Commemorating one of the most stirring episodes of World War II, a postage stamp is being issued by the Post Office Department on May 28, 1948, to honor the four chaplains—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—who gave up their lives on the USS Dorchester in 1943. When a German torpedo hit the troopship, these clergymen of the three great faiths—John P. Washington, Catholic priest, Alexander D. Goode, Jewish rabbi, George L. Fox and Clarke V. Poling, Protestant ministers—gave their life belts to stranded soldiers and, linking arms, prayed in unison as the vessel sank in the North Atlantic.

V. R. Gardner, Sr., Honored on Birthday

Several invited guests from Silvertown attended a surprise birthday dinner at Tullia on May 30th, given in honor of Mr. V. R. Gardner, Sr., by his wife.

The Gardners were former residents of Silvertown a good many years ago, before going to Tullia, Texas.

A large company of relatives and a few invited friends helped the guest of honor enjoy the splendid dinner. The table was laden with just about everything good to eat that could be had. A very beautiful birthday cake formed the center piece.

There were relatives present from the following towns: Portales, New Mexico; Grady, New Mexico; Amarillo; Hereford and Silvertown, Texas. The occasion was indeed a very pleasant one and greatly enjoyed by all.

Late in the afternoon as the guests departed for their several homes they thanked Mr. and Mrs. Gardner for a fine dinner and fine association together. They also expressed the hope, this fine gentleman might enjoy many other happy birthdays.

Briscoe County received scattered showers to heavy downpours of rain this week. In the east and southeast part little moisture fell while to the north, west and southwest, good showers of an estimated one-half inch to as much as three inches were reported.

In Silvertown the Bomar One-Stop Station measured .39 of an inch of moisture. No damage from hail was reported, as little or no hail fell.

Cotton and feed planting is under way in the east part of the county following the moisture of last week.

Sand on Ground For Hospital; Contract Let Past Week

Two weeks ago the hospital committee secured lots for the Silvertown hospital, which will be located on property south of the Methodist parsonage. It has consumed considerable time of the committee in getting the matter settled as to the location.

The contract for the building has just recently been let and the lots cleared off and sand hauled and put on ground to be used on the foundation work.

The committee also stated that as soon as the lumber they have ordered, arrives; they will start the actual work on the building.

The committee wishes to thank those who donated sand, labor and trucks for the work that has been done so far. They also expressed their appreciation to Tony Bursan, Chester Burnett and Milton Dudley for their time donated to cleaning off the lots.

This is a big and difficult undertaking and the committee say they are looking forward to the people for more help. Any donation will be appreciated—money or labor.

Martin's Kill Rattlesnake's Mate Sunday
Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, who reported killing a big rattlesnake about two weeks ago at their home, think they found and killed its mate Sunday afternoon. The reptile was found at the same place near their home and when Martin attacked him he did not strike back. He thinks rattlers are inclined to be "sociable."

The snake measured forty-three inches and had eight rattles, and slightly smaller than the first one. Mr. Martin held the snake with a spade while Mrs. Martin killed him with a hoe—Mrs. Martin is a "brave lady" I must say.

For convenience and safety in handling and delivery the company turned the job over to CARE. A flood of tough leg letters has been the result and Timken officials feel well repaid for their effort.

The Cost Of Your Groceries . . .

"No food price collapse is likely. . . so long as wages and employment remain near present high levels," says a Wall Street Journal commodity letter. "The factory worker's weekly pay in now double prewar. And some 15 million more people have paying jobs than before the shooting started."

These are not the only factors contributing to high prices, but they are among the most important. The cost of food, much as we rail about it, is just a logical reflection of the economics of the day. It is true that agriculture's gross income has multiplied—but the cost of everything the farmer must buy, from labor to feed, has followed suit, and there is no get rich quick profit left when all the bills are paid.

The people who handle the food after it leaves the farm—manufacturers, canners, processors, packers, etc.—have no means of reducing the price. Like all mass production industry, they operate on an extremely small profit margin. And they too must meet going wage and other costs.

Finally, the retail grocer who sells you your food is in exactly the same position. A number of chain food systems have issued graphic statements of what happens to each dollar spent in their stores. The profit remaining, after the bills are met, runs to about 1 1/2 cents per dollar of sales. In other words, if the retailer made no profit at all, it wouldn't make a visible dent in your food budget.

You are getting your food for the lowest price possible under the circumstances. That is always true in a competitive economy—the only kind of economy able to combine peak efficiency with peak abundance.

Honing The Mind . . .

"The minds of men are a great deal like the old-fashioned straight razor," said William R. Boyd, Junior, president of the American Petroleum Institute. "They have to be honed, and competition is the strop that makes a keen blade."

Mr. Boyd was speaking at the opening of the Silver Anniversary of the International Petroleum Exposition at Tulsa. And there his remark was particularly apt. On a space of 15 acres, some 1,800 different exhibitors displayed the mechanical marvels that have made the present-day oil industry possible. Refining equipment, drilling rigs, innovations in the transportation of oil—these and a thousand and one other developments were on display. And every one of them is the result of competition. Men make better tools and find more efficient techniques because they know their competitors are trying to do the same thing, and those who lag behind in the march of progress can't last long. That is why the industry has progressed from the diving rod to the seismograph in its search for oil—and why it has learned to dig a straight hole miles deep, or to bend that hole to reach some desired formation.

To quote Mr. Boyd again, "The petroleum industry is often the target of political, financial, professional and editorial attacks." But, whatever the reason for these attacks, the industry's answer is in its performance. It has met an incredible demand with only minor dislocations in supplying us with the oil we want when we want it. And its going on to do an even better job in the future.

Envy Of The World . . .

The history of the world, since recorded time began, has been blackened at regular and frequent intervals by terrible famines. Countless millions have died miserably from hunger. And those cataclysms were not confined to long past, primitive times. In the last quarter century starvation has stalked through China, Russia, and other nations.

Yet, in the United States, we have never had a famine. Some may say short-sightedly that this is because we are blessed with an abundance of resources. But other countries, where the standard of living is abysmally low compared with ours, have great resources also. Some may think it is because we work harder. Yet in the hunger ridden nations the average man and woman work much longer hours, and perform a great deal more manual labor, than does the average American.

The basic reason for our abundance lies elsewhere. It has been in a theory of government that encourages every man to do his utmost and reap the rewards that has stimulated voluntary, individual enterprise and that, finally, has given every man the right to compete with any other in his chosen field.

We see how this system works on every hand. As a simple example, every American can walk into a store and buy all the meat he wants—something that is impossible in most other countries. Free enterprise is responsible for putting that meat in the butcher's showcase—for turning steers, hogs and other animals into cuts that are ready for consumption. To meet the needs of the country, a great packing industry has been developed to bridge the gap between the livestock producer and our homes. It performs a vital service at a cost which is almost unbelievably small.

So it goes, in every field of enterprise. Free people, working in a free economy, have made the American standard of living the envy of the world.

Five Point Program By State Teachers Association

AUSTIN, Texas, May 25 — A tentative five-point legislative program aimed at improving public schools will be sponsored by the Texas State Teachers Association in the next legislature.

The program was set out in a letter mailed Wednesday by the association to the 41,000 members of the organization. It was signed by Miss Emma Mae Brotze, president; B. B. Cobb, secretary, and Charles H. Tennyson, public relations director.

The letter called attention to the needs of the public school system, as seen by the teachers association, as follows: An extension of the equalization, or rural aid law, to allow a greater number of poorly financed schools to qualify, thus enabling them to pay the minimum salary of $2,000 for teachers with BA degrees, as provided by the last legislature, and maintain modern school systems.

Increasing the total appropriation for schools receiving equalization aid.

Increasing pay for all teachers on a basis yet to be determined.

Passage of a law providing better teacher certification standards, and teacher tenure.

A mandatory minimum cumulative sick leave law.

It is also possible the association will push for legislation by which schools could receive aid in providing more classroom space and modern, adequate equipment.

The state teachers' organization was successful during the last session of the legislature in its campaign for passage of measures which increased equalization aid by $4,000,000 annually, for a minimum salary law and for raising the per capita apportionment to $55.

Teachers' salaries, due to the high cost of living, are still not high enough to make the profession attractive, according to Miss Brotze.

A recent survey, she said, disclosed that Texas is short more than 2,000 qualified teachers and that replacements for persons leaving the schools this year will be difficult to obtain especially in the primary and elementary grades.

The association will seek the broadening of the equalization aid provisions of school laws so that all schools can meet the requirements of the minimum salary law.

Many school districts, according to Brotze, need more state aid because they cannot pay the minimum teacher salary even though they are levying the maximum local tax rate permitted under the law.

Texas now has no mandatory sick leave law to cover teachers and other school employees. Some cities, including Dallas, have regulations covering payments for sick leave. Many school systems allow no sick leave pay.

School people have long advocated a more strict system of certifying persons as to eligibility to teach. Even present regulations were eased during the war, when it was extremely difficult to obtain teachers.

The teachers association will also follow up on a measure already promised introduction by the joint legislative committee. It will be an emergency appropriation of from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 to cover pay for teachers in equalization aid schools this year. Gov. Beauford Jester has promised to submit the subject as emergency legislation.

In addition, because the schools all had a $6 supplemental per capita payment this year, but for which funds will not be available for the next school year, the teachers association will seek an additional $6,000,000 for rural aid schools for 1948-49.

That will be in addition to their contemplated expansion program of more schools being made eligible for rural aid and larger payments per school.

Legion Junior Baseball School Is Well Attended

The American Legion sponsored junior baseball school got off to a rousing start this morning as 135 boys ranging in ages from nine to 15 reported for team assignments and instruction at the JayCee park. At one p. m. this afternoon an older group, composed of boys in the 15 to 18 age bracket met.

Preliminary plans were outlined to boys and names and addresses taken of those who plan to attend the summer school being directed by Sam Scaling, Junior Baseball association chairman, Harley Redin, director of the program, and W. C. O. Harris, committee member.

Seventy-seven youngsters in the nine to twelve age group reported. Fifty-eight boys were counted in the intermediate class from 12 to 15. Harris indicated that at least four teams would be organized from this classification.

Boys will be instructed in the proper technique of baseball. Following the school, a committee will select boys for teams. An effort will be made to match the teams as evenly as possible, according to Sam Scaling.

Coach Redin is anxious to contact several men who will serve as managers of teams and instruct the boys. Managers already signed to help are Lupe Meador, E. J. McKnight, Kenneth Baldwin, Eddie Arakawa, Stanley Miller and Millard Wilburn. Gene Barnett, D. C. Arthur, Meador and McKnight have been signed as umpires. Both managers and umpire are pair for their services.

Team tryouts and instruction have already started. An added attraction of the baseball school will be the showing of the 1947 World Series baseball games between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers. This film will be shown at the City Auditorium. A movie shot, "Play Ball Son" will also be projected. All boys between the ages of nine and 18 are invited to attend the showing. Scaling stated. Parents are invited also, if they are accompanied by their boys.

A special appeal to boys from the ages of 9 through 18 has been issued by Harley Redin, director of the Plainview summer activities program. For all those who would like to participate in league baseball play.

Over 135 boys have registered and will be assigned to teams. Redin said, but he is anxious to get as many more out for play.

"Every boy will get an opportunity to play and will be assigned to a team," the director said. "Boys will have a real chance to learn the fundamentals of baseball and how to play it. They will be coached by experienced instructors." —Plainview Herald.

Coach Harley Redin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Redin of this city.

Mrs. Bill Stodghill and boys visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Cuppell in Amarillo last week.

Mrs. Hugh Stodghill and Mrs. Ola Mills were in Tulia Friday on business.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

Cash registers are beginning to chime a little more often and considerably more musically in retail stores. The Department of Commerce notes a gain in sales throughout the country, as well as an increase in orders for goods.

New orders for most types of manufacturers' goods began early in March to break out of a year-long decline in relation to sales. By the end of that month they had risen five per cent on a daily average business from February levels. All reports indicate a continuation of this trend. Such new orders reached a March rate of 164 per cent higher than prewar 1939 and only slightly below last November's peak.

Appliance, radio and home furnishings retailers are watching with interest the spurt in home building. Residential construction in terms of units started is now 25 per cent above the corresponding period of a year ago. The market for replacement sales also looks substantial, with personal income currently at an annual rate of 209 billion. While this is below last December's level of 210.4 billion and January's 211.4 billion, it is still above the average for the last quarter of last year.

New machine tool orders held steady in April at an index of 86.3, the same as March and compared with 69.8 in April last year. The index at 100 is based on average shipments from 1945 to 1947.

AMERICAN BUSINESS. (con.)

A SPECIFIC INSTANCE — A good deal of manufacturing equipment is going to American textile plants, which are currently engaged in a multi-million dollar plant modernization program. These plants, according to industry estimates, are expected to spend nearly $15,000,000 in 1948 for air-conditioning and automatic temperature controls alone.

Much of this will be invested in refrigeration equipment. This is the ultimate step in industrial process control, since it enables a mill to maintain precise temperature and humidity levels, regardless of outside conditions.

Refrigerated air conditioning, which as late as the end of the war was regarded as an engineering and economic experiment, has now been installed in more than 100 mills. Karl W. Seldon, Jr., of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, who has helped engineer automatic control systems for leading plants throughout the textile fields, explains the increased use of industrial air-conditioning as due to the following factors: (1) Capacity of mills to invest in new equipment; (2) the ever-increasing quest for increased efficiency, higher productivity and higher quality products; (3) the universal desire to improve working conditions; (4) anticipation of a highly-competitive market; (5) development of new high-speed machinery which creates greater heat loads, and the use of new synthetics, which require more precise processing conditions.

THINGS TO COME—You can start the coffee in the kitchen without getting out of bed with a new remote control, low voltage wiring system; also light up the entire house from the same switch, or turn the radio off from the telephone stand . . . Electric dehumidifier the size of an ash-can keeps basements dry . . . Kids who like to tear up clocks will have a field day with a new kit that makes possible the assembly of a pendulum clock with a screwdriver . . . Shopping accessory for mothers combines walker and stroller with removable wire basket for packages . . . Car painting kit contains solvent for removing dirt and wax, plastic material for filling cracks, enough paint for two coats and a moisture resistant glove that serves as a streakless paint brush . . . Pressed wood wall panels now have simulated grain . . . Portable generator works on compressed air and furnishes enough current to light two 75-watt bulbs . . . Children's game solves 500 problems in addition and subtraction, multiplication and division . . . Snap-in spectacle lenses and frames allow women to use same lenses with variety of frames to match costumes.

Typhoid Fever Is Unnecessary and Preventable

A warning against the hitchhiking germ of typhoid fever has just been issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. They must catch a ride from an infected person to a well person; this is generally accomplished by water, milk, flies, fingers, or food. Every case is contracted by way of the mouth and digestive system.

A carrier is a person who has had typhoid fever at some time and who even after recovery carries the germs of the disease in the urine and discharge of the bowels. Carriers who are careless in their personal habits are likely to infect any food they handle with unwashed hands. Some of the most serious and far-reaching outbreaks of the disease have been caused by drinking milk or eating foods that have been handled by carriers. Persons may be carriers without knowing it.

Typhoid fever is unnecessary and preventable. Every case is due either to community negligence or to the ignorance or carelessness of some individual. Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Inoculation with typhoid vaccine, a week apart, is all that is necessary to secure protection against this disease for two years. The purity of water, milk, or food cannot be judged by looking at it so the best thing to do is to play safe and have your physician protect you.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration reminds all veterans training in colleges and universities under the GI Bill that they will automatically be granted 15 days leave at the end of the present term.

Subsistence allowance will be paid and entitlement charged for this leave period.

Veterans who do not want their entitlement reduced by the leave should already have posted notices to VA.

Most of the veterans studying in schools and colleges under the GI Bill and the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16) for disabled veterans are attending one school only, a Veterans Administration survey reveals.

The survey, based on the training elections of the 1,800,000 veterans in schools during November, 1947, shows 1,609,000 confined their studies to a single school.

Almost 4,000 study in more than one school. Combining school and job training, but taking the majority of the training in schools are 15,700.

Over 171,000 limit their studies to correspondence schools, while 1,400 combine regular school studies with correspondence school work.

bought a controlling interest in RKO studios, a purchase that gives him direction of one of the greatest segments of the sprawling motion picture industry. Hughes, who produced his first picture when he was only 19 and won an Academy Award when he was still only 22, is now probably the largest individual investor in the film business, with an estimated stake of $16,000,000.

Movie-goers have never forgotten Hughes' daring war picture "Hell's Angels," which is still being shown in theaters throughout the world 18 years after its release. Other productions which Hughes made motion picture history include "Scarface," "The Front Page," "The Racket," and, of course, "The Outlaw." It was Hughes who discovered and made stars of Paul Muni, George Raft, Jane Russell and the late Jean Harlow, who died at the height of a meteoric career. Hughes' new investment climaxes his motion picture career of 24 years as an independent producer.

BITS O' BUSINESS — Spring weather has boosted tire sales . . . During the first quarter of this year the paper and pulp industry broke all its previous quarterly production records, except for newsprint, which was off five per cent . . . The Department of Commerce is still hopeful that 1,000,000 new homes will be built this year.

Sign Warns Speeders In a More Gentle Tone

HARRISBURG, PA.—Harry R. Roberts, Pittsburgh, didn't like the tone of Pennsylvania's roadside speed limit signs and he told Gov. James H. Duff about it.

As a result, instead of being confronted with notices that the speed limit is 50 miles per hour and that it is strictly enforced, motorists in Pennsylvania will see signs reading:

"Welcome to Pennsylvania.
"Respect the 50-Mile Speed Limit.
"Take Time to Enjoy Our Scenery."

Three Illinois Men See 'Monster Bird'

"Bigger Than An Airplane" Witnesses Claim

ST. LOUIS—A retired air force colonel and 12-year-old boy backed up the report by two Belvidere, Ill., residents of spotting a "monster bird."

It was either the same mysterious bird of gigantic size they saw or one just like it, they said.

Col. W. F. Siegmund, former commandant of the Army air base at Kearns, Utah, said he saw the creature while horseback riding four miles north of Alton, Ill.

James Trares, 12, said he saw the bird flying over his home in suburban Glendale, Mo. Both Siegmund and the boy said they were apprehensive of telling anyone about it until they read a United Press dispatch from Belvidere about the incident.

The Belvidere report quoted Robert Price and Veryl Babb as saying the bird was "bigger than an airplane" and flapped its wings.

Siegmund said he didn't see any flapping of wings but he was sure it was a huge fowl and not a type of aircraft.

He described the creature as about the size of a small pursuit plane and said it was flying northeast at an altitude of between 4,000 and 5,000 feet.

The Trares boy said he spotted the bird in the air one evening at sunset and ran yelling into his house to tell his mother. He said it was gray-green in color and about the size of an airplane.

Bus Driver, Irked by Cops Flees With 12 Passengers

KENOSHA, WIS.—Police here had a tough time arresting Clarence C. Berdick. They claimed he had been doing wrong things with his bus.

Berdick is a driver for the Interurban line running between Kenosha and Milwaukee. Squad car officers attempted to chide him. They claim he had stopped the big vehicle in the middle of the street to take on passengers.

The officers sought to give Berdick a ticket, charging him with obstructing traffic. He slammed the bus door in their faces, they said and drove off.

The policemen gave chase in their squad car. Every time they tried to pass the bus, they related, Berdick would force them to the curb, his zigzagging bus swaying and his 12 passengers clinging to their seats.

The squad car radioed for help. Another prowl car joined the chase. With sirens wailing, the two squads managed to trap the bus at the northern city limits. They escorted it to the police station. There they booked Berdick on charges of obstructing traffic and resisting arrest.

Berdick pleaded not guilty in municipal court.

Science Shatters Myth of Birds' Eerie Homing Sense

ITHACA, N. Y.—Birds turned loose in a strange place far from home do not fly straight to their nests, guided by some mysterious instinct or some hidden sense.

They cruise in curving lines, with a suggestion of spiralling, apparently getting home by plain ordinary exploration.

This is the conclusion reached as the result of experiments by two Cornell university ornithologists, Drs. Ronald H. Griffin and Raymond J. Hock.

They chose gannets for their tests, because these big white sea birds are easily seen at a distance and because it was safe to assume that they had never of their own accord gone far from the coast.

They carried a number of them into the interior of New Brunswick where they turned them loose to find their own way home.

Only two of the birds flew in anything like a straight line for the coast. The others flew literally in all directions.

There was no evidence whatever of a "sense of direction."

Plains Acreage Contracted For Vegetables

The Plains territory, with its attractive shallow water supply, is getting more and more attention from some of the larger vegetable growers, who profess to see great opportunity for the development of large scale vegetable production in this area.

Rio Grande Valley and California vegetable men have recently contracted with several Plains farmers for the production of vegetables. They declare the marketing opportunities are exceptional due to the fact that the vegetables will be harvested here at a period when the established heavy producing areas are not placing their products on the market.

Ripley-Ligon Inc. of Santa Rosa Texas, large Valley growers have contracted for 220 acres at Level-land and 400 around Lubbock. They are also starting 200 to 300 acres in the Dimmitt area. They plan to produce carrots. They have all contracted approximately 1,000 acres for production of lettuce.

This community furnishes seed, fertilizer and equipment and pays the farmer $10 per acre at planting and $10 per acre at harvest time. The company harvests the crop, processes it and markets it. The cost of harvesting and processing is deducted and the profit split 50-50 with the farmer.

The Alexander Marketing Association, another Rio Grande Valley concern, has recently contracted for 600 acres in Hale county. Jiggs Morrison, representative of the association, arranging the transaction. He said that 350 acres would be planted in lettuce and 250 in carrots.

The Fort Worth and Denver Railway this week acquired an option on the Heath Furniture building on their property at Plainview. This was formerly E d s warehouse. The Denver plans to use this 50 by 150 galvanized iron building as a vegetable packing unit for the Alexander Marketing Company.

Jim Parrish, a Valley grower from Mission, Texas, has leased the W. N. Jones half section, nine and one half miles northeast of Petersburg. A crew has been busy several months preparing the land for the planting of carrots. Parrish also plans to experiment with lettuce and peppers. R. P. Walker is superintendent of the project. Parrish plans to bring in experienced Mexican labor to handle the crop.

Most of the projects are on an experimental basis. Representatives of the companies involved have stated that in all probability much larger acreages will be sought in the future if the current program meets expectations. — Petersburg Journal.

Follow Through on Conservation Plans

Soil is saved and water conserved by conservation practices which farmers carry out and not the ones that never get beyond the planning stage, says R. M. Haverly, Chairman of the Briscoe County Agricultural Conservation committee. He urges all farmers in the county who are cooperating in the program to follow through and get the best possible results from the conservation practices for which they have signed up.

Assistance, whether in materials services or payments, is contingent upon actually carrying out the conservation practices. The farmer must first carry out the conservation practices and then have them approved before he is eligible for payment.

Mr. Haverly explained that only so much money is allocated to Briscoe county each year to be used to assist farmers in the county in carrying out conservation practices. The County Agricultural Conservation Committee has the responsibility of using the money to get the most conservation.

When a farmer files with the county committee his intentions to carry out certain conservation practices and the committee tells him how much assistance he may get, that much of the county allocation is set aside for him. If the practices are not carried out, the farmer has tied up that much of the funds which might have been used by some other farmer. The chairman urges farmers who are unable to follow through on practices to let the committee know without delay so the funds can be used by other farmers who need them.

Mr. Haverly urges farmers to carry out the needed conservation practices whether or not assistance can be given on all of them. He advises that the committee will do all it can to assist farmers in getting their conservation practices carried out but it cannot go beyond the funds available.

Texas 4-H Club Girls Have Chance At Movies

COLLEGE STATION, June 1—Texas 4-H Club girls have a chance to "get in the movies."

A movie, The Green Promise, is being built around the story of a farm family's struggle for success. The cast includes a 12-year old 4-H Club girl.

The producers of The Green Promise have announced a nationwide talent search for a 4-H Club girl to fill this part in the film. Four girls will be selected for screen tests. These four, with their chaperones, will receive an all-expense paid trip to Hollywood sometime this summer.

Representatives of the producers conferred this week on details of eligibility with J. D. Prewitt, acting director of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, Maurine Hearn, vice director for women and state home demonstration agent, and others.

To be eligible, a Texas girl must be under 13 years old on July 1, 1948, have been a 4-H Club member for two years or more and be active in 4-H work at the present time.

Entry blanks and full details of the plan have been sent to county home demonstration agents. Selection of the four finalists will be made on the basis of photographs.

The Green Promise is sponsored by Glenn McCarthy, Houston businessman, with Robert Paige and Monty Collins as co-producers.

USDA Urges Homemakers To Salvage Cooking Fats

The United States Department of Agriculture urges American homemakers to save every available drop of used cooking fat.

"Animal fat production," says the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Agricultural Economics, "during the rest of this year is likely to be below that of a year ago." This report, coupled with the U. S. Department of Commerce announcement that "supplies of fats and oils are far below prewar," means that kitchen fat salvage must continue to help make up shortages of fats and oils. The American Fat Salvage Committee points out.

Shortages of virtually every kind of fats and oils are the most acute in world history. Used cooking fats salvaged from America's kitchens and reprocessed for industrial use, means greater quantities of fats—food fats included—can be made available to American industries and to help feed a starving world.

The Department of Agriculture points out that fat salvage is not only a vital conservation measure, but "helps put actual cash in the pocket of every salvager, for meat dealers buy every pound saved. Present needs," says the Dept. of Agriculture, "assure homemakers that there's a spot for every drop saved."

Miss Anna Lee Anderson is spending this week in Amarillo.
