CLIFFORD HODGES KILLED IN CAR WRECK THURSDAY

Clifford Hodges, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hodges of this community, was killed in a car wreck at Craig, Colorado last Thursday. He was 41 years old. Although he had never made his home here, Clifford Hodges was well known here. He formerly made his home at Houston where he was connected with the Haliburton Oil Co. His home, at the time of his death, was Casper, Wyoming, where he was Superintendent of the Northwest Division of the company.

MINING FOR GOLDEN GRAIN

A week of bright drying weather (in the afternoons) has put many combines in the field in the search for what six weeks ago, looked to be Briscoe County's greatest crop of wheat. Not so now. Farmers are scraping the ground to gather the wet wheat, while the careless weeds rear their heads four feet in the air.

Some wheat is reported as making as much as 15 bushels an acre, but most is 4 and 5. The test for the most part is below 50 pounds. Elevators are having a hard time handling the wet, weedy wheat.

It's a far step, but instead of the greatest crop year, 1941 will go down in history as the most disappointing year in the county's history.

Old Timers Registeration at Nine; Free Coffee

No. 12

The 1941 Silverton Rodeo will get under way tomorrow (Friday) morning when the parade starts at 10:00 A. M. The various committees are winding up their work today and as far as the two days' activities are concerned, the rodeo should be far better than last year. Those wishing to enter the parade should be getting ready by nine o'clock and the parade will form on South Main street and

Excellent sound equipment has been obtained through the courtesy of the Gulf Oil Company. The first real event will be the bronc riding contest. It should be good for the famous Dumas Bucking Horses will be used. Next in order is the calf roping, using Nig Ried's Houston Brahmas. Curly Dourgherty is furnishing the bulls for the next event, bull riding, and they say they are really tough and vicious. Nig Reid will also furnish Brahamas for the double-tie-down, the last event. There won't be a dull moment, the arena officials say, and as an added attraction Winks Adams will exhibit his famous roan trick horse. Winks is just an everyday cowboy, and has trained his horse himself. Following the rodeo the fiddlers will tune up for the first square dancing. A new platform has been built, just three times the size of last years. Dancing will continue till nearly time for the evening rodeo which starts at eight. After after the night rodeo, the square dancers will have their swing again. At nine the modern dance will get under way. Clyde Miller will furnish the music and he has a large following of dance fans all over this section who will be on hand to trod the light fantastic. Saturday's program will be similar to Friday's except there will be no morning parade. You are cordially invited to any and all performances. If you able to harvest, no one will blame you for not attending. However, the night performances will be under good lights and those who are in the harvest field are invited to attend these

LYNN SAYS:

Don't be timed about putting your own personality into your salads. Here are some suggestions which may help you become famous for your salads . . . Try:

Fluting bananas by running the prongs of a fork lengthwise down a peeled banana, then slicing it crosswise.

Adding chopped, broken or whole walnut kernels to fruit, vegetable and meat salads.

Using fruit juices to thin mayonnaise and to mix with french dressing.

Adding a fruit gelatn, sliced or cut into glistening cubes, to a fruit salad. Brightening the edges of lettuce leaves by dipping them in pap-rika, or adding chopped parsley to the edges of pineapple slices. Adding a little lemon juice or vinegar to sweet cream for salad dressing-makes a quick sub-ing if desired. / Heap on lettuce, or serve without greens in a large bowl. Garnish with remaining eggs, sliced or sieved. Yield: 4 servings.

. . . When the mercury soars skyward and appetites are on the wane, nothing tastes quite so good as a chilled, molded mixture of fresh vegetables or fruits, placed on a bed of crisp greens and garnished with a tart, taste-teasing dressing. Lime Cucumber Salad.

1 package lime gelatin 1½ cups hot water

2 tablespoons vinegar 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons scraped onion

Dash of paprika 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento 1 cucumber, diced Dissolve gelatin in hot water, then add vinegar, salt, scraped onion and dash of paprika. Chill until beginning to thicken, then fold in chopped pimiento and diced cucumber. Chill until firm and serve on salad greens with a garnish of mayonnaise. . . .

Since it's open season on salads, homemakers who like variety will be interested in several types of salad dressings. Here are two which will do much to bring out the full flavor of your tasty con-DE coctions.

Thick French Dressing. 1 cup salad oil 1/2 cup vinegar 1 teaspoon mustard

1 tablespoon sugar 3 teaspoons paprika 1 teaspoon gelatin

Mix dry ingredients; add oil and vinegar. Beat thoroughly. Put the gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water and dissolve in 2 tablespoons boiling water. Cool; add dressing. Beat thoroughly about 15 minutes and allow to stand until a good emulsion is formed. Use fruit juice instead of vinegar for fruit salad. Use more paprika if a darker red is desired.

Egg Dressing. 1/2 teaspoon paprika 1/2 teaspoon celery salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper 5 tablespoons vinegar 1 egg yolk

1/2 teaspoon mustard teaspoon sugar t cup salad oil

1 teaspoon salt Mix ingredients and shake well. Add beaten egg yolk when ready to serve. Half lemon juice and vine-gar may be used.

Nazis Employ Giant 'Pincer' Maneuver In Drive to Cut Russian Supply Line; Federal Agents Arrest 29 Persons In Largest U. S. Roundup of Spies

The figure in the lower left corner of the picture is an R.A.F. pilot, who floats on a rubber dinghy, dropped by the land plane overhead. The aviator, after being shot down by Nazis, was spotted by the English air sea rescue service, who radioed the high speed launch, shown just as it reached the scene. The plane hovered above, until rescue was completed, then sped away upon another mercy mission. These dramatic events are almost a daily occurrence in the battle of the Atlantic.

REDS: Fighting Hard

In spite of empty communiques from both Russian and German sources on the progress of the war on a 2,000-mile front between the two former allies, one thing was evident, that the Russians were fighting with all their might and main, but that they were being relentlessly pushed back before the fury of the German mechanized onslaught.

Bit by bit and piece by piece the picture began to be seen, despite the fact that both sides were barring war correspondents from the scene

The huge front was divided into four general parts, the far northern, the northern, central and southern.

On the far north there was no discernible activity. This was the part which Germany hoped to invade by means of her occupation of Norway.

The northern front really began with the Finnish-Russian border,

The papers were crying over a drop in American airplane production, still reporting strikes in defense industries and, very casually, at his press conference, the President had announced that the United States would aid the Soviets as much as possible.

Later, I sat in the office of a perturbed government official. "How," I asked, "can you reconcile to the American people the anticommunist feeling in this country and aid to Russia?"

He paused and looked out over streets, black with staggered shift of government workers on their way home-in another hour there would be another echelon of hurrying men and women, in another hour, another-recruits in the army of defense.

"Of course," he answered, "that is the problem we have to face. We know that most Americans feel as unsympathetic towards Communism as they do toward Naziism. that part of it which lies to the southeast and separates old Finland from the road to Leningrad. Here the fighting was severe, but apparently was mostly in the air. Another portion of this front lay somewhat to the southward, and included the states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and the Germans moving from East Prussia, were invading these territories only recently taken over by Russia, and were slowly forcing the Russians back into their own territory.

Here the fighting was extremely severe and the Russians were forcing the Nazis to advance slowly, where at all

The greatest Nazi advance was on the central front, with the rail center of Minsk, reputedly a "life-line" of Russian supply between south and north armies, as the prime apparent objective. Here the Germans were claiming their greatest successes, and on the basis of meager dispatches, they had indeed covered the most mileage in this district.

Yet most observers believed the Ukraine, the southern front, was the one the Germans coveted most. Yet it was on this front that almost no advance had been made, the Russians claiming to hold the Prut river, which was still a considerable distance from old Russian territory.

Thus the old Nazi "pincers technique" was evident, as it was obvious the Germans were trying to divide the Russian defending armies into two parts, and drive southward to surround and encircle the Ukraine defenders, and to do the same via the Baltic states with the northern defenders. to Marine Siller

MORALE: The Mental Side

As to the propaganda releases, which contained much more space and information than did the official news, there was every indication that both sides in the Russo-German war believed strongly that the other's inner morale was weak.

There were dozens of stories from Russian sources telling of Nazi soldiers and aviators laying down their arms, saying, "we don't want to fight against the Communists."

The Germans, on the other hand, did not make such claims, but took the line of telling the world what brave and foolhardy fighters the Russians were, and by telling stories of "stands to the death" to paint the picture of an army suffering defeat after defeat, and letting its soldiers fight even inside of burning buildings until all were killed.

The purpose of each of these types of stories was to impair morale. This caused many observers to eel that the outcome of the war might well hinge on a breach in the morale of either side.

Yet it disclosed that bigger and faster ships are the rule of the future, and the not-far-distant-future at that.

Not so very long ago 400 miles an hour was a dream, and many experts declared that at 600 miles an hour, or 830 feet per second, the air resistance would burn up a plane.

This was exploded when the U.S. army announced that at Wright field a civilian test pilot dived a plane at the rate of 661 miles an hour, or 968 feet a second, which is losing altitude almost at the speed of sound, which travels only 1,120 feet a second.

The speed of the pilot, Bob Fausel, tester for the Wright company, was a mile every 5.44 seconds. Last year Andy McDonough, an air-line pilot and an air corps reservist, flew a Bell Airacobra in a dive at 620 miles an hour.

And Capt. Ben Kelsey had piloted a Lockheed from March field, Calif., to Mitchel field, L. I., in seven hours, at an average of 420 miles per hour. The tip-off as to the future came from Washington, for Langley field, already with a wind tunnel which will test ships designed for 300 miles an hour, is going to be revamped to test 500-mile-an-hour ships.

POWER: For F.D.R.?

There were two distinct schools of thought about the problem of granting President Roosevelt further additional personal powers in the emergency.

The war department, according to authorized sources in Washington, was putting pressure on congress to declare a state of unlimited national emergency, a step already taken by the President, but which would free his hands for considerable action now barred to him by the fact that congress has not given him the reins.

The isolationist press attacked this move instantly, and so did some congressional leaders who had generally been regarded as administration stalwarts.

DOOMED:

Are Big Guns

The accuracy of American bombing from the air and the size of bombers and bombs has caused the army chiefs to doom to oblivion the big railway guns, not to mention the huge weapons fixed in coast guard positions

Say the army chiefs: "These big guns cannot fire with nearly the accuracy nor the effect of the big air bombers. The war department might as well abandon this weapon."

"In all fair-ness I'll tell you this," he said. "It's true I can't lift a gun on you, or on any man who stands with empty hands. But as soon as you're out of that door, all Miles City will be on the jump to see you don't get loose. Twenty thousand hangs over your head, my boy!"

"Quite a tidy little nest egg." Roper agreed. "I'd like to have it myself.'

A trick of the wind sent a great whirl of papers across the room as he went out."

He had not come here without providing that the horse which waited under his saddle was fresh and good. He struck westward now out of Miles City, unhurrying. At the half mile he found a broad cross trail where some random band of cattle had trampled the snow into a trackless pavement. He turned north in this, followed it for a mile, then swung northwest over markless snow. Now that this horse was warmed a little he settled deep in his saddle and pushed the animal into a steady trot; at that gait, even in the snow, he could expect the tough rangebred pony to last most of the night.

Camera Falsehoods

Probably nothing is more untrue than the statement that the camera cannot lie. Actually the camera can be made to say anything the photographer wants it to say, provided he is skilful enough. Various devices are used, such as the wide angle lens mirrors, and double or multiple exposures.

FEW THOUGHTS ANENT BRITAIN AND FRANCE

IN 1918, WHILE World War I was on, I went to Europe. I sailed from New York on a British transport, with all the feeling of affection for France of an American schoolboy. had learned reverence for France from school histories, and from the same source, I had learned to twist the tail of the British lion at every opportunity.

In France I met and talked with people of every social strata, from the president, cabinet members, officers of the army and the cab drivers. While there I lost all my affection for France and the French people. No single Frenchman had a kind word for any soldier of any army of the allies other than the French. They did not recognize any other force as being engaged in the war. While we, in America, were eating dark bread and doing without meat a portion of the time, you could get the best of white bread and the best of meats in any quantity at any French restaurant at any and all times.

They looked upon the soldiers of other nations, fighting in France, as a source of profit for themselves. The American soldier paid more for your order to: The American soldier paid more for what he bought than any other soldier, because he had more money. The French were selfish, taking all they could get and giving as little as possible.

Just the reverse was true in England, and I returned to America after the close of the war with the greatest possible admiration for the English government and the English people, and a radical dislike for France and the French people.

There may be good Frenchmen and Lafayette was one of such. If we owed anything to France because of Lafayette we paid it. The French people and the French government today are showing their true colors. We can well afford to forget our affection for France. We should revise our school histories.

A GOOD OLD-FASHIONED REVIVAL NOW NEEDED

"WHAT AMERICA again badly needs is responsibility to a Christian God."

That statement was made to me a year ago by Daniel Schuyler, a prominent Chicago attorney.

"A good, old-fashioned revival, with all America on its knees at the mourners bench, would come nearer to putting this nation back on an even keel than any political dogma," he continued. "It would squelch the growing class consciousness. It would stop the mad craze for wealth and position. It would cause each of us to think of his fellow man in terms of Christian charity. It would restore our belief in the cardinal virtues. Yes, we need more than anything else a good, old-fashioned revival.'

I know Daniel Schuyler very well. He is not what I would call a religious man, and I am not sure that he is a member of any church. He is a student of government and ordered society, and was thinking of that "good, old-fashioned revival" from the standpoint of its effect on our relation to government. He saw in religion, in a feeling of responsibility to a Christian God, a vital part in our philosophy of government.

I was reminded of that statement by Daniel Schuyler a few days ago when W. O. Hart, editor of the Orange (Calif.) Daily News, said to me:

"The American people should again get back to that sublime faith in a Supreme Being which was the guiding beacon of our forefathers. We need to feel a responsibility to a Creator in order that we may have a feeling of responsibility to our government and to our fellow men. Such a condition would save the civilization we know. We need to make sacrifices, but to do that, we need an aroused spirituality."

Both men, one in Chicago and the other in California, were seeing the subject from a governmental viewpoint. Both see in a "good, oldfashioned revival" a means of saving American civilization as we have known it.

If you will analyze the statements of these two individuals, you will find they represent an ideal philosophy of government.

THE PEACE RUMORS may all be German propaganda, but Hitler would not be averse to a negotiated peace while he can dictate the terms. He would undoubtedly be satisfied if allowed to keep what he has, with a few colonies thrown in for good measure.
