Texas Baptists to Meet in Abilene March 31-April 2

Six thousand Baptists from all over Texas are expected to meet in Abilene March 31-April 2 for the fifty-ninth annual state Training Union convention. Headquarters for the meeting will be Rose house on Hardin-Simmons university campus.

General sessions of the convention are to be held in the field house auditorium. Departmental sessions from nursery age children through adults will meet in the First Baptist, University Baptist, First Christian, First Presbyterian, and St. Pauls Methodist churches.

Dr. Guy Newman, pastor of the First Baptist church, Denison, is state Training Union president. He will preside at all general sessions.

The convention will be the scene of three state-wide church contests—the better music and better speech competition and the intermediate drill for proficiency in locating and understanding bible scriptures. Winners of the speech and bible tournaments will represent Texas in the South-wide contests in Ridgecrest, N. C., in July.

Approximately 200 people are to appear on the convention program, according to Dr. T. C. Gardner, Dallas, state Training Union secretary. Among the speakers are Dr. Robert G. Lee, Memphis, Tenn.; Dr. Joe Burton, editor Home Life magazine, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. J. Howard Williams, state Baptist executive secretary, Dallas; and Dr. W. R. White, Baylor university president, Waco.

Special groups who will participate in the meeting include children from the state school for the deaf in Austin; students from foreign countries now enrolled in Wayland Baptist college, Plainview; and the world-famous Hardin-Simmons Cowboy and Cowgirl bands.

Away Goes Our Gas

Texas Officialdom is mightily worked up over the federal threat to the state's tideland oil. Federal interference is denounced. If the tideland oil seizure goes through, Texas undoubtedly will be deprived of a great deal of revenue.

Yet Texas officialdom, and especially the Texas legislature, is strangely quiet and inactive regarding another threat to Texas resources—the siphoning off of the state's tremendous natural gas reserves to heat the boilers and warm the homes of people in other states.

The Federal Power Commission has the say-so in this, for it has the power of life and death over new interstate pipelines under the public convenience and necessity clause. The commission has been extremely generous in granting these new lines, and in allowing increases in the amount of Texas gas the lines may carry.

This week an attorney for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company of San Francisco appeared before the power commission in Washington and made a plea for a pipeline permit to carry Texas gas to the San Francisco area. The growth of California's population, he pointed out, has increased sharply the need of natural gas that must be brought in from Texas and New Mexico.

This is a graphic illustration of the part Texas gas is playing in the growth and development of other states. Many states on the Eastern seaboard now use Texas gas, in some cases buying it cheaper than Texas domestic and industrial consumers can buy it. Now the Pacific coast wants to increase its take of Texas gas.

Gas is irreplaceable. Once gone it is gone for good. The faster it is siphoned off to enrich pipeline companies and the industries of other states, the quicker Texas will be deprived of this magnificent natural resource.

Radio Cough Causes Battle Over Pay Rate

NEW YORK—The act of coughing has become a labor problem and a test of dramatic art. Instead of being merely a nuisance in the theater and concert hall, it suddenly acquired a market value— from $8 to $12.50 per well-modulated bark.

The elevation of coughing to the status of a paying profession was the result of a ruling by the American Federation of Radio Artists, the AFL group that covers all performers on the air. Specifically, the union decreed that a staff radio announcer was no longer just a staff radio announcer if he had to cough on cue.

Result of Promotion
The determination of the importance of coughing came as the result of a promotional scheme planned by station WMCA.

After thorough exploration of all the possibilities, WMCA chose the device of a one-minute transcription to be played at intervals for two days before the program of tuberculosis control went on the air. It was learned that the announcer would proclaim the need everyone has for air. Then he would inhale, exhale and, as a climax, cough. This would be followed by announcement of the tuberculosis program.

Upon making a routine check-up at the actors' union, however, WMCA learned it had a dilemma. There was a contract with many provisions. The provisions were very specific that a staff announcer should not try any extra dramatic embellishments in the course of making spot announcements. He should read what was before him and that was all.

Had Enough
WMCA decided it had enough. The union scale for actors on spot announcements begins somewhere between $6 and $12.50, a station official noted. He decided that even for a cough by a "name" cougher, that price was too steep.

Union officials somewhat reluctantly acknowledged that they had interposed objections to the coughing announcements. They explained that the criterion was not a cough or two but the matter of establishing a precedent which might lead to extensive extra-curricular activities by staff announcers without additional pay for their added efforts.

Atomic Clock Can Split Seconds With Accuracy

WASHINGTON.—An atomic clock that can split seconds with the extraordinary accuracy of one part in 20,000,000 has been added to the arsenal of research science.

The national bureau of standards developed it and scientists said it was a great improvement over the observatory method of telling time by the stars which had previously been the best word in accuracy.

Dr. E. U. Condon, director of the bureau, said the instrument provided an entirely new and amazingly precise method of measuring not only time but also frequency. He said it should prove an "invaluable tool" for research in medicine, chemistry, physics, engineering and electronics.

The bureau said the clock "is already being improved." Its potential accuracy is theoretically one part in 10,000,000,000. At that rate, it would take about 3,000,000 years for the clock to gain or lose a second.

What makes it different is an atomic attachment that acts as a regulating "governor" for the electric works.

This attachment consists of a thirty-foot copper tube filled with ammonia gas, a quartz crystal oscillator, and certain electronic instruments known as frequency multipliers, dividers and discriminators.

The oscillator puts out a radio signal which by itself is extremely consistent in frequency. In fact, until today, a simple quartz crystal attachment was the most accurate governor available for time-frequency measurements.

Britain Would Recruit 50 American Scientists

LONDON.—Fifty American scientists are to be recruited by Britain's Colonial Geological survey and the Colonial Geodetic and Topographical survey to fill the gaps in personnel created during the war years, according to the colonial office.

The project, under which the scientists would be concentrated in East Africa, where large railway developments are proposed, the colonial office says, is under consideration by the E.C.A. in Washington. The colonial office has asked E.C.A. whether the American scientists and technicians can fill the posts "while recruitment catches up."

It has been suggested that their basic salaries be met by European recovery program funds while their local allowances be paid in sterling.

Army Day Will Be Wednesday, April 6 This Year

The American people, by Presidential proclamation and Congressional enactment, will commemorate the achievements of their army in peace and war on Army Day, Wednesday, April 6, 1949. Personnel of the regular army, National Guard and organized reserve, together with those citizen soldiers who are veterans, and especially those army men and women who died for their country, will be honored then.

Army Day, 1949, also is a time to recall the mission of the United States Army in peace. This includes and complicated task of governing occupied areas in Europe and Asia. It embraces full cooperation with science, industry, engineering, religion, education, and other fields to further the development of our vast resources and capabilities for an even greater America. It provides the basis for speedy and effective assistance to those parts of the country stricken by tornadoes, forest fires, hurricanes, floods and other disasters.

Above all, however, the peacetime mission of the army is to help preserve world peace. This can be accomplished successfully only with the full support of the American people, because the United States Army is an instrument of Government, and it exists to serve the interests of the Nation. In honoring their army on Army Day, 1949, therefore, the American people also honor those ideals on which their country was founded and which has made it flourish.

Fishing

Best at Lake Mead

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—Five hundred feet up near-by desert mountainsides where goats and jackrabbits once struggled for existence is to be found today some of the best fresh-water fishing in the world.

While most of the country's fishing sites are snowed in or closed for the season, Lake Mead, the man-made body of water stretching 15 miles from Hoover (Boulder) dam to Grand Canyon, continues to produce bass, blue gill, perch and catfish in fabulous numbers. They are so plentiful that the season is open day and night the year around.

For 13 years now, since the reservoir started filling in 1935, fishermen have come to take daily limits of 10 bass, some weighing 12 to 15 pounds; 25 catfish, and 20 crappie, perch and blue gill.

Models Must Have More Than Beauty, Grace for Success

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Eileen Ford, who operates a $250,000-a-year model agency, said a successful cover girl must have "ego satisfaction." She also needs "individuality analysis" and "quality control."

But the girls couldn't make the grade on shapely legs, or other physical accoutrements, alone. "They must be well adjusted mentally," she said.

That's where Mrs. Ford comes in. Only 23 and pretty enough to be a model, Mrs. Ford said she was well trained in psychology while attending Barnard college.

"When I started the agency," she said, "I was quick to learn that models who ruined costly magazines did so mainly because of their mental attitudes."

She said she immediately put a stop to the undy ad and leg art business.

"I insisted on stimulating 'quality control' by elevating modeling to a profession of which any mother would be proud," she said. "Ego satisfaction, I found, was just as important and I gave every effort to building up the confidence of our girls. We give them every attention and try to keep their minds free from worry."

Mrs. Ford said she uses psychology on her customers, too. "I have long talks with them on the telephone," she said, "and I try to analyze their moods. If the client is upset and disgruntled about something, it's easy to detect it. The problem then is to send him a girl who is chic and refreshing. Blonde, perhaps, tall and slender, with a sympathetic smile."

One-Year Term Marines Get Special Training

NEW YORK.—Approximately 100,000 of every four one-year enlistees in the Marine Corps will receive specialist schooling after "boot" camp, under a new program approved by Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the marine corps.

Decision to concentrate on specialist training for 18-year-olds was prompted in part by results of aptitude studies. Average general classification test scores reported for one-year enlistees now at Marine Corps recruit depots are: San Diego, 115; Parris Island, S. C., 109. Average wartime score for the marine corps was 104.

Men selected for formal technical training will commence in one of the following fields: clerical, engineer, ordnance repair, automotive repair, clerical, photographic, electrical and cooking and baking. Recruit students, after a basic technical school, will be further assigned for schooling as aviation mechanics, machinists, structural mechanics and electronics specialists.

Engineers Making Peter's Basilica Safe

ROME.—Vatican engineers are working to make St. Peter's Basilica, Christendom's largest church, completely safe for the thousands of pilgrims expected during the 1950 year.

The task is complicated by two peculiarities to the great basilica: its age and its structure.

St. Peter's is built on a foundation and the structure made mostly of porous lime-stones up underground moisture. This moisture rusts the iron rods which, along with mortar, together the limestone, marble and brick blocks.

The structure holds an enormous weight. When 50,000 persons are in the church, the temperature may rise as high as 100 degrees. This causes a peculiar reaction on the structure. Two huge chunks, one weighing nearly 200 pounds and the other 600 pounds, crashed into the floor in 1947.

Engineers were replacing the iron rods with bronze and reinforcing mortar as well as the basilica's foundation.

The first basilica on the site was built by Constantine in 326. It was destroyed in the 16th century.

Dallas Makes History 'The News' Moves to New Home

By Frank H. King

Dallas, Texas, March 20.—Texas turned a page of newspaper history today as the Dallas Morning News moved into its new five-million-dollar plant.

The final big project of the late G. B. Dealey for the paper he loved and the city he helped build, the new home is the very last word in modernized newspaper making. A million-dollar line of four-color presses roars out editions. The vast, vaulted press room has the dramatic qualities of a theatre.

With battle-planned precision last night, heavy machinery was swung through windows, loaded and rushed to the new building for tomorrow's editions.

Veterans like Managing Editor Harry Withers, who has been with the paper 45 years, wept a little. President E. M. (Ted) Dealey, the four grandsons of G. B. Dealey, and the rest of the new generation—700 employees in all—were happy.

After its insides were ripped out in the swift, between-editions overnight, the old News building at the corner of Lamar and Commerce streets was a lonely, dusty place.

Its conglomerate maze of halls, stairs and half stairs, fine library, secluded offices, railed off and partitioned hideouts for every species of newspaper expert and editorial specialist, had been an old curiosity shop of journalism. The crowded city room was one of the last of its kind in the country. Hollywood once tried to copy it for a movie.

A reporter could hide behind a column or around a corner, telephone to another reporter or an editor a few feet away and pretend he was miles from the office on an assignment.

The new city room has modern decor. Soft tones, soothing gray desks for heavy thinkers, bright and billowy chairs for brilliant reporters. Col. Bill Sterrett would have snorted. He was an oldtime Washington correspondent of the news. Not a spittoon in sight. Not even an open window. Only air-conditioned, curtained comfort and spaciousness.

The new building dominates the Plaza at Dallas Union Station. At Young and Houston streets, with trees, shrubs and flowers out in front.

In dusty loneliness today, the walls of the old News building still were covered with pictures—and mottoes. A few days ago, Ken Foree of the News staff counted 22 mottoes and pictures in the space of 30 feet. Big framed portraits of 144 men who had served the paper 21 years or more peopled the empty, tumbled rooms. Between the portraits of the two former managing editors was a huge print of the Madonna and Child.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vaughan spent last week with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Hershell Vaughan and family of Hollis, Oklahoma.

Honored for Safety

General Motors is the first industrial organization in the United States to win for the fifth time the National Safety Council's highest award—the award of merit for distinguished service to safety. GM employees won the honor for having the outstanding safety record in industry and for reducing the number of accidents in GM plants in 1948 by 25 per cent over 1947. Harlow H. Curtice, executive vice-president of General Motors (left) receives the award from Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council.

See the difference...
Hear the difference!

The Styleline De Luxe 4-Door Sedan
White sidewall tires optional at extra cost.

That solid and satisfying sound when you close the door of a Chevrolet Body by Fisher typifies the finer and more durable quality which runs all through the car. There's nothing flimsy or "tinny" about this car; it provides quality that is "true-blue"—through and through!

It's the most Beautiful BUY of all

The most Beautiful BUY for Driving and Riding Ease—with New Center-Point Design

The most Beautiful BUY for Styling. Not only is Chevrolet's Unisteel Body by Fisher more solid, more sturdy and more satisfying to ride in, but it is also more beautifully designed, upholstered, and appointed than other bodies in the Chevrolet field. It has smarter colors, too!

The most Beautiful BUY for Comfort. Here, you can relax as you ride... in a Super-Size Interior... featuring "Five-Foot Seats," extra-generous head, leg and elbowroom, and the advanced heating* and ventilating system of a car that breathes. (*Heater and defroster optional at extra cost.)

Just as you can see the difference and hear the difference born of quality when you close the door of a Chevrolet Body by Fisher, so you will experience the difference when you drive or ride in this car that America calls the most beautiful buy of all.

And what a decisive difference you will find in its driving and riding qualities! New Center-Point Design—including Center-Point Steering, Center-Point Seating, Lower Center of Gravity without loss of road clearance and Center-Point Rear Suspension—brings you an entirely new kind of driving and riding ease found elsewhere only in costlier cars.

Here, indeed, is the most beautiful buy of all—for total car value—because it brings you all these qualities of costlier cars at the lowest prices and with outstanding all-round economy!

New "Dubi-Life" Rivetless Brake Linings—Last up to TWICE as Long!
Linings are secured to brake shoes by a special "Perma-Bond" process thoroughly tested and proved by millions of units under all kinds of driving conditions. Because there are no rivets to limit lining wear or score brake drums, lining life is practically doubled. Chevrolet is the first full-sized car to bring you this important braking advancement!

The most Beautiful BUY for Thrills and Thrift. Nowhere else will you find such a perfect balance of power, acceleration, economy and dependability as you'll find in Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head Engine! That's why more and more makers are adopting Valve-in-Head design.

The most Beautiful BUY for All-Round Safety. You'll enjoy maximum safety with: (1) New Certi-Safe Hydraulic Brakes; (2) Extra-Strong Fisher Unisteel Body; (3) New Panoramic Visibility; (4) Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows; and (5) the super-safe Unitized Knee-Action Ride.

Russians

Claim Supersonic Rocket

BERLIN.—The world's first piloted supersonic rocket projectile is the spearhead of a new, gigantic Soviet air force, a Russian science magazine has claimed.

The aircraft-rocket was described by the magazine Vokrug Sveta (Around the World) as "flying with a speed far in excess of sound," which is about 700 miles an hour at sea level.

The projectile was said to have been put through its first public paces on Red air force day June 25 when, the Soviet author said, "a huge crowd stood awe struck by the sight of this extraordinary propellerless machine hurtling past them at colossal speed."

COMMUNISTS

Saxon Mines Harbor Reds

HAMBURG, GERMANY.—Christina Peter, a 24-year-old German girl, who volunteered for low-grade uranium mining in Saxony, said she estimated that more than 100,000 Germans were at work in the mines. Food, liquor and cigarettes were fairly plentiful but Communists were continually trying to convince workers to join the party.

A German-speaking Russian officer trained German girls on Russian-built listening instruments. The instrument, Christina said, had two large earphones and a metal stick. Both were connected with a battery which was carried on a belt around the shoulder.

Before she was sent into the mine, she worked with a group of Russian and German technicians equipped with diving rods and other instruments to comb the surface.

Had To Report

Whenever her earphone reacted with a bell-like sound she had to report to the next Russian, who marked the place and ordered a Russian technician to go through the test again.

After that job she was sent underground into a primitively constructed mine. Her job was to test all ore and rocks coming out of the tunnels for radium or Uranium, she said, was easily recognized by a violet-colored stripe going through the stones.

All the labor is not voluntary. An 18-year-old German youth who escaped estimated that between 30,000 and 50,000 persons were in Soviet forced labor camps in Saxony.

Still wearing the rubberized clothing and boots issued to him when he went to work in the uranium mines, Gerhard Rieffenstahl described conditions in the labor camps. A blond six-foot youth, Rieffenstahl, now virtually a human skeleton, said he lost thirty-five pounds during his two months of forced labor for the Russians.

Lived in Barracks

The miners live in barracks, small camps and among the German populace, the youth said. He stayed in a room with 10 other men. Although they were unguarded, they were warned not to try to leave. The entire area was blocked off, with guards at all railroad stations and roads.

The miners are fairly well paid, Rieffenstahl said. He received 400 marks per month, which is $33 at the official rate of exchange, or about $10 at the more realistic black market rate.

Food rations were supposedly somewhat higher than in Berlin, but only in theory. The penalty for being late to work was a 50 per cent cut in rations, and since the mines were far from the barracks and the transport system poorly organized, few workers were ever on time.

Tale Retold of Lincoln's Visiting New England Site

HINGHAM, MASS.—The oft-mentioned possibility that Abraham Lincoln may have visited his ancestral home here 100 years ago has been revived.

The question arose when the Lincoln house was presented to the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities. During a visit to Boston in September, 1942, Lincoln was supposed to have "vanished" for three days.

The lost three days are discussed in Elizabeth Coatsworth's new book, "South Shore Town."

Miss Coatsworth believes Lincoln may have visited Hingham in those three days to "commune with the ghosts of his ancestors and to draw vigor from their yeoman blood."

The first ancestor of Lincoln came to Hingham from Hingham, England, in 1637. The Lincoln house, a story and a half gambrel roof cottage, was built some time later on the original land plot of the Lincoln family.

Drift of South America From Africa Idea Studied

CINCINNATI.—Did South America drift apart from the continent of Africa?

The question is reopened by the research work in South America of Dr. Kenneth E. Caster, of the University of Cincinnati, assistant professor of geology and fellow in the graduate school of arts and sciences. He returned recently after almost four years in South America, where he traveled widely gathering geologic data, much of which bears on the theory of "continental drift."

His visit to South America was under the auspices of the United States department of state and the Guggenheim foundation.

"None of the findings in South America definitely proves or disproves the drift hypothesis, but they are significant enough to warrant additional field studies in South Africa, India and Australia to make necessary comparison," Dr. Caster said.

He added that he hoped to make trips to those continents to continue his research.

Experts "Debunk" Lot Of Gadgets Marketed As Cure for Ills

WASHINGTON.—Experts gathered in the debunking laboratories of the national food and drug administration and regarded a mounting stack of gadgets which have been sold as panaceas for plagues of the human race.

The public has been buying them as cures for everything from falling hair to hemophilia.

Successful sales of some of them apparently depend on how many ailments the inventor can list as curable through use of his contraption—and those claims are the basis of seizure and prosecution by the food and drug administration.

"There has been a deluge of them since the war," says George P. Larrick, associate commissioner of the administration.

"Some of the inventions are actually dangerous," says Dr. Irvin Kerlan, medical officer in charge of therapeutic devices.

"High on the list of gadgets we seek out is that which claims a cure for a serious disease, particularly that disease which grows progressively worse while the patient tinkers with the new miracle machine."

One of the newest devices and still under litigation in the Mid-west is a dumbbell-appearing creation in which the center bar is supposed to be filled with water which has been exposed to cosmic rays.

By merely holding the dumbbell, the patient is supposed to absorb the latent energy and acquire a resistance to diseases and ailments. The cost is between $50 and $100.

Mud From Norway Fjords Sometimes Holds Uranium

OSLO.—Uranium-containing black mud can be dredged up from the bottoms of some of the fjords that cut deeply into the coast of Norway, states Dr. Kaare M. Strom of the University of Oslo.

The atomic energy element, however, is not present in high enough concentration to justify scooping out the mud and working it as an ore. It is of interest primarily as a possible means of determining under what geological conditions the uranium-containing black shales may have been formed.

Uranium concentrations in present fjord-bottom muds range from 13 to 60 grams per metric ton, Dr. Strom's analyses show. This is equivalent to from one-half ounce to two ounces per long ton. This is far below present levels for workable ores. The U. S. atomic energy commission will purchase such ores when they contain over two pounds a ton.

Dental 'Hang-over' Brings Damage Suit in England

EPSOM, ENGLAND.—Saint Clair Salmon in asking $360 damages from a dentist told a court the last thing he remembered clearly was the doctor giving him an anesthetic after which:

He found himself outside the surgery walking to his car.

Persuading a policeman he was not drunk and was fit to drive.

Trying to enter his garage, but colliding with the right-hand wall.

Finally achieving entry.

Getting out and collapsing.

Waking up inside his house five hours later.

Discovering he had left his coat, collar and dentures in the surgery.

The dentist, Frank Davies, had entered a claim for $80 against Mr. Salmon. The court gave judgement in favor of the dentist and disallowed the counter-claim.

Vermont Town Doesn't Have Enough Pupils for Schools

CHITTENDEN, VT.—At a time when most communities are worried about overcrowded school buildings, Chittenden has an even more pressing problem for the opposite reason.

There aren't enough pupils to fill the $500,000 Frederic Ducloux Barstow memorial school. Upkeep of the structure strains the town budget each year. With 379 residents, the town can fill only 89 of the school's 200 classroom seats.

Under the will of multimillionaire William S. Barstow, the school may go to Middlebury college "if it does not fulfill its purpose."

OIL SOURCES Men Drilling Below Water

CHICAGO, (U.P.)—For more than a year, about 500 men have been living on islands of steel in the Gulf of Mexico, drilling for oil below the surface of the water.

Two oil men attending the annual convention of the American Petroleum Institute said the operation, known as offshore drilling, is being carried on by 15 oil companies. Their operations covers a 2,500,000-acre area from six to 20 miles off the shores of Texas and Louisiana.

The oil man said their companies have achieved "fairly good" results so far, compared with land operations which cost much less than offshore drilling.

Before underwater drilling can begin, gangs must construct their 1,500-ton steel islands by driving pilings 100 feet below the ocean bed, and extending them 50 feet in the water and 40 feet above the water's surface. Construction of the pilings costs an oil firm about $1,000,000 before drilling can start.

Crews Change Work
Offshore drilling camps then are set up on the pilings over an approximate 190-by-80-foot area. Besides the drilling platforms, each camp includes a bunkhouse and cookhouse and enough supplies to provision a 15-man crew for three weeks.

However, crews usually work for several days only and then are transplanted to shore for as many days off. Shifts of workers alternate around the clock all year.

The oil men said their principal headaches are the tropical storms which sweep the gulf area from May through November. However, the pilings are considered as safe as the ground on shore and the men seldom are called in from their camps atop the pilings. The pilings are built to withstand 165-mile winds and 35-foot waves.

Underwater drilling was started after geologists reported what they termed a "continental shelf" in the gulf waters. The "shelf" is composed of land which extends many miles into the water before dropping to oceanic depths.

Use Gravity Meter
American oil men in Venezuela were the first to employ offshore drilling methods and succeeded in recovering oil from depths of 100 feet below the surface of Lake Maracaibo.

Geologists use a gravity meter to outline areas which should be tested for drilling. The instrument reveals disturbed areas which show where oil may be present, but the oil men said the only sure way to test the ground is to start digging operations.

The oil men said that offshore drilling in the Gulf of Mexico was started by oil firms in an effort to augment America's crude oil supply and reserves.

War Trials Judge Suggests Trying War-Makers Early
LOS ANGELES.—The presiding judge of the Nuernberg war crime trials has said that future wars may be prevented by trying international criminals before hostilities break out.

Judge Michael A. Musmanno of Pittsburgh urged establishment through the United Nations of a peacetime international court to try criminals responsible for inciting war.

A former Navy captain, Musmanno presided over history's biggest murder trial—that of Nazi generals accused of slaying one million persons. He is here to confer on a forthcoming movie based on a 20-volume research work he compiled to prove Hitler is dead.

"Throughout history the man who burned one house and killed one innocent person would be hanged for arson and murder, but if he destroyed a whole civilization he was given a comfortable niche in history," the judge said. "The great newness which comes from World War II is the creation of a tribunal able to judge international criminals.

New 3-V Knitting Process Means Longer Life for Nylon Sheers

"V" was for Victory during the war. Now "V's" are for the newest news in volumetric nylons! Through a special new Larkwood process of knitting, three V's are knitted into the top of a nylon sheer to give it a new thigh-conforming fit. And good news for MEN—the center triangle is a guide-line for instant, accurate gartering, and voila! back seams are straight! This 3-V volumetric knitting process means that the "volume content" is knitted in for a true top-to-toe dimensioning for various leg types. This volume controlled elasticity gives a shock-absorbing quality to the nylon fabric, bringing the boon of more comfortable fit, fewer runs, longer wear.
