

JACK BROWN writes from Baton Rouge where he is stationed in the Coast Guard. Jack says that he is located in a truly beautiful spot and says he is in the best branch of service there is. He is working as a cook.

Excerpts from two letters that Mrs. George Lee has received from "Red" are as follows. "When I got back Saturday, orders were here for me to proceed immediately to Norfolk, Va. We couldn't check out until today, but that is done and will be in Norfolk by Wednesday. This means that I'll be stationed there probably until I go to sea. I don't know just how long that will be of course. That's something isn't it — didn't even have time to unpack from that ferry trip, but had to start collecting all my belongings to go back to Norfolk.

I wished so much that I could have come by home, but it just seemed that circumstances were against me. I was lucky to get to stay a night in Dallas and the chicken was delicious, just like you cook 'em. I called Estell when I got to the airport, she didn't recognize my voice and I completely surprised her. She put the chicken on then came out to get me and by the time we got home it was cooked to perfection.

The trip was quite an experience to say the least. Saw lots of country, trees, rivers etc. We stayed in the best hotels and met some very nice and prominent people. The route was from Jacksonville, to Palahassae to Pensacola up thru Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Dallas, thru Oklahoma and about 50 miles out of Wichita, Kansas we hit a 45 mile an hour norther and almost froze. When we landed the wind was so high that we had to hold the planes by hand until they were securely tied down. That Kansas made me so homesick it is just like the old ranch country. I came back thru

FARM TRACTORS IN WARTIME

High-Compression Tractor Engines (Fourth of a Series of Six Articles)

By A. P. Peck Managing Editor, Scientific American

More work to be done with less labor to do it, is the situation that now faces farmers throughout the country. Thus it is up to the farmer to do everything possible to obtain the highest efficiency from his farm equipment and this, of course, involves principally his tractors.

A. P. Peck

Of the 1,800,000 tractors on American farms today, there are hundreds of thousands that are more than six years old. These were built during the years when it was the usual thing to compromise the design of tractor engines to enable them to burn any fuel the owner happened to choose; gasoline, distillate or kerosene. When, however, one progressive manufacturer designed a tractor engine to take real advantage of gasoline and brought out a high-compression tractor in 1935, it was well received by farmers and other manufacturers soon followed the leader. This first high-compression engine out-performed distillate-burning engines in every respect.

In order to understand the difference between gasoline and distillate as a fuel for tractor engines, it is necessary to know something of the way in which an engine operates. All internal-combustion engines, whether for use in automobiles, trucks, or tractors, produce power by burning a mixture of fuel and air in a series of cylinders. The fuel is vaporized in the carburetor, mixed with air, and drawn into the cylinder as the piston goes down on the suction stroke. As the piston comes up it compresses the mixture, which is then fired by the spark plug. As the mixture burns it produces a steadily increasing pressure which forces the piston down.

The amount of useful power that a tractor engine develops depends on the size of the engine, the speed at which it turns, and the pressure developed by the burning of the fuel in the cylinders. The first two of these factors cannot easily be changed after an engine has been built, but it is entirely possible to increase the pressure in the cylinders. One way to do this is by high-compression engines and another is to let the engine breathe more fuel and more air on each piston stroke. This latter can quickly and simply

Mrs. A. P. Dickerson sent me a box of wonderful cookies last week. They were here when I returned. They were so good and we all enjoyed them very much.

—Well here I am back in Norfolk and can you imagine it. I've been here about three days and we are flying back to Jacksonville next week and stay for maybe two weeks. You see I'm in the regular squadron now and I may go anywhere anytime. I think we will be stationed on an Island off the coast of North Carolina after we leave Jacksonville. It is more business like now and we have so much responsibility. We are treated swell and are really the cock of the walk. It seems that I'm moving so fast that it is impossible to keep everybody posted on my address. Love "Red"

EDWARD EDWARDS writes to the editor, "Dear Roy I am still here in San Diego and have started to school and I sure do like it although it sure did seem awkward to go to school everyday. When I first started but I sure like it now as we have had some very interesting subjects to study. There are 75 in my class and we just study one subject a week.

I sure have a lot of fun in the company I am in now, there isn't but 4 or 5 Texas boys. We have a lot of fun kidding and asking questions about each others state. One ask me if we really had cars in Texas and I told him I saw my first car after I got in California. I guess it is getting pretty cold there now, we haven't had any cold weather. It doesn't get cold here but I don't like the fogs. My address is changed now and my paper is about a week late getting here, will you change it, because it is one of the most interesting things I get from home and the boys in my bunk enjoy "Yours Truly."

JUNIOR — SENIOR BANQUET

On the night of November 20, 1942 the Junior Class entertained the Senior Class and faculty of Silverton High School at one of the most important events of the year, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

The auditorium was very beautifully decorated and the Thanksgiving theme was carried during the entire evening. In one corner of the auditorium there stood a log cabin representing the home of the Pilgrims. The center piece was made up of an ear of corn, gourds, maize heads and a cored apple as the candle holder.

Above the arch or entrance to the auditorium, letters were cut out of green, yellow, and orange paper forming "Junior-Senior Class of 43".

Jo Webb, Junior President gave the welcome address and Jo Earl Davenport, Senior president responded. "White Christmas" was sung by June Wimberly, Jo Webb, Carlyn Wimberly and Anna Bean. This was followed by the Class History, written by Freddie Garrison and Roy Montague and read by Fay Tice Bomar. The class Pdopehy written by Jean Northcutt, Dorothy McMurtry, and Ruby West and read by Jean Northcutt. The class will written by Margaret Thomas, Delma Dean Self and Betty Jo Howlett was read by Winone Francis. The last number on the program was a song "Ten Little Soldiers", by June Wimberly, Jo Webb, and Carlyn Wimberly. A question and answer game conducted by the Toastmaster Norland Havran, was sincerely enjoyed by everyone.

The delicious menu consisted of chicken and dressing, gravy, sweet potatoes, string beans, cranberry sauce, jello salad, hot rolls, ice tea and for dessert pumpkin pie with whipped cream.

The clever place cards were made of a potato forming a turkey. The head and tail were made of pasteboard with the name across the tail. The legs were made of matches.

The program was ended by a short speech by the new superintendent Mr. F. M. McCarty. Most of the girls were adorned with beautiful corsages given them by the boys. Everyone including the boys looked lovely.

A delightful evening was spent by everyone and a skating party was held afterwards. —Jean Northcutt

Mrs. J. K. Bean received word that her Grandmother Wade was very ill at Alvarado, Texas. She is nearly 100 years old.

MR. ALLRED just received word from "Cranberry" that he would arrive in Amarillo today (Wednesday) for a 15-day leave.

Many cotton pullers are reported leaving this week in order to be back home before gasoline is rationed, believing that they will be unable to get gas after December 1st. The local gasoline rationing board has issued the statement that all cotton hands who have an "A" card will be able to obtain gasoline for the return trip. There are many here that do not have their car properly registered and some of these may strike a snag in getting home. The local board, however believed that something will be worked out, and that no picker should stop his work simply to get home before rationing starts. Non-Highway applications now are available at the local rationing office. These applications are to fill out in case you have to have gasoline for any use other than highway use.

MAIL CHRISTMAS PACKAGES BY DECEMBER 1.

The bulk of Christmas mail must be in the post offices by Dec. 1 this year if deliveries on time are to be assured, according to Smith W. Purdum, Second Assistant Postmaster General. Mr. Purdum is responsible to Postmaster General Frank C. Walker for smooth and efficient air and railway mail service.

Unprecedented wartime demands on the postal and transportation systems, plus a prospective record volume of Christmas mailings, were cited by Mr. Purdum as necessitating earlier mailings than ever before. "It is physically impossible for the railroads and air lines, burdened with vitally important war materials, to handle Christmas mailings as rapidly as in normal times," Mr. Purdum said. "If the bulk of parcels and greeting cards are held back until the usual time — the period of about December 15 to 23 — they simply cannot be distributed in time, and thousands of gifts will reach their destinations after Christmas."

In 1941, about 21,950 mail cars were required between December 12 and 24 to deliver Christmas mails — enough cars to make a train 270 miles long. This year, the extra cars needed to move holiday mails are largely being used by the armed forces, and a severe shortage is in prospect.

The postal service usually borrows about 2,500 trucks from the Army and other Government agencies, and rents about 10,000 from private owners, to handle the Christmas mails. This year, it will be extremely difficult to obtain enough of these vehicles to meet even a substantial part of the need. The Army needs its own trucks and private owners are reluctant to let someone else use their tires.

Railroads are cooperating by converting some hundreds of steel box cars and similar equipment for mail transportation, and Joseph Eastman, Director of Defense Transportation, has ordered that unnecessary travel be curtailed to the limit during the holiday season. But these measures cannot assure deliveries of gifts on time unless the public cooperates by mailing early and thus spreading the transportation load over a change it is usually possible to increase the power of the engine by as much as 30 percent over that obtained with distillate.

The change-over to high-compression can be done by the farmer himself if he is so inclined and equipped, or it can be done at a garage. In any event, the cost of the new parts is no greater than would be the cost of the same number of replacements in an ordinary overhaul. Because of the present shortage of parts, however, it is not recommended that tractor engines be high-compressed until they are due for an overhaul anyway.

(NEXT WEEK: Gasoline for Less Wear and Tear)

In view of all these handicaps to the service, Mr. Purdum added, postal patrons should mail their gifts by December 1 if they wish to insure that their friends will not be disappointed at Christmas.

STUDENT COUNCIL ORGANIZED

The students of Silverton High School met in assembly Tuesday for the purpose of working out methods of improving the efficiency of the school as a whole. Mr. McCarty outlined a few changes that had to do with attendance and promptness in reporting to class. Some definite recommendations were put in to force after they had been explained. Mr. McCarty suggested that in his opinion the thing that the school needed most was a student council. This met with hearty approval on the part of the students and they immediately went into the organization of such a body.

Jo Earl Deavenport was chosen as president; Clyde Mercer, vice-president; Margaret Thomas, secretary; Roy Montague and Margaret, Senior Class representatives; Bernice McCarty and Norlan Havran, Junior Class representatives; Gene Dickerson and Ruby Jo Neatherlin, Sophomore Class representatives; Winona Fays Brown and Anita Johnigan, Freshman Class representatives. Lester Paige was chosen as grade school representative. Mrs. Otto Denton King was chosen by the body as faculty sponsor.

AMERICA AT WAR has a great deal to be thankful for. The news from our fighting fronts is the best since 1918, and as Mr. Churchill said, "It is the end of the beginning." And if you can recall, we happened to be in a position where we made a pretty poor beginning.

NOW AFTER NEARLY a year of bad beginning, we can be truly thankful that we seem to be getting our stride and are ready to deal the Axis some hard knocks. With every day that passes we are going to get stronger and they are going to weaken.

THIS GOOD NEWS isn't happening. It didn't just happen that we had an industrial system like that of no other. It didn't just happen that our boys have always won whenever the odds were not more than two to one. It didn't just happen that our ally Russia has been able to stop Hitler's war machine. These things have happened, and who is there to say that there is not a "guiding hand" over all? We shall have some bad days yet no doubt, but we should be truly thankful to HIM for HIS help. We are still the favored nation of the world. We have more resources, more to fight with and more to fight for, than any nation on earth. Thus far we have been called on for less sacrifice than any people.

WE HAVE BEEN upbraided in many lands and by many speech-makers as having departed from the straight and narrow. There is no doubt that individually in many cases we have. Collectively, as a nation we have not gone far from the rules, and as long as we remain a God-fearing people, with the object of winning this war and liberating millions of enslaved peoples, then we are still on the track.

W. W. MARTIN brought me a turnip. It was the great granddaddy of all the turnips and was 21 1/2 inches around. Mr. Martin said that he had a pretty good crop of turnips, more than he could use and so he was giving the neighbors a few of the small culls. He was very serious about that. His wife is canning the good ones. They have rigged up some way of sealing wooden barrels with paraffin, and she cans them whole, two turnips to the keg.

THIS GAS rationing is acute. The situation is acute. The rationing board is acute. The public is acute. (I'm pretty cute myself, as per the following, viz: et cetera and what have you.)

IN THE FIRST place let me officially introduce to you the Sil- members of the board, Roy Regulations Teeter, and Jefferson That Ain't What It Sez Peeler. I guess the secretary is Jewell Lyon—she works while her husband catches shut eye.

THE OFFICE equipment is acute too and also unique, they think of everything. They have verton members of the board. Roy eral mattresses. That might appear as though they were doing a lot of overtime work. Just work till you drop and lo, you have a place to drop on.

THESE BEDS ALSO come in handy during the day to care for victims. VicNers consist of applicants. According to Luther Gilkeyson, who is on the tire rationing board, the system works as follows: The applicant applies. He is not refused. He asks for 20 and they give him four. He sags in his tracks. He drops. Sympathetic members of the board carry him to

THIS WEEK WE have some interesting news from the Men in Service. Last week we had none. This is a special note to you men in service: If you knew how anxious folks at home are to hear of you, you'd keep those letters rolling in. And whenever any of you folks receive an interesting letter bring it in.

AND ON THE same line, several have asked us to print addresses of the men in service. We'd like to for the boys would receive dozens of Christmas Cards and letters which they otherwise would not. But, at the start of this war, we were asked not to print definite addresses of men, and more especially changes of address. There is a small chance that some use could be made of such information by enemy agents. We will admit that some papers are running these names and addresses—in fact asking for them. That is OK, if they feel that way. We were all asked not to. And so be it. The smallest chance that such information could injure any of our boys means more to us than the small prestige we would gain by running the addresses.

ON THE FRONT page you will find the picture of a very fine looking couple. They just got married—just sixty years ago Monday. I want to offer my sincere congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Potter, and especially to Mrs. Potter. Mr. Potter will tell you himself that his wife must be one in a million to have put up with HIM for sixty long years. Many more years together, is the wish sent by Mr. and Mrs. Briscoe County News.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

As "Gone with the Wind" is making the third showing around over the land, this review, written by a "country editor", Jack Tarver of Lyons, Ga. becomes timely again:

There was a land of cotton fields and cavaliers called the Old South. A land of Lords and their Ladies, of Master and of Slave. Look not for them hereabouts for they are no longer to be found. Male and Female, Black and White, Youth and Age, they are all down to the picture show seeing "Gone With The Wind."

Katherine Scarlett O'Hara was our Shero. A winsome wench with a figure like a marble statue and a head as hard.

Gerald O'Hara was her pa. By nature he was most animal-like. Proud as a peacock; he roared like a lion and rode like a dog and pony show. After Sherman came, he was crazy as a bedbug.

Anyhow, Scarlett was in love with Ashley Wilkes, who was in love with his cousin, Melanie, who was in love with Ashley, and so they were married. (Ashley and Melanie in case your're getting confused.)

This irritated Scarlett no end so, in quick succession she married for spite and cash, respectively, a couple of fellers whose names we didn't get. But then, neither did Scarlett for long.

The other major characters were Rhett Butler, Belle Watling, and a colored lady exactly like the one on the flapjack box.

Rhett, who was somehow strangely reminiscent of Clark Gable, was a cross between Jesse James and Little Boy Blue.

Uncle Lum considered playing Rhett, but turned it down when he found there wasn't anything but mint in the mint juleps.

If Rhett had joined the Lost Cause in the second reel instead of after the intermission, the Confederacy would have won the war.

And Belle. You'd have loved Belle. Everbody did.

During the siege of Atlanta only three things were running: Belle's Place, Prissy's nose and the laundry that kept Rhett's white suits snow white.

Melanie's baby arrived about the time Sheman did. Both were equally welcome to Scarlett.

It was, so far as our painstaking research has revealed, the first baby born in technicolor.

Anyhow, the South lost the war again in the picture (What could yo' expect with a lot of Yankee producers?) and Scarlett married Rhett to get even with him.

Their married life was just like sitting in hell's fire and listening to the heavenly choir.

Finally, after Melanie died, Scarlett realized that she didn't love Achley but Rhett. Scarlett was as changeable as a baby's underwear.

However, Rhett had enough of her foolishness and, when she told him, he said, "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a d....."

Neither, by this time, did the audience. They were glad to see the end.

For years it has been the custom of this firm to extend Thanksgiving Greetings to its friends and customers.

This year we have even more to be thankful for, than in normal years. We have been blessed with bountiful crops, for which we are truly thankful.

We are at war! Yet even in that, we can be thankful — for the news from our world-wide fighting fronts is GOOD.

From the bottoms of our hearts we thank the Almighty God for our leaders, and for the thousands of red-blooded boys who are fighting for a cause that is good and right.

And to these boys, the pick of the world, we wish to extend Greetings, and the 1942 way of saying it is "GOOD HUNTING." You are distinguishing yourselves in the same way as did your forefathers, who still found time to pause and say, "We Thank Thee".

HOW HE DID IT

A captain in a recruiting camp had one man, name of Isadore Cohen, who he couldn't make a soldier of. Even the guardhouse couldn't cure him of disobedience, laziness and dodging responsibility. One day a call came for a few men from that company to join an outfit bound for Australia. It was the captain's chance. He got rid of Cohen.

In a few weeks Cohen was in the headlines with "Jewish Boy Leads Machine Gun Charge," "Isadore Cohen Captures Ten Japs Single-Handed," "Isadore Cohen Decorated for Bravery."

The captain cabled to the colonel of Cohen's outfit: "How did you make a soldier out of Cohen?"

That evening the reply came back:

"Before each engagement we put a gun in Cohen's hands and say, 'Now Cohen, you are in business for yourself.'"

THAT WAS ALL!

He was up before the orderly officer, charged with using insulting language to his sergeant. "Please sir," he protested, "I was only answering a question."

"What question?" snapped

"Well, sir, the sergeant said, 'What do you think I am?' I told him."

THIS TURKEY BUSINESS IS RIGHT DOWN OUR ALLEY

WE'RE THANKFUL

Maybe you think a guy in my business hasn't anything to be thankful for. We have plenty. The inconveniences of the rationing program are not bad. Anything to help win the war is something to be thankful for. And by the way, we are one day nearer VICTORY than we were yesterday. We want to thank you too, for your friendship and patronage during the past year.

BATTERIES - - We have a nice stock of Phillips 66 Batteries; and several tire pumps and jacks. You'll be needing one so "come and get it".

We also have a good stock of Phillips 66 Oil IN CANS. There won't be any more in cans.

Come to see us. We'll be glad to handle your tire business—vulcanizing and recapping.

Thanksgiving

HOW DIFFERENT is this Thanksgiving Day of 1942... so very much different even than the last... And in the heading of our Greeting, we have tried to show the thing that is occupying all our minds and thoughts this year... even to putting Uncle Sam's suit on the traditional Tom Turkey.

THIS YEAR, although we are at war, we still have the most for which to be thankful, of any nation on earth. Our crops are good—and to offset the fact that our boys are away from home is the late good news from the fighting front. Those boys are getting the job done!

THIS IS NOT a joyful Thanksgiving celebration. We should make it a day of sincere thought, with the resolution to do our best to hasten the day of Victory—when our boys shall be home again. That will be the day for a joyful Thanksgiving celebration!

WHITESIDE & Company has enjoyed your fine patronage very much and takes this means of wishing you THE BEST!
