T. L. Wright Candidate for Representative 89th District

T. L. Wright, owner of farm land in the Petersburg and Abernathy areas of Hale County and a resident of Plainview, has announced his candidacy as Representative of the new 89th District, composed of Briscoe, Swisher, Hale and Floyd counties.

Wright has authorized the following statement:

"I am 48 years old and a native of Ellis County, Texas. In 1917 my family moved to Dawson County where my father owned and operated ranching properties. I went through high school at Abilene and attended Hardin-Simmons University, majoring in Economics.

"Beginning in 1926 I spent 10 years in the newspaper business, most of the time in Borger, Texas. I later was County Clerk of Hutchinson County for eight years and for three years prior to moving to Plainview in 1950 was tax assessor for the city of Borger.

"I have definite ideas concerning good government. I believe the electorate has a responsibility to place in every public office the best available man for the job. I believe the voter should know the background, the habits, the qualifications and the political beliefs of those who make or administer the laws.

"I am an old fogey when it comes to government. I believe in State Rights and I favor a strong State government instead of a highly centralized government in Washington. I believe in the sanctity of property rights. I am opposed to the seizure of any item without due process of law, whether it be tidelands or steel mills, newspapers or cotton farms.

"This country needs a re-affirmation of the tenet of constitutional government and a repudiation of the 'paramount rights' theory.

"Generally speaking, I am well satisfied with our State government. There are some changes which warrant thoughtful consideration. We need a strengthening of our labor laws. We need to take a new look at our tax structure, particularly on the Federal level. We need to recognize and face the problem of highway expansion and maintenance.

"We do not need many new laws. We do not need to tamper with many of the processes of our State government. We do need to invoke a little bit of economy wherever possible.

"Specifically, I favor these measures: "FIRST, I propose placing a ceiling on Federal income taxes. I would like for the Texas Legislature to adopt a resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to make a change in the nation's basic tax law. I believe that taxation is fast becoming burdensome to every American family and that a remedy should be sought. We are paying too much for too many things that we don't need and don't want.

"SECOND, I favor a revision of our labor laws, making a so-called 'sympathy strike' illegal and placing a ban on all picketing. It is absolute folly for the people of Texas to permit a strike where there is not even an existing labor dispute. Such has been done in Texas and is unfair to both labor and management and to the paying public.

"THIRD, I would like to institute legislation creating a permanent unity between the surface of the land and all minerals under the land, and making the sale of oil royalty subject to time limitations. Space does not permit a full discussion here, but experience as a County Clerk and as a land owner convinces me that such legislation would be desirable. I believe that land owners, royalty owners, oil companies and loan companies would gladly assist in working out the details.

"FOURTH, Texas is rapidly outgrowing its highway system. The state highway commission declares that Texas needs a huge sum to build and modernize its roads and bridges. If we are to have an adequate highway system, the Legislature and administrative officials must submit a definite financing plan. Personally, I do not know the best way to finance such a program, at least, no painless way.

"The 1955 legislature has a highway problem. There could be an additional gasoline tax, or an ad valorem tax, or a tax on natural resources, or a general sales tax. None of these will suit everybody. Let's hope the issue is well met.

"FIFTH, I favor a repeal of the present Texas Vehicle Inspection law, believing that it is a nuisance to the driving public, and that it fails in its purpose of saving life and property on the highways.

"Actually it is the drivers of cars and not the cars themselves that cause accidents. I would favor any effective measure to curb reckless and irresponsible drivers. Our greatest need is for Judges and juries to get tough with anyone and everyone guilty of driving while intoxicated.

"If I go to the Legislature for this district I have only one promise to make. I will do what I think is right, and I will do it to the best of my ability."

FOURTH GRADE

This is the last report from our group as the fourth grade. Naturally, we all hope that we pass. The fourth grade enrolled forty-four children this school year. Ten have moved away, leaving a membership of thirty-four. Our attendance has not been as good as it should have been. Only two students, Linda Brannon and James Lemmer have a perfect attendance record. Many of these absences could have been avoided and the class will work for better attendance next year.

The high point girl for this year is Marsha Monroe; the high point boy is James Clemmer with Bobby Crass running a close second.

The highlight of our school year is picnic day, May 14. The third and fourth grades are taking a train ride from Tulia to Plainview. The busses will take us to Tulia and then meet us at Plainview. After our lunch we will play in the park and finally ride home on the bus.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the mothers of our room for their cooperation and the many times they served us with refreshments.

SECOND GRADE

We are coming to the end of another school year. All the second grade has worked hard and are finishing up their work. We lost another pupils this week and will miss him.

West Germans Exercise Vote More Than We

When the vote was restored to West Germany after the defeat of Hitler, 78 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls.

Yet in the United States—the birthplace and stronghold of democracy—citizens habitually come up with voting records that are far short of that mark.

The New Hampshire preferential primary vote is an example of the strange lethargy we show when we have an opportunity to give weight to our wills at the polls.

Never before was a single group of voters so spotlighted. For days before the primary, no three citizens could meet on a New Hampshire street without being joined by television cameras, tape recorders and reporters. Each voter knew that the whole country was watching every step he took towards the polls. He knew his responsibility.

Minority Rules

Yet fewer than 43 per cent voted. The very fact that this was generally regarded as a "pretty good turnout," even for a primary, is a sad reflection on what we've come to regard as normal American voting behavior.

Seventy-eight per cent voted in West Germany. We showed scarcely half that percentage.

This half-hearted voting performance was scored in a recent speech by James S. Kemper, chairman of a mutual casualty company. "Starved ballots," he said, "are as much of a menace to America as stuffed ballots."

He pointed out that actually a minority of only 24 million out of America's 90 million eligible voters cast the ballots that put the present administration in office, "and this gives substance to the foreign belief that we do not live democracy but only talk it."

He added that there is no use spending billions of dollars for bolstering democracy abroad when at home we set such a frightful example of democracy at work. "Therein lies the answer to why the most powerful nation on earth seems so aimless, so friendless, and so powerless in today's world situation," he said.

A Single Vote

Kemper gave an example of the importance of the single vote, citing the election of Rutherford B. Hayes. Hayes was elected President by just one electoral vote. His election was contested and referred to an electoral commission. Again he won by a single vote. The man who cast that deciding vote for President Hayes, Kemper related, was a lawyer from Indiana who himself had been elected to Congress by the margin of just one vote. And that one vote had been cast by a client of his who, though desperately ill, insisted on being taken to the polls to cast his ballot.

Today, Kemper has the answer to the man or woman who asks, "What can I do to help assure peace? I am only one person, an atom in this huge nation."

Says Kemper: "You can vote; a whopping, enormous vote next November will throw as much caution into Moscow as any atom bomb." "And in voting for federal offices we should pass over, regardless of party, those who are half-minded in the American economic system, those who are half-convinced as to our form of government, and those who are half-sure of the blessings of liberty."

Officials Want Sign Removed by Crime Group

HACKENSACK, N.J. — A sign labeled, "Rid Bergen (county) of Crime and Corruption; the Shame Is Ours," has been erected in front of the court house here, and the New Jersey crime prevention council has been ordered to show cause why it should not be held in contempt.

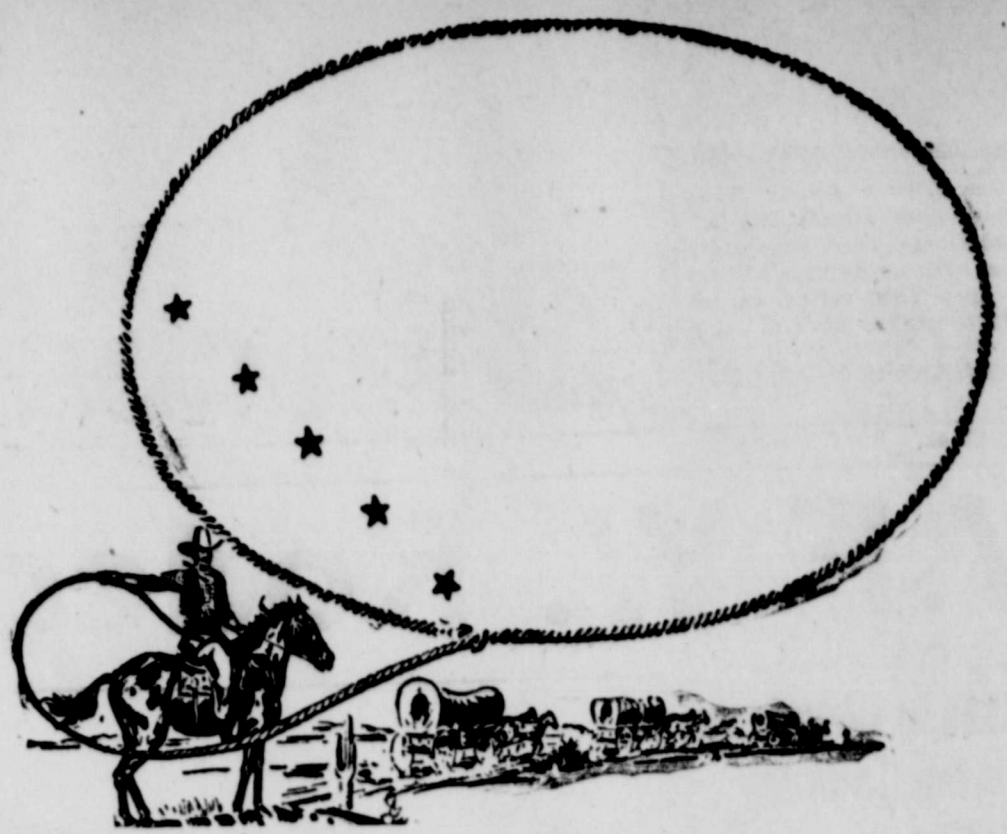

The sign bears quotations from Senator Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) that law enforcement in Bergen county was a "sorry spectacle" and by the deputy state attorney general, Nelson F. Stamler, that "Bergen county was a province of the underworld protected by corrupt public officials."

Judge J. Wallace Leyden signed the order on request of the Bergen county bar association. The bar group contended that the sign would tend to inflame members of the grand jury and jurors who would hear future trials of indicted public officials.

Pranksters Are Busy At NATO Conference

LISBON — Pranksters at the N.A.T.O. conference here distributed scores of match folders with the slogan: "I Like Omar." The other side said: "Bradley for President Headquarters, Shape, Rocquencourt, France."

That is General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower's home base. Top American officials burst into laughter when the matches popped up at a conference table at which General Eisenhower's old friend, General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the United States joint chiefs of staff, was sitting.

Survey Shows Key Role Of High School Counselor

Secondary schools which have developed a highly personal system of advising students in academic careers and in preparation for their lifework are providing a service of inestimable value, according to Dr. Paul A. Jones, associate professor of education at Santa Barbara College of the University of California.

On the other hand, those failing to give counseling service which inspires confidence are guilty of a "lamentable waste" in developing the potentialities of their students.

After visiting a dozen different countries, halfway around the globe, Dr. Jones reported as many different systems of counseling and likewise a dozen different results.

A wide variation in methods was found in the United States. In Europe counseling was largely an attempt to evaluate statistical results of examinations which students had taken. In the West Indies the general lack of counseling was reflected in uncertainties in the minds of students.

The schools which conduct highly personal counseling with unhurried interviews and follow-ups have the best results, Dr. Jones said. Diplomatic approaches, sometimes involving the family, help toward a solution. Close relationship with the counselor often brings out a special skill or dominating ambition which proves to be of prime importance in advising the student.

Steel-Plant Expansion Faces World Construction

Engineering and construction throughout the world in 1961 was keyed by expansion of production facilities of the basic sinew of all modern physical works of man—steel.

The United States, the world's largest steel producer, with a current capacity of 105,000,000 tons a year, led the expansion program.

The peaceful fields of Bucks County, Pennsylvania, blossomed with the beginnings of the immense new Fairless works of United States Steel Corporation, a $400,000,000 project. Other steel companies joined in the expansion, among them National Steel Corporation, which tapped a new 530-ton open hearth at Weirton, West Virginia.

In Great Britain the largest steel mill in Europe, a $168,000,000 mill in Wales, started production. France opened its first continuous hot strip rolling mill at Denain.

Russia claimed 1961 steel capacity expansion of 9,700,000 tons, bringing total output to some 35,000,000 tons a year, about the same as the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Soil Conditioner

A synthetic chemical that converts non-productive soil in a matter of hours instead of years or generations required by present methods was demonstrated in Philadelphia recently. The chemical—named Kri-lum—is not a fertilizer. It is a soil-conditioner that quickly restores the physical structure of the soil to the proper consistency, thus enabling the plants to obtain the optimum amounts of oxygen, water and nutrients from the soil. Extensive tests were carried out over the last three years by almost eighty soil scientists in various sections of the country.

These experiments indicate that the new chemical will mark the beginning of a revolutionary era in agriculture, as a result of which man-made deserts may be turned in a short time into blooming gardens and green acres.

Mexican Cotton

Farm experts are beginning to watch Mexico as a growing factor in the world cotton supply. Almost unnoticed, the country has developed into the second largest exporter of cotton in the western hemisphere. Most of its achievements have been since World War II, according to statistics. Mexico's 1951-52 crop is the largest in her history—approximately one and a quarter million bales. Even so, Mexican yields are considered rather low compared to United States production. Mexican yields average about half-a-bale an acre. What has boomed cotton output has been the tremendous increase in planting acreage. It has doubled in the past two years.

'Skin' a Paint Can

After you have finished a painting session, be sure that the lid is replaced tightly on the can. When next you use it, you may find that a "skin" has formed on top of the paint. Carefully discard this—all in one piece, if possible—then stir the paint until it's ready for use. To make sure that no particles of the skin remain to mar the smooth coating you will apply, strain the paint through a strainer you've obtained from your dealer—or through cheesecloth, fine wire screening or an old stocking.

Eskimos Use Glasses

The Eskimos invented their own goggles to keep out snow glare, scientists report. These "glasses" are made of wood or bone with narrow slits for vision. Ever since the Canadian government began making family allowances to the Eskimos, however, these natives of the frozen north have been using part of their new purchasing power to buy manufactured sunglasses.

Duels Outlawed by Public More Than a Century Ago

The "coffee and pistols for two" of America's early days came into dim focus recently when attention was directed to Maryland's law prohibiting duels. The law is a sample of scores of obsolete edicts that officials contend should be wiped from the books of many states.

Wars between nations and blocs persist. But sword and pistol duels to settle individual differences of love, honor, and politics have been virtually extinct for a century in the Western world, where they once flourished.

Public opinion in America assigned such duels to the unenlightened past even before some state laws of pre-Civil War years ruled them out officially.

Newspapermen along with lawyers and politicians were often involved and weapons ranged from cavalry sabers to double-barreled shotguns. Under the famous Dueling Oaks in New Orleans's City Park a formal duel between rival newspaper editors occurred as late as 1889.

With mock seriousness a few months ago, responsible senators suggested a return to the practice as a cure for the rash of irresponsible statements made under the protection of Congressional immunity.

Hollywood Really Needs Those Technical Advisers

The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—and about everyone else—watch Hollywood closely to see that they are done right.

Let a movie maker show as little as 50 feet of film wherein a plumber, doctor, dentist or bricklayer uses the wrong tool and he will get a stack of mail.

That's why hardly a movie is made these days without at least one technical adviser, and sometimes three or four.

In "A Streetcar Named Desire," one scene briefly shows a machine shop where some welding is going on. That was the signal, then, for Warner Brothers to call in Arthur Johnson, a veteran welder. He went on the pay roll as technical adviser to be sure all scenes pertinent to his craft were correct.

Plumbers are the most sensitive craftsmen, according to studio executives, and next come doctors and dentists. That's why you seldom see jokes in pictures any more about plumbers forgetting their tools, overcharging, hooking gas lines to water or cold water to hot.

Relief of Crusaders

In the mountains of western Syria, close to the border of Lebanon and 23 miles from the Mediterranean, stands Kalat-el-Hush, the Crusaders' mighty fortress of Krak des Chevaliers, a reminder to the modern world of the ancient wars that once swept the Middle East. This fortress alone, of the many built by the Crusaders during their 200-year tenure of the Holy Land, remains uncrumbled. Krak looks today much as it did when the Knights Hospitallers held it in the 12th and 13th centuries. Then it was a bastion protecting the Lebanese coast from the Moslems ranging the Syrian desert from Damascus to Aleppo. It remained a Crusader stronghold until the cruel but brilliant, one-eyed Sultan Bibars, "the Panther," employed a ruse to take it from the hopelessly outnumbered Hospitallers in 1271.

Radar Sharpens Gunsight

The next enemy jet seen in the gunights of a U.S. combat pilot will probably be a generer. This is due to a small automatic radar for fighter planes which is credited with giving American jet pilots a decided shooting edge over hostile planes in Korea. The new radar device eliminates guesswork on the part of the pilot by feeding the needed information into a computing gunsight. This makes it easier for the pilot to concentrate on keeping his enemy in the gunsight's cross-hairs. Use of radar in Korea represents the first application of precision radar techniques to direct the firing of weapons from jet fighter planes. It has proved so accurate that inexperienced pilots, during aerial practice, have consistently downed towed targets with their first bursts.

Telephone 75 Years Old

Seventy-five years ago Alexander Graham Bell was granted the first basic patent on the telephone, a red letter occasion in the history of communications. Three days later, on March 10, 1876, in Bell's rooms at 5 Exeter Place, Boston, the new "membrane-speaking" apparatus transmitted its historic first sentence in the voice of the inventor—"Mr. Watson, come here, I want you!" The 75th anniversary of the patent finds approximately 75 million telephones in use throughout the world. Nearly three-fifths of them are in the United States.

Ninety Degree List Recorded

How far over can a ship list and still right itself? Ships are generally designed so that they will right themselves with a list, or tilt, of somewhat less than 90 degrees, and there are cases on record where they have listed even more than 90 degrees and recovered. Of course the ability of a ship to right herself from such extremes depends on her retaining all her designed buoyancy, and this would be destroyed if she took on water through the stacks or other openings while she was listed.

For a BETTER COTTON CROP

PROPER SEED TREATMENT MAY MAKE THIS DIFFERENCE

The photo above shows ten good cotton seedlings, well on the way to the kind of growth which can produce a good crop of cotton. This is the result you may expect when properly treated cottonseed is planted... seed that has been treated with a recommended seed disinfectant.

Below, the effects of seed decay, sore-shin, and both pre-emergence and post-emergence damping-off are illustrated. This seed was not treated and this is one reason why it is often necessary to replant.

Treated seed can be planted 3 to 5 days earlier—can get off to a good start even in cool weather. Once a good stand is established and growing well your chance for a better cotton crop increases.

ON BITING WIND AND COLD AND SNOW... his numb fingers bent around an M-1 rifle... this soldier is living with the same hardships suffered by General Washington's troops at Valley Forge 174 years ago.

His equipment is immeasurably better than any those first Yankees could have dreamed of. His chances of survival are equally improved. But, like them, he is doing a grim, hard job for the defense of his country.

Defense is your job, too. It is your job to maintain and support America's economic strength as this soldier is supporting her military strength.

It's an easy job...and one of the best ways to do it is by buying United States Defense Bonds regularly. For with bonds and other forms of savings you are making yourself and your country stable and strong. And America must be kept strong—economically as well as militarily. For we must always remember... in this cold-warring world, peace is only for the strong!

The U. S. Defense Bonds you buy give you personal financial independence

Don't forget that bonds are now a better buy than ever. Because now every Series E Bond you own can automatically go on earning interest every year for 20 years from date of purchase instead of 10 as before! This means that the bond you bought for $18.75 can return you not just $25—but as much as $33.33! A $37.50 bond pays $66.66. And so on. For your security, and your country's too, buy U. S. Defense Bonds now! Bankers recommend them as one of the safest forms of investment.

Peace is for the strong... Buy U.S. Defense Bonds now!

CHAPMAN-MINTER DRY GOODS
"We believe business goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated."

Are some of your Series E Government Bonds maturing this month?

Now they can earn more money for you!

New law provides 10 more interest-earning years for your Series E Bonds . . . and you need not do a thing!

Are you one of those smart and patriotic Americans who began an automatic saving program with Series E Government Bonds in 1941? Then you're one of the lucky people who can profit by a new law now!

A bill recently passed by Congress now makes it possible for your United States Defense Bonds to continue earning interest ten years longer than was originally planned.

For example, a Series E Bond which cost you $18.75 in 1941 will pay you $25 in 1951. But if you hold that bond ten extra years, until 1961, it will pay you $33.33, an average interest of 2.9% compounded annually. You get similar increases on Series E Bonds of every denomination.

And there is nothing for you, as a bond holder, to do. You need not exchange the bonds you have. You need not sign any paper, fill out any form. You simply keep your bonds as you have been keeping them.

You may still redeem any Series E Bond at any time after you've owned it for sixty days. But unless you really need the cash you're much better off to hold your bonds. For United States Defense Bonds are as safe as America itself.

When you buy your bonds regularly and hold them, they are steadily building a sum big enough to buy something really worth while—a home, a business, a retirement fund, an education for your children.

And bonds are safer than cash! If you lose or accidentally destroy cash it's gone for good. But when you have your cash in United States Defense Bonds, the U. S. Treasury will replace lost or destroyed bonds at no cost or loss to you.

So if some of your bonds are coming due, take advantage of this new offer of your government—just sit back and let them go on making money. Meanwhile keep adding to your savings by buying more U. S. Defense Bonds regularly—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

If you want to be paid your interest as current income—

The new law also allows you to exchange your Series E Bonds, in blocks of $500 or more, for Special Series G Bonds which pay interest semiannually at the rate of 2 1/2% per year. For full details, ask at any Federal Reserve Bank.

Look how your maturing bonds go on earning under the new law!

Sulphur Holds Own As Remedy Since Sulphur-Molasses

Vitamin pills, year-round fresh vegetables and sulfa drugs have all but shoved the old-fashioned household medical remedies from the American scene, along with the nickel cigar, the mustache cup and the fringed surry.

There was a time, a generation or so ago, when sulphur and molasses, sassafras tea and a few other concoctions were standard tonics administered in the spring to "clean up" the blood after a hard winter. They still have their adherents, but nothing like in Grandma's day.

Sulphur still is used for medicinal purposes—and in some very important ways—but the total amount is small in proportion to the huge tonnages that go to industry.

Freeport Sulphur Company, which is spending $20,000,000 to develop three new sulphur deposits in Louisiana and Texas, confirms the fact that the current shortage, while distressing to many segments of industry and agriculture, shouldn't bother the pill-rollers at all.

The sulphur and molasses that was spooned out in thick and syrupy doses from a wooden bowl or a crockery jug is a hand-me-down from the brimstone and treacle of old England. The recipe was simple. The two ingredients were mixed in equal proportions and a teaspoonful or so administered just before breakfast.

Youngsters used to close their eyes and grit their teeth. The taste wasn't too bad—for the molasses pretty well disguised the sulphur—but the blend was hard to swallow. If children liked it at all, it was because sulphur and molasses was synonymous with spring and meant the end of the foul-smelling asafetida bag worn around the neck during winter to ward off germs.

It is doubtful whether many pupils of the old sulphur-and-molasses school realized it, but the yellow powder of their gooey medicament is an indispensable raw material for our industrial economy. Without sulphur, there would be no newspaper for our papers. Foods would be fewer and prices higher because the mineral is essential to the manufacture of fertilizer. In one form or another, 35 pounds of it are needed to make the modern automobile.

Soviets Broadcast Message In Honor of Washington

NEW DELHI, India—The Moscow radio heard here, said a recent broadcast was "dedicated to the memory of George Washington."

In a broadcast beamed to southeast Asia, the radio declared that while Washington fought passionately for the freedom of his people and laid great emphasis on liberty, his successors "are waging a senseless war in Korea."

The broadcast quoted a number of letters supposedly written by American soldiers in Korea to their parents saying "we don't know why we are fighting." The radio also gave the names of American parents who declined to accept posthumous awards to their sons because "America is waging a senseless war with the Korean people, who are struggling for their legitimate freedom from foreign domination."

Airplane Travel Kills Boonma, Zoo Elephant

LONDON—A big tummy ache and fear of heights killed Boonma, the elephant, at the London airport.

Zoo men, who sat up all night in a heated hut with their patient, said flying didn't agree with Boonma.

When Boonma tottered woozily off a plane from Tripoli—the next to last leg of a journey from Thailand to Brussels—the doctors bedded down their charge and tended her carefully. She grew worse and they raided the airport cocktail bar for brandy.

Handlers tempted the sufferer with rice puddings—specially cooked in the airport kitchen and weighing five pounds apiece—but Boonma just sighed and looked away. They tried cabbages, fresh grass, baled hay, and even oranges, but Boonma turned up four feet of nose. Anticolic injections just made Boonma's distended tummy rumble.

When the brandy bottles started arriving the elephant brightened a bit. After the third, Boonma burped and came as near to smiling as possible under the circumstances. A bed-side bulletin said: "Dangerously ill—but there's still hope." But there was a relapse. Boonma died.

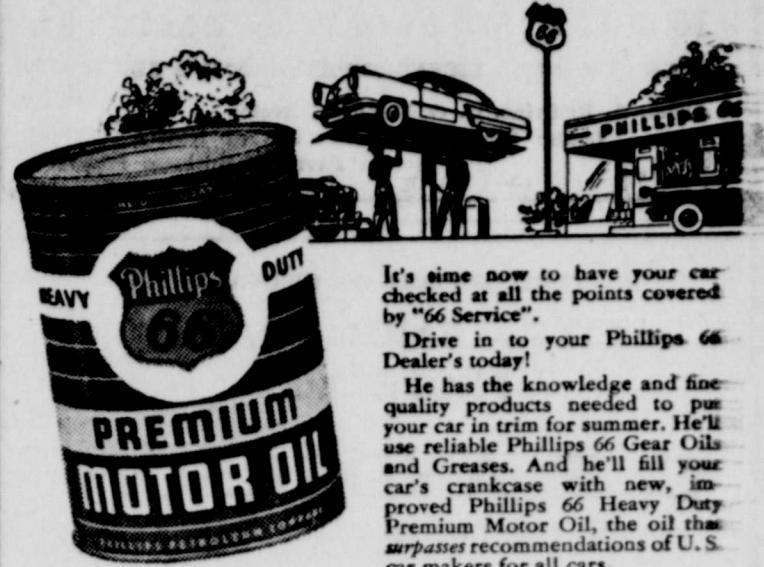

Wounded Pet Deer Ready To Become Mother Again

ROCHESTER, N.Y.—A pet Japanese deer, wounded by a boy hunter, is again to become a mother.

The fawn Lambie was carrying when she was shot was born dead. Charles Weyland, owner, said the deer would try to bring her new fawn into the world about July 1. Mr. Weyland said Lambie now could stand and walk, though still partly paralyzed by the three shotgun pellets that struck her.

He disclosed that another pet-deer, Susie, who fled in fright at the time of the shooting, had recently been found dead in a near-by field.

Barbados, British Island In Caribbean, Has no Weeds

There are no weeds on Barbados, Barbados is a tiny sugar producing British possession easternmost of the Caribbean islands.

It took about 300 years to do it but during that time the cultivation of nearly every arable square foot of Barbados has eliminated weeds and weed seed.

At least, that is the conclusion of Charles Allmon, who writes about it in the National Geographic magazine.

There has been intensive cultivation. Even so, the thin soil of the island has not been depleted.

Rain, in that area falls mostly from June to November. It doesn't erode the land and run off. It sneaks into the bedrock and "percolates" slowly. Then it comes out in bubbling springs near the coast.

Health Rules Change

No longer required in most U.S. communities are the bright yellow-and-black quarantine signs which used to proclaim the presence in a household of measles, mumps, scarlet fever and the other communicable diseases. Although placarding is no longer required in many U.S. cities, local health departments have by no means relaxed their fight against children's diseases and parents are still held responsible for keeping sick children home. The doing away with quarantine signs in America has been accompanied in most cities by a much more liberal policy on the part of school and health authorities in setting up blanket quarantines. If Billy Jones gets measles he will be sent home and told to stay home until he's well, exactly as was true a generation ago. But his classmates in the second grade and even his brothers, and sisters may be allowed to continue in school, although they will be subject to a daily physical check-up on their arrival in school by a physician or a school nurse.

78,000 Casualties

Conservation of life among infants during the dangerous first month following birth provides the best opportunity for reducing the toll of preventable death in early life. Each year about 78,000 babies in the United States fail to survive the first month of life, which is more than twice as many as succumb during the next 11 months, the statisticians report. Premature births cause about half of the loss of life in the first month. The chances of survival for a prematurely born baby are directly related to its degree of maturity as measured by birth weight. Of the babies who weigh up to 2 pounds 3 ounces at birth, 95 per cent die in the first month, compared with a death toll of less than 1 per cent for babies over 5½ pounds.

Navigation Aid

Seven miles over Britain, a four-engine jet research plane is making highspeed flights to test a new automatic radio navigator. The automatic navigator, the Decca Flight Log, shows the pilot the position of his plane on a map and automatically draws in its track. It has already been tried on low-speed helicopters and piston-engine planes. Now it is wanted for jet air lines. Its designers have built a new airborne receiver which will pick up signals and convert them into the track line on the map while the aircraft is flying miles above the earth at 1,500 miles an hour.

Giant Dinosaur's Bones

The great Sahara Desert at one time was a teeming jungle in which giant animals lived amid swamps and primeval forests. One giant, a dinosaur measuring 130 feet in length and fifty to sixty feet in height is being excavated at Wad Draa, in Eastern Morocco, by Father L'Avocat, a paleontologist employed by the Museum of Natural Sciences of Paris.

MEMPHIS TO HAVE DIRECT ROUTE TO SILVERTON ON 256

The long delayed work on Highway 70 between Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River and Turkey will commence some time this year when surveyors have completed their work and necessary funds are appropriated. Judge M. O. Goodpasture has announced.

Judge Goodpasture received a copy of an order from the Texas Highway Commission to state engineers instructing them to begin re-surveying the abandoned stretch of road as soon as they are able. The county judge said that actual construction work probably won't get under way for several months.

Money Not Available Now

At present money is not available for building the road. The funds will probably have to come from appropriations for the next fiscal year which begins July 1. Also, the county may have the task of straightening out titles along the right of way since many changes have occurred in ownership of lands through which the road must pass. The county originally secured titles when the road was first surveyed about ten years ago.

The surveyors will use the data recorded then in laying out the route. The right of way was never fenced, only staked off, and probably most of the stakes are gone now, the judge said.

From Del Rio to Perryton

The proposed 15 mile stretch of highway is in both Hall and Briscoe counties. When it is completed, Highway 70 will extend all the way from Del Rio in the south to Perryton in the north, except for a bridge over the South Canadian River between Perryton and Pampa. At Perryton the route connects with an interstate system reaching the northern boundary of the United States. The highway will also serve to link State Highway 256 with Highway 86 in Silverton when a planned farm to market road is built in Briscoe county. Thus Memphis will have a direct route to Silverton, Tulia and highways leading to the West Coast.

One of the most interesting aspects of the proposed road, Judge Goodpasture said, is that the two interstate highways will use the same bridges across Mulberry Creek and the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River.

Second Instance in U. S.

"This is the second instance in the road building history of the United States where two major highways could utilize the same bridges and the connection between the bridges, and not have to sacrifice distance," he said.

The other instance was in New York state, he added.

According to the original survey, highways 256 and 70 will cross Mulberry Creek and the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River together. The road will fork in Briscoe County, with one highway leading to Silverton and the other to Turkey. The Turkey route will be completed first.

Costly Bridge Being Built

The bridge across Red River, which is costing approximately a quarter million dollars, is now under construction.

Judge Goodpasture said that the new system will relieve some of the congestion of the major east-west highways, and that Highway 256 through Memphis will have a much heavier volume of traffic when the link with Silverton is completed. — The Memphis Democrat.
