Tax Remission Bill Means $3200 Yearly

The tax remission bill which was signed last week by Gov. O'Daniel, will mean a return of approximately $3,200 per year to Briscoe County, according to W. Coffee, Jr. county judge. The tax remissions will start in 1941. The bill called for the remission of half of all taxes collected by the counties for the state's general fund, to the counties' general fund to be used for any general fund purpose.

Considerable discussion as to whether the bill would be a boon to the counties by increasing the general fund money, or whether it would be a boom-irang causing increased taxes, was heard for several days. The state's general fund is already in debt $18,000,000 and the taxes remitted to the counties will come from this debt burdened fund.

Proponents of the plan say that no additional taxes will be necessary to bring the state general fund out of the red.

MRS. JACK BLOCKER NEW OPERATOR AT KING'S

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blocker returned to Silverton from Weslaco the first of the week and Mrs. Blocker has been employed at the King Beauty Salon as beauty operator. She has had three years experience in this work and has been employed at one of the leading beauty parlors in Weslaco.

Jack is a home boy, but his wife is a stranger here. Drop in on them and get acquainted. They have rented the Jewett house formerly occupied by Ross Stiles.

JULY 26 IS DATE FOR CANYON CELEBRATION

Canyon will celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the founding of this town and organization of Randall County on Wednesday, July 26.

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and his Hillbilly Band have accepted an invitation to be present. Other speakers will be Colonel Ernest O. Thompson of the State Railroad Commission; Harry Hines of the State Highway Commission; Dr. J. G. Ulmer of Tyler, president of the State Board of Regents for Teachers Colleges. All are top-notch orators.

Festivities will start early in the morning with a three-mile parade of progress at 10 a. m. Bands and floats from six towns, together with floats from all business firms and organizations in Canyon will be in the parade.

Thirty beeves are to be barbecued by John Snider of Amarillo for the free feed starting at 11.15. Station KGNC will broadcast from 12 to 1:15 p. m.

The speaking will start at 1:15 o'clock and will end at 2:30 p. m. with the dedication of a monument to the pioneers.

The rodeo will be held at 2:30 in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock in the evening at Buffalo Stadium. This is the largest rodeo so far assembled this year, and there will be a complete change in the program for the night show under the floodlights.

A street dance will end the day's festivities starting at 9:30 p. m. Dances will also be held at the American Legion Hall and at Burton Gym.

WORKERS WARNED NOT TO QUIT JOB

Workers in Briscoe County this week were advised not to walk off a job and expect to draw all their unemployment benefits.

B. H. Thomson, supervising examiner for this district, said, "Quitting without good cause may result in a claimant's being assessed one of the stiffest penalties of the unemployment compensation law."

He explained that the penalty for quitting without good cause ranges from the loss of one benefit check to the loss of all benefit checks.

"The intent of the law is to help the worker who is unemployed through no fault of his own," Thomson declared, "and it is not to be confused with old age benefits or relief."

Saturday Is The Last Day!!!

SMITH - McCLENDON

Miss Ruby Jewell McClendon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McClendon, of South Plains, became the bride of Mr. Perry Smith, of Hart, Texas in a simple ceremony, which took place in the home of Rev. Shavel at Lockney at 7:30 o'clock p. m. Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, brother of the bridegroom were attendants. The bride is a graduate of Lockney High School, finishing with the class of 1939. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Alton High School, also finishing in 1939.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home at Hart, Texas for the present.

ELEANOR BLASINGAME TO REPRESENT COUNTY AT MEMPHIS CELEBRATION

Mrs. Eleanor Blasingame has been chosen to represent Silverton and Briscoe County at the Memphis Rodeo and Old Settlers Reunion July 27 and 28. Each town was invited to send a sponsor and the prize offered the winner is a $125 shop made saddle. Judging will be made on personal appearance and general horsemanship.

1925 STUDY CLUB BOOKS BEING PRINTED THIS WEEK

Yearbooks for the 1939-1940 course of study are being printed this week for the Woman's 1925 Study Club in the job shop of the Briscoe County News. The committee this year for the printing of the books consists of Mrs. D. W. Cowart, Mrs. Bland Burson, and Mrs. R. G. Alexander.

The subject of the years study is "Twentieth Century Literature" and takes up modern writers and their writings from various countries with each club member having a definite part to play on the programs which are held every two weeks.

The club books this year, and the year's work are dedicated to Mrs. J. E. Minyard, the first club president, who passed away here a short time ago.

LIGHT SHOWERS HERE FIRST OF WEEK

Two light showers, Sunday and Monday nights netted this community 44 inches of rainfall. Both showers were accompanied by vivid electrical displays and heavy thunder.

More rain is needed badly by all parts of the county. Many fields of feed crop are looking nicely; others are already beginning to burn. Cotton for the most part looks as though it were doing well although much of it is very late.

A good general rain over the county at this time would make plenty of money.

Streets Are Open

Silverton streets which have been under construction for the past two weeks, are now open for traffic. They have been rolled and are now ready for the application of the oil and asphalt.

DOLLAR OFFER ENDS

The dollar special offer on the Briscoe County News, which has been running now for several weeks, will end Saturday of this week.

Monday, the lists will be revised, and all delinquent names will be removed. If you plan to take advantage of the dollar offer, be sure to see us this week.

Resigns

Miss Rosalie Montgomery has resigned her position as English and Spanish teacher in the Silverton Schools and has accepted a similar position in the Lamesa Schools. This represents quite a substantial advance for Miss Rosalie, but folks here will lose a good teacher and a good citizen.

P. B. Henderlite

A great soul has passed.

Rev. P. B. Henderlite, former pastor of the Silverton Presbyterian Church, died in Stephenville, Texas at one o'clock Thursday morning, July 13. He had been in poor health for many years; in fact it was because of illness that he resigned his charge here seven years ago and went to the Ozark Mountains seeking recuperation. He has never since then been well enough to serve as pastor. His condition became critical a few weeks ago, but his death came as a sad shock to his many friends in this community.

There are many here whose lives have been helped and uplifted, whose souls have been awakened and developed because of Doctor Henderlite's influence, because of his wonderful teachings, and his uncompromising principles and standards.

Scion of a fine old family who were zealous promoters of the church, he was himself zealous in his service to the church, to Right and to his Master. He was a highly educated cultured man of letters; he contributed to church periodicals and was a literateur. He was a deep student and teacher of the Bible. Before his health failed, he held such important charges as Richmond, Virginia, Washington, D. C., Newport News, Virginia, and other large churches.

He leaves to mourn his going, his wife and three children: Margaret, Rachel, and Peter; also three brothers, all Presbyterian ministers, Rev. George E. of Virginia, Rev. J. H. of North Carolina, and Rev. L. M. of Brazil, S. A. and a sister in California, and other relatives whose names we do not have.

A great soul has passed. But we know a rich reward is promised to those as faithful as Doctor Henderlite.

To the bereaved family in the broken home in Stephenville, the Silverton friends send deepest sympathy.

Revival

An old time revival is in progress at the Rock Creek school house. It is being conducted by Mrs. Essie Smith and Mrs. Mary Worden. Everyone is cordially invited.

WHEELS OF FORTUNE

Free will contributions for the wheels of fortune will be accepted until the 26th of the month at the home of Mrs. Mary Worden, Rock Creek school house.

REFRIGERATED FOOD LOCKERS

Cold storage locker plants now appear to be one of the most rapidly increasing and helpful projects offered to both city and rural families. This new development has created much interest in its use and future possibilities. It may be described as a safety deposit box where families may store frozen food supplies that have been produced or grown at home or purchased to wholesale prices. The average annual consumption of meat (exclusive of poultry and fish) per the individual from 1920 to 1936 according to the best estimates available was 134 pounds.

On this basis, a family of five would consume approximately 670 pounds of meat annually. Savings are often estimated at six to eight cents pound in comparing retail prices of meat and those of meat produced on the farm and placed in a cold storage locker. Aside from economy, less loss from spoilage occurs by placing meat in a room at controlled temperature.

An improved family diet is possible by having fresh meat during the summer months. Dressed poultry placed in lockers in August

STEVENSON - MEEKS

Jim Stevenson and Sybil Meeks were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at Clovis, New Mexico.

Sybil, formerly of Hedley and a graduate of Hedley High School, has lived in Silverton for the past several years, and is well known and loved by her many friends.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevenson and is employed by the State Highway Department and has been transferred to Floydada. It hasn't been determined whether they will make their home here or at Floydada.

The news joins their many friends in wishing them a long happy life together.

MEMPHIS RODEO TO HONOR OLD TIMERS

An array of prominent speakers and comely cowgirls, a gigantic "parade of progress", a barbecue honoring more than 2,000 old settlers, and one of the biggest and most amateur rodeos in West Texas will feature a two-day reunion of Hall County pioneers in Memphis Thursday and Friday, July 27-28.

Jerry Sadler, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, Robert Lee Bobbett of the Highway Commission, Senator Clint C. Small, and former Attorney General William McGraw are among the outstanding speakers who have been invited to appear on the program during the two-day celebration, which will commemorate the 49th anniversary of the founding of Hall County.

Old Settlers and cowboys from Hall, Collingsworth, Childress, and Donley Counties have been invited to attend the reunion and be honored guests at the annual barbecue on Friday, the 28th. Tickets will be free to all who have lived in this section for more than 28 years.

Chief Baldwin Parker, son of Chief Quannah Parker, and his tribe of Comanche Indians from Cache, Oklahoma, will appear twice daily in the pioneer parade on the Old Settlers program and at the rodeo in war dances, scalp dances, Indian love songs, and other Indian ceremony.

Sydney Yokley, the Canadian, Texas, girl who has been an outstanding performer at almost every major rodeo in the Southwest, will be featured in a special exhibition at all four shows of the two day rodeo at Cyclone Stadium.

The Memphis rodeo will be one of the outstanding affairs of its kind in this section. Limited strictly to amateur performers, it will feature many of the top cowhands from West Texas ranches. Attractive prizes are being offered, and invitations have been mailed to more than 300 punchers.

Two-day headquarters for 11 famous Panhandle ranches, including the Shoe Bar, Shoe Nail, Maador, "96", old JA, Leaning F, Diamond Tail, Rowe, Smith, and Mill Iron, have been established in Memphis, where the old time cowpunchers will be specially honored.

Red Lyons of Byars is supplying 110 head of Class A rodeo stock for the two-day show. Season tickets for the four rodeo performances are on sale at $1.50. Single admission will be 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children.

WHY?

State police today sought an explanation as to why nearly half the people killed in traffic are fatally injured on Saturdays and Sundays.

The death toll is far out of proportion to the volume of traffic on those days, even though week-end travel is high.

Much of the blame, state police believe, must be laid to the "week-end driver"—thoughtless, careless, joy-riding, sometimes drunk and often inexperienced. He must shoulder responsibility for an appalling toll which in five months this year has claimed 279 lives out of a total of 567 fatalities for that period, they declared.

The five-month survey disclosed that 49 per cent of the traffic deaths occurred on week-ends, 26 per cent on Saturdays, 23 per cent on Sundays, 18 per cent on Sundays, 15.7 per cent on Saturdays, state officers pointed out. The volume of traffic was taken from average figures developed by the state-wide highway planning survey based on a year's actual count.

Week-end fatalities were highest in January, when 73 lives were claimed on four Saturdays and five Sundays, and have declined appreciably since then, the survey showed. February had 56 deaths for four Saturdays and four Sundays; April, 53 deaths for five Saturdays and five Sundays; and May, 47 deaths for four Saturdays and four Sundays.

Chief Ralph L. Buell of the state driver's license division described the "week-end driver" thus:

NEWS BITS From Neighboring Newspapers

Veto Hits WT Hard

When W. Lee O'Daniel wielded his veto "big stick" he hit WTSTC at Canyon pretty hard according to the Canyon News. The college is now left without any means for repairs, painting, and so forth and the buildings there are in need of the work now. The water system too, is said to be needing repairs.

Claude Rodeo

Plans are well under way for the 9th Annual American Legion Rodeo and Old Settlers Barbecue at Claude July 21 and 22. A list of prizes was given in last week's Claude News.

Child Injured

Four-year-old Leon Crabbe, of the Sand Hill community in Floyd County, received a broken thigh when he was struck on the Floydada streets last week by a car driven by Elmo Leatherman. He is now resting easily after a major operation was performed on his leg and it was placed in a cast. According to the Hesperian, the child ran in front of the car, and witnesses said that Leatherman was in no way to blame.

SILVERTON SECOND IN APPLIANCE SALES FOR TEXAS N. MEXICO UTILITIES

A monthly comparative merchandise sales report from the Texas-New Mexico Utilities shows that Silverton was second only to Farwell in comparison with 27 other towns and cities in this district. This can be construed as "orchids" for Mrs. Bruce Womack, who has been in charge of sales, and for some time was in complete charge of the Silverton division.

The company has set up a bogey of $280.00 for Silverton for the month of June and it was almost doubled, with $526.00 worth of appliances sold. Silverton also ranked second for the entire year to date, with $1,544.00 in sales, when the company sales quota called for only $1,820.00.

NOTICE

A meeting of the County School Trustee has been called for 10 o'clock, Tuesday, July 25th.

This meeting is mainly for the purpose of classifying the Common Schools of the County. The Trustees of the Districts, the Teachers and any interested citizens are invited to attend this meeting.

I wish to call to the attention of all parents who wish to transfer their children to some other District that July 31st is the last day this can be done. Please remember this and come in early because the only way children can be transferred under the present law is for the parents to make application during the month of July.

DROWNING VICTIM IS BURIED AT LOCKNEY

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Lockney for Orville Shearer, 18 years old, who drowned Sunday afternoon at Claud's Crossing northwest of Silverton.

The youth with nine companions, all of Plainview, was swimming when he took cramps. He called for help and Norris Roberson attempted to pull him from the water but was unable to overcome the youth's frantic struggles, members of the party said.

The body was recovered in 10 feet of water several minutes after the youth went down. Artificial respiration was attempted unsuccessfully.

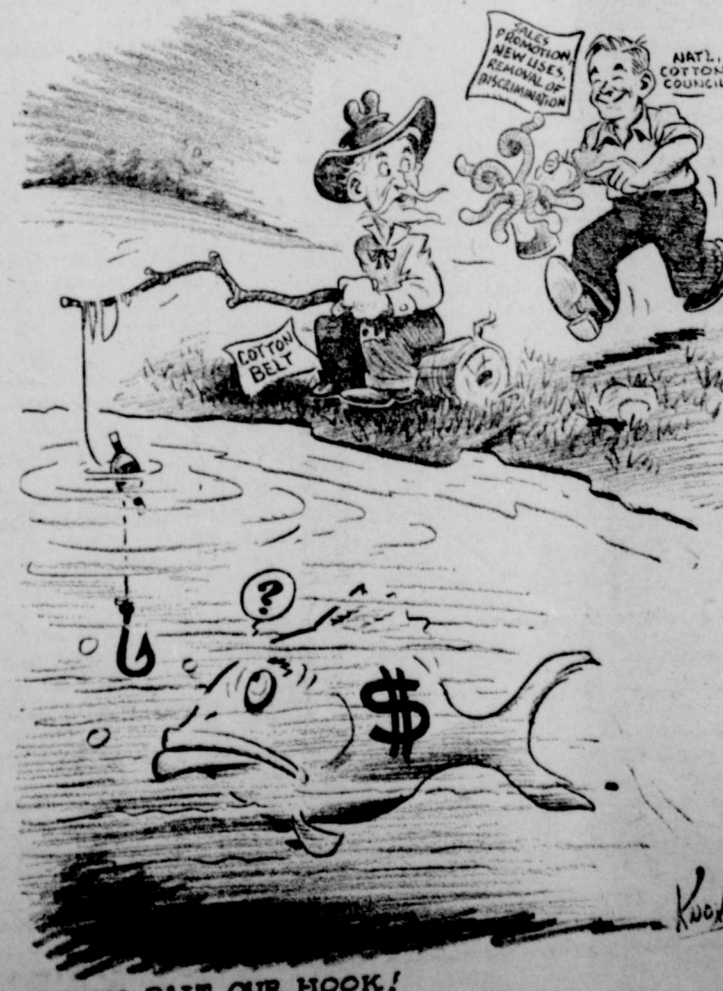

Young Shearer was graduated this year from the Plainview high school. Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Shearer of near Plainview, he is survived by two sisters and a brother.—Amarillo Globe News.

COMPLETES SUMMER TERM

Taylor Williamson of Silverton has just completed the first term of summer school at Tarleton College, Stephenville, Texas. Taylor studied Electrical Engineering.

Work now underway at Tarleton in preparation for an expected record enrollment during the long session includes complete renovation of both boys and girls dormitories, remodeling the interior of the administration building and air conditioning the auditorium.

How the wind is blowing... LABOR—Oregon's Supreme court has held constitutional the famous "anti-picketing" law adopted by referendum last November.

The opponents: Japan and Russia. The participants: Japs and their puppet Manchukuoans versus Russians and their puppet Outer Mongolians.

For five years both nations have kept their troubles out of print by relying on convenient buffer states, but by early June there were signs of open hatred.

EUROPE: Balkan Pressure

In June Yugo-Slavia's regent, Prince Paul, visited Berlin. In early July Hungary's army chief, Gen. As well it might, this frightened Rumania. Reason: Adolf Hitler's three guests represented nations surrounding Rumania on as many sides, south, west and north.

Blame Absurd Relief Policies For Widespread WPA Strikes

Misguided Effort to Force Government Into Greater Gifts to Them; Yell Radical Accusations When Soft Snap Stops; Honest Distribution Congress' Aim.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—It is sometimes possible, I believe, to find an excuse for violent action on the part of a man who is hungry.

And, speaking of unions, there are two of them—rival organizations—among WPA workers. There is the Workers Alliance of America and the Workers League of the United States.

Why is a Union Necessary Among These Workers? One might also inquire quite properly. I think, why it is necessary to have a union among these workers.

To go back a bit for a review, the relief program enacted recently by congress for the year that is now starting specified that all WPA workers must put in 130 hours per month in order to get the maximum government relief.

Congress Sought to Set Up An Honest Distribution

The rules that expired June 30 had made it possible for some workers to receive the maximum pay in as little as two weeks of work.

There were some other provisions, too, that irked the WPA workers. One of them, for instance, makes it necessary for those who have been on WPA relief jobs for 18 months, to take a layoff of one month.

The third big change from last year and the earlier years of federal relief was a specification as to wages. The legal language is too complex for me to understand, thoroughly, but the intention is to make the rates of WPA wages have some relationship to the cost of living where the unemployed are given WPA jobs.

These things are in the law, this time. In previous years, congress had been unable to break the grip of the professional relievers, like Harry Hopkins and Aubrey Williams, and the rates of pay and conditions of work were determined largely by such men.

Strike Against Government Is What Confronts Country

The condition that confronts the country, therefore, is a strike against the national government, because the elected representatives of the people as a whole laid down the rules, this time.

does, against an employer; It is quite another thing for a union to be organized to perpetuate government charity and to use that union in a violent fashion as has been done in this instance.

I wish that congress would dig into those two organizations and see how much these "leaders" are paid and find out where the money comes from.

Why is a Union Necessary Among These Workers? One might also inquire quite properly. I think, why it is necessary to have a union among these workers.

While there never was a chance of congress amending the law and anyone with a grain of sense must recognize it, these self-appointed, self-anointed saviors of the WPA workers did succeed in calling something like 40,000 workers off of their jobs in various parts of the country.

It is to be noted, in passing, that conditions now are somewhat different than when the policies of the professional relievers were operative throughout the country.

Seems There Are Some Very Stupid Local Labor Leaders

The national labor unions, like the American Federation of Labor and the Lewis organization, the C. I. O., came close to getting involved in this picture.

Notwithstanding the gloomy phases of the story told above, attention should be drawn the meanwhile to the healthy aspect that can be found upon examination of the circumstance.

Streamlining Furnishes Strength Without Weight

Everything is being "streamlined" nowadays, and the automobile was one of the leaders several years ago, yet in the case of the car "streamlined" would be the more appropriate term.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Noises in the Night"

HELLO EVERYBODY: There came a time when Frank Barry had to prove he wasn't a coward—and this is what happened!

Frank's address is Albion, Mich. He lives out in the country with his wife and at night the place gets sort of lonely.

On top of that, Frank's wife is a light sleeper. And what with one thing or another, she was beginning to suspect that Frank had a yellow streak in him about a yard wide.

"Every time a mouse would scamper across the floor," says Frank, "my wife would poke me in the ribs and whisper, 'Frank—Frank! Wake up! I hear noises!'"

It was just plain sleepiness on Frank's part—but his wife began to believe Frank was afraid to go down and take a chance on meeting up with a burglar.

Frank's Wife Hears a Noise in the Cellar.

"Well," says Frank, "one night the opportunity came, and now my hair is gray." That night was October 25, 1922. Frank sort of had burglars on his mind that night.

That day he had picked a lot of apples and vegetables and stored them in the cellar. He had left the outside cellar door open.

That night, just as he was drifting off to sleep he heard a crash and felt his wife's elbow in his ribs. "Frank," she whispered, "did you hear that?"

"And then," says Frank, "I began to realize that I was scared to death."

The cold shivers were running down Frank's back, but he didn't tell his wife. "As I lay there debating whether I should be a live coward or a dead hero," he says, "my wife said, 'Did you hear me, Frank?'"

Frank, clinging to the Thing, was carried up the cellar stairs.

Frank? If you didn't something must be the matter with you. And there was something the matter with me. I was scared."

But Frank knew that if he showed the white feather now, his wife would remember it the rest of her life. He slipped out of bed and drew on his pants and socks.

Down in the cellar he could hear boxes moving and apples rolling around. He locked the inside door so the burglars couldn't get into the house. Then he crept outside, down the cellar steps and into the cellar.

Frank Hears an Inhuman Sound.

"By that time," says Frank, "my fear had left me. If a robber shot at me, the flash of his gun would show me where to shoot. I had as good a chance as he."

It was deathly still in that cellar. Frank listened breathlessly, intently. "The stillness," he says, "seemed to grow even more silent, and the suspense increased. Then, all of a sudden I heard a strange, blood-curdling sound—a sound that I knew came from nothing human."

Frank had arrived at that cellar door ready to fight burglars, but he wasn't prepared to meet up with something that wasn't human. He fell forward across the Thing, and clutched at it in panic.

"Its strength," he says, "was irresistible. I felt as though I was nothing more than a feather in a giant's hands. Many fears passed through my mind during the few seconds which that ghastly ride lasted, but all of them were too preposterous to believe."

But suddenly the monster was out in the open and Frank was losing his hold. He rolled off and fell to the ground. When he got up he had regained his composure—and also his senses.

Frank went into the house and got a lantern. Then he went out again and walked to the barn. Sure enough there was his monster, and his hunch had been right.

Frank says his wife thinks this story funny, and tells it to all her friends. "But it was mighty real to me," Frank says, "I didn't know fright could be that bad!"

MAKING THE MOST OF PASTURES

By T. C. Richardson
Associate Editor, Farm and Ranch
Breeder-Feeder Association

The mower is conceded to be the best pasture-growing implement, and this applies sometimes to winter pastures (Sudangrass, etc.) as well as to permanent pastures where the mower keeps down weed competition. Both on permanent and temporary pastures the mower cannot be dated on the calendar, but must depend on the conditions to be met. The growth of weeds has already been mowed before now, or been permitted to seed. Certain weeds, however, come later in the season and should be mowed about the time they begin blooming.

the temporary pasture. Everyone hay and pasture grasses begin to get "stemmy"—that is when they shoot up the course seed stems and start making seed, they are less palatable to livestock and also less nutritious. We have all seen such a pasture when the foliage has been eaten off and the bare stems left standing.

If the pasture gets ahead of the animals which graze it—that is when they do not keep it grazed fairly close—the mower comes into play to cut back the seed stems and throw all the growth into new foliage instead of seed. Fresh growth has a higher protein content than old growth, and is more palatable besides. It will pay to run the mower over the temporary Sudan grass pastures even though there is not enough hay to rake and cure, whenever stock do not keep the seed stalks down.

After corn is laid by grass and weeds often spring up and grow growth can be turned into cash by grazing the corn fields with sheep. Fencing off such temporary grazing has been greatly cheapened and simplified by the invention of the electric fence, which, with one or two wires properly installed and energized (by battery or power) keeps the animals within bounds quite effectively. The sheep may destroy a small amount of corn, but the gains from the grass and weeds will more than offset the loss in grain, and the corn ground will be in better condition than if the weeds and grass were permitted to grow unmolested and seed the ground for next year.

Temporary summer pastures will also furnish more and better grazing if they are divided and the divisions grazed in rotation. Here again the temporary fence electric or otherwise, pays well for the trouble and the moderate expense of installing. Dollars are lost every year on many Southwestern farms through failure to take advantage of the graking available, when it is available. There must be animals to graze and fence to confine them, but there is no form of fasted opportunity so common, and which offers so great a promise for extra farm income.

The new agriculture which is growing out of the cotton crisis is a balanced agriculture, of which both crops and livestock are essential parts. We have too long thought of "agriculture" as crop farming, and "animal industry" as a thing apart. True agriculture includes both, for nature's own law demands that plants and animals be kept together in that God-given reciprocal relation by which each feeds the other and

ROY W. HAHN
Editor and Publisher

James L. Allred Sports Editor

ON THE FRONT page this week I have a story about a much-talked-of celebration for the opening of our new paved streets. We're going to have one, but the details are lacking. Tom Bomar said he would make so bold as to call a civic club meeting for Monday noon to see what could be worked out. Officials of the Highway 86 Association will be invited to the meeting, and maybe a combined celebration of the Highway 86 Association and our street opening can be arranged.

PLAN TO ATTEND the planning meeting, you business men (and anyone else with ideas). That is the only way that we can ever get things worked out satisfactorily. Have some idea about what kind of a celebration you'd like to see, and how much money you would like to spend for it. Be there, and if some impractical duck like myself tries to get something over, you can knock it in the head and substitute a good plan.

WE NEED TO put on a little entertainment for our customers in this territory. Let's for once put all thought of personal profit for the day out of our systems and show them a good time. It can be done pretty reasonably too. My own idea of the thing would be something to eat, (I naturally would), a free picture show all afternoon, and a big free street platform dance at night. I believe that people would like something like that. Maybe though, it should be a little rodeo, or public speaking, or something else. That's what we want to have the meeting for... to find out.

AND BY THE way, on the street paving... I think that a deal is being worked out today to pave the block west past the post office. Won't that be fine?

I WAS TALKING to Mr. Montague the other day and he sure thought that the street work was going to be worth the money. He went on to say, "I was just talking to a fellow, and I said, 'I wonder what that darned editor is going to want next'."

A LOT OF folks have told me lately that they thought that Yours Truly did a lot toward getting the streets paved. I'm too modest to take it. All that I did was a lot of agitating, praying and wishing. The fellows that did it are fellows like Dan Montague, Dick Cowart, Mr. Montgomery, and the other property owners. They did it because they are the ones who put the do-re-mi on the dotted line. So thank them, not me. Don't thank them in words, thank them by doing your business here, and by helping make this a better town.

AND RAISING MONEY right now is like pulling teeth out of a smooth mouth. Personally, I'm the fellow that Tom Bomar is always telling about... "He wouldn't give a dime to see a gnat swallow a baseball"...

I GET SO TIRED bragging on myself that I'm going to give Mazie a hand. In the news locals last week, there were names of over 250 people. That doesn't count regular news stories.

BILL DUNN WANTS me to give O'Daniel a boost. Bill is just like Charlie McCarthy. W. Lee puts the words in Bill's mouth and he thinks that he thought of them himself. Personally, I think that O'Daniel is pretty smooth, a fine fellow, comes from a good family, and a good state, and has a wonderful radio voice. BUT that doesn't ease the burn on an ad that I ran for him (by Bill) that wasn't paid for. Bill said he could raise the money in twenty minutes and it's been better than twelve months. Tut, Tut, Bill... I mean Charlie.

LIGHTNING ALMOST struck twice in the same place Sunday night at Jimmy Cantwell's place. It struck one side of his house, and in less than an hour struck the other side.

LOCAL BOY MAKES good. Jack Blocker is back home, and with a wife, and a good looking one too. And the queer thing about it is that she is a BEAUTY expert. How did Jack qualify?... Really Jack, I don't mean that... I just took that poke at you on account of your old man. That will even me up with the Blocker family for an extra dirty crack Joe made last week about my paper. I can't even repeat it and that, I believe, is the height of low words.

THE MEMPHIS delegation just drove in. Man, oh man. The good old Silverton wind rounded the corner just at the right time. It caught up with a comely lass sitting on a running board—and—well, Sally Rand hasn't got a chance! Who's against a little wind anyway? P. S. Cranberry just got back to work. Wonder where he's been.

LAST CALL, last call! All out and over! All good things must end and so must the dollar offer. The final date is Saturday. All delinquents will be removed from our list. Truly do I sympathize with those who must start borrowing the paper again. I'll send you my sympathy (free) but I won't send the paper (free). There's only one consolation. I'm a very, very, sympathetic sympathizer.

DISCUSS FARM PROBLEMS WITH F. S. A. SUPERVISOR

General agriculture recovery has been interrupted by low prices of farm products as well as a series of drouths in the plains area. Naturally drouths are hazard that has bothered old settlers since the plains area has been plowed up and seeded to wheat. When a drouth comes, crops fail and the wind blows the top soil off the farm. Debts come due. Local banks and personal credit become limited or exhausted. Feed supply becomes exhausted. Pastures fail to produce and become over stocked and families are forced to sell livestock at a fraction of their value.

Many farm families have become victims of poor farming practices, unsound tenure and lack of finance and are burdened with debts. The Farm Security Administration provides loans of various types to farm families who can not get credit on reasonable terms from other sources. These loans are made for feed, seed, livestock and other equipment necessary to carry on farming operations. Every applicant must have land which will support his family and produce enough income to repay the loan. If he does not own the farm, he must have a satisfactory lease or rental contract. Standard loans are repayable over a one to five year period at five percent interest. The borrowers sign a note for the amount of the loan which is secured by a chattel mortgage on livestock, machinery, and crops. Each borrower agrees to keep business like farm records and to follow a sound farm and home management plan which he works out with the Farm Security supervisor of the county. This plan usually calls for the production of enough vegetables, eggs, and meat to feed the family and enough feed forage crops to take care of the livestock. Usually it provides for two cash crops. The county supervisor is glad to advise the borrowers on crop rotation, erosion control, and livestock purchasing and marketing, and other farm problems.

The Farm Security Administration office of Briscoe County is located in the courthouse. The local supervisor, Claude C. Carpenter, will gladly discuss policies of the department with those interested and in need of loans.

WHY IS IT DIFFICULT TO WALK STRAIGHT WITH YOUR EYES CLOSED?

BECAUSE one of your legs is shorter than the other one and unless the eyes are open, enabling the brain to direct your feet through your eyes, the course of one long step and one short step will cause you to walk in circles unless you have trained yourself through diligent practice to pursue a straight course. If you don't believe me, get a tapeline and measure your two legs from hip to feet and then close your eyes and take a walk—without peeping! See where you land!

ASA: A LIFE OF TRUST

LESSON TEXT--II Chronicles 14:2-12. GOLDEN TEXT--Help us, O Lord our God; for we rest on thee--II Chronicles 14:11.

"In God we trust."

These are the words which appear on many of our United States coins. Do we believe them? The lesson for today reveals how real trust in God operates in the life of a nation. The divine principles which were in effect 900 B.C. are just as valid in A.D. 1900. A prayerful consideration of them in the Bible schools of our land today and the application of them to our national life may mean more for our country's welfare than the deliberation of statesmen or the operation of governmental agencies.

The story of the reign of Asa (one of the few godly sovereigns of the nation of Judah) reveals that trust in God calls for an upright life, for intelligent preparation, prayer, and faith. If we trust God we shall

I. Make the Life Right (vv. 2-5).

Asa "did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord." Only such a man or such a nation can really trust God and count on Him for guidance and blessing. Asa destroyed the idols and places of heathen worship (vv. 3, 5), but he also turned his people to the true God (v. 4).

Many are praying that America may have such a revival, which will result in the putting away of sin, which is becoming such a blatant commonplace in our land, and a turning to the true God in repentant and righteous living.

II. Prepare With Care (vv. 6-10).

Asa trusted God but he also made every possible preparation for that which his nation might face. In time of peace he fortified cities and trained his army. This was intelligent faith.

We need not pray that God will keep us warm, if we do not gather and conserve the fuel which He has provided. We must plant, harvest, and store the grain if we are to eat when winter comes. A proper preparation for the defense of our country should precede our prayers for God's protection.

In and through all it is God that works, but at the same time He expects us to do what we can as He enables us to serve Him. The work of the Church of Christ would make great strides forward if His followers would recognize that fact. "We have no right to look for divine co-operation until we have done our best; we are not to sit with folded hands and expect a complete salvation to be wrought for us, and then to continue as idle spectators of God's redemption of mankind. We are to tax our resources to the utmost, gather our hundreds of soldiers; we are to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God which worketh in us both to will and to do of his good pleasure" (W. H. Bennett).

III. Pray With Assurance (v. 11).

The Ethiopian host facing Asa's army was so great that humanly speaking his distinction was hopeless, but "one man with God at his back is always a majority." Take courage, Christian friends, trust God. Only be certain that you are on His side and that your life is right, and then be assured that He will give the victory.

The secret of Asa's victorious prayer was that he put no trust in himself, but did believe in God. Says Alexander Maclaren: "My consciousness of need is my opening the door for God to come in. Just as you always find the lakes in the hollows, so you will always find the grace of God coming into men's hearts to strengthen them and make them victorious when there has been the preparation of the lowered estimate of one's self. Hollow out your heart by self-distrust, and God will fill it with the flashing waters of His strength bestowed."

IV. Act in Faith (v. 12).

Asa went out to meet the Ethiopians, but he knew that God went before him, and therefore he saw God smite them.

Right living, proper preparation, and the prayer of faith must culminate in an act of faith. If we believe that God is for us, let us act as though we believed it and step out with confidence to do His will, come what may. God honors that kind of faith, whether it be on the part of a king, leading his nation into battle, or on the part of the humblest believer, seeking to bear testimony for Him.

TALBOT MUNDY—WIRE SERVICES

SYNOPSIS

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, to survey the district to determine whether a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur.

Nore Mahiam chuckled. It was like the gurgle of dirty water and it swallowed the silk of his voice. Even his gesture changed. He became as hoarse as an auctioneer encouraging a doubtful bidder.

"Sahib, there is newness at the palace such as never before was! There is a goddess in the guest-house. She has money, and a niece worth more than money. Oh, such levelness! And oh, such ill temper! The aunt is never satisfied unless she is humiliating someone. She humiliates even His Highness. And the niece is never happy unless she can be as kind as her aunt is cruel."

"Why are they there?" asked O'Leary.

"It is a mystery. Nobody knows. 'Who wants to know?' 'Ah, sahib you must not ask what I may not tell you.' 'I'll bet a month's pay,' said O'Leary, 'that the temple Brahmins have sent out a call for information.'

"Would it make any difference to you, Mr. O'Leary, where the two hundred rupees came from, supposing you had it?"

"Two fifty might tempt me. I'd think it over."

"Even that price might not be too high for exact information as to why Captain Norwood is in Kadur, and also why Mrs. Harding and Miss Lynn Harding are here at the same time. There is some connection. What is it?"

"I'll think it over. If I can't find a higher bidder, maybe you and I can do business. You'd better watch out for me. I'll take a stroll through the bazaar later on."

"Very well, Mr. O'Leary. My office is—"

"What do I care where your office is. Do you think I'd let myself be seen calling on you? You keep a desk lying. You've plenty of spies. Find out where I go, and follow, and bring your money with you. Three hundred."

"But sahib, we agreed to—"

"I said three hundred. You'd better go before I'm seen talking to you. Captain Norwood might be back any minute. If he should ask me who you are I'd have to tell him, and it wouldn't sound nice. Him and me never lie to each other."

CHAPTER II

Captain Carl Norwood was in nothing yet that he or anyone could recognize as trouble. On horseback, followed by a mounted native orderly, he was entering the ancient gate of Kadur City. A good-looking fellow, young to be a Captain of Royal Engineers. He looked more like a cavalryman. Inside the city gates, there was a stinking herd of loaded camels. They blocked the street. Norwood's horse that wasn't used to camels went into a panic. When he had calmed the horse he dismounted, gave the reins to the orderly, and told him to let the horse get used to the smell of camels and follow as soon as the camels were out of the way. He wanted to stretch his legs anyhow. It was only a mile walk to the Residency, on the far side of the city. The swarming streets were interesting, just before sunset, with the night life just beginning.

The Residency stood in a vast compound amid neem trees. Guard-house—flagpole—Union Jack. The Residency guard of native Indian infantry was turning out to pay the customary honors to the flag at sunset. The Resident was on the front steps, middle-aged and military looking. Norwood had to wait until the brief ceremony was over. His reception was not cordial. The invitation to dinner was perfunctory, so phrased that it was easy to refuse.

"I'm tired, sir. Long march. I would like to turn in early."

"Very well, Captain Norwood. Don't let me inconvenience you. I was informed, of course, that you were coming. Can't say that I approve of this survey of the Kadur River. The priests will resent it bitterly. There may be trouble enough as it is over the temple boundary dispute. The Maharajah claims ownership of certain buildings, beneath which it has been an open secret for centuries that the priests have a diamond mine."

"That's why I'm here, sir. I was told that Prince Rundhia started the argument."

"Yes, he's heir to the throne. He had to start it in the Maharajah's name, but it was Rundhia's idea.

The Maharajah is a quiet old gentleman, thank heaven. No initiative. Satisfied to let things take their course. I believe the quarrel would settle itself, if we would let it alone. The diamond mine is one of those open secrets that it is hard to keep until they're acted by everybody. The arrangement he worked perfectly well all these years. The priests don't win many diamonds from the mine. Sometimes they go by without their finding any stones worth putting on the market. They turn over a certain percentage to the Maharajah, and sell the remainder for temple revenue.

"Yes, there's a rumor the mine is dangerous."

"Good God, man! They don't let anyone near the mine—not even the Maharajah!"

"Provision has been made for that, sir."

The Resident exclaimed, "Well, take care that you—" he selected a word; he used it hurriedly: "open don't make trouble."

Norwood returned to the city. The new street lights had been turned on. There was a swarm of hooting traffic—bullock carts, rickshaws, droves of pedestrians, scoundrels, noisy and decrepit autos. Norwood stood on a sort of traffic island in mid-street—amid a mass of palms with an ancient fountain and one big glaring arc-light. He could see the orderly bringing the horses; he might just as well wait for them.

Throwing the way through the traffic in the direction of the palace, there came one of those out-thanking lined carriages in which women ladies take the air. It was magnificently hurred. Two mounted men rode ahead to clear the way, and they were followed by two runners armed with sticks. Two men in splendid livery on the box. Two footmen on a platform behind the carriage. Two more horsemen bringing up the rear.

As the carriage drew near Norwood, a terrifically noisy truck frightened the horses. Almost at the same moment, two elephants loomed into view from a side street. The horses plunged. The driver had barely time to control them. The carriage swayed violently. The right front wheel struck the curb, dented the door. The shock jolted the occupants. The coachman reined the horses to a standstill, shouting to the footmen to seize their reins.

Diamonds, pearls, emerald necklaces of the hue of Elnahgan dawn. Two women. The eldest, stout one raised a fan to hide her face. It was the other who held Norwood spellbound.

She was young. She was full of laughter. She had mocking, enigmatical, generous eyes that looked into what shouldn't be, but is, and is amusing. She saw an evil, but humor in being stared at by a man who shouldn't see her, and hadn't expected to. Indian women ladies are supposed to shrink from men's eyes. Here met Norwood's full, and full of laughter.

Norwood, of course, recovered self-possession. He was in uniform, so he saluted. He was about to speak; he had thought of a perfectly gallant remark that would sound almost like a quotation from the "Arabian Nights," when the palace servants took the situation in hand.

The driver recovered command of his horses. The carriage moved on. The footmen jumped up behind. Norwood was left wondering. He had had a vision. He had never seen such a beautiful girl.

The older, stouter woman, who had used the fan to hide her face, should be the Maharajah of Kadur. But Norwood knew she was childless; otherwise Prince Rundhia, the Maharajah's nephew, would not be heir to the throne. The ladies of Kadur have black, not golden hair, so the younger girl could hardly be a relative. She might be a princess on a visit from some northern Indian state.

The orderly, selected because he was a native of Kadur, took up with the last horse.

"The Prince Rundhia taken a wife?" Norwood asked him.

"No, sahib. One does not discuss women ladies—not with men of an alien race. The orderly grimaced inward to the kind of silence that suggests the subject is forbidden.

Norwood rode back to his camp, where Moses Lafayette O'Leary led him three men of three different races, about who had drunk the whiskey.

"It was an emergency," said O'Leary. "Yes, sir, I took the liberty. But how can I get information if I don't know your knowledge of my honesty, and take a chance now and then on your overlooking what should be impossible if someone else should do it? I have to treat my informant decent. Have you heard what's going on at the palace? There's a guesthouse in the garden full of women. Americans, two, a young one, and an aunt who's ill a hotel. French-look of luggage. I've heard say the aunt would make a brace of eggs with their heads looked the other way. They eat like a holy terror. But they tell me the young one 'ad met your young one Miss Lynn Harding."

"What else have you found out?"

"Not much."

"You're about the far for an informant. You're getting on. I've my eye on a man who knows what's going on."

"All right, sir. If you want the truth before I know what I'm talking about, I'll do it. Here goes. The whole town's full of dirty rumors as to what's going on. There's a game on, and it's all set. They're laying for us, and the way they figure it we're in the bag already. I've been offered a bribe to tell you what's in the air."

"Can't."

"No, sahib. Man name of Nore Mahiam."

"Beyond that you were offered a bribe, did you get any other line on their intentions?"

"No. I know what's going on. There's a saying in Kadur that diamonds are in the air. We've been watching now. We can't afford a mistake. But they'll try some more bribery first before they act up."

"Don't take their money. Don't take a gift of any kind from anyone."

"Yes, sir."

"I'm incommunicable."

CHAPTER III

Mrs. Deborah Harding, in leggings, a short skirt, and a wide white helmet, wearing goggles and with a camera suspended somehow from her curly hair, prodded ruins with the handle of a great silk sunshade. Two palace servants thrust attendants on her, doing their obsequious utmost to prevent intimacy.

"Sahib! Not good! Much too many colors—terrors—scorpions—the bad. Come, look this way. Plenty ruins this way."

But Mrs. Deborah Harding wasn't in the habit of taking the advice of anyone less than a Supreme Court Justice; nor would she hesitate to question that if it didn't agree with her own convictions. She was dramatic, opinionated, willful dignity personified. An honorary special correspondent to The Woman Citizen, of Sacramento, Sacramento County, Ohio, she was being an authority on ruins. She looked like an authority. She had authoritative gestures, and a notebook.

It was close on sunset. Mrs. Deborah Harding's goggles were dusty.

The blood-red sunrises confused her vision. She was one of those people who always believe what they see and nothing that they don't see. She saw a cobra. She did not see that the cobra, on which she set her foot, was loose, curved on its under side and resting insecurely on a thicket. So she twisted her ankle and sat down—hurt. Ignited every bone in her corpulent body.

Two hundred and eight pounds of widow with bankers' references and one hundred per cent opinions, sat at down harder than a crate of groceries.

"I never saw such people—such a country. I have traveled all around the world from America. I have visited numbers of countries. I have not seen your equals anywhere for inefficiency and lack of human intelligence. What shall I do now? I am in pain. Have you no ideas? Can't you suggest something?"

One of them mounted the pony and trotted away for assistance. Mrs. Deborah Harding sat fuming herself and making impotent herself remarks about the swarms of flies that were buzzing for a last, long look before going to sleep.

The suffering woman drew with an aching police team and, after a heated, uncomplimentary debate with the policeman in charge, passed the palace. The Maharajah was out. It entered to one's head to consult the Maharajah; it was the hour of the day to study postage stamps, so he was incommunicable, except to the physician who should bring him his evening tonic. However, Prince Rundhia had returned that afternoon, from a visit to Delhi. Someone phoned him. Things happened.

There are two palaces. Rundhia's is separated from the Maharajah's only by a high wall and two widths of glorious garden. Rundhia's imported patent automatic garage-door swung open. He imported a "Car-as-shauffer" which a "Hullo-Tovee" to the front door. Rundhia took the wheel. They opened the front gate just in time. Another split second and he would have crashed it, scattered the lot of them, and hummed a new one from his aunt.

There was a whirl of dust, a din of tooting. Headlights flooded the narrow roads with blinding glare. Three dogs and some belated chickens died the death. Three villages gaped and called on their gods to witness their pity. Rundhia rumbled on the brakes and got out of the car as how to Mrs. Harding just as calmly, as if he were entering her drawing room.

"Well, I am glad to see you," said Mrs. Deborah Harding. "I don't know who you are, but—"

"Prince Rundhia, your host's nephew."

"How do you do. But took your own time, didn't you? I had begun to think no one was coming."

The garden guesthouse was a copy of a cottage at Junn tes Pins. It had been Rundhia's idea. The Prince had persuaded his aunt the Maharajah to get thoroughly modern for once.

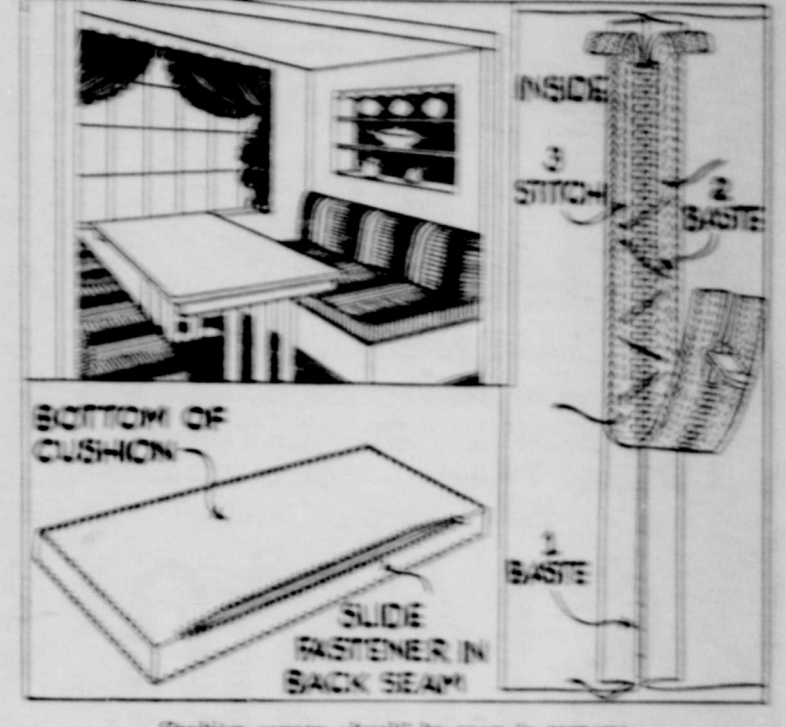

The Maharajah almost worshipped Rundhia, but she had compelled him to return from Europe by cutting off the supplies of cash. She wanted him to learn to be fit for the throne. But Rundhia was always threatening to go to Europe again unless she made things tolerable; so she had to make good his gambling losses and to humor his whims.

So she had stayed at the guesthouse until Mrs. Deborah Harding heard about it during her tour of India. She knew exactly how to convince a politician. She considered she conferred a favor on the ruler of Kadur by accepting their hospitality for herself and her niece.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Cushion covers should be easy to remove.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have both of your books and they certainly have been a help to me. I followed your directions in Book 1 for making all of my slipcovers. Recently I started a wall hanging of creased work embroidery that required many stitches that were new to me. I found them all clearly diagrammed in Book 2, and was certainly glad I had it to turn to."

"I am now interested in covering seat cushions for our dinette. The children have both breakfast and their mid-day meal here. Can you suggest a material that will stand hard wear and that comes in bright colors?"

Striped evening material would give good service and both you and the youngsters would enjoy the gay coloring in this much used corner. Green and orange stripes would be attractive, and this color scheme could be repeated in green curtains and orange paint for the inside of a cupboard. I have suggested slide fasteners for the cushions so that they may be removed easily for laundering.

Notice about book prices: Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator and No. 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries, are now 35 cents each, or both books for 65 cents. Readers who have not secured their copies of these two books should send in their orders immediately, as no more copies

Old Fort Laramie Is Proclaimed National Monument

Old Fort Laramie, in Wyoming, army general headquarters during the Indian wars on the plains and long-time capital of the wilderness west of the Missouri river, has been proclaimed a national monument. The scene of crumbling buildings that still mark the site at the junction of the Laramie and North Platte rivers are to be preserved and restored as a memorial to the countless traders and soldiers who maintained the greatest of all wagon trails by means of which the West was won.

The first known white men to visit the site were members of the Stuart party of Astorians in the winter of 1825-26. Later it was a fur-trading post. In 1828 the United States army purchased Fort Laramie in order to establish authority over the streams of emigrants who were passing through the fort en route to California. By 1865 the Indian situation became so troublesome that Fort Laramie was made general headquarters of the military district of the plains.

When the arteries of transcontinental commerce shifted to the south and the Indians were subdued and either confined to reservations or transported to other parts of the country, Fort Laramie languished, and in 1882 its abandonment was recommended. The last troops marched out of the old fort in 1888 and the military reservation was restored to the public domain the following year.

Although half a century has passed since the Stars and Stripes waved over the historic old fort, since which time the place has been in the hands of various private owners, many of the stout old buildings still stand, including a pair of original Fort John and "Bedlam," the bachelor officers' quarters erected in 1822.

WE TEXAS

Back to nature note:
This observer saw the first bumble-bee and the first hummingbird I've seen in twenty years a few days ago. They were bumbling and humming around some flowers at the rock cottage of State Auditor Tom King in the hills near Austin. And if you don't think that highly efficient individual has his sentimental side, too, you ought to see the gigantic, handsome official potting around the flowers he planted in the yard.

A story which has become a classic around the Capital City is told concerning a former Fort Worth legislator, who was remarkably fond of making speeches. When a certain bill that he was supporting came up for debate, he asked to be allowed to talk. Told that he could have only four minutes because nine others wanted to speak for the measure, he asked:
"How many are speaking against it?"
"Just two" was the answer.
"Then put me down to speak against it; I can get more time on that side."

The Stamford Cowboy Reunion is getting a national—even international — reputation. Recently held, it drew such notables as Ammon Carter, "range boss of West Texas", and Jerry Sadler, State Railroad Commissioner, who by the way has bought a West Texas ranch to which he plans to retire some of these days. Also in the parade and rodeo grand entry was Mary Paige Covey, loveliest showgirl in America, representing Fort Worth's Casa Manana. Incidentally, the big musical spectacle, after opening July 21, runs through Labor Day and, the first two weeks, will present such stars as Ray Bolger, famous comedian and eccentric dancer; Frances Langford, nightingale of the radio; Russ Morgan and his orchestra ("Music in the Morgan manner") and other top-notch entertainers, including Bob Burns, the bazooka man, for one night.

Ghent Sanderford, Austin attorney, recently related a poignant experience of his days as secretary to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

A mother was waiting to ask a pardon for her son, in prison for bank robbery.

"There was a woman in here yesterday who really had something to weep about," Sanderford said, "because her husband was condemned to die. If your son is turned loose, you may be back down here to ask that his life be spared."

The mother replied, "No, my boy was led into this trouble; he has learned his lesson."

The young man was freed. Within two years, he paid with his life for a bank holdup in which two officers were shot to death.

Here's one that will make your mind reel; it's from the Crane County News:
"LOST—$1 in this problem that the Texas Co. boys who have nothing else to do have been figuring on. Can you tell them where the loss went to? Here's the math:
"Three men paid $10 each for the room rent, totaling $30 per month. This amount was sent in to the landlady by a friend who happened to be going that way. The landlady accepted only $25 and gave the deliverer $5 for his trouble. The friend then returned one dollar to each of the original contributors which left him $2 and resulted in only $9 room rent each for the men, or a total of $27. Add $27 and the $2 and you have $29, where as you started with $30."

One of the oldest jokes of them all.
Two men, riding along enroute to Albany, N. Y., saw a sign: Albany, 25 miles." They drove half an hour and saw a sign giving the distance to Albany as 25 miles. They drove another half hour and read a third sign, "Albany, 25 miles." One spoke up, "Thank goodness, we're holding our own."

FOOD LOCKERS - - -

when prices are low may be served as fried chicken during winter months.

While meat is the most common product placed in lockers, the storage of fruits and vegetables is becoming more common each year. Often a balanced diet helps maintain efficiency as well as better health to all individuals. Food may be secured in only one of two methods. Foods may be produced or purchased. Often the family income may not be sufficient to purchase a well balanced diet. When meat and vegetables are produced and placed in a cold storage locker, a good meal is made possible in any home regardless of the amount of cash in the saving bank.

A major objective of the Farm Security Administration according to Claude C. Carpenter and Jessie Mae Rose, local farm and home supervisors, is a live at home program, a well balanced subsistence enterprise which includes a large feed and food reserve for farm and home use.

WEEK-END DRIVERS - - -

"He is frequently the man who leaves the car with his wife all week, then takes it out on Sunday for a long drive on the highways. He is unprepared by habit for heavy traffic and the emergency that takes split-second thinking and split-second reaction. Often he doesn't even know the rules of highway behavior, but you can't criticize him to his face. He thinks he's a wonderful driver.

"Frequently he is a student, pushing his car to the utmost to spend all the hours possible that week-end with the home folks—and the girl back home. Too often he doesn't live to get there.

"And frequently he is the 'hey-hey boy' who may be 20 or 60. The highway, to his way of thinking, is as good a place as any to take a drink, and it is no worry of his when he runs two or three other cars off the road and causes somebody else to have a bad smash-up."
