Grain Sorghum Loan Program For 1948 Closed This Week

This week marked the close of the 1948 Grain Sorghum Loan program, and purchase agreement. That is to say February 28, 1949 was the final date for producers to either sign a purchase agreement or to place their grain sorghum in the government loan. Producers will be notified to start delivering grain sorghum that is now stored on the farm immediately after May 1, 1949. Information on delivering will be passed on to farmers as soon as it is received in the county ACA office.

Almost all of the 1948 applications for payment have been transmitted to the State Office for payment. As soon as they are audited in the General Accounting Office checks will be mailed direct to the producer, so in the near future all producers will receive their 1948 ACP check.

Farmers are urged to secure written approval of the county committee before contour listing or contour chiseling is started. Unless approval is requested prior to the time the practice is started, no governmental assistance will be offered, Milton G. Martin, administrative officer, Briscoe County ACA announced this week.

Landscaping and the Ladies Went a Long Way Last Year

Landscaping and the women's home demonstration clubs went a long way last year.

There were over 20 thousand women enrolled as demonstrators who improved their own home lawns. Of this number, more than 1,300 gave demonstrations and assisted in conducting training meetings for their clubs. The leaders assisted in making 34 study tours to Experiment Substations, and they opened their own homes and helped conduct 351 achievement day tours to see neighbors' accomplishments.

Sadie Hatfield, extension landscape gardening specialist of Texas A. and M. College, says in her annual report that 65 tours were also made to homes of garden club members. Control of insects and plant diseases were among the landscaping programs conducted. Other accomplishments for the year included teaching their neighbors how to prune trees and shrubs, build barbecue pits and outdoor living room furniture, and arrange flowers.

The demonstrators say they learned more than the people they taught, reports Miss Hatfield. Not only were they benefited materially, but here are the figures to show the actual number of yard improvements made. There were nearly 4,500 outdoor living rooms arranged and furnished, over 2,300 drives and 2,700 walks built. And nearly 29,300 shrubs and trees were grown from seeds and cuttings.

Not all of the 20,000 demonstrators who enrolled reached demonstration status, says Miss Hatfield, but 689 achieved that honor during the year.

Tomato Planting Time is Just Around The Corner

In order to get an early start with tomatoes, it's necessary to plant the seeds now in a plant box or hotbed.

The tomato seedlings can sprout from seed now and spend the next six to eight weeks under protection from the cold, growing big enough for transplanting, when all danger of frost has passed.

For the average home garden, says J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist of Texas A. and M. College, a small plant box can be built 18 inches wide, 30 inches long and four inches deep. The soil should be made up of equal parts of compost material and good garden loam soil, thoroughly pulverized and packed.

It's suggested that the rows be four inches apart, and the tomato seed planted three per inch in rows running the width of the box. Cover the seed one-fourth inch deep and sprinkle the soil well with warm water to speed up germination. On warm days the plant box may be left in the sunlight on the porch, but brought inside when the temperatures drop below 40 degrees F.

When the plants get to be two or three inches high, it's a good idea to thin them to a spacing of four inches between plants. But don't throw away the ones you thin out. Shift them over to another box, or give them to a neighbor who may have also prepared a tomato box.

After growing in the plant box for six or eight weeks, the seedlings will be about eight inches high. Then they're ready for transplanting into the open garden when all danger of frost is over, and water them good before setting them out, suggests Rosborough.

In order to have your tomato seedlings ready to set out in the garden on time, it's a good idea to start the plant box preparation around seven weeks before the usual date of the last killing frost.

Six to eight weeks before the last killing frost is the time to build a tomato plant box. The seeds have to sprout and live in the box that long before they're ready to transplant in the garden.

Greater use of soybean oil in mayonnaise and other salad dressings now seems likely, since USDA chemists have demonstrated that refinishing oil with citric acid improves both its flavor and keeping quality.

Women Quit House Jobs

WASHINGTON.—The shift of women away from domestic service was emphasized in an analysis by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor of women's occupational trends since 1940.

Women workers in domestic service declined 29 per cent in the eight years, while the number of women in clerical jobs rose 78 per cent, and the total of saleswomen was up 62 per cent. The comparatively small group of women proprietors and officials doubled, and women labor operatives and craftsmen increased by 60 per cent.

With full employment and an ever-all expanding labor force, domestic workers constituted the only category of women workers that registered a numerical decline, though women in professional jobs has become a smaller proportion of the total number of such workers.

Miss Frieda Miller, director of the Women's Bureau, attributed the continuing flight of the housemaid from the United States home "simply to the fact that there are better and more desirable jobs for women."

Pay Is Factor

Asked if economic inflation had not also made it impossible for the average housewife to pay for the services of a maid, Miss Miller replied:

"If those workers could not get another job that paid as much, they would be forced to take housework. The better job pulls the worker from the poorer one."

In April, 1940, the total of women in domestic service was 2,100,000 in an over-all women's labor force of 11,920,000. In October, 1948, the comparative figures were 1,484,000 and 17,371,000 respectively.

Miss Miller said that she could see no end to this trend.

"Certainly in the last war we shot ourselves out of any chance of ever again having 'service' in the sense of a household staff standing by waiting for orders," she commented. "I recall a conversation between two English friends, a mother of 30 and her middle-aged daughter which ended with the daughter saying, 'I always had six people in service, and now we've only got one for the two of us.'"

Must Demonstrate

"It seems to me that home service still could be purchased on the basis of specific jobs at which workers would be required to prove proficiency, as a stenographer must demonstrate her number of words per minute.

"But we are a backward nation on that score. On the basis of the small study we have made, examples of household job descriptions and standards are hard to find. That concept of domestic service apparently is neither general nor acceptable in this country. Domestic work remains the one example of 'buying a pig in a pike' with every transaction."

Scientific Party Finds Bird Believed Extinct

LONDON.—Led by Dr. G. B. Orbell, a party has succeeded in capturing on the snowgrass slopes above Lake Te Anau, New Zealand, two specimens of Notornis, a bird long thought to have become extinct. The creatures walked into a net, where they were photographed and then set free. They were 18 inches high and weighed five pounds.

The bird now rediscovered, says the London Times, is the Notornis hochstetteri, the Takake. It is a flightless bird related to the coots and gallinules. Its back is bronzy green, its sides are green, and head, neck and underparts blue. The bill is red and heavy.

As a result of the discovery the government of New Zealand plans to set aside, as a sanctuary for newly discovered birds, 400,000 acres of Fiordland national park in South Island. The area, extending south from a track between Te Anau and Milford Sound to Lake Manapouri, will then be open only to visitors obtaining permission, and dogs and guns will be wholly excluded.

Shaped Explosives Held Too Dangerous in Mining

WASHINGTON.—Shaped explosive charges used effectively by American armed forces in demolition and for penetrating armor during the war are too hazardous and expensive for use in blast-hole drilling in underground mines, investigations by the United States bureau of mines have revealed.

The experiments, conducted at the bureau's Mt. Weather, Va., testing tunnel, showed that the cost of blasting drill holes with shaped charges was approximately $8 per foot or "more than 20 times that of producing a better hole with a rock drill." Furthermore, the concussion produced by the shaped charges would prohibit their use in many mines, the report points out. When nitrocellulose is the explosive used, the generation of excess carbon monoxide creates an additional hazard. During the experiment, two series of tests were made with 15 and 40-pound military-type charges on both hard and soft-rock formations.

Lubbock.—Entries are now being received for the Sixteenth Annual Junior Fat Stock Show, which is to be held in Lubbock during the period March 21, 22, 23, 1949.

The show, which is held for 4-H Clubs and F. F. A. Chapter members of twenty-six South Plains counties, and three Eastern New Mexico counties, is sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Board of City Development and Panhandle South Plains Fair Association.

A total of $973.00 is offered as premiums to young livestock exhibitors, and new classes have been provided for Angus steers and Southdown lambs this year. In addition, an auction is held at the conclusion of the show, where business firms of Lubbock and the surrounding towns buy the livestock at prices well above market. Mr. Morris Seigler, Auctioneer of the Lubbock Auction and Commission Company, is to serve as Auctioneer. An attractive entertainment program is being arranged for the boys during their stay in Lubbock. Tickets will be furnished to the exhibitors, which will permit them to attend one of the Lindsey Theaters, and a barbecue is planned on the second night of their stay in Lubbock. At this barbecue, prize monies and recognition will be given to the winners of the various classes and divisions of the show.

Mr. W. L. Stangle, dean of the agricultural division; Mr. Ray C. Lowery and Mr. J. H. Baumgardner, head of and member of the animal husbandry at Texas Technological College, are to judge the fat steers, barrows and lambs exhibited in the show. Mr. Homer Hunt, Lubbock, is general chairman of the show this year.

All exhibitors must have their entries in to the Fat Stock Show office by not later than March 11th, or postmarked on that day, to be eligible to compete in the show. Entries must be prepared and submitted by County Agents or Vocational Agriculture teachers who supervise the work of the boys.

"Texo", the grand champion steer from Pecos County, will be remembered for quite a while. Eight pairs of cowboys boots are being made from his hide for that many Pecos county 4-H Club boys.

The Jersey Wakefield, Copenhagen Market or Glory of Enkhuizen are good varieties of cabbages to plant. Cabbages should be set a foot apart in the row.

Sinking

Hill Puzzles Canada
HALLONQUIST, SASK.—There's a sinking hill in this district, forty miles southeast of Swift Current, and it seems to be disappearing fairly fast. One old-timer said that in 1909 the hill was normal except that livestock shunned it. In 1911 the hill began to crack up and portions sank from six to eight inches. Now a valley three-quarters of a mile long and 50 feet deep has developed.

One engineer surmised that a vast bed of quicksand may lie underneath the ground. Others suspect underground water erosion.

Bricker Asks Study To See if America Faces Dictatorship

DETROIT—A commission to find out whether the United States is rushing toward dictatorship has been suggested by Sen. John Bricker (R., Ohio).

Bricker expressed concern that the federal system was being abandoned and with it individual freedoms.

Bricker's suggestion was made during a four-man panel discussion of the federal system at a meeting of state officials.

Bricker declared: "Maybe state governments are an expensive, archaic, manifestation of a bygone day and should be dissolved. Heaven forbid such a recommendation—but if they are let's find it out and stop paying lip service to the federal system."

The proposed commission, patterned after the Hoover group which studied the executive branch, would study the division of powers between levels of government. It would also determine appropriate fields of taxation.

The senator said the commission should be composed of representatives from the three branches of federal government, from the state government and from the people.

The discussion brought out that constant growth of national government was due chiefly to failure of states to assume responsibilities.

Oil Boom Town of Today Quiet as One's Back Yard

RANKIN, TEX.—This is what passes today for an oil boom town. It's as quiet as your backyard.

Gone are the brawling boom days when poor men struck it rich overnight, when roughnecks drank bootleg whisky like water and fought in muddy streets for the sake of fighting.

That happened until the late 1920's wherever new oil fields were found, from Pennsylvania to California. It's still happening in Canada, oil men say, but in the United States the boom town has grown stolid.

Changes in machines and men and laws are behind the boom town's new respectability.

Workers used to have to crowd into an undersized hamlet near the field, or live in tents and bunkhouses on the job because their rattletrap cars bogged down in narrow roads hub deep in mud. Now they can spread out, as far away from the field as they feel like driving over paved highways.

In the old times, hardly a day passed that a man wasn't hurt on a rickety rig. Now equipment is safe, and tested to make sure it stays that way.

Among today's roughnecks you'll find college men — petroleum engineers and geologists. They're getting ready to be executives by learning the horny-handed end of the business.

Wildcatters, who drilled wells with barely enough money to buy baling wire to hold their rigs together, went out of business when the big companies started leasing and the states began laying down the law about where and how close together wells could be sunk.

Rankin, with a rich new field in her lap, is still a peaceful town of ranchers and storekeepers.

More Than Brains Needed For Success in Careers

CHICAGO.—Why does the college-trained man frequently fail at his first job?

The answer—he is still a child in one way or another, because he lacks one or more of seven basic traits.

That is the answer given by Dr. Robert N. McMurry based on a survey by his management firm which studied 1,167 trainees directly hired from college by 247 companies.

He listed the seven traits as:

- The ability to stay long enough with a company to repay the investment in training.
- The ability to accept responsibility.
- Perseverance, or the ability "to follow a path to the end."
- Self-reliance.
- The quality of being agreeable to different groups and different persons.
- Identification of his personal goals with those of the firm.
- And the ability to exercise authority without belligerence.

"Absence of these traits, or any one of them, indicates failure of an individual to grow emotionally," said Dr. McMurry.

NEW DISCOVERY

Less Needle For Diabetics

CHICAGO—A new combination of standard insulin gives persons with severe diabetes more freedom from the hypodermic needle and more social freedom, a Northwestern university medical specialist has said.

The mixture uses two portions of "regular" insulin to 1 portion of "protamine" insulin and is known as "2:1 mixture."

The Northwestern associate professor of medicine who led in its development and testing over a six-year period is Dr. Arthur R. Colwell, who is president of the Chicago Diabetes association.

Dr. Colwell stated that he had tested the mixture on more than 500 severe diabetics and that 90 per cent of them needed only one injection a day in contrast to three or more injections sometimes necessary for severe diabetics. Like other insulins, the new mixture may be injected by the patient.

Program for Patients

The new combination usually is administered in the morning, although the most severe cases require two divided doses a day.

Under the older system thousands of diabetics were obliged to give themselves as many as 20,000 injections in twenty years. With the new mixture the figure is cut to 365 per year, or only 7,300 in twenty years.

The 2:1 mixture is more effective in its results, Dr. Colwell said. Because it provides a smoother balance between insulin action and body utilization of eaten food it avoids two opposite situations, he added. In one, reactions to insulin are felt during the night when blood sugar falls too low because of insulin action. In the other, blood sugar level is too high during the daytime because of slow insulin action.

These faults in insulin therapy were discovered after experience by severe diabetics with protamine insulin, the first long-acting insulin to eliminate frequent injections. In insulin of this type a simple protein is mixed with insulin to slow it down.

Some Old Disadvantages

However, severe diabetics sometimes suffered unconsciousness and convulsions during the night when they were using it. During the day action of the insulin was inadequate to let the body handle normal food intake.

"Regular" insulin acts to cut down the blood sugar very quickly and it is this type which necessitates frequent small doses. The new mixture combines regular and protamine insulins.

So far the new product has not been manufactured on a large scale, but progress is being made toward that objective.

'Electric Brain' Causes Shock That Cures Maladies

PARIS—Credulity is not an outstanding trait of the French, but one might believe so to judge by the lurid exploits over a thirteen-year period of Fernand-Albert-Didier Rameau, a wily person of 37, now in jail.

"Professor" Rameau, as he styled himself, was seized while comporting himself with style at International House of University City, reserved in great part for faculty members of the Sorbonne. The reason for his privileged status was his recital of a glittering record of achievements. These included the reputed bestowal of the Prix Curie, in 1938, a diploma cum laude from the University of Copenhagen, possession of the Silver Medal of the Paris Municipality and other impressive distinctions.

His outstanding accomplishment, however, and that which most awed his colleagues at University City, was his invention of an "electric brain," a battery-operated apparatus which, snugly fitted over the cranium of the afflicted, "cured" cancer, tuberculosis, goiter and such lesser maladies as athlete's foot, the shingles and the common pip.

Drought-Resistant Grass Stands up Under Tests

SANTA BARBARA.—A new grass seed called Harding grass, subject of a 21-year experiment, has displayed characteristics which may make it the nation's leading drought resistant feed for cattle, it was reported by Mr. and Mrs. Girard van Barkaloo Hale of Santa Barbara, California, and New York.

Two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Hale "adopted" and completely rehabilitated the demolished village of Maille in France, together with its 490 inhabitants.

The greatest single benefit of the seed, which remains green for more than six months of the year and is a 20-year perennial, is the fact that, where now three acres of grazing grass are required for each head of cattle, in Harding-grass pastures it is possible to feed three head on only one acre of grass.

Harding grass is highly drought-resistant, each stalk producing bulb-like growths above the surface in which plant foods are stored. During an eleven-month drought, the Harding grass remained green and nutritious while the surrounding fields were devoid of growth.

Supervisors for Cap Rock District—Earl I. Cantwell, Chairman; Obra Watson, Bray H. Cook, L. A. McJimsey and R. L. Brunson

The Board of Supervisors of the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District held a special meeting Monday, February 21, 1949 to discuss the annual plan of operations. Supervisors present were Earl I. Cantwell, Bray Cook, and K. L. Brunson. Mr. W. Scott Amend, district conservationist, Plainview, Mr. Leo White, County Agricultural Agent of Briscoe County and Mr. Lewis Dawkins with the Texas State Conservation Board were visitors at this meeting. The next meeting date is scheduled for March 9, 1949.

Soil Conservation technicians located a high point February 24 on Tony Burson's farm five miles east of Silverton.

Grady Tyler, a cooperater in Cap Rock Soil Conservation District had SCS technicians run terrace lines on his farm this week. The terraces are one step in Soil conservation plan for Mr. Tyler's farm. Terrace lines were also run for Bill Helms, whose farm is located in the Gasoline community.

SCS technicians ran lines for an irrigation ditch for E. F. Payne, a cooperater in the Cap Rock Conservation District, February 28. Mr. Payne's farm is located 3 1/2 miles east of Quitaque.

Florals and Stripes For Smart Effects

A bedroom should bear the stamp of its occupant, and the junior miss will want a room that suits her own feminine fancy.

A cheerful and inviting bedroom, one that will inspire pride and merit sufficient care and attention, can be very simply achieved. In the room shown, the solid colored bedspread stands out strikingly against patterned walls. Two wall papers have been combined for a different and dramatic look—a large floral design in contrast to trim, bold stripes gives the room real distinction. Wide ruffles on the spread, a thick matted scatter rug, a delicate arrangement of hanging ivy, are all in keeping with a love of glamour in interior decoration.

This is a room to be lived in and enjoyed. It will prove popular with the homemaker as well as being a boon to its young occupant. And its smart slightly tailored appearance will be a constant source of pleasure.

Bedroom decorative schemes should be designed to suit the individual taste. The wide and interesting selection of wall papers available today (especially during March which is Wall Paper Style Month) make it an easy task to do a custom-made redecorating job for every one of your rooms.

Why are the windows on this barn like U.S. Savings Bonds ?

Way back, when your grandfather was still very young, Pennsylvania farmers were doing a very strange thing.

They were painting the windows of their cow barns with ornate scenes of meadows and fields—sometimes they would even paint lace curtains on the windows.

All of this was done so that the cows inside the barn would be shut off from the bother and confusion of the outside world. They would see nothing but peace and contentment.

And it came to us that U.S. Savings Bonds are very much like these painted windows.

For Savings Bonds stand between you and financial worries. They assure you the peace and contentment of knowing that you have money on hand to meet future emergencies, hospital bills, and children's education.

And buying U.S. Savings Bonds is as easy as painting a barn window. For today, it can all be done automatically through your employer or local bank.

They do all the work for you. But it's you who collects the $4 on every $3 you invest in U.S. Savings Bonds. So right now, today—ask your employer or bank about the automatic way to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Automatic saving is sure saving—U.S. Savings Bonds

Cables Thanks For CROP Food Trains

BREMEN — Dr. Eldon Burke, supervisor of CROP Food train commodities received here, today called officials of the Christian Rural Overseas program in America that "we are greatly encouraged by the success of your 24 state Christmas trains, composed of 2000 carloads of foodstuffs."

Burke said that most warehouses in Northern Germany were empty and that orphans, widows, refugees, and old people were in greater need than last winter.

He concluded: "Your decision to conduct CROP campaigns in all 48 states in 1949 will certainly help us in rehabilitation and in building for peace."

CROP is sponsored by Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service, and Lutheran World Relief.

A Nose For Trouble

BUREBANK, CAL. — (Soundphoto) — The Lockheed Shooting Star (F-80) has a new look. This front view of the craft shows a large rocket protruding from the nose. Flame and heat from the rocket's thrust is dissipated through an opening in the underside of the nose. The pilot is protected by a special fire wall. It has been reported that the rocket has been fired while the ship was in flight. Plane also carried banks of smaller rockets under each wing.

WHEN ELECTRICITY comes to the farm, it comes to aid both production and living.

Some wires lead to the work areas, where refrigeration, lighting, and power for tools and work saving devices are needed.

Another line comes to the home, bringing good lighting, entertainment, and electricity for cooking, washing, refrigerating, ironing, and a score of other tasks.

On other farms and ranches, where electricity is already available, more and more is being used constantly as folks discover that electricity can bring so many benefits at a surprisingly low cost.
