Talking It Over With Home Demo

School Lunches

A variety of food is necessary for the health of the entire family. A government report says that there is a higher percentage of under-nourished children than ever before. "It matters pounds, but rather than outstanding symptoms as poor nutrition, listlessness, poor teeth, pasty complexion, flabby muscles, and in general, a type of child who has or who has not, rickets. These children have little resistance and cannot attend school regularly. To prevent this condition, a variety of foods should be provided in accordance with food budgets. Too many people are not liking a food is sufficient reason for not eating it, but good habits may be acquired by a little ingenuity on the part of the mother, in disguising a will work wonders in getting a child to try a food he doesn't like. Sometimes will result in his liking it. "That takes an awful lot of I hear you say. Yes, raising a child properly involves about the same work we are called upon to do. It is the job allocated to you as a mother. The question is whether you are going to measure up to it, lay down on the job and quit. Too many mothers follow the path of resistance and quit as we are tempted to do when something is called upon to do is very difficult. As a result of "quitting" mothers, we see young people every day handicapped in life because their training was not what it should have been.

School lunches are hard to plan. You have good bread for the sandwiches. If you do not know how to make good white and whole wheat bread, now is the time to learn. Plan to use your pressure cooker in the making of steamed brown bread and wheat bread. These breads are excellent filled with practically any vegetable, raw or cooked, mixed with home cooked salad dressing and change for the child who has not had jelly and meat biscuits.

Suggested Sandwich Fillings

Cottage cheese, sweet pickles, and dressing; cottage cheese and ham; cottage cheese and jelly or orange; cheese moistened with cream and mayonnaise; cold meat or meat sliced thin; pimento cream or ketchup cheese; peanut butter and stewed prunes; tomato, lettuce, cap bacon, and salad dressing; raw meat and cabbage with salad dressing; crushed beans and grated carrots of baked custard, or a baked apple will be far more delicious in the school lunch than pie. A bottle of milk, hot milk or milk soup will improve a sandwich made up of sandwiches. If you may be used and placed near the stove to heat up for lunch.

A Cooked Salad Dressing

This dressing is good for the suggestions, and makes delicious spreads with such fresh vegetables as cabbage, carrots, sweet peppers, etc., mixed with them:
Boiled Dressing—White Sauce
Base

1/2 cup milk 1 teaspoon mustard
1/2 cup vinegar 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup flour 1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup butter 1 egg

2 tablespoons sugar
Make a white sauce of milk, cold flour, and seasoning. Add cold vinegar and stir until blended. Remove sauce from the flame and add beaten egg immediately. Stir until smooth and chill.

PHYSICIAN SERVICE BETWEEN HOUSTON, DALLAS, FT. WORTH

Fast Zephyr service between Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, was announced here this week by Gen. A. Hulen, president of the Burlington-Rock Island and Chief Executive Officer of the Joint Texas Division of the Fort Worth and Denison City and the Chicago Rock Island and Gulf Railways.

One of the world-famous Zephyrs will be placed in daily round trip service between Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth in October.

This stainless steel, diesel-powered streamlined train, which will be down as the Sam Houston Zephyr, will run one hour and twenty minutes from the fastest service now in effect between these points which is made by the Burlington-Rock Island's Short Line Flyer. The Zephyr will furnish an additional service for this run—supplementing and replacing the Short Line Flyer.

The running schedule which will have the effect of bringing north and south Texas considerably closer together, calls for exactly a mile-a-minute average speed between Houston and Dallas.

Intermediate station stops will be made, but only for long haul passengers.

First Car of Clay Shipped From Plant

The first car of Rotary clay was shipped from the Oven owned and operated by J. L. Webb here. The plant has been in operation about two weeks in the Thurman Graham warehouse, and is the only one of its kind in this part of the country, the nearest one being located near Houston.

A supply of this clay, large enough to be used commercially, has been found on the farm of Ashel Cross, near Rock Creek. It is hauled to the oven here by truck. The finished product is used in the refining of gasoline, and brings from ten to fifteen dollars per ton. About four tons per day can be turned out here with the present equipment.

The deposit on the Cross land has been leased for ten years and is one of the most promising beds known. The raw clay is first baked in a large oven of Mr. Webb's own design, where it is subjected to a temperature of about 700 degrees. After this drying process, the clay is ground and then run through varying sizes of screens until it is fine enough to be used.

Mr. Webb plans to make his plant larger in the near future, if the clay sold pans out as good as expected. Pumice stone is found on the Cross farm also and will be removed by the same concern.

One Of Amendments For Election Day Vote

The first proposed Constitutional amendment to face the voter on November 3rd is S. J. R. No. 3-A which provides for a State dispensary system to have exclusive sale of distilled liquors and all profits from the sale of such liquors would go to the State. The sale of spirituous distilled liquors for private profit, as is now the case, is prohibited within this state by this amendment, except when such sales are made to the State, according to B. P. Matocha, Secretary State. It is further provided that the State of Texas shall have the exclusive right to purchase at wholesale and to sell at retail such distilled spirituous liquors. Such sale shall be made only in unbroken packages and no such liquors shall be consumed in the premises where sold. The difference between the proposed plan and that now in effect would simply be one of ownership—i. e. by the state rather than the individual.

The State would maintain various places of business for the purpose of the sale of such liquor direct to the consumer. These places of business would only be maintained in the counties, precincts or incorporated towns where by local election such sale has been made legal.

Local option as now in effect would not be changed by adoption of the amendment. The sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol which has been legalized in such political subdivisions shall not be prohibited by this section.

This amendment further provides that the open saloon shall not be re-established.

It is also provided in this amendment that the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the sale for private profit and possession of distilled liquors for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes.

ADMINISTRATION CHANGES JAN. 20 FOR FIRST TIME

The next president of the United States will for the first time, be chosen under the new 20th or "anti-lame duck" amendment to the constitution.

While voters of the nation will flock to the polls on Nov. 3, the president actually will be elected on Jan. 6 when the senate and house, in joint session, count the electoral votes.

Should the election be thrown into the house because no presidential candidate, as predicted by Father Charles E. Coughlin, wins a majority of the electoral votes, the election may be delayed indefinitely.

A complication of constitutional provisions affecting the election, issued today by Secretary Edwin A. Halsey of the senate, shows the contingents which may arise.

Before the 20th amendment was adopted, congress counted the electoral votes in December following the election, but the president was not inaugurated until March 4.

Under the new amendment, the president will be inaugurated on Jan. 20, just two weeks after the counting of the ballots.

First if no candidate has a majority of the electoral votes, then the house of representatives chooses the president. The house must choose from the first three highest in the number of electoral votes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Davis from Houston visited the Frank Havron's a couple of weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Simpson, and Mrs. Earl Simpson were in Amarillo Saturday.

BUCHANAN BUYS HIGH GRADE GUERNSEY BULL

Fred Buchanan further improved his Guernsey herd this week when he purchased another high class bull from Radisson Incorporated, in Minnesota. He is from the line of Duluth Coronation and is one of the best bulls to be seen in this country.

Mr. Buchanan has 21 registered Guernsey cows, of which he is milking 19. In September he sold over $200 worth of butterfat. He is using the methods most approved by dairy scientists and it seems to be paying. Right now he is using wheat pasture and has a nice supply of silage in his trench silo.

P. T. A. MEETS WEDNESDAY

P. T. A. met Wednesday at 3:45 and elected Mrs. W. T. Sherman as the new chairman. A social hour will be held at the school auditorium on Friday, October 16, at 8:00 o'clock.

Every patron is invited to attend this meeting and get acquainted with the teachers and give them the cooperation they deserve.

High School Loses To Town Team Boys 13-0

Silverton High School got their first defeat of the season here Friday 12 to 0 and succeeded in proving to their own satisfaction at least, that the pick-up team weren't such "once-weres" as they had been rated.

The town boys had the best of the going most of the game. Seemed as though the youngsters were a little wary about taking hold of these old boys that were the heroes when they were in grade school.

And regardless of broken down arches, fallen chests and no wind at all, the town boys showed a little stuff—quite a little in fact. They didn't have many signals nor plays and played football "by ear". Some of those fellows in the pick-ups must be just a wee bit tough when they were in condition and all.

And by the way these fellows want to have a game or so this year and are challenging any other town team in the surrounding towns and counties to a tilt.

The high school boys came out on the short end, probably because they expected to when the game started. They just didn't have the spunk that they do against other schools. This Friday they go to Roaring Springs for a game and are hoping to take them into camp, bring home the bacon, keep their goal line uncrossed by other schools, take the roar out of Roaring Springs, and in other words win. It will be a close hard game and the boys will be mighty glad if some local talent goes along for support.

The schedule for the season as planned now is as follows:

Friday, Oct. 9, Roaring Springs.
There
Friday, Oct. 16, Happy. Here
Friday, Oct. 23, Lockney. Here
Friday, Oct. 30, Flomont. Here
Friday Nov. 6, Turkey. Here
Armistice Day

Wednesday Nov. 11, Quitaque, There
If Silverton wins the conference by winning all these games they will play the winners of the south division.

"Spring Came On Forever" By Aldrich

This is an inspiring novel of American life dealing with the settlement of the West. Amalie Stoltz, its heroine, is the brave and steadfast farm woman who helps her men-folks conquer the land.

This is an excellent and honest novel. "Spring Came On Forever" is a great deal more like real life than a work of fiction.

Read this new book in the Silverton library. The library hours are from 2:00 to 5:00 P. M. on Saturday.

March of Time Junior Study Club Sponsors Sale of Holland's Magazine

The March of Time Junior Study Club are putting on a campaign selling the Holland's Magazine this next three weeks. The club has been divided into four groups and will make it a point to see everyone in town and in the surrounding community.

If your subscription to Holland's is out, please renew it with some lady of this club. Also they want as many new subscribers as they can get.

Mr. Roscoe Fort of Turkey, was in Silverton Friday on insurance business.

COURT JURY CASES OVER; RECESS TILL THURSDAY

Four cases were tried in District Court here this week, resulting in convictions in each instance. Court recessed from Monday until Thursday, and the jury was dismissed for the session.

F. E. Staples was given a two-year penitentiary sentence for forgery. He will soon be taken to Amarillo and Hereford for similar offenses.

Three boys who robbed the McDaniel Filling Station at Quitaque a short time ago were given five year sentences, which were suspended. A suspended sentence in this case is suspended only as long as the boys are on the 'level' with the officers. If for instance after four years, one should make a slip, his five year sentence goes into effect from that date, and not the date of his conviction. These boys' names are not being given by request of friends.

Nothing more has been reported that will come before the court this session.

Inch Of Rain Tuesday; Falling Again Today

And more rain!
Tuesday night brought another inch of rain to Silverton, with varying amounts reported from surrounding territory. The rainfall was lighter to the south of this place.

Streets and roads, had been worked until they were in prett, fair shape and are now in almost as bad condition as they were before. The mail from Clarendon never came in Wednesday, and the Quitaque carrier was delayed so long, that he was forced to spend the night in Silverton.

Cotton growers are crying for dry weather in order to get to picking and ginning. The wheat farmers will be delayed again in planting. Roads are bad and the wind is comfortable—but as the county agent says, "Every drop that falls now, makes us money next year".

Home Demonstration Club at Home of Mrs. T. L. Anderson

Mrs. T. L. Anderson entertained the Silverton Home Demonstration Club on Tuesday afternoon at her home at the East side of town. Mrs. Carl Crowe presented the lesson on "school lunches".

Mrs. Crowe said that Mothers should be careful to provide the needed vitamins for growing children, and that they could not expect to develop health and brawn in a child whose school lunch consisted of only a candy bar. She suggested that meat and chicken sandwiches be combined with celery, lettuce, grated carrot and other raw vegetables; and that vegetable and fruit salads be included and that a hot portion of food or drink in small thermos containers go into the lunch. Carefully prepared lunches are well worth the time and trouble in saving doctor bills for the child, and in keeping the child mentally and physically alert.

The next meeting will be under Miss Meadows' supervision at the home of Mrs. R. E. Douglas and will be a demonstration on the "Making of Colonial Bedspreads and bedroom improvement". Time: October 20th, at 2:30 P. M.

Those present at Mrs. Anderson's were Mesdames Sweet, Jewett, Douglas, Buchanan, Crawford, C. L. Dickerson, Bert Northcutt, Stephens, Crowe, R. M. Hill, and her sister, Miss Cloyd, who is a visitor here.

Panhandle Refining Company To New Location Soon

Workmen have been busy the past week tearing down and moving the Panhandle Refining Company's warehouse. It is being moved to Highway 36 2 blocks east of the square. A station will be operated in connection with the wholesale business.

O. W. Chapman, manager of the company here, and who handles a large part of the rural oil and gas business for this vicinity, says that with the new location and service station, he will be able to care for his customers, with even better service than before.

CARD OF THANKS

To our friends and neighbors, we wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for every kindness shown us during the illness and death of our wife and mother.

Bob Stevenson Adds To Little Museum

Bob Stevenson, old timer here with a hobby of collecting novelties and relics, has been adding to his little museum again.

A Mastodon tooth was found by Q. E. Brown near here and presented to Mr. Stevenson. It is about 11 inches high. The grinding portion of the tooth is plainly shown. A huge Mastodon bone about 3 1/2 feet long from joint to joint and with a diameter of probably seven inches, was found on the Gid Mayfield farm. It is in an excellent state of preservation.

A perfect model of a pair of draft horses was made and given to Mr. Stevenson by R. M. Haverty. They are perfect in every detail even to showing the leg muscles. They were made by Mr. Haverty with a file and rasp as his only tools. They are made of rabbit, and painted in life colors. These little horses, about eight inches high have been fitted to harness, collars, lines and all, by Buffalo Hines of the J. A. Ranch.

A large rattlesnake hide was added to the snake display last week. It was killed by Wood Hardcastle on the Smylie place and measured about 5 1/2 feet when alive. It is a diamond back and the scales are in places a half inch across. About 2 1/2 inches of rattles were on the snake, with the most of them evidently broken off, as the end of the string was almost as wide as the body.

Silverton Made Class 'A' Boy Scout Town

At a meeting of the Troup Committee of Troup 62 at Silverton, on Thursday afternoon October 1, plans were made for the expansion of their Scouting Program and their affiliation with the Council Office and a chance to participate in the Scouting Program with the supervision and educational leadership offered thru the office at Lubbock.

At the meeting it was agreed that $8.00 should be paid to the Council and all over this amount would be available for local use as the local Scout committee desires.

The result of the affiliation with the Council office includes, first, regular Court of Honor, with all Tenderfoot First and Second Class badges awarded free to the Scouts, second complete organization and volunteer leadership training service and regular visitation by the Scout Executive or his assistant; third, participation in all Scout Rallies, Field Days, Jamborees and other contests; fourth, the Council Camp near Post will be available to Class A towns. Other additional benefits and services will accrue to Class A towns in accordance with good business and to the extent which will be equitable for all Class A towns.

The men present at the meeting were: Joe Mercer, Troup Committee Chairman; J. R. Whitworth, J. E. Minyard, A. A. Peacock, Roy Hahn and T. R. Whiteside; and W. W. Wilson, Scoutmaster of the troop here.

Through an agreement among the men and by the response given by the men of the town, Silverton will be recognized as a Class A town and will participate in the same program as other towns in the Council with the Class A rating.

The following organization of men was set up and plans were made for a Court of Honor and Leadership Training Course to be held in the near future for men interested in the Scout program here.

Chairman ————— Joe Mercer
Promotion ————— Roy Hahn
Court of Honor ————— Joe Mercer and Rev. Thorne Program ————— Rev. A. A. Peacock and J. E. Minyard

Finance ————— T. R. Whiteside
Any other men of the town that would like to become a member of the South Plains Boy Scout Sustaining Club and contribute to the support of the local Boy Scout Program should get in touch with one of the members of the Troup Committee, who make the necessary arrangements.

Finley White's Agricultural Briefs

From every direction we are receiving maps and more maps—Thanks to the boys in the forks of the creeks. We must have these maps in order to "figure out" how much money each farmer will have coming.

If I were measuring these farms and making the maps, there are a few things I'd do with my map that some of the farmers are not doing. The principle changes that I'd make are these: 1st, I'd put down all my measurements; 2nd, I'd write in each field just what that field was used for in 1936, and 3rd, I'd write my name and my landlords name on the map. When I had all that down I would mail it or bring it to the county Agents office, believing all the time that he could figure out just what was going on at my place. All of you who haven't made your maps yet, please try following the suggestions given above. It will help out lots. Thanks.

For the most part the maps we are receiving now really resemble maps more nearly than Jig-saw puzzles. We appreciate that too.

Sowing Time

Pop! pop! pop! and chug! chug! chug! can be heard day and night this week. The farmers are putting in wheat in a hurry now. The three weeks rainy weather put us a pretty good season in the ground and now it's dry enough to get that wheat planted.

We do not have any authentic information from Washington as to much wheat to plant this year, but the strong recommendation comes that we should plant only 95% of our base acreage for harvest—That does not mean that we cannot plant all we want to for grazing nor does it mean that we cannot leave volunteer wheat for grazing.

Pool Checks

We are not as good at "doping" things out as "Old Tack" is, but we have been doing some plain and fancy figuring during these rainy days and we've "figured out" as how Briscoe should receive cotton tag checks by or before October 25 at 1:10 P. M. We will not put the method of calculating this out right here but if anyone is interested, we'll try to explain it.

Turkey Talk

Only about thirty days now till time to put those turkeys on the market. Have you started finishing them yet, or are you just letting them finish themselves? A good crushed grain mash with a little cotton seed meal and bone meal or meat scraps added will certainly put the desired finish and pounds too, on those turkeys. Try it one time—you will always be a believer in finishing turkeys.

And while we're talking turkeys let's not forget that November 30 to December 3 will be Turkey Show Week at Plainview. Let's not let all our choice birds go on the Thanksgiving Market—let's save some 'tops' to show at Plainview. They should bring us a better price than than at Thanksgiving.

Now for the Riddles

This week we have help in the office that should prove quite valuable to everyone concerned.

Mr. Loe Miller has been transferred from Floydada to Silverton as Assistant in Soil Conservation Work. Mr. Miller has had two years working out Cross Word Puzzles and answering riddles that come to the County Agent's office. He should prove very valuable in this line-up here. We are happy to announce his connection with this office.

Mrs. R. E. Douglas went to Canyon last Saturday to visit Gaynelle. Mr. Douglas was there on Sunday and Mrs. Douglas returned with him.

Mr. C. L. Dickenson went to Canyon Wednesday to visit Wilma, who is attending College there.

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

One Human Shipload
A Floating Microcosm
Intelligent Mrs. Widener
Mrs. Astor and Dr. Carrel
On Board the Normandie.—The ancient writer made this admission:

Arthur Brisbane

There are three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not: The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.

What would that inspired writer say of this modern ship in the midst of the sea? The biggest ship he ever saw could be hung from the ceiling of the dining salon on this boat or tucked away in a corner of the sun deck, disturbing no one.

A modern ocean liner, Queen Mary, Normandie, Rex or Europa, as it crosses the ocean indifferent to waves and winds, is a small world in itself, a microcosm, with this little earth playing the role of "Cosmos."

If this ship should sail to some new, uninhabited island of Utopia, it might supply everything necessary to start a new civilization better than the one invented by Sir Thomas More, who has been made a saint since he wrote "Utopia" to amuse himself and had his head cut off for his Catholic faith.

On board, with his friend, George Bacon, is Myron Taylor, head of the United States Steel company, biggest industrial unit on earth. He would supply the material for skyscrapers, ships, railroads and machinery, plus organization.

Simon Guggenheim would tell them how to make corporations profitable, by "holding on."

Various newspaper workers on the boat would be ready to start "The New Utopia Gazette"; Floyd Gibbons for war correspondent, plus members of the Edward H. Butler family, that own the Buffalo News, and the able Abraham Cahan, known to more New Yorkers than any editor in America, with one exception. And, most important to newspaper prosperity, the ship carries Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia, who has traveled up and down in every corner of the earth and says to your narrator:

"Mr. Brisbane, I have always wanted to meet you, because I read your articles every day."

There spoke the nucleus of a highly intelligent reading public.

Mrs. Vincent Astor, on her way back from a grouse moor in Scotland, would resume her real job of promoting deep music, finding co-operators in the passenger list—Madame Flagstad, the admirable Norwegian singer, a deep soprano able to make Isolde more impressive than Wagner ever imagined her. On board also is Arthur Bodanzky, ready to conduct the "New Utopia orchestra."

Mayor LaGuardia of New York will tell you how earnestly Mrs. Astor talks to him about her plans for a great musical center. But Mr. LaGuardia will never know what shudders would sweep from Ward McAllister's pineal gland to his Achilles tendon if he could hear Mayor LaGuardia say of the young lady in question, "That Mrs. Astor is a nice, serious girl, thoroughly in earnest."

To make this list complete, P. G. Wodehouse is on board, one who could and should describe this shipload of "important humanity" going nowhere in particular, for no reason in particular, some in the steerage, some "tourist" and some, with cabins on the sundeck, whose names break up passenger list continuity to make room for the magic words "maid, valet and chauffeur."

The contest between modern ships for the "Atlantic blue ribbon," or ocean championship, held at this moment by the British Queen Mary, supplies most amazing proof of modern engineering efficiency. Consider that, in a race across 3,000 miles of water, the Queen Mary, after being beaten several times by the French liner Normandie, beat the latter and took the Atlantic blue ribbon by a margin of less than half a mile, across 3,000 miles of ocean.

The oftener you cross, the more clearly you realize that the ocean is a great deal too big for our small planet. It is all one ocean—Atlantic, Pacific, Arctic, Antarctic, all touching—water covering three-quarters of the earth's surface.

Consider the Pacific; take your world map, Mercator's projection, fold it over from Asia toward New York and beyond. It will cover the United States, the Atlantic ocean and all Europe to the Bosphorus.

France Devalues Franc; Gold Standard Dropped

FRANCE at last came to the conclusion that it could no longer support the franc and Premier Leon Blum's government decided to abandon the gold standard and devalue the franc to between 4 1/2 and 5 cents. The Netherlands, Latvia and Switzerland immediately determined to follow suit. To save the world from a currency war, the United States, Great Britain and France entered into a "gentlemen's agreement." The exact nature of this agreement was not revealed, but the United States promised to employ its $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to head off the feared struggle. Certain it is that each of the three nations reserves the right to depart from the pact if and when its own interests require such a course. An expected outcome of the now general dropping of the gold standard may be an international conference for stabilization of world currencies. This might be held in Washington.

Leon Blum

Blum called a special session of the French parliament to pass the necessary legislation, and his plan was given grudging approval by the chamber of deputies. Its adoption by the chamber, where the "popular front" has a big majority, was taken for granted, but a fight was expected in the senate. The general project was divided into five sections, as follows:

1. Fixes the new gold content of the franc at a point between 43 and 49 milligrams of gold, prohibits the export or import of gold, and creates an equalization fund.
2. Permits the requisition of gold by the government, obliges individual citizens to declare their gold holdings, creates a tax on profits made from devaluation of the franc, and obliges market traders to reveal their operations in foreign exchange since September 2.
3. Creates a movable salary scale and makes various readjustments in the civil service, pension rates, etc.
4. Provides for readjustment of certain specific taxes such as those on oil, coffee, pepper, tea and sugar.
5. Makes certain changes in the debt structure of such public institutions as cities and communes necessitated by devaluation.

From the Chicago Journal of Commerce is taken this plain statement as to what France's action means to the ordinary American citizen:

"Reducing the amount of gold represented by one franc will mean that the average American will be able to travel cheaper in France than for the last two years. French wines should be cheaper in this country and women should be able to buy French perfume for less. That should be true of nearly everything else that France exports to the United States—unless this country hikes the tariff on French exports or French prices boom out of proportion to devaluation. Indirectly, franc devaluation may keep Americans from war as the act may be a wedge for currency stabilization the world over and more brotherly relations between all nations. But don't lose any sleep over it unless you are getting an income from someone in France."

Russia Hotly Denies Morgenthau's Charge

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU excitedly told the correspondents that soviet Russia attempted to upset the "gentlemen's agreement" between the United States, Great Britain and France. The state bank of Russia, he said, moved to drive down the price of the pound sterling by ordering the sale in New York of 1,000,000 pounds sterling "at any price." He said he frustrated this scheme by buying the pounds offered with money from the Treasury's stabilization fund.

The Soviet State bank declared Morgenthau's assertion as to the bank's purpose was without foundation and a nonsensical invention, that the transaction was an ordinary banking operation. The secretary's statement, the bank continued, "appears to be an undignified anti-soviet attack which is not based on defense of international currency equilibrium and the value of sterling, but had some other aims."

Harry Woodring Named Secretary of War

HARRY H. WOODRING was named by President Roosevelt to be secretary of war, filling the vacancy caused by the death of George H. Dern. This is a recess appointment, for the place had to be filled within thirty days. It may be the President will submit the name of another man to be permanent secretary early in the next session of congress. Those most often mentioned for the place are Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana and Frank Murphy, commissioner of the Philippines, who is running for governor of Michigan.

Spanish Fascists Capture City of Toledo

FURIOUS Spanish Fascists reached the ancient city of Toledo and drove out the government troops with shell and bayonet. The rebels fought their way through strong defense and as they reached the center of the city there was a great shout from the Alcazar. Out of that battered citadel rushed the ragged, battered and half-starved cadets who had withstood a terrific siege for almost ten weeks. This heroic garrison joined the insurgents in charging the defenders and finally the Socialist troops scattered and fled southward over the Tagus river. Their way to Madrid was blocked by Franco's columns.

Gen. Franco

Fascist bombing planes made several destructive raids on Bilbao, killing a large number of the citizens, smashing innumerable buildings and damaging two warships in the harbor. The enraged government sympathizers demanded that Fascist hostages held in the city be executed in reprisal, and finally a mob of anarchist amazons swarmed aboard a vessel on which many hostages were kept and brutally slaughtered 210 of them after putting them to the torture. The savage women were on their way to a prison to kill 60 woman hostages when they were dispersed by civil guards.

That the Spanish government realizes its precarious situation is evidenced by its proclamation ordering Madrid to prepare for a siege, followed by a manifesto calling on everyone, women as well as men, to rally to the defense of the capital.

Spain Warns Nations Not to Interfere

SPAIN'S representative in the League of Nations, Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo, solemnly warned other nations members of that body that they must not interfere with the Spanish civil war, which he said forbade a future war, not between states but between political concepts.

"The bloodstained soil of Spain already is the battlefield of world war," he contended in what other delegates construed as an attack on Germany, Italy and Portugal for allegedly arming the Spanish Fascist insurgents it assailed the European nonintervention agreement as "direct and positive intervention in behalf of the rebels" and as a "blockade of the lawful Spanish government."

British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, in a rather pessimistic address, said his government stood for an amendment to the league covenant to enable the league to intervene in the early stages of a dispute. He also proposed: Negotiation of regional pacts, separation of the league covenant from post-war treaties, measures to restore international trade; inquiry, under league auspices, into the question of access to raw materials, and reduction and limitation of armaments and publicity for armament expenditures.

Minneapolis Strike of Mill Workers Ends

ABOUT 1,800 mill workers of Minneapolis returned to their jobs, their strike having been settled. It had lasted for a month and had paralyzed the great milling industry of the city. The mill owners agreed to recognize the right of collective bargaining and to permit employees to choose their own representatives. Four hundred national guardsmen who had been mobilized by Governor Peterson for strike duty in event of an emergency were sent to their homes.

American Seaman Convicted by a German Court

LAWRENCE SIMPSON, an American seaman from Seattle, who had been waiting in German prison camps for 14 months for his trial on charges of sedition, was found guilty by the people's court and sentenced to three years in prison minus the time he already has been incarcerated. Simpson admitted freely that he and three other Communists tried to launch a popular front government in Germany, saying the plan failed because one of the four was a police spy. He said he repeatedly carried Communist propaganda into Germany aboard the steamship Manhattan, and also that he furnished one of his German associates with small balloons equipped for distributing handbills.

Communist Cry Stirs Up Heat

Real Issues of Campaign Turned Aside; G. O. P. Has Nothing to Offer

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON — As the campaign warms, there is less light and more heat, and everyone got hot over the charge that Roosevelt was a communist. That whisper has been going round and round among the stock brokers and society folks, but it comes out now in the political debate; and it has the effect of turning the real issues aside.

Roosevelt is just as American as the Stars and Stripes. In fact there is a virility to his Americanism that shines out even more than that of some of the old timers. Any communist who votes for Roosevelt is voting for the best man, but he is not voting for a President who will compromise with American ideals.

Progressive ideas are always called radical. When the elder La Follette started his progressive career which startled the industrialists, he was assailed by the old guard as a menace to the United States; and yet out of the 35 major industrial, social and tax reforms that started with the elder La Follette, 32 have been written into the law of the land. Men were called radicals once for advocating public education—Theodore Roosevelt was the object of a Wall street campaign of defamation. They said he was a dangerous radical because of some of the wild men who voted for him. His answer was that there is a lunatic fringe to every reform movement. In this campaign there is really no reason why political lunatics should vote for Roosevelt as they can locate their own kind in any one of three or four minority parties, such as the Lemke party, the Socialist party or Communist party.

All this agitation about communism arises out of the fact that the Landon-Knox campaign has been largely a name calling affair without promise of a program from the Republican party. That's the way the G. O. P. has so far impressed the mass of common people who have heard their idol Roosevelt berated, but they are still listening to hear what Landon and Knox can do that will be better for them than that which Roosevelt has already done.

The masses of folks saw the hungry fed; saw jobless men put to work; saw factories re-open and men go to work at better wages than before; saw the banks reopen with insured bank accounts; saw millions of families saved from mortgage eviction—and they wonder what it is that Messrs. Landon and Knox are finding fault with.

Actually the Republican party does not offer any precise principles of government at this stage. It seems much more interested in damaging the reputation of the administration than in educating the country in that "good government" of which they speak so feelingly—

Theirs has been a mud throwing campaign, and it makes their head men so mad they can't see straight when Roosevelt calmly goes ahead about the business of running the United States, apparently taking no notice of what his opponents are saying about him. Of course, a President can act, while all a candidate can do is to promise; but when you have modest candidate Landon fumbling around for a speech that will not commit him to anything; and vice presidential candidate Knox roaring up and down the land like a bull in a china shop—and accomplishing no more than that—When you have Chairman John Hamilton who apparently imagines all wisdom will die with him—you have a pretty trick to educate the mass of voters in anything at all! I have read all the speeches I could get from all three of these head Republicans—but trying to patch them together into a plan of government, is beyond me.

Knox Surprises.

Colonel Knox furnishes many surprises in this campaign—He surprised many of us when he endorsed the idea of social security and old age pensions and jobless insurance, because Knox is the principal representative of the old guard in the campaign, and the old guard has consistently looked on social security, old age pensions and insurance against a jobless state as completely communistic. So when the colonel told a California audience that these things were OK with him it was surprising, until you realized that he was talking to California people who are apparently a hundred per cent sold on bigger and better old age pensions.

And to people in the southwest who have had the deserts watered by federal reclamation projects, and who have seen so much benefit from federal public works, the colonel brings the assuring message that his party does not want to hamper relief and cut off public works. In New York the colonel and his party set afoot a whirlwind of propaganda and abuse against all these things—relief, social security and public works. But in the area where relief, social security and public works are a hundred per cent favored, the colonel promises to continue them all with bigger and better attributes—and at the same time reduce taxation, curtail expenses and balance the budget. The old fashioned medicine man himself couldn't do a better job at selling a bottle that would cure hoarseness or remove warts, whichever might be required.

Something or Nothing.

The more I read and hear about the Landon farm program the more it all seems to me like the old medicine man's gag of "something for nothing." It is impossible for me to understand how Landon can give us the tremendous cash benefits he promises; and at the same time reduce taxes and balance the budget—In fact I think the Governor is talking through his hat.

The Republicans have told the city folks that food costs are high because of the cash paid by the federal government to the farmers; they indicate they will put a stop to all that when Governor Landon is elected. That's a good gag in the city; it makes unthinking millions really believe that the cost of living will decrease tremendously if Landon is elected. Everybody will have a job when Landon is in the White House; money will flow freely; and living will cost practically nothing!

Well, that doesn't go well with farm leaders; so Governor Landon at Des Moines goes through an amazing performance which can be likened to a magician making rapid passes to dazzle the audience and then bringing a rabbit out of the hat. In fact Landon promises that he would give everything that Roosevelt has given the farmers; drought relief; seed loans; he would give crop insurance too; he will conserve the soil to a fare-you-well—And he's going to give the farmers a subsidy; the same subsidy which his party repudiated and rejected for years; but this time it's actually going to be handed around in cash.

Every farmer with a family type farm is going to have a wad of federal cash which will offset the ruination of those awful surpluses which the farm leaders talk about. No large commercial farms can have these surpluses. That sounds good until it reaches New York where many commercial farms are owned by insurance companies; and when they hear about it in Wall street, I fear that Governor Landon will be rebuked. Because, although Wall street doesn't like the idea of doing anything with farmers except milk them dry, Wall street occasionally buys a farm of its own and wants to get all the federal subsidy that's being handed 'round.

To anyone who is looking for good sound philosophy of government and a plan to do something for agriculture, the whole show is sickening.

Landon's Promises.

Practically every promise Landon makes to farmers has been lifted bodily from the Roosevelt program, yet Landon has the nerve to say that after nearly four years the country is still without a settled policy for agriculture. Farmers know that for twelve years they suffered, and that they began to improve their lot when Roosevelt took office; when Henry Wallace began to operate, and when congress enacted its famous series of New Deal farm laws. Farmers know the difference between their four billion dollar income in 1932 and their eight billion dollar income this year.

The Progressives.

The progressive leaders who met in Chicago in September and endorsed Roosevelt could easily elect Landon if they had swung that way. The progressive bloc in congress, whose leaders are such men as Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin, Maverick of Texas, represents literally millions of votes; and inasmuch as many of their followers are nominally Republicans, this progressive consolidation for Roosevelt is vastly weightier than the much vaunted "take-a-walk" Democrats of the conservative stratum.

Progressive politics means that section of public life where human rights precede property rights without going insane about it. I think Senator Norris of Nebraska hit the nail squarely when he said "Roosevelt is the only President since his illustrious namesake whose heart beats in sympathy with the common man"—The progressives who met to endorse Roosevelt represent men who have been fighting corporation interests in behalf of the ordinary citizen; who have been working for better industrial conditions and wages; who have fought child labor; farm leaders who refuse to be catspaws for industrial high tariff schemes; labor leaders and many others of that general class.

Noticeable among labor groups were men from the four railroad brotherhoods, one of the most powerful organizations in the country and one which has steadfastly turned toward the progressive candidate whoever he has been. To these men the Roosevelt fight is simply one long battle against corporate interests which have worked in the dark to throttle the advancing cause of the worker. Interesting also was the presence of Senator Benson and Governor Peterson of Minnesota, speaking for the Farmer-Labor party.

The progressive conference was probably more completely representative of the average working man and woman and the average farm dweller than any conference held in several years.

"Yes," said Agnes, losing breath. "Can you do something?" She caught his sleeve. "I don't know whom to turn to. Father can do no more just now; and Jeb—Mr. Braddon—Davis would be frantic if he helped him. But you can't put up money for him."

He Got His Capital by Borrowing on His Life-Insurance.

the premiums each year were due. But the companies, by common practice, extended date of payment by a month's "grace."

Davis, after a time, sent out word he could not see Mr. O'Mara.

He jerked about, dropping his pen. He saw O'Mara, and started to rise but he did not. His hand darted to an open drawer beside him, and came up with a pistol, which he lifted, not toward Cathal, but toward his own head.

CHAPTER XIII

Bea, not yet undressed, lay on the bed beside her husband. He had worn himself out; and the bromide which she had brought him had made him sleepy at last; but she could not sleep.

He clutched him with both arms from behind, and bracing his feet below the window, he pulled Davis back into the room; and then Cathal took no more chances. He let go and regained his feet first; and as Davis stood up, Cathal swung with all his weight in the blow upon Davis' chin.

"He shot himself!" Ken Remble whispered. "No," said Cathal. "I took the gun away from him. He's knocked out; that's all."

"Time," said Cathal; and before he brought the desk clock into Davis' sight, he turned the hands. "It's after twelve, Ayreforth," he said. "It's two minutes after noon. Your insurance has expired."

"I didn't do it!" he broke down utterly. "I didn't do it—for her." Cathal remained with him, in the office, until two o'clock, when he was able to communicate with Robert Gleneth in his office; and Gleneth came for the Dark One's husband and took him home.

That evening, when he arrived at the Lindsdales, Cathal received a message to call Miss Gleneth. She would wait for him, Agnes told him, no matter how late it might be before he could come to the house.

"Nothing," said Cathal, his hand burning from her touch. He wanted to turn his hand and clasp hers; he wanted—how he wanted to draw her to him! But he did not.

"The times we've met," she heard him say, "could be packed in a day; do you know it?"

"I know it. What a day!" "Do you live in it—ever?" "Ever? Again and again, over and over! Do you?"

Winnie, that was, Winnie, who had been at the trial! Agnes went out to a taxi.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for October 11 BECOMING A CHRISTIAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:22-34, Philipians 2:7-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved—Acts 16:31.

The conversion of Lydia and her gracious growth into usefulness as a Christian is in striking contrast with the experience that Paul had with the demon-possessed damsel (Acts 16:16-18).

As long as the missionaries were at the place of prayer and in the home of Lydia they were not disturbed. But as soon as they touched the illegitimate gain of these "business" men who were making money from the misfortune of the poor damsel, bitter opposition arose.

II. Down, but not defeated (vv. 25, 26).

The preachers landed in jail, beaten, bloody, and chained to the stocks. What a disgrace it would have been if they had come there because of their misdeeds.

III. Salvation Instead of Suicide (vv. 27-34).

Thank God for the earthquakes in our lives which bring us to him. The jailer, being rightly exercised by God's dealings with him, asks the greatest and most important question that can ever come out of the heart of unregenerate man—"What must I do to be saved?"

IV. All for Christ (Phil. 3:7-14).

Longfellow Cherished Laborer's Compliment

When Henry Longfellow was departing from an audience with Queen Victoria, he was accosted by a workingman and she said, "Please, your honor, and are you Mr. Longfellow?"

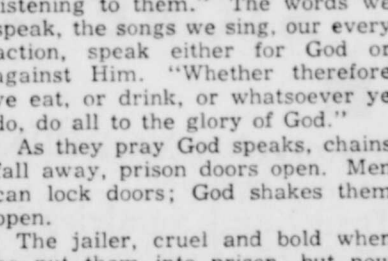

"I am," replied the poet. "And did you write the 'psalm of Life'?" the man asked. "I did," answered Longfellow. "Then, sir, would you take a workingman by the hand?"

Telling of the incident later, Longfellow said, "I never in my life received a compliment that gave me greater satisfaction."

Yours Truly (?)

THREE LONG YEARS

By Honorable Jack Houston, Congressman, 5th Kansas District, (With Apologies to Nobody)

Republicans, for three long years have shed their coats and skins and tears.

To tell their comrades how they feel regarding Roosevelt's New Deal.

For three long years they've played for votes.

But never mentioned nine-cent oats. They say this New Deal stuff is rotten.

But never speak of four-cent cotton.

For three long years they've wept aloud!

And cursed this money-spending crowd.

They say, "Of liberty we're shorn", But not a breath of ten-cent corn.

For three long years they've yelled and raved:

The Constitution must be saved! But with their puerile prate and prattle, They sing no song of two-cent cattle.

For three long years, they've been at sea. And now they come to you and me And offer us—as bait for votes—More two-cent steers, and nine cent oats.

For three long years they've yelled and wailed. And tell us how the New Deal's failed. They tell us how we're going to spoil, But never mention ten-cent oil.

For three long years they fume and fret And hammer and slander our New Deal set.

They tell us all: Roosevelt's a cheat, But forget to talk of two-bit wheat.

They offer, as in days of old 'A crown of thorns', 'a cross of gold' 'A balanced budget'—can you beat it? Well, one thing's sure, you cannot eat it.

THIS FINLEY White gets a huge delight from the 'boy from Kansas', getting him told about the Kansas guy for president, how many times I'll vote for him etc. — Well you know he's just like a woman, always bound to have the last word, so I'll have to get in my say here. Look it up Finley, you'll find Kansas about 50-50 on their politics—and the Democrats there are Democrats because they feel like it personally, and not because their ancestors were Democrats. Yowsah!

ONE OF THE attorneys in Silverton was explaining to Yours Truly the difference between a felony and a misdemeanor. He said, "When you steal chickens at night it's a felony; if you do it in the daytime, it's a misdemeanor."

WEDNESDAY MORNING, and the cars are at it again. As for myself, I've driven two blocks and haven't been stuck but once, and got out of that by myself. But there are some of these guys that just can't drive in mud.

AND OUR STREETS had been fixed up till they were as smooth as could be. Boys played marbles in the streets on account of them being smooth as a billiard table. Not a clod nor flock of earth was there to be found as one drove the streets of our fair city. Even the wind added a mile or so to its velocity as it entered the streets and found absolutely no surface resistance. In short, they were pretty fair. But now, alas! They're getting a little rough again. It's too bad—after the Street Commissioner and his men had worked so hard smoothing them up and everything too. By the way, Mr. Whiteside, is your phone working today?

BUT OIL-PLATING LASTS...

Change today

Right you are. The weather hasn't made up its mind yet. But you don't care, once Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented—is Oil-Plating your engine for Winter.

Change to modern Oil-Plating today, for instance. Then every cylinder, piston, bearing and other part is completely Oil-Plated

And today... tomorrow... next month... as long as you use Germ Processed, this Oil-Plating will still be up there. It gets there by means of the special "hyper-oily concentrate" which is alloyed into Germ Processed oil under patents. In circulating, this oil renews its genuine Oil-Plating, which doesn't return to the crankcase, but stays up all through your engine.

Thus the old cry of "get your right Winter viscosity" isn't the half of it, now that you can get exclusive Oil-Plating, too—a great big extra. Oil-Plating is all ready to lubricate before your starter even turns, and that lets your battery live. Oil-Plating doesn't run off in any weather, and that saves your engine and oil. You keep away from your next quart—your next battery—your next car, by changing today to Conoco Germ Processed oil. Continental Oil Company

Cowboy Terms

If you are one of those who thought lariat and lasso meant the same thing you have been badly fooled. One is a noun and the other a verb in the cattle country, according to Da' McCarthy, of Montana, in his book of "cowboy lingo, rodeo terms, dude ranch jargon, range profanity and other Western expressions" published for the benefit of posterity. A "lariat," according to the author, is a rope often used to "lasso" various animals. A "paint" is a horse 'splashed with several colors' while "rotten loggin'" has nothing to do with a lumber camp. It means "sparkin'" in the moonlight.

DON'T WORRY FRIENDS WITH PERSONAL TROUBLES

Janet first tells you she can't afford the trip or the matinee or the hair-do and then proceeds to indulge in all of them.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS IT IS a strange truth about our muddled lives that usually there is just one thing that is worrying us profoundly. If that ONE thing could be settled or changed everything would be wonderful!

The simplicity with which women admit this would be funny if it wasn't somehow so pathetic. They go on from school days to young womanhood, from bridal hours to the serious business of home-making and child-bearing, from youth to age, eternally explaining that it is just this or just that, that keeps their minds from being completely at rest.

We never seem smart enough to learn that it always will be this way. Then even when the last hour of all arrives, and the family gathers for the long parting, and the doctors are packing up their little bags to go on to the next case, that there will be still just that one thing between us and peace—one child or grandchild about whom to worry, one unwritten letter or undelivered message to haunt us as we start on the long journey.

Lucy, for example, doesn't like the Morrison house. Lucy married Harry Morrison seventeen years ago, and his parents gave them the big, ugly comfortable old place for their home. Lucy's children have been born there, they've had Christmas trees and measles and birthdays and picnics, they've turned the old sewing room into a sleeping porch and put in extension telephones and radios and new bathrooms, but still Lucie doesn't like the Morrison house! "We're still in that dreadful old red shingled mausoleum," said Lucy to me in 1914, when she had been married about a year. "You know we're still in the old place, and it never will seem like home to me!" she told me again last week, when I met her in the market.

Janet, on the other hand, has lived in all sorts of fascinating houses and countries. But Janet never has enough money. She never forgets for one second that she and Tom haven't enough money. If they go abroad she explains it in a scandalized aside: "Imagine beggars like us on the 'Paris'!" If they stay at home every phase of every subject upon which Janet's brilliant conversation touches is the money phase. Her daughters have been well educated in private schools. "Don't ask me how we did it," says Janet, "for, of course, we were miles in debt!" Whether she has one servant or seven Janet is always poor. She first tells you that she can't possibly afford the trip or the matinee or the hair-do, and then proceeds to indulge in them. She never gives a penny to charity, "because we simply haven't got it!"

Those who love Janet get sick of the topic of money. What her bridge losses were, what her doctor bills were, what she lost at contract, what Nancy's teeth-straightening is costing, what opera seats are—these are all you hear from Janet. For thirty years she has had no other topic of conversation, or rather all topics have led straight to this one. "My dear, if I had enough money I'd be the happiest woman in the world!" Janet says.

Mary's trouble is Jacky. Her other four children are perfect specimens, her husband is successful and devoted and charming, married sisters and her mother live near, and adore her—but in Mary's story there is always the tragedy of Jacky. Something in Jacky's bone-structure is wrong, and Jacky, nine years old now, will never walk. He is content, busy, he works and studies and laughs and makes models of ships and airplanes and reads about Nils and Tarzan and Mowgli like any other boy; everyone in the family adores him. Jacky is a completely happy child. But Mary can't leave it that way. "Why Mary God send me so much and then did God send this bitter cross?" she asks give me this bitter cross?" she asks give me this beautiful baby crippled—but to never to play football and run and swim and race with the others! It's too much. I wish I had never married, and never had a child!"

Thousands of persons in the last five years have made their one individual grievance the bad luck of 1929. Things are going better now, and they are eating and sleeping comfortably; everyone has somehow gotten through. But they can't forget those thousands—those beautiful thousands—that were lost in bad investments. Why, they could all have gone abroad for a year, they could have bought the house and the car and built a brick wall and put Georgia through college with that money!

It seems too horrible that it was THEIRS—they HAD it—and now it's gone forever. I know one woman who has reproached her husband with the loss of their fortune every day for five years, and I suppose there are many like her. All the events of these sixty vital months, the changes and chances and ups and downs have been colored for her by the memory of that money. "Lewis WOULD invest it that way—it was oil, and oil couldn't fail," she says bitterly. "I couldn't say a thing—how did I know it was like throwing it away!" She reminds her children of it. "You could do it ten times over if Dad hadn't lost all that money!" she says. Her friends can hardly venture a conversational opening without eliciting her patient, "Well, we lost everything in 1929, you know," is reply.

To thousands of other women the necessity of having some other person in their lives is the unendurable thing. If Mama, or Cousin Ella, or Grandpa was just—well, pleasantly settled somewhere else, the house would run so easily, there would be nothing amiss!

Everyone of us has something—something small and annoying and burdensome, just the one thing of all others with which we feel ourselves least able to bear. Not a great sorrow—we can rise to that. But just something—something that stands between us and the full sunlight.

It is a wise woman who learns to expect this small percentage of imperfection in her life, and accepts it. It is a wise woman who learns that if it disappears in one form it will most certainly present itself in another, that no life is lived without galling conditions of one sort or another. The real difficulty is perhaps that being imperfect ourselves we create imperfections in our separate schemes. Or perhaps our defective ideals of civilization leave these gaps.

Whatever the cause, since a constantly changing program of small troubles is an inescapable part of our lives it is sensible to train ourselves to bear them with dignity and courage, and to spare our friends as much of them as we can. There is no pleasure in the world any keener than to meet a friend known to be having difficult times and to realize that she is more than adequate to the demand Fate is making of her; to find her cheerful and resolute and busy where we expected to find her crushed and helpless.

Many, many years ago a fine old Englishman who used to live in our part of the California mountains told me that for a certain time in his life he used to turn his diary's pages three months ahead and write down specifically what was worrying him at the moment. He said it was absolutely shocking to work through the days and weeks to reach those entries, and discover that the shame and anxiety of April were forgotten completely in July, that July had its own new set of humiliations and worries. The habit perhaps helped to make him the philosopher he became in his old age; nothing troubled him when I knew him, and it was he who gave me the phrase that I have said to myself almost every day for more than thirty-five years. "To him that loveth God all things work together for good."

Longest Single Railroad

The Trans-Siberian railway is the longest single railroad in the world, stretching 4,500 miles across the Asiatic continent. It was first planned in 1850, but construction was delayed until 1891 when Count Witte obtained the czar's approval for the work to begin. The Siberian part was completed by 1898.

"Painter of Kings"

Baron Francois Pascal Gerard, French artist, was called "the painter of kings" because most of the leading men and women of the French empire sat for him. He was appointed court painter to Louis XVIII, from whom he received the rank of baron.

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

CAROLE LOMBARD is a happy girl these days. When Alice Marble defeated Helen Jacobs at Forest Hills, N. Y., and became our national tennis champion, everybody wanted the racket with which she won. She was deluged with telegrams asking for it.

But Carole's telegram arrived first, and Carole is an old friend—so she got the racket. And as all Hollywood is tennis-mad, (as well as polo-mad and football-mad) that was something to cheer about.

Incidentally Alice Marble, who is very pretty, was asked if she'd like to go into pictures. She said she wouldn't.

Well, Joan Blondell and Dick Powell finally got married; had the ceremony performed on the ship on which they were sailing through the Panama canal and on to New York for a very gay honeymoon. They were lucky to have three whole weeks between pictures; as it was, Dick had to plan for a broadcast the minute they landed in New York.

Joan Blondell and Dick Powell are among the most popular stars of Hollywood.

That first broadcast of Major Bowes' for his new sponsors was very much a society affair, with men in formal evening attire and women in low-cut gowns crowding in to hear and see it, and policemen holding back the uninited.

"Hollywood Boulevard" is a picture that all you old-timers certainly ought to see. John Halliday, Betty Compton, Esther Ralston, Mae Marsh, Charles Ray, Francis X. Bushman—they're all in it, and so are others who made movie history in the silent days.

The picture is interesting, too, because of the very good plot, involving pretty Marsha Hunt, who looks very much like the Gish girls in their early days.

If you have listened to the "Myrt and Marge" programs on the air you've heard a chap named Vinton Haworth, who's about to burst into fame and glory on the motion picture screen.

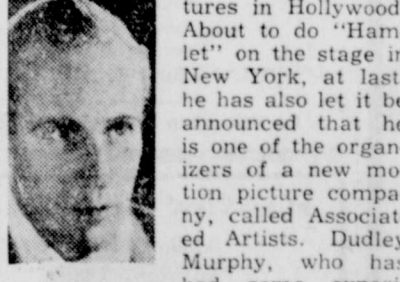

Some booking agents heard him on the air and got him a screen test. Then, as frequently happens, nothing happened for months. Finally Cliff Reid, who is producing "The Plough and the Stars" for RKO saw the test. He was casting "Without Orders," an aviation story, and took a terrific chance by casting Haworth as the second male lead.

Bob Armstrong was playing the first lead; the girl was Sally Eilers. And—Mr. Haworth stole the picture!

Mary Carlisle has come along fast since she was just one more of the pretty, blonde girls of whom Hollywood was so full two years ago. They had pretty figures, they were cute—but it was hard, sometimes, to tell them apart.

But see Mary in "Lady, Be Careful" with Lew Ayres, Buster Crabbe, and some other awfully good young actors, and you'll realize that she has developed into a fine young leading woman. It's a riotously funny picture, made from the successful play, "Sailor Beware."

Leslie Howard has made no secret of the fact that he didn't want to go on making pictures in Hollywood. About to do "Hamlet" on the stage in New York, at last, he has also let it be announced that he is one of the organizers of a new motion picture company, called Associated Artists. Dudley Murphy, who has had some experience as a director in Hollywood, and Hugh Walpole, the novelist, are associated with him in the company, which has been formed in London.

ODDS AND ENDS... Hollywood is still shocked by Irving Thalberg's death... George Brent is planning now to go to London for the coronation next spring... There's a dearth of young leading men in Hollywood... "Give Me Your Heart," Kay Francis' newest picture, is one of her best, and once again she proves her ability to wear lovely clothes better than most of the girls in Hollywood do... Ruby Keeler and Al Tolson celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary the other day... Paramount pays George Raft as much money as Metro pays Clark Gable... Frank Morgan's mother, one of the country's most successful business women, died recently at the age of eighty-four... "Sing, Baby, Sing" is breaking records and making a reputation as one of the year's funniest pictures.

Junior Department. This is a training department of our church. If you would have your children better trained in Christian Service; if you would have them to have their social activities under the direction of the church, then send them to the First Baptist Church next Sunday evening at 7:00 P. M. Also we have a B. A. U. for the adults. We invite you to this phase of our work.

Next Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour we plan to speak on "EXPECTANCY". God expects His people to do some things. We are expecting gifts from the bountiful hand of God. Will we receive them? God is bestowing upon all of us each day, unsolicited gifts that mean life or death to us. We mean by this that God is caring for us every day of our lives, blessing in every way, yet some of us never ask Him for a thing, nor thank Him for what He is doing for us. What does God expect of you? What do you expect of Him? We urge you to hear this message. We also welcome visitors that come to worship with us. God has been good to us in this light. Every Sunday we have visitors and we never fail to thank God for them.

Meeting at manse--Ladies plan
Review of "Gone With the Wind"

The Pastors helpers were graciously received by Mrs. John Thorne, at the Manse on Monday afternoon, October 5th for their second meeting of the fall.

Mrs. Miner Crawford, Vice chairman, presided in the absence of Mrs. Bob Dickenson, as the business of the day was disposed of. The most important subject discussed was the program for the silver tea which will be given Wednesday afternoon, October 21, at the Presbyterian Church when Mrs. O. T. Bundy will review today's greatest novel, "Gone With The Wind".

Of this book The Washington Post literatus said: "It seems to me that "Gone With The Wind" is the best novel that ever come out of the South. The Presbyterian women felt that Mrs. Bundy's review of this modern literary masterpiece would be a treat for all the Silverton Ladies who care for the finest and best in literature, and decided to give every one the opportunity of hearing her. The lecture will be given at a seated tea at the Church, and a silver offering will be accepted, it was decided.

Mrs. Sherman assisted Mrs. Thorne in serving tea and English cakes to Mesdames: Miner Crawford, Bert Douglas, Hubert Simmons, Perry Thomas, C. L. Dickerson, O. T. Bundy and Clyde Wright. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. L. Dickerson at 2:30 P. M. October 19.

A Big-Capacity, Fast-Working Two-Row Power Corn Binder
McCORMICK-DEERING

HERE is the machine for the farmer with a large acreage of corn—the McCormick-Deering Two-Row Power-Operated Corn Binder. It cuts two rows every trip across the field—its capacity is 20 to 25 acres a day. Driven from the power take-off of a McCormick-Deering Tractor, uniform and constant operating speed is assured regardless of slippery ground or heavy crop conditions.

The design of the gatherers permits raising and gathering any down or leaning stalks—shields provide smooth passage and prevent the ears from being knocked off. Three sets of lifted chains insure proper handling of tall or short corn.

This power binder is built in two types—for tall and average length corn, and for small and short varieties. Ask us about it
