SCIENCE 'MIRACLE'

Animal Brain

Chicago physicians have reported to the federation of American societies for experimental biology that they had succeeded in keeping part of an animal's brain alive

The achievement by Drs. R. D. Tschirgi and R. W. Gerard was reported to be the first of its kind in medical history. It involved removal of the spinal cord of a rat, together with the feeder artery which transports its sustenance.

Keeping the cord alive in a careplex nervous system.

Chemicals Named The doctors reported that of about 25 chemicals tested on the cord, about six were successful in keeping it active. Among these were pyruvic acid, citric acid, glucose, glutamic acid and a

The doctors, working under a grant from the office of naval research, are being assisted in their continuing research by three others, Drs. L. L. Boyarsky, J. Z. Hearon and H. Jenerick, all of the University of Chicago's department of physiology.

Drs. Klaus Unna and A. Kaplan of the University of Illinois told federation members that myanesin, a muscle-relaxing drug, might take much of the danger from the electro-shock treatment for certain mental diseases. They said the drug prevented the stoppage of breathing which frequently occured during electro-shocks.

Tested on mice, they said, myanesin prevented death during the treatment, and later, when tested on human patients at the Mantenno state hospital in Illinois, it reduced the undesirable side effects of shock treatment.

Unlike curare, which acted directly on the muscles, the physicians said, myanesin worked on the brain stem and spinal cord. It did not produce drowsiness or sleep like hypnotic or anesthetic drugs.

Goeds Agree Man no Longer Is Pursuer in Love Chase

NORMAN, OKLA.—A campus survey shows University of Oklahoma coeds agree almost unanimously that the days when a man could pursue his lady love without any help from her are over-if they ever existed.

As Mary Limber, a psychology senior, put it, "For every man there's a woman and it's the job of the woman to find that man." But the coeds insist that chasing a man has to be a subtle job to succeed.

For instance, June Parrack, who believes a girl must do threefourths of the work in courtship, said, "The boy likes to feel he is doing all the pursuing, so the girl must make him feel it was his

WRONG GUESSERS

Editors Get

WASHINGTON .- The American Society of Newspaper Editors has been told the press has taken its most severe criticism in history for wrong guesses on last fall's presidential election and has it-

The postelection criticism and the reason for it were analyzed in a panel discussion on "The Press and The People" at the A.S.N.E.'s annual convention.

Panel speakers were Philip H. Parrish, editorial-page director of the Portland Oregonian; Richard J. Flannegan, the Chicago Sun-Tom Hanes, Ledger-Dispatch, and Paul Miller, Garnett Newspapers. N. R. Howard, Cleveland News, was mod-

U. S. Editors Best

The soul-searching discussion was aimed at finding out if the daily press is doing a good job of keeping the public informed.

Lleras, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, told the editors the U.S. press is the best in the world in supplying

"It has kept the public fully informed on all matters of public interest and perhaps too well informed on private affairs," he said.

Parrish opened the panel discussion with a declaration that public reaction toward the newspapers "has been much more serious following the Truman election than it was following the Roosevelt election." He said it was serious because some critics "have shrugged, as though we were no longer so important."

Blame Assigned Parrish reasoned that the press

had itself to blame because it made the mistake of permitting the election polls to be carried in its pages. "In short," he said, "the papers almost universally vouched for the polls as scientific, and so identified themselves with the polls."

He said the answer is for the press to make it clear that the polls are syndicated columns, that political conditions never really are fixed, and that the polls belong to the newspapers and not vice versa.

Finnegan said the election guesses were so wrong because the press does not understand the mass mind and has a shorter memory than the people.

"The voters didn't let the press, the pollsters, or each other know their election choices until election day," Finnegan said.

New Railway Train May Revolutionize Travel

NEW YORK .- A new train described as presenting "a challenge that possibly may revolutionize the entire passenger carrying field" was demonstrated by the American Car & Foundry Co., its builder.

Most startling concept in the design is that the train is composed of 20-foot units, each supported by two wheels at the rear and coupled to the unit ahead somewhat like an automobile truck trailer.

Aside from this, the train is low slung-passengers sit with their feet only 18 inches above the rails. The center of gravity on each unit is said to be 40 inches above the rails compared with 64 inches on the standard passenger car.

And it is light in weight. Extensive use of aluminum, along with saving of materials in normal undercarriages, results in a weight estimated by A.C.F. at less than one-fourth present railroad equipment. A.C.F. spokesmen said the low center of gravity and short-unit construction makes for exceptional stability and reduces the normal sway experienced on curves. In addition, the light weight reduces the size of motive power required, with savings in initial cost and in fuel economy. Because of its lightness, the train is capable of fast acceleration.

Atomic Propulsion Plans Being Pushed by America

WASHINGTON .- A huge re search program aimed at perfecting atomic power for surface ships and submarines within five or six years is being launched, Senator McMahon (D., Conn.) has disclosed.

Atomic propulsion, it is expected would enable ships to range the world without refueling. It thus would be a long step in freeing navies from their dependence on bases and refueling stations.

McMahon said the commission will spend about $500,000,000 at a new research project to be located at an as yet undetermined site in the West. "At the end of this research, we are hopeful we can demonstrate that mobile (atomic) power plants not only are feasible but are here," he told newsmen after a meeting of the congressional atomic energy committee which he heads.

He said there is a "certain amount of uncertainty" to such research as there is in all scientific research.

But he added: "There is reason able expectancy the result will be accomplished."

American Silver Spoon Inspires Paris Fashions

Two of the lace-featured gowns inspired by the sterling silver spoon that went to Paris and made fashion history are: (left) evening gown by Raymond Barbas, director of Jean Patou organization, and bridal gown by Pierre Balmain. Mr. Barbas is comparing lace of his gown with lace-like openwork of the "Queen's Lace" pattern, the spoon of which is shown directly above.

This is the story of an American sterling silver spoon that went to Paris and made fashion history. It's also the story of why it will be fashionable for this year's June bride and graduate to wear gowns, robes and lingerie highlighting the story of an American spoon with her the following week to Paris at the This were working on spoon with her the following week to Paris and made fashion history. Though only a few spoons were available, the company permitted the expert to take one. She arrived in Paris at the time designers were working on creations for this wear's spring and summer marks.

International Silver Company planned for its new sterling pattern, "Queen's Lace". The expert was so impressed with the lace-

Suicide

Helper Gets Freedom

NEW YORK.—A grand jury failed to indict an unemployed, 60-year-old immigrant on a charge of helping his best friend kill himself to escape the constant pain of cancer.

Frederick Berwich, an unemployed dishwasher, was indicted, however, on a charge of violating the law against illegal possession of firearms. He was arraigned in general sessions court.

Berwich had been held on a charge of "aiding and abetting" the suicide of Joseph Ziakowski, 65, who had been his boyhood friend in Russia. Police said he confessed giving Ziakowski the suicide gun.

U.S. Now in Position To Drop Atomic Bomb Anywhere in Europe

LONDON.—The first American superfortress group with the know-how for atomic bombing arrived in England and the United States is in position to drop an atom bomb anywhere in Europe on short notice.

Air force officers revealed that the famous 509th "atom bomb" group flew to this front-line Atlantic pact base for training with its specially equipped, specially trained crews.

Included in the 509th's highly trained personnel were at least two veterans of the history-making missions that dropped atom bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, one air force source said.

The disclosure of the 509th's arrival increased speculation among foreign military observers here as to how quickly and how effectively the United States third air division, based in England, could swing into atomic action.

It was learned the group's 30 planes did not come equipped with the special racks needed for carrying atom bombs. But an air force official said "it would take only 5½ hours to install the racks once the planes are here."

Some foreign military observers believed the air force also had the makings of atom bombs in England. But others thought it most likely the bombs were kept in the United

The group's B-29's, with a bombing radius of more than 2,000 miles, could reach any target in Europe from their base here.

The planes, like the other superfortresses based here, were equipped with the latest radar equipment enabling them to strike even through a complete cloud cover.

The three squadrons of the 509th will be maintained at 90 per cent operational strength in England. That means nine of the 10 planes in each squadron will be kept ready to go into action, real or simulated, at all times.

Cabdriver, Wife Agree On Use of Tub, Machine

NEW YORK.—James McCluskey, a 65-year-old cabdriver, reached an agreement with his wife, Olga, in Flushing court on the use of the family washtub and sewing machine.

She will do her washing on Mondays. He will do his on Tuesdays. He will let her use the sewing machine if she quits changing the stitch control.

This jurisdictional dispute was ironed out with the aid of Magistrate Charles F. Murphy, who called a round-table discussion.

McCluskey told the court that a year ago, after 29 years of wedded life, he decided to do his own washing, ironing, cooking, and sewing. "I don't like the way my wife does the clothes and I don't like her cooking, either," he explained.

He said he staked out a separate compartment for himself in the family refrigerator, cooked his own meals and ate them alone.

But the trouble began over the washtub and the sewing machine.

Mrs. McCluskey, who does dress alterations in her home, said her husband had threatened to lock up the machine.

"That's because she changes the tension and stitches on the machine," he said. "Then when I sew a row it's all wrong and I have to rip it out."

The feud reached its climax over washdays. Both wanted Mondays. Last Monday, Mrs. McCluskey said, her husband threw her clothes out of the tub, put his own in. She took him to court on a disorderly conduct charge.

National Income Expected To Be 40 Billions by 1959

NEW YORK.—A presidential economical adviser said national income should be increased 40 billion dollars a year in the next 10 years if we are to maintain a stable economy.

Leon H. Keyserling, vice-chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said such an expansion was needed to absorb the one to two million a year who would be seeking employment for the first time.

In an address to the convention of the national association of to-bacco dealers, he said economic stability should mean "moving shead—and should never mean stabiling still."

Senator Balks

At Weird Items In U.S. Tracts

WASHINGTON. — Economyminded Sen. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) asked if any of his fellow senators knew "how to tell the sex of watermelons."

If they did not, he said, they could find out about it in a government publication.

He also asked if they knew anything about the economic status of Jeff Davis.

the band-tail pigeon.

He admitted that he did not know that said pigeon had an economic status until he found a government booklet on "Habits, Food and Economic Status of the Band-Tailed Pigeon."

Could Shorten Shelf

Bridges suggested that the book was—or at least might be—one of the reasons why congress should shorten the "1,000-foot shelf" of Government books. He said he was not criticizing any particular publication but that congress ought to do something about "Uncle Sam's Book of the Minute Club, Unlimited."

No one can estimate the over-all cost, he said, but the appropriations committee, which he headed in the last congress, collected 83,000 publications when it asked each federal agency for one copy of each publication.

He reported the government printing office had delivered 133,-582,867,587 copies of printed matter in the last 10 years. And, he added, the government departments and agencies turned out additional "i m m e n s e quantities" themselves.

"The people ought to feel fortunate that we didn't pass a law forcing them to read all that stuff," said Sen Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.)

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, (D., N. M.) who used to be head of the agriculture department, interrupted to say that the printing mentioned "included 500,000 reprints for one senator alone."

Wants "Useful" Books

Bridges hoped that senators and house members would try to supply only useful publications to their constituents.

"Let's continue to send them 'Infant Care' and let's think twice before we send them publications on 'eliminating Bats from Buildings.'" he suggested.

He disclosed, incidentally, that bats were evicted by closing all but one or two escape hatches in a barn in the daytime. At midnight, when all the bats are presumably gone through those two outlets, they are plugged too.

"Remarkably simple," said Bridges, "but do we need a government brochure?"

He particularly enjoyed reading

He particularly enjoyed reading from a book of muskrat recipes. He asked Scott W. Lucas, senate Democratic leader, when the Democrats would supply recipes on "how to eat crow."

That would be more appropriately written by Republicans, snapped Lucas, who became senate majority leader after the Republicans lost control of congress in the 1948 election.

Doctor Says Operations Inside Heart Possible

CLEVELAND.— A research specialist has predicted that surgeons would be operating inside the heart before many years.

"Ways will be devised to stop the heart, keep the brain alive, open the heart, close it, and start it beating again," said Dr. Claude S. Peck in an address to the city club forum.

Dr. Peck said the newest technique of heart surgery involved the grafting of a section of vein between the aorta and coronary veins to act as "feeder" to dry areas of the heart blocked by clotted arteries. The operation already has been performed on human patients, he said.

Dr. Peck is engaged in research work to conquer coronary disease, commonly known as "heart attack." He and his associates have performed nearly 5,000 experimental operations on animals and humans, he said.

Lucite Now Being Used In Plastic Eye Lenses

LOS ANGELES.—The lucite that made the bubble turrets of combat aircraft is now being turned into a sort of bubble turret for the poor eyed public.

It is the material from which tiny new plastic lenses, covering only the cornea of the eye, are being produced. Although they were considered in the stage of "active research" until a few weeks ago, the corneal lenses may someday make contact lenses obsolete.

The lens caps only the colored part of the eye, and is held in place by n a tural capillary attraction. There is no flange to fit the eyeball, and no auxiliary fluid needed.

Nor do they flip out with a hearty slap on the back or a sly wink. Tears, just tears, hold them in. They are visible only to the expert.

Taperina "New Look" for Males LONDON. - The

look" is the newest thing in men's clothes, says the boss man of the Bond street tailors. H. G. Tayler, new president of the federation of clothing designers, issued the decree to the federation. He wore the "tapering look" himself-gray doublebreasted with long narrow lapels, narrow sleeves, narrow

The dress habits of the British male-once reputed the highest in the world-now are disgraceful, said Tayler. The federation decided to stage male fashion parades to promote the renewal of sartorial splendor. But they fear it will be a lost battle in the long run. H. E. Brockhurst, another designer, needled British schoolmasters "the worst-dressed section of the community" who teach boys, by examples, to wear "most slovenly dress."

NEW YORK .- Mink coats, diamond bracelets and cozy love nests are no longer standard gifts for Broadway's show girls, for the stage-door Johnnies, or "sugar daddies," have disappeared.

A poll of Broadway beauties indicated that they may never return -and never be missed.

Candy Montgomery, blond, blueeyed beauty who is representative of the 80 or 90 show girls now appearing in The Street's 10 musicals, said the girls are "too busy." She denied that the show girl has lost anything in the way of allure.

"Actually," she said, "the show girls of today are more beautiful than ever. We have better measurements than the oldsters and never use artificial supports to accentuate our figures.

"The girls of today are more talented and intelligent than they used to be," Miss Montgomery added. "They all dance and sing and many have college degrees,'

Actually, the last noteworthy appearance of the Johnnies was in the early 1940's, when a handful of millionaire bachelors backed a sumptuous Broadway night club and installed their favorite cuties in "the line." However, until recently, a few still remained a part of the threatrical scene.

The most famous "patron of the arts," as the Johnnies called themselves, was Diamond Jim Brady, a gentleman who liked two-pound steaks surrounded by a handful of chops at mealtime. Brady, strictly an orange juice man, became so enamored of Lillian Russell that he drank champagne from her slipper in public to demonstrate his

But such tales of days gone made little impression on Miss Montgomery and her colleagues. "We're interested only in careers and have little time for heavy

LOUISVILLE, KY .- A* pink shirt is about the hottest thing in men's wear since Adam retired behind a fig leaf, say the men's fashion

It's her pride in your appearance; and if you take equal pride in being among the best dressed swain this season, you'll show your appreciation of her gesture.

Moreover, you'll discover that you won't be able to hear that pink shirt all over town because of the shouts of all the other pinks and blues and yellows and orchids.

Yes, you'll be right at home in it. For, said at least one manager of a men's wear shop here at home, those pastel shirt sales have made the sales of whites, etc., practically

"Eighty per cent of the shirts we're selling now," he said, "are pastels. They buy 'em in pairs. First, they come in and get a pink one and an orchid one. They like em. So they come back for an aqua and a green one."

Other shops were hesitant to declare an 80 per cent business in pastel shirts; but they agreed that those loud numbers were by no means in the minority.

With the pastels go solid col-ored ties and ties with polka dots or coin dots.

Bubble Gum From America Latest Istanbul Import

ISTANBUL. — "Texas Cowboy! Jumbo! Mickey!" they shout at you on Istanbul's main street these days. They are trying merely to sell bubble gum, the latest cultural import from the United States.

The gum actually isn't imported, only the idea and the names. But if the name isn't American and explosive, it isn't Turkish bubble gum. The enterprising Turkish traveler who brought the idea and the formula back from the States probably never dreamed he would see such chewing and such bubbling
