SILVERTON FOOTBALL STARS MAKING THE GRADE

Silverton is well represented in colleges and large high schools with boys who once played here and who have gone on to bigger and better teams. Silverton is proud of the records being made by seven football boys, namely:

O. C. Rampley—graduated here in 1940. Is playing a regular guard position at W.T.S.T.C., and is rated by the Canyon coaches as one of their best. He has played every varsity game this year.

Hank Brown—graduated here in 1940. Is playing most of every game with the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys. He plays full back and against Texas Tech proved to be one of Hardin-Simmons best ground gainers and was undoubtedly the hardest tackler on the field.

Grady Martin—in his first year at S.M.U., Grady is going like a house afire. He is co-captain of the S. M. U. Colts, and is having little difficulty keeping up with college competition.

Datis Martin—Graduated here in 1937. Is now a regular at the Hillsboro Junior College. Has been giving a good account of himself there.

J. B. Smith—Graduated here in 1938 and is now at Hillsboro Junior College where he is a valuable man on their 1941 team. His ability as a passer and broken field runner is "putting him over".

In the Class AA, District 1, we find two more former Silverton boys who are among the best. Vance Burson who has been playing with Borger, now has the distinction of being high scorer in the district.

Hubert Bechtel is playing a regular end position for the Lubbock Westerners. Hubert left Silverton some four or five years ago, but is still counted here as a "Silverton boy."

BARNHILL GETS HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION JOB

J. E. Barnhill of Turkey, was low bidder on the Highway construction job which will be started within a very short time. Barnhill's bid was $120,750.00. This is for complete construction for 15.74 miles on Highway 86.

Roy Morris, John D. Baird, Mr. J. R. Watters, Woodrow Grimland and Lewis Gilkeyson returned last Thursday from a hunting trip in South and East Texas and a visit to Old Mexico.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

The members of the Senior English class gave a Thanksgiving dinner, Monday evening, November 24th at seven o'clock in the Home Economics Cottage. Center pieces for the tables were pumpkins, small ears of corn, red berries, and autumn leaves. Miss Lola Fern Foust played popular music throughout the dinner. A welcome to the guests was given by Velma Lois Young who acted as hostess. Joe Earl Deavenport gave the response for the guests. The delicious Thanksgiving dinner served consisted of lime cocktail, baked chicken and dressing, cranberry sauce, creamed potatoes, green string beans, buttered rolls, lime jello fruit salad, stuffed olives, pie a la mode, and coffee.

After the dinner, the following members and guests enjoyed seeing, Mary Martin in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye". Those present were: Velma Lois Young, Carl (Dude Boy) Dean Bomar, Freda Wimberly, Joe Earl Deavenport, Lola Fern Foust, Freddie Garrison, Evelyn Coffee, Curtis Wimberly, La Verne Young, D. J. Northcutt, Mildred Boswell, Clyde Mercer, Faye Gene Davis, Edgar Mills, Pat Bomar, Louie Bonds, Neta Bob Carter, Roy Montague, Charline Garrison, Wynona Lee, Lola Howard, Joe Montague, Betty Ann Hancock, and Elliott Lee.

MEET THE JUNIORS

The Junior Class is composed of thirty-five members. This class is very dependable and shows a splendid spirit of cooperation. They are very active in school affairs and do much to keep up the school spirit. We are proud to present the Junior Class.

The class officers are: president, Jean Northcutt; vice-president, Opal West; secretary-treasurer, Clyde Mercer; and sponsors, Miss Rampey and Mrs. Hays.

TOP ROW: Martin Bean, Winona Francis, Freddie Garrison, H. C. Peugh, D. J. Northcutt, and Billy McWilliams. SECOND ROW: Roy Montague, Joe Earl Deavenport, Clyde Mercer, Latrice Ellis, Bettye Hill, and Merriman Bingham. THIRD ROW: Jean Northcutt, Edna Mae Grimland, Millie Hill, Elsie Morris, Margaret Thomas, and Delma Dean Self. FOURTH ROW: Dorothy Roy McMurry, Lou Ann Williamson, Roland Bell, Freddie Garrison, Bonnie Lou Hays, and Opal West. FIFTH ROW: Jonnie Allard, Travis McMinn, Imogene Strange, Vurlyn Hodges, Betty Jo Howlett, and Ruby West.

Other members of the class are Fay Tice Bomar, Troy Brooks, Theo Chitty, Loyd Jackson, Floyd Jackson, and Wylie D. Nance.

PALACE THEATRE ADDS ANOTHER SHOW

The Palace Theatre announces this week that until further notice, there will be another, show date added to the week's program—Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Friday and Saturday of this week finds a high class Western, "Ridin' on a Rainbow", starring that old master of cowboy melodies, Gene Autry. A good comedy and another episode of the Jungle Girl will also be shown.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday brings one that you'll really want to see—"The Shepherd of the Hills" taken from the book by Harold Bell Wright. The stars are John Wayne, Betty Field and Harry Carey. This show has been one of the most popular screened this year.

Clark Gable and Roslind Russell take the leading roles in the Wednesday and Thursday picture, "They Met in Bombay". From all press releases this show is a WOW and has plenty of everything. Remember this picture is showing on the new dates of Wednesday and Thursday.

MR. AND MRS. WATSON DOUGLAS HAVE A DINNER

The old saying goes something like this—"Thanksgiving comes but once a year." Now when it comes twice a year, some of us find ourselves on the fence, so to speak, and feel that to be perfectly fair and square we really should celebrate both dates.

At any rate, a number of Lions and wives were Thankful on the first occasion when they had Thanksgiving dinner at the Douglas Whiteley Hotel and after partaking of "Turkey and everything good to eat". Several visited the oil well while there.

THANKS

We take this method to thank each of you who have been so kind and thoughtful, during the illness and passing of our dear sweet mother for your many deeds of kindness and love, and your words of sympathy. It's friends like you and mothers like her that makes this life worthwhile.

May the Lord bless you and keep you is our prayer. The Francis Family

Bernard Havran was brought home last week from Lubbock where he has been in the hospital for three weeks with pneumonia. Mrs. Sam Brown returned home Wednesday from Fort Worth where she has been at the bedside of her husband.

STRICKLAND — NANCE

Miss Durene Strickland of this city and Corporal Hugh Nance of Camp Bowie, Brownwood were united in marriage Monday November 24. The ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Revis at Plainview, Texas.

The bride wore a lovely dress of soldier blue with brown accessories. She is the charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Strickland and a member of the 1941 graduating class of Silverton High School.

Hugh Nance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Nance of Lone Star and a graduate of Lockney High School in 1936. He has been in the Army service for the past nine months stationed at Camp Bowie, Brownwood and has recently been advanced to corporal.

The young couple will make their home in Brownwood. The Briscoe County News joins their many friends in wishing them much success and happiness.

TRUETT G. CRAFT IS NEW METHODIST MINISTER

Rev. Truett G. Craft has taken up his duties here as the new minister of the Methodist Church. He comes here from Van Alstyne, Texas where he has served as pastor for the past three years. With him, from his former pastorate comes reports that he is a fine speaker and leader and one that our community can well be proud of.

Frank Beauchamp, who has been the local pastor for the past two years, has gone to Abernathy to take charge there.

Rev. Craft is a friendly sort of fellow, and says that he will appreciate it very much if folks here will help him remember their names that he may become acquainted as quickly as possible. No immediate change is made in the church program and a cordial invitation is given to "come out and meet the new preacher."

PLAINS COTTON IS COMING IN FAST NOW

After a very slow start because of late cotton and bad weather the Silverton Gin is running far in the night, and Tuesday night had ginned 261 bales. The warm weather the past two weeks have whitened the fields and pickers are busy everywhere. It is estimated that there will probably be 1500 bales ginned at the local gin from the 1941 crop.

CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:34, 35; I Corinthians 13:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT—We love him, because he first loved us.—1 John 4:19.

Many important things enlist the interest of the Christian, but we need to beware lest we neglect what Jesus declared to be the first and great commandment...

I. Love—A Mark of Discipleship (John 13:34, 35).

Do you want to know whether a man is a Christian? Find out whether he loves his brethren...

1. Commanded. It is the will and purpose of God that the followers of Christ should have a real love for one another...

2. Exemplified. God has loved us. He does love us. How infinitely much is wrapped up in these simple words!

3. Essential. (vv. 1-3). Life has many excellent gifts and men quite properly seek after them...

4. Effective. (vv. 4-7). Does love really work, or is this just a fine sounding but obsolete theory?

5. Eternal. (vv. 8, 12). Many gifts are only temporary in their usefulness...

6. Dependence on God. Poverty in any shape helps to still in man a sense of need...

7. Death Becomes Transparent. And so the empty tomb becomes the symbol of a thoroughfare...

Household Hints by Lynn Chambers

Meet the Pot Roast—Juicy and Tender (See Recipes Below.)

Savory Meals

Pep up the personality of your meals by serving meats more often as the weather becomes frost-nipped and colder...

Meat is honest and straightforward both in flavor and purpose. Its abundance of vitamins and minerals really come through and give you sustaining energy...

First is protein and meat's proteins are complete. They help to build or repair body tissues which you wear down every day...

As for vitamins, meat is an important source of four: vitamin A, the resistance and growth vitamin; thiamin (vitamin B1) which helps the body translate sugars and starches into energy...

Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Brown in hot fat and add one or two small onions sliced to meat while it is browning...

Whenever possible serve the vegetables with the meat, as browned potatoes, whole carrots, browned onions...

Spinach, chopped, seasoned and mixed with white sauce can be made into nests or mounds and served around meat.

Baby beets may be scooped and filled with green peas served around the meat or on a platter by themselves.

Ham can be scored in circles for a change by using a small cookie cutter and a maraschino cherry placed in each circle...

Slices of orange topped with a smaller slice of jelly is excellent for meat platters.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Pot Roast Carrots, Browned Potatoes, Apple, Celery, Raisin Salad, Bread and Butter Beverage, Baked Custard, Strawberry Jam, Sugar Cookies. *Recipe given

Veal is tender and delicate and deserves careful cooking. Braised Veal Cutlets. (Serves 6)

2 pounds veal steak, cut in 6 pieces 1 egg Cornflake crumbs 1 small onion, chopped Salt and pepper 4 tablespoons lard 1 No. 2 1/2 can of tomatoes

Dip pieces of meat into the egg and cornflake crumbs which have been seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown in hot lard on both sides...

Variation: Make as above omitting tomatoes and onion. Add 1 cup of sour cream after meat is browned and cook for 1 hour. Thick in the sour cream gravy with flour and water and serve.

A cut which you may not have used is lamb shanks, but I assure you they are simply delicious when braised. They'll be a good food dollar stretcher for you this season:

Braised Lamb Shanks. (Serves 6) 6 lamb shanks 2 tablespoons lard Salt and pepper 1 cup celery 1 cup carrots, cut fine, if desired 1 cup green beans, cut fine, if desired

Brown the lamb shanks in hot lard. Season with salt and pepper. If you're using vegetables, place them in the bottom of the casserole and add a small amount of water. Put in the lamb shanks. Cover and cook in a slow oven (300 degrees) 2 hours.

Kidneys are right up there among the top-notchers as a source for riboflavin, preventer of nervous digestive diseases. They're good broiled with bacon and good also in this delicious savory loaf:

Kidney Loaf. (Serves 6) 1 pound of beef kidney 1 cup milk 8 slices bread 3/4 cup bacon drippings 3 slices bacon 1 small can pimientos Salt and pepper 3 tablespoons grated onion 1/2 teaspoon powdered sage, if desired

Wash kidney in cold water. Drain well and grind, using internal fat. Pour milk over bread and soak. Combine all ingredients except bacon and mix thoroughly. Line bottom of pan with uncooked slices of bacon, add meat mixture and pack firmly. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

What could be better than spareribs with barbecue sauce as a tasty meat dish on a cold night? Bake the spareribs brown and crispy and brush them with the sauce for a dish you'll long remember and enjoy looking at:

Barbecued Spareribs. (Serves 6) 5 pounds spareribs Brown spareribs under broiler. Cover with the following sauce and bake about 2 hours in a covered pan in a slow (325 degrees) oven.

Barbecue Sauce. 1 small onion chopped 2 tablespoons lard 2 tablespoons vinegar 2 tablespoons brown sugar 3 tablespoons lemon juice 3/4 cup catsup 3/4 cup water Salt and pepper 1 teaspoon paprika Dash of ground cloves and cinnamon

Brown onion in lard and add remaining ingredients. Brush over spareribs. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Historic Operation

VIRGINIA is famous as the "Mother-of-Presidents," as the state which gave America some of her greatest soldiers and explorers as well as statesmen. But on November 11 this year she can take note of the fact that it was just 140 years ago that she gave to the nation a man who was destined to make medical history and whose name future generations of suffering Americans were to call blessed. For he was Ephraim McDowell.

McDowell was born in Rockbridge county November 11, 1771. At the age of 12 he was taken by his father to the frontier town of Danville in Kentucky. After a brief term in a Virginia seminary young McDowell began the study of medicine in a doctor's office in Staunton. Then he went to Scotland but returned to America after two years' study in the University of Edinburgh.

In 1795 he returned to Danville to begin practice. Within 10 years McDowell had become the best-known surgeon on the Kentucky frontier and whenever one of the settlers needed an operation that was beyond the skill of local doctors, word was sent to Danville. Then McDowell hastily crammed his drugs and his instruments into his saddle bags and set out along wilderness trails to the aid of the sufferer.

In 1809 he was called upon to make such a call and the operation which he performed at that time is the one which made surgical history. The call came from the log cabin of Mrs. Jane Todd Crawford, near Greensburg, 60 miles from Danville. In a letter which McDowell wrote to Robert Thompson, a medical student in Philadelphia years later, he gave this account of that operation:

"I was sent for in 1809 to deliver a Mrs. Crawford, living near Greensburg, of twins, as the two attending physicians supposed. Upon examination, I soon ascertained that she was not pregnant, but had a large tumor in the abdomen which moved easily from side to side. I told the lady I could do her no good and candidly stated to her her deplorable situation; informed her that John Bell, Hunter, Hey and A. Wood, four of the first and most eminent surgeons in England and Scotland, had uniformly declared in their lectures that such was the temper of the peritoneal inflammation that opening the abdomen to extract the tumor was inevitable death. But, notwithstanding this, if she thought herself prepared to die, I would take the lump from her, if she would come to Danville. She came in a few days after my return home, and in six days I opened her side and extracted one of the ovaria. She was perfectly well in 25 days."

The doctor's laconic version of the historic incident leaves out all of the drama. For there was drama in it—the story of how word that McDowell was going to perform an operation which was almost certain to be fatal spread through the town, how one of the preachers devoted a sermon to the proposed "murder," how his fellow-townsmen threatened to lynch him if the operation failed, and how his nephew and partner, Dr. James McDowell, tried to dissuade him from going on with it.

Then there is the story of how he decided to operate on Christmas day when the prayers of all the world would help create a favorable atmosphere for the attempt; how Mrs. Crawford tried to forget the agony of the operation, performed without anesthetics, by singing hymns; how the mob outside the doctor's cabin, hearing her anguished voice, tried to break in the door and stop the operation and how, finally, when they were told that the operation was successful and the patient still lived, their anger turned to admiration for the heroic doctor and his equally heroic patient and "the air was riven by a cheer."

Mrs. Crawford lived for 33 years after the operation. Later she migrated to Indiana and is buried near Graysville. But today in McDowell park in Danville a monument, erected by the Kentucky Medical Society and its women's auxiliary, stands near the towering shaft which was erected to the memory of her doctor by the Kentucky Medical Society in 1879. The modern highway, bordered with dogwood, between Danville and Greensburg, called the Jane Todd Crawford Memorial Trail also honors this pioneer heroine.

LaGuardia, Penniless, Came to the Right Place

A few years back, Fiorello LaGuardia, New York's peppery mayor, was addressing a group of Salvation Army workers before a large audience. The mayor gave a long and fiery speech in praise of the organization. At the finish, the plate was passed. When it came to LaGuardia, he reached into his pocket for money. A blank look came into his face when he could not find any. He fumbled desperately in all pockets. Sensing his predicament, the commissioner of the Army said in a loud voice: "That's all right, the Salvation Army is the right place to come to when a man hasn't a nickel!"

Self Esteem

A man is valued according to his own estimate of himself.—Turkish Proverb.

Best for Juice and Every use!

More "health" per glass in California juice. The deeper color and more delicious flavor of California orange juice come from extra vitamins.

Science proves this means more vitamins C and A, and calcium in every glass! Seedless Navel oranges are easy to peel, slice and section for recipes, lunchboxes and all-round eating. Those stamped "Sunkist" are the finest from 14,000 cooperating growers.

Wise and Otherwise

THRIFT is so often the practice of pinching pennies so that someone else in the family can squander the dollars.

If every man were taken at his own valuation, there wouldn't be half enough halos to go around.

The simplest and most ordinary things are often the most difficult to grasp, says a writer. Such as the soap in the bath.

The more you gad about, the less chance there is of your being home when opportunity knocks at your door.

So many of the people who flatter themselves that they are dreamers are merely sleepers.

WEALTH'S SECRET

The secret of wealth lies in the letters S.A.V.E.—Greek Proverb.

SEEDLESS Sunkist California Navel Oranges

RED BALL ORANGES packed by Sunkist growers are a dependable brand of juicy, rich-flavored California oranges. Look for the trademark on skin or wrap.

WEALTH'S SECRET The secret of wealth lies in the letters S.A.V.E.—Greek Proverb.

YOU ARE AN INFLUENTIAL PERSON The merchant who advertises must treat you better than the merchant who does not. He must treat you as though you were the most influential person in town. As a matter of cold fact you are. You hold the destiny of his business in your hands. He knows it. He shows it. And you benefit by good service, by courteous treatment, by good value—and by lower prices.

YOUR TRUE?

TODAY IS THANKSGIVING
Day. I believe that I have more friends right now and fewer folks here at me than I did a year ago. Is that something? I'm making a lot less dough, but then I have a lot more things paid for. I was going to make a million dollars in the newspaper business and right now all I lack on the $1,000,000 is the 1. Yes I am thankful this year.

DON'T FORGET TO subscribe during Bargain Days. I don't know of but one fellow who has announced that he won't renew—and "bless god" you know I don't give a darn. A bird who balks at that extra two bits in times like this, wouldn't appreciate the No. 1, Grade A English I use in here anyway.

ADD THIS TO your unique descriptions of accurate reports: I asked Carl Crow for what he thought would be a fairly accurate figure on the cotton they would gin this year. "Any number between 261 and the number we are on when we quit" — Boy is that intelligence?

THEN COMES MRS. Bruce Womack telling one on the boss. (That's H. Roy, the guy who spent four months building a sheep barn). H. Roy is about the losingest guy you ever saw—everything from his pipe to his glasses. So the other day Mrs. Womack tied his glasses to his vest with a real strong cord. That night he could not get them untied, and embarrassed Mrs. Brown very much when he decided to read awhile in bed, and had to go to bed with his vest on over his pajamas.

He's up and around now though and should be able to be down town in a few days. Barb is about well too. I never know how much I love that gal until I get to washing dishes. Boy I bet if the ones I've washed in the past two weeks were placed side by side, they'd reach to Dallas.

WE HAVE AN EDUCATED pup at the house though, that is a big help. He got up on the table the other day after dinner and when I came out there was nothing to do but set them in the cupboard.

JACK AND I just went over to the Magnolia Station to the Convention of Lonely Hearts. It was in charge of Doc Brown and Spence Long. They were holding kangaroo court over the body of Orville Turner, charging him with violating one of the rules of the society. Seems as though Big'un pinned the picture of one of the school ma'ams on his lapel and has been calling at the Cowart house.

The WMS of the First Baptist Church entertained the Elderly ladies of the surrounding communities and the city Monday.

Mrs. Jesse Leverett assisted the president of WMS, Mesdames Stodghill, Wheelock and Thompson to receive the guests.

Each guest was asked to register their birth month and age. Miss Charlie Allard presided over the registration book.

The program was carried out with Thanksgiving motif and was opened by a number of favorite songs. Welcome address, Mrs. Hugh Stodghill; Response, Mother Allday; Prayer, Mrs. Jeff Simpson; "Mother Machree" a song by Patricia Bomar; "Silver Threads Among the Gold" a trio sang by Jean Northcutt, Lou Ann Williamson and Dorothy Roy McMurry. "Boundless Love" a reading given by Mrs. John Arnold; "Beautiful Dreamer" a solo, by Clynell Hutsell; "Growing Old", a reading by Charlie Allard. "Somebody Needs Just You", solo by Mrs. Florence Fogerson. "Home Sweet Home", variation by Mother Arnold.

Mrs. M. P. Stone then was presented with a lovely gift as an honor for being the oldest lady to register.

A lovely plate lunch was served consisting of Pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, cheese, sandwiches and spice tea. The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out and plate favors were Fushis bulbs.

Thanksgiving

"Our Deepest, Most Heartfelt Thanks,
Oh Lord, for the Blessings of Life,
Liberty, and Material Well-Being, and for the Joys of Family, Friends, Happiness"

PRAYERS such as that are being offered all over the nation today, just as they were when that first little group of grateful colonists offered theirs in celebration of the first harvest in their new land. Hundreds of harvests, hundreds of Thanksgivings have passed since then. As a nation, at each of these Thanksgiving observances, we have had much to be thankful for; each of them saw our country a little further down the road of history, a land growing in power, in area, in wealth . . . and, most of all, in the happiness and well being of a free people.

TODAY, Thanksgiving, 1941, we see our country engaged in a tremendous effort that is testing all of our capacities for ingenuity, for skill, for courage and patience. We can be Thankful—and with confidence in the future—that the past has proven our ability to meet problems and to solve them, and that while our present position is a new one in history, it is not without precedent in kind and most certainly will yield to solution by the combined efforts of a people made incredibly strong by the blessings of nature and three centuries of freedom.

As individuals, as a nation, as a people under God, we have much to be thankful for on this Thanksgiving Day. Let each of us individually, or as family groups, offer our thanks as we sit down to that bountiful feast that is the outward sign of our gratitude.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Strike Situation and Japanese Crisis Prove Nation's Toughest Problems; Winter Closes In on Eastern Front As Russia Reports Taking Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

STRIKES:

At Showdown

Congressional passage of the Neutrality act changes was a victory for the administration in that President Roosevelt stood his ground on his labor position, declining to meet a growing demand for legislation outlawing strikes, and laws setting a ceiling on wages.

Yet the narrow margin in the house (20 votes) also was considered a severe rebuke to the President for his attitude, and there were signs in the press and in congress that legislators and editors were getting ready to kick over the traces.

Crucial situations had faced the President both over the strikes in captive coal mines owned by steel companies, largely occupied in defense work, and in the threatened railroad strike.

There had been little evidence that the White House was getting anywhere in either struggle, though the President had made manifold efforts to dissuade John L. Lewis and his U.M.W. from going overboard.

It was this situation more than any other which had caused the defection of many administration sup-

KURUSU:

Last Try?

Most observers of the situation in the Pacific believed that with the arrival of Saburo Kuruusu in Washington the last stage of the difficult effort of Japan and the United States to avoid war had been reached.

During his plane trip to this country there had been little of encouraging press comment, and the state department had again and again repeated its gloomy outlook.

Officials of the cabinet, particularly Secretary Knox of the Navy, had expressed this same view of depression over any chance of a peaceful settlement.

Still Kuruusu had arrived, had been greeted with smiles by American diplomats, and the conversations were on.

Basic difficulty of solving an equation where Japan was at war with China and both Britain and America had declared this war an act of aggression and had been giving and promising aid to China was openly apparent.

Japan was urging the United States:

"Leave us alone in China!"

"The United States was demanding of Japan:

"You let China alone!"

These points were poles apart.

ARK ROYAL: Finally Sunk

Most famous of the British aircraft carriers, Ark Royal, sunk several times according to Berlin dispatches, finally has been sent to the bottom, and it was London, not Berlin, which announced it.

It sank 25 miles off Gibraltar, while in tow of other warships after a U-boat had torn a terrific hole in her side. Pumps were unavailing to repair the damage, and practically all of the 1,600 aboard her had been removed save just enough men to handle the towing lines.

Finally, when she was nearing shallow water at last, she suddenly turned over on her side like a "tired child" and went to the bottom. Only one man of her crew was reported lost.

It was regarded as probable that many of her planes had been able to fly ashore and make port. Thus went to the bottom of the Mediterranean the third aircraft carrier Britain had lost, the largest and newest, launched in 1938, of 22,000 tons.

TURKEY: An Offer

Axis sources were reported to have made Turkey an offer of Thrace as a last inducement to get the Turks to join the triple alliance.

The sudden interest in Turkey on the part of Germany, as borne out in reports from both Berlin and Bern was rather a puzzle to some, while others saw in it the possibility that Germany might, now that she was somewhat bogged down in Russia, be seeking a Turkish route to Russian oil wells.

Three possibilities were seen—that Turkey had already decided to throw in with the Axis—that increased pressure would be brought to bear on Turkey (in line with Bern's view of the situation) and third, that Germany might be satisfied to have Turkey neutral and aloof but fearing that American and British pressure from the south might turn her from her neutral course to a pro-British stand.

LIFE:

A picture of what life was like in Serbia following the collapse of resistance against the southward plunge of the Nazi war machine was painted by the refugee Yugoslav government.

Reports reaching it were that about 8,100 hostages, including intellectuals, priests and students, had been executed in three villages. The executions had been maintained, said Premier General Simovic, had been carried out at the rate of 100 to 1, in retaliation.

porters during the Neutrality act voting.

The "closed shop" issue in the mine strike, never very popular in circles not closely allied with labor unions, caused the outburst of anti-strike feeling to be particularly severe.

RUSSIANS: On Warpath

Long on the defensive, and having lost many thousands of square miles of territory, Russia had assumed the offensive all along the vast front. Moscow was reporting considerable success against the Nazis, and reported that the Germans had been suffering from frostbite, that they were exhausted and discouraged, but admitted that back of the front there were evidences that another offensive was being formed.

Those who believed Hitler would order any withdrawal because of the weather were having to revise their opinions. The Russian drive against the Germans was meeting with the same rugged resistance the Reds themselves had offered against the Nazis.

Successes were reported in the far north, where Kuibyshev dispatches declared 20 German transports had been sunk in what was to have been a major invasion attempt in the Murmansk sector.

Also 2,500 Italians had been reported "eliminated" in the Crimean sector, and victories also were claimed by Russia in the Donets basin area.

The Finns were being hurled back in front of Leningrad, and the general Russian tone was one of confidence, yet watchfulness, the latter being stressed because Red headquarters figured the Germans still had at least one more huge attack up their sleeves.

VICHY: To Join Hitler

Hardly unexpected at this time, and with the hostage-shooting matter being what it was, had come the report that Vichy was planning to "go the whole hog" and throw in with Hitler's "new order."

It had been known for a long time where the sympathies of Darlan and Laval had been, but Petain was supposed to have been more or less on the fence.

History one day might recount, observers felt, that there was some strange and mysterious connection between the fatal plane crash which killed General Huntziger and the decision to join the Axis.

Huntziger, minister of war, had just been to Africa, presumably conferring with Mystery Man Weygand and was on his way back home to a momentous meeting of the government when his plane fell and he was killed.

Many wondered what bearing this would have on the situation in Nazi-Vichy relations.

Our Sky Fighters in the Pacific

S. navy aircraft carrier in the Pacific gives the "go" sign to a fighter plane (at right) about to take off from the flight deck. Men are stacking giant aerial bombs near a bomber base, whence Nazi planes go out to blast Russian positions. Above: Long lines of Russian war prisoners, carrying their worldly possessions in a sack, are being marched to an internment camp somewhere on the eastern front by the Nazi army.

Coal for Strike-Bound Yale

Picket at gates of powerhouse of Yale university, New Haven, Conn., moves aside when truckload of coal arrives for the strike-bound university. Maintenance employees at the university struck an hour before the state board of mediation was scheduled to meet with the C.I.O. to discuss settlement of union shop dispute. Inset: Phillip Murray, C.I.O. president who, on the same day resigned from the national federal mediation board because of an opinion rendered on "captive" coal mines of the bituminous coal industry.

'Plaything'

The German caption says that these are Russian children playing about the remains of a Red Army bombing plane, shot down somewhere in occupied territory. The red star, Soviet insignia, may be seen on the fuselage. What strange "playthings" war has brought to children!

Price Control Problems Enliven Inflation Threat

Three Distinct Groups Hold Up Definite Action; U. S. Farm 'Bloc' Is Often Confused With Farmer's Organizations.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

There are three distinct groups in Washington all pulling in different directions at price control legislation.

There is a group which believes with Bernard Baruch that a ceiling must be put on all prices and wages. There is a group, represented by Leon Henderson, price control administrator, which believes that only those prices which show signs of getting out of hand should be controlled. There is a third group in congress which simply refuses to take any action. These latter are the ones who are responsible for delaying consideration of the present bill which is widely criticized by many in all three groups.

The result of these conflicting groups is a growing fear that inflation which cannot be checked will be upon us before we know it.

For a while it was thought that the administration might follow Canada's plan of price control which is soon to be put into effect. First, Canada tried a piece-meal method, similar in some respects to Mr. Henderson's ideas. Then, inasmuch as this did not work satisfactorily, "ceilings" on both prices and wages were written into a new plan which more nearly resembles that supported by Mr. Baruch's followers.

Details of Britain's price control policy were recently reported by officials here and they reveal some interesting theories of particular interest now. This policy may explain why it is being said that some people in Washington believe "a little inflation is a good thing."

In spite of the dire warnings as to what will happen, if price rises are not checked immediately.

British 'Bidding' System

The British, it seems, have come to the conclusion that freezing prices and wages and profits just do not go hand-in-hand with a maximum war effort in a democracy. They say frankly, "You have to bid for a maximum war effort."

In other words, you have to permit the workman to get bigger wages, you have to give the farmer higher prices, you have to offer industry a bigger profit, if you expect a maximum effort in the machine shop, in the field and in the orchard, behind the desk. Therefore, you have to follow a certain amount of elasticity in prices and wages and that means a certain amount of inflation.

Equally frankly the British have evolved this maxim: Building morale is just as important as checking inflation. You can give the workman certain social advantages to improve his morale, you can remove some of the business man's restrictions—but you must also bid for their services with something more material—money.

When full war production is fully achieved, when every human unit and every piece of material which is not actually needed for the minimum non-defense production is at last being utilized in the war effort, then prices can be frozen, the British believe, and not before.

It is perhaps this philosophy which some of the administration leaders will be adopted by congress—if it is not too late by the time congress makes up its mind to act.

'Farm Bloc' And Inflation

In the next few weeks you are going to hear some unpleasant things about the farmer. He is going to be blamed, whether justly or not, for encouraging inflation by refusing to allow farm prices to be curbed sufficiently to hold off inflation. In this connection you are going to hear the term "farm bloc" applied to all the interests working rightly or wrongly for the farmer.

This inclusive use of the phrase is incorrect. A bloc, according to the dictionary, is:

"Bloc, (French, bloc or lump) 1. Politics (a) in European countries, especially in France and Italy (this was before Mussolini and Petain, of course) a combination of two or more groups or parties willing to make common cause for some definite object. (b) In the United States, a combination of members of different parties for a similar purpose, especially in congress; as the agricultural or farm bloc, a bloc in the United States congress formed in 1921 by members of agricultural states, to secure agricultural legislation, irrespective of party lines."

By the definition, a bloc composed of members of congress many people when they word include the farm organizations which maintain their Washington. The Grange, Bureau Federation and the Farmers Union. Like the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor, the agricultural organizations are pressure groups if you will.

'Bloc' and Politics

There is a reason why can, and sometimes is, to be an evil force than the bloc. The bloc composed of politicians who must have their political opponents. They will promise to vote for legislation and even vote for it is brought up. But their real purpose is not to pass a law but to promise it and work for it themselves are elected.

The need for the farm organizations did not appear at the beginning of the nation. When ratification in congress was on a geographical basis the agricultural nation. Each for a unit which to a large extent represented a cross-section of the nation's economic activity as a whole.

Then conditions changed and industrial centers whose problems were entirely different from the economic of the farmer. At first this was rebellion—small revolts of the farmer. The Whiskey, Shays' rebellion, after force to obtain recognition of rights of special groups. The farm organizations came being. At first their chief was to obtain public school and cultural education.

This movement was the beginning of the department of agriculture and the agricultural institutions. These organizations began to move and more time to protect the farmer's interests by state and federal legislation benefit.

Of course, some of the methods these groups can be anti-ethical. We frequently hear more than about the honest and sometimes not until much has been done. That is why Weygand says that "we must operate tolerantly, and all openly and frankly, not in stealth and concealment."

Carrying the Mail!

A navy mail clerk on a trip to local post office to pick up mail officers and men serving on his ship. It is in this manner that officers and men on shore obtain mail from families, sweethearts and friends as well as from official sources. The crossed quills and three stripes rating badge above this sailor's uniform indicate that he is a Yeoman, class, while the service stripes on his sleeve indicate that he has served "thick" or a total of over 16 years in the navy.

BRIEFS . . . By Baukhage

When "The G-String Murder" by Gypsy Rose Lee was received at the Library of Congress one of the women attendants catalogued it under "Music."

In six years of work by an average of more than 2,000,000 persons, WPA accomplishments include 30,000 new public buildings and 600,000 miles of road construction and improvement.

Plans and specifications for chapels built by the war department for the army have been so detailed as to provide buildings suitable as by Protestant, Catholic and alike, and all chapels built by government funds may be so planned.

An application received by FCC for a new broadcast station lists among the applicant's 100 barrels of three-year-old whiskey.

Honeymoon

By JOSEPH McCORD

W.N.U. Service

INSTALLMENT FOURTEEN

signed a contract providing that Jacqueline may continue her present mode of living for six months, after which she could tear up the contract. Larry offered no explanation when she warned that a detective was watching him.

that fellow Cutter we were talking about one day?"

"Oh, yes."
"Well, early this afternoon I wandered into the bar here. I had another guy on my mind, another racket entirely. I was sizing up the mob along the mahogany when somebody taps me on the shoulder. It was young Cutter."

"Was it?"

"No less. He gives me a pleasant smile. 'Looking for me, were you?' he asks. I tried to act dumber than usual and tells him he's got the wrong number. I don't know him. 'Says you,' he laughs. 'You been tagging after me pretty steady, Lieutenant. So I thought maybe I could save you some trouble. I'm pulling out today for good. You might pass the word along anywhere it'll do you some good.' Cool, wasn't he?"

"Very."

"And all the time, I thought I was doing a nice job of playin' shadaw." Jacqueline nodded vacantly. Her heart skipped a beat as Staples paused.

"That sure was a good one on me," the detective continued. "I knew you'd get a smile out of it, too. Well, I guess he's gone, all right. So's my weekly retainer. They told me at the garage he'd been in there asking questions about the roads to the farm."

"Staples?"

"That's right," was the truthful answer.

"Well, . . . Virgie straightened up. She wished that she might add some details, but none suggested themselves. Then she noticed Jacqueline sitting motionless, eyes fixed, staring at the keyboard of the typewriter. Virgie's eyes narrowed.

"What's she doing?"

"She didn't hit you, did it?"

"Of course not." The stenographer's hand tumbled in the open desk drawer. Mechanically she inserted it into the machine. If Virgie would leave her.

Miss Blake's hand came and rested lightly on a small table.

"That's me every time. Forget it."

"All right," Jacqueline's smile faded.

Virgie left the office, the stenographer's fingers tapped swiftly the keys, faltered. Her hands slipped into her lap. The words she had written were blurred. The whole seemed rocking crazily.

She had to stop. She had to stop. Oh, no. She had to stop. That couldn't have been Larry's wife.

"Larry's wife," Jacqueline said and herself whispering. She could have told why, but she knew she was clinging to that. Clinging desperately. For the first time. . . there was an insistent ringing in her ears. Larry's own words. "You're the only woman."

Only woman. . . Only woman. . . she wasn't the only woman. Jacqueline shivered slightly. There was another woman. With Larry. Come to find him, to quarrel with him. . . in public. A dizzy blonde."

When Larry Cutter stopped at Jacqueline's office door the next afternoon, it needed but one glance from those dark blue eyes to confirm his worst fears.

That cigar woman had seen and reported. No telling what kind of story she had concocted. And the worst of it was, he could not utter a word in his own defense. Nothing to take it. He swallowed and walked into the little room as genuine a smile as he could muster.

"Well, Miss Anthony, I'm checking out." He felt that the expression was singularly appropriate. "Baggage."

Jacqueline looked at him and said nothing.

"Jack. . ." he exclaimed impulsively, then got himself in hand. "I guess there's nothing to say this time. . . except good-bye."

"Good-bye, Mr. Cutter."

Larry hesitated, then turned on his heel and left.

Jacqueline never knew how she managed to get through the balance of the afternoon. There were few customers and her head ached so that she could not read. She had the feeling that someone had tacked a vacant smile on her face. There was but one thing she wanted. . . a chance to go home. To throw herself down on the bed and let the tears come.

Jacqueline was terribly anxious to leave the office that night, but just as she was preparing to go, Lieutenant Staples walked in the door. He slipped himself to a seat and grinned amiably at his hostess.

When her father, Vince Anthony, became ill, Larry invited him into the country. One afternoon Larry had a long talk in the hotel lobby with a woman in his employ.

Now continue with the story.

Vince grinned almost sheepishly and helped himself to a chair.

"I've been fixing up a little," he admitted. "About time."

"But where did you come from? I'm so thrilled I hardly know what to say. You're going to stay for a while, aren't you?"

"I came down from the farm," Vince admitted.

"Oh," Jacqueline's smile faded. It brought everything back.

"Yes, I had to come down on business for Larry."

"How is. . . Larry?" She had to ask that.

"I don't know. He's been sticking pretty close to the place, but he don't act the way he used to. He's got something on his mind. . . always brooding. He worries me. I bet he's lost about fifteen pounds. Maybe you've noticed it."

"I haven't seen him, Vince."

"No? I rather figured he'd been down here on some of his trips. Though he didn't say so, and I never asked. Did you have a quarrel with him, Skipper?"

"Of course not."

"I didn't know. He's coming down here late tonight sometime. I'm going to meet him."

"But you're not going right back, are you?"

"Not sure." Vince looked uncomfortable. He acted as if he had said rather more than he intended.

"Then you'll have dinner with me. We'll eat down in the cafeteria so we won't have to waste time getting a meal."

After he had gone Jacqueline realized for the first time how she had missed him. It seemed so good to see him again. And he looked so well. If only he wouldn't insist upon talking about Larry too much. It still hurt. . . almost like seeing him.

And Larry was coming to the city tonight!

CHAPTER XII

The news that Larry was returning to the city that night left Jacqueline vaguely uneasy. What was he going to do. . . and Vince? Vince had looked so ill at ease after he admitted he was to meet Larry late at night.

She would try to find out something about that before the evening was over. Enough to assure herself that everything was all right as far as Vince was concerned.

It was nearly dinnertime before Vince returned to the hotel. He was in a talkative mood, but Jacqueline could not escape from a growing conviction that he was attempting to keep their conversation in his own hands to a great extent. Several times she referred to his trip down to the city and, very promptly, he changed the topic.

Vince was more than willing to speak of his invention. But with an air of delighted secrecy.

"Shall we walk out to the apartment?" she asked when they had finished their dinner. "It is not very far."

Vince hesitated. "I don't know. We've got plenty of time. What do you say to a movie? I haven't seen one I don't know when."

"Whatever you like, dear. There are several houses near here."

Jacqueline was thinking of the movie she went to see. . . on her wedding day. She had wanted to go then to avoid conversation with Larry. She wondered if Vince, possibly, was not using the same device. Perhaps not.

But her vague discomfort increased when her father selected a film of the gangster type. It proved to deal with the activities of a super sleuth, matching his cunning against the underworld. To Jacqueline, it was unpleasantly suggestive and she tried to pay as little attention to it as possible.

There was a time when Jacqueline herself would have absorbed such perils with shameless interest, but not tonight. She and Vince might have traded places, in a way. He seemed so utterly irresponsible now, in need of guidance. And she never had felt so old.

Later, in the Courtland street apartment, Vince's glances wandered to the little clock on the mantelpiece.

Finally, when he buttoned his coat with a suggestive air, the girl could endure her suspense no longer. She must learn something about this night's excursion before she allowed Vince to get away from her.

"What time is your appointment with Larry?" she asked, trying to make the tone of her voice casual.

"Oh. . . late."

"How late?"

"Well, I don't have to meet him until about twelve. But I thought I'd start a little early, you know."

"Where are you going to meet him?"

"In a little restaurant where he eats sometimes." Vince was becoming more and more uncomfortable under this direct examination.

No Dud Duds for Army

The best isn't good enough for Uncle Sam's army when it comes to clothing. That is why the army maintains a "House of Magic" in the quartermaster's department in Philadelphia. It is the duty of this "House of Magic" to check on the quality of all clothing equipment destined for the army. Here are a few of the steps taken in the manufacture of uniforms for our ever-growing army.

Left: Testing the strength of fabric. The cloth must stand up under a pull of 120 pounds.

Here on the roof of the quartermaster's department you see fabrics undergoing a weather test.

Trained eyes scan every inch of this bolt of cloth as it is unwound from roller to roller. A defect would cause rejection.

Thread count. Counting the number of threads per square inch in a fabric sample—one method of ascertaining quality.

Picture above (left) shows a sample being treated to a rain test. The cloth must be 100% water repellent.

At the right (above) is shown an ingenious gadget which subjects a sample of material to tests that equal many months of wear in rain and shine.

Right: A completed master uniform is fitted on a dummy by a master tailor. Once approved, thousands of counterparts are turned out.

THE ATTIC-IN WHICH MEMORIES, TOO, ARE STORED

EVERY well-ordered home should have an attic as a place for the storage of memories. In the attic the memories will lie dormant until there comes a moving day. When that time comes, its long-forgotten treasures will be revealed and the problem of disposing of those treasures will be a serious one.

There will be found the crib and high chair the babies used years ago. Those babies are now grown to men and women. They have homes and families of their own in far-away places. What memories of their days of babyhood—the days when the home echoed the happy prattle of little children—those simple bits of long-discarded furniture bring back. There can be no more babies to use them, but it is hard to let them go.

In a litter of the attic are found the school and college dance programs of the daughter. Written on them are the names of boys, many of whom we have long forgotten, but those names recall memories of hopes for the daughter's future, of evenings when one or another "called" and "Ma" and I retired from the parlor or living room and watched the clock for the appropriate hour for the young man's departure. Ransacking the attic gives one an opportunity to live over again those cherished days of the long ago.

You dig out of the clutter the uniform you wore as a soldier before the turn of the century and with it the sword that was your badge of office. They remind you of the long-forgotten comrades of those soldier days.

Then you find "Ma's" wedding dress and hat and marvel at the style and size of the dress. You recall incidents of that happy day when you took her from the home in the little Iowa town to a new home in the city. You recall those who were present at the wedding ceremony. Most of them you have not heard of for years and you wonder at what changes life may have brought to them, what success or failure may have been their lot.

These are but typical of the thousands of incidents the contents of the attic will bring back to you. Each item, as you dig it out of the accumulation, presents a problem. Can you discard it? Can you throw away the old lamp beside which you spent so many pleasant evenings? Should you not keep the old and badly worn quilt your mother "pieced" and quilted so many, many years ago? There are the pictures of friends of the long ago, some of which are now hard to recall, but when you do, they live again. Should you not keep each and every one of them, as well as the thousands of letters you spend hours and days rereading?

Yes, the attic is a storehouse of memories. A storehouse that offers more problems when you move than does all the rest of the house together. In the end you keep much of it to be stored away in another attic that becomes another storehouse of memories and presents other problems should you ever move again.

ONE WAY OF GETTING THE FACTS TO PEOPLE

SECRETARY MORGENTHAU is asking congress for another heavy tax increase, one that will produce an additional seven or eight billion dollars each year. He also asks for legislation that will collect all federal taxes at the source, that the taxes be deducted from the pay envelopes of employees and from the dividend checks to stockholders. Such action by congress would give the mass of the people a better understanding of what they pay for what government provides. It would give them facts our system of "hidden" taxes has long denied the greater portion of the American people. It would make for a more intelligent citizenship and more intelligent voters. Let us hope the politicians may accept at least that part of the secretary's recommendation.

FEDERAL MAIL

WASHINGTON tells us must economize in our use of paper, but the federal government has ordered one billion, four hundred million envelopes for 1942. That represents 11 envelopes for every individual in the nation, including the babies. Those envelopes will be distributed as franked mail. At the normal postage rate of three cents, it would mean a postal revenue of 42 million dollars. There is one reason for the postal deficit.

HAIR CURLERS

THE LADIES cannot buy made-in-America hair curlers, the kind they wear to bed. The reason is the factories making them cannot get necessary material as it is needed for the war munitions we are producing for England. But cheer up ladies, the stores will sell you exactly the same thing, with a trifle different name, made in and imported from England. English hair curlers factories are still operating. The price, incidentally, is just half of the made-in-America kind.

Machinery Repair
Get your farm machinery in A-1 condition now and be ready for next year's food production pledge.

Getting farm machinery in good condition now will be a safeguard against unnecessary delays and breakdown of machinery during the busy farming season.

OPM has asked for a drastic reduction of steel for civilian needs because of the unprecedented quantities needed in the manufacture of guns, planes, tanks and bombers. Sufficient steel has been set aside for repair parts of farm machinery.

All farmers of Briscoe county are asked to check their machinery and order all necessary parts by January 1. By this method, manufacturers will have a sound, practical idea of the quantities needed for repair parts.

If parts are not available, farmers should notify the county defense board.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

By Lola Howard

The carnival, which was held in the high school auditorium November 22, went over in a big way. The Juniors and Seniors had charge of the booths. The booths were riving the duck's neck, fishing pond, penny pitch, penny grab, shooting goals, knocking down coke-bottles, bingo, throwing the dart, and refreshment booths. A play entitled "Mountain Music" was produced by the Juniors and Seniors.

Following the play Fay Gene Davis was crowned Queen of Silverton High School by her escort Billy Rampley. Fay Gene wore a white evening dress and a maroon train lined with white satin and bearing the letters S. H. S. on a white satin background.

The duchesses and their escorts were as follows: Dorothy McMurry, Travis McMinn; Freda Wimberly, George Long; Jean Northcutt, J. W. Brannon, Jr.; Betty Jo Howlett, Roy Montague. The princesses were Patricia Bomar with her escort Louie Bonds, and Margaret Thomas with her escort Troy Brooks. Flower girls were Patricia Patton and Kay Steele. Lon Ed Rogers was crown bearer and A. C. Wimberly was train bearer.
