POLIO KNOWS NO RACE, CREED OR CIRCUMSTANCE!

When it strikes in pain—it paralyzes—sometimes it kills. J. T. Hotchkiss of the Palace Theatre today announced his theatre will participate in the Texas Theatres Polio Fund with audience collections during the week beginning Thursday, August 11. Under the slogan, "Texas Takes Care of Its Own," the drive was planned to meet the emergency when Texas polio cases totaled one-fourth of all cases in the United States. The state has had 1,123 new cases through July 23 this year.

L. M. Rice, Dallas attorney, heads the campaign committee. Other members are: R. J. O'Donnell and John Q. Adams, Interstate Circuit Theatres; R. I. Payne, Theatre Enterprises Inc.; S. L. Oakley, Jefferson Amusement Co.; F. W. Allen, National Screen Service; Johnny Long of Bay Town, Texas, Long Theatres, and Don C. Douglas, Robb & Rowley United. Money collected in the theatres will be used only to treat Texans suffering with polio. While several polio reception centers have been set up at strategic points to handle the acute or isolation period, the facilities for post-acute treatment to restore use of limbs are limited, Mr. Rice said.

Among the polio alleviation agencies to benefit is the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, near Austin.

Local residents may contribute at the theatre collections or may make checks payable to the Texas Theatres Polio Fund and turn them in at the theatre box office. Governor Allan Shivers is actively supporting the drive.

Governor Allan Shivers of Texas is actively supporting the state's theatre men in the Texas Theatres Polio Fund campaign, scheduled August 11 to 18.

When polio struck Texas like lightning during July—resulting in the state's having one-fourth of all polio cases in the United States—theatre men banded together and took the lead to solve the financial emergency, as they always do when humanity is involved.

The governor released a press announcement giving official support to the movement, saying "The importance of this human undertaking cannot be overemphasized." Shivers makes a personal appeal to theatre audiences in a special trailer prepared to precede the audience collections in approximately 1,000 independent and circuit theatres during the week of the drive. He points out the dire need, says "Texas should take care of its own" and introduces Mrs. Kay Garner, 26-year-old polio victim being treated at the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation near Austin.

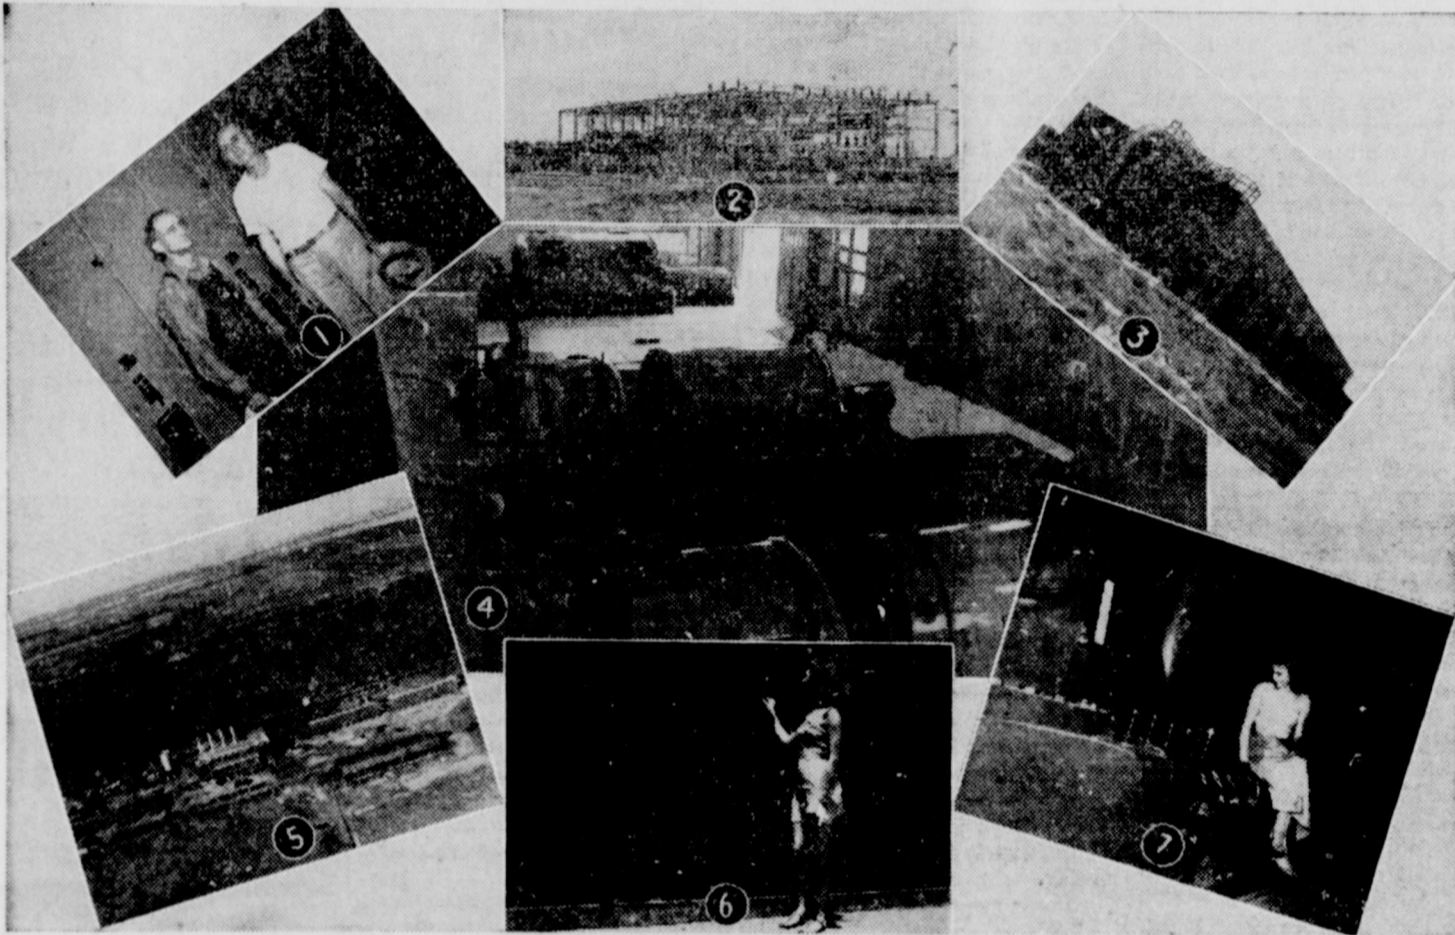

Eight other Gonzales patients emphasize that "Polio Knows No Race—Creed—Age or Circumstance." They are: Jo Nell Lacey, 7, Rock Springs; Larry Chadwell, 7, Kennedy; Joyce Wiley, 16, Austin; Bill Heil, Jr., 18, San Antonio; Janice McIntyre, 11, San Angelo; Frances Flores, 2½, Poteet; Jessie Reese (colored), 4, Tennessee Colony, and Domingo Ornelas, 4, San Angelo.

The 1949 version of the Owl football team will take the field Monday, August 15. Uniforms will be checked out to the boys at 1:30 Monday and at 7:30, the same night, the first training session will take place, weather permitting.

Workouts will be held under the lights for the first week and then it is hoped that the boys will be taken on a training camp for about ten days.

Equipment that each boy will be required to have is: sweat socks, practice jersey, supporter, and composition book and pencil.

A birth certificate and a physical examination will be required of each boy. The local doctors have volunteered to donate their services free of charge for this examination which is to be at 1:30 Friday afternoon, August 12, at the hospital. Every boy that intends to start out for the team, now or later, should be there for this physical tomorrow.

With the loss of 7 first string men off last year's team, the Owls are going to have to work hard to get ready for a rough schedule.

Two Class "A" schools have been scheduled and the schedule is not complete yet. The two open dates in the slate hope to be filled by games at home. The schedule is as follows:

- September 9, Open.
- Sept. 16, Matador (there).
- Sept. 23, Open.
- Sept. 30, Quitaque (there).
- Oct. 7, Happy (here).

A lawn mower is needed very badly to cut the grass at the field. If anyone will volunteer the use of one, the coach has volunteered to do the cutting.

New game uniforms have arrived for this year's edition. They are a screaming scarlet satin with a wide white stripe down the back of each leg, flanked on each side by a narrow white stripe.

Any students that desire to be student manager of the team should let it be known immediately.

Just what arrangement can be made by the trustees to provide additional building space has not been announced.

NOTICE—PUBLIC ROAD

Irrigation water is fine when used to grow crops, but is a waste of water and money when allowed to run down the bar pit of public roads, and thereby becomes a nuisance and damage to the road.

Some farmers, where their farm is not fenced, use the public road to turn around in and sometimes plow up to and on the road, thus damaging the road.

These matters have come to the attention of our County Commissioners and I have been asked to put this notice in the newspapers, calling attention to the fact, that anyone who damages or injures a public road is subject to prosecution and could be fined $200.00.

Let every one take good care of the roads for we all use them.

Yours for good roads,
C. D. WRIGHT,
County Attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brooks and Mrs. Jim Brooks and Nancy took Hubert Brooks to Lubbock Wednesday for treatment.

Recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Allard were: Mr. and Mrs. Otto Peitzsch, of Amarillo, and Mrs. Allard's mother, Mrs. Minnie Stevenson, of Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Anderson, Susan and Joe, had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Anderson and son, of San Antonio, Claggett Anderson, Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Anderson, Miss Anna Lee Anderson, Mrs. Fred Elliston, and Mrs. R. L. Campbell.

Government had previously said price would drop by 5.4 per cent. Briscoe County Cotton support price is $29.14 a hundred pounds, according to Jim Lumpkin, Secretary of the County Production and Marketing Administration.

It had been previously estimated the price would be a little over $29.00 upon the Agricultural Departments announcement of 4.3 to 5.4 per cent lower price for this year.

"This is a higher support price than we expected," Lumpkin said.

Loan rates for 7-8 middling upland cotton harvested this year will be $26.94, the Agricultural Department has announced.

The previous departments report also showed that the parity price for cotton seed in mid July was $55.00 per ton. The department set supports for the 1949 cotton seed on the basis of this report. Supports will be designed to reflect a producer return equivalent to 90 per cent of parity price. That would be about $47.50 per ton.

Supports were lowered this year, Lumpkin explained, because of a lowering of living costs and farm production, and because the support level was reduced from 92.5 per cent of parity to 90 per cent of parity.

Westminster Fellowship Rally at Presbyterian Church

The Presbyterian Church was the scene of much activity on Sunday evening, August 7, from 6 to 8 p. m.

The local youth group entertained as their guests the young people comprising the Westminster Fellowship of the Tulia Presbyterian Church.

The late afternoon cloudburst failed to dampen either the enthusiasm of the young people or their appetites, as they enjoyed the meal prepared by the Presbyterian Auxiliary of Silvertown. After the supper, which was served in the manse, the group joined wholeheartedly in a number of fun and folk songs led by Shelia Malone, moderator of the Tulia youth organization, and Prentice Barnett, student pastor of the local church.

The group then retired to the church and enjoyed the program on the "Organization and Purpose of Westminster Fellowship," presented by the Tulia young people and their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ervin.

This concluded the evening's activities which were enjoyed by some thirty young people and their sponsors.

Included in this number were four guests of Mr. Barnett from the First Presbyterian Church of Amarillo who arrived in time for the morning service and remained for the evening program.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY GROWS WITH PLAINS COUNTRY

As you drive through the rich agricultural country between Plainview and Lubbock, nature's handiwork suddenly gives place to man's as you come upon Tuco, power supply of the plains, just north of Abernathy.

"What a place to put a power plant" is a normal reaction the first time you see Tuco, for the plant looks as out of place as a city boy on a Texas farm, sitting as it does, in the heart of a rich agricultural area. But a little research discloses that this main source of power supply for the Plains Division of the Southwestern Public Service Company is ideally located.

Tuco has loomed on the landscape for 19 years. The plant went into operation in 1930, and externally looks little different than it did in those days. Inside, however, Tuco has the "new look" and where once was heard only the hum of a single 7,500 kilowatt generator can now be heard the roar of three turbines putting out 40,000 kilowatts of electric power.

Horses are easier to picture than kilowatts, so, for the moment, let's make horses out of our kilowatts. In terms of horsepower, those 40,000 kilowatts of electric energy producing capacity are the equivalent of 53,640 horses pulling to produce electric power for you and your neighbors. That's a lot of horses—and a lot of power.

Tuco is a well-planned power plant in many respects. That accounts for the fact that externally it looks little different than it did nearly two decades ago, while actually it can now produce more than five times as much electric energy as it could when it went into operation. When it was built, room was left for the installation of additional generators. Two have been added. A second 7,500 kilowatt unit went "on the line" in 1938 and a new 25,000 kilowatt General Electric steam turbine generator has just gone into operation.

So well was Tuco planned when it was first constructed that even now Southwestern Public Service Company engineers—looking into the future and visualizing increased needs—are working their slide rules and measuring sticks and wondering if a fourth unit can't be placed in the building without an addition being made to it. There's room left, the only question being is there enough.

For the record—and power plants like presidential speeches—have to go "on the record", Tuco's new 25,000 kilowatt unit—that alone is equal to 33,525 horsepower—went "on the line" July 9, 1948 at 10:32 p. m., CST. The new unit has operated for short periods at full capacity, but the power dispatchers of Southwestern Public Service have not as yet asked Tuco to provide a new maximum output over a sustained period. You have to work the "bugs" out of new turbines and that's what they're doing now at Tuco. The new unit came "on the line" smooth. The engineers say there are very few "bugs" to be worked out before Tuco will be ready to produce its new capacity, 40,000 kilowatts, on a full time basis.

Tuco's location in the midst of a rich agricultural area is important to the farmers of that area. This is irrigation country and that means water is important to the farmer. It's also a little hard to get along without if you plan to use steam to generate electric energy. You can't use up the water your customers need for their farming—and still have customers. That accounts for the location of the plant. Tuco's water supply comes from a lower water level than does that of the farms in the surrounding area. As water is needed by city folks too, Tuco was located outside of a populated area.

Tuco serves an area that covers more than 3,000 square miles, extending from Dimmitt and Silverton on the north to Levelland and Crosbyton on the south. Most of the communities in this area, especially those in the northern half, receive a major portion of their power from Tuco. Southwestern Public Service Company's Denver City plant helps Tuco carry the load in the southern end of the region. Geographically, Tuco is located close to the center of this area, another reason why it was a good place to put a power plant.

Tuco's location is important—and good—as far as the tying together of Southwestern Public Service Company's power producing facilities are concerned. There are ten steam turbine generating plants in the system, spaced from 75 to 100 miles apart. Tied together by high tension transmission lines, they are able to help each other carry the load if one has to be "down" for any reason. For example, power generated at Tuco could be transmitted to Clovis if the New Mexico plant needed additional energy, or Tuco and Denver City or some other plant could combine to help another area. A network of 2,561 miles of transmission line—with the main arteries in the system extending from Borger to Carlsbad, New Mexico and from Amarillo to Portales, New Mexico—make it possible for the ten plants to share the load.

A power plant is an around the clock operation—24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Thirty two men are needed in direct operations at Tuco. Once a power plant gets going, operation is almost automatic because of the many instruments that control the various machines generating the electricity. That accounts for the relatively small number—32—men needed to keep Tuco's 53,640 horses at work. Each of the 32 is a technician, specializing in one particular field of the operation, but knowing enough about the over-all running of the plant that he could fill the breach at any job.

Tuco's "dollar and cents" contribution to the area it serves is a very important one. The monthly payroll at the plant averages around $10,000 and has been as high as $14,000. Many articles of supply and equipment are purchased locally and aid the community economy. For example, the new cooling tower which was installed for the 25,000 kilowatt generator was fabricated by a Plainview firm, Lillie-Hoffman Cooling Towers, Inc. Tuco's tax bill, and that of other Southwestern Public Service Company installations in the area, helps pay the cost of providing good local government.

Housing facilities for families of 12 of the 32 employees are provided at the plant and the remainder of the staff make their homes in Abernathy and the surrounding area.

Tuco is probably the safest place in the area to work despite the usual belief that power plants are hazardous places to make a living. There hasn't been a time-lost accident at the plant in 5 1/2 years. One reason for this record is that everyone at Tuco believes in the philosophy that accidents don't happen, they are caused. Another contributing factor is that families of the employees as well as the men themselves get in on the safety tests that are given. Recently, 17 year old Jerry Dyer, daughter of plant manager Bob Dyer, led the entire plant in an examination. Mrs. Dyer was also high on the list. Nobody fails the examinations and high grades are the rule, not the exception.

Two of Tuco's employees have seen each of the three units now in operation go "on the line" for they have worked at the plant since the day it went into service. The two are M. C. Davidson, maintenance foreman, and Frank D. Bishop, shift foreman, who have worked side by side for 18 years without a time-lost accident.

Tuco's "up in the air" these days, too, and picture post cards of the plant are given to passengers flying above the plant aboard the equipment of Pioneer Air Lines.

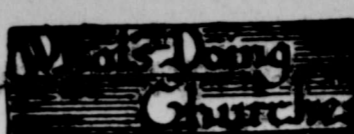

Tuco has been carrying its share of the electric power load for nearly two decades. Its share has grown bigger—as has the area it serves—but sound planning and good operation have kept the plant ahead of the power needs of the region. It doesn't look like it belonged where it is, but it's in the best possible place to do the job that has to be done—provide electric power for you.

Supervisors for Cap Rock District—Earl I. Cantwell, Chairman; Obra Watson, Bray H. Cook, L. A. McJimsey and R. L. Brunson

SCS technicians ran an irrigation ditch line for Oscar Weeks, a cooperater who lives 1 mile west of Rock Creek, Friday, August 5. Weeks will use this line to assist him in watering his feed.

Mr. Joe O'Neal, a cooperater who lives approximately 5 miles southwest of Silverton has about 30 acres of peas for cover crop. These peas were planted in wheat stubble this spring. They will be plowed under green to help build up the soil. Since the peas shall be plowed under while still green, they will add nitrogen and organic matter to the soil. Due to the addition of the organic matter, it is expected that the soil will be more stable, with a more mellow texture and a greater ability to take up moisture. The organic matter and nitrogen will help to increase production and build up the soil.

An irrigation ditch line was run for Joe O'Neal who lives 5 miles southwest of Silverton last week by SCS technicians. This line will also assist Mr. O'Neal in watering feed.

Mrs. Whitehead Honored With Shower and Tea

Mrs. Wilton Whitehead, who before her recent marriage was Miss Shirley Haynes, was honored with a miscellaneous tea and shower at the home of Mrs. Lee D. Bomar, August 5. Hostesses were: Mesdames Bomar, Pearl Simpson and R. C. Hutsell.

The home was beautifully decorated with garden flowers. Soft music was furnished throughout the afternoon by Mr. Prentice Barnett.

Mrs. Wilton Whitehead, Mrs. Shelby Haynes, mother of the bride and Mrs. Whitehead, mother of the groom, and Mrs. J. R. Burson, grandmother of the bride made up the receiving line. Guests were received by Mrs. Bomar and were registered in the bride's book by Mrs. Pearl Simpson. Mrs. R. C. Hutsell showed the gifts.

The refreshment table was laid with a beautiful lace table cloth, centered with a crystal bowl of lovely snapdragons and tall white tapers. Miss Fayree McMinn presided at the crystal tea service. Angle food squares topped with a blue wedding bell was served with tea. Patsy Bomar and Pat Patton ushered the guests into the dining room.

Over fifty guests registered and many sent gifts who were unable to attend.

MRS. WHITEHEAD COMPLIMENTED WITH KITCHEN SHOWER

Mrs. Wilton Whitehead (nee Shirley Haynes) was honored Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. O. Allard with a kitchen shower and garden party, on the lawn of the Allard home. Hostesses were: Mrs. Ray Teeple, Miss Norma Jo Teeple, Mrs. Charles Cowart and Mrs. Judd Donnell.

White Shag rugs and floor pillows were placed on the lawn to seat the guests. The bride was seated under a large popular tree, from which was draped white ribbon. The group joined in singing songs and a contest was held which proved Shirley was the lucky one. A beautiful decorated float was rolled in loaded with lovely gifts. All the guests wore print dresses. For corsages they used plastic knife, spoon and fork tied with white ribbon.

Mrs. James Patton registered the guests on a Dutches Kitchen pad. Miss Norma Jo Teeple and Mrs. Ray Teeple received the guests.

Watermelon was served as refreshments. Favors were wooden spoons and forks with the name "Wilton and Shirley" tied with white ribbon.

Twenty-five guests registered and many sent gifts.

does so by stopping the flow of bile from the liver or gallbladder into the intestine. The bile may then back up into the blood vessels.

Strained Foods Suggested For Use in Special Diets

There are times in almost every home when a special diet is the order. When a member of the family is ill for a short period, or when an older person cannot eat the regular fare, it is important that that person have the right food.

Dieticians suggest that strained foods can be used to good advantage in preparing special diets. Such foods are not for infant diets only. Today recipes are keyed to grown-ups as well as to infants.

Creamed carrots on toast topped with grated cheese is one tasty combination. Prepare a thick cream sauce, add the strained carrots and serve on crisp buttered toast. Top with grated cheese, garnish with a bit of green—parsley or water cress—and it's ready to serve.

Strained foods have all the nutrients of the same foods canned in the usual way. In addition to a variety of fruits and vegetables, meats are now available. Some of them are processed so that they can be made into meat patties and broiled. Others are diced and are fine for stews and creamed dishes.

Guard Against Disease

The best health insurance you can give your baby is to see that he gets vaccination and immunizations against smallpox, whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus during the first year of his life, states Miss Martha E. Brill, extension home health and sanitation specialist, Kansas state college. Of particular importance is the whooping cough immunization as early as two to two and a half months, since the mother does not seem capable of transmitting any immunity to her offspring against whooping cough, which still kills many infants each year. At about two months of age, smallpox vaccination can be given with the immunization against diphtheria and tetanus delayed until about nine months of age.

Check Your Account On Old Age Insurance

Checking on your old-age and survivors insurance account is like having your bank account balanced and is just as good business. This is the advice of John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security Administration, in reminding workers of this free service.

"We urge all workers to check at intervals on their accounts," Sanderson explained, "so that they may be sure of receiving credit for all wages they earn. We take every precaution to insure the accuracy of our records, but some wages are reported that cannot be posted. Most errors on reports are due to mistakes in the worker's name or account number or the failure to show any number. Sometimes the wrong amount of wages is reported and occasionally no report at all is made."

Sanderson added there is no charge for furnishing wage statements and any worker can obtain one easily. Write the social security office at Amarillo for a self-addressed postal card which you can fill out and mail to the social security Division of Accounting Operations at Baltimore, Maryland.

Land of Rice Farms

Chinese Communists, overcoming the barrier posed by the bridgeless lower Yangtze River, crossed from Cathay to Manzi—and from noodles to rice. Cathay and Manzi, names now relegated to literary use, served Marco Polo well 650 years ago in describing the coast regions north and south of the Yangtze river. Noodles and rice summarize the sharp contrast in agriculture between China's north and south, notes the National Geographic society. They are very important in a land whose 460 million people divide roughly into 60 million city dwellers and 400 million farm and farm village folk.

Honey, in Ancient Times, Offered as Wedding Gift

The man who calls his wife "honey" nowadays probably doesn't know how appropriate that nickname might have been some hundreds of years ago. For honey in ancient times often meant the difference between marriage and bachelorhood.

A prospective bridegroom in Galla-Land near Abyssinia, for instance, had to offer his loved one a certain amount of honey before the wedding. If his offer was not large enough to suit the whims of the girl's parents, the wedding was called off.

Honey was considered so valuable in Egypt that the wedding ceremony itself demanded that the young man pledge a certain amount of honey to the bride. This token of his affections had to be paid every year.

The Hindus prized honey because they believed that it chased away evil spirits. Consequently part of the marriage rites was an anointment of the bride with the precious sweet.

A feast on honey—that was the treat that was in store for every bridegroom in Morocco immediately after the ceremony.

Roman couples partook of a nuptial supper that consisted only of milk, honey, and poppy juice.

Today's brides have other ways of choosing their husbands-to-be than by the amount of honey they can provide.

But the golden sweet still claims its place among the prized possessions of a young bride. No longer a luxury, honey is used daily as a sweetener, an energy food, and a baking staple. It has become a regular part of the supplies on the kitchen shelf of the smart young newlywed.

Plastic Film Popular—But Keep Away from Fire

Plastic film is popular with homemakers. It is colorful, attractive, and easy to clean. It's being used in many ways—from refrigerator bags to aprons and curtains.

Textile and clothing specialists say an important point to remember in using plastic film is the way in which it burns. While it does not blaze rapidly or burn with a "puff," it does give off an unusual amount of smoke and fumes which are very penetrating. Even small samples when burned in the testing laboratory made the atmosphere very uncomfortable.

Plastic aprons with frills and big loose pockets are lovely to look at, but they should be kept a safe distance from an open flame. Plastic curtains do not belong near a lighted kerosene or gas lamp or near lighted candles. Plastic clothing for children can present a definite hazard.

Plastic film has many points in its favor for home use. In deciding on those uses, however, keep safety in mind. Burning plastic film can give off enough fumes to make breathing difficult—even to overcome those who come into contact with them.

Weeds in Soybeans

When it's time to cultivate soybeans, use a rotary hoe! This is the advice of James E. Newman, research assistant in agronomy at the Ohio agricultural experiment station. He says the rotary hoe is the best tool to use in cultivating solid-planted soybeans. If used at the correct time on solid plantings, the rotary hoe can be almost 100 per cent effective in controlling weeds. If cultivation is delayed until the weeds are well-established, however, the rotary hoe will do little good. Few soybean plants are killed by cultivating solid-planted soybeans, according to Newman, who has run tests the past two years on 35 farms in northwestern Ohio.

New Weapon for Leukemia

Radioactive gold has armed the medical profession with a potent new weapon for the treatment of leukemia and several other forms of cancer. Dr. Paul F. Hahn, director of the Cancer Research laboratories, Meharry Medical college, Nashville, told a meeting of the American Chemical society. Gold "does not offer any promise of a cure," Dr. Hahn emphasized, but it "represents a very satisfactory means of obtaining remissions" in cases of leukemia, a malady characterized by destruction of red corpuscles; Hodgkin's disease, which produces enlargement of lymphoid tissue, spleen, liver, and sometimes kidneys; and lymphomas, which are lymphoid tissue tumors.

British Railway Locomotives

Eight newly-converted British Railways locomotives of the London midland region have been given the historic names of famous early locomotives, according to the British Travel association. The "Planet" has been named for the first "Planet," built by Stephenson and regarded as the best engine of its day. Other converted locomotives have been named "Vulcan," "Goliath," "Courier," "Velocepede," "Champion," "Dragon," and "Harlequin." The original "Vulcan" made its first trip in 1831 while the earlier "Courier" went into service in 1847.
