Finley White's Agricultural Briefs

With the wheat all safely in the ground and out again the farmers are turning their efforts toward scrapping those bolls and getting in those "post toasties". The thrifty farmers are getting this job done in a hurry too. Soon we won't have much to do but whittle and chew. While engaged in this whittling and chewing pastime, let's take time to formulate some workable ideas on the new farm program. This new program is for the farmers and so, should be shaped by them. There are some good bulletins available thru the County Agent's office that we should all read before we form an opinion of what should be done on the 1937 program. Come by and get yours.

When the Work's All Done this Fall

This is a good time to have those terrace and contour lines run. A waiting list is now being prepared in the County Agent's office, of every farmer who wants lines run. Come by and let's arrange a date to run your lines.

Last year lines were run on more than 25,000 acres of farm land in Briscoe county, and this year we should double that figure. Let's get ready now to save that moisture that "might" come next spring.

What? Turkeys Again?

Yes Sir! If you didn't get your turkeys ready for the Thanksgiving market, you had better be pushing them along in a hurry now, for only a few days remain before the Xmas market opens. If your birds are on the range, you will make money by penning them and finishing them off with grain. They won't cost as much and will fatten on what they do eat, rather than run it off like they would if they were on the open range.

Plans are now to open the pool again here in Silverton for home-dressing turkeys. The number of turkeys available for this pool will determine whether or not the pool is opened here or not. If you have turkeys you expect to pool drop us a line giving the number you will likely have to pool. Pooling dates will be announced in next week's paper. Remember that the Southwestern Dressed Turkey Show will be held in Plainview December 2nd and 3rd. This show will also carry a live bird entry. Briscoe County producers should bring their share of prize money from this show since we have produced a real crop of turkeys this year.

Thanksgiving Time

When we come to this time of the year, it would not be amiss for us to pause long enough to take inventory of the blessings which have been ours this year. There are none of us who cannot count untold blessings given by the Great Creator if we will but think back a few moments. God has given us health and strength, friends, and loved ones—out of war—a good President, and many, many other things too numerous to mention. We would be most ungrateful if we did not take time out long enough to offer our thanks and gratitude to Him for these many blessings. Our prayer should be that we might live a life of worthiness and appreciation for the many blessings given to us by an all-wise and merciful God.

R. A. GILMER DEAD

Funeral services were held here Friday, November 20, for Mr. R. A. Gilmer of Dimmitt, Texas. The services were held at the cemetery here. Mr. Gilmer's wife was killed in a car wreck at the Caprock in 1927. Several other members of the party were injured at the time and Silverton folks will remember them from that incident. Mr. Gilmer's body was brought here at his request, for burial beside that of his wife. Mr. R. A. Gilmer died November 18, at the age of 79 years, 4 months and ten days at the M. A. Gilmer home six miles east of Flag. He had been in poor health for several months.

Funeral services were held at the M. A. Gilmer home, Friday, November 20 and interment was made in the Silverton Cemetery.

Mr. Gilmer came to Texas in 1886 and settled in Hamilton County. He moved to Castro county in 1936 and made his home with M. A. Gilmer, his son until the time of his death.

Talking It Over With Home Demo

We did not get to have a county exhibit this year but we hope to have an exhibit that will be worth seeing. County Home Demonstration Council is sponsoring an exhibit of work done by the Home Demonstration Clubs in the county this year, so if you would like to know what things they are doing observe these exhibits which will be on display in the various stores by Saturday, November 28. And you will be interested in the 4-H Pantry which is going to be given away, see on the lookout for details.

Council Meeting

Saturday is the last Saturday in the month again and time for council meeting. Each club president is asked to have their representatives present and to be present themselves. Exhibit Committee has a report which will be of interest to each club member concerning the 4-H Club Pantry exhibit. The work for the year books are also underway and plans for next year's work have been completed. Please be present so that you may give your reports back to your various clubs.

On Jelly Making

Find that by canning any fruit you have and making only a small amount up into jellies and preserves you can make it up as I need it that have jelly that has a fresher flavor, more like the fresh fruit. In the case of grapes, the jelly has not a tendency to form crystals as when it has stood for some time. Mrs. John Kitchens, Lakeview Food Supply Demonstrator, will give her report on her pantry this year.

On Pantry Arrangement

Find the 4-H pantry way of arranging food on the shelves very convenient in making meal planning. Mrs. John Lee Francis, Food Supply Demonstrator of Francis Home Demonstration Club, says "On the top shelf of my pantry I place my jellies, jams, preserves, pickles and relishes because they are kept by the sugar and vinegar used in making them. On the next shelf are my fruits, then vegetables, and last of all, meats. These are placed in the order of their use in keeping, because the temperature near the ceiling is warm and if one is to get the best results in keeping foods fresh a cool area is required to keep them."

On Making Shampoo

"I make my own shampoo and find it makes a more satisfactory shampoo than soap," says Francis Francis, Francis 4-H Club girl. A good shampoo that can be made at home, may be prepared by dissolving one-fourth cake of pure castile soap in one quart of water. This is to be bottled and kept indefinitely.

Francis has found that a good shampoo aids materially in preserving the beauty and health of the hair. Also a good stiff brush used regularly will tend to relieve dandruff and more evenly distribute the natural oil of the hair, giving it a natural gloss that does not come from oil bottles.

Antelope Home Demonstration

Antelope Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. D. W. Evans Friday Nov. 30th. Mrs. Evans gave a report on pantry achievements. Miss Meadows gave a talk on Planning and Frame Gardens and Pantries for the coming year. Mrs. C. C. Brown was elected as president after Mrs. Roy Allard's resignation was accepted. Mrs. D. W. Evans was elected to fill Mrs. E. L. Carpenter's place who is moving to Hill place. Mrs. Dan Dean was elected council member after Mrs. L. Waldrop resigned. Fruit salad and cake was served by club members and Mrs. L. R. Dean and Mrs. Johnson, Clarendon; and Mrs. Onis Heron and daughter, Mable Jo of Heckman.

The club members are selling chewing gum and with each package a ticket is given. The lucky number for the 4-H Club Pantry arranged by County Club members at Silverton.

Cemetery Being Cleaned

The Garden Club is having the cemetery cleaned up. Mr. L. A. Tibbets is doing the work. The Club is using the piano given them by one of the school districts that consolidated this year, as a means of raising money. This money will be used to keep the cemetery in good condition. Silverton folks with loved ones in the cemetery should appreciate this work of the Garden Club—and they will certainly appreciate any way in which you may help them raise money for the job.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carter were visiting at the Fred Buchanan home Sunday afternoon.

J. M. BRADLEY

Mr. J. M. Bradley was born in Cook County, Texas, in 1890 where he lived until 1902. He moved at that time to Sayre, Oklahoma, where he met and married Miss Tressie Seayne. To this union were born two children, Walter and Raymond, both of whom are still living near Silverton, Texas.

Mr. Bradley was converted at an early age and united with the Methodist Church. At the time of his departure, he was still a member of the Methodist church of Sayre, Oklahoma.

At the age of 46 years, he departed this life, November 19, 1936. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and two sons, Walter and Raymond; three brothers, Earl of Sayre, Oklahoma; Price and Robert both of Tulsa, Texas; one sister, Rachel Hostetter of Sayre, Oklahoma, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Mr. Bradley was a devoted father and an example of right living in his home. Of a very kindly nature, he was never known to speak an unkind word to his wife or children. His friends were numbered by all who knew him.

The entire county and community sorrows with these loved ones in the loss of their husband and father.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this method of thanking our many friends for the kind things which you said and did during the illness and death of our loved one, J. M. Bradley.

Words of sympathy fall lightly on the ears of those in deep sorrow but your words of sympathy and your beautiful offering of flowers make our burden easier to bear.

When the time comes for you to part with your loved ones, it is our prayer that you may be strengthened by just such loving friends.

Mrs. J. M. Bradley,
Walter Bradley,
Raymond Bradley,
Price Bradley and family,
Earl Bradley and family,
Mrs. Rachel Hostetter and family,

COPY OF TELEGRAM SENT By Marvin Jones, chairman House Committee on Agriculture to President's Drought Committee

November 19, 1936
Hon. Morris L. Cooke,
Chairman Drought Committee,
Dalhart, Texas

I submit the following suggestions for the consideration of your committee. First, Building of earthen dams on the draws and small streams as well as construction of small lakes in drought areas to further water conservation. Second, Approval of small irrigation projects in counties where sufficient water supply is shown to be available. Third, Simplifying our farm program with a large share of responsibility of administration in hands of county and community committees selected by farmers. Fourth, Adequate provision for low interest farm credit. Fifth, A farm tenant bill to encourage owner operated farms in all sections. Sixth, An adequate range program as an integral part of soil conservation. I appreciate your meeting in this area; sorry I cannot be present.

MARVIN JONES

SINGING CONVENTION TO MEET AT TURKEY

The 4 county Singing Convention will meet at Turkey, Texas the 5th, Sunday November 29, at 10 O'clock High School Auditorium.

Everyone is invited to attend and bring a basket lunch as dinner will be served on the ground.

The convention was originally the Monthly County 5th, Sunday Convention but was changed and organized in a 4 County Convention Motley, Hall, Briscoe Floyd Counties.

With C. M. Lyles of Floydada as President; Mr. Cunningham, of Turkey, Vice President; Earl Morrison Gasoline, Secretary and Treasurer.

Parker -- North

Mrs. Opal Parker and Mr. Herbert North were married at Plainview, Sunday, November 22, 1936. Congratulations to the newlyweds.

BOY SCOUT COURT OF HONOR

Ten awards were presented to the Scouts of Troop 62 at a Court of Honor, held at the Methodist church Tuesday night. This is the first Court of Honor that has been held in Silverton in several years, local Scouters report.

Rev. John Thorns, Court of Honor Chairman, made a talk to the boys on the early history of Scouting in England and some of the experiences he had with Lord Baden-Powell, Chief Scout of the World, at the time the first Boy Scouts were started in England.

Scouts receiving advancement at the Court of Honor were: Second Class, Jack O'Neal, Lloyd Sherman, Albert White, and Taylor Williamson.

Merit badges were presented to Albert White in Poultry Keeping; Rex Douglas in Bookbinding; Lloyd Sherman in Hog and Pork Production and Poultry Keeping; and to Jack O'Neal in Sheep Raising and Hog and Pork production.

Visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Douglas and Cecil Terrell, Lyndon T. Grant, assistant executive had charge of the presentation of the awards.

"Huckleberry Finn, Detective" To Be Presented Here

The pupils of Silverton High School, have definitely announced that they have arranged "Huckleberry Finn, Detective", a sequel based on the famous and never-to-be-forgotten "Huckleberry Finn" by the illustrious Mark Twain. America's first and foremost humorist at the High School auditorium December 8.

Plays come and go. Some of them are good, others not quite so good. Each and every person have a favorite play. After you have seen the performance of "Huckleberry Finn, Detective" it will be your favorite play and you will be able to tell why. Because Robert Lewis has created a tear one moment and a howl the next. There is a dash of excitement, a series of tense situations, plenty of clean and clever situations; in fact, this play contains something that will appeal to each and every member of the family.

It is going to be a grand performance, too, and one that will surprise you by the amount of local actors. The cast is rehearsing daily and the reports around town are that this is going to be the finest play and performance ever presented by local talent.

Don't forget the date—December 8, or you will miss an opportunity that you'll never have again.

Tragedy

After spending four days enroute to Castro County from Tennessee, to visit his father who had been ill, J. M. Gilmer stopped in Silverton, to make some purchases, and was informed that the funeral of his father had been held at the Silverton Cemetery an hour before. It was the first that the son knew of the death of his father.

Only Third As Much Cotton This Year As 1935

Census reports from the Department of Commerce show that there were only 1,835 bales of cotton ginned in Briscoe County from the crop of 1936 prior to November 14, as compared with 3,578 bales ginned prior to November 14, from the crop of 1935.

Mrs. A. J. Jones is here visiting her father, Mr. R. A. Watson who has been seriously ill. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Moore were also here to see him from Brownfield, Texas.

FEDERATED MISSIONARY SOCIETY THURSDAY HERE

The Federated Missionary Society held their Thanksgiving Program at the Methodist Church in Silverton, with the M. E. Missionary Ladies as hostesses, Tuesday afternoon. The program for the afternoon was given by ladies from the various clubs.

The program:
Devotionals ..... Mrs. Thorns
Song by Audience.
Spirit of Thanksgiving
Vocal Solo, "Thanksgiving Song" ..... Mrs. L. E. Kent
..... Mrs. Roy Hahn
Thanksgiving Poem ..... Mrs. A. L. Kelsay
Home ..... Mrs. R. E. Douglas
Prayer ..... Mrs. J. R. Foust

After the program, several games were played led by Mrs. A. L. Kelsay. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Ted Roussin, Troy Burson, Theron Crass and Hubert Sims of Floydada. These ladies were dressed in Colonial costumes.

The next Federated Meeting will be with the ladies of the First Baptist Church.

MISS FRANCES BUCHANAN WEDS JOE B. MAYNOR

Of wide interest to their many friends is the marriage of Miss Frances Buchanan, attractive daughter of Mrs. Buchanan of Silverton, Texas, and Joe B. Maynor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Maynor of this city.

The wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the home of the bride's brother, S. A. Buchanan, and Mrs. Buchanan, on Jerome Street, with Dr. O. J. Wade pastor of the Beech street Baptist church, officiating in the presence of members of the two immediate families. Lovely baskets of chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds formed a pleasing background for the exchange of vows.

The bride wore a smart ensemble costume of crepe and a shoulder bouquet of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Maynor left for a wedding trip, the destination of which was not disclosed. Upon their return, they will make their home at 2807 Magnolia Street.

The attractive young bride has made her home here for the past year with her brother and has made a host of friends among members of the younger set. She has been active in the work of the First Baptist Church, Fourth and Pine streets.

The bridegroom attended the local schools and also the Texarkana College. He is now associated with a musical concern.—Texarkana News

Missionary Playlet By Young People Sunday Night

The young people of the Christian Endeavor will have a missionary program at the Presbyterian Church Sunday evening during the hour for church services. The Neg Perce Indians who are worshipping in the old building erected 100 years ago, have asked for help to repair it or to build a new church for their people.

The playlet will show the preparation for the trip a hundred years ago when four young missionaries left New York to answer the call of the Perce Chiefs for religious instruction in the "White Mans Book of Heaven", and will show happenings along that dangerous journey, as the two Neg Perce boys guided the two young white men with their brides, to the waiting tribes who met the party at the great Rendezvous of Green river.

There will be a free will offering for the Neg Perces crumbling church.

The M. E. Missionary Society will meet at 2:30 November 30. This will be the last meeting of this year.

RE INVESTIGATING OLD-AGE PENSION ROLLS

Investigators were busy this week throught the 254 Texas counties re-investigating present old age assistance recipients granted aid under the old pension law, reported Acting Director Orville S. Carpenter, of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission, today.

"No one will be removed from the rolls until a thorough re-investigation of his case has been made," he declared.

Last week Carpenter explained that there would be no arbitrary or mechanical cut in the rolls but that each case would be studied and re-investigated upon its own merits before any action were taken. Rumor that 36,000 aged would automatically be dropped from the assistance lists was declared unfounded.

"Re-investigations are now being made in each district of all people on the rolls who possess income or property. Their cases are being re-investigated to determine whether they are eligible under the new law. But until they are found ineligible, they will continue receiving monthly checks," Carpenter stated.

ALMOST SIX MILLION DOLLARS COLLECTED BY LIQUOR BOARD

Reducing its activities to revenue figures the Liquor Control Board, during the first year of its existence collected $5,726,796.84 in state levies and distributed over $100,000 more to counties in fines paid by law violators, Liquor Administrator Charles R. Miller, announced this week.

The liquor control act regulating the alcoholic beverage industry in Texas had been operative one year on November 16.

Largest contributors to the state funds were purchasers of excise tax stamps who paid in $3,988,454.20, Mr. Miller revealed. Permit fees added $748,282.06 while sheriffs' sales of confiscated liquor and other sources of revenue brought the figure up to it grand total.

A relatively small portion of the revenue came from the taxing of one-quart importations over the Mexico-Texas border at Brownsville, El Paso, Laredo, and Eagle Pass. Between them was collected $15,392.94 with El Paso contributing $7,288.94. Except at Brownsville where operations started in August, border collections have been made since July.

Up to November 1, the Board's Enforcement Division had collected $99,373.95 in the preceding eleven and a half months, during which it filed 2,841 cases of criminal violation against accused liquor law violators. Money paid for liquor fines goes to the counties in which the convictions were obtained, the Administrator explained.

Pending at the beginning of this month were 1,381 cases, but 1,228 had been disposed of by convictions, 398 by dismissals and 45 by acquittal. Sixty violators were assessed jail terms ranging from a day to one year.

Liquor Control Board inspectors also assisted federal agents on 295 cases during the year and took part in the destruction of 179 stills.

Miller also announced that 4,425 permits, exclusive of beer and beer-wine licenses, have been granted since August 31 and the Board has revoked 40. Of this number, two were physician's permits, three drug store and the remainder beer and beer-wine licenses.

Carnival Coming

Get ready to attend the big carnival which the P. T. A. is giving. Come prepared to have a barrel of fun and win a lot of prizes. Save your Nickels. Fun for everybody—old and young!

It's coming Friday, December 11, at the High School Auditorium.

Last Game Football

This Thursday winds up the football season as far as Silverton is concerned. They journey to Spur on Turkey Day for a game with that school. The teams are evenly matched and the game promises to be one of the best of the season. Let's go down with the boys.

Pat Pavlicek and Jim Cline were visiting in Floydada and Plainview Sunday.

BRISBANE
THIS WEEK

End of the Treaty
Millions for New Farms
Too Many Apologies
The Mirror Monocle

Chancellor Hitler has demolished the remaining fragments of the Versailles treaty, notifying the great powers that they may no longer control, as they have done since 1918, the principal rivers of Germany.

The Rhine, Elbe, Oder and Danube rivers, within German territory, now return to German control and France is content to ask other powers to join a protest. Mere protests amount to little in European diplomacy, as the world learned from the Ethiopian war.

That settles, finally, the Versailles treaty, a foolish effort to enslave a nation that made the emergence of this, or some other, Hitler inevitable.

Mr. Tugwell seeks an appropriation of five hundred million dollars to provide poverty-stricken farmers, now on worthless farms, with other land that will support them; also barns, houses, out-buildings. He thinks $50,000,000 a year for ten years would do the work, and plans to vacate 9,000,000 "worthless acres."

Anything that will diminish human misery is desirable, even though incompetency may be in part responsible for the trouble.

In England, the government, guided by experts, is making excellent pasture lands of soil that was worthless. Our government might investigate that process.

General Markham, chief army engineer, advises putting an air base in the harbor of our Midway island, far away in the Pacific ocean. The War Department says, apologetically, that this would be a commercial development, although it might be useful for defense.

Why an apology? Nobody in Europe, Asia or Africa apologizes to us for building an air base, or asks our opinion about it.

The War department says there is no treaty obligation forbidding such an air base. If there were, what of it? Treaties can be cancelled, and should be when they are foolish or unjust—for further details, ask Hitler.

Germans are said to be wearing a new eyeglass called a "spy monocle." Arranged to look like the ordinary single eyeglass, the "spy monocle" is arranged with a mirror, permitting the wearer to look behind him and see if there is anybody listening to his conversation. German police eagerly discourage any one who suggests that the Nazi government is not perfect.

The opening of the Bay bridge, connecting San Francisco and Oakland, California, is important not only to California and the two united cities, but to the whole country.

This magnificent bridge, eliminating ferries on the bay that separates San Francisco and Oakland, is a magnificent accomplishment of engineering and public spirit.

Mr. Green's American Federation of Labor decides on a "fight to a showdown" with Mr. Lewis' "Committee for Industrial Organization," which wants to unionize all the 30,000,000 workers not yet organized, and seems to include taking over Mr. Green and his federation also.

Next on the program appears to be a big labor fight: Mr. Green is thoughtful, wise; Mr. Lewis is forceful, determined. The outcome cannot be predicted. The outside citizen will pray that there may not be too much interference with returning prosperity.

A greatly increased demand for tools shows that more men are getting jobs, and announcements of new wage increases, big and little, are many. Twenty-three more firms have announced better wages for 28,000 more workers.

An average increase of $130 a year, less than 50 cents a day, might seem unimportant, but it means one hundred and thirty million more dollars that 1,000,000 workers will have to spend, in a year. That is not unimportant.

England intends next time to devote her energy and strength to protecting herself.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, says England has no "commitments" like those of 1914, that would compel her to send troops to the continent if war should start. She will do as she pleases, which means that she will probably stay at home, busy with enemy airplanes, perhaps helping to finance friends on the continent, as she did in the Napoleonic wars, as she did before and since.

Decline in Relief Rolls
Predicted by Hopkins

IN HIS first press conference since the Presidential election Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, asserted his belief that relief rolls this winter would be at the lowest point since the start of the depression.

He estimated that 3,750,000 families and single persons would be receiving federal and local aid January 1, 1937, compared to a peak of 5,316,000 in January, 1935.

"I think," Hopkins said confidently, "that we will go into January of this year caring for 1,000,000 less cases than a year ago and a reduction of about 1,500,000 from 1935."

The administrator's attention was called to the fact that latest figures showed that 3,499,012 persons were employed the first two weeks of October, an increase of 29,020 over the preceding half month. He explained this by pointing out that the drought in the Midwest added 32,831 destitute farmers to his WPA project list.

Steel Workers Ask for Legislation

FIRST of the big groups that aided in the re-election of President Roosevelt to call on him for their reward, the steel workers have asked that the Chief Executive recommend to the next Congress the passage of legislation outlawing company unions and forbidding coercion of workers by employers.

George A. Patterson and Elmer J. Maloi, employee representatives of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, carried this request to the White House.

The Carnegie-Illinois company has offered employees a 10 per cent wage increase on condition that workers sign an agreement to permit adjustment of wages to the cost of living. At his press conference President Roosevelt said living costs should not be permitted to operate to curb wage increases. Furthermore, Secretary of Labor Perkins ruled informally that the employee representatives had no authority to sign such an agreement for their fellow employees.

Labor Board Dissolves
Harvester Council Plan

EMPLOYER corporations were hit by a ruling of the National Labor Relations board ordering the dissolution of the "industrial council plan" of the International Harvester company at the plant in Fort Wayne, Ind.

While the ruling dealt only with the Indiana plant, the board pointed out that the same plan also exists in the United States and Canada. It sets a precedent also for future decisions in regard to similar plans in other manufacturing plants throughout the country.

The industrial council of the Harvester company is an illegal labor organization under the terms of the National Labor Relations act, the board ruled. Under it the employees possess "only the shadow, not the substance, of collective bargaining," according to the decision. Numerous benefits conferred on the employees under the plan are admitted but the board says most of them "are granted in the form of paternalism."

A. F. of L. Council's Report on Social Security Act

WHEN the American Federation of Labor's annual convention opened in Tampa it had before it the report of the executive council dealing with, among many other topics, the social security act. The report heartily approved of a federal social security program and urged adoption of state laws that would give labor the greatest possible benefit from the federal statute. If the federal law is unconstitutional, the council said, "it is clear that its provisions must be changed or that sanction must be afforded to them through an amendment to the constitution."

The council questioned the wisdom of obtaining the necessary funds through a payroll tax "which to a great extent is to be paid directly or indirectly by the workers involved" and suggested that Congress repeal this feature of the law as soon as it convenes.

In discussing unemployment since NRA's end, the council said: "The shorter work week and the six hour day furnish the real solution to the insistent problem of unemployment. It is the responsibility that private industry must accept in order to give the necessary balance to economic expansion."

The council reported a membership of 3,422,398 on August 31—the greatest since 1921.

The council dismissed John L.

Lewis' epochal rebellion with a detailed factual account of its progress during the last year. "Appropriate action" was suggested.

George L. Berry, national co-ordinator for industrial recovery and president of the Printing Pressmen's union, proposed that the controversy with Lewis and his C. I. O. group be ended by arbitration, but this was rejected by President Green and other federation leaders. John P. Frey lost no time in introducing his resolution for expulsion of the rebel unions with their membership of over a million.

President Starts on His Ocean Cruise

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT went by train to Charleston, S. C., to board the cruiser Indianapolis for a jaunt in southern waters. He said he was not certain where the ship would take him, but in Washington it was assumed that he would proceed at once for Buenos Aires to attend the opening of the Pan-American peace conference on December 1. In that case he will make stops at Port of Spain, Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo, and will not return before December 15. If his plans are changed, he will merely spend two or three weeks fishing in the Caribbean.

At his last press conference before departing the President said he had about completed drafting the 1937 budget. He said also that he had outlined to his subordinates the things he wants done during his absence, these including: Drafting of a farm tenancy law to end evils attending the system of share-cropping and farm tenancy, now chiefly prevalent in the South.

Clarifying amendments to the social security act.

Amendments to the Tennessee Valley Authority act, permitting broader social and economic improvement of the regions served by the TVA's huge power projects.

Year's Breathing Spell
Likely for Farmers

SECRETARY of Agriculture Wallace in an interview intimates that for a year there may be no new legislation for crop control along the lines of the outlawed AAA, for farmers would like to have one really good crop without forced curtailment. But he added: "We will need some legislation eventually unless the weather changes or the world demand for our products greatly improves."

Wallace was asked whether the lack of a control plan might not result in another surplus, leaving the administration up in the air without any machinery to cope with it. He said he could not estimate a surplus ahead of time and that he would rather wait to see what would happen.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., to Marry Ethel du Pont

THE engagement of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., third son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, to Miss Ethel du Pont of Wilmington, Del., was announced by the young lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont. There had been rumors of this romance for months, but announcement was delayed until after the election. The wedding will be in June after Mr. Roosevelt's graduation from Harvard, and will be a quiet affair. Miss du Pont's father is a member of the board of directors of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company. She is a niece of Lamont du Pont, president of the company; of Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the board, and of Irene du Pont, another director of the board. She was presented to society on June 27 last.

Loyalists Defend Madrid

LOYALIST defenders of Madrid, reinforced by troops from the southeast and apparently supplied with airplanes and tanks from Russia, put up unexpected resistance to the furious attacks of the Fascists, delaying the capture of the capital. The insurgents sent many planes to rain bombs on the city and there were dramatic battles in the air as well as on land. The attackers at one time smashed the defending lines at the Los Franceses bridge and forced their way across the Manzanares river and into the northwest quarter of Madrid, but probably retired, for the loyalists dynamited the bridge and captured several rebel tanks. The new supreme defense council in the capital, taking charge when the president and other government officials fled to Valencia, was reported to be functioning smoothly and was confident of ultimate victory over the rebels, even if Madrid were lost to them.

JEALOUSY THE PITFALL OF THE MARRIED THIRTIES

"You've grown away from me, Harold," she presently finds opportunity to say to him tremblingly. "Oh, yes you have; don't try to deny it! You never want to do anything with me any more."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WHEN women speak of jealousy in marriage they usually think of that rather flattering and exciting condition of affairs when the adoring male smashes china and grinds his teeth while muttering: "You shan't dance with him again, you provoking little beauty, or I'll break every bone in your exquisite body!"

This is the jealousy of movies and novels. Many a wife of a quiet, reasonable, unjealous husband secretly wishes that something of this sort would break the calm of her domestic security. It might be rather fun to be married to a jealous brute for a while.

"He's insanely jealous!" reiterates the idiot girl in "June Moon" complacently. The audience suspects by this time that the man is completely done with her, but she goes on with her placid repetition. "He's insanely jealous!"

Women rather like to think their men are jealous; jealous in that exciting, dramatic way that is a tacit way of saying: "All the other men admire my wife. But not one of them can get her away from me!"

But this isn't real jealousy. This, like so many of the other things we take seriously when we are young and in love, is only one more mask held up before the deceitful face of Mother Nature. It is one more maneuver to make men and women attractive to each other. Courtship is full of these little deceptions; his sweetheart's stammer will enchant a man, her business inefficiencies amuse him, her tardiness seems to him just an indication that she is no more than a delightful baby. But in a wife, stammering and extravagance and tardiness somehow lose their charm.

And so with jealousy. A piquant sauce for the engagement, it proves much too hot a seasoning for the everyday fare of matrimony. It becomes tiresome, stupid, cumbersome, a continual annoyance—an unnecessary trial added to the real problems of life. The wives of jealous men carry a double burden—they have to give up much that would be pleasant and valuable in their lives; friendships, contacts, responsibilities, opportunities for self-expression and development must all be sacrificed. "Because you know how WRETCHED to have me interested in anything but him."

But the husbands of jealous women have an even harder time. Women are more often jealous than men; they have more imagination when they are jealous, and they have more time to think about it. The result—or rather one result of this state of affairs—is the shoal of letters I receive from completely wretched wives.

Completely wretched because jealousy is really an insidious poison, actually affecting the body, causing a total upset of the digestive and eliminative functions and a sort of flurry of the brain. Women, seized by a jealous rage, temporarily go mad. They watch, listen, search for evidence in a sort of silent fury; everything the most innocent man does or says is construed into a damaging admission. The woman loses all her charm, all serenity, all reason. She defeats her own ends by making herself homely, dull, unattractive.

Even worse than this occasional burst of sex-jealousy is that more subtle form the green-eyed monster takes when a wife becomes jealous of her husband's life. Not of any other woman, particularly, not of his mother or sister or old-sweet-heart friend; but of everything.

This phase usually comes along in the thirties. A woman's life is full of physiological and psychological crises, and this is one of them. Having had everything her own way for thirty-five years, she feels a sudden lull in her affairs, and when she realizes that that lull has not come to her husband she resents the situation, and acute and sometimes fatal jealousy is the result.

Her household is running smoothly, her children are in schools, her life is bounded by a comfortable home, a car, a club, buying heavy clothes in autumn, light clothes in spring, making club reports and hospital calls, selecting Christmas presents and ordering dinners, growing older every minute—good heavens, how boring it all is! Her friends are all doing the same thing. There's no escape; the joy and glamour and excitement of life are over, and she is just that nice Mrs. Harold Baker whose little girls are finishing grammar school.

Profoundly discontent, she looks at her partner, that pleasant young Harold Baker that she met at Rhoda's fifteen years ago, and perceives, to her resentment, that he is just reaching the point when life is all pleasant and satisfying to him. The business that was for so many years a question of hard work and humiliations, is running more smoothly; Baker is one of our best men, Baker is the man for the promotion. The children, who used to cause such anxious consultations, whose coughs and measles and bumps and naughtiness broke in so many plans by day and so many hours of sleep by night, are friendly little craft sailing their own waters now.

He plays good bridge, his golf at least provides endless hours of companionship with his kind in the open air, he goes on business trips, hunting, fishing week-ends. He goes to stag dinners at the club. Healthy and interested and busy, in his rosiest, most invigorated mood, he comes down to a pale, fretted wife at breakfast. He's going to lunch with Smith and clinch that order, he's going up with Jones to look at that new club site; they'll get a bite of dinner at the club. He ha-ha's over the day's comic strip; he approves of the stock market; he has a little flirtation with his younger daughter, who ends it with an, "I love you, Dad," that sends him away humming.

His wife looks on at all this with a jaundiced eye. Stag dinners and lodge meetings and golf games and bridge clubs indeed!

"You've grown away from me, Harold," she presently finds opportunity to say to him tremblingly. "Oh, yes you have; don't deny it! You never want to do anything with me any more. You've always got plans of your own. I'm at home with the children, cooking and making beds—"

This goes on for a long time. It makes the man uncomfortable; he knows it isn't fair somehow, but he doesn't know what to do about it. It makes the woman even more miserable than she was, and, having manufactured the situation, she proceeds to enlarge upon it until she feels like an actual martyr because she is self-centered and jealous, and her husband happens to be a normal human being who has earned his freedom, earned his recreations and satisfactions, and is enjoying them.

The answer is that we women have to adjust ourselves to the changing conditions of our lives once in about every ten years. We have to examine our own souls severely, in the light of truth and common sense, and ask ourselves if we are behaving like women or like fools. We have to put gold into the bank of life before we can begin to draw upon it. No use, at thirty-three, to long to be the bride of twenty-three again, or the girl of thirteen, or the toddling baby of three. We have to go on!

What is that gold? Well, to some of us it seems more precious than ever the younger coin did. It is the gold of a ripely developed character, in the years that are the very bloom of womanhood. It is the gold of a life that sings; sings over garden work or the writing of poetry, sings over picnics with the dear brown, long-legged children who are growing up so fast; sings in contact with other lives—a mother's, sisters', friends' lives, and takes its part in helping them. Any woman, with the usual equipment of a child or two and a car and good neighbors, can become so busy that she will listen but abstractedly to her husband's planning; happy to be included when she is included, secretly a little grateful when she is left free for her own all-important activities.

Why admit to a man that you want more of his time and interest than it is natural for him to give you? Why have so little pride? Why acknowledge that your happiness depends upon someone else, that you are not equal to solving the problem that each one of us must eventually meet alone?

SYNOPSIS

Dr. Greeding, a wealthy and talented middle-aged surgeon, is possessed of seemingly supernatural powers. Occasionally he can wish for something extraordinary to happen and have the wish fulfilled. Greeding meets Ira Jerrell, a wealthy business friend of his own age, who tells him he loves his daughter Nancy and would like to marry her. Dr. Greeding is pleased and Jerrell has a clear field. Nancy, however, is in love with Dan Carlisle, an assistant professor at the University who has little means. They discuss marriage, but decide to delay talking to her father about it. Nancy, who has been playing tennis with Dan that afternoon, tells her father she had been playing with a girl friend. Greeding knows this is untrue and secretly enraged. Stepping into his wife's room, his eye falls on a marble statuette which he dislikes. He picks it up, wishing he could smash it to bits. Suddenly it is snatched from his grasp as by an invisible force and bursts asunder. Mrs. Greeding is greatly disturbed over the mysterious destruction of the statuette. The doctor reveals that Ira Jerrell wants to marry Nancy. On the way to a dinner party a car cuts in front of Greeding's. He angrily expresses the wish that the driver would break his neck. An instant later an accident occurs in which this very thing happens. At the dinner the Greedings meet Prof. Carlisle, Dan's father, and his daughter, Mary Ann. Dr. Greeding is intrigued by Mary Ann, who is a surgical nurse. Mrs. Greeding tells Prof. Carlisle about the destruction of the statuette and he indicates it might have been caused by a "poltergeist," a "racketing, mischievous spirit." Greeding pretends to Nancy that he has no objection to Dan. More interested in Mary Ann, Dr. Greeding induces her to take a position in his office. Eventually he finds she loves her. Jerrell continues to see Nancy, whose love for Dan is unchanged. The Greedings invite the Carlises to dinner. Dr. Greeding discusses with Prof. Carlisle the subject of "poltergeists," the doctor telling of some of his own experiences, but attributing them to a friend.

CHAPTER III—Continued

"The subject is pretty extensive," Professor Carlisle explained. "Fires are a common manifestation, appearing in many of the tales." He added: "There was a man named Charles Fort—he is dead now—who made a study of such things. Probably with his tongue in his cheek. In one of his books he said these fire phenomena look to him like the survival of a power that may once have been common, when primitive men needed fires and didn't know how to make them. He talks about vestigial functions in the human body, just as you surgeons talk about vestigial organs. . . . Of course, this is all in the highest degree fanciful."

"But it's an amusing subject for speculation," Doctor Greeding insisted. "Your man Fort, I gather, thought these functions were originally of some use to their possessors. But what possible good can it do to project a plate across the room and allow it to break against the wall?" The professor answered good-humoredly: "Well, Fort suggests that these poltergeist disturbances may emanate from some malicious mischief. If your friend in the hay-mow wished the hay to burn up, for instance, so that he would not have to work so hard on a hot day—" Doctor Greeding laughed, suddenly expansive. "Like Mrs. Greeding's statuette," he suggested. "She told you about that, the other night. As a matter of fact, I had the statuette in my hands when it fell—though I haven't dared confess as much to her. She'd blame me for dropping it; but I didn't. I was thinking that it was rather hideous, when the thing simply flew out of my hands and crashed to bits."

"He saw the other's curious glance, added quickly: "If this chap had been in the house, I'd suspect him!" "What was his name?" asked Professor Carlisle. "Tompkins," said Doctor Greeding readily. "But he's dead now." The older man was for a moment silent; he lit his pipe afresh, looking intently at the bowl. But at length he asked curiously: "Did you—notice anything unusual about the way the statuette fell? You said it flew out of your hands?" Doctor Greeding nodded, forgetting caution. "Exactly," he assured the other man. "It was as though some one snatched it away; and I remember it seemed to hang in the air for a moment before it fell."

Professor Carlisle smoothed his pipe-bowl in his hands. He said after a moment: "Well, that hesitating, uncertain flight is often mentioned in the accounts of poltergeist disturbances." He added apologetically: "But I'm afraid I'm a skeptic at heart. I can discuss these absurdities so long as the discussion remains empiric; so long as I confine myself to things that are reported to have happened to others, far away. But when you tell me things that happened to your friend, and now to yourself, I lack the courage of my conversation."

Doctor Greeding felt a faint irritation rising in him at this disbelief. He said: "You sound rather like an incredulous scientist yourself!" "It's much less disquieting," the professor pointed out, "to assume that there is a credible explanation for these incredible occurrences." Doctor Greeding watched him narrowly, till pique at the other's attitude drove him on. "Are there any cases," he asked challengingly, "of actual injury or death, through this sort of thing?" "Yes," Professor Carlisle assented. He was grave now. "There have been persons found dead, their bodies charred to a cinder, their clothes not burned at all. There are even one or two cases reported of men killed by a bullet, or stabbed, but with no rent in their clothing to correspond with the wound in their bodies."

"What does your friend Fort say of such incidents?" "He only points out that 'wounds such as might be imagined by haters of people have appeared upon the bodies of people,'" the professor cautiously explained.

Doctor Greeding nodded. "I suppose most of us, in fits of anger, have wished that unpleasant things would happen to certain people," he reflected soberly. "It would be rather disturbing to a man if those malicious wishes on his part began to come true." He chuckled. "Nations might enlist an army of good effective haters to win a war by wishing their enemies' end!"

Professor Carlisle shook his head. "That's outside the bounds, of course," he commented, not smiling.

"I wonder whether it is," Doctor Greeding stubbornly demurred; and he said thoughtfully: "You know, the human body has an infinite capacity to rise to emergencies. If a man loses sight, or hearing, his other senses become more acute. If a vein is destroyed, even the jugular, others take up the burden. If fingers are amputated, the thumb redoubles its usefulness. Isn't it possible that in some cases, when a man approaches old age and the impairment of his muscular strength, he may by way of compensation develop such a—power?"

"Old men acquire wisdom," the professor pointed out. "That is wisdom enough!" "But in a primitive society," Doctor Greeding urged, "old men, when their increasing weakness made them a burden to the tribe, would have been eliminated, unless as their strength failed they learned other ways to defend themselves. For instance, to imagine a wound, and have that wound appear—"

And he said, his eyes gleaming strangely: "A man able to do that would be a dangerous enemy."

Professor Carlisle said reflectively: "I expect he would be more dangerous to himself than to others. The world seems to be organized for the general rather than the individual benefit. Probably some counter-force would arise to deal with him."

"Yet it's a fascinating thought," Doctor Greeding insisted.

Professor Carlisle retorted gravely: "I should be inclined to remind such a man that he who eats with the devil will need a long spoon!"

There was something monitory in his tone; the Doctor felt it, and suddenly wary, was silent. Before he could speak again, Mrs. Greeding came to the door.

"You two have been alone long enough," she suggested. "Dan and Nancy have disappeared, and Mary Ann and I are talked dry. Professor, I thought you might care for bridge?"

"By all means," Professor Carlisle assented, and rose so quickly that Doctor Greeding suspected the other man was glad to see an end to this conversation. They settled at the table in the other room, the Doctor and Mary Ann as partners.

But almost at once the telephone rang, and Ruth came to call Doctor Greeding. When he returned, it was with apologies.

"I'll have to break up the game," he explained. "This is a call I can't very well refuse. Up in Kennebunk. An old friend, an emergency. He looked at Mary Ann, agency." He smiled at Mary Ann, a nurse is just as much abused as a doctor. Come, Mary Ann."

And Mrs. Greeding yielded, though reluctantly. So they were presently upon the road.

CHAPTER IV

There was in Doctor Greeding when he set out tonight with Mary Ann a deep intoxication which he rigorously controlled. They took the roadster, and the top was down. The long miles unrolled in a ribbon before their wheels, and the night was jeweled by the headlights of approaching cars. Apple orchards were bright with belated blossoms along the roadside, and the night was warm and fair.

Doctor Greeding drove rapidly and surely, and Mary Ann slipped down low in the seat and relaxed there, her wrap loose about her shoulders, her hair flying in the breeze. He told her the nature of this summons. "The idiot is an old friend of mine, or I wouldn't go," he explained cheerfully. "Some one else could do it just as well, or he could wait till tomorrow. But his wife is alarmed, wants me."

She nodded, and he said in amused irritation:

"The visited us at the lake last summer. I told him that, that this operation was inevitable. Tried to persuade him to take care of it; but he's a headstrong old man."

And he added after a little: "You and Dan must come up to the lake sometime. And your father. We've a pleasant place there: an island of our own, a couple of good boats, tennis court, golf near by if you want it, target-shooting and so on."

"That's Outside the Bounds, of Course," He Commented, Not Smiling.

"I like tennis," she confessed. "Dan and I often play." She spoke sleepily, relaxed and at ease beside him.

"We go up for all of August," he remarked. "You can take your vacation at the same time."

"I hardly take a vacation so soon," she demurred.

"You've earned one," he insisted. He added, as a saving phrase: "Mrs. Greeding will insist on your coming, I know."

He had, he reflected in a faint astonishment, been near forgetting that Myra would be at the island, had thought only of himself and this girl and Nancy and Dan. In sudden caution, he curbed his tongue, and they were silent for a while. Through Newburyport, and beyond, the road led smoothly on. They drove swiftly. Once he thought she slept, but when he looked at her, she was watching him. Or rather her eyes swung to meet his. He was dangerously near missing the road before he turned his head away.

He had never felt so awake, so alive. He grudged the fact that they came presently to their destination, and had a task to do; and he attacked this business in haste, eager to be done and on the road again with her; and Mary Ann became an automaton, supplementing his own hands with hers, anticipating his least desire. . . . An hour of this, like machines. Then low-toned conversation with the Doctor, words of reassurance to the patient's wife, instructions to the nurse. So toward two o'clock in the morning they set out on the return to Cambridge.

They had been urged to stay the night, but Doctor Greeding would not. "I've five cases scheduled for the morning," he explained. On the road again, Mary Ann said: "You might have been wiser to stay. There aren't five cases. There are only two, and Doctor Mayhew could do them."

Doctor Greeding chuckled. "He shall," he assented. "I intend to sleep till noon. But I wouldn't miss this drive home with you."

"I expect a night's sleep would have done you more good," she insisted, smiling as though his words were a jest.

He shook his head, intoxicated, alive; and after a little, he began to talk. He was in a confidential mood; and he found himself telling her about Ira Jerrell and Nancy.

"But don't repeat this to Dan,"

he warned her. "That brother of yours is so conscientious he might feel bound to step into the back-ground and give Jerrell a clear field. I don't want him to do that. I want Nancy to make up her own mind, freely, between them."

"I know Dan feels he— isn't good enough for Nancy," she admitted, and added loyally: "Personally, I think she's lucky to get him. Dan's a peach!" She looked at him, surprised. "But I didn't know you knew about them?" she said.

"I have Nancy's confidence," he retorted; and she nodded. He continued: "Did I take the right attitude? Would you have said the same? Do you feel that—a girl makes a mistake to marry a man twenty years her senior?"

She was silent for longer than he liked. He looked at her, smiling. "Tell the truth," he insisted.

"Not if she loves him," said Mary Ann at last. She added, almost reluctantly: "Not if there is no—reason why she shouldn't love him." And after a moment she remarked, half to herself: "Sometimes a girl is wiser to choose a proved man. Then she knows what she is getting. Young men may change as they—mature."

He laughed in a sudden swift delight; but when she asked why he laughed, he would not tell her. Silence embraced them again, drawing them together; the car ran smoothly. The moon now was low; and Doctor Greeding's eyes fixed upon the flowing road in a sort of fascination. He drove automatically, his thoughts elsewhere.

It may have been that for a moment he slept. But at a certain point where the road forked and their way lay to the left, he kept straight ahead; and where just beyond the fork, this right-hand road turned, he did not turn. The car plunged through a shallow ditch and into the meadow beyond. His foot jammed home on the brakes, and he came to a breathless stop, thrown forward against the wheel. Mary Ann in a heap on the floor of the car beside him.

He was in dismay. "Are you hurt?" he exclaimed. "I'm sorry! I must have gone to sleep!"

She scrambled up on the seat again. "I don't think so," she declared, laughing. "No, I seem to be all here. My eyes were closed. I had no warning—"

"I must have gone to sleep," he repeated.

She touched his hand, on the wheel. "You're so desperately tired," she said gently. His blood, at the touch of her fingers raced through his veins. "Let me drive. I'm awake now."

He looked at her hand on his, at her. "I'm not tired," he said huskily, breathlessly.

She withdrew her hand, abruptly; but his eyes held hers. He thought that even in the moonlight he could see her cheeks flaming. Then she spoke defensively, laughing, her head high. "Give me the wheel," she insisted. "You men are all idiots—don't know when you're tired. Come!"

He did not trust his voice. Without speaking, he got out of the car and went around to take the other seat. She backed into the road again.

"Now shut your eyes and do go to sleep," she commanded.

He obeyed her; he did shut his eyes. But he did not sleep. It seemed to him he had never been so wide awake before. There may be in the mere circumstance of sharing together even a passing peril something mystic and compelling in its effect on man and woman. For a moment, it might have happened that he and Mary Ann would die together; it seemed to him now that after that moment, their two lives could never take completely separate ways again.

But if Mary Ann had any such thought or feeling, she did not betray it. Somehow she found the proper road again; somehow she brought them back to Cambridge. For all that time he neither spoke nor opened his eyes; but his thoughts were a millrace. Only when she stopped the car did he rouse from his abstraction.

"Can you manage the rest of the way alone?" she asked lightly then. "Or shall I take you home and tuck you in?"

They were, he saw, at her father's door. "I can manage, of course," he assured her. She alighted; and he got to the ground, and extended his hand.

"Thanks for taking care of me," he said. "I needed some one." Her hand was in his. "Anything might have happened," he confessed.

"But nothing did!" she reminded him, smiling. "Except that it's almost daylight, and we've lost a lot of sleep."

Impulsively, he lifted her hand to his lips; and then he saw the startled light in her eyes, and was quick with a word to make that gesture meaningless.

"This is for a good little girl," he said. "Good night!"

She turned away, quickly, in something like flight—darted toward the house. He waited till she had disappeared, before driving on toward his own home. The car he left at the side door.

Upstairs, he undressed slowly, trying to face and measure this new passion in his life. When he came into the bedroom he and Mrs. Greeding shared, gray dawn was in the windows. His wife roused sleepily; her face was an unlovely mask of cosmetics, her hair awry.

"Yes, Myra," he said shortly. "Go back to sleep."

"What time is it?"

He protested irritably: "What difference does that make?"

"It's ridiculous," she protested, "for you to be out all night. You could have sent Doctor Mayhew!"

He got into his own bed without replying.

"I believe you like this sort of thing," she asserted. "I declare, Ned, you ought to have some sense of your own position."

"Don't talk, Myra," he said sharply. "I'm dead tired. Let me sleep in the morning."

"It's morning now," she reminded him. "And I sha'n't close my eyes again, you may be sure of that. You might have some consideration—" Her voice went on, unheard, till suddenly a word fixed his attention. "—and driving all over New England all night with Mary Ann! Is that necessary? Of course, I understand; but people are so ready to think and say unkind things about a girl who works—"

He made no reply; but he was conscious of a rising tide of anger at her chidings. He checked and curbed his own wrath, startled, full of a quick and vivid terror, afraid of his own thoughts. He was like a rider who reins back his steed at the brink of a precipice. He felt in himself dark, terrifying powers, which must be restrained.

He closed his ears to his wife's words, found solace and contentment in remembering Mary Ann—whom incredibly, he loved!

Incredibly; and also with a great fertility. Doctor Greeding was essentially conventional, accepting the decent standards of his world, abiding by them. No matter what he might feel for Mary Ann, he would still cleave loyally to Myra, so long as they both should live.

Or—so long as Myra should live! Thus insidiously, as he lay half dreaming, there crept into his thoughts a hideous possibility, one of those monstrous specters which need only to be recognized to be abhorred. . . . Yet which, if a man contemplate them long enough, may cease to affright him, may come to wear an aspect treacherously beautiful.

Sometimes, in retrospect, it is possible to say that on a certain day, or even at a certain hour, there occurred in an acquaintance a fundamental change; to recognize that he became from that moment another person, almost a stranger.

There was this summer such a change in Doctor Greeding, but even those who knew him most intimately were not afterward able to fix definitely its beginning. His wife's death, it was sometimes suggested, might have been the cause; but Mrs. Greeding had in fact herself remarked the difference in him, and had more than once spoken of it to Doctor Greeding himself, before she died.

Moonless Month Period

Without the Full Moo.

Moonless month is the name popularly given to a month in which no full moon occurs. Under our calendar February is the only month that is shorter than the lunar cycle and consequently it is the only month that can have fewer than four moon phases. The absent phase, however, need not necessarily be the full moon, but may be any one of the four. Likewise five phases of the moon occasionally fall in the other months.

The average time from one full moon to another is twenty-nine and one-half days, and the time from one phase to the next varies from less than seven days to more than eight. About every six years February has only three phases. When it is without a full moon, the preceding January and the following March may have two full moons each. This remarkable sequence, astronomers estimate, will not occur again for some 2,500,000 years. February was without a full moon in 1885, 1915 and 1934, and from approximate computations made by the United States naval observatory that month will be without a full moon in 1961.

Februarys without new moons or either of the other two phases occur at about the same intervals, but, of course, in different years.—Indianapolis News.

Now Ease Neuritis Pains Fast

For Amazingly Quick Relief Get Genuine Bayer Aspirin

If you suffer from pains of neuritis what you want is quick relief. Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets give quick relief, for one reason, because they dissolve or disintegrate almost instantly they touch moisture. (Note illustration above.)

Hence—when you take a real Bayer Aspirin tablet it starts to dissolve almost as quickly as you swallow it. And this is ready to start working almost instantly. . . . headaches, neuralgia and auritis pains start easing almost at once.

That's why millions never ask for aspirin by the name aspirin alone when they buy, but always say "BAYER ASPIRIN" and see that they get it.
Try it. You'll say it's marvelous.

THANKSGIVING IN 1936

THANKSGIVING THIS year finds America with much for which it can rejoice. We are at peace with the world and further from entanglements than almost any other nation. The emergency of the depression is past. Unemployment rolls have fallen to probably less than four million. Manufacturing employment is almost back to the 1929 level. Pay rolls have risen steadily and many of the 18,000,000 shareholders in America's great industries are receiving their first dividends in years.

President Roosevelt is able to re-report "the return of prosperity has restored hope to citizens in all parts of the country".

Best of all, we can reflect upon this Thanksgiving day that America has avoided the pitfalls of other countries. While the post-war depressions have drawn other peoples into the quagmire of tyranny, we in this country have stood firm on our liberties and freedom.

Depressions have always been a welcome vehicle for the agitator—the false prophet. Even with the return of prosperity, there will be those who will look backward and insist upon their quack remedies for an emergency that is no longer with us.

But it is unconceivable that after battling upward out of the deep valley of the depression for six years America will surrender any part of its liberty with the goal in sight.

That is not the American way. And for all that, people will give thanks.

SUNDAY, MR. AND Mrs. Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. Yours Truly went visiting and had Sunday dinner at the Pimlott home east of Kress. The Pimlotts and the Whitneys were neighbors over twenty years ago up in Kansas. What I started to tell about was the dinner. It was everything to gratify the wishes of a fat man (meaning me not Pa Whitney). I ate awhile, thought I was about full, then remembered and loosened my vest and started in again. I ate so much I walked like a duck, and I still hadn't had any cake. These folks should have menus printed and on the table so that one can tell what's what. The way it is one almost never reserves space enough for dessert.

THE STORK IS ONE bird that doesn't go South for the winter, says the Cimarron (Kansas) Jacksonian, edited by Chas. Sturtevant.—You're wrong as wrong can be Charley. Just last week he was here and left a fine boy at the home of O. W. Chapman, local oil magnate.

I HOPE ITS ONLY rumor, but I heard, and haven't found out either way yet, that Ernest Tibbets is moving to Plainview. I am just one among a lot of Silverton folks who are sorry to hear it. Judge Tibbets saw to it personally that your editor was made to feel welcome last spring. He is a typical citizen of our great state of Texas—loyal to his beliefs and noted for his friendliness.

MR. BILL BINGHAM is married. At least so they tell me—and Bill doesn't deny it, although he won't say for sure. And so his wedding story this week is rather brief. I'll just leave out the name of the lucky girl until next week—if I ran the wrong girl's name or something—oh, well my hair is thin enough as it is.

WHAT ARE THESE dances coming to? W. E. Schott reports that his clothes were taken last week while he was on a dance floor. And by the way W. E. says that if the suit doesn't fit the new owner, to bring it back and he'll give him one that does.

TOWN LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomas returned last week from Austin, Texas. While there Mr. Thomas went hunting and Mrs. Thomas visited her brothers and attended the Centennial.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Gregg of the Lakeview Community visited in the L. A. Tibbets home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. A. Bowling also visited there in the afternoon.

The Calvary Baptist Church will hold Thanksgiving services at nine o'clock Thursday morning. Rev. John Thorns will give the address of the morning at this union meeting.

Miss Cooley and Miss Barks entertained the school faculty and their wives at a Thanksgiving party Friday evening last week at the Home Ec Cottage.

Miss Josephine Daniel and Mr. Clarence Anderson will attend the T. C. U-S. M. U. football game in Dallas this week end. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ballard.

F. F. A Boys to Enjoy Show

Plainview Friendship Day Program
Plainview is to resume its Friendship Day program for a six month's period starting Wednesday, December 2, with a grand Christmas program featured by the arrival of Old Santa Claus, numerous contests, cash awards and a general all day jollification. The most elaborate program ever planned by the city has been arranged for the pleasure of both old and young alike.

These Wednesday programs are to continue from now until June 1st. Next Wednesday's Christmas opening program will start at ten o'clock with a big turkey chase followed by the arrival of Santa. The Southwestern Dressed Turkey Show will be in progress that day and will enable the visitors to see the show free.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids addressed to Hon. W. W. Martin, County Judge of Briscoe County, Texas, will be received by the Commissioner's Court of Briscoe County, Texas, in the Court House in Silverton, Texas, at 10:00 A. M. Tuesday, December 14, 1936, for the purchase of the following described machinery:

One Motor Grader, with hydraulic control; four wheel, rear drive with 12 foot blade and two 2-foot extensions, leaning front wheels, cab and seat. Allowance to be made for the Servis Maintainer.

Interest bearing time warrants will be delivered to successful bidder in amount of bid, not to exceed $4,000.00 bearing 6% interest and maturing serially within not exceeding nine years from date hereof.

A certified or cashier's check in the sum of five percent (5%) of the amount of the bid must accompany each bid.

The county reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

W. W. MARTIN, County Judge of Briscoe County, Texas. Dated at Silverton, Texas, this 24th day of November, 1936. (First published Nov. 26, 1936)

CHEVROLET DEPENDS ON NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

The Chevrolet Motor Company today offered its thanks to the American people for having given the company the greatest year in its history by buying 1,130,000 new 1936 Chevrolets.

In display advertisements printed in newspapers throughout the country, Chevrolet expressed its appreciation for the warm friendship of the American people, which enabled the company to break all previous marks for domestic production and sales.

The Thanksgiving offering is considered unique in industrial advertising, but Chevrolet has done it in the past. The company has depended largely on the newspapers of the country in establishing its all time records in selling, not only an unprecedented number of new passenger cars and trucks during 1936 but also in moving two million used cars at the same time.

The advertisement appearing today, declares in part: "The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people. 'All we can say is, 'Thanks a million' for more than a million cars in 1936 and all we can do is offer you the still finer Chevrolet of 1937 in return for the finest friendship ever bestowed upon any motor car manufacturer."

Mrs. R. L. McKinney visited in Swisher County Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roberson.

Oklahoma visitors here to see Mrs. Watson last week were Mrs. Oleta Ramsey, Mr. Earl Self, Mr. Orville Self, and sister.

BANK GROUPS MAKE NATIONWIDE SURVEY

American and State Banking Associations Collaborate in Investigation

LOAN SERVICES STUDIED

Activities of the Government in the Banking Field Are Reviewed and Position of Banks Analyzed

NEW YORK.—Detailed bank researches, covering all phases of practical operating and economic facts and conditions related to banking, are being made by the American Bankers Association. The resulting material is being placed at the disposal of all state banking associations, which in many instances are extending the researches of the national association in their own states. These activities are said to be a part of the general program of banking development which is being carried on by the organized banking business.

Among the most extensive researches being conducted by the American Bankers Association is that of its Committee on Banking Studies, which is making a detailed survey of Federal Government lending agencies and policies. The basic material, which is kept up to date by continuing studies, shows where the Government agencies get the money they lend, what liability the Government assumes, what subsidy it extends, what return it gets, for what and to whom the money goes and on what terms it is loaned.

The Government in Banking
"It is not the intention of the committee to express its viewpoint about any agency," says the foreword to this material. "Its intention is only to determine the facts. These facts properly assembled and presented should help banks to meet Government competition if and where it exists. The committee believes the Government entered the lending field at a critical period in order to aid banks and financial institutions. If the time has come for the Government to withdraw, it is the duty of bankers to demonstrate their readiness to take care of all sound credit needs."

It adds that the banks must be equipped with full factual material, as to the Government's emergency lending activities and practices, and that full cooperation has been given the committee by Government agencies in obtaining facts. Binders of the material gathered have been placed by the committee in the hands of state associations.

Investigation of Postal Savings
The Committee on Banking Studies has also made a survey of the Postal Savings System throughout the United States to ascertain to what extent it is competing with chartered banks. Questionnaires were sent to banks in all places where Postal Savings depositories are operated and their answers will be analyzed as a basis for the committee's findings.

The Bank Management Commission of the American Bankers Association has made a nation-wide survey covering the movement among banks to increase their earning abilities "through fair and legitimate rates for services they render their depositors." It has developed a plan of account analysis as a basis of fair charges.

"All business in order to justify its existence is founded on the economic principle that a reasonable return should be expected from services rendered," the commission says.

Personal Income Loans
The Bank Management Commission has also formulated methods for installing and operating personal income loan departments in banks. "This plan contemplates making loans primarily to individuals and small business concerns, based upon the character and assured incomes of the borrowers, as distinguished from the usual basis for 'commercial loans,'" the commission says.

It points out that a large part of the population is not now making use of available bank credit and that "to these people the personal loan department extends a valuable service which at the same time is profitable to the bank." It adds that it is "the duty of the banks to educate the public to come to the bank for all financial services. Small borrowers should be informed that the local bank is willing to care for their demands."

Other Researches
Other researches are being made by the Economic Policy Commission of the association dealing with shrinkages in liquid commercial loans caused by economic changes in the nation's business methods while the National Bank Division has made studies of the lending and investment powers of this class of bank, the present status of the real estate investment field and of detailed data by states on earnings and expenses.

The Savings Division has gathered the facts showing savings in banks of all types, the number of savings depositors, the per capita savings for the country as a whole and the effects of current economic and social changes upon the savings habits of the American people.

The association's State Bank Division has issued the most recent figures available as to the detailed conditions of state banks, showing steady improvement in the position of the state banks, with marked expansion in their aggregate resources, while the Trust Division has compiled a guide to fees with a recommended cost accounting system.

CUP OF DEATH

The above scene shows the finale of a crash between two trucks, hurtling through a concrete bridge approach with a crushing impact as if a piece of frosting were flicked from a birthday cake.

Figures reveal that the rate of death last year per accident on highways and at rural intersections was 215 per cent greater than between city street intersections and at city street intersections.

Such a trend indicates the result of the tremendous increase in the number of trucks plying the highways and laggard or lack of proper safety regulations. Civic and trade organizations and the public generally are being stirred into action to "do something about it." It is pointed out that highways are being pressed into such abnormal and extraordinary uses by truck operations for private gain, that serious inroads on the business of small town merchants is being felt more keenly today than ever. Likewise, the unregulated trucker is disrupting established channels of marketing in these small community shipping centers.

upon the top without the shoulders being hunched up. "Begin early in life to teach your children to stand straight and sit straight for health and self-confidence, and they should grow into strong, well-built men and women."

198 NEW W.P.A. PROJECTS

Jobs for 14,733 workers have been made available by the authorization of 198 new WPA projects during the past month, it has been announced by Texas Works Progress Administrator H. P. Drought.

"We intend that these projects will absorb workers who are released from completed WPA projects and those who are returning to our rolls as seasonable agricultural work ends in various parts of the state," Mr. Drought explained.

Federal allocations of $2,543,210 and sponsors' funds amounting to $1,103,510 will make possible the operation of the newly-authorized projects. More projects are being approved in the state WPA office as the need for them becomes apparent in various parts of Texas.

Farm-to-market roads led newly approved projects with $1,167,830 allocated by federal officials to be used in the prosecution of 71 such jobs. Extending into 61 counties, the new lateral road program encompasses improvements to 943 miles of roadway and will employ 6,487 workers.

STATE HEALTH NOTES

Correct Posture in school children, and adults as well, is necessary to proper physical and mental development, says a warning from the Texas State Department of Health. "Good posture is a sign of self respect and plays an important part in winning the respect of others," said Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

"Many of the ills of children and the deformities of adult life have their beginning in poor posture acquired during early childhood," he said, "and it is particularly important that the child's posture conform to nature's dictates. Most children are born in good physical condition and of school children show a high percentage to be poor posture. These lessen the size of the chest and decrease the lung capacity. Abdominal organs may also be pushed from normal position which may seriously interfere with their action. These conditions must be corrected before the body is able to attain normal weight and nutritional standards."

"School children who have poor posture are said often to average lower in attendance and in school mental and physical activities than those who have good posture. A child may be forced to hold his body in an unnatural position by a desk that is too high or too low. Desks and work tables should be just high enough to allow the feet to rest on the floor and the forearms and hands to rest

"THANKS A MILLION" FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

CHEVROLET The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people.

And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry.

Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet's appreciation during the past twelve months:

You have purchased 1,130,000 Chevrolets; you have made Chevrolet your favorite car for the seventh time in the past ten years; you have given Chevrolet strong preference in every section of the country; you have conferred this same high honor upon Chevrolet trucks by purchasing more than 205,000 commercial units; you have made 1936 the most successful year in all Chevrolet history.

And now, to climax these expressions of friendship, you are displaying even more marked preference for the new Chevrolet for 1937.

It is difficult to express adequate appreciation for gifts so great and so generous as these.

All we can say is, "Thanks a million" for more than a million cars in 1936; and all we can do is offer you the still finer Chevrolet of 1937 in return for the finest friendship ever bestowed upon any motor car manufacturer.

How Many Pennies Your Child's Life?

Don't Try to "Save" on Home Remedies—Ask Your Doctor

There is one point, on which practically all doctors agree. That is: Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first.

All mothers know this. But sometimes the instinct to save a few pennies by buying "something just as good" overcomes caution.

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy—"milk of mag- nesia"—many doctors for over half a century have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia is the standard of the world. Safe for chil- dren."

Keep this in mind, and say "PHIL- LIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Comes now, also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. Get that what you get is labeled Genuine Phillips' Milk of Mag- nesia. 25¢ for a big box of the tablets at drug stores.

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

IT'S said that Fred Astaire has been much upset over the fact that his radio programs haven't come up to expectations. In fact, it's reported that he wanted to drop the whole thing—but just try to get out of a contract to broadcast, once you're in it! He's continuing—and if they'll just give him the right scripts to work with there's no reason why he shouldn't be tremendously successful.

You may recall that Maurice Chevalier felt that same way about his broadcasts—but they were popularly considered flops right to the last, if the opinion of the great American public that stayed home and listened to them counts for anything. Al Jolson was pretty unhappy about his first programs, but he gritted his teeth and went right on.

Clark Gable abandoned his New York vacation after three days of being almost torn apart by autograph seekers and en- thusiastic fans, and Carole Lombard didn't even start for the East after hearing what had happened to him.

Incidentally, during his brief stay in New York a girl who's part of the movie business there noticed a man on the street who looked very mu- ch like the famous Clark — face, figure, even clothes bore a strong resemblance. The only difficulty was that he was blacked up—she insists that the man was a white man who'd used burnt cork.

Clark Gable

There's a new radio program on a coast-to-coast hookup that ought to interest everybody who has ideas for such programs. It was origi- nated by Octavus Roy Cohen, the famous story writer, and it's called "Agony Column." It is based on letters from people who write in giving problems they want solved.

For instance, here's an example. A boy writes in, saying that for years he had been searching for the perfect girl. He met her on a cruise. They didn't even tell their names—just used silly nicknames. But—the ship was the Morro Castle, which caught fire at sea two years ago, causing the loss of so many lives. He doesn't know whether she was saved or not. They were to tell their real names when they landed. So he doesn't even know her name. And he wants to find her.

If you hadn't realized how rapidly Robert Taylor has climbed the rungs of the ladder leading to movie popularity, just consider the fact that he has signed a new seven-year contract which will bring him $2,000 a week at first, and during the last two years will add $5,000 to his bank account each week. All this as the result of a year's work—for until a year or so ago he was just a minor player. Small wonder that ambitious youngsters want to go into the movies!

Ruth Chatterton's buying a new plane; she just can't get enough of flying when she pilots her own. In- cidentally, doesn't she do a grand piece of work in "Dodsworth"? Never has she given a better performance. And of course it's an excep- tionally good picture—the kind that makes audiences applaud when it turns out the way they want it to.

It's reported that James Cagney has had so much difficulty with his latest picture made under his new affili- ations that he's glad to bury the hatchet and go back to working for Warner Brothers.

Which brings up the fact that Bette Davis has shown that she can take it. After losing her legal fight with Warner Brothers and being forbidden to make pictures in England, she announced that she'd come home and go back to work as if there had never been any trouble.

ODDS AND ENDS: . . . Greta Garbo certainly has changed: she goes to parties occasionally nowadays. . . "She moves do a modern picture to follow "Camille," before she gets into costume for "Re- loved," which is laid in the time of Na- poleon. . . If you think Colonel Stoop- nagle and Budd sound a bit breathless when they begin their broadcasts, remem- ber that they've probably been practic- ing jig steps to Don Voorhees' music by way of warming up. . . Paramount plans to have Bing Crosby make pictures with plots, and sing just incidentally, from now on. . . At least one of the big mo- tion picture companies has been signing up young actors and actresses on 30-day contracts—but paying them no money; just keeping them from signing with anyone else, while the company decides whether to use them or not.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 29 CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD

LESSON TEXT—Philemon 4-20. GOLDEN TEXT—There is neither bond nor free. . . for ye all are one in Christ Jesus. Galatians 3:28.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul's Shortest Let- ter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Shortest Letter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Slave Becomes a Brother.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ Transforming Social Relationships.

Letters are always interesting, and especially so when they bring good news. The brief epistle to Philemon is one of unusual charm. Paul writes to Philemon, a Christian brother in Colosse, to inform him that he is sending back to him Onesimus, who was apparently Philemon's brother (v. 16) but who had through misfortune and sin (vv. 18, 19) become a slave. Evidently, he had stolen from Philemon what he needed to enable him to run away, and had ultimately come to Rome.

Having reached this great city he no doubt was satisfied that he had placed himself beyond the reach of anyone who knew him. But he had reckoned without God, who not only knew where he was (see Ps. 139: 7-12) but also what he needed. He is brought into touch with the im- prisoned apostle, Paul, and through his ministry the fugitive slave be- comes a "brother beloved in the Lord" (v. 16). How marvelous is the grace of God, and how patiently he deals with those who attempt to flee even from his love!

Our study of this epistle centers around four great words.

I. Appreciation (vv. 4-8).

After an introductory word Paul speaks of his love for Philemon, his appreciation of the latter's hospitali- ty, his fellowship, and his faith.

Is Paul flattering his friend in order that he may grant his re- quest? Certainly not, but he is ex- pressing his true feelings toward a faithful brother. We need a re- vival of Christian courtesy and ap- preciation of one another.

The man who thinks that he must show that he is true to Christ by treating others with boorish rudeness needs to learn a new lesson from the Lord himself, and from his Word.

II. Consideration (vv. 9-14).

Paul could have kept silent, and encouraged Onesimus to remain with him. He needed help (v. 13) but without the consent of Philemon he would not keep Onesimus (v. 14). At the same time he reminds Phile- mon very tactfully that he owes them both loving consideration.

We have here a striking illustra- tion of the candor and considerate thoughtfulness which should charac- terize the dealings of Christians with one another. We need to put away careless trampling upon the rights of others in order that our work may go forward.

III. Brotherhood (vv. 15-16).

The fact of regeneration does not change a man's social status so far as the world is concerned, but with- in the circle of God's household he becomes a "brother beloved." Let us look less at the accidents of cir- cumstance, education, or birth, which differ and rather magnify the family relationship, for all who are born again are brethren.

IV. Partnership (vv. 17-20).

Paul counted Philemon not only a benefactor and a brother, but a partner in the great enterprise of God on earth. Partners share both joys and sorrows, gains and losses. They stand by in the hour of need, they plan and labor, weep and re- joice together. One wonders what might be accomplished for Christ if all Christians would accord one another even the ordinary considera- tions of partnership.

It should be noted in closing that verses 17 and 18 present an illustra- tion of the great doctrine of imputa- tion. The wrong of Onesimus was to be charged to Paul, and Paul's standing with Philemon is the basis of his acceptance of Onesimus. Even so the righteousness of Christ is imputed to the believer, because our sins have been laid upon him. What a wonderful Saviour!

A Mother's Love No language can express the pow- er and beauty and heroism and maj- esty of a mother's love. It swings not where man cowers, and grows stronger where man faints, and over the wastes of worldly fortune sends the radiance of its quenchless fidel- ity like a star in heaven.—E. H. Chapin.

Spare Hours

Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose, and you know not how much you may accomplish. Gather up the fragments of time, that nothing may be lost.—W. A. Taylor.

Humble Deeds

The humblest deeds, prompted by a pure and unselfish motive, meas- ure larger in God's sight than ap- parently much greater deeds which are done to be seen of men and for the aggrandizement of self.—Gunn.

Lovely and Inexpensive

AMONG other things to be thankful for in this land of peace and plenty, think how pleasant it is to be able to procure such lovely patterns so conven- iently and so inexpensively. No longer is style the prerogative of wealth alone; every woman can look and be at her best in any com- pany, thanks to Sewing Circle patterns.

Pattern 1981, a youthful loung- ing or sleeping pajama, features a nobby, cutaway peplum and comfortably cut trousers. There is an easy yoke, a cleverly cut collar, and a choice of long or short sleeves. Why not make them twice in alternate mate- rials? The size range, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34 bust) requires 5 yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1982 fashions into an adorable little frock which will make small eyes dance and sparkle. Just eight pieces to the pattern, including the band and facings, you can run it up in a jiffy and have a perfect gift for your daughter. Send for it in size 2, 4, 6, or 8 years. Material selection—dimity or swiss or voile or crepe or gingham. Size 4 requires just 2 1/8 yds. of 35 or 39 inch. Pattern 1970 is a comely and graceful morning or daytime frock for matron sizes, the sort that goes on in a hurry and wears well without a lot of fuss and both- er. The jabot is softly feminine and the panelled skirt is cut along lines every larger woman appreciates. The collar and cuffs are in contrast, if you wish, and the selection of materials is practical- ly unlimited. This lovely pattern is available in all of the following sizes—36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52. Size 40 requires 4 3/8 yards of 35 or 39 inch fabric plus 3/4 yd. contrast.

Send for the Barbara Bell Fall Pattern Book containing 100 well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. Send fifteen cents in coins for your copy.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 367 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each. © Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

Movies Real to Savages

A dog actor made a hit with natives of Papua when they saw their first movie. It was a com- edy and ended with a bull dog chasing a burglar all over the landscape. The natives, convinced the dog was real, promptly passed the hat and offered the cinema proprietor $25 for it.

Equanimity

TRY it for a day, I beseech you, to preserve yourself in an easy and cheerful frame of mind. Be but for one day, instead of a fire-worshiper of passion, the sun-worshiper of clear self-possession, and compare the day in which you have allowed it to grow up; and you will find your heart open to every good motive, your life strengthened, and your breast armed with a panoply against every trick of fate; truly you will wonder at your own improvement.—Richter.

Happiness should be shared.

Uncle Phil Says:

The Mark Stays

Gossip is like mud thrown against a clean wall; it may not stick but it leaves a mark. Things that "cannot be done" are done within the following twenty years.

Be natural, borrowed garments seldom fit well. There are people who think they are observant, who can't tell you offhand what are the pictures on a one-dollar bill or a five-dollar bill.

Ability to Profit

There is sometimes much abil- ity in knowing how to profit by good advice. Silence is the wisest argument of the ignorant man and the wise man can frequently use it to ad- vantage.

TRAGEDY OF DEATH

It is tragic scenes such as this with its terrible indictment of lack of highway traffic regulations which makes us shudder at Death's increasing harvest of lives.

This graphic picture of shredded steel illustrates better than words the aftermath of a terrific crash of a truck careening head-on into a family motor car. The truck ripped open the motor car from front to rear. (Note the flattened bumper on the truck, also the out-worn tread on the tire.)

According to the National Safety Council the traffic death toll of the nation reached a new high mark in the first nine months of this year with 25,850 lives lost, with a council prediction that the year's crash fatalities will reach a record high of 37,500.

In highway casualties, truck accidents far exceed those caused by motor cars. It is revealed that the usurpation of highways by trucks has resulted not only in flagrant monopoly of public roads to transport business on wheels but that most of the truckers involved are irresponsible and do not have public liability insurance to cover personal injury and damage to property of others.

MADAM, THIS McCORMICK-DEERING IS EASIER TO KEEP CLEAN BECAUSE OF THESE RUST-PROOF STAINLESS STEEL DISCS

I'M GLAD TO HEAR THAT! OUR OLD MACHINE WAS HARD TO CLEAN TOWARD THE LAST

—and the best part of it is they will always be exactly the same, no matter how long she uses the McCormick-Deering. These new discs cannot and will not rust. Even the spacers are rust-proof stainless steel. Each disc is exactly like every other, making it unnecessary for them to be numbered or used in any special order. Satin-smooth seamless surfaces make the discs easier to keep clean. We will be glad to arrange a demonstration on your farm, giving you a real opportunity to examine and test the one machine that offers you stainless steel discs, ball-bearing construction, automatic lubrication, beautiful black japan finish, and skimming efficiency over an unusually wide range of temperatures. Six sizes are available.
