Ray Scott. "As a matter of fact, spring and summer are just as important--itnot more important--than the fall."

Scott, known to many as the founder of the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (B.A.S.S.) has always been an avid deer hunter. An interest in the role of genetics an environment in deer led to the foundation of the Whitetail Institute of North America.

"We have only limited control of genetics," says Scott, "but the one element most sportsmen can control is nutrition. That is why we have developed a year-round program of wildlife planting and mineral/vitamin supplements."

"It really makes sense. Year-round nutrition is critical to deer just as it is to human beings. And just as for children and mothers, it is especially critical for pregnant does and fawns."

The Institute was responsible five years ago for the development of Imperial Whitetail clover. This remarkable planting was developed by the Institute along with Dr. Wiley Johnson, an award-winning agronomy professor at Auburn University, Auburn, Alabama for over 30 years.

"The best thing about Imperial Whitetail," state Dr. Johnson "is that the clover can produce nutrition year-round. And because it's a perennial, it can last up to five years without replanting."

According to Dr. James Kroll, an expert in deer research at Stephen F. Austin University in Nacogoches, Texas, "One acre of a perennial clover such as Imperial Whitetail Clover, when properly planted and on the right soils, can produce as much forage as 40 to 50 acres of wooded habitat."

In addition, the clover helps build quality soil by producing more than 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre of clover. The clover puts this important element back into the soil, which then benefits the surrounding plants and ultimately the wildlife.
