1949 CHEVROLET COMPLETELY RESTYLED

Chevrolet's 1949 passenger cars, completely restyled and possessing more mechanical improvements than any model within recent years, go on display at Simpson Chevrolet Company showrooms here Saturday, January 22.

The automobile is the product of three years of engineering research and design development. Begun immediately after V-J Day, experimental work has included 1,068,000 miles of test driving over the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground and arid highways of the southwest.

The local showing will be held simultaneously with displays in other cities and is expected to draw one of the biggest crowds in the history of events of its kind.

"From inquiries at our offices and dealer showrooms, we know that literally millions are waiting to see the car," said T. H. Keating, general sales manager. "Chevrolet's solid reputation for value and reports of impressive new features have kindled a nationwide interest."

"We do not believe the public will be disappointed. While the car carries numerous comfort and convenience advances, it maintains our tradition of rugged, reliable transportation at the lowest possible cost."

Pvt Horace M. Pitts Completes Basic Airborne Course

Fort Benning, Ga.—Pvt. Horace M. Pitts, 26, husband of Lauram Pitts, of Silvertown, has completed the basic airborne course with the Airborne Battalion, Student Training Regiment, at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

He was presented with the coveted silver wings of a qualified paratrooper at the impressive graduation ceremony of Basic Class No. 10, December 17, 1948.

During his five weeks of strenuous training at Fort Benning he learned the techniques and principles of parachute jumping and landing. In this period he also made five supervised jumps from a plane in flight at altitudes of 100 and 1200 feet, one of which was with complete combat equipment.

A large part of his training covered safety procedures in and around airplanes both before and during actual flight. It is this training which has helped so materially to reduce accidents among America's paratroopers. Another interesting part of the training was a glider flight he took during his training period.

It was at Fort Benning that the late Major General William C. Lee founded and organized the first airborne unit in the United States Army, a force that grew and expanded so rapidly during the war years that it became a major factor in the victories in Europe and the Pacific. Today, two of the greatest of these airborne divisions, the 82nd and the 11th, are on active duty; the former in the United States and the 11th in Japan. Others are being reactivated and the troopers graduated from Fort Benning will swell their strength.

While at Fort Benning, considered by many to be "America's most complete military post," he enjoyed the same facilities that have made assignment to this post one of the most coveted in the army. It was at Benning that so many of America's war leaders, such as General Marshall, Eisenhower, Clark, Bradley and Patton studied and taught. Many of the present faculty members of the schools at Benning studied and served under these distinguished soldiers.

FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT FOUNDER

A Good Resolution

A few weeks ago the New Year was greeted throughout the nation with prayer and song and dance. We said goodbye to 1948, extended a welcoming hand to the Newcomer, and exchanged mutual expressions of hope with our friends that the New Year would prove happy and prosperous.

At the same time, the great majority of Americans gave some thought to New Year resolutions. Most of us might even have kept some of them, right up to this "late" date. But if we did not, there still is a chance to redeem ourselves right now.

There is one resolution every man, woman and child should make and keep. It is an easy one. It entails little or no sacrifice. It will give you a grand feeling—but more important, it will help bring back to health youngsters you may know, or have heard of, or perhaps never even knew existed.

That resolution is simply to: "Join the March of Dimes, January 14-31." The dimes and dollars given to the 1949 appeal of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will enable that organization to rebuild chapter funds exhausted during last year's polio epidemics—which were comparable to those of 1916, worst in history.

You will never miss the dime or dollar you contribute. Resolve now to give generously to the March of Dimes. You may be sure you will share in the prayers of thousands of little ones. You will write the score for a song of a brighter future. Yes, these polio-stricken children may even be able to dance again—because you helped.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Weast visited their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Jones at Slaton over the week end.

Supervisors for Cap Rock District—Earl I. Cantwell, Chairman; Obra Watson, Bray H. Cook, L. A. McJimsey and R. L. Brunson

H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, said in his 1948 fiscal year report today the margin between land deterioration and land conservation in the United States has been so narrow that the goal of a permanent agriculture is in sight "if we but speed up our efforts."

Contributing to the progress of the service's work he reviewed during the past 15 years in his report to Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was still another record year of farm and range land conservation treatment in farmers' soil conservation districts. That was 21 1-2 million acres on which soil conservation measures were applied to meet the needs of the land, or about 7 per cent more than in the previous record year of 1947.

The report pointed out that during each of the 15 years of the life of the Soil Conservation Service, more conservation work was done per employee than during the preceding year.

"Moreover," the soil conservation chief observed, "increased experience on the part of service technicians, together with increased experience and efficiency of the soil conservation districts and cooperating farmers, collectively have made it possible for the service to increase the work load per man each year without sacrificing quality or thoroughness of the conservation work done."

The 1948 accomplishments with a staff reported at 17 percent less per soil conservation district than the year before brought to 571,163 the number of active conservation plans made in the districts since August, 1937, covering 157,751,642 acres. The 1948 year's 109,673 plans covered 31,484,947 acres. The 21,576,654 acres treated in the last fiscal year brought the total acreage treated in districts since the first ones were organized to 82,824,431. The figures do not include other work done during the demonstrational phases of service activities, mainly on private lands.

The report showed there were 2,033 conservation districts in the 48 states, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Virgin Islands as of June 30, comprising 1,114,003,200 acres, and including about three fourths of all the farms and two thirds of the farmland of the country.

Chief Bennett also reported a considerable spread of soil conservation to other countries, with 49 now carrying on some work patterned after that of the Soil Conservation Service, and with 378 scientists or officials of 67 countries having come to the United States since 1942 to study soil conservation methods.

"A prosperous and lasting agriculture utterly depends on an adequate supply of productive land, properly used and so protected that it will remain permanently productive," the report emphasized. "Without this soil foundation, there can be no real hope for a continuously successful agriculture anywhere. And, too, without this foundation there can be no assurance of economic stability and social progress; there can be no assurance of adequate nutrition, prosperity, happiness, or peace anywhere on earth. The solution of our land problem can be stated simply: Use each acre of land adequate safeguards from erosion and other impoverishing forces for the type of production to which it is best suited by nature."

By sharply increasing present conservation operations on the land, he said, the United States can overcome and control erosion within 20 to 30 years. To this end, he advanced seven recommendations for getting the conservation job done on time:

1. Set up a timetable for the establishment of those basic measures needed for the conservation of our soil and water resources, according to capability of the land and availability and need of water.
2. Adjust research in conservation to specific problems encountered in field work and intensify research on those problems.
3. Encourage and promote a comprehensive program of conservation education through all available educational agencies and institutions.
4. Complete land capability surveys of the country and analyze the information to provide land facts needed for future farm planning and action.
5. Recognize and use land capabilities in making production adjustments and in developing other agricultural programs.
6. Encourage continued organization of soil conservation districts, in order to develop conservation programs with local leadership and direction.
7. Improve the conservation credit structure.

CAP ROCK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Legumes such as hairy vetch, Austrian winter peas, alfalfa, clover, beans and peas possess great value other than being used for feed, food, oils, seed, etc. They have specific soil building qualities. The soil building is accomplished in two ways: (1) by adding organic matter to the soil and (2) increasing the nitrogen content of the soil.

Organic matter increases the water holding capacity of soils, increases granulation which increases granulation which makes for easier plowing, aids in drainage and aeration in heavy soils and makes plant nutrients more available.

When legume crops are turned back to the soil and not harvested they will increase the nitrogen contents of the soil. Most soils are deficient in nitrogen and especially those that have been under irrigation for two or three years.

The District encourages all farmers to use a legume in rotation. Winter legumes serve as a cover crop and protect the soil from blowing.

All legume seed should be inoculated with proper inoculant before planting. When they (legume seed) are inoculated with the right kind of bacteria (inoculant) it enables the plant to secure large amounts of nitrogen from the air.

Many farmers make the mistake of using just any inoculant on their legume seed. Different legumes require different inoculant (bacteria.) Alfalfa bacteria are a different bacteria, than say, hairy vetch bacteria. Always name the kind of seed you intend to plant and insist upon the proper inoculant when buying.

Mr. and Mrs. Ware Fogerson and children, visited Mrs. Fogerson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Day, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Birchfield, Sunday in Matador.

Collie Crosses Ocean In Search for Master; Nobody Knows How

DUNELLEN, N. J.—The two-year-old shepherd collie Johan Jacobsen left behind in Oslo, Norway, has come home to Dunellen, N. J., and nobody is quite sure how.

The dog was found wandering on Long Island, N. Y., and was traced to Jacobsen by a collar tag which bore his name and home town.

Jacobsen said he left the dog with friends in Oslo when he returned here. The friends later wrote they were moving and would have to give up the idea of finding transportation to this country for the dog.

A little information on the dog's saga came in a letter Jacobsen received from a Norway man who reported seeing the collie on a plane bound for America. The man, who Jacobsen said he didn't know, wrote that he hoped the dog would reach Jacobsen by means of the collar identification tag.

In New York the Scandinavian air lines said the dog arrived in a crate by plane. It escaped from the cargo room, the line said, when an employee opened the crate to feed and exercise it. Unable to find the dog after a three hour search of the airport, the air line said it notified the police of the dog's disappearance. The dog had been consigned to Jacobsen.

Paris Lover Gets Revenge From Girl Who Spurned Him

PARIS.—M. Jules, Paris bank clerk, took a French revenge when Mlle. Simone, restaurant cashier, spurned his advances. Obtaining a photograph of the lady, taken when she had entered a beauty contest and hiding few of her charms, he had hundreds of copies made.

In the name of Mlle. Simone he then replied to all matrimonial "ads" of lonely bachelors: "I am longing for a soul mate. Come and see me. My photo, enclosed, will show you what I am like."

Lonely bachelors moved in. Mlle. Simone had to move out. Police arrested Jules.

Homeless Veteran Complains Of Too Much Human Kindness

ST. LOUIS.—Roy Webb's joy of living has been killed by other people's kindness.

Webb, a war veteran out of the quartermaster corps, lost his home and his belongings in a fire. His troubles began when neighbors collected $72 to help him. "Everyone is careful to mention how much he contributed. I've added it all up and it comes to about $5,000."

"They all think I'm a millionaire because one group said it was going to try to raise $7,000 for me."

"The neighbors expected me to build a new house overnight. I've had to spend so much time at it I lost my job as a sign erector."

"Carpenters, electricians, plasterers and others volunteered to help but none ever showed up. "People wouldn't let me build the kind of house I wanted. I wanted something fabricated but they all insist I build something more expensive."

Webb said he is selling the half-completed house so he can return the contributions.

"I want to get back my self-respect," he said.

German Housewives Store Potatoes in Their Beds

LINCOLN, NEB. — American housewives discontented in this era of high prices should consider the plight of German women, according to Dr. Otto Holberg, University of Nebraska sociologist.

Holberg returned recently from three years' service in Berlin with the United States military government.

The problem of protecting vegetables from freezing is acute, he said, and some German housewives store potatoes in their beds.

A change in the family menu frequently consists of switching the black bread serving from before to after the potato course, he said.

Coffee grounds are brewed three and four times and finally pressed into service as a cake ingredient, Holberg said.

The sociologist urged American women's groups to contact German women's clubs, through the military government's women's division at Nuernberg, and aid the latter in their self-help programs.

Londoner Organizes Party To Hunt Lost Continent

LONDON.—An expedition to seek Atlantis, the lost continent of ancient mythology which disappeared beneath the ocean, is being organized here by Egerton Sykes, former secretary of the British embassy in Warsaw, Poland.

Sykes has devoted 25 years to study of the mystery of Atlantis and believes he has located it in the South Atlantic off the Azores. The expedition will use underwater radar and television. Several hundred persons have contributed funds.

Chevrolet's 'Balanced Design' Adds Beauty and Comfort

Progressive streamlining of the 1949 Chevrolet is in emphasis in this view of the Styleline De Luxe four-door sedan against a new Martin 202 passenger air-

CHEVROLET GOES ON DISPLAY HERE SATURDAY

A product of three years' development work and more than a million miles of engineering research, the 1949 Chevrolet goes on display in dealer showrooms here Saturday. The latest model has been completely restyled. It is lower, wider and more distinctive than any previous series. Not only does the design introduce superior safety to the lowest-priced ranks, but numerous body and chassis improvements promise to add to Chevrolet's reputation for comfort, safety and convenience. Two series of cars, the Fleetline Styleline, are included with De Luxe treatment an option in all body types. De Luxe cars increased emphasis on the use of fabrics, trim and appointments. The lineup shows: Fleetline—Two and four-door models. This design is distinguished by the extension of the roof in an unbroken sweep to the back. Known to the trade as a "back", the form achieved popularity on the 1948 two-door sedan. Fleetline—Two and four-door models, sport coupe, three-passenger business coupe, convertible, wood and all-steel station wagons. Styleline sedans carry the "notch back". Here the curvature of the roof meets the rear deck at the body belt line.

In both styling and performance, the 1949 series continues the "big car" aspect that have always been traditional with Chevrolet. The design is fresh and substantial-looking without approaching the extreme. Greater comfort is depicted demonstrably by "ruler and by ride." The rugged six-cylinder, valve-in-head engine remains fundamentally the same, but refinements will increase appreciably the car's handling ease and owner satisfaction.

"In the engineering of our most important model in several years, we considered first the qualities that have consistently given Chevrolet the leadership in the industry," said a company statement. "We did not make changes simply for the sake of change. Every innovation throughout the chassis and body was exhaustively tested and approved. We exercised great care to assure ourselves that each departure met Chevrolet standards."

The first impression of the new cars is one of smart styling, structural strength and generous dimensions. The entire passenger compartment has been moved forward, lengthened, broadened and lowered, affording a pleasing balance in proportions. Rearwardly the front fenders have been absorbed into the body, their vertical planes built flush with the doors. Crowns of the fenders have also been raised to fit more snugly into the hood and low, clean ensemble of the grille. To add grace and protect body surfaces, a partial rear fender has been retained.

From the passenger's standpoint perhaps the chief improvement in bodies is the immense increase in glass area. All windows have been deepened and widened. The windshield takes full advantage of broader bodies, curving inward at the narrowed pillars to improve sideway as well as forward vision. On comparable models the gain in visibility over 1948 has been as much as 30 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Tate were dinner guests of Mrs. Dewey Beavers Monday.

Riley Zeigler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Zeigler, was taken to Lubbock General Hospital Sunday critically ill with symptoms of meningitis.

EXPOSE COMING

Spain, Reds, Nazis Linked

WASHINGTON.—The United States, Britain and France are planning to publish new facts about Spain and Russia's secret negotiations with Nazi Germany.

Details of the pre-war Hitler-Stalin deal to divide Poland will be bared for the first time in two separate 1,000-page volumes now under preparation.

Evidence of German, Italian and Russian intervention in the Spanish civil war will feature a third volume dealing with Franco's relations with Hitler from 1936 to 1939.

Three of 25 Volumes

Diplomatic officials told a reporter the state department, in cooperation with the British and French foreign offices, plans to start publishing these documents early next year. They will be printed in English, French and German.

They will be but three of the 25 volumes being prepared by historians of the three countries from German records captured by First Army troops in the closing days of the war. The researchers had to burrow through 450 tons of documents to sift out the essential material.

Soviet Russia's relations with Germany will not be dealt with in separate volumes, but will be included in two volumes telling of general Nazi foreign policy prior to the outbreak of war in September, 1939.

This may be due to a desire to avoid further disturbing touchy relations with Russia. Moscow bitterly denounced the state department early this year after it publicized part of the record of Soviet-German negotiations as revealed in Nazi documents.

Contains More Detail

A government official working on the project said, however, the two new volumes being edited now will contain "twice as much detail" on this subject as the earlier state department volume which ran 362 pages. This fact alone may evoke a new outburst from Moscow.

Official German documents will be published intact to show step-by-step the secret intrigues which led to the 1939 Russian-German non-aggression pact which doomed Poland. The papers will then trace in detail the growing distrust between the two nations resulting from their failure to agree on spheres of influence despite lengthy negotiation.

One point that stands out, this official said, is that Hitler and the Nazi foreign office had no spies in Russia—unlike the situation elsewhere—and were forced to rely entirely upon their embassy in Moscow for information.

Group Offers New Hope

To Couples Now Childless

BOSTON.—Childless couples who want children have twice as good a chance of having them today as 20 years ago. Sterility now can be overcome in about 40 per cent of such marriages, a group of medical specialists here has reported. Only 20 per cent could be treated successfully in 1927.

In that year four faculty members of the Boston university school of medicine formed the first organized group for the systematic study of sterility. They were a gynecologist, a urologist, a specialist on endocrine glands and an internist.

This group has studied some 800 childless couples, with each specialist making complete examinations and tests.

One main finding is that sterility is usually due to more than one single trouble.

There are 40 to 50 different conditions that can lower fertility and generally four or five were found in each couple.

"In over 80 per cent of cases, these conditions depressing fertility were divided between husband and wife," the group's report said.

Vets Pass 18 Million Mark

Total Loans Are $8 Million

WASHINGTON.—The war veteran population in the United States now stands in excess of 18 million, according to an announcement by the Veterans' administration.

There are approximately 15 million World War II veterans now living, and 3.8 million veterans of other wars. Of the 18.8 million, 186,000 are in schools and colleges. About 130,000 have obtained home loans under federal guaranty; 48,000 have obtained farm loans, and 100,000 have obtained business loans. The loan total is about $8 million dollars.

Total number of disability or compensation cases is 2,263,296. New automobiles have been obtained for 22,030 disabled veterans. These are paid for by the government if veterans are eligible under the law.

National service life insurance has 19,597,055 approved policies with a face value of more than $152 million.

At the end of October there were 108,762 patients in veterans' hospitals. Awaiting hospital admission were another 15,236.

Under the new hospital building program, 85 are in various stages of progress, such as site acquisition, blueprinting and designing.

Alger Hiss

NEW YORK.—Alger Hiss, former employee of the U.S. State Department, is shown quite serene as he arrives at the Manhattan Federal Grand Jury which is investigating communism and espionage. The investigation has been given added impetus with the discovery of microfilm of top drawer secrets in a apartment on the floor of Whitaker Chambers, and admitted former communist.

"BOUGHT AND PAID FOR BUT NOT RECEIVED"

Those were the words used by John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security Administration, to describe what happens when a worker fails to show his social security card to each new employer. "When the end of a calendar quarter rolls around," Mr. Sanderson continued, "the company has to make its report of social security numbers, names, wages, and taxes. If you have shown your social security card to your boss, your name and number will be shown correctly, and you will have that much more to your credit in your old-age and survivors insurance account." Social security claims are based on what the records show. Wages that are not credited can't be used in determining whether a worker is insured. And wages that were not credited won't fatten the monthly benefit checks.

"Since employees reap the benefits of social security, while your employer gets nothing but the job of keeping the records, paying the tax and making the reports," Mr. Sanderson concluded, "I urge you to show your card to him the first day you report on a new job. By doing this, you not only help him, but you will protect your own social security account."

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lemons visited Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gerdes in Tulla Sunday.

Miss Dorothy McMurtry and Mrs. L. D. Griffin were in Amarillo on business Saturday.

Native Floridians Make Money With Lowly Earthworms

BLOUNTSTOWN, FLA.—Florida is not all sunny beaches, sparkling ocean and wealthy merchants with hand outstretched for the tourist dollar.

In north Florida, far from the lucrative tourist resorts to the south, hundreds of families depend upon the earthworm for a livelihood.

These crakers call their enterprise "grunting" and some worm brokers are coining up to $6,000 annually.

Contrary to popular belief, good fishing worms can't be found in an old back-yard.

Anglers have given up the early morning search for worms. They stop at a gas station on the way to the fishing place and stock up with bait already packaged in cardboard containers.

Blountstown is the center of the worm industry. Most of the "grunting" is done by children, who get 15 cents to 25 cents per hundred worms for their labor.

The method is simple. The crews rub old automobile spring leaves over hardwood pegs driven into the ground. The vibration brings the crawlers scurrying out of their holes.

Andrew Coxwell, veteran grubber, sells on an average of 20,000 worms a week, collecting anywhere from 50 cents to 65 cents per hundred wholesale and 75 cents to $1 retail.

He has the "worm rights" on 900 acres of land, for which he pays the owner 10 cent for every 100 worms dug up. The owner's not complaining. He paid $3,500 for the acreage and in the first year his take was $1,500 just from worm operations.

Missouri River Plays Hide And Seek With Home Owner

OMAHA, NEB. — Missouri river played a "now you see it, now you don't" trick on Rex Elwood of Omaha.

Elwood owned a two-story house on the west bank of Swenson island in the Missouri river opposite Fort Calhoun. It was there one day; the next day it wasn't.

A tenant, Mike Lamb, told Elwood he moved out when churning waters of the "Big Muddy" began nibbling at a corner of the foundation.

Six months ago the river was 200 yards from Elwood's property.

"Now," he said sadly, "I own a good section of river bottom." He attributed the loss to the diversion of the main channel near the head of the island.

Joe Cannon's 'Bargain' Coat Brings Very Little Profit

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Uncle Joe Cannon, former speaker of the house, was a notoriously shabby dresser.

Thinking that he should dress up to his position, his sister tried to persuade him to buy a new overcoat so, finally, one day on his way to the capitol, he stopped in a clothing store, priced garments and found overcoats for $35 each. Indignantly he marched out, announcing he could not be that extravagant.

When the late Senator Watson, who was present, reported this to Cannon's sister that evening, she secretly handed him $15 with the request that he visit the store and slip it surreptitiously to the overcoat man, thereby automatically reducing the price to $20. She then persuaded Uncle Joe to stop again and price the garment, which he did. Discovering the cost was now $20 instead of $35, he bought one and wore it to his office on the hill. One of his conferees, impressed, saw it and remarked:

"You have a new overcoat, Uncle Joe. I would like to try it on." Finding it fitted, he turned to his friend and said: "I'll give you $25 for it, spot cash."

Speaker Cannon, thinking that he was making a shrewd bargain and a quick profit, accepted, put on his old coat and went home, reporting the developments to his sister, much to her dismay.

Sniff Expert Called to Help Police Solve Perfume Puzzle

ATLANTA. — Samples of a perfume cache believed to be worth $30,000 to $50,000 were on the way to New York for evaluation by a "professional sniffer."

Detective Sgt. Bill Lyle said the police hope an expert can determine the actual value of the perfume and perhaps tell where it was manufactured.

The perfume—300 4½-ounce bottles—was found in an Atlanta hotel room. Lyle said local perfume dealers believe the unlabeled bottles contain an expensive perfume made in France. They estimated its value at from $17.50 to $22 an ounce, but referred police to a New York expert.

The detective said the perfume was found in a room rented to a man who paid his hotel bill but left town owing other bills totaling $90. Lyle theorized that the perfume was smuggled into this country since no tax stamps were on the bottles.

Winter Car Care

CLEVELAND, OHIO—Many car owners put antifreeze in the radiator, lighter grease in the transmission, thinner oil in the crankcase and think their car is winterized. Not so, say the technical and service experts of Willard Battery. The equally vital electrical system, often overlooked, needs winterizing, also. Motorists should take these six steps in preparing the electrical system for cold weather, the Willard experts advise: Test battery and recharge if necessary, clean battery terminals, tighten battery hold-downs, check voltage regulator, tighten all electrical connections and adjust generator belt. Unless a battery is fully charged, it will face an almost insurmountable task when required to start an engine in zero weather. At zero a fully charged battery has only 40 per cent of the cranking power it has at 80 degrees. A battery can be ruined by freezing in cold weather unless it is kept fully charged. No liquid other than pure water should ever be added to the battery.

WORK'S DONE FASTER Electrically

ON THE farm and on the ranch work is done faster when electric service is effectively used.

Today more farms and ranches have electricity than ever before, and those who already have dependable electric service are finding more uses for it than ever before.

These progressive men are finding that electric lighting in the work areas, electric refrigeration, electric power tools for repairs and maintenance, electric milkers, brooders, incubators, choppers, and loaders all mean that more work can be done in a shorter period of time... at less cost.

When the time saved is compared with the low operating cost of modern electrical farm and ranch aids, the answer is obvious. That's why so many are using so much electric service. Check with your nearest county agent, REA or Public Service representative to see where electricity can help you.
