1942 AAA Farm Program

When final provisions of the 1942 AAA farm program are drafted, increased emphasis will be placed on conservation and soil-building work on individual farms.

Soil-building allowance rates, which will be the basis for determining maximum payments farmers may earn, have been announced through the Department of Agriculture. The rates will be substantially the same as in 1941.

Under the 1942 program, farmers may receive two kinds of payments with the rates for compliance and special crop allotments to be announced later. The two types of payment are: (1) a payment for carrying out approved soil-building practices, and (2) a payment for planting with special crop allotments such as wheat and cotton.

As in former years, conservation payments to be made under the 1942 farm program are contingent on the annual appropriation authorized by congress.

Instead of a total soil-depleting allotment for the farm, there may be substituted special crop allotments covering certain field grains in surplus areas. The state committee has not yet decided whether this would be necessary in Texas. Feed grains include oats, barley, rye, grain sorghums and corn.

A soil-building allowance is established for each farm on the basis of such factors as the farm's cropland and non-crop pastureland, and the participating farmer may earn his farm's allowance by carrying out approved practices.

Under the 1942 program, a farmer's allowance will be computed at either 70 cents per acre of cropland not included in special crop allotments for the farm in areas where feed grain allotments are not established, or 50 cents per acre of cropland not included in special crop allotments for the farm in areas where feed grain allotments are established. The 70-cent rate applies only to areas generally deficient in feed, while the 50-cent rate is available in surplus feed areas. The Texas AAA committee has not yet designated areas where the different rates of payment will apply.

The rates of non-crop pasture land will be the same as those under the 1941 program, and will vary by areas.

Included in the 1942 program will be the special allowance of $15 which farmers may earn by planting forest trees. This payment will be in addition to any other allowance which may be computed for the farm. The $20 minimum payment to a farm is also included in the 1942 program.

Liquidating 1938, 1939, and 1940 Cotton Loans

The Department of Agriculture has announced that Commodity Credit Corporation will allow producers until October 1, 1941 to repay outstanding loans and redeem cotton pledged under the 1938, 1939, and 1940 programs.

The Department has also announced that all this cotton not redeemed by October 1, 1941 will be placed in pools, as provided in the loan agreement, and sold in an orderly manner by Commodity Credit Corporation. Under this plan unredeemed loan cotton from each crop will be placed in a separate pool, with the producer retaining title to the cotton.

On final liquidation of all cotton in each pool, the net proceeds, if any, after deduction of all advances and accrued costs, including storage, insurance, and handling charges, will be distributed among producers whose cotton has been placed in the pool, in proportion to their interest. No payment will be made to the producers at the time the cotton is placed in the pool and individual producers will not be entitled to order the sale of the particular cotton which they placed in the pool. No sales of these pool stocks will be made prior to March 1, 1942.

1925 STUDY CLUB HAS ATTRACTIVE BOOK

One of the most attractive study club yearbooks, we have seen, was delivered to the Woman's 1925 Study Club here, by the Briscoe County News printers. The books are printed in green with white washable enamel covers, and bound with the latest binding, "Cerlox", which also carries out the green and white color scheme.

On the cover is the Goddess of Liberty, holding aloft a red flaming torch. This pictures the subject of the year's study program which is "Democracy's Goal—The Preservation of Human Values." The program for the year was worked out by Mrs. D. O. Bomar, Mrs. A. P. Dickenson and Mrs. Ernest Davis, who make up the Yearbook Committee. Officers of the Club for the coming year are: President — Mrs. O. T. Bundy First Vice — Mrs. Paul Rogers Second Vice — Mrs. T. R. Whiteside Recording Sec. — Mrs. R. G. #### INCH RAIN IN TWO DAYS

The Silverton rain gauge, which is operated, managed, and executed by Ray Bomar, recorded .98 inches of moisture here Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Wednesday morning showed .42, and Thursday showed .56, for a total of .98 inches.

Cotton and row crops were needing moisture badly too, and the rains were very welcome. Whatta country. A month ago we lost our wheat crop from too much rain, and already the cotton has suffered a little from being too dry. Whatta country!

Nadyne Waldrop spent Sunday night with Ozelma Fowler of Lesley.

LIONS CLUB TALKS OF TRADES DAY CAMPAIGN

Chief topic of discussion at the Wednesday Lions Club meeting was concerning a Trades Day in Silverton. Very few merchants were present, but several outside of the club had already expressed their willingness to take part in any workable plan. A committee of H. S. Sanders, Doc Minyard, Maurice Foust and Roy Hahn was appointed to meet, make definite plans and submit the plan to the merchants for approval.

Ray Cash really outdid himself in the description of activities at the Scout Camp at Post a few weeks ago. Silverton won second at this meeting in a contest for the appearance of the camp site. All in all the Lions had a very interesting and entertaining meeting, but were still down in attendance. Foust, head of the attendance committee, promised to work out plans for an attendance contest to begin as soon as possible, probably one in which the losing team will entertain the winners with a barbecue, banquet or something along that line.

If you are a member of the club, your attendance is needed badly. Whether or not you are cordially invited to meet with the club on any Wednesday noon. Your suggestions for any civic improvements will be appreciated.

SILVERTON FOLKS PICTURED IN WICHITA FALLS PAPER

Part of the 100 descendants of the L. H. Cooper family were pictured in the Wichita Falls paper last week. Two sons and six daughters of the pioneer couple were shown and in this family were Mrs. M. P. Stone, Mrs. Linnie Campbell, and Mrs. Lizzie Anderson of Silverton; and Mrs. Emma Waller of Lockney. Others were J. E. Cooper of Midlothian; Mrs. Carrie Arthur, of Hereford; Mrs. Willie Osborne, Dallas; and L. N. Cooper of Vandervoort, Arkansas.

The combined ages of this group was 623 years.

GARDEN CLUB HAS BIG JOB IN KEEPING CEMETERY

Because of the heavy rains this spring, causing more weeds and graves to cave in, the Garden Club has had an even harder job than usual in keeping the Silverton Cemetery in presentable shape. Something over two hundred dollars has been spent there by this group of women this spring. Of this about $100 went for labor in filling graves. Because of this additional expenditure, the ladies want folks to know where each dollar has come from, and where it went to. The statement, will be ready in a few days.

Silverton owes a vote of thanks to this club of ladies. They have had the cemetery as their project here for the past twelve years and are doing the work purely as a sentimental work for the community. They have given plays, sold quilts, given dinners, and many other such projects in raising the money to keep the Silverton Cemetery. In the past year they have fixed the meals for the Lions Club, and every cent of that has gone for their work—about $175 in all. They do the work because they know it should be done, and because it has been largely left up to them. It's been hard work, and the News wishes to publicly thank the ladies—and incidentally, a small donation now and then wouldn't hurt their feelings.

LOANS AVAILABLE

Loans for the production of winter wheat and other small grains are now available to farmers of Briscoe County.

Applications for these loans are being written by C. E. Anderson in his office in Basement of Court House, in Silverton.

These loans are administered by the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office F. Milam, Field Supervisor.

PHILLIPS TO DRILL DEPTH OF 6,500

Oil practically gushed from the streets of Silverton and from every farm in this community, following an announcement Wednesday by the Phillips Petroleum Company, that a wildcat test well would be sunk nine miles south of Silverton, with active work starting within a few days. In the notice of intention to drill, the depth was set at 6,500 feet.

The technical location of the well is 1980 feet from the east line and 660 feet from the north line of Section 6, Block B-4, AB & M Survey. That location is approximately nine miles south of Silverton and two miles south of the Lakeview Schoolhouse. The test will be made about a third of a mile west of the highway.

It is believed by many that major companies intend to test thoroughly the area between Lubbock and Pampa, and that eventually the fields will be connected, provided of course, that oil is in the ground. The Texas Company has been very active of late in seismographing, north and east of Silverton and on the JA Branch.

Next week will probably bring new developments in the drilling of the wildcat well, and it is possible that operations will be under way by then.

N. D. Bartlett, of the Amarillo News Staff, had the following announcement in Wednesday morning's Amarillo News:

By N. D. Bartlett

The Phillips Petroleum Company has filed with the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad Commission its intention to drill a 6,500-foot wildcat in Briscoe County.

Location is 1980 feet from the east line and 660 feet from the north line of Section 6, Block B-4, AB&M Survey. It is reported active operations will begin immediately.

This announcement may or may not be a reflection of the discovery in Lubbock County. Both blocks were assembled on highs worked out by geophysics. The Lubbock test should at least strengthen a belief in this form of exploratory work for that territory.

It is impossible to tell yet whether or not the Lubbock well will be a strong enough producer to open an oil pool. The lime formation in which the oil was found has been identified as the Clear Fork, the same formation that yields good production in the Tubs pool and the Wasson pool in Gaines County 60 miles to the southwest. In some places those pools it has reached a thickness of 700 feet of broken pay. The Lubbock well is only a little over 100 feet into it. The pipe was set on top of the pay at 4876 feet and the depth at noon Tuesday was 4,985 feet with contract depth 5,000 feet. The talk in Lubbock Tuesday was that it would be drilled until there was some change in the formation and that might be several hundred feet yet.

Importance Emphasized At the present depth the consensus in oil circles is that it is a light well but just what deeper drilling may do is still unknown. The importance of the well, whatever it finally makes, cannot be overestimated as it does prove beyond doubt that this particular pay formation does exist there and that it has oil saturation.

That there will be several other tests in the immediate vicinity is beyond question. It is reported there that at least one test will start within 30 days a little to the southwest of the present well.

Drilling in the Harrison test has been slow since deepening started. The rotary is using tubing as drill pipe with reverse circulation so that very little weight can be put on the bit. About 10 feet a tour was made.

One thing that was noticeable was the lack of excitement. It seems the day of big gusher wells has passed. Proration has taken most of the romance of the oil industry away. No more 10,000-barrel wells gushing oil all over the (Continued on back Page)

SUMMERY DESSERTS

Bring the tartness and sweetness of fruit into play with fresh, crumbly cake, top with a dash of whipped cream and you have summer's answer to a delectable dessert.

Cherries bright and red make a tart and colorful dessert which you'll enjoy serving. If using the fresh ones pit and sugar them before using.

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and salt, sift again. Work in shortening until mass resembles coarse meal.

Don't wash berries until ready to use them since damp berries mold very quickly. The best method for washing is doing a few at a time in a bowl, lifting them out into another bowl while the hands are used as a sieve.

ROY W. HAHN

WE NEED A shot in the arm — or maybe a boot someplace. This place in the past few weeks is showing a strong resemblance to a morgue. We lost a wheat crop, and by the way some of us act, that surely must be the only wheat crop that was ever planted, planned on, and lost. And you know that is wrong—this country has always been a next year country.

DO YOU KNOW that three weeks ago a man died right in front of the Post Office, and wasn't found till today? Did you know too, that the reason that we aren't giving you full details of the sordid affair, is because the news hound was too lazy to go find out about it maybe that isn't true, but it is an example of our town's public spirit in the past few weeks.

AND WOULD YOU believe it, it isn't the farmer himself that is doing all the graping, for it is the town boys. The farmers who really lost, are going ahead and planning for next year. A lot of us here in town are not planning at all—just standing around wringing our hands.

IT ISN'T EASY perhaps to grin and bear it, but if we don't get rid of this attitude of defeatism, there is going to be one newspaper for sale cheap. Also two dry good stores, two cafes, two drug stores, six stores, one hardware store, nine service stations, and other businesses too numerous to mention.

A COMMITTEE IS at work in trying to get a Trades Day started here. In fact it is going to happen I think. The best plan I've heard is for about six weeks at a stretch with a start of probably $20 each Saturday and building up to a larger amount during the last few weeks. I'll let you know how we come out on it. Most every merchant I've talked to believes that we need something right now to show folks that we still want to see their smiling faces in Silverton.

AND NOW FOR the oil talk. I won't say much about that either. All I know is that I have ordered four automatic job presses. When this oil rolls over the derrick those job presses will start to snapping. All I will have to do is to walk around among them, and take the money to the bank.

SERIOUSLY, I THINK we have good chances for oil. I saw a guy roll "seven" eight times in a row one time, so nothing is impossible.

AFTER CONSIDERABLE argument, discussion and what not for the past six months, the school board and the rural schools have gotten their heads together and reportedly have ironed out their troubles. That is mighty keen news. School board members here have really been putting in the night work and pencil work too. I give dirty digs now and then, but the school board itself, I believe, is working for us 100%. There is a rough tough row ahead, but this kind of cooperation will go a long way. I've even got a notion to pay my taxes.

ON SECOND THOUGHT, I guess I will wait till next week to do that. If I could get some co-operation from some guy with money, I'd cooperate by paying taxes. You can see that I am a co-operative soul.

More about a boyhood hero, William Jennings Bryan: Bryan's contribution to the cause of religion was immeasurable. He assailed Bob Ingersoll, the agnostic, for "the cold and cheerless doctrine, 'I do not know.'" And to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" Bryan made answer:

"Christ gave us proof of immortality—and yet it would hardly seem necessary that one should raise from the dead to prove that the grave is not the end. To every created thing, God has given a tongue that proclaims a future life.

"If He touches the cold and pulseless heart of the buried acorn and causes it to burst forth from its prison walls, will He leave neglected in the earth the soul of man made in the image of His Creator? If He deigns to stoop and whisper to the rosebush, whose withered blossoms float upon the autumn breeze, the sweet assurance of another springtime, will He refuse the words of hope and cheer to the sons of men when the frosts of winter come? If matter, mute and inanimate, though changed by the forces of nature into a multitude of forms, can never die, will the spirit of man suffer annihilation after it has paid a brief visit, like a royal guest, to this tenement of clay? No, I am as sure that I shall live again as I am that I live today. "When I was in Cairo, I secured a few grains of wheat that slumbered for more than 4000 years in an Egyptian tomb. I looked at them, this thought into my mind: If one of those grains of wheat had been sown on the bank of the Nile the day after it grew and all its descendants had been planted, replanted from that time on, its progeny would today be sufficiently numerous to feed teeming millions of the world.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Steel Placed Under Defense Priority; Government Moves to Check Inflation With Installment-Buying Regulations; Tension Grows in Far East Situation

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Wm. S. Knudsen (2nd from right) OPM director, finds himself in a sea of motors during his inspection of the Curtiss-Wright aircraft plant at Paterson, N. J. The OPM chief on the same day also visited the company's Caldwell, N. J., propeller plant where 300 machinists went out on strike on the day of his inspection.

STETTINIUS: Issuing Orders

The priorities director of the Office of Production Management, E. R. Stettinius Jr., moving rapidly to get the economic condition of the nation geared into the defense production machine, announced that all steel would be placed under full priority for defense.

Stettinius announced that there was a growing shortage in certain types of steel products, and said that his order covered not only steel but also certain alloys.

It means that the steel companies, already operating to capacity and with growing backlogs of orders, are forced to accept all defense orders in the future even if this means the shelving and deferring of non-defense orders.

The preference given defense orders applies not only to the army and navy, but also to British orders and those of the lend-lease program.

It goes into effect September 1, after which any order for steel will have to be accompanied by a special form which will set forth what purpose the steel is to be used for.

The priorities control over steel rolled the ball a little higher as far as governmental economic action was concerned. Already in August pig iron had been placed on the list, and the recent order concerning the manufacture of silk hosiery, and placing of the entire national output of silk at government and defense disposal sent women chasing pell-mell to department store counters.

Also the Stettinius office was ordering other goods out of production to conserve materials. How far-reaching this was could be noticed in the order outlawing "white-wall" automobile tires.

Stettinius' order stated that 8,000 tons of rubber per year could be saved in this way, and that quantities of zinc, in the form of zinc oxide, also went into the manufacture of these tires.

JAPAN: 'Crisis'

Increasingly "tough" measures against Japan by the British-American front were predicted by London as the crisis grew more acute in the Indo-Chinese area; with the Dutch East Indies, Malaya and the Philippines regarded as equally menaced.

The Japanese demand on Portugal for an air base at Delhi, town on the Portuguese half of the little-known Dutch-Portuguese island of Timor in the Malay archipelago, was the latest move of the Nipponese to raise tension in the South Pacific.

London stated that the granting of such a base would enable the Japanese planes to fly right over the center of the Dutch East Indies, and to throw a loop of military airplanes around the Philippines.

It did not make the tension any easier when it was learned that Nazi Germany was putting pressure on the Portuguese government asking air and submarine bases on Lisbon's colonial territories in return for a Nazi guarantee of Portuguese territorial integrity.

A German base in the Azores, London pointed out, would largely nullify the American aid to Britain on the Atlantic. Also a base on Portuguese territory in West Africa would do the British no good in the Mediterranean battle.

At the same time an article by Chen Chieh, former Chinese ambassador to Berlin, expressed the conviction that stiffer economic pressure on Japan by Britain and the United States might checkmate any of Nippon's demands.

Chief said that the entire Japanese southern Pacific campaign was the result of prodding by Germany, who had underestimated the courage of the United States, and while realizing the strength of the Chinese army, thought a bluff would close the Burma road.

BUYING: Curbing Installments

In an action designed to put a check on inflationary trends in the nation's defense boom, an executive order was issued by President Roosevelt which called on the Federal Reserve system's governors to regulate installment buying.

This order gave the Federal Reserve virtually complete control over consumer credits in the country and will become effective in about a month.

It was indicated by Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve board chairman, that the first steps in the regulation would not be to prohibit installment buying, but merely to control it. This meant that the board might put through an order regulating the size of the down payment to be made and the length of time allowed the consumer for repayment of the credit.

Eccles also said that initial regulation would be issued promptly following consultation with representatives of the trade and financial institutions affected.

DRAFT: Extension Fight

The passage by the senate of a bill providing for an 18-month extension of the terms of service of all men in the army and navy did not end the battle by any means, nor did it have the effect of quieting opposition in the house.

First intimation that this was so came from administration circles themselves, with the apparently authorized statement that any extension at all from the house would be acceptable.

When the bill went into the senate, the first goal of the administration leaders was for an unlimited extension. The opposition bloc countered with the Taft bill, calling for six months; later a vote was taken on a year, and the 18-month provision was finally passed, by a fairly strong, though lessened majority.

It was considered significant that on the eve of the first test of strength, house administration leaders were admitting that a "down the line" fight for the senate 18-month extension might risk a complete defeat for the bill.

BATTLE: Of Propaganda

The rival claims of Russians and Germans to successes on the east front continued to feature the war news to the despair of the reader and observer, and the beclouding of any clear understanding of the action.

Official London, usually ignoring such matters, warned the public to "take the German claims with reserve," but to realize that a serious and dangerous threat to the Black sea port of Odessa was shaping up.

That was one direction in which the Germans were claiming relatively little. They did claim the capture of an army general in the south, and thousands of prisoners, but most of the claims were in the territory closer to Kiev, Smolensk, and Leningrad.

Stories came out of Berlin with an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with conditions, however, one dispatch stating that the Russians, despite huge losses, were still hurling "millions" of fresh troops into the fray with no count of the cost.

BERLIN: Under 2 Fires

The German capital, since the Russian war started, was placed under two bomb fires, in fact, in recent attacks, people could not tell whether the bombing planes were coming from the east or the west.

Britain, relieved of much of the necessity of protecting her own cities, was hammering away day after day, night after night, when suddenly came reports from Berlin of bombings of the city and territory by Red planes.

In the lower left is a view of part of the construction work on the U. S. base site at the British island of Trinidad, where the government is spending millions to make more secure the approaches to the Panama canal. A 'Mixed' Artillery Battery in Britain

The present World war is an experimental ground for many things that "were never done before." Typical of the never-nevers was the fetish that men and women could not work or fight together in the same regiment. At an artillery practice camp in England these taboos are ousted. Left, we see men and women of the battery parading together, and on the right they are receiving gun instruction together. The test is successful.

For the first time since the World war, fighting photographers are being trained by the U. S. army. The photographers are taught to crawl up into the front lines and get pictures of real action. Here one of the front lines lies at Ft. Benning, Ga., leaps a trench, camera in hand. Behind him comes his assistant with film and other equipment.

Commissioner McDonald Attempts to Correct 'Inaccurate and Unjust Statements' Regarding Dominion Activities.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The breathless calm of a tropical Washington Sunday was disturbed by a unique gathering recently. It took place in the midst of the period of debate in the senate over the extension of military service for the emergency army. But it was a long way off from the Capitol, and the setting was in sharp contrast with the somewhat drab chamber where "the greatest deliberative body in the world" convenes.

We met, a little group of newsmen, in a stately room of marble pillars and ceiling-high mirrors, at the top of a wide staircase upon which looked down the ermined figures of royalty. Through the doors of the room itself, their majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth, had passed when they graced that famous garden party at the British embassy two years ago.

Some of us sat in the summer-covered furniture, some in gay lawn chairs brought in to take care of the added number of guests. There was ice-water, and cigarettes were offered. A smooth-faced, quick-spoken Briton, his majesty's high commissioner to Canada, Malcolm McDonald, faced us with a few sheets of memoranda before him.

He had come, he said, to dispel certain "inaccurate and unjust statements" concerning Canada's war efforts.

That, I felt, was only a part of his mission. I knew that many of the letters written to American congressmen by their constituents were protesting the extension of the military service period on the grounds that the United States, a nation at peace, was asking more of its citizens than Canada, a nation at war.

The commissioner spoke. The first misconception which he wished to correct, he said, was the frequent statement that there is no conscription in Canada, that her youth serve only a few months with the colors and are then returned to civilian life. This is not the case, he said, for every Canadian between 21 and 24 is subject to conscription for defense and for the duration of the war. After four months of intensive training these men are assigned to military service within Canada, thus relieving units of the regular army and navy and air force for service abroad.

The conscripts cannot, by law, be sent outside of Canada, MacDonald explained, but so many have volunteered for foreign service that conscription for this purpose is unnecessary. Canada has more men under arms today than she had at any time during the last war.

Forty per cent of Canada's national income is devoted to her war effort. That amount would be equivalent, MacDonald said, to $40,000,000,000 reckoned in terms of United States income. For the supplies she sends to Britain, Canada is not paid. The commissioner offered other detailed information, some of which was confidential.

Canada has not been drawn willingly into this war. It is true, as the British high commissioner said, that her present effort, in proportion to her population and wealth, is tremendous. But it was not until May that by orders in council, military service for the duration of the war was established. At first only 30 days of intensive training was required. But now, indefinite service is retroactive and all those boys who did their 30 days and were discharged are called back to the colors.

I could not help thinking of a line from Kipling as I sat there in the transplanted Queen Anne palace which is the British embassy and heard that very earnest Scotsman pleading the cause of Canada. The verse I thought of is from "Our Lady of the Snows" and Canada speaks: "Daughter am I in my mother's house but mistress in my own."

The British commissioner was not asking that the United States do for England what Canada is doing for her. But I could well imagine that he was talking over our heads to the men who would be in heated debate in the senate chamber the next day, deciding what the military duties of a citizen of the United States are to be.

Canada, daughter in her England's house, gives her own go of their own free will; she will not write into her law of overseas service. The will to peace, in spite of and threats, seems very strong in the hearts of the Western world.

THE STORY SO FAR:

King and Lew Gordon had built their great ranches. King was by his powerful and unscrupulous son, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, adopted son, was determined to his death in spite of the opposition of his sweetheart, Jody Gordon, and her father. Roper conducted a series of great raids upon Thorpe's vast herds, first in Texas, then in Montana. Jody was deeply shaken when Marquita, a saloon hostess, convincingly explained that Roper loved Marquita, and not her. Believing that her love was unrequited, old, without that sultry fire to back it up. "Well, that wasn't so."

"You mean—you mean to say—"
"Well," Marquita said, "he did not belong to me, not even for one minute, in all my life. How do you think you would like that, in my place?"

"But—at the Lasham camp you said—"
"I know I did. I would have got him if I could, in any way I could. I even came here because I knew he was coming here. But now I can just as well tell you it's hopeless, and I'm through. After all, I don't need to run after any man; not any more."

"You mean—you're willing to let him go—even if—"
"Let him go? I never had him." An odd edge of contempt came into Marquita's voice, but whether for Jody or herself was not plain. "Can't you get that through your head?" She turned toward the door impatiently.

Jody Gordon supposed that she ought to thank Marquita for having come here, for having made the confession which she had made, but she was confused, and the words would not come. Instead she said, "Do you know where he is? Is he well? Is he safe and all right?" Marquita's smile was mocking.

"You want me to find him and send him to you?"
"I think," Jody said, "he'll come."
"Okay," Marquita said, and she pulled open the door.

"I want to tell you something," Jody said. "I want to tell you I appreciate your letting me know—"
Marquita flashed a queer, hard smile; there was bitterness in it, more bitterness in her smile than in her words. "Keep your thanks to yourself." Then she was gone.

After a moment Jody heard the hoofs of a team, and the wheels of the carriage in which Marquita had come—and gone—slicing the deep mud.

Yet, Bill Roper did not come. When two days had passed a panic caught Jody Gordon, and she began to haunt the vicinity of Dusty King's cross. She believed that Roper would not leave the Ogallala country without visiting once more the grave of Dusty King.

But it was the evening of the fourth day, before Roper came.

CHAPTER XXVII

Sitting her quiet pony beside Dusty King's pile of stone, Jody Gordon saw Roper riding toward her when he was still a long way off. Roper was not alone. Beside him rode a little grasshopper figure in disreputable clothes which Jody recognized as that of Dry Camp Pierce. Somehow Dry Camp had managed to rejoin his chief when the others could not. It was typical of Dry Camp that he was riding beside Bill Roper now; would always be typical, so long as both of them should live.

The two riders hesitated at the five hundred yards. Roper said something to Dry Camp Pierce and after a moment or two Dry Camp turned his horse and went back. Bill Roper came on alone. Perhaps he feared this meeting more than anything he had ridden into yet—but she knew he would not turn.

It seemed to Jody Gordon that

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
A SYSTEM THAT CAN PROVIDE GREATER JOY OF LIVING

WHAT CHANGES BUT a few short years have wrought in our American methods of work and play and living.

A trip by auto from Chicago to Sturgeon Bay, Door county, Wisconsin, and return, demonstrated many of these changes, most of them as a result of the invention of the internal combustion engine.

Horses have disappeared from the countryside. Over a period of 10 days I saw but two on the road, and not more than a dozen in the barnyards and pastures. Horses have been replaced by the automobile and tractor as a means of transportation for the farm family and power for the cultivation and harvesting of farm crops.

My little trip was made during the height of the grain harvesting season but I saw only one threshing machine. They have been replaced by the tractor-drawn combine. The great stacks of straw that were formerly a part of each farm picture, marking the scene of threshing operations, are no more. The combine leaves it scattered over the field, to be plowed under and to help to some extent to enrich the soil for the production of another crop. A tractor, not the faithful old Dobbin of former years, supplied the motive power.

Automobiles, busses and trucks have replaced the lowly local passenger trains and way-freights of former years. Many of the towns through which I traveled were lake ports to which lake boats for the transportation of freight and passengers are no longer daily, semi-weekly or weekly visitors. All that is left of water transportation are the great ore, coal and grain carriers, the only evidence of which is a smoke line far out on the horizon.

The feed stores, livery stables and blacksmith shops have given place to the garage and gas station. The old ice house of the country home at which I was a visitor had given place to the electric refrigerator. The work of the farm and home was done by electric or motor-driven power. You but pushed a button for lights, instead of the filling and cleaning of lamps of yesteryear.

A visit to the market place is no longer a matter of a day's travel over rough dirt roads in a horse-drawn wagon, but is now made in a few minutes over concrete as smooth as a floor, with a few cents worth of gasoline in an automobile engine to supply the motive power.

America, city, town and farm, is on gas-driven wheels and the change has come about in an incredibly short period of time. The first automobile I ever saw was a crude machine, capable of some 12 miles an hour, when it would operate at all, displayed at the World's Columbian exposition in 1893. The first one I ever rode in was a single cylinder "gas buggy," with carriage wheels, a dashboard instead of a windshield, coal oil lamps, a crank, with which to start it if you could, and that was less than 40 years ago.

These represent but a small part of the progress America has made since the opening of the present century. They represent the rapid upward trend of the American standard of living made possible by the American system of free competition. It is a system that creates more opportunities for enjoyment of living, less work and decreasing hours of work, at higher wage standards, more jobs and an ever-decreasing cost of the pleasures and conveniences we enjoy. It is a system we cannot afford to sacrifice.

THE TAX COLLECTOR GETS YOU ALL RIGHT
YOU MAY NOT SEE the tax collector with a bill in his hand at the front door, but you may be sure he will sneak around the back and come in with the groceries.

He collects from every dollar you spend. He is represented in 53 different ways to a total of one cent on each loaf of bread you buy.

From each dollar you spend, he collects a fraction over 19 cents.

These are the "hidden" taxes our representatives in congress hope we will not know about or object to. With them is not included any item for which the tax collector directly presents you a bill. They do not cover the taxes you pay on your home, your farm, your personal property, the license for your automobile or your income taxes.

It does mean that for every hundred dollars you spent during 1940, you paid the tax collector more than $19.

You will pay much more of the same kind of taxes for many years of the future.

Your family owes a mortgage, its portion of the national debt, of more than $2,000, on which you must pay interest, and in addition, your share of the cost of operation of the local, state and national government.

JOBS
AN EVIDENCE of returning prosperity is the increasing number of graduating college students who are now going into jobs, instead of into the bread lines.

Speeders All

Speed has always been one of man's many obsessions. From the dawn of history man has raced against man; he has raced his horses against the steeds of other men; dogs against hare and deer. Then came balloon races, auto races, airplane races. These are all familiar to us. These pictures show unfamiliar races.

A real neck-and-neck race in Hollywood.

Croaker's Derby... This frog race was staged at the New York World's fair. The maids acted as jockeys by nudging the frogs.

Above: Cheetah and dog race. The dog has no chance of winning. The spotted cat can hit 70 miles per hour. Right: Two cheetahs match speed at a British course before the war.

countryside. No more get-rich-quick-over-night for even the small lease holder. The business has been so stabilized that the old-fashioned oil boom is about passed.

Heavy Lease Plays

There were a few oil men and brokers around the hotels but they were mostly from Midland or from the Permian Basin fields. They were intensely interested but not rushing hither and thither with maps under their arms, and asking the latest news from the new oil strike.

Probably the busiest broker in the city of Lubbock is Charlie Pierce, who admits that he sold a lease on the digging of the lower half of the canyon.

E. W. Sampson, Sid Richardson's right hand man, was there and was watching developments closely as were several other prominent West Texas oil men. The heaviest lease plays in the area have been made by the Stanolind Oil & Gas Company, the Skelly Oil Company and the Sinclair-Prairie. Stanolind has purchased approximately 20,000 acres, Skelly half that much and Sinclair-Prairie scattered acreage.

Big Field Looms

A trip through the Slaughter field, 35 miles west of Lubbock, is a revelation. A couple of years ago only a few scattered derricks were to be seen and they belonged to Sid Richardson, The Texas Company and the Honolulu Company. Now there are more than 500 producing wells and drilling wells in every direction you can look. Oil men say it is destined to be the largest oil field in the state.

As drilling progresses better and better wells seem to be found. Last week the best well in the field so far was brought in the Western States Oil Company. It is the No. 13 W. G. Frazier in section 9, Public School Land, Block X. It was bottomed at 4900 with the pay from 4680 to bottom. After treatment with 12,000 gallons of acid it flowed 513 in three and a half hours. It is in the southeast part of the pool. The Slaughter field is in Hockley, Cochran and Terry counties.

PLENTY COTTON STOCKING DESIGNS

More than 150 different cotton stocking designs now are available to the hosiery industry as a result of investigation by the Bureau of Home Economics at the Beltsville, Maryland, research center. Three years ago Congress appropriated funds to the Department of Agriculture for investigating the use of cotton for women's hosiery.

According to Dora R. Barnes, specialist in clothing for the A. and M. College Extension Service, the designs vary from cotton web mesh for evening wear to the plain knits in various weights for sports wear, and for around the house and garden. Several are in production and more will be soon. They are produced on a modern full-fashioned knitting machine and undergo severe laboratory and "field" tests for wearability, washability and appearance.

Surveys made in 1940 showed that 89 percent of the 16,200 full-fashioned knitting machines in the United States are suitable for knitting cotton as well as silk, while only 47 percent can handle nylon yarns. Last year, American women bought more than 43,000,000 dozen pairs of full-fashioned stockings. If these had been made from cotton, it is estimated that nearly 300,000 bales of long-staple fibre would have been required.
